

Yard Work

The K-State grounds crew employs 20 full-time personnel to take care of the nearly 300 acres of University land. See Page 6.

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy Thursday with a 40 percent chance of thunderstorms, high mid- to upper 70s.

Sports

Topeka KS

Charitable Sports

66612

Many greek organizations on campus use athletic events to raise money for charities. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Thursday

October 2, 1986

Volume 93, Number 28

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Bill authorizes funds to build satellite center

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

An authorization bill that would appropriate $6 million to K-State for a new University satellite communications center passed with a voice vote in the U.S. Senate Tuesday night.

Sen. Bob Dole proposed and lobbied for the bill that would be a "tremendous boost" for the University and the state of Kansas, said Cy Wainscott, managing editor of University Relations.

The bill had already been passed by the House.

Brent Bahler, press secretary for Dole, said he hopes the appropriations for the bill will be passed before Congress adjourns next week.

Wainscott said $4 million would be appropriated for fiscal year 1986-1987 and $2 million later on.

A new satellite center could transmit programs on international food markets, trade research, veterinary medicine and food technology, Dole said. The center could also enhance the outreach of the University cooperative extension service, he said.

"At a time when there is tremendous hardship in the farm belt, this type of center could also provide easy access to job retraining programs for farmers who seek a livelihood off the farm," Dole said.

Dole said K-State is uniquely qualified to produce and disseminate programs in several subject areas that are important at regional as well as national and international

"Television and video technology

See CENTER, Page 11

Parrish announces proposal to choose football volunteers

By TOM PERRIN Sports Writer

K-State football Coach Stan Parrish says he's looking for "a few good men.'

And with the current rash of injuries to football players, including three in the defensive backfield, Parrish has decided to ask members of the student body for help.

Parrish said Wednesday night that he is looking for students to fill 10 positions on the Wildcats' kickoff team. The only thing left to do before the plan can be put into action is to make the necessary arrangements regarding eligibility of the prospective players, Parrish said.

Any interested student is asked to show up at K-State's Monday practice for a tryout.

The first time out on the field for what Parrish calls "the 12th man" will be the Oct. 18 game at KSU Stadium against the University of

"I'm looking for some tough, quick guys who want to come out here and contribute," Parrish said. "I'd pick anybody I thought could help...Plus, it's an added motivator. It might get the crowd worked up a little bit knowing that group is out there, wouldn't it?"

Other teams have used the concept in years past, and defending Southwest Conference champion Texas A&M University has used it since the arrival of Coach Jackie Sherill five years ago.

"The people go berzerk when those guys go out and line up," Parrish said of the response at Texas A&M. The injury problem, which has seen K-State have as many as five starters out of action at a time, is a big reason behind the idea. "If we get any more people hurt, we're going to have to use our firstteamers on special teams and boy, that's rough," Parrish said. "You really don't want to do that." Parrish said he's not sure what kind of response he'll get from the student body.

"I have (no expectations), so they'll be easily met. Maybe no one

See PARRISH, Page 11

Staff/Steve Wolgast

M. Roger Fedde, physiologist at the Department of Anatomy and Physiology in the College of Veterinary Medicine, is researching the oxygen intake of bar-headed geese. The machine on the left measures oxygen while a bird is on a treadmill similar to the one on the right.

Feathered friends aid human research

By PATTI PAXSON Collegian Reporter

Imagine spending the winter months living near the sea in northwest India. Then, after flying 30,000 feet over the summit of Mt. Everest and the Himalayan Mountains, trekking to the lush lands of southern China to spend the spring and summer months.

This 900-mile journey is not an entry from the travelogue of an international jet setter, flying on the Concorde to exotic lands. Rather, it is a description of the yearly migration of the bar-headed goose.

M. Roger Fedde, a physiologist at K-State's Department of Anatomy and Physiology in the College of Veterinary Medicine, has studied the respiratory system of birds for more than 20 years. His work with bar-headed geese, though, started in 1982, he said.

Although the research on the barheaded geese is primarily geared toward a better understanding of the birds' special physiological qualities, Fedde said the research may lead to obtaining a better understanding of how efficiently humans utilize oxygen. This may help prevent strokes sometime in the future. What makes studying the barheaded goose so challenging, Fedde said, is the fact that this bird can reach altitudes of about 30,000 feet and fly at these high altitudes for approximately two days. They apparently do not land during the more than 900-mile migratory journey, Fedde said.

The bar-headed goose faces such harsh conditions as temperatures

Fahrenheit and extremely low levels of oxygen pressure during its two-day migratory flight to and from Tibet, Fedde said. He added that the harsh conditions are "accentuated during exercise because the amount of oxygen required by rapidly contracting muscle cells is greatly increased compared to the non-exercising state.'

Anser indicus, the species name for the bar-headed goose, is one of several bird species which possesses this remarkable ability to fly at very high altitudes, Fedde said. This ability involves the process of genetic selection. The birds' physical adaptation to the rigorous environment from which they normally are found has, over a vast amount of time, become an inherited trait, he said.

Fedde said, though, in the barheaded geese, "this inherited trait is possessed by members of the species that have not been exposed to high altitude for many generations.'

The bar-headed geese which Fedde uses for his respiratory studies are bred in the United States. These geese, he said, exhibit this special adaptation to flying at very high altitudes, even though they have never experienced the low oxygen pressure levels of high flight.

Currently, studies of the barheaded goose in conditions of increased metabolic demand have been limited to running the geese on a treadmill and simultaneously testing their physiological

See GEESE, Page 11

Board may cut six degrees

By CANDY LEONARD Collegian Reporter

Six degree options may be dropped from the College of Arts and Sciences if the Board of Regents approves recommendations made by its committee, following evaluations of several University degree programs.

The degree programs being considered for discontinuation are the baccalaureate degrees for dance, the doctorate in English, baccalaureate degrees in philosophy and the replacement of the Master of Fine Arts degree with a Master of Arts.

William Stamey, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, said the committee's aim is to minimize duplication and evaluate costeffectiveness in the University.

"The proposed changes at K-State represent an assault on humanities and fine arts across the state," said Charles Stroh, head of the Department of Art. The art department had a Master of Arts degree program until 1979. At that time, the Regents requested the degree be dropped in place of the Master of Fine Arts degree, which is equivalent to a doctorate in the number of hours required, Stroh said.

"The Regents want us to graduate 22 students every five years, and we have only graduated about half that many," he said. "It took us until about '83 to get the MFA established, and now they want us to change back."

Stroh said the change would narrow the scope of the department considerably, and no money would be saved by cutting the graduate programs, which are maintained at no extra cost.

'There is no duplication of faculty or facilities," Stroh said. "In fact, our grad students bring in revenue and free services. I'd say they provide about $30,000 a year to the University."

Only 14 people are currently enrolled in the baccalaureate degree programs in dance. Almost 75 percent of the enrollment in dance classes are non-majors. "A large number of art, theater and PE majors use the classes as course supplements," said Larry Noble, head of the Department of Physical Education, Dance and Leisure Studies.

Noble said the dance curriculum is cost-effective; the number of credit hours generated supports the faculty. "We will not be as good of a supportive program without the dance major," Noble said. "We would lose faculty gradually, and that would take away the preprofessional experiences for our students." The dance department adds a variety of experiences to which many students haven't been exposed, he said.

'The value of the major goes beyond those 14 people," Noble said. "It is a support program to this liberal arts institution."

The Department of English faces losing the doctorate program that has been in place more than 15

"There are two reasons why this is inappropriate," said Henry Donaghy, head of the department. "We've just added the option for dissertation of creative writing,

See CLASSES, Page 10

Guaranteed student loan cut may affect half of recipients

By CHRISTINE DOLL Collegian Reporter

Students who will need Guaranteed Student Loans for the spring semester should apply for them now.

"If students who do not have a GSL now wait until spring to apply, some of these students may not be eligible then," said Larry Viterna, director of student financial assistance.

A joint committee of the U.S. Senate and House completed work last week on the reauthorization of the Higher Education Act of 1965. The bill is expected to go back to both chambers for consideration this week or early next week, Viterna said.

The bill has two provisions that could affect 50 percent of the students who receive GSLs, Viterna said. About 15 percent to 20 percent of K-State students now receive the

The bill stipulates that all students must fill out what Viterna called a "needs test." He said it was the same application required for the Pell Grant and Student Work Study Pro-

Currently, if the student's income, added to the family adjusted income, is under $30,000, the student automatically receives a guaranteed loan for the amount the family is expected to contribute to the student's education. No applications will automatically be approved under the bill being considered.

If student applications are processed before President Reagan signs the bill, the applications will be considered under the old law. Viterna said this is why students should apply now for the spring.

"Students who need GSLs should see us immediately," Viterna said. "One-half of the students who receive student financial assistance are coming from families whose gross income is $30,000 or less."

The second provision that might affect K-State students is the redefinition of an independent student, Viterna said.

Independent students find it easier than dependent students to get loans because their families are not expected to pay for any of their education, while families of the dependent student are.

The bill stipulates that independent students must be 24 years old. Students will still be declared independent if they are orphans, wards of the courts or veterans.

Currently, students do not have to meet an age requirement, but are considered independent if they meet three qualifications. They cannot have lived with a parent for more than six weeks in the last two years. Their families cannot have counted them as dependents on income tax forms in the last two years. And the students cannot have received more than $750 from their parents in each of the past two years.

Other students may be independent if they can prove they are graduate students, married, have legal dependents or can show documentation of other unusual circumstances. The last type of student who will be eligible for independent status is those who have not been claimed as dependents for tax purposes in the last two years and can prove they have earned at least $4,000 if they are

See CUTS, Page 11

INTERNATIONAL

Botha threatens wheat shipments

WASHINGTON - Sen. Nancy Kassebaum said Wednesday night she was "deeply disturbed" at threats being made by South Africa that it would cut off purchases of U.S. wheat or block wheat shipments through its ports if sanctions are imposed. South African Foreign Minister R.F. "Pik" Botha warned Sens. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., and Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, that it would take action on wheat shipments if President Reagan's veto of a sanctions bill is overridden. The Senate is to attempt an override

"I have never believed our food should be used as a weapon in foreign policy, but that's exactly what the South Africans are trying to do," said Mrs. Kassebaum, R-Kan.

"Nothing in the sanctions legislation approved overwhelmingly by Congress terminates grain sales to South Africa. If South Africa chooses to use wheat as a weapon not just in their country but against their neighbors as well, they have started down a very perilous path."

S. African miners stage walkout

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - As many as 325,000 black miners - more than half the workforce - stayed off the job Wednesday in what union officials called a powerful display of worker strength in South Africa's largest industry.

The one-day walkout, called to protest the 177 deaths in a Sept. 16 fire at the Kinross Gold Mine, cost the mines an estimated $3.6 million, according to an academic monitoring group.

"This worker action is unparalleled in South African labor history and demonstrates the importance of worker safety at the work place," said Marcel Golding, spokesman for the 250,000-member National Union of Mineworkers.

"The whole theme was that this was an accident which could have been prevented," Golding said of the deadly fire, the nation's worst gold mining accident.

Fumes from burning materials, including a polyurethane foam used to line the tunnels but banned in American and British mines, are suspected in the deaths of the 172 black and five white miners.

REGIONAL

Slasher survivors revisit New York

McPHERSON - The Kansas couple injured by a slasher during the Fourth of July weekend in New York City will be back in New York this week to thank some of the people who helped them. But first, Connie and Richard Nichols will have lunch with Mayor Edward Koch.

'We're going to accept the invitation from Mayor Koch," Connie said before she and her husband left McPherson Tuesday.

Nichols, a McPherson bank president, and his wife, who is employed at McPherson College, said after the July 7 attack of the Staten Island Ferry that they would not be afraid to return to New York City. Two people were killed in the attack by a man with a

"It will be good for us to return to it and face it again," Connie

NATIONAL

Co-workers cheer released reporter

WASHINGTON - Nicholas Daniloff, welcomed back on the job by hundreds of cheering co-workers yesterday said he favors the minisummit in Iceland next week because more superpower contact is a Daniloff, 51, the U.S. News & World Report correspondent who arrived back in the United States on Tuesday from Moscow where he was detained for a month on spy charges told his fellow workers, "I'm incredibly loved."

The journalist and his wife, Ruth, spent the night in a luxery hotel across the street from his office. As he entered the U.S. News lobby atrium, hundreds of people on the ground floor and near upper railings shouted, clapped and cheered. Daniloff greeted a few with hugs

'What happened to me could happent to anyone," he said. Daniloff said he had a special appreciation for the United States after his ordeal because this country stresses the dignity of the individual. His case, he said, "became special"

Asked about Reagan's scheduled meeting with Soviet Leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Iceland Oct. 11-12, which was part of the deal leading to Daniloff's release, the journalist said he favored it.

Senate approves anti-drug measure

WASHINGTON - The Senate on Tuesday voted 97-2 to approve a sweeping election-year bill to combat illegal drugs, including a beefed-up enforcement program that would make a greater use of the military

The Senate bill, and a House-passed measure passed Sept. 1, reflect Congress' response to increasing voter concern about drugs.

The two bills differ in specific provisions, but are similar in thrust, proposing a broad approach that would pour money into enforcement, education, rehabilitation and crop eradication, and would would withhold aid from recalcitrant producer countries.

Both measures authorize money for the increased war against drugs, but separate appropriations bills would be necessary to actually spend the funds. Often, Congress does not appropriate the full amount authorized.

The Congressional Budget Office said the House bill authorizes $6.1 billion through the 1991 fiscal year, and the Senate bill $3.2 billion through the same period.

Zaccaro indicted on bribery charge

NEW YORK - John Zaccaro, husband of former Rep. Geraldine Ferraro, has been indicted in an investigation of bribery in the awarding of cable television contracts, his lawyer said Wednesday.

"It's a fact," attorney Robert Morvillo said after two sources, who spoke on the condition their names not be mentioned, reported the indictment against Zaccaro, a businessman who deals in real estate.

The indictment was sealed when it was handed up by a grand jury in state Supreme Court in Queens two days after an appeals court lifted temporary bans against the indictment. It was the second indictment in the case, the sources said.

They would not specify the charge against Zaccaro, and Morvillo said he did not know what was in the indictment.

PISHWAY

· THE · FUNDRINKERY

All Mixed Drinks

$1.50

Sunset Grille

open 5-9

This Week's Special

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ing infant through school-age children. For more information, call Director Nancy Bolsen at

CHILD CARE COOPERATIVE is now enroll-

SENIORS AND GRADUATES IN ALL MA-JORS: Rhodes and Marshall Scholarship applica-tion packets are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Eisenhower 113.

VOTER REGISTRATION is available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Oct. 14 in the SGS Office and is sponsored by Associated Students of Kansas. UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES BOARD 1966-87 registration forms are due by Oct. 15, in the SGS Office

SOPHOMORES IN ALL MAJORS: Truman scholarship applications are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Eisenhower.

AGRICULTURE YEARBOOK STAFF needs photographers, advertisers, writers and artists. Applications are available in Waters 120 and are

K-STATE AMBASSADOR APPLICATIONS are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Anderson 122 and are due Oct. 9.

THE ENGINEERING STUDENT COUNCIL PICNIC scheduled for Sept. 28 was postponed. The tickets will be valid when the picnic is rescheduled.

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN needs teachers for elementary age students in afternoons. For more information, contact the main desk at UFM, 532-5560, by Oct. 15.

HONORARY PARENTS APPLICATIONS for Parents Day '86 are available in the Union Ac-tivities Center. Applications and essays are due

TODAY

SAILING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

HORTICULTURE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS meets at 7:40 p.m. in Throckmor-

PARACHUTE CLUB will have an informa-tional meeting at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

AGRICULTURE COUNCIL meets at 6 p.m. in Waters Reading Room. Executive members meet at 5:30 p.m. RACQUETBALL CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in

NATIONAL SOCIETY OF BLACK ENGINEERS meets at 6 p.m. in Durland 161. SOCIETY FOR ADVANCEMENT OF MANAGEMENT meets at 7 p.m. in Union 212. The topic will be "Your Career With Quaker

GAY AND LESBIAN RESOURCE CENTER meets at 8 p.m. in Union 202. ICTHUS CHRISTAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 8 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre.

STUDENT NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION meets at 3:30 p.m. in Bluemont 217. The topic will be "The Legal Aspects of Stu-dent Teaching and the First Two Years of Teaching."

COLLEGIATE 4-H meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union

STUDENT SENATE meets at 7 p.m. in Union

ANOREXIA NERVOSA AND ASSOCIATED DISORDERS will have a support group for anorexics, bulimics and friends at 7:30 p.m. in

RODEO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Call 204.

STUDENT CHAPTER OF THE WILDLIFE SOCIETY meets at 7 p.m. in Ackert 221.

FRIDAY

PARACHUTE CLUB MEMBERS: There will be a jumping session at 2 p.m. at Warnego Airport, weather permitting.

KSU Ambassador

Applications available in Anderson Hall, Room 122

Applications due Thursday, October 9

Oktoberfest

JOIN US IN AGGIEVILLE!

Sat. Oct. 4

Open Air Market Fair

Over 100 booths from funnel cakes to bratwurst, crafts galore and oom-pah-pah from 10:00 to 5:00

Timberfest by Charly Pottorff

1:30 with 7 events

United Way Police Run-Finish

4:30 Triangle Park Emergency vehicle/services 5:00 KSU Marching Band Mayor Mann

NCK

T•N•T

THURSDAYS

Ladies Day

99¢ Margaritas

99¢ Fuzzy

Navels

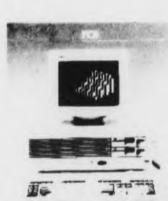

99¢ Tacos

COTTON

THURSDAYS

4-7 p.m.

418 Poyntz

COMPUTER DISCOUNTS то 50%

on all microcomputer equipment and related accessories sold ONLY

- State College & University Students
- Faculty
- State Employees

complete systems as low as $1299

This special purchase program is being exclusively administered by Foresight Solutions, Inc. of Lawrence. Please call for a FREE PRODUCT BROCHURE.

(913) 842-7526

804 New Hampshire Lawrence, KS 66044

FLOWERS Cash & Carry Red Roses

$17.50 a doz.. boxed

12th & Laramie 537-9549

(while they last)

BAR 539-9727

BUD LIGHT

With Special Thanks for Your Generous Contributions to Cystic Fibrosis

Functions

Putt-Putt Golf

Eegee's

Godfather's

KQLA

Special Touch

Photography

La Ride Limousine

Service

Bud Light

Bonkers

Nautilus

Holiday Inn

Southern Sun

Kistener's Greenhouse

Westloop Floral

The Cotton Club

The Palace

8 oz. Filet $565 (price includes salad bar, potato & bread)

531 N. Manhattan

OFFICE 539-4321

Best Western Continental Inn Tuttle Creek Blvd. 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Today through Monday

Police Radar Detector As low as $78.00

6 X 9" 150 watt 3-way $18.00 pair

Buy TENNA's Model 4046

Reverse Automatic Program Search Metal Tape Equalization Loudness Control Separate Bass & Treble Balance & Fader

200 Watt 3-way

Mini Box Speaker

$29.99

Features Include: Auto

Get a Pyramid 120 watt amp.

FREE

CROWN CR 500 Auto Digital Auto Reverse Memory Scan and Clock $88

C 8888666 m Pyramid

$9.99 Speaker

200 Watt Seven Band $39.99

in dash cassette

UNISEF

CR-20 AM-FM Cassette $19.99

200 Watts! Echo Night Illumination $59.99

Pyramid

-tenna

Phase III

$129.99

Pyramid

7 Band Echo Equalizer/

Amplifier

Jensen Triaxials JTX300 150 watts each

Chassis Fits all Cars

Model 890-Digital ★Seek & Scan—10 Station Presets 2 year warranty *24 Watts/Bass & Treble Controls

*Auto Reverse Pyramid Model 705

★Night Illumination

Equalizer Amplifier 11111111

7 Bands 250 Watts

$79.00 2 year warranty

BUY ALL 3 SAVE $50 $239

High school students to visit Ag College

By MAUREEN MURPHY Collegian Reporter

Kansas high-school seniors will have the opportunity to be students in the College of Agriculture today through Satur-

They will be participating in "The KSU Experience," sponsored by the Kansas State University Agricultural Ambassadors and the College of Agriculture Alumni, said Larry Erpelding, associate director of resident instruction.

"We want to give them (highschool seniors) an in-depth college experience," Erpelding said.

Janelle Larson, sophomore in animal sciences and industry, said the College of Agriculture expects approximately 50 students to attend the program.

Each student was matched up with a student host from the College of Agriculture, Erpelding said. Both the hosts and the prospective students filled out applications which served as the basis for the matches.

"We match (students) primarily with like majors, then highschool background, activities and interests in living groups," Larson said.

Erpelding said the idea for "The KSU Experience" was generated last year in an Agriculture Council retreat. The agriculture ambassadors brainstormed and came up with the program, which has taken about a year to put into action, he Friday, the prospective typical day," Erpelding said.

various activities. The college hosts will take the prospective students to their morning classes. If the host doesn't have a morning filled with classes, the prospective student will be given information on housing, financial assistance and admissions. The host will also give the student a tour of the campus, Erpelding

"The basic purpose is to work with prospective students, answer their questions and to counsel them," he said.

An agriculture orientation class is also on the agenda for the prospective students. This class will inform the students of the career opportunities in agriculture. Majors will be explained, and college student speakers will give their insights on how to get involved and make a meaningful experience out of college, Erpelding

The prospective students will also have the opportunity to visit up to three departments in the College of Agriculture, he said.

"They will get an in-depth discussion of the major and the department, and what they have to offer," Erpelding said.

The program has a $10 registration fee, which pays for two nights in Moore Hall and meals. The College of Agriculture Alumni is funding the rest of the program, he

"This will give prospective students a fairly accurate taste of what a college student does on a

Reagan, Gorbachev predict arsenal cuts

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Soviet Union joined with the Reagan administration today in predicting that cuts in both sides' nuclear arsenals could come out of the meeting next week between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

For the United States, presidential Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan said the two days of meetings "could lead to a better understanding and, perhaps, some give here and there in order to reach an agreement so we get some arms reductions."

For the Soviet Union, Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said, "It's quite possible that we can have movement" on the missile question. "We want ... our leaders to put their heads together and to think big and to find some kind of direction to solve our problems."

Secretary of State George P. Shultz, meanwhile, said Reagan had accepted Gorbachev's proposal for a two-day informal meeting within two weeks because "the name of the game here is to solve problems."

Noting that a range of issues will be discussed, Shultz, interviewed on the NBC program, said: "We are in a position. I hope, to make some progress on these problems that I think all of us would want to see resolved if it's possible to do so."

Beyond arms control issues, Reagan and Gorbachev are likely to agree on broader cultural exchanges and expanding consular offices in the two countries, an administration official said.

The two sides also have established "an extensive dialogue" on the guerrilla wars in five countries:

Forthefunofit! thefunofit! 3

PUTT-PUTT

across from Wal-Mart

THRIFTIER

THURSDAYS!

Only $1.50

FREE ADM!

Q104 TGIF Chill-Out

Coming!

Pitchers

Porthefunofit Forthefun

Meeting could result in 'understanding'

Afghanistan; Angola; Cambodia; Ethiopia; and Nicaragua, since Reagan proposed a year ago that they set up negotiations to end the conflicts, the official said.

Overall, "there are some interesting prospects" for the Iceland meeting, said the official, who demanded anonymity.

He said Reagan would pess Gorbachev to allow more Soviet Jews to emigrate to Israel. The exodus is at a two-year low. Apart from reuniting some divided families by permitting Soviet citizens to join their relatives in the West, "there has been no progress on broad human rights issues," the official said.

Reagan and Gorbachev also are expected to take up the U.S. order to expel 105 Soviet diplomats over the next two years. As part of the deal that brought American reporter Nicholas S. Daniloff home, Shultz extended for two weeks Wednesday's deadline for 25 to depart.

Indeed, Gerasimov said the dispute over the order, which the Soviets say is illegal and could lead to retaliation, will be resolved at Iceland.

"The ultimate decision is going to be taken during this summit," the foreign ministry spokesman said.

Shultz maintained, meanwhile, that "we are getting our objectives as far as the U.N. arrangements are concerned.'

The Los Angeles Times, quoting unidentified U.S. counterintelligence sources, reported Wednesday that the chief of the KGB station and the GRU military intelligence chief at the United Nations were among the 25 and that they would be allowed to

The newspaper identified the KGB chief as Valery Ivanovich Savchenko, who is listed as a counselor at the mission, and Vladislav Borisovich Skvortsov, who is listed as a senior counsel — both in political affairs.

Charles E. Redman, a State Department spokesman, declined to discuss which of the 25 have not departed, or which might be permitted to remain.

The two world leaders probably will also set a date for their longdelayed formal summit meeting in Washington, an administration official who demanded anonymity said Tuesday night.

Regan, appearing on ABC-TV's 'Good Morning America," said he did not think any agreement would be signed by the president and Gorbachev in Iceland.

"I am not trying to hype this meeting to that extent," he said. 'But I do think that an exchange of views between them could lead to a better understanding and perhaps some give here and give there in order to reach an agreement so we can get some arms reductions, some progress in human relations, lessening of tensions throughout the

As Reagan toured the newly opened Jimmy Carter presidential president was asked about concern among his supporters that he would give away too much at the summit in Iceland.

"I'm not in the give-away business," Reagan replied.

Asked about critiis who charged that he surrendered to the Soviets in exchanging Daniloff for Gennadiy Zhakarov, the Soviet physicist who had been arrested and charged with spying in the United States, Reagan said, "The ones who are saying that are members of your profession," referring to reporters.

Reagan, appearing in the Rose Garden with Daniloff Wednesday afternoon, was asked once more whether he had caved in to the Soviets.

"I don't think there's any caving in at all," the pesident replied, adding, "because no one had to cave in."

Reagan and his wife Nancy appeared in the Rose Garden with Daniloff and his wife, Ruth, and their children, Miranda, 23, and Caleb, 16.

The president denied that his meeting with Gorbachev was linked to Daniloff's release. "I just said that there wouldn't be any meeting until he was free," the president added.

Asked whether U.S.-Soviet relations were back on track, Reagan replied, "We'll find out in about 10

> For up-to-date Sports Coverage, Read THE COLLEGIAN

Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

THE OFFICE TAVERN HAS 25¢ DRAWS!!

plus

$1.50 Pitchers & FREE Popcorn

Shuffleboard, Pool, Video and Television! 404 Elm

Serving You Two Ways!

From 11 to 5 we offer our MINI-SERVICE > for a quick meal over a short lunch hour and after 5 we offer FULL WAITRESS

SERVICE for a more relaxed dining experience

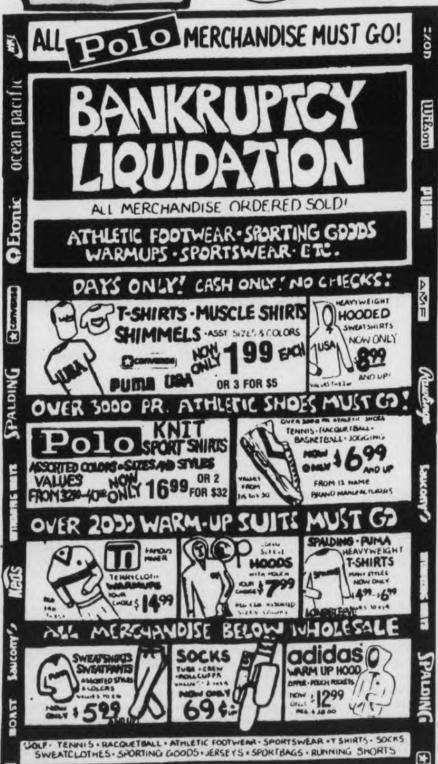

Either Way-Try Us Soon!

1219 Bluemont—AGGIEVILLE

539-3166

10 HOUR SALE — 1 DAY ONLY ONLY THURSDAY . OCT. 2nd . 10 a.m.-8 p.m. ONLY

HOLIDAY INN

530 RICHARDS DRIVE adidas 🐸

ocean pacific

Rawlings

FREE FRAME

with the purchase of any pair of prescription lenses at our regular low discount price, you can choose ANY frame in stock and it's FREE! NO LIMITATIONS on style selection or type of frame. We can fill your doctor's prescription. Facet cuts $75 additional.

This ad cannot be used in conjunction with any other optical promotion.

SALE ENDS: OCT. 11

Some Boutique Frames not included We use the Highest Quality Lenses!

OPTICAL STUDIO

1210 MORO • 537-1574 Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m. 1:00 p.m.

Credit Union Initiates Youth Loans

Parents who teach their children how to manage money and work with a personal budget have taught a valuable lifelong

The KSU Credit Union will help your children establish a credit history and fiscal responsibility through the new Youth

Dependent children of credit union members may borrow for such needs as buying a newspaper route, a bicycle, lawn mower, prom gear or a used car. A parent member must co-sign the loan.

Children, ages 8 to 18 with credit union savings accounts, are eligible to participate in the Youth Loan Program. If the co-signing parent has been a member for at least the 60-day membership requirement, the child will not need to meet this loan stipulation.

Let the KSU Credit Union share in the lifelong lesson and help build your child's future. Drop by Anderson Hall to discuss the program with a loan officer.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY federal credit union

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants

Anderson Hall, Room 24A Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER

Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 628) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Veto opposes desires of citizens, Congress should rule, at least in theory. For too long, however, the president has acted too independently in his dealings with the racist government of South Africa.

He has opposed economic sanctions against South Africa and would agree to watered-down sanctions only when it became obvious that Congress and the American people would no longer patiently sit back while the evils of apartheid continue to subordinate human rights to elitist economics.

With Monday's 308-77 vote, the House of Representatives acted on the wishes of the American people and overrode President Reagan's veto, which would have halted strict economic sanctions against South Africa.

The House vote should send a clear and long-overdue message to the president and the Botha regime that apartheid will not be condoned by the American public. The original vote also passed in Senate by a clear margin, 84-14, which indicates that Senate will also override Reagan's attempt to undermine sanctions.

As Rep. Willian Gray, D-Pa.,

In a democracy, the people said, "This bill should send a moral and diplomatic wake-up call to a president who doesn't understand the issue." Even a hard-core Republican, Indiana's Sen. Richard Lugar, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, voted against Reagan's veto. Lugar said, "No matter how much the United States would protest, a vote to sustain the president's veto would be seen as support for the South African government's policies."

> Kansas' own Sen. Bob Dole, supports however, president's veto because he believes the United States should send a "single, clear call to Pretoria," not a divided one. Dole, like Reagan, does not understand the issue.

> The American people are strongly in favor of sanctions. If ever there was a "single, clear call" from the people, it is in favor of economic sanctions.

Despite the divisive minority, which includes Dole and Reagan, the majority of our congressmen have acted to turn democratic theory into legislative reality and in the process demonstrated that America condemns apartheid.

Panel believes MIAs surviving in Vietnam

may still be captive in Vietnam intelligence officials. or Laos.

About 1,700 servicemen are missing in action more than a decade after the United States withdrew from Vietnam. Since then, nearly 900 live sightings of men believed to be U.S. servicemen have been reported. Twelve of those sightings have occurred since 1982.

evidence exists substantiating pend on it.

An independent review panel the presence of Americans in Tuesday reiterated what many Southeast Asia. Although the U.S. citizens and the Department review panel concluded that the of Defense have long believed - possibility of the servicemen livthat U.S. servicemen missing in ing is strong, it produced nothing action after fighting in Vietnam that wasn't already known to U.S.

> Until the United States establishes diplomatic relations with Vietnam, officials cannot enter Vietnam to investigate the

If the Reagan administration values the lives of the hundreds of servicemen missing in action, relations with Vietnam should Other than the sightings, no commence. Those men's lives de-

Reagan's policies betray revolution

"These are the times that try men's souls." -Thomas Paine from "Common Sense," 1775

During his campaign to convince Congress to approve $100 million aid for the contras, President Reagan claimed that the Nicaraguan people were "betrayed by a radical element of the revolution, that the the revolution was 'hijacked.'" This column is about another country where a radical element gained popular support and deposed the ruling authoritarian regime, only to have the revolution later betrayed. This column is

America began as a vision of freedom, a place where people would be protected rather than persecuted by government. It began with radical ideas, such as equality, an open society and free expression. Make no mistake - these were radical ideas constituting blasphemy and treason to the rulers of Great Britian.

For example, Democracy's greatest propagandist, Thomas Paine, narrowly escaped British prosecution and execution in 1792 for sedition. The charge arose from Paine's pamphlet, "The Rights of Man," in which he claimed all people are entitled to fair representative government, and when governments fail to deliver that right, such governments should be abolished.

One of the rights the founding fathers respected highly was the right and responsibility of the citizen to be informed. John Adams said, "Liberty cannot be preserved without a general knowledge of the people, who have a right to know; but besides this, they have a right, an indisputable, unalienable, indefensible, divine right to that most dreaded and envied kind of knowledge, I mean of the characters and conduct of their rulers." But under the Reagan administration, the "right to know" has been abused, abolished and ignored by government secrecy in the name of national security.

In 1981, the Reagan administration abolished a long-standing policy of formally briefing reporters about unclassified information. In addition, it has drastically increased the number of classified documents and reclassified many others - some of which have been declassified for more than a

SCOTT MILLER Collegian

The National Security Directive of March 1983 required pre-publication approval of all writings by people who have ever had access to classified information. This applied to speeches, books, editorials, letters to the editor, studies and other materials even if those writings were compiled from nonclassified material. If Congress had not suspended the directive, Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale would have had to submit his campaign speeches to Reagan-appointed review

In May 1981, after nearly 20 years of uninterrupted flow of printed material from Cuba, the federal government seized thousands of Cuban publications mailed to the United States. Thomas Jefferson once said, "Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter." Reagan, who was elected on the Jeffersonian principal of less government, apparently can't stomach the Jeffersonian view of free expression.

Ed Meese's Department of Justice denied visas to former Chilean president Salvador Allende's wife and Japanese survivors of Hiroshima on grounds that their speeches might be a threat to national security. Benjamin Franklin wrote in 1759, "They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety." Obviously, Reagan's view on the public's right to know differs from

But if denying the public access to infor-mation is one thing, creating information is another. In February 1981, the State Department issued an eight-page, single-spaced White Paper, "Communist Interference in El Salvador," which purportedly documented Soviet, Cuban and Nicaraguan clandestine military support to Salvadoran rebels. After six months of inquiries, the State Depart-ment admitted that it could not vouch for most of the White Paper's information.

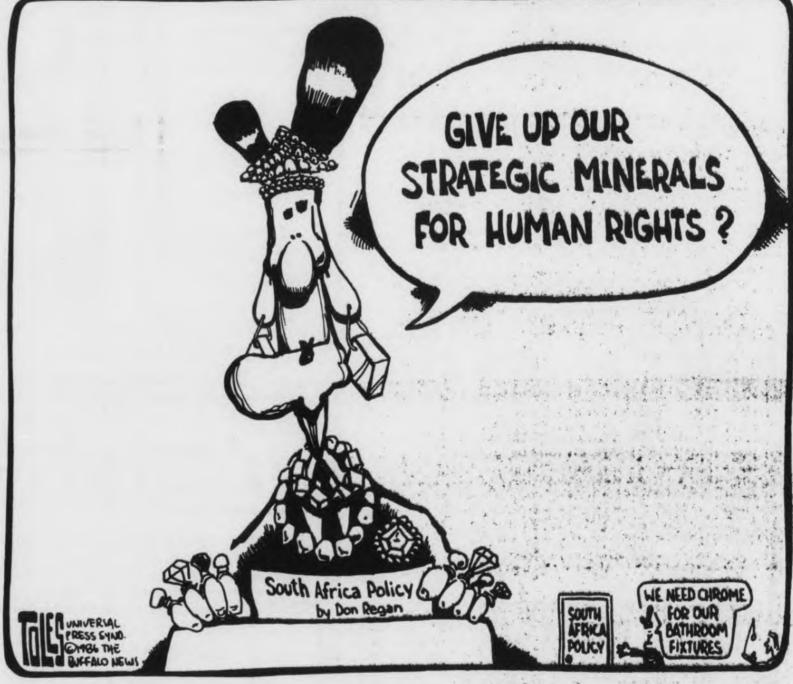

Thursday, October 2, 1986 - 4

The Korean airliner that the Soviets shot down in September 1983 is another case in point. According to journalist Seymour M. Hersh, the Reagan administration "chose to look the other way when better information became available about the Soviet confusion of Flight 007 with long-standing American reconnaissance missions. Those who ran the government did not want to learn that the Soviets had been honestly confused and panic-stricken about the enemy intruder."

The Reagan administration's disregard for truthful information inspired me to hang a banner over the McCain Auditorium balcony during George Shultz's Landon Lecture on Public Issues last year. Painted on that banner was a sentence that captures the essence of this column, of the current situation in America: "THE FOUNDING FATHERS WOULD PUKE!"

Indeed, the founding fathers, who continuously reiterated the need for an informed public, would be appalled at Reagan's restrictions on information. They would gag before the generally apathetic American public, that concerns itself little with those ever-increasing restrictions. Thomas Jefferson said, "If a nation expects to be ignorant and free, in a state of civilization, it expects what never was and never will be."

The founding fathers' views on the public's right to know, views once branded as radical, have once again been attacked as subver-sive. If the right to know is subversive, this country needs a good dose of subversion. As Patrick Henry said May 29, 1765, before the Virginia House of Burgesses, "If this be treason, make the most of it."

etters

Students miss facts

Re: The editorial, "Students must accept expenses of coliseum," in Monday's Collegian.

I am an administrator who had virtually nothing to do with the coliseum. However, I think that recent student reaction to the coliseum has overlooked at least two important

First, during the late 1970s and early 1980s the students were among the strongest supporters of a coliseum. Second, the administration that "finally got it" is the same administration that arranged for changes in the financing of the student contribution to the coliseum as well as other student body obligations. These changes in financing resulted in a one-time $700,000 windfall that students allocated last year, a $4.25 per semester reduction in fees and a reduction of approximately 10 years in the length of time that student fees will be required for the retirement of the coliseum bonds. Based on a student enrollment of 15,000, the annual payment by students during those 10 years would have been in excess of $900,000.

I was never a strong advocate of the new coliseum at K-State, but I feel that some members of the administration who have had to deal with this difficult problem deserve recognition for what they have done on behalf of the students.

Owen J. Koeppe University provost

Solution to parking

This letter is being written in response to the parking violation I received this morning while parked in the West Stadium parking

Some facts are necessary. My vehicle was not parked legally according to KSU Police Department specifications. The ticketing officer noted on the citation that I was "parked in drive," which connotes the idea of obstructing traffic in some way. As the officer could have attested, my vehicle clearly failed to obstruct the flow of traffic in any way.

So then, what was the police department's motivation behind this unnecessary harassment? I'm quite sure the outrageously high sum of $22 for supposed parking privileges more than meets upkeep expenses for parking facilities especially because no more than three quarters of those who pay for parking can park at any one time on campus. Could it be another scheme to corral funds for a faltering athletic program? Or is the money being appropriated for other undeserving purposes, such as the coliseum? One has to wonder.

Finally, since our "ticket-happy" campus police officers feel the need to siphon money from our pockets continually for largely questionable reasons, shouldn't we as the principle contributor be given some say as to where we allocate our money?

Tim Moore sophomore in geography

President may 'sell out' at summit

"Diplomacy," the venerable Will Rogers once noted, "is the word Webster used to sum up all the words that don't mean anything."

Consider our leader, Ronald Reagan, who once advocated a pre-emptive strike against the Soviet Union, who called their system an "evil empire," and who once denounced Communists as "murderous" subhumans. The same virulent anti-Red will soon embark to the hinterlands of the North to exchange bear hugs with "Smiling Mike" - Mikhail Gorbechev of the Kremlin. Whether he goes there out of fear or political gamesmanship, one thing is certain - the United States will be sold further down the river of enslavement in the name of "peaceful coexistence."

World War III, as many people more insightful than I have concluded, is being fought today, not with missles and guns but with propaganda and deceit. We are losing. Our defeat will not result from the massive firepower of the Red army but from our own inability to recognize the enemy - not Russians, but Communism - in all forms.

In fact, the Soviet regime would have long ago been overthrown if not for the misguided benevolence of the United States. For example, during the 1920s, when the Americans showered praise upon the Bolshevik Revolu-tion, millions of defenseless human beings were murdered. Their crime? The desire to retain the old ways of property ownership and the worship of God.

"Harvest of Despair," a film recently aired on PBS, depicted the intentional starvation of the proud Ukrainian people. Relief from the West was diverted to prop up the weak Communist government while the prototype "Holocaust" was perpetuated in the Ukraine. That year the "imminent statesman," Franklin D. Roosevelt, accorded diplomatic recognition to the Soviet Union for the first time.

RANDAL'S. BEEMAN Guest Columnist

In World War II, after Stalin had divided Poland with Hitler and then was betrayed, those who had been under Communist con-trol actually welcomed the genocidal Nazi army. In predictable fashion, we aided the Soviet dictator instead of taking on Germany by ourselves. As the war came to a close and the Reds viciously occupied Eastern Europe, our leadership ignored Churchill and Patton, allowing Stalin to build an impenetrable empire which lasts to this day.

Popular uprisings against the Soviet yoke in East Germany (1948), Hungary (1968) and Poland (1979-?) have been virtually ignored, excepting lip-service, by our nation. The Soviet Union exercises control over a vast area of the world. Their secret police support terrorism, internal dissent, and outright sabotage against the United States. With these thoughts in mind how can we expect to reach agreement with their totalitarian government? Before we seek any pacts we must first demand a withdrawal of their troops from Afghanistan, an opening of their political process, and release of political prisoners.

If they don't agree, so what? If they continue down the path of military Communism, they are destined for defeat — both reconceptably and spiritually. Communism economically and spiritually. Communism denies human potential to create, evidenced by the fact that the Khalisnikov AK-47 attack rifle is their only popular export, excluding vodka. Also witness the fact that they must build walls to keep their people from leav-ing; we build them to keep people out. We can win the war with Communism, first by understanding the monolithic enemy we face, then by not periling ourselves with fruitless deals. Send the message to President Reagan - don't sell us out.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR per-taining to matters of public interest are encharaged.

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 118 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

The state of the s

Reagan takes action to prevent override of veto on sanctions

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan lobbied senators by telephone Wednesday in a final push to preserve his veto of sanctions aimed at pressuring the South African government to abandon the system of apartheid.

The Senate was set to decide the issue Thursday, with most vote counts showing that Reagan lacks the margin he needs to prevent his veto from being overridden, as it was in the House earlier this Overriding a presidential veto requires two-thirds of senators present and voting.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan was contacting senators by phone Wednesday to seek their support.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz, asked whether the administration has the votes to sustain the veto, replied: "Well, I don't know. We're working on it."

"What the Senate bill, the Congress bill, will do is cause the United States to, in effect, withdraw from South Africa,' Shultz said on NBC-TV's "Today"

Shultz maintained that the sanctions legislation would increase joblessness among South African blacks and added, "That makes no sense."

Shultz on Tuesday contended that if senators choose to override the Reagan veto they will weaken the president's bargaining position with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, when the pair meets in Iceland on Oct. 10 and 11.

'Yesterday, the Secretary of State uged the Senate to sustain the veto, so that we would not be sending the President to Iceland with a foreign policy defeat," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy,

"But if the veto is sustained, the real victory will not be President Reagan's but President Botha's," Kennedy said in a reference to South African President P.W. Botha. "And America itself will suffer an even more serious defeat, for our ideals will be tarnished with the stain of racism."

"How absurd," said Rep. Bill Richardson, D-N.M. in a speech on the House floor questioning Shultz' thesis. "The administration is sadly isolated on the South Africa issue."

The Senate originally voted 84-14 for the sanctions legislation. If all 100 senators vote the presdent needs the votes of at least 34 senators to block a two-thirds majority and make his veto stick.

The bill Reagan vetoed would ban all new investment and all new bank loans, end landing rights in the United States for South African aircraft and ban the import of South African iron, steel, coal, textiles, uranium, arms, food and agricultural pro-

The legislation passed by the House and Senate would go much further, taking the United States far along a course toward total disinvestment from South Africa.

Exchange broadens architectural skills

By JULIE ANDSAGER Collegian Reporter

An exchange program between K-State and a college in Denmark has broadened the horizons of architectural students from both cultures.

The first exchange with the School of Architecture at Aarhus occurred last spring. Three Danish students came to Manhattan in January while six K-State students went to Denmark. The exchange lasted one semester.

Mark Lapping, dean of the College of Architecture and Design, said the program allowed the K-State students to become totally immersed in the Danish environment.

'We do this not only to enrich architectural skills but their personal lives also," Lapping said.

The program has been in the planning stages for several years, he said. He discussed the idea with instructors in Aarhus while visiting Denmark a few years ago, but the exchange was mainly instigated by a Danish instructor formerly in the College of Architecture and Design.

In Denmark, specialized institutions are considered on the same level as American universities but are called schools, Lapping said.

When both schools decided to start the exchange last fall, students from both were informed of the opportuni-

"I thought that it was six months I could just blow off and get an A, but now sitting around and thinking about it, I think 'Oh, yeah, I really did learn a lot from it - just traveling and meeting the people," said April Poore, senior in architecture.

'Six months of actually living in another culture is seeing it very differently than a tourist would," Poore said. "I had to learn to grocery shop and learn to go to the bank."

The transition between countries was eased as much as possible by both schools. For example, the Aarhus school set up accounts for the Americans at a Danish bank, and the students were covered by the national health plan. K-State took out medical policies and reserved residence hall rooms for the Danes.

However, Lapping said the transition was probably easier for the Danish students because they spoke English. None of the American exchange students could speak Danish.

When they arrived in Europe, Poore and the other five K-State students were expecting a schedule similar to K-State's. But they found a great deal of difference in the educational system.

"There's a lot more independence there. There were no tests or grades or real classes. It was structured to do one thing at a time. They do one project a month and do it as a group," Poore said.

"It reflects the tradition of European education where you specialize very early on," Lapping said. "There, they're more strongly focused early."

While K-State architecture students write papers, take tests and do projects for grades throughout their college educations, Aarhus students receive only a passing or failing rating at the end of five years.

"They have to be motivated themselves because nobody was go-ing to give them a grade," Poore said. "You could breeze through and not be a good architect after five years. It was all up to you.

"You never really know if you've learned enough. Everything you did was for a purpose - you weren't just studying for a test," she said. "Everything you did was for yourself."

The different educational systems also place emphasis on different areas. Danish architecture is geared to produce more functional structures and social housing. Denmark is approximately one-fifth the size of Kansas, so it has smaller on which land areas to build.

"We found that the Danish students who came over were strong designers," Lapping said. "It's a different design environment than in the United States. As a result, our students over there dealt with other problems than they would be expected to here. They stretched a bit, and that's always helpful." This stretching is beneficial not only for the student, but for American architecture as a whole, he said.

"There really isn't an architecture or landscape architecture which should work solely for America," Lapping said. "Good architecture and good design are useful everywhere. Because the exchange with the school in Aarhus worked for everyone involved, the College of Architecture is planning exchanges with other international schools. The college is discussing an interior architecture student and faculty exchange with the Technical University in Trier, West Germany. The faculty exchange would begin next semester.

The architecture college also is working on a program with the Higher Institute of Architecture and Civil Engineering in Sofia, Bulgaria. Lapping said he is committed to expanding exchange programs.

"I think there's a very, very strong belief in this college that these programs are a wonderful experience for our students," he said. "The Danish students, when all was said and done, grew some, too."

MAYER RETAIL LIQUOR

*Cold kegs in stock

*Chilled beer, wine, wine coolers

*Large selection spirits

ALL YOUR WEEKEND PARTY NEEDS!!

521 N. 12th—In Aggieville (across from Eegees & next to Southern Sun)

539-5269

$ Daze $ FRIDAY

T.G.I.F. $2.50 Pitchers Watch Saturday games on big screen T.V. Celebrity bartender Joe Kneib

> FirstBank Center Denison & Claflin 539-9619

LIVING ETHICAL WILLS Union State Room # 3 12:00 Noon TODAY

This series gives an excellent opportunity to receive the "bequest" of a campus leader, in terms of what she/he hopes to leave humanity as guiding principles for life.

Charles Reagan

· Assistant to the President, Professor of Philosophy

IRONMAN'86

CHAMPIONS

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE MEN of Theta Xi; Top Greek Ironmen in '86.

We commend all of the houses who competed in the competition. We look forward to Ironman '87.

 $\Theta\Xi$

TKE

ВӨП

ΦΚΘ

ΣΑΕ

 ΣX

CCC

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST

AMIGA® AMIGA SYSTEM! REGULAR SUGGESTED RETAIL $1995

AMIGA' From October 1st through November 30th take $500.00 off the computer system Business Week reported as having graphics so outstanding it's "the Maserati" of home computers." (What's a high-performance machine without fuel? Seize this offer now and you'll save $500.00 to spend on the newest high-performance Amiga software.)

25% Discount on software with KSU I.D.

MIDWEST COMPUTERS

3035 Anderson-Village Plaza-537-4460

B'nai B'rith Hillel at K-State

HIGH HOLY DAYS SERVICE SCHEDULE

ROSH HASHANNAH

Friday, October 3 is Erev Rosh Hashannah. Services will beginat 8 p.m. Saturday, October 4 services will begin at 10 a.m.

YOM KIPPUR

Sunday, October 12, Kol Nidre Services will begin at 7 p.m.

Monday, October 13 Yom Kippur Services will begin at 10 a.m.; Yizkor-Neilah Services will begin at 5:30 p.m. A traditional Manhattan Jewish Congregation Break-Fast will follow Neilah. Everyone is encouraged to partake in the meal. After the Break-Fast we will all work to build the Sukkah.

HILLEL SPECIAL ACTIVITY Union Parking Lot at 7:30 a.m., nformation call Chuck 776-1963

Workers maintain 300 K-State acres

By JULIE REYNOLDS Collegian Reporter

While many people spend an idle Sunday doing yardwork now and then, most don't have to deal with nearly 300 acres of land.

But for the K-State grounds crew, that formidable task is a daily one. The crew is in charge of maintaining 290 to 300 acres of land, including the campus and the athletic complex northwest of campus, said Tom Lee, facilities grounds maintenance supervisor.

Twenty full-time employees are part of the year-round grounds crew, and 15 students are employed part time during the spring, summer and early fall, Lee said.

Job keeps employees busy year-round

the spring, when the workers plant aspects of ground maintenance." flower beds and get the equipment ready for mowing. Autumn is another busy period for the grounds crew, when it must contend with fallen leaves, mowing and maintaining the lawns.

Herman Kufahl mows around a tree Wednesday afternoon near the Power Plant. Kufahl is one of 20 full-time grounds crew employees in charge of the 290 to 300 acres of land on the K-State campus.

1986 Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, W.

"Most employees have a specialized area that they work on, but all are trained to do whatever job may come up," Lee said. "Our The crew is busiest throughout people are experienced in all

> The crew is involved in many special events that occur on the campus, Lee said. Functions at President Jon Wefald's residence are usually preceded by a thorough setup and cleanup by the grounds crew. This includes setting up tables and chairs, providing trash cans and making the area look clean.

events, Lee said.

am proud of them. They take pride

'Sometimes individuals of the student body are not aware of what they are doing by cutting cow paths across the lawns and playing touch football right after it rains," Lee

'We have a real good crew, and I am proud of them. They take pride in what they do.' - Tom Lee

In the last five years, the grounds crew has added more flower beds to the campus landscape and has improved the appearance of en-

Other universities, including and the appearance that it has," he

The grounds crew is also in charge of preparing Frank Myers Field, KSU Stadium and R.V. Christian Track before athletic

"We have a real good crew, and I in what they do," Lee said.

White chains have been added to the campus landscape to try to detour students from making "cow paths" across the lawns.

said.

Don Burns, horticulturist and grounds maintenance worker for the past 22 years, said, "This is the nicest I have seen the campus in a long time."

Burns credits the grounds crew, with a little help from the weather, for the appearance of the campus this fall.

trances to the campus, Burns said.

grounds crews from the University of Kansas, Fort Hays State University and Vanderbilt University, have come to observe the K-State grounds and watch the crew in operation, Burns said.

"We are proud of this campus

Students go for broke in stock market game

By MARTA MONTGOMERY Collegian Reporter

This week, more than 500 Kansans have been given $100,000 to invest during the next 10 weeks.

The investors are players of The Stock Market Game, and the $100,000 is the imaginary money used to play.

These investors are not stockbrokers, and many of them have never even been involved in a big-business transaction. The majority of the players are upperelementary and high-school students from across Kansas. However, some college students and local businessmen are also participating in the game.

The Stock Market Game allows students to "buy, sell or trade" on the New York Stock Exchange, said Linda Benteman, Stock Market Game assistant and senior in industrial engineering.

The game, designed to simulate the real world, is run with a computer program from Cardwell Hall that uses closing prices from the stock market.

Benteman said they recommend that players read newspapers and keep up with the business news. Professionals are not employed to advise the participants, but a list of stockbrokers who would be willing to offer advice to the participants is available.

"Most people listen to the news, but don't know what's going on,' Benteman said. "This is one way to find out."

Benteman said the game is very close to the real world because of the realistic options available to the players. They can buy on margin, meaning they can borrow part of the purchase price of the stock using the stock as collateral for the loan. They can sell short, meaning they buy stock from a brokerage firm; then sell it, hoping to buy it back later at a lower rate. They are charged a 2 percent brokerage fee.

"The biggest difference (between the game and the real world) is that the money the players use in the game is imaginary," Benteman said. A technical difference Benteman mentioned is that in the game, trading must be done with at least 100 shares at a time.

The game is organized by the Center for Economic Education. Vera Freeman, director of the center and assistant professor in the Department of Curriculum and Instruction, noted one important difference between the game and the real world. "Most people in the real world have to look at the long-term effects of their stock deals," she said. The Stock Market Game only lasts 10 weeks, so these students are trying to "make big bucks fast," she said.

She said security is one of the most important reasons people make investments, "so they can't afford to take risks as big in the real world." In the game, the people who lose don't actually suffer financially. "It's a learning experience for them. They figure that next time they make an investment they should investigate deeper into the company they're dealing with," Freeman said. The Stock Market Game has been played in both the spring and the fall for 10 years. The number of teams participating has increased every

This fall, 525 teams are registered in the game. Most teams are made of five players, but some people choose to play alone. Some teachers are participating with their entire class comprising one team. Freeman said that makes it impossible to determine the exact number of participants in each running.

In this game, there are eight different regions of high-school students, two regions for junior high students and one category for elementary school students. There is also an "open" category for players not in school.

At a banquet in the spring, time awards will be given for the area competitions as well as for first-, second- and third-place overall win-

This game began Sept. 26 and will run through Dec. 4. If teams are still interested in playing in this session, Benteman said, late registrations will be accepted until until Friday.

The Stock Market Game is being sponsored by the Securities Industry Foundation for Economic Education.

A WORD FRO

Parrish utilizes break for recruiting purposes

By TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

K-State's football season is less than half over, but Coach Stan Parrish and his staff are keeping one eye dead set on the horizon.

The 1-3 start hasn't prompted Parrish to scrap the season, because, he said, he is pleased with the progress of the Wildcats. It's just that K-State's one-week break from its game schedule afforded Parrish the opportunity to get an early jump on recruiting players for next season.

"I had five coaches on the road last week, (in) California, Texas, Arizona, Utah and in the state of Kansas. We had a very productive week recruiting," Parrish said.
"We've identified (the good athletes), they know we're in-

"If we get 10 percent of the recruits we have in our pool of recruits we'll have a heck of a class, because we have some great kids we're recruiting," Parrish said.

Last year, Parrish and his new coaches came into a situation where they were forced to recruit on short notice. Not this season. The 'Cats' two open dates and the work of Leo Brouhard as full-time recruiting coordinator has placed Parrish in a comfortable situation.

"Where we are right now with recruiting,...we're usually in the middle of December and hopefully that will be a blessing for us," Par-

Parrish's first recruiting class as K-State's football coach was dominated by the signing of "skilled positions require specific skills to perform - quarterbacks, running backs, wide receivers and defensive

This season, Parrish isn't looking for the small, quick players upon which he placed so much emphasis with his first class. Instead Parrish is looking for lineman - big, quick lineman who can step right in and "We need them - on both sides of the ball. We need that worse than we need anything," Parrish said. "We're giving away tons of weight coming up this Saturday (against Oklahoma).

'We'll sprinkle in a few (skilled players), but a majority of the kids (we sign) will be up front players who are big and strong," Parrish Parrish's need for players who can move people could be listed as critical. He loses three of his starting five offensive linemen after this season and he will have none of the defensive linemen he started this season with next year. To find players who can have an immediate impact at the Big Eight level, Parrish is searching the junior college ranks for talent. Junior college players are not only more experienced and usually bigger than high-school athletes, they are often able to transfer early so they can participate in spring drills with returning players.

"I'd like to add 15 to 20 players to spring practice. That's our goal going in. I'll take my full contingency of scholarships this year (30) and I'd like to give half of those away at mid-year, so we can have them here for physical," Parrish said. "The kids year, so we can have them here for spring practice," Parrish said.

So Parrish's master plan for lifting the K-State football program from the depths of the Big Eight continues. One year he adds speed, the next he adds the beef up front to supplement the speed.

"If we can get seven or eight lineman on either side of the ball, you can change your team around quite quickly," Parrish said.

Those changes will be vital if the 'Cats intend on surviving a much tougher non-conference schedule. Gone are the smaller Division I-AA schools. Next season's schedule features Big Ten powerhouse Iowa, as well as Army, Tulsa and intrastate rival Wichita State.

"We're just so small - we've got Parrish said.

think they worked hard last year, well, they have touched the tip of the

"If we're going to be competitive with them and win half of our nonleague games, we're going to have to be a dominating physical football team."

However, this season turns out for the Wildcats, it isn't one Parrish will ever want to repeat. Any future K-State teams Parrish will coach will be spending more time in the weight room and at the training table.

"I'm not lining up with little guys again. You'll never see a transformation in a football team size-wise like you're going to see in this one,"

John Fuller of Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Derek Duden of Phi Kappa Tau, the American Heart Association. Fite night is one of many athletic philanparticipate in last year's Sigma Phi Epsilon Fite Night to raise money for thropies sponsored by greek houses at K-State.

man.

Greek houses raise money for charity

By MARTHA SCHAEFER Collegian Reporter

K-State students might pay attention to University athletics and intramurals, but there's another group of sporting events which often is overlooked.

Many fraternities and sororities annual athletic events which raise money for organizations.

Fund-raising events may vary in design, but the goals are the same

The oldest of these events on K-State's campus is Sigma Chi fraternity's "Derby Days." The Tau Kappa Epsilon's and Sigma Nu's battle it out at the Phi Delta Theta "Score For Charity" flag football tournament on Sept. 22. The tournament benefits research into as Lou Gehrig's disease.

recognized by Greek Affairs stage event has taken place in the spring the past 15 years and is a series of competitions between participating sororities, said Jim Vader, Sigma giving to those who need.

Funds from Derby Days go to Wallace Village, a treatment center for emotionally and behaviorally disturbed children near Denver, Vader said.

Chi vice president.

Phi Gamma Delta fraternities from K-State and the University of Kansas combine their efforts each fall for their annual "Fiji Run." It is conducted annually the weekend of the K-State-KU game, said Rick Daugherty, co-chairman of the run said.

The run began in 1974 after Rod Morgan, a K-State Fiji, died of leukemia. Funds from the run are donated to the Leukemia Society, Daugherty said. Depending on the game's location, Fiji's from each school run the game ball from the visiting school to the host site.

"Fiji's are the largest (organization that contributes) to the Leukemia Society in the state of Kansas," Daugherty said.

Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity has its annual "Fite Nite" during the spring. Amateur boxing matches between various fraternity members benefit the American Heart Association, said Whit Welch, Fite Nite chairman.

"Golden Gloves runs the whole thing," Welch said, "so all of it is official."

Every spring, the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity sponsors its "Chariot Relays" which benefits Manhattan's Special Olympics, said Ted McFeeters, relay chair-

"Score for Charity," is the Phi Delta Theta fraternity's fall football tournament. The 5-year-old competition between intramural flag football teams, includes both a men's and women's division and benefits the National Amytrophic Lateral Sclerosis Foundation. ALS is more commonly known as Lou Gehrig's disease.

"The Phi Delts hold this tournament in honor of Lou Gehrig, who was a member of their national fraternity," said Wes Alexander, tournament chairman.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity sponsors the Wheatland Run to raise funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The run has occurred every spring for the past five years, said former SAE President Eric Allen.

See CHARITY, Page 10

NFL coach winless playing against NU

By TOM MORRIS Assistant Sports Editor

Nebraska's game against South Carolina Saturday marks only the second meeting between the two schools in 22 years, and the first time the Cornhuskers have played in Columbia, S.C. Nebraska won the first game played in the series in 1964.

For trivia buffs, Dan Reeves quarterbacked the Gamecocks in that 28-6 loss to the 'Huskers in Lincoln. Reeves now coaches the National Football League's Denver

Other conference games include Wyoming (3-1) at Iowa State (2-1), Missouri (1-2) at Syracuse (0-4) and Southern Illinois (2-2) at Kansas

Feature game of the week on the Big Eight/Raycom television network is the matchup between KU and the Salukis with a scheduled kickoff of 11:38 a.m.

Other statistics and comments from around the conference include the following.

Colorado's 0-4 overall, but three losses (Ohio State, Arizona and Oregon) are by a total of only 8 points. Coach Bill McCartney said he's never experienced a season such

"I can't recall losing three games...like this anywhere I've been. We're knocking on that victory door and nobody's letting us in," Mc-Cartney said. Kansas had a balanced attack with 221 yards rushing and 180 passing in its 20-6 win against Indiana State.

"That's why they call it a multiple offense. We can both run and pass. If one of them isn't working, we can go to the other," said Kansas center Paul Oswald.

Three of the five games featuring Big Eight teams are first encounters between the two schools (Wyoming-Iowa State, Missouri-Syracuse and Southern Illinois-Kansas).

"The thing we need to do is work on guts. We need to develop a little bit of attitude and get a little bit of want," said Missouri linebacker Gary Justis.

The Tigers' attitude adjustments might be easily obtained against Syracuse. The Orangemen have lost six straight contests including the final two games of last season.

"I said to myself that I wasn't going to be awed by Nebraska but I have to admit that when I came into the stadium and saw all the red, I was awed," said Oregon's reserve quarterback Pete Nelson, who played for injured starter Chris

Spencer Tillman of Oklahoma State has 1,964 yards and should become the 46th player in Big Eight history to reach the 2,000-yard plateau.

Kansas' defense has played six straight quarters without surrendering a touchdown, which might be attributed to the advantage of playing in front of the home crowd. KU has played four consecutive home games.

Missouri running back Darrell Wallace now has 1,489 career rushing yards, which is 10th on the Tigers' career list. He needs 55 yards to move ahead of ex-Tiger Eric Drain.

It's double trouble for Oklahoma State's combination noseguarddefensive tackle Marcus Jones. "At first it felt a little strange, but one good thing, you don't get doubleteamed as much," Jones said. Oregon coach Rich Brooks said of Nebraska nosegaurd Danny Noonan, "He's quick, he's smart and he can bench press the stadium.' Colorado linebacker Barry Remington has 427 career tackles, good enough for eighth on the Big Eight career list. If he reaches 500, Remington will be only the fifth conference performer to do so. Missouri's game at Syracuse is the first road game for the Tigers this season, and it's their first game in the East since they played Army in

With the advent of talented rushing quarterbacks around the conference, keep in mind that former Kansas QB Nolan Cromwell still holds the record for most carries in a season by a signal caller (218 in 1975).

Cromwell, by the way, is one of only three quarterbacks to ever lead the conference in rushing. Others were Oklahoma's Jack Mitchell in 1947 and Missouri's Paul Christman in 1939

Kansas fullback Arnold Snell, who rushed for 168 yards and two touchdowns Saturday against Indiana State - the best rushing performance by a Jayhawk since 1980 is inspired by a picture of former KU great Gale Sayers that hangs near the team's dressing room.

"Every time I come in here, I look at that picture. It makes me want to go out that day and work as hard as I can to get better," Snell said.

Inclusion of Nebraska and Oklahoma in this week's United Press International and Associated Press polls means the Sooners have been ranked 190-of-205 weeks during Barry Switzer's reign, and the 'Huskers have been listed 202-of-205 weeks under Tom Osborne.

Nebraska, with a 48-14 drubbing of Oregon at Linclon, moved to third in both polls. Oklahoma dropped to sixth in both rankings after losing to Miami 28-16 in the Orange Bowl.

Pitchers control American League play would start against the California

By The Associated Press

A pair of pitchers, one in Boston and the other in Kansas City, dominated American League action Wednesday. Danny Jackson gained attention by posting a serious bid for a no-hitter against the California Angels for more than eight innings in Kansas City. And potential Cy Young Award winner Roger Clemens was injured in Boston against the Baltimore Orioles and is on "day-to-day" Jackson said the words he uttered when Dick Schofield broke up his nohitter with a ninth-inning single Wednesday night "can't be printed in a newspaper.' "It's disappointing. It's really disappointing. But that's the way the ball bounces," Kansas City's 24-year-old left-hander said after winding up with a two-hit, 2-0 shutout of the California Angels. Jackson had allowed only one ball to leave the infield when Schofield, leading off the ninth, slapped an 0-1

Jackson has two hitter; Clemens hurt pitch just inches past second baseman Frank White.

"I threw Schofield a fastball on the inside part of the plate," said Jackson, 11-12. "I think it might have been up because he was able to fight it off. I know Frank tried as hard as he could to get it, but as soon as he hit it I thought it was a base hit." 'Jackson pitched excellently all night long," Schofield said. "It was a good pitch I hit. I thought White was going to get to it, but I guess it was just out of his reach."

The Royals were most upset with rookie outfielder Devon White for trying to push a bunt down the third base line with one out in the eighth. The ball would have gone for a hit if it had not barely rolled foul.

"I don't know how long he's been up here or anything, but normally, when a pitcher's throwing a no-hitter in the eighth inning you don't try to bunt on him and get a base hit," Jackson said. "You try to swing the bat and try to hit the ball. That was kind of uncalled for.'

Jackson nearly handed the American League West champions their second no-hit defeat in less than two weeks. It the fourth time this season that opposing pitchers have gone into the ninth with a no-hitter against the Angels.

Before the ninth, the closest the Angels came to a hit against Jackson was the attempted bunt by White. Jackson gave up only one fly ball out in the first eight innings.

Jackson struck out five and walked

Clemens, making his last start before the American League playoffs, suffered a bruised right elbow Wednesday night when he was struck by a line drive during a game with the Baltimore Orioles.

The Boston right-hander, 24-4, apparently escaped serious injury less than three hours after being told by Manager John McNamara that he

Angels here Tuesday night in the opener of the AL Championship Dr. Arthur Pappas, the Red Sox' team physician, reported that X-rays disclosed no broken bones. He said that Clemens suffered a bruise and his status was "day-to-day." Clemens was struck by a ball hit by Baltimore catcher John Stefero with runners on first and third and two outs in the second. The Red Sox reported that the ball struck Clemens on the outside of the right elbow as he turned away on his follow through. Clemens grabbed his elbow as the ball ricocheted over second baseman Marty Barrett's head and into short right field for an RBI single. He was escorted immediately to the clubhouse, then was taken to a nearby hospital for X-rays. Clemens was seeking to become Boston's first 25-game winner since Mel Parnell in 1949. In the National League, championship series qualifiers are the New York Mets and the Houston Astros.

Volleyball team loses 4-game match to KU the match, and the 'Hawks rolled seemed poised to avenge an earlier defeat by the Kansas Jayhawks Wednesday night when disaster, in the form of unforced errors, struck.

By The Collegian Staff K-State's volleyball squad

Kansas, on its home court in Lawrence, eventually won in four games 13-15, 16-14, 15-6 and 15-6. After a tough first-game victory, the Wildcats appeared to have the match in hand after staking themselves to a 14-10 secondgame lead. But that's when errors, which Coach Scott Nelson has been trying hard to limit, resurfaced.

The 'Cats committed three serving errors in that span that allowed the Jayhawks to reel off the last six points of the match. K-State could never regain momentum it attained earlier in to easy wins the last two games. "If we would have won the second game, we would have won the match 3-0," Nelson said. With the defeat, K-State is now Eight Conference. Despite that, Coach Nelson saw room for op-"I do think we're improving. If we continue the way we're headed, we'll be beating Big Eight op-

6-7 on the year and 0-2 in the Big ponents soon. If we stay the same, we will continue to struggle," he The Wildcats won't have to wait long to get their next shot at the Jayhawks. The teams will meet this weekend at the round-robin Springfield, Mo. Other teams in the tournament are Southwest Missouri State and Louisville.

Autumn Classic Invitational in

Secretary voices U.S. trade frustrations

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III voiced frustration Wednesday over the continued refusal of America's trading partners, particularly Germany and Japan, to do more to spur their economies.

But the Reagan administration's prescription for economic well-being drew a chilly reception from West German Finance Minister Gerhard Stoltenberg, who claimed "artificial stimulation" could lead to another economic crisis.

Addressing the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund and World Bank, Baker reiterated the administration's contention, voiced to the same audience Tuesday by President Reagan, that more open markets and increased growth abroad are needed to extinguish protectionist fires at home.

'Our commitment to free but fair international trade should not be underestimated, but neither should the forces of protectionism," Baker

Major trading partners have thus far rebuffed Baker's efforts to persuade them to act in concert to lower interest rates and to take steps to stabilize exchange rates in an effort to help ease huge U.S. trade deficits.

"This dissonance is to be expected," Baker said. "Indeed, it is a sign of any pluralistic governing process.'

However, in clear references to Japan and West Germany, Baker said that nations running a trade surplus with the United States "must spur domestic demand to grow faster than (their) GNP (Gross National Product)...

'Some of these countries appear to be taking steps to enhance growth, although not as rapidly as the trade imbalances may necessitate," he ad- told the IMF-World Bank meeting.

"Moreover, troubling forecasts suggest that some nations' growth may slow over the course of the next year and that average growth rates abroad may slip below that of the U.S. expansion," Baker said. A U.S. official, who briefed a roomful of reporters prior to the Baker speech on the condition that he not be identified by name, leveled specific criticism at Germany.

"In Germany, we are concerned about the sustainability of their present growth," the official said. "We that they have not been as responsive as we'd like."

Stoltenberg defended Germany's refusal to take steps, like lowering interest rates, to stimulate growth. "Artificial stimulation of demand would set the stage for the next stabilization crisis. The developing nations would be the hardest hit," he Stoltenberg also indicated skepticism toward any further efforts to reduce the value of the U.S. dollar against major foreign currencies to help the United States reduce a trade deficit expected to reach a record $170 billion this year.

'The task now is to consolidate the progress achieved," he said.

Germany and Japan over the weekend rejected efforts by Baker to encourage them to further reduce their central banks' interest rates, as the U.S. Federal Reserve has done four times this year.

Finance ministers and central bank officials from six major industrial allies also rebuffed Baker's efforts to put into force an agreement adopted at last May's Tokyo economic summit calling for greater international surveillance of economic conditions as a means of stabilizing exchange rates.

Sniper tries to kill Gandhi; reports say leader unharmed

By The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, India - A man perched in a tree shot at Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi today but missed as the leader left a shrine to the late Mohandas K. Gandhi, the United News of India reported.

There was no immediate official confirmation of the report.

The agency said Gandhi was not wounded. It said two other people received minor injuries.

The assailant was arrested by police, UNI said.

The agency said a second person allegedly involved in the incident

Gandhi's mother, then Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, was shot and killed by members of her personal bodyguard on Oct. 31, 1984.

Gandhi and his mother are not related to Mohandas K. Gandhi, the apostle of non-violence who led the struggle for Indian independence from Britain.

UNI said the assassination attempt took place at Rajghat, a memorial to Mohandas Gandhi on the Jamuna River in New Delhi, the capital.

Gandhi was visiting the shrine to mark the 117th anniversary of the independence leader's birth.

Rent a complete

Fisher stereo for $15 and get 3

FREE video tape

rentals

Carter opens library for records of his era

By The Associated Press

ATLANTA - Former President Jimmy Carter presented to the nation Wednesday a sprawling complex containing documents and photos from his administration, a period which President Reagan said was marked by Carter's "passion and intellect and commitment."

The two leaders joined about 9,000 people, including former Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale, at a ceremony marking the dedication and public opening of the Carter Presidential Center.

Carter, celebrating his 62nd birthday, presented the National Archives and Records Administration with the deed to the Carter Presidential Library and Museum, which takes up more than half of the 130,000-squarefoot complex on 30 acres.

He called the library and museum exhibit on his presidency " a gift from m and my family to all the people of the United States in appreciation for the great honor you have bestowed on us."

But Carter said he looked forward to a future of continued public service through a human rights organization, a conservation foundation and an Emory University-based public policy "think tank" housed in the remainder of the Carter Presidential Center, which is owned by an operating foundation.

'We appreciate the past. We are grateful for the present and we're looking forward to the future with great anticipation and commitment," he said. Guests included President and Nancy Reagan, who got a private tour of the center with Carter and his wife Rosalynn. In brief remarks, Reagan acknowledged deep political differences with Carter but he praised his predecessor for his faith and hard work.

"You gave yourself to your country, gracing the White House with your passion and intellect and commitment," Reagan said.

In the keynote address, Warren Christopher, a former deputy secretary of state under Carter, called the center "both an invaluable repository of presidential papers and a dynamic center of action."

The ceremony concluded two days of festivities at the center, including preview tours Tuesday for groups of school children, a formal party Tuesday and a private breakfast Wednesday for major contributors to the center, funded by $25 million in private

The center, which took two vears to build, is a complex of four interconnected round buildings set in a loose semicircle around a Japanese garden on the side of Copenhill, the hill from which Union Gen. William Sherman watched his Civil War troops burn Atlanta.

Students compare plans for vacations at travel fair

By The Collegian Staff

Students already making plans to get away during Christmas and spring breaks had a chance to compare travel plans and rates at the 1986 Travel Fair Wednesday in the Union Courtyard.

The travel fair, sponsored by the UPC Travel Committee, provided students with a variety of travel displays and information in a central location.

"The travel fair makes it a lot easier for students to compare places and costs because all of the information is right there, and they don't have to go from place to place," said Carley Sederquist, junior in business administration and coordinator of the event.

AUntie

Creative Travel, a Manhattan travel agency, displayed books and brochures on vacation spots and rates. They also offered advice to students planning trips, Sederquist said.

The Pathfinder, a local camping equipment store, displayed travel items and accessories at Sederquist said many agencies and businesses contacted could not afford to take off the entire day for the travel fair, but sent information and brochures to be

Information was also available on the trips planned by the UPC Travel Committee and the UPC Outdoor Recreation Committee.

ARMCO RENTALS Appliance 539-8786 pen to the public 7 days a week tereos, V.C.R.'s Refrigerators Rent a microwave Washer/dryers or television and icrowaves and more get $5 off plus 2 FREE video tape rentals Rent a dorm size refrigerator for $15 and get 3 FREE video tape rentals

Purchase Option · Low Rates Rent by the month

Free Maintenance No Long Term

Aggieville 1122 Laramie Handi Corner

Rent portable washer & dryers for $20 and get 2 FREE video tape rentals rooms Coast to Coast rilian & Military Communit

the discounts! ARMCO 539-8786

Bring this ad

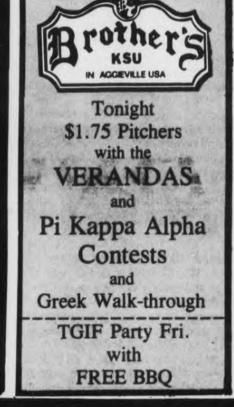

in to receive

Make Reservations for Organization Group Pictures for the Royal Purple

through October 3.

Purchase your photo receipt and make your appointment in Kedzie Hall 103. Pictures will be taken October 6 through November 20, but you need to make reservations now.

Mae's Parlor AGGIEVILLE THURSDAY Pitchers $1 Drinks 50¢ Draws 616 N. 12th 539-9967

Thursday, October 2, 1986

IS, QUITE SIMPLY, THE BEST AMERICAN FILM

'VE SEEN THIS YEAR!"-VINCENT CARDY,

TONIGHT 7:30 p.m. FORUM HALL 'CATCH 22' is a brilliant anti-war satire of epic proportions. Rated R; $1.75, KSU ID required

wpc kaleidoscop

Slide/Lecture Presentation by

ARTIST KATHLEEN SHANAHAN TOMORROW 10:30 a.m., K-State Union Little Theatre.

Reception in the Union Art Gallery immediately following. Her work is currently featured in the Union Art Gallery.

MINI-RAPPELLING Tuttle Creek Dam October 11 Noon-5 p.m.

Sign up today through October 9, Union 3rd Floor, Activities Center. Costs $7 which includes refreshments, equipment, demonstrations and a whole lot of fun! All levels of experience are welcome.

(k-state union

ONLY $4 for the time of your life!

Tickets are on sale NOW! Limited Seating Available. Available at the Activities Center, Union 3rd Floor, Sound Shop in Aggieville and at the door on night of show.

Doors open at 8 p.m. with special guests "The Moving Vangoghs" starting at 9 p.m. and "The Rainmakers" following. Also presented by UPC Eclectic Entertainment and Q104.

Tuesday, Oct. 7, Forum Hall, 8 p.m. $5 General Admission Tickets are on sale in Activities Center, Union 3rd Floor and the Sound Shop in Aggieville. See tomorrow's stars today for the riproaring comedy show

"'Second City' is brilliant." -TIME MACAZINE

"Subtly & Superbly funny!"

k-state union

that will knock you

Limited seating available!

out of your seat!

FRIDAY

AND SATURDAY

7 & 9:30 p.m., Forum Hall

$1.75,

KSU ID required Two men. Not soldiers. Not heros. Just dancers. willing to risk their lives for freedom and each other. Stars

Mikhail Baryshnikov

and Gregory Hines.

Rated PG-13.

Wic-state union

long list of favorite cover tunes by such widely diverse artists such as Bob Seger, James Taylor, Kenn Loggins, Emmylou Harris, Paul Simon and Billy Joel net McLaughlin is "well worth hearing.

Chitty Chitty Bang Bang

SATURDAY 2 p.m. & SUNDAY 2 & 7 p.m. Forum Hall $1.50, KSU ID required

From James Bond creator lan Fleming comes a fantastic musical adventure into the fairy tale life of an inventor. Follow Jeremy, Jemima and Truly Scrumptous to the mystical kingdom of Vulgaria in a car that flles! Stars Dick Van Dyke and Sally Howes.

Broadcaster describes Soviet press restraint

By RONDA CORLE Collegian Reporter

A person is more proud to be from a country that allows free speech after visiting a country that doesn't, said Ken Root, National Broadcast Association president, Wednesday evening.

Root and 15 fellow broadcasters visited the Soviet Union this summer and were able to bring back videotapes of their experience. Root spoke about his trip and the plight of the Kansas farmer at the Kansas Farm Writers and Broadcasters Association's banquet.

"As we traveled, we had the chance to see how a country works without free press," Root said. "Our passports were taken away. What you do, and where you go every minute is monitored by the government.

"When you get out of there, you are more proud you come from a country that allows a free press," Root said.

As an example of the advantages of having a free press, Root said the media may be 50 percent wrong on a story the first day, but by the second day, the story is 95 percent right.

"The one freedom I cherish is freedom of the press," he said.

Root warned everyone to play by the rules when covering stories in countries that don't have a free press - including the taking of pictures of train depots or airports. He said those restrictions applied to 40 miles around the restricted area.

Upon departure of the Soviet Union, he said, the head customs official wouldn't allow the videotapes to leave.

K-State Players

night, Mother

Oct. 2, 3, 4

Nichols Theatre 8 p.m.

Call 532-6398 Mon.-Fri. 12-5

IMPORT

BEER

NIGHT

50¢ off

All Imports

All Day

THURSDAYS

HOME OF THE

AROUND the WORLD

BEER CLUB

Open at noon Sundays!

The group began to argue politely, Root said, adding that they offered to let the customs agent view the films but he declined, saying there wasn't time. Root said 10 minutes before the plane was to leave, the customs agent disgustedly waved them through.

"He was just sweating us out to see if we had done something wrong," Root said. "The tapes aren't nearly as dramatic, but we got out with something."

Root, on the topic of agriculture, discussed the bad times for farmers, and when the good times might return.

"It's hard to say when the good times will come back," Root said.

He described the 1980s as depressing, but said that six years of hard times is only one-twelfth of an older person's life, and "that's not a very long period of time to say that your life is ruined," Root said. "It's all in how you look at it."

Sam Brownback, the newly appointed Kansas secretary of agriculture, spoke briefly to the group about possible programs to assist Kansas farmers in developing domestic markets. "People want to support Kansas farmers," Brownback said. When a Dillon's store put Kansas asparagus in the produce section, the store sold more asparagus than usual. He said the Dillon's stores have approached his office with an offer to help market Kansas pro-

"This is a tremendous market. If the small farmers are having problems, maybe here's the avenue to go," he said.

JANUARY

KSU SKI WEEKS

Steamboat

$1*8*4

Nigerians celebrate independence day the road to recovery. We are a

By JO BERGER Collegian Reporter

The road to independence for any country is "always bloody," said the president of the Nigerian Student Union at a banquet to celebrate the 26th anniversary of Nigeria's independence.

"We are celebrating the contributions our founding fathers made to secure our independence," said Yumi Ogunrinola, graduate student in food science, at the banquet Wednesday night in the International Student Center.

Prior to the country's independence, Nigeria was a British colony, he said.

"Nigerians have witnessed a number of coups in the past," Ogunrinola said. "But now we are on peaceful country and a member of the non-aligned nations."

English is Nigeria's official language, he said. "There are 250 ethnic groups and each has its own dialect and culture," Ogunrinola said. Various garments the students wore and the food served reflected the diversity of the tribes. 'Our costumes demonstrate the rich traditions of the different tribes," he said. "Each tribe has something very unique and specific

At one time there were more than 100 Nigerian students on campus now, there are fewer than 30. Ogunrinola said.

"K-State is a community rich in international students, and events such as the banquet are unique opportunities to learn about our cultures and countries," he said.

Ogunrinola said he recognizes the need for agricultural development in Africa, and like many other African students, plans to return to his country with the knowledge to help it become self-sufficient.

"Agriculture was the No. 1 industry in Nigeria, employing about 70 percent of the country until the oil boom," he said. "Now our government has again put more emphasis on becoming self-sufficient in food production."

Higher education for workers is a goal of the Nigerian government along with efforts to increase food production and protein content of agricultural products.

Leniel Harbers, professor of animal sciences and industry, compared the history of the United States with that of Nigeria.

"We experienced the same growing pains as is Nigeria in its agriculture struggle," he said.

Kenny Holt, senior in secondary education, said attending events such as the Nigerian banquet, "has enabled me to see both the strengths and weaknesses of other countries and our own."

"International students want to share their cultures and ideas with Americans," Holt said. "There is no bad culture."

The Nigerian Student Union is planning to continue their Independence Day celebration with a dance Saturday at the University for

FDA approves drug for AIDS victims

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Food and Drug Administration on Tuesday approved a large-scale test of the first drug that appears to prolong life and reduce symptoms in some patients with AIDS

The FDA said it approved an application to classify AZT, or azidothymidine, as a treatment investigational new drug (IND) to make it more widely available to thousands with acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Burroughs Wellcome Co., of Research Triangle Park, N.C., had asked the government for permission to broaden the use of its drug after ending controlled trial of AZT early because it seemed to provide surprising benefits to some patients.

While not a cure, researchers said, AZT did help relieve the symptoms of some AIDS patients and seemed to

Hansen

Nutrition Center

. WEIDER BODY BUILDING

OF NATURAL FOODS

. NATURAL DIET AIDS . BOOKS ON NUTRITION

PRODUCTS . ALL MAJOR BRANDS

improve life expectancy. However, they added, long-term effects of using the drug and any extended benefits remain unknown.

The company said in a statement that AIDS patients eligible for the new treatment IND program would be those who have recovered from one or more episodes of confirmed Pneumocystis carinii pneumonia. This rare form is a so-called opportunistic infection that often occurs in AIDS patients whose protective immune systems are weakened, leaving them vulnerable to numerous diseases and infections. The pneumonia was the subject of the recently suspended trial.

AZT is to be made available to AIDS sufferers who, within the previous 120 days, had bouts with Pneumocystis carinii pneumonia. The company said it would make the drug available free of charge until AZT received FDA approval as a

THURSDAY

Margarita

Madness

99¢

Margaritas

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

hinessile

Taco

Bar

Wash It In AGGIEVILLE

SPEEDWASH

75¢ Wash

25¢ Dry

"Free Parking"

Visit our back room.

Open Sun.-Thurs.

24 Hours Daily

Fri.-Sat.

4:30 a.m.-12 midnight

1118 Moro

prescription drug, which could occur by early next year.

Experts estimate that up to 50 percent and 60 percent of the 12,000 living AIDS patients in the United States have this accompanying pneumonia, and many of these people may qualify for the trial.

AZT can cause serious side effects, such as bone marrow suppression and a resulting severe anemia from decreased production of blood cells that can require transfusions. Severe headaches also have been reported in some patients.

To be eligible for the new test, the company said, patients must have adequate liver and kidney function as well as sufficient red and white blood cell counts.

Excluded from the AZT trial are patients under age 12, pregnant women, nursing mothers and women of childbearing potential who are not abstaining from sex or using barrier contraception. Also excluded are patients receiving anticancer drugs or other experimental chemotherapy. the company said.

Patients, pharmacists and doctors seeking additional information about the AZT trial were asked to call a toll-free hotline set up at the National Institutes of Health. The number, 1-800-843-9388, operates daily between 8 a.m. and midnight (EDT).

Saturday, Oct. 4, Union 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Fee: $15 at Union Booth $20 at the door

Keynote speaker: Jack Debor

Famous entrepreneur Includes admission, workshops, lunch and refreshment breaks

ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGIATE ENTREPRENEURS

Available in the K-State Union Box Office and the Sound Shop in Aggieville. For more ticket info or

Save on Luxury Stainless

charge by phone call (913) 532-6589

Wk-state union (97 fm

COMPLIMENTARY SALE

World's Best Tennis Shoe In K-State Wildcat Style

- Purple outer sole and upper heel
- · Soft, removable cushion
- Injury-preventative heel stabilizer
- Number 1 choice soft leather
- 100% cotton inlay
- Endurable and high-performing cappausachi outer sole

ONLY $19.95

(originally $57.95)

DATE: Friday, Oct. 3; 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Saturday, Oct. 4; 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

PLACE:Ramada Inn on campus Tel. 539-7531

Limited Quantity-Hurry!! A DREAM SALE YOU HAVE LONG AWAITED

35% OFF ALL OPEN STOCK REED & BARTON Luxury Stainless

America's most beautiful 18/8 stainless . . . crafted for those for whom quality is a way of life. Each richly sculptured piece is designed by Reed & Barton Silversmiths, and is made with the same care and artistry they lavish on their famous sterling silver.

With its heavy weight, perfect balance and rich, care-free finish, Reed & Barton stainless is quite simply the finest you can own. Choose from 12 classic patterns

5th & Poyntz 776-9067

1227 Moro 539-1891

Staff/Gary Lytle

Cross debate

evangelist, who refused to give his name saying it is "unimportant." name. Wednesday in front of the Union.

Toting a large cross and preaching about his salvation, a campus receives a religious rebuttal from a student, who also refused to give her

Candidate says education funding vital

By The Collegian Staff

John Montgomery, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, stressed the importance of higher education to the Democratic campaign and to the citizens of Kansas in a press conference Wednesday in the Montgomery is current Lt. Gov. Tom Docking's running mate in the next election.

"Higher education will receive more emphasis in our budgets,"

The run consists of a two-mile fun run and a 10-kilometer run for more experienced runners. Local runners, as well as college students par-

Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity sponsors a competition involving members of other fraternities and their little sister organizations in a every fall, benefits the National

Cerebral Palsy Foundation, said

Todd Clark, Pi Kappa Alpha

1116 Moro 537-0886

(eggrall & fried rice 99¢)

HUNAM EXPRESS Free Delivery

WORLD WIDE COMMUNION

11 a.m. Sunday Danforth Chapel

Celebrating the Lord's Supper with International awareness and global community.

EVERYONE WELCOME!

BIBLE STUDY, 9:45 a.m., Sunday,

"LIBERATION THEOLOGY"

Sponsored by: Lutheran Campus Ministry 539-4451

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

"Little Sister Olympics," held

ticipate in the run, Allen said.

series of "games."

Continued from Page 7

Charity

Montgomery said. "Our universities need more of our state resources to strengthen their research programs.'

"In the crusade for the jobs of the future..." some of the winners are Massachusetts, California, North Carolina and Tennessee, Montgomery said. "These states have one thing in common - significant new investments in their institutions of higher learning.

"While these states have been investing, the Kansas Legislature has not," he said. "Our investment in research and teaching equipment, and in maintenance of our buildings have all declined.

"Central to the public interest is public education, and we are focusing on education this week," Montgomery said.

Montgomery also explained the FUTURE program proposed by Docking. This program would allow parents to invest money to pay for their children's higher education.

"Tom Docking's and my job is to sell higher education as a higher priority," he said. "A prepaid college tuition isn't the only way we will address the Kansas 'brain drain.'"

Montgomery said it will be necessary to get the public and private sectors working together toward stopping the "brain drain," and K-State is doing a better job of attracting money from the private sectors recently.

"As lieutenant governor, my principle responsibility will be to link the Kansas education community with the business community," Montgomery said.

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat!

Can't Believe It's Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

The games, which last a week, have had increased participation each of their five years. Fifteen fraternities and their little sisters will compete in the Olympics Saturday at Ahearn Field House.

Pi Beta Phi sorority has had its "Pi Phi Plunge" for the past two years, Shelly Smith, chairman of the Plunge said. The "Plunge" benefits the Arrowmont art school in Gatlinburg. Tenn., and the money raised goes toward scholarships for underprivileged who want to attend the school, Smith said.

In the spring, the Kappa Sigma fraternity holds a softball tournament to raise money for the Manhat-

Restaurant

1304 Westloop 539-8888

(10% off with KSU ID)

tan Big Brother/Big Sister Association, said fraternity member Mike Brown basketball tournament for men's and committee chairman.

Each fraternity or sorority helped stage the fund-raisers.

Classes

Continued from Page 1

and we expect that to triple our doctoral candidates by 1990.

The Regents recommend an average of two graduates each year. In the past five years, only five have graduated with a doctorate in English.

"If the Regents back up and look at 1980-85, though, we had 10 graduates," Donaghy said.

He also said in the years previous to 1980, the department graduated an average of four doctoral candidates.

"I would plead our case even if we were costing the state," Donaghy said. "They're trying to turn us back into an agricultural college, and it would be terrible if KU were the only multi-purpose college in Kansas."

The head of the Department of Philosophy, Robin Smith, agreed with Donaghy that the baccalaureate degree programs are worth keeping. "We are comparable to any of our peer institutions," Smith said. Peer institutions are other landgrant universities in states similar to Kansas that the Regents refer to when making their yearly evaluations. "I strongly resist this false assumption that enrollment figures mean something," Smith said. "If you eliminate the major you won't save any money, you'll just impoverish our department."

Each of the department heads has submitted a response to Stamey, who will in turn report to the president and provost by Friday.

President Wefald will report to the Regents on the following Friday. The board will probably hear the recommendations from the committees this month and vote on them next month, Stamey said.

Student senators to discuss University parking facilities

By The Collegian Staff

Larry Garvin, director of University planning, will discuss campus parking facilities at tonight's Student Senate meeting.

Garvin heads a committee formed last January to gather information on expenditures for University parking. The committee also investigates the possibility of additional parking, parking fee assessment, reserved and visitor parking and parking for special events.

The committee will meet with several campus groups through the year, including faculty and student senates, to present information and offer recommendations.

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

Pitchers

No Cover

Garvin will also speak on the progress of the renovation of Holton Hall and the handicapped accessibility for Anderson Hall.

The Senate will vote on a proposed bill concerning the closing of last year's student activity accounts. Some campus groups are asking to keep money allocated to them last year that they were unable to spend as intended.

Student Senate meets at 7 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

ANY and ALL MIXED DRINKS

(all brands, all drinks) 80¢ Draws $1.00 Wine ALL DAY & ALL NIGHT!

AGGIE STATION RESTAURANT & BAR 1115 MORO • 776-0030

Rocky Mountain

BONKERS

Would Like To Thank The Alpha Chi Omegas And Congratulate Them On Their Successful Fundraiser For Cystic Fibrosis!

1986 Lil' Sister Olympics

•Fluffy Rabbit Contest

•Ideal Greek Walk-through All held at Brother's

8:30-12 midnight

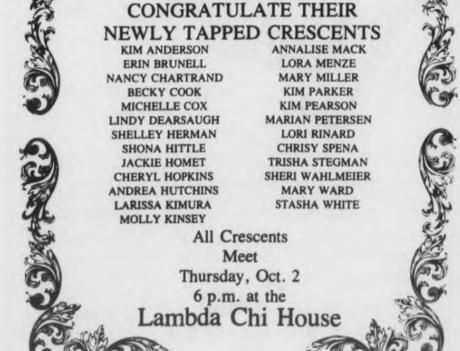

5th Annual

Don't Forget

Pizza Eating Contest

THE MEN OF LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

WOULD LIKE TO

the Alpha Delta Pi sorority's softball tournament which raised approx-McDonald Houses.

imately $900 to benefit Ronald Early next semester, Delta Delta Delta sorority will host their first women's teams benefiting Children's Cancer Research, said Allison Ross, spokesman also made it a point to thank the various businesses which

And this was the inaugural year of -- FREE SAMPLES--

CAMPUS REART OF AGGIEVILLE

MUST BE CRAZY

12:00 O'Clock Midnight Fri. & Sat. ALL SEATS $2.50

WPOSE IF

TODAY: Off Campus, Boyd Hall Oct. 3: Off Campus, Clovia, Edwards, Ford

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment call 539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

CLIP, KEEP & SAVE

ALL WEEK

Crimper's Hair Design Studio 613 N. Manhattan

Jim offers a 20% Discount with this coupon

539-7621

on any Perm, Haircolor or Highlight Offer Expires Dec. 12, 1986

The Croissant Cafe

COZY INDOOR AND OUTDOOR SEATING

SPECIALIZING in a quick delicious lunch . . . 15 varieties of fresh-baked croissants, homemade soup & salads.

Buy a Ham & Cheese croissant and get a chocolate or almond croissant FREE

Limit one/person

Expires 10/5/86

Open 7 Days A Week 1110 WESTLOOP SHOPPING CENTER • 537-4046

any item in stock (offer expires 10-9-86)

THE BOOK SHOP

Village Plaza 537-8025

9-9 Mon.-Sat. 9-8 Sun.

Effective October 1st Merry Christmas Early Lords 'n Ladys Hair Design & Skin Care

Haircuts $9—Reg. $13 Perms $35 to $40 Includes haircut and style

Call for your appointment now 776-5651

Offer expires December 25, 1986

Gals Perms

ONE FREE MOVIE RENTAL

Bring in this coupon

Special

asellos

539-3830

Buy a 16" pizza and get a 10" pizza FREE!

No Expiration Date

This offer not good in conjunction with any other offer.

Reg. Price

Save with Style

Feels So Lively $30.

Apple Pectin$38...

Warm & Gentle $45

All perms include cut and style

FREE Porosity Equalizer or Eyebrow

Wax with perm.

539-TAME or 539-8601

404 Humboldt

$5.00 Off a Lifetime Membership

(Membership is Required) Offer good Monday-Friday

RENTALS SALES

HOURS:

10-9 Monday-Saturday Closed Sundays 2030 Tuttlecreek Blvd.

AL-BASHA

537-7533

539-1533

BACK TO SCHOOL SPECIAL BUCK-A-BIND

$1 Spiral or velo binding (first 1/2") Only one coupon per visit

Great copies. Great people

1110 Laramie 537-7340

★ Correction

★ 10-12-15 pitch

* auto-centering

Students, do you need a typewriter SALE! for journals, term papers, etc.? Try the EX-30 Silver Reed electronic typewriter.

with this coupon

good through 10/10/86

Regular

with this coupon

$219.95

$3.99

ad & medium drink)

BUY GYRO SANDWICH Get Second 1/2 Price

$1.00 off purchase of $5.00 or more

1209 Laramie St.

(excluding specials)

Open Sunday through Thursday 11 a.m.-9 p.m.

RAISE YOUR EYE—CUE

See and be seen beautifully in frames that bring out your best.

10% off Rx and frames

exp. 10-31-86

Downtown Manhattan

Junction City

Friday and Saturday 11 a.m.-11 p.m THE MOST DELICIOUS TREAT IN TOWN.

GREEK & MEDITERRANEAN FOOD

Daily Lunch Special 11 to 2

50¢ off small pizza $1.00 off medium pizza $2.00 off large pizza $3.49 Buffet Daily

11 a.m.-Midnight 7 days a week

Mon.-Thur.

7:30-Midnight

Frl. 7:30-7

Sat. 9-5

Sun. 10-Midnight

Expires 10-9-86 FREE DELIVERY

1800 Claflin FirstBank Center 776-0004

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt Announces

SOFTIE COOKIEWICH

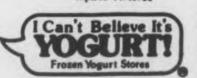

Bring this coupon in to receive 50% off any Softie Cookiewich available in a variety of frozen yogurt flavors and cookie combinations. Limit one per customer.

Celebrate Octoberfest with a Delicious New Frozen Yogurt Treat!!

Our frozen yogurt has one-fifth the fat and one-half the calories of ice cream! FREE SAMPLES every time you come in. expires 10/15/86

705 N. 11th Nautilus Towers Open: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Sunday

776-6338 Upstairs

Satin Remarque

RED BLUE GREEN BLACK WHITE

(offer good through Sat., Oct. 4, 1986)

1224 Moro Free Gift Wrap

Open 10-5:30 Monday-Friday, 10-8 Thursday 10-5 Saturday

BURGER

776-6255

238-4551

reg. $10 ($5 OFF Haircut for Freshmen only) one coupon per person

Don't Lose Your Summer Tan! TANNING SPECIAL: $2 Sessions!

Hours: M-Th 6:30 a.m.-1 a.m. F-Sat. 6:30 a.m.-2 a.m. Sun. 7:30 a.m.-Midnight

Buy A Chicken Sandwich GET A

HOPPER JR. FREE

Expires 10/9/86

410 Poyntz

707 W. 6th

Center

Continued from Page 1

offer special educational opportunities," Dole said.

University President Jon Wefald echoed the statements made by Dole. Wefald said the proposed system would be "a major development in the history of the University and a major boom to the state of Kansas."

"We are grateful for Sen. Dole's extraordinary efforts in helping make possible this very important facility, which will enhance not only the educational opportunities for the entire state of Kansas, but also its progress in areas of economic development," Wefald said.

Wainscott said the proposed educational satellite communications center has been "the No. 1 priority of the University for at least the last 18

The system, which has a price tag of $8.6 million, will not only provide communication within the University, but also to the other Kansas Board of Regent's institutions and department agencies in the state, Wainscott said.

Wainscott said the high quality television and video facilities system provide an uplink for a satellite which will then be a downlink to 110 different places in the state.

An uplink is a piece of equipment that sends a message to the satellite, and a downlink can send messages from the satellite to these 110 locations, he said.

Each county will be provided with the necessary connections that will provide the link between them and the University satellite system, Wainscott said.

"This facility will provide instruction all over the state," Wainscott

An example would be if veterinarians in Kansas were interested in new operation techniques, they could watch actual operations via a satellite communications hookup from any county in the state, Wainscott said.

Wainscott said the system will be a total University facility.

Robert Lowman, chairman of the Educational Satellite Communications Committee and associate dean in the Graduate School, said the com-responses, Fedde said. Studying the geese in a wind tunnel, he said, would produce results which better reflect

Testing the geese in high-altitude flight would be ideal. Through the use of gliders and special monitoring will show up, maybe 30 guys will Parrish is looking at "the 12th man" as giving some students the opportunity to contribute to the

Continued from Page 1

Continued from Page 1

YEEK!

Geese

real flying conditions.

Parrish

show up," he said.

LAWYERS ?.. NOT

THE LAWYERS!

CLICK

WHEN WAS HE BORN ?

HE WAS BORN IN 1732

61 Lapidary's

DOWN

2 Rill's

Eve

4 Sake

7 Finish

8 Arthur's

9 Tale teller

home

10 Author

Ferber

concern

1 Bat wood partner 3 New Year's

5 Blvd.'s kin

6 Not fatty

. >

mittee has been in the planning stages of the center for some time.

"We have been planning all along the type of facility and equipment to be used," he said.

Lowman said he thinks because of Dole's support, "we are virtually certain to receive the $4 million and possibly $2 million more."

Lowman said the Kansas Board of Regents authorized the University to ask the Legislature to appropriate an additional $1.5 million for the funding of the satellite communications center in the upcoming legislative

Because the satellite center will probably receive $4 million in federal aid, Lowman said, it is even more critical to receive state aid to finance the center so that the center can be adequately financed.

No decision has been made as to where the center will be housed. Lowman said the committee has considered remodeling existing space on campus or building a new facility.

When the federal money is appropriated, Wainscott said, "the University will move foward as quickly as they can."

devices, the geese can be tested in Monitoring the geese in their

Himalayan home, however, would be virtually impossible, Fedde said.

When migrating, the birds do not fly through the mountain passes.

Rather, at speeds of about 50 mph - flight, he said.

Experiments conducted in shuttle to be simulated by honor students

By The Collegian Staff

High-school students from Kansas and Alaska will perform some of the same experiments conducted by astronauts on the space shuttle to-

Through telecommunications, students will watch experiments videotaped while they were being conducted by the Discovery crew and Sen. Jake Garn aboard the space shuttle Discovery. The videotapes are used to help high-school honor students learn more about physics.

It is all part of "Working in Space," the topic of K-State's 11th annual high-school honors colloquium on the sciences, said Dean Zollman, professor of physics, who is in charge of the project.

In the experiments, the students will play with different toys such as a driver scope, magnetic marbles and a top. This helps to determine and learn how the motion of objects is different in space than on earth.

"Gravity's downward pull dominates the behavior of toys on earth," Zollman said. "It is hard to imagine how a familiar toy would behave in weightless conditions. This is an opportunity for gifted students and their teachers to learn more about weightlessness by comparing their experiments to the ones done in space.'

One of the speakers for the colloquium will be Carolyn Sumners of the Houston Museum of National Science. Students will be able to interact with her and Zollman by asking questions using the University's Telenet telephone conferencing system.

The Kansas high schools participating include Belleville, Meade, Pratt, Attica, Wichita Northwest, Healy, Manhattan, Salina South, Riley, Garden City and Larned.

Literary course offers British tour

By The Collegian Staff

A course intended to help students better understand British art by actually experiencing it is being offered by the Department of English.

The course, "Literary Britain," will enable students to tour Britain for two weeks. This is the second year the English department has offered this course. This year the Department of Art is also participating in the class. Diane Dollar, instructor of art, said she thought it would be a great idea to have some of her art students involved in the tour as well.

Gary Clift, instructor of the course and editor of Literary Magazine Review, said the two groups of students will be seeing different

"Strictly speaking, we (the group from the English department) will visit mainly literary sites, including Charles Dickens' home," Clift said. The art students will tour more art museums

The group's first destination will be London. There they will take a two-hour double-decker bus ride of the city. Among the other sites scheduled are the Kew Gardens, the British Museum, Stonehenge, the National Gallery, Westminster Abbey, the Tate, the Royal Shakespeare Company's Memorial Theater and

Also accompanying the class on the trip will be Cheryl Collins, archivist of the Seaton Library of the Riley County Historical Museum; Ben Nyberg, associate professor of English and editor of Kansas Quarterly; and Mary Lyndal Nyberg, former music teacher at K-State.

The group will depart from Kansas City on Dec. 26 and return on Jan. 11. Clift said the cost of the trip is $1300, which includes lodging, breakfast, admissions to the museums, 10 theater admissions, a London bus pass for one week, transportation to and from Gatwich and the guide fees.

Dollar said the course is available for any student that would like to tour Britain. Anyone interested in the course should contact Clift.

Cuts

Continued from Page 1

single or $8,000 if they have dependents

The amount any student can borrow will increase from $2,500 to $2,625 for the first two years and increase to $4,000 for the remaining years of undergraduate study. Graduate students can borrow up to $7,500 a year, Viterna said.

The most undergraduates can accumulate in loans is $17,250. The aggregate for graduate students is $54,750.

"Students need to be careful about that kind of debt. That's like buying a house," Viterna said.

pay back the loans will determine how much interest they will pay. No interest will be charged for the first six months after graduation.

MILO ... I DON'T

LIKE THE

ON YOUR FACE ...

EXPRESSION

How quickly students are able to

Bloom County

THE LAWYERS

WOULD LIKE

TO DISCUSS

THE CARTOON

Jarfield

BZZZZ

YOU SUBMITTED

FOR TOMORROW

"If one of those guys goes down and up to 100 mph with a tail wind the geese clear the summit of Mt. Everest with ease, he said.

and causes a fumble and somebody recovers it, he'll be a hero for the rest of his life," he said. "They can all have a chance to live out their fan-In previous head-coaching jobs at Wabash (Ind.) College and Marshall (W. Va) University, Parrish hasn't tried the "12th man" idea. "I'm like Uncle Sam," Parrish said with a smile. "I need a few good men."

By Berke Breathed

LEGAL DEPT-

ABANDON

ALL HOPE

YE WHO

By Jim Davis

NEVER

MIND

By Charles Schulz

PLAYING WITH MY

ECTRIC RAZOR,

assifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

religion, national origin, sex or ancestry. ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-

BUYING OR selling a car, truck, motorcycle, RV. boat, trailer? See Wheel 'n' Deal, Blue Hills Shopping Center, Saturdays 8 a.m. Parking spot, win dow sticker, area advertising, $10. Manhattan Emergency Shelter, 537-3113. (27-28)

NEW OIL controlling skin conditioner especially for oily skin. Mary Kay Cosmetics, Janet Milliken, 539-9469. (27-36)

Duran's

Bring this ad in and receive $2 off the dinner buffet!

Evening Buffet $5.95 Sunday Brunch $5.95

· Enchiladas · Chips and Dip · Fajitas • and much more!!!

(Denison & Claflin) Upstairs 11:30 a.m.-9:30 p.m.

Daily

By Eugene Sheffer

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color

capped accessible. (1-52)

All-You-Can-Eat Mexican Buffet! Mon.-Fri.

Luncheon Buffet $3.98

Chimichangas • Tacos • Taco Salad

FirstBank Center

rossword

eanuts

THIS IS MY REPORT ON

THE LIFE AND TIMES

OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

ACROSS 41 "- O'Clock 60 Studies 1 Teutonic 42 Mauna oath 4 Cotton 44 J.R.'s home Jump"

critter

easy

46 Enchant 8 Staff sign 50 Game cube 12 - Canals 51 "The Red" 13 Flat 52 Spiny 14 Assistant 15 Barrel 56 Italian wine size 17 Lion's region 57 Famed pride? 18 Woody's canal 58 "...man frequent mouse?" co-star 19 25 or XIV 59 Take it compartments 24 Chum 25 Attila follower 26 Cunning one

21 Stable

28 Cries in pain 32 Down with French 34 Moist 36 Friend's pronoun 37 Ed Koch bestseller 39 Society newcomer

Yesterday's answer

11 Detect

16 Part of

RSVP

20 Is permitted to 21 Bogus

22 Band in

23 Plant

27 Struck

out

30 Singer

Horne

31 Envisions

35 Newsman

Koppel

40 Police IDs

33 Ask for

38 Balder-

43 Was dash!

tender

48 Humorists

49 "Present!"

53 Hubbub

54 Refinery

need

55 The Late

Rita

Show's

45 Recline

46 Stand

47 Gaelic

29 Go -

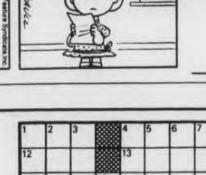

strument

(do completely)

10-2

HOGWIBCFKC IGOHW, AGL-BKX BK CEH WBKX, EFL CG

CRYPTOQUIP

EBL CBXECHK Yesterday's Cryptoquip: OUR AUNT, A SPENDT-HRIFT, PREFERRED TO TURN HER GREEDY HEIRS GRAY.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: B equals I

tober hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.. Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

PUMPKIN PATCH, CiCo Park, Arts and Crafts Fair, 126 exhibitors, October 3rd and 4th. (28-29)

ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49) MAXIMIZING PERFORMANCE Seminar via Travell Mexico. Time Management. Self. Values. Profes sional Climate. 2 UG. 537-4155. (25-29)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin Every 25th customer will get a free meal! 537-3335

PICK UP your entry form in the Union today for the

FOR RENT-MISC 03 RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

FOR RENT-APTS TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment, 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-

ONE AND one-half blocks east of campus: Basement apartment; partially furnished, one bedroom Murphy bed in living room, two complete baths, $195/month including heat and water. No childre no pets, no smoking. Available November 1st. Call 537-9400 after 6 p.m. (25-29)

ONE BEDROOM studio apartment one block east of campus. Available now. No pets. $190. Call 776-3624. (27-31)

05

FOR RENT-HOUSES

CONTRACT DIDN'T go through and we're anxious to sell or rent. Assume our VA loan: Three bedroom earth contact on five acres, pole barn, beautiful setting near Wamego. Call 816/781-0461 for de-

FOR SALE-AUTO

1973 MUSTANG-One owner, good condition, must see to appreciate. Make an offer. Call 539-0905. (24-

1973 IMPALA-350 V-8-Power steering, power brakes, air conditioning, AM-FM cassette, body solid, runs great, good tires. $900 or best offer. Call 532-5492. (26-29) 1979 MERCURY Cougar-As is, $800. Call 539-8043.

1977 MG Midget, $1,600. Call 539-8043. (26-29)

1975 WHITE Malibu-6 cylinder, 67,000 miles, air conditioning, power steering, brakes, runs great. Offer. Call 532-6939 or 539-9367. (28-32) 1984 BRONCO II-Blue/silver, power steering, air conditioning, centerlines, tinted glass, sharp. Call 539-1824 afternoons. (28-32)

FOR SALE-MISC SR 600 CANNONDALE 53 cm - Almost new, helmet and pump included, $650. Call 776-8716, please

keep trying! (25-29) The Ritz Denison & Claflin 79¢

1/4 lb. Hamburger Exp. Date 10/5 (with coupon) 537-3335 STUNT KITES: Multiple precision kite flying, power

dives, spirals, loops, figure-eights, contour flying! Call Thomas, 532-2100. (25-29) KSU VS. KU ticket for sale. Call 776-3833 after 3 p.m. AMDEK 310A graphics monitor, $70. Call Sara, 532-5712; after 5 p.m., 539-7616. (27-29)

OVATION ULTRA accoustic guitar, excellent condition, hard case, only $175. Call 537-1216, leave message. (27-29) MANNESMAN TALLY parallel/serial industrial strength printer. Must sell. Also, Hayes smartcom 300 modem. 539-9598. (28-29)

Hoyes House of Music Fender Standard Strat Guitars $519 with hardshell

 Crate 212 Celestion Amps $465 Rogers 5 pc. drum sets case.

$675. All P.A. speakers 20% off. 776-7983 327 Poyntz

FOR SALE: Four foot female boa constrictor. Very tame and good eater. Call 539-7505 after 6 p.m. or before noon. (28-29)

A WHITE male kitten in the Durland parking lot. Approximately 10 weeks old, wearing a white flea col-lar with the name Micky on it. Call 532-5452 for information (27-29) HELP WANTED

FOUND

WANTED: RESPONSIBLE adult to supervise nursery. Sundays 8:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Call 1-456-7495. (18-29) RESPIRATORY THERAPY-Part-time position, 16-20 hours per week, variable shifts. Certification or registry required. Duties involve treatments, cardiopulmonary lab, EEG and EKG. The St. Mary Hospital, 776-1981. EOE. (24-29) 3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (26-64)

OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year around. Europe. South America, Australia, Asia. All Tields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free informati P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA

92625. (27-46) CHOIR DIRECTOR, Zion Church of Christ, Junction

City. Call 1-238-7770 or 537-2287. (28-30) WORK-STUDY student afternoons for receptionist duties and typing. Apply by October 10 at UFM, 1221 Thurston. 532-5866. (28-32)

LOCAL STUDENTS wanted to help sale of famous American university shoes, $5/hour. Date: October 3 and October 4: Call 1-(913)-492-3595, or (913) 341-0815 and leave name and phone. (28)

PART TIME delivery person, hourly wage plus mile age. Must have pick-up with topper. Hawley Printing Service, 610 North Third, 776-6731. (28-30)

PERSONAL 16

TO MY Sidewalk Friends—Thank you so much for the help. Only sixteen stitches. The girl hit by the AX's MARY and Michelle: We'd go a million miles for one of your smiles—but only if you'll pay for gas!

Your V-Ball Buds. (28) THE WOMEN of Chi Omega: The Harvard Club has been reserved. (28) GAMMA PHI party warriors - So tomorrow is off and today is on, we'll still drink till all the import beer is gone. Suds will fly and tunes will roar, 'cause we're men of Alpha Gamma Rho. (28)

DELTS-SORRY about your name being misspelled in the Alpha Chi ads-Collegian Advertising. (28) SAE-BEAK and T.T.: It's your turn to drive the getaway car! Be at Kite's, 1:30 a.m. Saturday, for the mission of our choice. —J.T's other "buddles." P.S.

Don't worry, no Top Gun music! (28) SHELI-ON your 19th year, never fear, cause we are here, to drink some beer. Dawn, Missy, Beth, Deb-bie. (28)

FROM EGYPT with love. Have a great weekend, Mouuuuuuna. (28) JEFF K .- It comes once a year, with baseball and beer. Be ready for the OI' Grand Slam. Love, S. (28) AD Pi Lori S .- Another year has rolled around, lot biggie you see, so hoist one for you and three for S, ROOMMATE WANTED 17 FEMALE TO complete a three bedroom basement apartment near Aggieville. Reasonable. Call 539-more pizza and a few more pounds. But No. 21 is a 2017 after 5 p.m. (21-30) FEMALE TO share two-bedroom apartment 1414 Fairchild, #4 with Christian female, $100 plus one half utilities per month. Call 776-0625 or 539-3571.

MALE, OWN room, furnished, $100/month, utilities paid. Call 537-8513, ask for Jason. (26-29) THREE VERY nice fellows need one more in a beautiful four bedroom house at 1118 Vattier. Reason able, 539-9345, (26-29)

MALE, NON-SMOKING roommate to share a beautiful two bedroom, furnished apartment. (Sandstone Apartments), Call 537-9439. (27-31)

MALE, $95/month plus utilities, one block east of Haymaker. Call 539-5196. (28-32) FEMALE-SHARE two bedroom completely furnished. 776-4794; 537-0751 after 7 p.m. (28-32)

18 SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

cally tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word processor, 1011

Juliette. 537-3314. Specializing in theses, disserta-

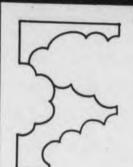

MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free. Clini-

21 BASS GUITAR player, also keyboardist/guitarist/ vocalist for local band. Blend of original and nonoriginal rock/dance music. Call evenings, Michael or David, 537-1770. (26-29)

tions, manuscripts, term papers. (28-30)

WANTED TO BUY

FOUR TICKETS to KSU-KU football game. Call collect, (316) 529-0169. (26-28)

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 60 percent chance of rain or thunderstorms, high around 70. Wind east to northeast 5 to 15 mph. Cloudy Tonight with a 70 percent chance of rain, low around 60.

Inside

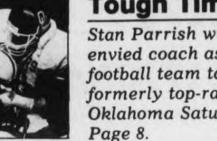

Foreign Exchange

Three German and two Italian exchange students are experiencing the differences between European and American universities. See Page 3.

Sports

Topeks KS

Stan Parrish will not be an envied coach as the K-State football team takes on the formerly top-ranked Oklahoma Saturday. See

Kansas

Friday October 3, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 29

Despite administration pleas, Senate votes to override veto

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Senate voted 78-21 Thursday to override President Reagan's veto of tough new sanctions against South Africa, joining the House in enacting measures designed to force Pretoria's white-minority government to abandon apartheid.

In dealing Reagan one of the most dramatic foreign policy setbacks of his presidency, and the first substantive override of a Reagan veto, the Senate rebuffed administration pleas that the punitive economic sanctions would prove most harmful to South Africa's blacks. Five previous Reagan vetos, on lesser issues, had been reversed.

Despite fierce lobbying by Reagan and other White House officials, and members of the Senate supportive of the administration's policy, the final vote showed the president falling 13 votes short of the 34 needed to sustain

Forty-seven Democrats and 31 Republicans voted to override Reagan, while 21 GOP lawmakers voted to back Reagan. Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, who recently donated one of his kidneys to a daughter, was

In a statement issued from the White House, Reagan said that despite his objections to the measure, "Our administration will, nevertheless implement the law. It must be recognized, however, that this will not solve the serious problems that plague that country.'

Vice President George Bush, presiding over the Senate, announced that the Senate's sanctions measure had passed, "the objections of the president of the United States notwithstanding.'

The House had voted 313-83 Monday to override Reagan's veto.

While the newly enacted sanctions stop short of ordering outright American disinvestment, and do not call for a complete trade embargo, they do take several significant steps intended to bring pressure to bear to convince the Pretoria government to dismantle its apartheid system of racial separation.

As a first step, the legislation bans new investment and new bank loans. It also bars the importation into the United States of South African steel, iron, coal, uranium,

See S. AFRICA, Page 9

Wefald selects search committee to fill provost position vacancy

By BETH HANNAM Collegian Reporter

University President Jon Wefald has appointed a search committee to find a replacement for Provost Owen Koeppe who will leave his position June 30.

The 13-member committee will be responsible for conducting a national search for prospective candidates and submitting three to five names of final candidates to Wefald by early April. The chairwoman for the committee is Cornelia Flora, professor of sociology.

The first priority of the committee will be to go over the position description and make any additions, deletions or changes, Wefald

When the committee is "comfortable" with the position description, it will make the description available to national magazines such as the Chronicle of Higher Education, to let people know the position is available and applications are being accepted, he said. The committee may also make calls to people urging them to app-

"That way they are sure to get a variety of applicants," Wefald

The committee will then look through the applications to determine who will be invited to inter-

Interviews for the position will be sometime during February or March, Wefald said. At that time he will meet the applicants.

The committee will then recommend three to five names to Wefald.

Koeppe, provost since 1980, announced in August that he will be returning to teaching. "He has really done an outstanding job here," Wefald said. "He will remain on board until the new provost takes over on July 1. Other search committee members include John Keller, professor of regional and community planning; Neil Anderson, professor of surgery and medicine; See PROVOST, Page 10

John Cassida, sophomore in pre-law, uses cardboard sunglasses to protect the dashboard of his Camaro, despite the cloudy weather and recent rainfall. Cassida purchased the glasses to increase the longevity of his car's interior.

Auto shades block out sun's rays

By LORI STEVENS Collegian Reporter

Shades can be really cool, especially if it's your car that's wearing them. The latest craze, car shades, ard being seen more frequently.

Car shades are a decorated piece of cardboard which fits inside a car's windshield to block out the sun. The shades unfold like an accordian and are secured by folding down the car sun visors.

One of the most popular designs is that with a pair of sunglasses on the front. Shannon Teufel, sophomore in elementary education, has pink and green car shades. On each lens of the sunglasses there is a cat with shades on. She said a lot of people will look at her car shades and try to figure out what the picture is supposed to be.

Teufel purchased her shades about a month ago in Wichita. She was having trouble starting her car in the hot weather when she heard about the car shades. After bringing her car and the shades together, she said her car is a lot cooler and always starts now.

Another owner of car shades is Shelley Konnesky, senior in accounting. When Konnesky was lifeguarding this summer in Dodge City, she saw that a member of the country club had some car shades. Konnesky wanted some for her new car. She found out the car owner's daughter had purchased 500 car shades in California at 75 cents apiece and was selling them in Dodge City for $5.

See SHADES, Page 10

Officials disclose tricking of Libya The Washington Post reported in Thurs-

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Administration officials acknowledge the White House plotted to deceive Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi into thinking he faced a new round of U.S. bombing and a possible coup, but President Reagan insisted Thursday there was " not any plan of ours" to mislead the American people and the press.

The aim of the secret plan was to convince Gadhafi that an American raid - such as the April 15 attack by U.S. bombers against Tripoli and Benghazi - was being planned against him, said administration sources who spoke on condition they not be identified.

Meanwhile, the Senate Intelligence Committee has decided to look into the administration's conduct in the matter, according to Morton Halperin, director of the Washington office of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Halperin said his group asked both the House and Senate intelligence committees to mount such an investigation and to draft legislation banning disinformation campaigns in this country and banning the use of journalists by the CIA.

day's editions that an elaborate White House campaign included " a disinformation program with the basic goal of making Gadhafi think that there is a high degree of internal opposition against him within Libya, that his key trusted aides are disloyal, that the U.S. is about to move against him militarily. The plan was described in a three-page memorandum sent to Reagan by John M.

Poindexter, the president's national security adviser, and was adopted at a White House meeting Aug. 14, the Post said. The newspaper said the plan, as described in the memo, involved " a series of closely coordinated events involving covert, diplomatic, military and public actions.

Reagan, in an interview with columnists, said. "I challenge the veracity of that entire story that I read this morning with great shock." While acknowledging the existence of some memos, he said there was nothing about a deliberate attempt to mislead the U.S. press and people.

"Those (allegations) I challenge," Reagan said in the interview, a partial transcript of

See LIBYA, Page 10

Amendment would aid ag, business economy

By JULIE REYNOLDS Collegian Reporter

Gov. John Carlin and officers of three major Kansas farm organizations jointly endorsed the proposed constitutional amendment on the classification of property Thursday at the Manhattan Holidome. Doyle Rahjes, Kansas Farm Bureau president; Jack Frick, Kansas Livestock Association president; and Ivan Wyatt, Kansas Farmers Union president joined Carlin for the press conference.

The property classification amendment divides real and personal property into class and sub-classes for assessment at new percentages fixed by the state constitution. "I come down strongly on behalf of classification, for it will avoid the massive shifts that will come as a result of reappraisal," Carlin said.

"It protects homeowners and farmland and implements use-value for farmland, but also it is fair to business," Carlin said.

Elimination of inventory tax and straight line depreciation on machinery are benefits businesses can look forward to, Carlin said. For agriculture, the amendment will exempt farm machinery and livestock from property

"The classification amendment will keep the burden of taxation pretty much the same as it is currently," Rahjes said.

Reapprasial is currently being undertaken in Kansas, with the new values to become effective Jan. 1, 1989. The classification issue will be decided separately in the Nov. 4 general election.

Rahjes said if classification fails, a tremendous shift in taxation will occur

See PROPERTY, Page 10

Professor's accent diminishes understanding, students find

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

Even though some students have problems understanding Sadhiro Saeki, many find he is one of the best professors in the Department of Mathematics, said Louis Pigno, head of the department. Because some students had difficulties with Saeki's differential equations lecture, the mathematics department has added another differential equations lecture class. Problems began during the first week of the semester when an engineering student in Saeki's differential equations lecture class, who had previously taken a class taught by Saeki, talked to Donald Rathbone, dean of the College of Engineering, about problems she was having understanding the lectures because of Saeki's accent.

Saeki was teaching the only differential equations lecture offered this semester, and the student told Rathbone that she would prefer a different lecture teacher.

Two other engineering students also approached Rathbone and asked for a different professor to teach the lecture class.

contacted the Rathbone mathematics department which started another differential equathe students' requests.

"I've talked with the math department, and I think the problem has been resolved," Rathbone said. The students who talked to Rathbone said the problem is not Saeki's English usage but his accent and pronunciation.

"I couldn't understand his English because of his accent," one student

"Saeki speaks very correct English," another student said. "The problem is strictly with his accent." "I think it's ridiculous because this class is required for a lot of engineering students, and we're having a pro-tions lecture class to accommodate blem understanding the lecture teacher," the student said.

"It's a non-negligible fact that my broken English causes some problems," said Saeki who is from Japan. "In the past I have been able to compensate for this.

Pigno said it is not unusual for some students to have problems with teachers whose native language is not English, but after three weeks the students usually become adjusted to the teacher.

"I still believe that Saeki is one of the best teachers in the department," Pigno said. "We are very lucky to have someone with an international reputation like Saeki and fortunate that such a person desires to teach in the undergraduate program.

Saeki, who has been a faculty member since 1981, has his spoken

English assessed every year by mathematics department personnel. The Board of Regents policy states current faculty members like Saeki do not have to take the Test of Spoken English unless department personnel question the individual's ability to communicate clearly. Pigno said he does not think there is a problem with Saeki's teaching and communication ability. He said some of the problem might be with the students.

"The students can't be passive," he said. "They must have the desire to understand. Saeki's area of research is as a harmonic analyst, and Pigno compares him to L.T. Fan, professor in electrical engineering. Both are internationally respected in their fields, he said.

William Stamey, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, said people have difficulty anytime they encounter someone who has a different accent and pronunciation from their

Stamey said he has no problem

See SAEKI, Page 6

By The Associated Press

NATIONAL

Officials warn of medication abuse

WASHINGTON - Federal health officials are worried that America's "other drug problem" - the taking of prescribed medications incorrectly or not at all - may be causing tens of thousands of deaths each year

Dr. Robert E. Windom, the Reagan administration's top health official, said Thursday up to half of the 1.6 billion medicines prescribed to Americans each year are taken improperly.

He said one study indicated that 125,000 people die each year from failure to take their medicines for cardiovascular disease.

The toll in mental disorientation, in physical effects and even in terms of life and death may be just as great when a 70-year-old woman takes her blood pressure medicine improperly as when her grandson smokes marijuana or takes a street drug," said Dr. Frank E. Young, the commissioner of food and drugs.

FBI to investigate source of leaks

WASHINGTON - The FBI, concerned that the sources of news leaks receive thorough investigations, has assigned some of its more experienced agents to a special unit that is probing unauthorized disclosures to reporters.

The new four-man unit was started earlier this year in the FBI's Washington field office "to enhance professionalism, to ensure that several superb agents were assigned" to investigations of leaks. former FBI special agent Dana Caro, who set up the team, said Thursday in an interview.

The team currently is investigating "17 or 18" cases, said Stephen Raimey, a spokesman for the Washington field office.

Caro said he created the unit because leak investigations previously have been conducted individually under several supervisors.

Taxes may aid toxic waste cleanup

WASHINGTON - Congressional negotiators, trying to revive and strengthen the nation's stalled battle against toxic waste, agreed Thursday on a "Superfund" tax package.

Fully aware of veto warnings from Treasury Secretary James Baker, the House and Senate conferees settled on a five-year plan that would raise $8.5 billion for toxic cleanups and $500 million for a new program to combat the growing threat to groundwater from leaking underground fuel storage tanks. The agreement, which supporters expect will win easy approval in both chambers, came a year and a day after Congress missed the deadline to renew taxing authority for the government's most ambitious anti-pollution program.

Left without its revenue base, Superfund activities have been decreasing for a year, with the program kept alive at minimal levels by two emergency cash transfusions from Congress earlier this year.

The tax package is intended to pay for a five-fold increase for Superfund, which was budgeted at $1.6 billion its first five years and managed to complete work at only about two dozen abandoned chemical dumps.

Glickman criticizes ethanol policy

WASHINGTON - Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., criticized the Agriculture Department on Thursday for "trying to decimate" the domestic ethanol industry instead of promoting its expansion as a way to help farmers.

Glickman, in remarks to the National Conference on Fuel Ethanol and Gasoline Additives, assailed a USDA report released last month which concluded that subsidizing ethanol production was a very inefficient way of increasing farm income.

Ethanol, a high-grade alcohol from corn, is used for gasohol by blending it with gasoline. Last year, about 238 million bushels of corn, or 2.7 percent of the record 1985 crop, were used to make 595 million gallons of ethanol. 'This report condemns the ethanol industry," said Glickman. "This report from the Department of Agriculture, the department that is supposed to be involved in helping producers of food and fiber in this country ... basically tries to decimate the ethanol industry in

In the report, the USDA's energy office said it would be more economical to give farmers more direct subsidies than to try to help them by significantly raising the production of ethanol.

INTERNATIONAL

review

NEW DELHI, India - A man in an army uniform fired a homemade pistol Thursday at Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi and President Zail Singh, missing them but slightly wounding six other people. Authorities said the captured assailant did not belong to a terror group

The shooting triggered an investigation into protection given the prime minister, who has been threatened repeatedly by Sikh separatists. Police said the gunman was not a Sikh.

The government said several police assigned to protect Gandhi were suspended after the attack, which occurred as Gandhi, 42, and the president left a prayer service commemorating the 117th anniversary of the birth of Mohandas Gandhi, who led India's struggle for independence from Britain.

Hostage families appeal with tape

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Lebanon's state television station on Thursday broadcast a videotaped appeal for the release of American hostages made by their families and former U.S. captives.

Part of the tape, made in Washington, was carried on an evening news program seen in Moslem west Beirut in the hope that the kidnappers would view it. The Americans are believed held by Shiite

Ten relatives and former hostages participated in the appeal. Among them was the Rev. Lawrence Martin Jenco, who was freed June 26 after being held 19 months by Islamic Jihad, a pro-Iranian Shiite fundamentalist group.

Gunman fires at Punjab policeman

NEW DELHI, India - An attempt was made on the life of a top police official in Punjab state Friday, one day after a would-be assassin fired at Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi in New Delhi but missed, the Unied News of India reported.

The agency said Punjab Police Chief Julius F. Ribeiro escaped a hail of bullets but that two of his bodyguards were killed in an attack near the city of Jallundar. A reporter in the state capital of Chandigarh quoted officials as saying Ribeiro was unhurt.

No independent confirmation of the UNI report was available, and it was not immediately clear how many gunmen were reportedly in-

Mudslide traps Brazilian miners

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil - A mudslide trapped at least 50 miners at Brazil's largest gold mine, and police said Thursday all were

A federal police agent told The Associated Press by telephone from the Amazon jungle city of Maraba that the mudslide occurred this morning at the nearby Serra Pelada mine.

The officer, who gave only his last name, Vidal, said he did not know how many workers were at the mine at the time of the mudslide. Radio reports in Rio de Janeiro said it had been raining heavily in the region.

Serra Pelada, 1,900 miles north of Rio, is Brazil's largest gold mine. Unlike other gold mines where miners work in deep underground shafts, the miners at Serra Pelada mine the ore from huge piles of earth and mud

1800 Ann 1800 200

Farm prices register slight decline

TOPEKA, - State farm prices again declined slightly between mid-August and mid-September, the Kansas Agricultural Statistics service said Thursday

The index of prices Kansas farmers received for their products dipped three points between the two months, declining to 133 percent of the 1977 base year. Only hay and dairy products showed improvements.

The price of wheat dropped another three cents, to $2.11 a bushel on statewide average. That is 66 cents less than farmers were selling their wheat for in September 1985, and the lowest price since 1977. The previous time the price of wheat got that low was in 1954.

Campus Bulletin

CHILD CARE COOPERATIVE is now enrolling infant through school-age children. For more information, call Director Nancy Bolsen at

SENIORS AND GRADUATES IN ALL MA-JORS: Rhodes and Marshall Scholarship applica-tion packets are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in

VOTER REGISTRATION is available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Oct. 14 in the SGS Office and is sponsored by Associated Students of Kansas.

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES BOARD 1986-87

AGRICULTURE YEARBOOK STAFF needs photographers, advertisers, writers and artists. Pick up and turn in applications today in Waters

K-STATE AMBASSADOR APPLICATIONS are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Anderson 122. Applications are due Oct. !

PICNIC that was to be Sept. 28 was postponed. The tickets will be valid when the picnic is UNIVERSITY FOR MAN needs teachers for elementary age students in afternoons. For more information, contact the main desk at UFM. contact the main desk at UFM 532-5560 by Oct. 15. HONORARY PARENTS APPLICATIONS for Parents' Day '86 are available in the Union Activities Center. Applications and essays are due in the UAC by 5 p.m. today.

THE ENGINEERING STUDENT COUNCIL

ALPHA PHI OMEGA will be painting the bulletin boards on campus and will remove all bulletins, this weekend. Repost your bulletins no earlier than Sunday.

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL applications

FLAVORED POPCORM FRESHLY MADE IN OUR STORE-A VARIETY OF TIMS TO CHOOSE FROM. THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

SALE!

15% off Crystal Earrings Many styles • $4.20 & up Tues.-Fri. 12-5:30

Sat. 10-4 1128 Laramie • 539-4610 TODAY

BAKERY SCIENCE CLUB meets at 5 p.m. in

Shellenberger 110 BAPTIST CAMPUS CENTER meets at 7 p.m.

at 1801 Anderson Ave. PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 6 p.m. in

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER FRIDAY

FOCUS ON WOMEN meets at noon in Union 213. The topic will be "Comparable Worth."

SCUBA CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 212.

SATURDAY

K-LAIRES will have a hog roast and hayrack ride from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. Meet at the Union at 4 p.m. for carpool.

WOMEN'S SOCCER CLUB meet at 1 p.m. at the Memorial Stadium for Rockhurst College game. In case of rain, meet at field east of foot-

PARACHUTE CLUB meets at Wamego Airport

SUNDAY

ALPHA GAMMA RHO LITTLE SISTERS meet at 7 p.m. at the AGR house. Roller skating with big brothers is planned

ARAB STUDENT ASSOCIATION meets at 7

MENNONITE STUDENT GROUP meets at 6:30 p.m. For directions, call the Montos at

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 202.

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's

YOGURT! Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Oktoberfest

JOIN US IN AGGIEVILLE!

Sat. Oct. 4

Open Air Market Fair

Over 100 booths from funnel cakes to bratwurst, crafts galore and oom-pah-pah from 10:00 to 5:00

Timberfest

by Charly Pottorff 1:30 with 7 events

United Way Police Run-Finish

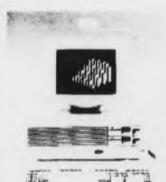

4:30 Triangle Park

UMD

Emergency vehicle/services 5:00 KSU Marching Band Mayor Mann

NCR

COMPUTER DISCOUNTS ™ 50%

on all microcomputer equipment and related accessories sold ONLY

- State College & University Students
- Faculty
- State Employees

complete systems as low as $1299

This special purchase program is being exclusively administered by Foresight Solutions, Inc. of Lawrence. Please call for a FREE PRODUCT BROCHURE.

(913) 842-7526

804 New Hampshire Lawrence, KS 66044

FREE!

a free potnos, dracaena, or other $3.99 value plant, when you purchase one of our huge healthy floor plants. (Floor plants priced from $1699)

6 inch potted tabletop plant

Features Include: Auto We'll give you Control CROWN CR 500 Digital Auto Reverse

west of Manhattan on K-18 by Holidome!!!

Best Western Continental Inn Tuttle Creek Blvd. 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Today through Monday

UNISEF

in dash cassette

CR-20 AM-FM Cassette

$19.99

Police Radar Detector As low as $78.00

6 X 9" 150 watt 3-way

$18.00 pair

120 watt amp.

FREE

Buy TENNA's Model 4046 Get a Pyramid

Reverse Automatic Program Search Metal Tape Equalization Loudness Control Separate Bass & Treble Balance & Fader

$88

200 Watt 3-way

$29.99

008

Auto Speaker Memory Scan and Clock

C 6566666 Pyramid

$9.99

200 Watt Seven Band 7 Bands 250 Watts $39.99 2 year warranty

$79.99 *Electronic Tuning & Clock

-tenna Phase III Model 890-Digital Chassis Fits all Cars

Pyramid

7 Band Echo Equalizer/

Amplifier

200 Watts! Echo

Night Illumination

$59.99

Pyramid

$129.99

★ Seek & Scan—10 Station Presets 2 year warranty ★24 Watts/Bass & Treble Controls ★Night Illumination *Auto Reverse Pyramid

Jensen Triaxials JTX300

150 watts each

Equalizer Amplifier

Model 705

$79.00

BUY ALL 3 SAVE $50 $239

Student Senate continues parking study

By The Collegian Staff

The ever-present problem of campus parking was discussed at Student Senate Thursday night.

Larry Garvin, director of University planning and University architect, addressed the Senate about increasing the number of parking spaces on campus. He also presented an update on the construction of handicapped accessibility in Anderson Hall and the renovation scheduled for Holton

"We've defined the problem, but we have not come to a solution," Garvin said about campus parking. He said University planning will conduct a series of public hearings to discuss campus parking, but the dates for the hearings have not been

One problem Garvin cited was the number of parking spaces compared to the number of permits issued. Currently, 6,000 spaces are available, but about 10,000 permits have been

"A permit gives you a license to hunt for a space, but doesn't necessarily provide you with one," Garvin said.

Several solutions have been proposed. These include eliminating separate faculty and student parking lots or creating zoned parking by charging more for permits for closer

Also proposed is a shuttle service from the football stadium parking lot to campus, but Garvin said unless the shuttle could make the trip from the stadium in a relatively short time, it would probably not be used.

Garvin also reported on the progress of the handicapped accessibility project for Anderson Hall. A ramp leading to the basement is scheduled for completion by Oct. 30. An elevator will be installed by April.

Holton Hall is now being renovated at a phase-one cost of $513,000. By 1991, an additional $267,000 will have been collected for the second phase,

Bank receives approval for conversion

By LAURA HACKLEY Collegian Reporter

The First National Bank of Manhattan announced Tuesday that its application for a conversion to a Federal Savings Bank from being a member of the Federal Reserve system has been approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

This is the end of a two year process, said Charles Hostetler, chairman of the board.

We are quite pleased that it is not only over, but that we have been successful in our application," Hostetler noted that bank will now be referred to as FirstBank. By becoming a Federal Savings Bank it may branch into other Kansas communities and increase its loan limit to the individual customer.

Bank president, Phil Brokenicky,

"Our official name will be First Savings Bank, but we will continue to advertise as FirstBank.' Brokenicky said. "We feel our new format will allow us to become even more competitive in both our interest rates paid to depositors and in our lending rates to borrowers."

Other than these interest rate changes, customers should not see any change because of the conversion as far as their checking accounts or other accounts with FirstBank.

Along with the announcement of the conversion was an indication that FirstBank will immediately make application for a branch in Junction City. Bank officials say they are looking at a location in downtown Junction City which is currently being remodeled. They hope to be open by early 1987.

"We are quite impressed with both the business climate and the aggressiveness in Junction City and we are looking forward to becoming a major financial player in the Junction City and Geary County market,"

The bank is waiting until approval comes through for a branch bank from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board before making any definite plans for the expansion. The approval should be back within 45 to 60

There is much anticipation for the branch bank to be in operation, said FirstBank employees. Susan Ownbey, commercial loan clerk, said she's looking forward to the opportunities and experience soon to be

"We are the only bank in Kansas to convert to a Federal Savings Bank and only 10 banks in the U.S. have had such a change," Ownbey said.

Foreign students encounter strict rules

By LISA SHEIKH Collegian Reporter

A structured campus, friendly working relations between students and faculty and strict alcohol laws are among the many surprises exchange students from German and Italian universities have encountered at K-State this fall.

The students, three from Germany and two from Italy, are participants in the International Student Exchange Program, coming here to study for a semester or two while five K-State students go abroad.

For Italian exchange student Analissa Sinagra, junior in business administration, the campus itself represents a big change. Sinagra did not expect to find such facilities as swimming pools at the University.

"We have a completely different system," she said. "We don't have any real campus. We have only buildings. In Italy, you go to the University only to attend your Gerd-Michael Zimmer, graduate student in nutrition and exchange student from Germany, expressed similar surprise. He said German universities are spread out over the

"My impression of campus life here is that it is more like a little city itself," he said.

"I like this campus very much. You have many opportunities, like playing sports and meeting other

IN AGGIEVILLE USA

TGIF

Party with a

FREE BBQ

Join us.

The

Pi Kappa Alphas

and

All Little Sisters

people," he said. "I also like the atmosphere here. It is quite relaxed."

In the area of academics, all five students said the relations were friendly between students and facul-

"A very good thing here is that the professor usually has a good, relaxed relationship with the students,' Singara said. "In Italy, the professor is not one among the students. He tries instead to maintain distance from the students."

Ursula Hespeling, junior in food science and an exchange student from Germany, agreed with Singara, and said more respect is given to the students here. For Hespeling, the advisory system is another advantage to which she is unaccustomed.

Giacoma Testa, a junior in agricultural economics and an Italian exchange student, also finds advantages at K-State. He said most of the universities in Italy are overcrowded and many of the students never go to classes. There is, in general, much less organization, he

Other facilities, such as job search and U-LearN, are non-existent, Testa said, and students, therefore, have to do things on their own.

Also foreign to the exchange students is the manner in which professors moderate the classwork of their students.

"In Germany, we have only final exams. You have two chances to pass each exam. If you fail, you are

> Brewsky's in the out," said Dieter Muller, senior in business management and German exchange student.

Therefore, Zimmer said, to study in Germany means to rely on oneself, to study on one's own. Professors do not make assignments or require lab

"I think here at American universities, you work more regularly. In Germany there is more freedom," he

On the topic of freedom, the students expressed surprise in more than simply academic areas. Zimmer said in Germany they do not have such strict rules concerning alcohol or parties. Hespeling also said in Germany one can drink beer and wine at age 16 and hard liquor at

"Here you have to be 21 to go into a bar. I think that is really conservative," she said.

For Muller, the effect of all these have the opportunity to study.

rules and regulations is that, "Sometimes I feel like I am 17 again."

Yet another difference exists, the students said, in the University's apparent lack of political information.

"In German universities," Zimmer said, "we have many religious and political groups. Here you don't see so many groups with differing

"I think the political information is not very good here," she said. "In Germany, when you go to the union, all the political groups have published newspapers. I have not seen that here," she said.

Mueller said another difference is that in Germany all the universities are public, and students do not pay tuition. This plan, he said, was developed by the government in the '60s so everyone, rich or poor, would

New standards lower fuel efficiency levels

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Transportation Department rolled back fuel efficiency requirements Thursday for 1987 and 1988 cars, in the latest in a string of actions that critics say are gutting a key energy conservation

Two of the top three U.S. automakers - General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. - had campaigned to have the economy standard eased, threatening to curtail production of large cars and lay off workers if the government did not go along.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, which sets and enforces the auto fuel economy standard, said it reduced the requirement for the next two model years to an automaker's full fleet average of 26 miles per gallon, down from 27.5 mpg.

Diane Steed, the agency's administrator, said the higher standard established by a 1975 law does not meet the "test of economic practicability" in a time when fuel prices are lower and consumers are increasingly eyeing larger and less fuel efficient cars.

"A higher standard (of 27.5 mpg) would have resulted in the loss of jobs for tens of thousands of workers in the domestic auto industry," Steed said, noting that the agency had received more than 10,000 letters from auto industry employees "who pleaded for their jobs.

She cited estimates from the Federal Trade Commission which suggested the 27.5 mpg requirement could cause the price of large cars to increase by as much as 22 percent, reduce the number of such cars that will be manufactured and possibly result in loss of 130,000 jobs.

While NHTSA's action immediately was applauded by GM and Ford officials, it was characterized by Chrysler chairman Lee Iacocca as "a mockery of the law" and unfair to manufacturers who in recent years have shifted their production plans to meet the federal standards.

Chrysler, which after its near bankruptcy in the late 1970s, shifted to a smaller car line, has met the government standard each year. General Motors and Ford have failed to meet it in some years and have accumulated millions of dollars in penalties as a result.

General Motors stands to avoid having to pay all, or at least most, of $386 million in penalties because with the lower requirements in 1987 and 1988 model years, its fleet is expected to do better than the standard. That will allow GM to accumulate credits that can be used to offset penalties from previous years.

Ford Motor Co. has accumulated $24 million in penalties, but company spokesmen said it already has built up enough credits with a fuel efficient fleet during the 1986 model year to offset that amount.

General Motors called the decision "good news for American consumers" and said it reflects "real world" economic conditions and consumer demand.

The potential loss of jobs had prompted about 100 members of Congress to send letters to NHTSA in support of easing the standard to 26 mpg.

But on Thursday, the NHTSA action was described as "short sighted," by Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., chairman of the energy conservation and power subcommittee. He accused NHTSA of trying to "torpedo the will of Congress" which enacted

the automobile fuel economy law

Cornish Hitchcock, an attorney for Public Citizen, a consumer and environmental interest group, argued, "It would be just impossible to believe" that either Ford or General Motors actually would have shifted their production plans if the government had kept the 27.5 mpg requirement.

He noted that the large cars provide the manufacturer with a much higher profit margin than small models.

Cafe Latino's Grand Opening Special

Buy One-Get One Free! (on any Item)

Friday, Saturday & Sunday (October 3, 4 & 5) only!

OPEN DAILY 11 a.m.-Late 605 N. 12th-Aggleville

ALL YOU CAN EAT BUFFETS

Monday-Friday 11 a.m.-2 p.m. $4.20 Monday-Thursday 5 p.m.-9 p.m.

$4.75 Saturday 11 a.m.-4 p.m. $4.20

*Sunday Brunch 9:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. OPEN ALL DAY SUNDAY 'TIL 9 p.m.

3019 Anderson Ave. Village Plaza

Manhattan's #1 Pizza

537-4350

SAVE $ SAVE $ SAVE $ 50% OFF

All Manicuring (Onychology) Services — Including all nail extensions gel - linen - sculptures Savings from

$2 to $17.50 with this ad

Crum's Beauty College

512 Poyntz Ave. Manhattan, KS 66502 Coupon Expires Oct. 31, 1986

Day-long events & activities

Saturday, Oct, 4

Features:

9 a.m. • 10K run — $10 registration includes awards in many divisions and Dutchmill Road-race T-shirt.

> · 2 mile Fun Run immediately following 10K run

 Many events for children!! -Free train ride in the park -Sawdust dig for coins Talent Show Cabaret 1 p.m. Beer Garden Opens Arts & Crafts Sidewalk Sale

4-7 p.m. Johnny Yoger Polka Band 7 p.m. KSU Soccer Team v. Central Missouri State

Old High School football field 8:30 -11:30 p.m. Party Band will be playing in the beer garden

Patti Hannan

Abuse of power in the handling of traffic ticket appeals by former members of the Traffic Appeals Board have not only led to a call for new legislation regarding the way appeals are handled, but have led to University embarrassment.

It is not fair to others when someone placed in a trustworthy position takes advantage of his power.

Those members have made the University cast a doubting eye to any group, student, or employee with the responsibility of handling fines or funds.

None of the incidents would have happened, though, if the former board members would have been responsible enough to make mature decisions regarding their own ticket appeals, and those of their friends.

Members of that board have much to learn about life and the responsibility that comes with being in a position serving the

At the very least, these acts will change the appeals process. At most, it will make others think before they do petty favors that turn into a disservice.

Students must apply for guaranteed loans

Education Act of 1965, if it passes the House and Senate, will make it more difficult for students to

It almost too late to appeal for legislators to consider the plight States may see two classes: the illiterate lower class and the educated elite.

The bill is scheduled for consideration by Congress within the next two weeks. If students apply now for GSLs, their chances of qualifying for a loan are much higher.

The reauthorization would require students to fill out a "needs income added to his or her parents' income is less than $30,000. Requirements will be stiffer under the new bill.

In addition, students who apply for financial aid independent the government takes its away.

Reauthorization of the Higher from their parents income may lose that advantage if they are not at least 24 years old.

This is the most irrational acquire Guaranteed Student change in the policy. It takes away young adults' right to declare themselves independent and self-supporting. Furtherof students and an "educated more, families who are barely America." The new policy ex- making more than $30,000 can't pands division between economic afford to send more than one classes. In the future the United child to college, yet their children can't declare independence and achieve a college education.

University financial aid officials believe the bill will affect 50 percent of students receiving GSLs. At K-State, more than 15 percent of students receive GSLs.

Student applications processed before President Reagan signs the bill into law will be considered under current law.

test." Currently, a student is It is imperative that students eligible for GSL if the student's take advantage of financial aid opportunities, especially now when higher tuition and government spending cuts make funding an education exceedingly difficult. Use the opportunity before

Kansans should wait for highway funding

Kansas legislators face a development and lack of funds to facilitate that development.

In both halves of the state, residents and legislators are urging highway building and improvement as a means of economic development.

Four major highways are being studied that would connect Wichita to Joplin, Mo., Hays, Liberal and the Colorado border.

The state must not consider building one highway without building the others. Residents in one part of the state should not have to pay for developments in another part of the state that they will never use.

Raising revenue for the highways is another issue. Residents in the areas of the proposed highways all have reasons for wanting a new highway: convenience, increased tourism and better opportunities to attract industry.

Residents believe the highways would improve their local economies. However, the state can't afford to build the highways unless the economy improves first.

Deterioration of existing dilemma between economic highways is also a concern. Funding for the new highways could come from maintenance funds, but it would be ludicrous to build new highways while the old highways crumble into nonexistence.

> Funding could also come from raising taxes on gasoline. This measure would hurt farm communities, through which the proposed highways would run. If farmers are forced to pay more for fuel, they would feel little consolation from business the highways might bring.

Other taxes legislators would consider include sales tax, property tax and taxes on new motels that would be built along the highways, all of which would defeat the purpose of encouraging economic growth.

reviewing possibilities, the prospect for building the new highways looks bleak. Until the state can raise revenues to build the highways without burdening the citizens with taxes, it should concentrate on maintaining the current highway system.

Movies shed false light on history

One of 'he "home improvements" which greeted me upon my return from Europe was a video recorder. My parents had acquired one on their anniversary, and I went film crazy during the early days of August, checking out new films like library books.

But I've decided I'm kind of old-fashioned when it comes to watching movies. I like to go see films in old theaters (like the recently closed Wareham Theatre downtown), devour my popcorn or Junior Mints during the previews, then slump down in my seat and forget the world for a while in a big screen

"Out of Africa" is the kind of film made for movie viewers like me. If you're unfamiliar with the film, it presents the saga of one woman, a Danish countess played by Meryl Streep, as she struggles to found a new life for herself on a coffee plantation in the former British colony of Kenya. The countess' adventures with the native Kenyans and their beautiful country, the British Empire, and her love affair with an American sportsman (Robert Redford) provide all the ingredients of a classic box-office

I first saw "Out of Africa" on Leicester Square in London, and loved every moment of it, including the laughs it drew from the English audience over their country's colonial history. The film pleased me so much I saw it four more times when I returned to Germany - it's also a good film to take a

Naturally, I was pleased with the film's worldwide success, although one would think it did win more than its share of Oscars. I was also a bit surprised to hear that "Out of Africa" was not well-received in Kenya itself. I read complaints that the film was romanticizing the colonial times and was too kind toward the whites who governed Kenya

This seemed a bit silly to me at the time;

DAN OWENS Collegian Columnist

after all, I told myself, "It's only a movie," and a pretty good one as far as I was concerned. But a ballet I attended in Moscow made me realize why some might object to

While in Moscow, some members of our group got ahold of some tickets to the Bolshoi Ballet, and were pretty excited at the opportunity of seeing a world-class ballet production. Although the Bolshoi presents many types of ballet - "The Nutcracker" was performed the previous evening - the ballet we saw was a political one. Happy workers with their community brooms swept the stage clean of the church, the military and the capitalists.

I was pretty disgusted during the first minutes of that ballet, and was tempted to walk out when the capitalists came out on stage wearing cowboy hats. Nonetheless, I stayed through the performance and soon found the show worthwhile if I overlooked the politics involved.

By ignoring the ballet's highly idealized view of the Bolshevik Revolution, and regarding it as a type of fairy tale complete with villains, heroes and a happy ending, I was able to enjoy watching one of the world's best ballet companies in action.

I later realized the same attitude was required to enjoy "Out of Africa." As a fantasty, the film is a masterpiece, but the political attitudes the movie encourages are a perversion of historical reality. The film idealizes the white minority and is demeaning toward native Africans.

I didn't recognize this at first because I was only paying attention to the fantasy. But at the ballet in Moscow, I paid attention to the politics of the performance first, probably because I was more prepared to criticize a ballet in Moscow than a popular movie in London.

I'm sure the average American viewer of such a ballet as I saw would regard it as a form of political indoctrination, but I know most of the Americans I talk to don't regard films like "Out of Africa" as anything more than "just movies."

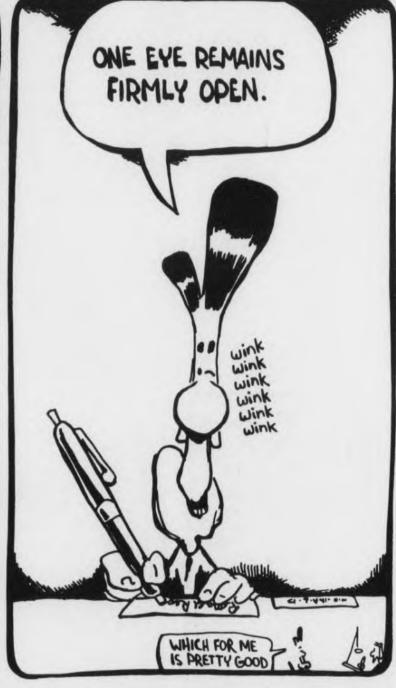

But indeed, extremely popular films influence our society more than we care to admit. "Out of Africa" fashions became popular with that film's success, and the number of Americans traveling to Kenya on vacation rose dramatically. A far more dangerous example can be seen in the film "Rambo," whose mindless militarism is reflected in areas diverse as children's toys or U.S. foreign policy.

And if "Out of Africa," which does make some attempt to portray the abuses of the colonial system, has encouraged a slightly romanticized view of colonialism, films like "Rambo," which make no attempt to provide a realistic background for the on-screen fantasy, contribute to a very naive view of the world in which we live.

Disappearing into a dark theater for a couple of hours and enjoying a fantasy is still one of my favorite things to do, and I'm not going to tell you which movies you should or shouldn't see. But when film fantasies are mixed with reality, we need to try to recognize when and how reality has been distorted.

By recognizing these distortions, we can help determine if they would affect the real world we all must return to when the film is

Media work toward common goal

Communication is an essential part and even the basis for our information-oriented society. If one is unable to communicate, it is difficult to survive in this society.

It isn't easy to learn good communications skills. Even those of us in the fields of mass communications have difficulty with the basics. A good communicator should be able to translate ideas, feelings, happenings into understandable, recognizable words and pictures for the majority of those receiving the

The means or technology are irrelevant. The basic goal for mass communications is to disseminate information. We all need information, be it international/national news, traffic reports, weather, baseball scores, whatever. The mass media take the initial information, translate it from jargon to everyday language, then disseminate the transla-

It isn't a simple task. The dissemination of information requires people skilled in every form of communications and a technology able to reach vast numbers of people.

The entire process is time-consuming, and not at all infallible. Yet the general public, and even those of us who should know better, expect up-to-the-second news and information delivered perfectly all the time.

The system is not perfect. It does break down at times and it does have flaws.

Those of us working in mass media realize we can't deliver every item of information everyone wants. Consumers of information need to realize mass media are not perfect and cannot be all things to all people.

Due to time and space constraints, the news and information must go through a process known as gatekeeping. Editors in any newsroom, print or broadcast, must decide on the basis of a variety of criteria what items are newsworthy. This process decides what is placed on the front page of the newspaper or within the first few minutes of a national newscast.

JEAN TELLER Collegian Columnist

It isn't fun or easy to do. But it has to be done for the most information to be delivered to the greatest number of people. After all, the mass media are aimed for the masses.

We in the mass media are fortunately able to produce products the general public wants, needs and, most of the time, ap-

It is unfortunate we are also known for being unable or unwilling to communicate among ourselves.

We get so caught up in the means of delivery, we forget the basics, the reason for mass media. We forget that no matter how the message is delivered - whether it is through electronic or print means - the information needs to be translated and delivered to the general public.

Each method complements and supplements the other. No one method is able to stand alone; each is a part of the greater whole. Each method is geared to reach a certain segment of the population or to continue the information received by another method. All of us should, and most do, obtain our news and information from more than one source. It's the only way to see the "big picture."

We all need the ability to communicate with others through written and spoken words, no matter what career or job in which we may be involved. As our society continues to grow more complex, the means of communication will become more complex. We need to be able to speak and write well to deliver our message. We will also need to know how to communicate by computer and in other languages of the world (and

Regardless of a chosen career, each individual must be able to communicate. We have to set aside personal prejudices and preferences as to the method of delivery. We must be able and ready to use whatever method is at hand to deliver information. Itisn't an easy society we live in. And the mass media are not an easy career to be in or to prepare for. But we need to remember the basics. We need to remember who we are trying to communicate with and what we are trying to deliver.

Those of us in the mass media must remember we are all in the same business and continue to work toward the major goal of delivering information to the general public, no matter the method. The general public must remember the mass media are trying to do a great deal all at once with quite a few constraints. And we all have to remember nothing is perfect or infallible.

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

By CANDY LEONARD Collegian Reporter

New uses for the artificial sweetener Nutrasweet are currently being cooked up by two graduate students in nutritional science.

Nicole Bramesco and Denise Deming have begun food product development for the NutraSweet Company as part of their master's degree program in foods and nutrition.

"NutraSweet has some broad objectives for us, but we have to keep our part of the research confidential because of the company's competitors," Bramesco said.

The research will probably take about 25 hours each week, Deming said. Carole Setser, sensory analysis expert in the College of Human Ecology, will supervise their work.

"There is no machine that measures taste," Bramesco said. "Sensory analysis helps add the human element to our research, but it's only one aspect of what we do in Sensory analysis includes examination of the appearance, mouth feel, flavor and texture of food. It also involves psychology and perception on the part of the individual, Bramesco said.

Deming included this technique for measuring food properties in one of her undergraduate projects with breads. She tested bread from frozen dough after leaving it in the refrigerator for various lengths of "Sensory analysis requires very specific standards for your panelists to consider, and your questions can't be ambiguous," Deming said.

The two will formulate the criteria and questions for their trained test panel. Human ecology students who have had Setser's sensory analysis class may be eligible, Deming said.

"Companies really don't place too much validity on consumer taste tests," Deming said. "They are mainly conducted to get an idea for what consumers want."

In addition to sensory analysis, the students will use other testing techniques to determine the quality of NutraSweet as an additive to new and existing food products.

"Companies might use a consumer taste test initially, but when they are perfecting their products, they rely on specialists," Bramesco said.

Both graduate students were attracted to K-State because of the cooperation among the departments in which they are interested in working.

Bramesco is taking classes in bakery science and grain science.

"I want to get classes in animal science, like dairy science and meat science," Deming said, because it is important to be educated about all types of food products.

Jury unable to reach agreement during proceedings of rape trial

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — An accused rapist whose first trial ended with a judge overruling a jury's guilty verdict left the courtroom Thursday exclaiming "praise the Lord" after a second jury was unable to reach a verdict in the

But the victim of the attack, a 28-year-old Kansas City woman, said she would be willing to testify again against Evan Williams, 36.

"I've already won once," she said. "Twelve jurors found him Six others found him guilty"

Thursday.
Assistant prosecutor Matt Whit-

Assistant prosecutor Matt Whitworth said the state would schedule a third trial on charges of rape, sodomy, armed criminal action and burglary.

guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

A jury deliberated several hours Wednesday evening and Thursday morning before they told Judge Robert A. Meyers they were deadlocked 6 to 6. The judge told them to continue deliberating them to continue deliberating.

An hour later he declared a mistrial after jurors reported their positions were unchanged, with "very strong opinions on both sides of the question."

B'nai B'rith Hillel at K-State

A jury in January had convicted Williams of a rape at knifepoint in a midtown Kansas City home. But Judge Tom J. Helms overturned the verdict, declaring that it went against the weight of the evidence.

Williams, a former federal prison inmate on parole for a 1975 bank robbery conviction, testified that he was asleep at his home at the time of the attack, and noted that the victim did not identify prominent tatoos he had on his arms.

Insurance claims rise due to stress

By The Associated Press

ATLANTA — Stress, boredom and frustration at work are causing substantial health problems for Americans, the national Centers for Disease Control said Thursday.

Numerous job-related insurance claims filed around the country are citing mental stress, and "there is increasing evidence that an unsatisfactory work environment may contribute to psychological disorders," the CDC said in its weekly report, prepared by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health.

For example, a California study found that claims for "work-related neuroses" more than doubled in the first three years of this decade; over the same period, claims for other disabling work injuries fell by 10 per-

A study released last year by the National Council on Compensation Insurance found that claims for the gradual onset of "mental stress" accounted for more than one in every 10 occupational-disease-and-injury claims, and the average cost of those claims was higher than for other work-related health problems.

And a NIOSH study in Tennessee found workers in health care, service jobs and blue-collar factory positions seeking mental health help more often than workers in other jobs. Those occupations, the CDC noted, tend to be characterized by stressful conditions, repetition, shift work and responsibility for other people.

Conditions such as work overload, lack of control over one's job, non-supportive bosses and colleagues, limited job opportunity, undefined tasks, rotating work shifts and operating at a machine-set pace all can contribute to a worker's dissatisfaction with his job, the CDC report said.

In turn, those factors can cause psychological disorders including neuroses and depression, anxiety, irritability, drug abuse, sleep difficulties and physical complaints such as headache and stomach ache.

"These problems impose substantial health and financial costs in the United States," the Atlanta-based CDC said.

Psychological disorders either caused or exacerbated by working conditions are far more complex than most on-the-job injuries, and

And a NIOSH study in Tennessee bund workers in health care, service bbs and blue-collar factory positions beking mental health help more beking mental health help more there is no way of telling how many American workers are having psychological problems because of their jobs, said Dr. Alex Cohen of

NIOSH.
"I don't think the data ... would offer that kind of information," said Cohen, chief of applied psychology for the Cincinnati-based NIOSH.
"Nevertheless ... the whole area deserves attention."

With the problem of job-related psychological problems so difficult to measure, it is also difficult to predict future trends, Cohen said. But there are indications that job-related stress, and its accompanying health problems, may increase.

"What is happening is that changes are going on in the workplace," he said. "New technology is coming in and shifting a lot of job tasks from those that were physically demanding ... to other kinds of job demands, more mental ones, more repetitive ones.

"I think we're going to be seeing a shift from occupational safety and health problems in ... mechanization to more problems of a psychological nature."

HIGH HOLY DAYS SERVICE SCHEDULE

ROSH HASHANNAH

Friday, October 3 is Erev Rosh Hashannah.
Services will beginat 8 p.m.
Saturday, October 4 services will begin at 10 a.m.

YOM KIPPUR

Sunday, October 12, Kol Nidre Services will begin at 7 p.m.

Monday, October 13 Yom Kippur Services will begin at 10 a.m.; Yizkor-Neilah Services will begin at 5:30 p.m. A traditional Manhattan Jewish Congregation Break-Fast will follow Neilah. Everyone is encouraged to partake in the meal. After the Break-Fast we will all work to build the Sukkah.

HILLEL SPECIAL ACTIVITY
A trip to the Renaissance Festival.
Meet in Union Parking Lot at 7:30 a.m., information call Chuck 776-1963

THE BEST
MEXICAN RESTAURANTE
IN AGGIEVILLE

The Sound Shop's Octoberfest

RECORD and TAPE SALE

Over 1,000 Current and Classic L.P.s and Tapes have been marked down to

$1.99-$5.99

Titles such as Phil Collins, Toto, Mr. Mister, Shadowfax, Paul Young, Alabama, Alan Parsons Project, Art of Noise, Pat Benatar, Culture Club, Deep Purple, Depeche Mode, Herbie Hancock, Adam Ant, Alarm, Eurogliders, Ready for the World, Jackson Browne, Eurythmics, Pia Zadora, Eric Gayle, Foreigner, Dan Fogelberg, Michael Hedges, Pieces of a Dream, Bob James, Waylon Jennings, Chakka Khan, Julian Lennon, Willie Nelson, Queensryche, Rainbow, Ratt, T.G. Sheppard, Rick Springfield, Hall and Oates, John Lennon, Atlantic Star, Boogie Boys, Aerosmith, Ta Mara, Autograph, ABC, Animotion, Swimming Pool Q's, Aztec Camera, Marshall Crenshaw, The Who, What is This, Paul Young, Kim Carnes, Luther Vandross, Morris Day, Dazz Band, El Debarge, UB40, Klymaxx, Tom T. Hall, The Danse Society, Deniece Williams, Oak Ridge Boys, Hank Williams, Jr.

On Sale Friday through Sunday

THE SOUND SHOP
1204 Moro, Aggieville

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

Nearly half of the non-native English speaking international graduate students failed a spoken English test this semester and will not be able to become graduate teaching assistants until they pass.

Out of 54 people who took the test, 26 did not score the minimum passing grade that would allow them to teach this semester, said Enid Cocke, director of English language programs.

The Kansas Board of Regents adopted a policy in June 1985 requiring current faculty and graduate teaching assistants to have their spoken English competency assessed every year by department personnel. Prospective faculty and GTAs must be screened by three department members.

If a teacher or a prospective teacher is found to be deficient in spoken English, they are administered the Test of Spoken English, Cocke said.

The policy was instituted to ensure that students could understand the teacher. It also maintains that diversity of background among the faculty and students is imperative to a quality educational experience.

This is the third semester this policy has been in effect, Cocke said. Cocke said the test is based on four criteria: overall comprehensibility, pronunciation, grammar and fluen-

The test scale ranges from 0 to 300. Cocke said anyone taking the test must now score at least 220 to be able to teach college courses.

People who score from 200 to 240 on the test have a general comprehensibility with some errors in pronunciation, grammar and choice vocabulary items.

Cocke said the answers to all test questions are recorded on a tape and graded by two qualified test graders.

If there is a large discrepancy between the scores the two graders give, a third person will grade the test without reviewing the other two

Seventeen of the 26 graduate students who failed the test have enrolled in a speech class, Spoken English for International Students, said Peggy Null-Stevenson, linguist in the speech department and instructor in the class.

All of the students are from either mainland China, Taiwan or India, she said.

"The biggest problem with the international students is that when they leave the classroom, they speak their native language with their spouses and friends," she said. "They have to speak English consistently or they will have problems.

Another problem international students encounter is the culture change, she said.

"The great linguists have said you can't separate culture and language," she said.

Cocke said each international graduate student has different problems with the test.

"Some people are very fluent in English, but they might fail because their accent is too bad," Cocke said.

"Others just need to slow down." William Stamey, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, said he thinks that the TSE might help screen out potential international graduate students who might otherwise be teaching this semester.

However, some department personnel in the college feel that some international students who failed the test should be teaching this semester, Stamey said.

"It may have deprived some potentially good teachers from teaching this year," he said.

One reason that many Oriental graduate students failed the TSE is that English is not a big influence in countries like China, Stamey said.

Despite the policy, students' complaints about teachers whose native language is not English have continued, said Louis Pigno, head of the math department. "I think it is good to have the TSE because it makes the screening more standardized," Pigno said. "But students still complain about the Tim Weingartner, sophomore in computer science, said he has had problems understanding some international teachers.

"I think it's pretty pathetic when you pay all this money (for tuition) and you can't understand what the teacher is trying to say," Weingart-

"I still have problems communicating with some of my teachers," he said. "I know I'm not the only person having problems,

Cocke said it is a two-way street between students and international

"I sympathize with the students who can't communicate effectively with a teacher, but without these teachers, students don't get the full educational experience that the University offers," she said.

Most of the non-native English speaking graduate students who try to become teaching assistants are in the College of Arts and Sciences, specifically in math, physics and chemistry, Cocke said.

First Lady takes part in anti-drug program

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - First Lady Nancy Reagan, who was in Kansas City to be honored by the United Negro College Fund for her anti-drug campaign, starred in a drug prevention skit with two junior high school girls Thursday.

Reagan sat in on a half-hour lesson on saying no to drugs at Martin Luther King Jr. Junior High School. The session highlighted techniques of Project STAR.

Later Thursday, Reagan was to receive the UNCF Frederick D. Patterson Award for her efforts to convince young people to avoid drugs. Reagan is a member of the board of the UNCF, which provides operating expenses for 43 historically black colleges and universities.

STAR, or Students Taught Awareness and Resistance, is aimed at keeping pre-teens from experimenting with alcohol, marijuana or nicotine - the gateway drugs. Researchers believe that younger children who resist gateway drugs are less likely to become involved with more dangerous drugs

Reagan watched 15 eighthgraders answer questions about the consequences of drug use, describe the ways their peers pressure other young people to try drugs and act out the methods they use to say "no.

Robbie Alexander, a science teacher who also coaches other teachers in STAR techniques, conducted the class in a room sporting anti-drug posters and crowded with television cameras.

The hallways at King junior high also were decorated for the First Lady's visit. Prominent among the posters and collages was a large banner with red lettering hanging across a library wall: "Say No to Drugs!"

K-State Players

presents

night Mother

FRI. & SAT.

Reagan joined in as Alexander's students practiced resistance techniques. She played the part of a young woman being offered a cigarette by Verna Shepheard and Lashawn Ladd, both 13, who wrote the skit for the Verna and Lashawn used a high-pressure teasing technique "nobody's going to know," but Reagan would not be swayed from her stance.

"No thanks, I don't smoke," she

The class applauded. Reagan also had praise for the class and the STAR program. "I think it's wonderful, what you're doing," she said. "I congratulate you, love you, and hope you stick to it.'

STAR is funded in Kansas City by Ewing Kauffman, co-owner of the Kansas City Royals baseball team and founder of Marion Laboratories, a therapeutic drug manufacturer. Kauffman became interested in developing a drug prevention program for young people after four Royals players were convicted on cocaine charges in 1983 Education specialist Calvin C. Cormack developed STAR based on a classroom series stressing decision-making skills designed at the University of Southern California.

STAR also emphasizes parental influence and calls on the media and business community to echo the anti-drug message.

Cormack said he invited Reagan to Kansas City to learn more about STAR.

"The interest stems from her interest in prevention programs, Cormack said. He added that the community-based aspect of STAR, and the fact that it is privately funded, was of particular interest to the First Lady.

SIXTEEN MILLION

THANKS

To The Students of

Kansas State University

pride, undertook the unglamorous jobs of fact-finding, persistently asking tough questions whether polite or not, and presenting crucial and often complicated information to the entire university community. Demonstrating that purple pride could be reflective, democratic, and earned rather than automatic, these are the real heroes of the university, because they contribute to the university's highest function of furthering

Saeki

Continued from Page 1

understanding Saeki's pronunciation, and he thinks students could adapt to Saeki, if they paid attention for the first few lecture classes.

"He (Saeki) has been applauded many times through the evaluation system by his students," Stamey said.

Results of a teacher evaluation in a differential equations class last semester showed that 20 of the 26 students rated Saeki as being either an excellent or a very good instruc-Johanna Bachman, junior in industrial engineering, said she was in Saeki's recitation class last semester and rates him as the second-best recitation teacher she has had in the math department "As far as having him in a large message across as easily as he did in the recitation class," she said. "In a large lecture hall it is harder to understand someone with an accent." one engineering student said. In the lecture class, the student

By The Associated Press

Nicholas Daniloff is so anxious to get back on the job that he's signed up to report on next week's meeting between the superpower leaders in Daniloff's name appeared on a trip sign-up sheet at the White House day he and his wife spent 40 minutes

Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail

Gorbachev, whom Daniloff covered as a Moscow correspondent for U.S.

News & World Report, will hold talks

James Killpatrick, a U.S. News

By The Associated Press

rain kept more than 13,000 people away from their homes in the Midwest on Thursday, and Illinois called out the National Guard to help

The discovery of a dike in a

Wisconsin lake eased the threat of sudden disaster should its leaking dam break, but there was little good Floodwaters up to 6 feet deep flowed through some Illinois neighborhoods, the legacy of weather systems that stalled about

Ten deaths have been blamed on weather-related incidents, from heart attacks to traffic accidents, since Sept. 20. They include three each in Illinois and Minnesota, two in Missouri, and one each in Oklahoma news elsewhere in the Midwest.

patrol flooded areas.

10 days ago.

Another onslaught of winds and Storms, flooding in Midwest result in deaths, evacuations

Oct. 11-12 in Reykjavik, Iceland.

talking with President Reagan.

Iceland.

WASHINGTON - Journalist

lecture class, he might not get the said Saeki had to talk louder and this distorted his accent further.

Saeki said this is the first lecture class he has taught at K-State, but he once taught a class of 80 students at the University of Washington in Seattle without any student complaints.

"This is the first (teaching) problem that I ever had," he said.

Saeki estimates about 70 to 80 of the 169 students in differential equations attend his Monday and Wednesday lectures at 1:30.

About 10 to 12 students have transferred to the other differential equations lecture class taught by Kadosa Halasi, assistant professor of mathematics, but some can't attend both weekly lectures offered by Halasi because of conflicting schedules, one differential equations student said.

"The new lecture time is at 4:30 p.m.), and I can't go to the Wednesday lecture because I have a different class at the same time," the student said.

That student said he has no problems understanding Halasi's spoken English in the lecture class.

Editor's note: Some students were quoted under the condition that they not be identified.

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Times reported in Thursday's editions that administration officials said they went to unusual lengths to make sure intense psychological questioning in a KGB prison, not stand trial in An unidentified official said the United States detected signs that Daniloff was weakening under the pressure and was showing signs of the "Stockholm syndrome," - idenand Montana. Two people were missing and presumed dead in Illinois

Meanwhile, forecasters fretted over Paine, a Pacific hurricane that moved ashore in Mexico with a fresh load of moisture. While the storm's meteorologists said it could combine with the stubborn Midwestern front to produce a dangerous double

In Michigan, rain had fallen for 23 straight days by Thursday, and was expected to continue through Saturday. At least 10 cities set rainfall records, and 26 counties have been declared disaster areas.

THE TCECREAM

SOCIAL

was uncertain.

and Oklahoma.

progress

Daniloff anxious to continue working senior editor serving as a corporate tifying with his captors, the official spokesman, said Daniloff's future Referring to the interrogation, that assignment is "a little indefinite," official said, "Daniloff had probut he'll probably report on the sumblems, and that helps explain the exmit for U.S. News if he gets credentraordinary steps we took. Daniloff has characterized the interrogations that he was subjected to as mental torture.

Although the administration has press room Wednesday, the same Daniloff, who was being subjected to stressed that Daniloff was not involved in spying, a State Department official who spoke on condition he remain anonymous told the Times that

Daniloff "made a bad mistake and something had to be done to correct

He was referring to the event that led to Daniloff's arrest - his acceptance on a Moscow street of a map that turned out to be marked "secret" from a Soviet acquain-

> Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

(eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

537-0886

Open 7 days a wee Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m. Call 539-8888 or 537-0886 Restaurant

1304 Westloop 539-8888 (10% off with KSU ID)

How can you ask them up to see your etchings... if you don't have any?

We've got the etchings... you make the date.

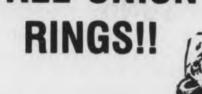

STRECKER GALLERY

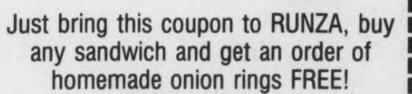

Ask About Our Gift Registry 10-5 Tues.-Sat. 332 Poyntz

Forthefunofit! thefunofit! DPUTT-PUTT torthefunofit across from Wal-Mart

1101 Moro

RYPOSE IF

TODAY: Off Campus, Clovia, Edwards, Ford Oct. 6: Off Campus, Ford

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment call 539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

who maintained a critical and LAST NIGHTS questioning attitude during the Nichols Theatre 8 p.m. discussion about the coliseum, Call 532-6398 Mon.-Fri. 12-5 whether or not they ultimately supported the project. We especially wish to thank the students who, risking the stigma that they lack purple and free hors d'oeuvres 5 p.m.

Old Time Rock 'n' Roll

Comedy Invasion This Monday night

at 9 p.m. Micheal Floorwax

Chance Saloon and elsewhere 531 N. Manhattan OFFICE independent thinking. We salute and honor them. (a response to the ad thanking students for "supporting" the coliseum with their money)

Catherine Sayler Don Hedrick John Exdell Lyman Baker Vince Gillespie Jan L. Flora Naomi Ossar Jim Hamilton Jonathan Holden Dean Zollman Talat Rahman

Denise Grimm On behalf of a host of other members of the university community at the Last

FOR Red Brick Sword Black Molly Black Tetra T-Bar Platty $3.98 Piranha GERBILS HAMSTERS 10 gal. set-up Ready to go!! $299

EACH

Hood for 20" tank 10 gal. $1 598

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

They've not only changed their name; they've gained national acclaim. In three years, Steve Bob & Rich has evolved from a regional three-man band to a nationally noted four-member group called The Rainmakers.

Pat Tomak, the band's new drummer, was added to allow Bob Walkenhurst, lead singer and former drummer, a chance to deliver songs from the front of the stage, Walkenhurst said.

Students will have a chance to see the metamorphic change of The Rainmakers in a performance at 9 p.m. Saturday in the Union

The Rainmakers to appear Saturday

The concert is sponsored by the Union Program Council Special Events and Eclectic Entertainment Committees and KQLA radio, said Julie Stephens, senior in social sciences and chairwoman of UPC Special Events Committee.

Those who have attended concerts by Steve Bob & Rich should expect to see more than a name change Saturday. The band members no longer wear their familiar faded, torn, blue jeans and undershirts, nor do their hairstyles resemble the free-flowing hippie-style cuts to which fans have grown accustomed.

date hairstyles. The Rainmakers released their first album on a major record label pants, crisp white shirts and up-to-

With the new name comes baggie

 Mercury/Polygram — in July. Since that time they have been featured on MTV, in Newsweek magazine, and have recently completed a two-week tour with Big Country where they gained exposure in New York, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and San Francisco, said Steve Knill, co-manager of The Rainmakers.

Knill said they are now playing scheduled to perform at The Uptown Theater in Kansas City Thursday and tonight.

Tickets for Saturday's concert are $4 and can be purchased in advance at the Sound Shop in Aggieville and at the Union Activities Center on the third floor of the Union. They will also be sold at 8 p.m. at the door. Sponsors expect to sell about 600 tickets and all seats are general admission, Stephens said.

"Limited seating is available, so it's first come, first serve," she said.

The concert will begin at 9 p.m. with a warm-up performance by the Moving VanGoghs, a modern-rock group, Stephens said.

Johnson finishes stay in residence halls

By BETH HANNAM Collegian Reporter

As he ends his week-long stay in three different residence halls, Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, said he hopes to have become more accessible as well as to have opened communications between the halls and student govern-

"Not too many people come to see me in my office," he said. "I was trying to come up with an idea of how I could get out to different groups when I came up with idea (of living in the residence hall)."

Last year, Johnson talked at greek

Between Sept. 2 and Sept. 4, unidentified person or persons stole two traffic control lights.

The lights were temporarily installed on the north and south ends of the Fancy Creek Bridge.

The bridge, located north of Randolph on U.S. 77 at mile post 196, was under repair at the time of

The stolen lights are described as a three light system - red, yellow and green, approximately 21/2 feet tall, yellow in color and constructed of a plastic material.

The lights were valued at $500 each. Total loss in the theft is $1,000.

Two traffic lights missing in theft at U.S. 77 bridge houses, residence hall floor meetings and club meetings, but he wanted to do something different this year, he

Johnson spent three days in Goodnow Hall, two days in Putnam Hall and two days in Haymaker Hall.

Kerri Weddle, president of Association of Residence Halls and junior in secondary education, helped Johnson in coordinating the visit, he said.

"The receptiveness of the people was great," Johnson said. "I was well taken care of."

"I just threw my clothes in the closet space they made for me and slept in the bed they gave me," he

Johnson found "little difference" between living in a residence hall and living in a fraternity.

"You still have a group of students you spend most of your time with," he said. "The eating schedules were also very similar."

Johnson still spent quite a bit of time in his office, he said, but tried to cut it down so he could spend some time "hanging out" at the residence

He spent a lot of time meeting and talking to people, he said. Many people came up and introduced themselves to him, especially during

Mike Schwabauer, sophomore in art, was Johnson's roommate in Goodnow Hall. He said the visit was successful.

him now," he said.

make himself right at home.

Abilene newspaper publisher dies of heart attack at home

By The Associated Press

ABILENE - Henry B. Jameson, an editor, author and former war correspondent, died of a heart attack at his home late Wednesday night.

Funeral services were scheduled Saturday at 11 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in Abilene for Jameson, 73, who had been editor and publisher of the Abilene Reflector-Chronicle since 1955.

Jameson became the Abilene newspaper's editor and publisher after spending about 12 years with The Associated Press in Kansas City, Mo.; Jefferson City, Mo.; St. Louis; Chicago; New York; Washington, and overseas as a World War II cor-

Jameson, who was sent overseas for three years by The AP, was the first American correspondent to be wounded in the D-Day invasion.

Jameson's survivors include his wife, Bernice; a son, Henry B. Jameson Jr., of Dallas, and one granddaughter.

"I think the people he met won't hesitate to go in his office and talk to Schwabauer said living with Johnson didn't really change his view of student government because he was "really positive in the first place." He said the experience was interesting and that Johnson tried to

"I think it was great he decided to do it," he said. "I think the idea should be continued. If the student body president hasn't had the experience of living in the residence hall or in a greek house, he should do

Officials argue safety of Three Mile Island

By The Associated Press

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. - One year after the controversial restart of Three Mile Island's undamaged Unit 1 nuclear reactor, critics and plant officials continue to argue over the reliability and safety of the plant.

By the account of GPU Nuclear Corp., TMI's operators and the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the plant has operated at a high standard overall since being restarted Oct. 3, 1985.

But longtime opponents of the plant, pointing to the crippling accident at TMI Unit 2 in 1979, say the operating reactor remains a "time bomb.

Unit 1, undamaged when part of the uranium core in Unit 2 melted, was idle for 61/2 years before being restarted. The accident at Unit 2 was the nation's worst at a commercial nuclear power plant.

The NRC recently released a report giving TMI-1 high marks for its first year of operation. The plant was cited for 11 violations of NRC regulations, but none serious enough to warrant civil penalties, NRC officials say.

"There's positive and negative, but overall positive," said Richard Conte, one of four NRC inspectors at TMI-1. "There have been a number of problems in the plant, but none that have raised our eyebrows.' Conte said those problems have stemmed primarily from employees failing to follow procedures. In one recent incident, he said, the senior reactor operator left the reactor control room for 15 to 20 minutes while the plant was being pressurized and heated prior to a start up, in violation of NRC procedures.

In another incident, he said an employee failed to carefully monitor a release of radioactive gases, which resulted in gases being released at higher concentrations than expected.

However, Conte said neither incident posed potential safety dangers.

"This plant operates extremely well. We certainly haven't had any problems of note and none of a safety nature," Henry Hukill, TMI-1 director, said in a recent in-

"I'm certainly confident changes we've made since the accident...material changes, training changes, people changes, procedural changes and emergency planning changes...have extensively reduced any chances of a similar accident," Hukill said. Hukill said a conscious effort has been made by plant officials to rebuild public trust in TMI after the accident and subsequent investigations.

TMI's former operator, Metropolitan Edison Co., pleaded guilty to using inaccurate and meaningless methods to measure leaks at Unit 2 and no contest to six charges it manipulated test records. Metropolitan Edison and GPU Nuclear are both subsidiaries of General Public Utilities Corp.

Opponents of the plant, led by Three Mile Island Alert Inc., admit they have become less visible since a U.S. Supreme Court gavel ended legal efforts to halt the restart on Oct. 2, 1985. The long picket lines that once snaked in front of the plant's gate are gone, and some of the once-passionate opponents have moved away.

Eric Epstein of TMI Alert says opposition is still strong, but that "after seven years, people are exhausted."

TMI Alert planned a news conference Friday in Harrisburg to release its assessment of TMI-1's first year of operation.

"We think it's abysmal. The plant should be shut down," Epstein said. "The reactor itself is generically flawed, there are serious problems with the steam tubes and the steam generators, compounded with a management we don't have very much faith in. It can only lead to problems.'

'We're living with a time bomb and it's ticking away," he said.

Residents of the township have mixed views toward the plant. Yvonne Barnes, who has lived in the vicinity for 15 years, said it should be closed down.

"It's still scary because you're so close to it," said Barnes.

sagn on smet at the winte Bouse

Charlie and the Stingrays!

-music to make you move-

MANNEQUIN

THE SHOE FACTORY

431 Town East Center just east of Food 4 Less 539-0363

Now Open

Quality Ladies Shoes Reduced Prices MANY NAME BRANDS

this or any crime are asked to call

Crime Stoppers at 539-7777. Callers, who may call collect, need not identify themselves and may receive a cash reward of up

AGGIEVILLE FLOWERS

12th & Laramie

Octoberfest Cash & Carry

*Carnations $7.50 Dozen

*Flower Bundles $3.50 Each

*Hanging Plants $4 and up (Saturday Only)

Come see us on the street Saturday by Kite's or in our shop

537-9549

Mon.-Sat. 10-5

Laramie Plaza

*Sweetheart Roses $7.50 Dozen

(Friday and Saturday)

MUST BE CRAZY P.G. Fri. & Sat. ALL SEATS $2.50

CAMPUS HEART OF AGGIEVILLE

 Announcing ***

new patient receiving hours.

Saturday morning (8 a.m.-11 a.m.) beginning October 4

Complete large & small animal veterinary service (open clinic - appointments preferred, but not required)

Kansas State University Veterinary Medicine Hospital

Denison Avenue — on campus Kansas State University, Manhattan, Ks.

★regular weekly hours (9-5) by appointment ★ ★24 hour emergency service ★

Small animals 532-5690

Large animals 532-5700

Ramada Inn FRIDAY TGIF 75¢ DRAWS Warm Pretzels Seafood and

Prime Rib Buffet $10.95

5:30-9 p.m. SUNDAY The Club Brunch $5.75 11 a.m.-2 a.m.

Across from KSU

17th and Anderson

5:30-9 p.m.

SUNDAY SUPPER

(50¢ donation or free if needed) 1021 Denison Ave.

presented by

Dori Lambert Sponsored by HRISTIAN

CUMENICAL INISTRIES

Applications Now Available in the College of Arts & Sciences for Arts & Sciences Council

> Applications Due: Oct. 10

Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

FRIDAY VODKA DRINKS $1.50 DRAWS

75¢ Free Hors D'oeuvres

616 N. 12th

539-9967

SATURDAY TONIC DRINKS $1.50

Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

SCHNAPPS $1.00 PITCHERS $2.50

616 N.12th

539-9967

5:30

(Look for the two red front doors) Alone But Not Lonely

Parrish keeps jovial attitude about K-State facing Sooners

Sports Writer

Stan Parrish knows the position he'll be in Saturday when K-State takes the field in Norman against Oklahoma isn't a desirable one.

In light of last week's upset of the formerly top-ranked Sooners by Miami, one thing is probable Oklahoma is going to be one mad group of football players.

When the Sooners are simply motivated, they're an awesome football team. As for the kind of damage Oklahoma can do when aroused, suffice it to say "pain" could become a key word in the vocabulary of many a K-State player.

"Do you think any coach in the country would want to be in these size 9's this Saturday walking into that stadium?," Parrish said, looking down at the ground. "Nobody."

But Parrish, ever the optimist, hasn't lost all hope. After all, K-State did beat Oklahoma in both 1969 and 1970. In fact, the 59-21 Wildcat victory in '69 marked the only time a team has scored more than 50 points against the Sooners. But getting back to the present day, Oklahoma has won the last 15 games in the series and averaged slightly more than 42 points per game in the streak.

"I watched the '84 films of the game down there (a 24-6 Sooner victory) and K-State played them tough," Parrish said. "They'll have to cooperate. They'll have to be at a gear less than normal and we'll have to be at a gear above normal. That's how it works.'

Parrish hopes the losing streak, and the attitudes that go along with this kind of dominance, can work in K-State's favor

"Obviously, there's little or no respect to our program from their program and usually when you put someone in a corner like that, they respond," Parrish said.

The fierce Oklahoma defense, led by All-American linebacker Brian Bosworth, has built a reputation as one of the nation's best, but has shown vulnerability in one particular area - defending against the pass. Miami quarterback Vinny Testaverde, whom Parrish simply calls "the best," has picked apart the Sooner secondary for two straight

"I hope we can pass a lot - and successfully because nobody has run on them. Eighty yards is the best," Parrish said. "They have a pretty firm defensive line.

Offensively, the Sooners run out of the wishbone attack, which helped them outscore their first two opponents 101-3. One of the main components in the scheme, quarterback Jamelle Holieway, will not play due to a bruised shoulder. However, Holieway's backup, Eric Mitchel, is almost as highly regarded.

One thing that could work in the Wildcats' favor is the weather. If the rains fall in Norman, the complexion of the game is likely to change.

"A downpour would be perfect. We've got to have a little help from up there," Parrish said. "You know that they say about rain and football. It makes equals out of unequals.'

Regardless of what is expected to fall from the skies, K-State will enter the game as overwhelming (50 plus points) underdogs

GAME NOTES: Game time is 1:30 p.m....Two injured Wildcat former starters, linebacker David Wallace and center Rob Goode have been declared fit to play. Wallace will start and Goode will see action, but won't start....Clark Brown will start in place of Lawrence Tolbert at one wide receiver while Marcus Miller will replace the injured Brad Lambert in the defensive backfield....Radio broadcasts of the game can be heard locally on KMKF (101.7 FM) and WIBW (580 AM).

Volleyball squad attempts to shake KU's domination

By RON RENO Sports Writer

K-State's volleyball squad will once again have to face its biggest nemesis this season - itself when it travels to Springfield, Mo., this weekend to compete in the Autumn Classic Invitational.

"It's not so much our opponents, it's ourselves we're struggling with right now," Coach Scott Nelson said.

The squad, which is now 6-7 on the year and 0-2 in the Big Eight, is still committing what Nelson considers to be too many unforced errors. Wednesday night's match against the University of Kansas was a clear example of the 'Cats'

After winning the first game, the 'Cats jumped out to a 14-10 lead in the second, before serving errors caused the team to unravel and lose that game, as well as the next two. Still, Nelson said he sees his team improving in that area.

"Hopefully, the errors will continue to decline. They have declined, and we need to continue to do that." Nelson said.

Nelson said his team will have to keep its errors to a minimum if it hopes to do well in this weekend's round-robin tournament. KU will also be competing in the four-team event, along with the Southwest Missouri State Bears and the Cardinals from 'Kansas and Southwest Missouri State are off to great starts and are playing real solid. The thing that typifies the Southwest Missouri State team is how Kansas is playing. They just don't make errors. They don't beat themselves," Nelson said.

Kansas is now 14-2 on the year, and the Bears carry an 11-3 mark into the tournament. Nelson, who called the two squads "almost identical," said his team is not incapable of beating either squad.

"You can go out and beat them," Nelson said, "but you have to play pretty much error free and keep a lot of pressure on them with tough serving and a good offense.

As for the other team in the tournament, Nelson said he sees many similarities between his own squad and Louisville's.

Like the 'Cats, the Cardinals have posted a 6-7 mark on the season, and the team is laden with inexperienced players. Eight freshmen and sophomores dominate the 11-member squad.

Nelson said he is anxious to see how his young team will bounce back after Wednesday night's disheartening setback.

"We're going to need good efforts to be in those matches. I'm kind of looking forward to the weekend just to see how we respond after Wednesday's match," Nelson said.

The 'Cats begin play Friday night with a match against host Southwest Missouri State. They face Louisville Saturday morning, and then that evening they get their third opportunity of the year to try to defeat the Jayhawks.

Clemens avoids injury, will pitch in first game bone and that the amount of swelling

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - Roger Clemens, the ace of the Boston Red Sox pitching staff who escaped a line drive to the elbow with only a bruise, said Thursday he was "almost positive" he'll be ready for the opener of the American League Championship Series next week. The 24-game winner, who was struck on the elbow of his pitching arm Wednesday night by a ball sharply hit by Baltimore catcher John Stefero, said his right arm was "a little sore, a little puffy. But I think I's going to be all right." pas said there was a bruise over a injury.

would determine how soon Clemens could pitch again. A few hours before Clemens was injured, Boston Manager John McNamara had named him the starting pitcher for Tuesday's playoff opener at Boston against the California Angels.

"It just went numb. But after the numbness went away, I could tell I was all right," Clemens said in a telephone interview with WBCN-FM.

It was the latest in a series of injuries to the Boston pitching staff. Veteran Tom Seaver is an uncertain-Team physician Dr. Arthur Pap- ty for the playoffs because of a knee

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

University of Oklahoma's All-American linebacker Brian Bosworth, right, K-State Saturday in Norman. K-State has not defeated Oklahoma in 15 will lead the Sooner defense, rated as one of the best in the nation, against Redskins' back anxious to battle ex-teammates

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - All George Rogers wanted was to get the opportunity to be the No. 1 running back on an NFL contender. Now that he's gotten the chance, the former Heisman Trophy winner rapidly is making Washington Redskins fans forget about John Riggins.

Rogers, who leads the league in touchdowns with six and has rushed for 386 yards, a pace that would put him over 1,500 yards this season, gets the chance to impress his former team Sunday when the Redskins meet the Saints at New Orleans. That's another thing he's wanted to do for a long time.

"When I was down there, I used to kid our defense that I'd love to run against them," Rogers said. "I'm pretty sure they want to stuff me pretty good."

Not many teams have contained Rogers this year. The six-year NFL veteran has been a major factor in helping the 4-0 Redskins to their best start since 1982, when they won the Super Bowl. Riggins, long a folk-hero in Washington, no longer is a topic of conversation, after being released during the offseason.

"Contributing to a winning football team, that's all I ever wanted to do since I got out of college," Rogers said. "It sure is a better atmosphere here than it was in New Orleans."

Rogers, drafted No. 1 by the Saints out of South Carolina, gained 4,267 yards in four years at New Orleans, but the team never had better than a .500 record. Rogers, still the Saints' all-time leader in carries and yards, came to Washington before the 1985 season in exchange for a No. 1 draft choice, but spent most of the year as Riggins' backup.

Rogers went into training camp this year confident that he would be the main man in Washington's oneback offense. But the Redskins signed USFL star Kelvin Bryant in August, setting the stage for what appeared to be a bitter rivalry.

The expected unrest never materialized, partly because Rogers accepted his role as a power runner.

straight games. The Sooners are picked a 51-point favorite by odds makers.

'Cats to face Arkansas for third time By TONY CARBAJO Struckoff to make first appearance

Sports Writer

K-State track and cross country coach John Capriotti is begining to sound like a broken record. For the third time in four meets this season, the women's cross country team will be running headto-head against the Arkansas Razorbacks for what Capriotti figures to be top honors in the Oklahoma State Jamboree in Stillwater.

After narrowing the gap on the Razorbacks last weekend in the KSU Open, Capriotti believes it is time to overtake the Southwest Conference powerhouse.

"Arkansas will be the team to beat," said Capriotti, who said the same prior to the 'Cats' first two meetings with the Razorbacks this season. "I believe we have a darn good shot at beating them even though we won't be at full strength.

"It should be an interesting race...we keep getting closer every time (we face them) and we get more confidence by running with feels good already."

them," he said. Part of Capriotti's optimism lies in the fact that he is unveiling this weekend a pair of All-Americans who have not yet competed for the team this season. Jacque Struckhoff and Chris Vanatta will hit the Oklahoma State course fresh from rehabilitating from injuries.

Vanatta was scheduled to run in last weekend's home meet but was scratched at the last minute due to a sore Achilles' tendon. The jury on Struckhoff has been out all season as to whether or not she would be able to come back from last year's leg injury that sidelined her from the NCAA outdoor championships.

"I'm anxious to see how Jacque and Chris run," Capriotti said. "Chris' Achilles' tendon feels a lot better now. We could have run her last week, but I didn't want to take the chance. It paid off because she Capriotti and the rest of the field Saturday will be keeping a keen eye on Struckhoff's progress.

"There is no doubt whatsoever she will be back. She is coming along like gangbusters," Capriotti said. "She has a long time (eight weeks before the NCAA national meet). Jacque will be a factor in the Big Eight and the nationals - I guarantee it - if she stays healthy, and everything is pointing to that."

The Wildcats will line up Saturday morning with Anelli Edling, Betsy Silzer, Lisa Wakem, marge Eddy and Becky Ives, in addition to Struckhoff and Silzer. Capriotti said he is giving Angie Barry and last weekend's runner-up finisher in the KSU Open, Alysun Deckert, the week off.

Also getting the "weekend off" will be the entire men's squad. Capriotti believes they do not need the work, and their lineup is basically set already.

Besides the powerful Arkansas squad, the women Wildcats will also be faced with another potential hurdle to the victory stand - mud. The rains that have drenched the Midwest all week have soaked the Jamboree course which is hosting its 50th annual cross country meet. the longest consecutive streak in the nation.

"The course is very wet," Capriotti said. "I called down there (Thursday), and they said it was under water. It should be interesting.'

The meet will feature Southern Methodist, Oklahoma State, Arkansas, Oklahoma and K-State as its top billings. The odds on favorite to win the meet will be Oklahoma State's Christine McMiken, Capriotti said. McMiken took Big Eight honors last year, placed third in the NCAA nationals and captured a sixth-place finish in the World Cross Country Champion-

There is always chance Wildcats may stun mighty Sooners

Here we go - it's time to play Oklahoma. Now being the sports editor, people on occasion ask me how I believe a game will turn out. This week's K-State-Oklahoma football game has been no different.

Most, though, have asked me simply, "Tim, do we have a chance for survival?" And, my answer is, "Yes, there is a chance."

Now, few have gone as far as to ask me "Tim, do the Wildcats have a shot at stunning the Sooners in Norman?" To which I answer, "Yes, I have never ruled out the chance that the impending threat of thermonucleur war might come to pass on Saturday and even out the odds." Now, let us not forget 1969 when the 'Cats hosted the Sooners and pounded on them

The following year, K-State went to Norman and downed Oklahoma 19-14. That's right, at one point in modern history, K-State downed Oklahoma twice in a row.

In the 15 years since then, Oklahoma holds a slight 15-0 edge on the 'Cats and the combined score has been 637-171 (in the favor of Oklahoma for the few dimwits reading this column). That's an average score of 42-11.

Hmmmm, 42-11 - I wouldn't complain if that was Saturday's score, especially since some betting lines have the 'Cats listed as a

51-point underdog. Things wouldn't be so bad if the Sooners

FITZGERALD Sports

hadn't lost to Miami last weekend. Gee, that was a pleasant occurrence for K-State. K-State-OU matchups are never fairly balanced, but add to that an angry bunch of Sooners, and things get grim.

Now, naturally this column is tongue-incheek. K-State showed some signs of advancement in their last game two weeks ago against Texas Christian.

The team is also in a very upbeat mood. But, they are playing the Sooners. And the Sooners are mad.

If a miracle does happen, I'll be there cheering along with everyone else. I don't see much chance in it, but I promise if the Wildcats upset the Sooners, I'll be standing in the streets of Aggieville, with my bottle of beer sweating in my hand, laughing at Riley County police officers' efforts to stop the in-

I still hold hope K-State will have some success this season. There is no reason the 'Cats can't defeat Kansas, Iowa State, Missouri and Oklahoma State as well as give Colorado a run for their money.

There is one good thing about Saturday's point spread being so massive - it's difficult to leave Norman looking bad.

So what if OU beats the point spread. You were 51-point underdogs in the first place; hey, what's another touchdown or two.

But, if you do hold the Sooners under the spread and put the ball in the end zone once (or more), hey, you big studs. Everybody said it couldn't be done and you have come away as victors - of a sort.

S. Africa

Continued from Page 1

agricultural products, food, arms, ammunition and military vehicles. And it transfers the South African sugar quota to the Philippines.

The measure puts an end to direct air transportation between South Africa and the United States, abrogates U.S. landing rights for South African aircraft and terminates the air services agreement now in effect between the two countries. Certain exports to South Africa also are now banned, including petroleum products, nuclear material and data and certain com-

In the days preceding the final actions by Congress, Reagan had offered to put more teeth in sanctions his administration has imposed last year. Among other things, the president suggested a ban on new U.S. investments other than those in blackowned firms, a ban on the import of South African iron or steel and a ban on U.S. bank accounts for the South African government or its agencies.

An array of American civil rights leaders celebrated the historic vote, with Coretta Scott King, widow of assassinated leader Martin Luther King Jr., proclaiming that her husband's "dream has been advanced."

- entremelation of the state of the state of the state of the Reagan said, "Today's Senate vote should not be viewed as the final chapter in America's efforts, along with our allies, to address the plight of the people of South Africa. Now is the time for South Africa's government to act with courage and good sense to avert a crisis...There is still time for orderly change and peaceful reform. South Africans of good will, black and white, should seize the moment."

In the debate just before the vote, Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., pleaded with his colleagues to support Reagan and denounced the position taken by supporters of the new sanctions as "a feel-good foreign policy.'

But Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., declared it an "affirmation of the American dream.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass, called it "one of those moments that will live in our history...the day America set its policy right on one of the great issues of our time, the cause of a free South Africa."

Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said the vote sent this message to South Africa's white rulers: "Stop the killing, stop the violence before it tears your great nation asunder.'

But Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., asked, "What kind of government will South Africa end up with? Will it be freedom and democracy, or will it be tyranny? This legislation makes a decisive choice for tyranny.'

In advance of the vote, Democratic leaders had predicted that the Senate would override Reagan's veto.

The furious lobbying of senators in the last hours included a telephone call to the Senate cloakroom by South African Foreign Minister R.F. Botha - a move that enlivened debate at the end.

An uproar erupted over the propriety and legality of Botha's role in telling four senators that his country would cease purchases of U.S. grain if the Senate nulled the Reagan vote.

Hollings denounced Botha, saying, "This foreign minister phones here and starts talking about a bushel of wheat; it's outrageous nonsense."

Global ag symposium to spotlight issues in farming systems research

By SCOTT SHORTER Collegian Reporter

For the sixth consecutive year, K-State's Office of International Agricultural Programs is sponsoring the Farming System Research and Extension symposium Sunday through Wednesday.

Each year national and international agricultural researchers come to K-State for the symposium, the only one of its kind in the world, said Jim Jorns, assistant director of K-State's International Agricultural Programs.

The theme of this year's symposium is "Farming Systems Research and Extension: Food and Feed."

The goal of the symposium, as described in materials supplied by the Office of International Agricultural Programs, is to deal with the emerging issues in the farming systems research and extension, in response to major issues identified in past conferences.

The symposium will be divided into sections, during which participants will give present papers.

This year, two people from K-State will give presentations: Meredith Smith, associate professor of foods and nutrition; and Doyle Baker, temporary assistant professor, Off-Campus Contracts.

The farming systems research concept focuses mainly on limited resource farmers in developing countries and emphasizes the understanding of the total farming system, Jorns said. It recognizes that agricultural production depends upon family relations, social structure, customs and the farmer's relationship to the larger economic situation of the country.

He said new techniques and technology often won't be adopted if the scientist hasn't become fully aware of the problems facing farm families. Jorns said the scientists must recognize these constraints and gear their research with that in mind.

The Office of International Agricultural Programs hosts the symposium as part of an Agency for International Development project. According to the office, AID supports foreign assistance programs in the U.S. government with emphasis in the areas of developing human resources for the encouragement of private sector growth, institutional building, transfer of technolgy and promotion of policy reform. K-State, as a land-grant institution, has been associated with AID since 1954.

lassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15: Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Bloom County

YOU CALLED,

TEP KOPPEL

WOMEN'S

UNDERWEAR

ALMIZE

JOKE.

USING MY

THAT COMPLETES

MY REPORT ON THE

LIFE AND TIMES OF

GEORGE WASHINGTON

DOWN

city

3 Type of cooler

4 Ali -

5 Source color or

39 Broadcast

nonsense

41 Famed poet

feature

Indian

48 The boss higher-up secretly woman

58 Attempt

47 Western

45 Gown

PLEASE DO NOT FEED TO LAWYERS RAW MEAT

YOUR ROYAL

LAWYERSHIPS !

Garfield

Peanuts

AND DIED IN 1799

SHORTLY AFTER AN

EXHAUSTING HORSEBACK

RIDE IN THE COLD"

GARFIELD! JAM DAVES

does not alter the value of the ad.

days: $4.75 per Inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin Every 25th customer will get a free meal! 537-3335

NEW OIL controlling skin conditioner especially for oily skin. Mary Kay Cosmetics, Janet Milliken,

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

WANT TO UPSET

WOULD WE ?

A LAWSUIT

FORK IT

OVER.

STICK AROUND

FL055

MR. KOPPEL INTO

UH .

PUMPKIN PATCH, CiCo Park, Arts and Crafts Fair, 126 exhibitors, October 3rd and 4th. (28-29)

SKI JACKET sale-Save 20% on all ski lackets in stock and for only $20 put it on layaway for 30 days. Saturday and Sunday only. Aggle Ski and Sport, 1212 Moro. Open Saturday 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. and Sunday 1-5 p.m. (29)

ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth-ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49) MAXIMIZING PERFORMANCE Seminar via Travel/ Mexico. Time Management. Self. Values. Professional Climate. 2 UG. 537-4155. (25-29)

02

Mexican Buffet Ramada Restaurant Every Sunday

5-7:30 p.m.

CLEAN IT UP A LITTLE.

By Berke Breathed

YOU'RE

DRIPPING

SLIME

ON IT.

By Jim Davis

WHERE'S

MOUTHWASH?

0

By Charles Schulz

BACK UP TO

YOU, MA'AM

-532-5617, ask for Bill. (29)

Duran's Bring this ad in and receive $2 off the dinner buffet!

SKYDIVE TOMORROW! Go from 0 to 60 mph in 3.8

is back! (Pilots with 250 hours TT needed)

econds. Train tonight, 6 p.m., Durland 129, 87897

All-You-Can-Eat Mexican Buffet! Mon.-Fri.

Luncheon Buffet $3.98 Evening Buffet $5.95 Sunday Brunch $5.95

Chimichangas • Tacos • Taco Salad Enchiladas
 Chips and Dip Fajitas • and much more!!! FirstBank Center

> (Denison & Claflin) Upstairs 11:30 a.m.-9:30 p.m.

> > Daily

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

FOR RENT-APTS TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment,

1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-ment apartment; partially furnished, one bedro Murphy bed in living room, two complete baths, month including heat and water. No children no pets, no smoking. Available November 1st. Call 537-9400 after 6 p.m. (25-29) ONE BEDROOM studio apartment one block east of campus. Available now. No pets. $190. Call 776-3624. (27-31)

FOR RENT—HOUSES

CONTRACT DIDN'T go through and we're anxious to sell or rent. Assume our VA loan: Three bedroom earth contact on five acres, pole barn, beautiful setting near Wamego. Call 816/781-0461 for details. (28-29)

FOR SALE-AUTO

1973 IMPALA-350 V-8-Power steering, power brakes, air conditioning, AM-FM cassette, body solid, runs great, good tires. $900 or best offer. Call 1979 MERCURY Cougar-As is, $800. Call 539-8043.

1977 MG Midget, $1,600. Call 539-8043. (26-29)

1975 WHITE Malibu-6 cylinder, 67,000 miles, air conditioning, power steering, brakes, runs great. Offer. Call 532-6939 or 539-9367. (28-32) 1984 BRONCO II-Blue/silver, power steering, air conditioning, centerlines, tinted glass, sharp. Call 539-1824 afternoons. (28-32)

FOR SALE-MISC SR 600 CANNONDALE 53 cm—Almost new, helmet and pump included, $650. Call 776-8716, please

keep trying! (25-29) STUNT KITES: Multiple precision kite flying, power dives, spirals, loops, figure-eights, contour flying Call Thomas, 532-2100. (25-29)

AMDEK 310A graphics monitor, $70. Call Sara, 532-5712; after 5 p.m., 539-7616. (27-29)

OVATION ULTRA accoustic guitar, excellent condition, hard case, only $175. Call 537-1216, leave message. (27-29)

By Eugene Sheffer

Grab your dates and to the Pub we'll go. Partying with the best will only be a breeze, besides our dates will be diggin our . . . Love, Chi O Pledges. LADYCAT SPIKERS-Kawonga! You played tough on CHI O Actives: Double or nothing is the way to go.

Wednesday and we were proud! We hope we weren't obnoxious and loud! So, this weekend when you go away, with all your hearts we hope you'll play. We'll be thinking of you Saturday, when with the trophy you'll come away! Good luck! Your Pi Kapp fans, Kris and Shawn. P.S. 6 and 13, we'd like to get to know ya! (29) be late or you'll miss your dates. The time is six, be ready for party pics! - Love, your dates. (29)

Saturday. The Women of Alpha Delta Pi. (29) 21st. Love, Wanoba. (29)

BUNNYMAN-Last weekend was great, this week end will be better. Next weekend is a year and its been the best year of my life. I love you. B.W. (29) DIGGER, FLICKER, J.J. and Peanut Butter Lover-Well, I'm Dallas bound. Wish me luck and thanks

SIGMA CHI Kurt-Back thru time to the year 1960 where the music was groovy and the clothes real nifty. We'll dance and we'll rock to the tunes of the past, so get excited 'cause the Theta party is sure to be a blast! Love, Cindy. (29)

HARVARD CLUB, Limo, Red carpet, Chi Omegas and Betas. What else is there? (29)

CAROL SUE: Will the toaster ever stop? Doubtful. Look out Zelma and Chunk, here we come! Love, X-way. Your Pledge Dad. (29) UKG: M.J. Be prepared for Saturday. Dress warm and old because the wine will be fine, but the weather will be cold. Outrageous. (29)

it's first rate, tonight is the night to celebrate. Your teen days are gone and in the past, so drink, be merry and have a blast. Beware F and S! Luv, Red pledges are awesome, they knew what to do. They chose the best to "sneak" to CU. We left last night after the game, the start of a weekend that'll lead us to fame. So have a good weekend and have no fear, wish you were beautiful, the weather is here Love, Stacy, Sarah, Mary, Lesiye, Fran and Mandy.

JULIO-XANADU, orange juice, a few glasses of wine. We did it last weekend, wanna party again sometime! Kansas City beware! - Medussa. (29)

KAPPA SIG Lil Sis Tracy O .- Here's a final clue for you, I have blonde hair and eyes of steel blue. See ya at dawn. Love, Dad. (29)

KAPPA SIG Lil Sis Kim A .- Look for a delivery today Dad. (29)

SIG EP Dennis-Roses are red, violets are blue; rest up for Saturday, you gorgeous hunk, you! PS Happy "19" Birthday! Your KKG Sweetheart. (29) TO SIGMA Nu's Brian, Kent, Matt, Sheahon, and Chris-Hey, hey, it's the 60's so come along and party down. We're the groovy Thetas, on Saturday we'll "monkee around." Your Theta dates-Deanna, Dana, Stacy, Carol, and Sarah. (29)

ATTENTION: "BILL" the cat says party naked on the Delt patio from 2-4 a.m. Then depart in the Delt party barge for O.U. to consume mass quantities of iguor and O.U. chacks. (29) M.-HAPPY Birthday! Love, the other half. (29) clues: I am from pledge class '84. You know some one in my family really well. Good luck, see you Saturday. Dad. (29)

KAPPA SIGMA Lil Sis Angie M.—These are your last

ROOMMATE WANTED 17 FEMALE TO complete a three bedroom basement apartment near Aggieville. Reasonable. Call 539-2017 after 5 p.m. (21-30)

FEMALE TO share two-bedroom apartment 1414 Fairchild, #4 with Christian female, $100 plus one half utilities per month. Call 776-0625 or 539-3571

THREE VERY nice fellows need one more in a beautiful four bedroom house at 1118 Vattier. Reason able, 539-9345, (26-29)

MALE, NON-SMOKING roommate to share a beautiful two bedroom, furnished apartment. (Sandstone Apartments). Call 537-9439. (27-31)

MALE, $95/month plus utilities, one block east of Haymaker. Call 539-5196. (28-32)

FEMALE-SHARE (wo bedroom completely fur-

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test Confidential Call 537-9180, 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free. Clini-

ckish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word processor, 1011

cally tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Pro-

Juliette. 537-3314. Specializing in theses, dissertations, manuscripts, term papers. (28-30)

AUTO REPAIR - Low overhead brings savings to you Oil and lube, tune up, brakes and other miscellane ous repairs. 539-6552. (29-33)

FREE SET of spark plugs with a tune-up on your import car at J & L Auto Service. Call 1-494-2388. St. George (offer ends October 15, 1986). (29-37)

WANTED 21

BASS GUITAR player, also keyboardist/guitarist/ vocalist for local band. Blend of original and non original rock/dance music. Call evenings, Michael or David, 537-1770. (26-29)

WELCOMES

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza. Church School 9:45 a.m., Wor ship 8:30 and 11 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerfeldt, 539-8685; Sue Amyx, 776-0025. Transportation to church—776-8790 after 9 a.m. (29)

CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m.; Evening Service, 6 p.m.; Prayer Service, Wednesday, 7 p.m. (29) ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), Sunset and North Delaware welcomes students to services: Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 8 and 10:45 a.m. Bible classes, 9:30 a.m. Sunday. (29) TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN-Worship Service 10:45 a.m.,; Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office, 539-3921. (29)

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley

Blvd. invites you to worship with them Sunday at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. Adult Sunday School Class meets 9:45 a.m. at the church office 2607 Allison. College Care Cell meets Saturday, 6:30 p.m., also Bible Study Tuesday evenings—contact 539-5369. For any additional information, call 537-7173. (29)

First United Methodist Church · 612 Poyntz 8:45 a.m. Communion first Sunday of the month 9:45 a.m. Church School 8:45 a.m. & 11 a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services John D. Stoneking Pastor

WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison (the white building with the two red doors). (29)

WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church. 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Worship Service, 8:30 and 11 a.m. and Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Bob Burton, teacher. Evening Service, 6 p.m. Horace Breisford, Pastor; Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565. For transportation daytime call 776-0424. (29)

MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison, Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.; Saturday evening at 5 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. (29)

COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 College Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. Sunday Worship, 8:15 and 11 a.m. Church Training, 6 p.m. Sunday. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service, 7 p.m. Phone: 537-7744. (29)

FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz (537-8532). Welcome students to worship service at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (29) ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church-6th and Poyntz. Comnion is celebrated on Sunday at 8 a.m. (Rite I) and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call

rossword

1 Oath 4 Stern's counterpart 7 Quickly 12 Period

13 Coach

ACROSS

52 Sgt.'s hian 14 " -- IS icumen in..."53 Wed 15 Gangster's

Parseg

54 Catch gun 55 That 16 Part of Ursa Major 18 Broke fast 56 Spoil 19 Market-57 Before place 20 Old slave 22 One million

23 Resort island 27 Author Deighton 29 London

landmark 31 Of a region 34 Early president 35 VIP 37 Chem. suffix 38 Slaughter of baseball

Yesterday's answer

11 Blunder esting

23 First name of 41 Across 24 Legal org. 25 Skirt edge

6 Farm vehicle 7 Orient

8 Litter member 9 Current bit

10 Middling grade

Solution time: 27 mins

10-3

1 Gambler's 17 Uninter-2 Speechify 21 Defects

> 26 German pronoun

28 Yalie 30 Author Fleming 31 Actor Vigoda

32 - Tin Tin 33 Conceit 36 Ticket receipts 37 Pencil end 40 "Goodnight" girl 42 Zero

43 Take the wheel 44 Aunt Em's husband

45 Lean-to

51 Tax-time

46 Rose of baseball 48 Plead 49 Labor org 50 Dollop

P

10-3

BAIMSTA VIL BYRVR LWMYDX EYLU

132 42 CRYPTOQUIP

QRXID

FLNYDX, DWE FUR UIF I Yesterday's Cryptoquip: EXORBITANT BOXER, LOSING IN THE RING, HAS TO TIGHTEN HIS BELT.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: B equals P

1/4 lb. Hamburger Exp. Date 10/5 537-3335

Hayes House of Music

• Fender Standard Strat

Guitars $519 with hardshell

MANNESMAN TALLY parallel/serial industrial strength printer. Must sell. Also, Hayes smartcom

FOR SALE: Four foot female boa constrictor. Very tame and good eater. Call 539-7505 after 6 p.m. or

The Ritz Denison & Claffin

79¢

300 modem. 539-9598. (28-29)

before noon. (28-29)

 Crate 212 Celestion Amps $465.

• Rogers 5 pc. drum sets $675. All P.A. speakers 20% off.

776-7983

HEWLETT-PACKARD HP41C programmable calculator with memory module. Books and programs included, $125. Call Rob at 532-4835. (29-33)

327 Poyntz

A WHITE male kitten in the Durland parking lot. Approximately 10 weeks old, wearing a white flea col-lar with the name Micky on it. Call 532-5452 for in-ternation. (27-29) HELP WANTED 13

WANTED: RESPONSIBLE adult to supervise nursery. Sundays 8:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Call 1-456-RESPIRATORY THERAPY—Part-time position, 16-20 hours per week, variable shifts. Certification or registry required. Duties involve treatments, cardiopulmonary lab, EEG and EKG. The St. Mary Hospital, 776-1981, EOE. (24-29) 3.000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16.040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701.

OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year around. Europe, South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625. (27-46)

CHOIR DIRECTOR, Zion Church of Christ, Junction City. Call 1-238-7770 or 537-2287. (28-30) WORK-STUDY student afternoons for receptionist duties and typing. Apply by October 10 at UFM, 1221 Thurston. 532-5866. (28-32)

PART TIME delivery person, hourly wage plus mileage. Must have pick-up with topper. Hawley Print-ing Service, 610 North Third, 776-6731. (28-30) PART-TIME grill help needed at Kites, 619 North 12th See Bill Jackson. (29-33)

CASHIER AND grill cook, four to five days a week Grill experience preferred. Call Eddy, 537-3335 for interview. (29-31)

PERSONAL 16

PHI DELTS: D.B., C.K. and D.H.-Remember, don't

KSU FOOTBALL Team: Best wishes for a victory on BERGER-BE ready to celebrate at 12 sharp. Happy for the use of your wardrobe. Love, Skelly. (29)

KAPPA SIG Lis Sis Shea-From dusk to dawn we'll party away, who I am is for you to say. I left you a clue the other day, and a couple more are on the

PIKE LITTLE Sisters—Have a nice day. (29) PI KAPPA Alpha Steve: Today is your B-day and I hope

G-PHI'S: You thought you'd caught us, you thought you knew. Surprise, surprise! Did we fool you! Our

BASS DRUM Darin! Your pledge mom cares enough to give the very best. (29)

Property

Continued from Page 1

because of the reappraisal. "We think it is absolutely necessary for the economic climate of this state to remain positive, because we want to see all industry who are looking at this state (to) come in, as well as (retain) those who are here to stay," Rahjes said. Wyatt stated two reasons for the need for classification. "First," he said, "classification will prevent a major shift of the tax burden to agricultural property due to reappraisal. "Second, classification will protect renters and homeowners from higher taxes as a result of reappraisal," Wyatt said. By passing the classification amendment, agriculture can gain the benefits of use-value appraisal and the livestock exemption, Frick New land is often appraised at close to market value, whereas older sections of land are seldom updated, Carlin said. Once reappraisal values implemented, homeowners' taxes will decrease. Those homeowners who will be taking on a higher burden are those who got a break under the old system, he said.

The classification amendment is a progressive approach to property taxation, which will create an equal balance between the farm, residential and business interests of the state that Kansans need to adopt, Carlin said.

Opposition on this amendment is coming from the realtors, Carlin said. He also said other opposition both organized and unorganized - is coming out of Johnson County.

Provost

SAVE MORE $

with this ad

1/2 OFF

all 1 p.m. appointments

for haircuts

Savings of $2.75

Crum's Beauty College

512 Poyntz

Manhattan, KS 66502

776-4794

Offer Expires Oct. 31, 1986

Continued from Page 1

Kenneth Klabunde, professor of chemistry; Karen Penner, associate professor of foods and nutrition; Gerald Hanna, professor of ad-ministration and foundations of education; William Liddell, professor of management; Philip Royster, professor of English; Sally Traeger, Student Senate chairwoman and senior in marketing; Brice Hobrock, dean of University libraries; Don Rathbone, dean of the College of Engineering; Kurt Feltner, associate director of agricultural experiment stations; and Charles Reagan, assistant to the president.

Libya

Continued from Page 1

which was released by the White House. "They were not a part of any meeting I've ever attended....This was not any plan of ours."

The president said the U.S. intelligence community has been tracking whether Gadhafi is planning any terrorist acts. " And so, yes, there are memos back and forth about that, and what the information is, and so when I challenge the veracity of that whole story, I can't deny that here and there, they're going to have something to hang it on,"

Reagan said it was legitimate to take steps to " have Gadhafi go to bed every night wondering what we

"refreshments will be served"

might do. And I think that's the best position for anyone like that to be Asked if he thought it was all right to plant false information in the press to make Gadhafi nervous, Reagan said, "Oh, no. No."

A senior administration official, also quoted in the interview transcript, refused to say whether the Post story was " generally or reasonably or basically accurate."

The official, who refused to be identified, said, "The problem with the story and the inaccuracy of the story the president was talking about is the allegation and the implication that somehow the U.S. government had initiated or that the president had authorized a program of disinformation for the American media.

" That implication in the story is absolutely false," the official said.

Shades

Continued from Page 1

The car shade business was started by two Los Angeles entrepreneurs, Avi Fattal and Avi Ruimi. The two young Israeli immigrants, who popularized the cardboard sun blockers, borrowed the idea from an Israeli inventor, 58-year-old Abraham Levy.

Their company, Auto-Shade Inc., now has 80 employees and will have predicted sales this year of $12 million, up from $3 million last year. The company has already sold 6 million shades at a cost of about $1.60

Auto-Shade is foremost among the five to 10 big distributors now producing car shades. The main purpose of the car shade is to block the sun so the car stays cooler and the dashboard won't crack from sun exposure.

Konnesky said she hears all kinds of comments about her car shades.

"People say, 'Hey your car is wearing sunglasses,' or 'that looks goofy.' I don't care what they say. It works, and they won't be laughing when my interior looks nice," Konnesky said.

Another advantage of the car shades is the message written on the opposite side. The shades say in bold letters, "Help. Please call police." If drivers were stranded on the highway or had an auto emergency, this message would tell other drivers to call for help.

> Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

Kiver Aub

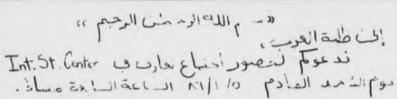

9-12 p.m.

$1.25 Wine Coolers

presents

"Crosswinds"

TONITE and Fri., Oct. 3

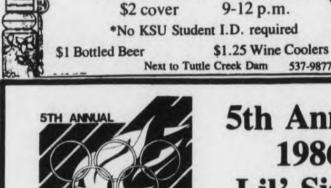

We welcome all KSU students interested in joining the Arab Student Association to attend a "gathering" this Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Int. Student Center.

-The board-

Make Reservations for Organization Group Pictures for the Royal Purple

through October 3.

Purchase your photo receipt and make your appointment in Kedzie Hall 103. Pictures will be taken October 6 through November 20, but you need to make reservations now.

5th Annual 1986 Lil' Sister Olympics

Drink-off at Brother's

Today 3:30-6 p.m.

The Games

Ahearn Fieldhouse Sat. 1 p.m. Party at the Pike House 8 p.m.

BUD LIGHT.

COMPLIMENTARY SALE

WORLD'S BEST TENNIS SHOE IN PROUD, PURPLE WILDCAT STYLE

Top-quality shoes made available directly to you by the same manufacturers of such name brands as Reebok, Nike, Puma and Adidas.

- Injury-preventive heel stabilizer
- Number 1 choice soft leather
- 100% cotton inlay
- Endurable and high-performing cappausachi outer sole
- Purple outer sole and upper heel pvc

DATE: Friday, Oct. 3; 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Saturday, Oct 4; 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

PLACE: Ramada Inn on Campus

Tel. 539-7531

A DREAM SALE YOU HAVE LONG AWAITED.

PLEASE SEND $23.95 (checks only) to: FOR MAIL ORDER ONLY: NAME_ C.P.P. Inc. P.O. Box 12446 ADDRESS Overland Park, Ks. 66212

One pair of free shoes with every order of 10 pairs.

The Rainmakers play to a packed house Saturday evening in the Union Ballroom. See Page 5.

Fair day. High today

Fair through Tuesaround 70, low in upper 40s. Wind variable 5 to 15 mph. Sports

Topieks KS

66612 Overcome

The K-State Wildcats put up a good fight in Norman, Okla., as they took on the No. 6-ranked Sooners. See Page 6.

Kansas State

Monday

October 6, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 30

Floods ravage Kansas towns; cleanup begins

By BECKY HOWARD Staff Writer

Flooding last week, which caused millions of dollars in damage, reached its peak this weekend in large sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, with governors in Missouri and Kansas declaring state disaster emergencies '- - -On Friday, state disar southeast I Bourbon, Cowley, C. and Woodso Officials 2,000 people the weeken The Nationa to help wit build dikes. 57, and U.S. in southeast water.

'It's just se for real."

Approxim: northeaste evacuated § and Arkans banks. Offici the flooding with some a inches of r usual averag

The only that of a 1 County, Mc Ashcroft (emergency !

Cattle take r grounds beg

B

A $342,800 guiding visi campus was ty adminis begin as soc Sources of indefinite, t Phase One general fur parking fee facilities pl The prop tional signs Manhattan visitors to signs to ma posed, and tify campus Visitor in

for improve

and Mississippi rivers were expected to crest beyond record flood levels.

Record floods in the region were attributed to heavy rain since Sept. 20, accompanied by recent thundershowers related to Hurricane Paine.

In Kansas, records were broken in Fort Scott as the Marmaton River crested Friday morning at 52.45 feet a feet shows flood stage The old

Entertainment_Plus A Viewer's Guide to Leisure Arts — A Weekly Feature of the Collegian

October 3, 1986

- Artist Shanahan to give lecture, p. 3
- Dancers open in Purple Masque, p. 4
- Lancaster, Douglas in 'Tough Guys,' p. 6

itaff/John Thelander

(County, one of

ing rs

long a road in ore than two g to weeds, a ad branches the worst," aid Sunday. g down." where flood laney River a record 31 water were g reservoirs puty civil t by Sunday ad receded places. But in two and hrough the MS, Page 3

us

Il take to he has to help call on o assist so proaid in > which legiate 3 with und, is atrium

ng the Page 3

The Rainmakers play to a packed house Saturday evening in the Union Ballroom. See Page 5.

Weather

Fair

Fair through Tuesday. High today around 70, low in upper 40s. Wind variable 5 to 15 mph.

Topeks KS

Overcome

The K-State Wildcats put up a good fight in Norman, Okla., as they took on the No. 6-ranked Sooners. See Page 6.

66612

Kansas State

Monday

October 6, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 30

rs

d.

ong a road in ore than two ; to weeds, a d branches

the worst," aid Sunday. g down." where flood aney River a record 31 water were g reservoirs

eputy civil at by Sunday ad receded places. But i in two and through the

RMS, Page 3

us

Floods ravage Kansas towns; cleanup begins and Mississippi rivers were expected

By BECKY HOWARD Staff Writer

Flooding last week, which caused millions of dollars in damage, reached its peak this weekend in large sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, with governors in Missouri and Kansas declaring state disaster

emergencies On Friday, state disast southeast Ka Bourbon, C Cowley, Cri Linn, Montg and Woodsor

Officials 2,000 people the weekend The National to help wit build dikes. 57, and U.S. in southeast water.

It's just so

Approxima northeaste evacuated 5 and Arkans banks. Offici the flooding with some a inches of r usual averag

The only that of a 1 County, Mc Ashcroft (emergency !

Cattle take r grounds beg

A $342,800 guiding visi campus was ty adminis begin as sor Sources of indefinite, I Phase One general fur parking fee facilities pl. The prop tional sign Manhattan visitors to signs to ma posed, and tify campus

Visitor in for improve

Friday, October 3, 1986

we flood stage The old to crest beyond record flood levels. Record floods in the region were attributed to heavy rain since Sept.

20, accompanied by recent thundershowers related to Hurricane Paine.

Fort Scott as the Marmaton River

crested Friday morning at 52.45 feet

In Kansas, records were broken in Television Index KSNT (NBC) WIBW (CBS) KLDH (ABC) KSHB (IND) 11 KTWU (PBS) WGN (IND) WTBS (IND) Premium cable: HBO, Showtime, CINEMAX, ESPN Additional cable channels not listed in guide: Manhattan cable channels 4 (NBC), 5 (CBS) and 9 (ABC) correspond to channels 7, 3 and 2, respectively.

Fntertainment

EDITOR Chris Stewart ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR Laurie Fairburn PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan GRAPHIC ARTIST

On Our Cover

Susie O'Brien, senior in dance; Sharrise Horn, junior in business administration; Tricia Durbin, sophomore in dance and finance; Nancy Keyser-Shade, senior in dance; and Gina Rigg, sophomore in business administration, practice a section of the dance, "Questionable." The piece was choreographed by student dance concert cast members Tammy Francka and Susie O'Brien.

Photograph by Brad Fanshier

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1986

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Defenders	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo _"	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Android"	Meet The Wombles	Movie: "Love and	Business SportsCenter
8:00		"	:	GoBots Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	Movie Makers	Bogg	Larceny" Cont'd	SpeedWeek Superstars	/John T
9:00		Pyramid Card Sharks	Jeannie $1 Mil. Chance	Family Ties M.T. Moore	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "Katherine"	Movie: "Sphinx"	Movie: "The Iron	Movie: "An Indecent	America's Cup	unty,
10:00		Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Family Ties	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Big Valley	:	"	Mistress"	Obsession"	SportsLook	_
1:00	Password	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched My 3 Sons	Society Society	Falcon Crest	Perry Mason	Movie: "City Heat"	Movie: "The	Movie: "Starman"	Aerobics Running	1
2:00	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Get Smart Andy Griffith	Sesame Street	News	Movie: "Little Giant"	:	Candidate"	:	CFL Football Winnipeg at	300
4:00	Lives	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	Hillbilles Green Acres	Mystery!	Lead-Off Man Baseball	WomanWatch	Movie: "Lies My	Movie: "Second-Hand	Movie: "Cannery	Toronto	1
2:00		Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Kitchen Painting	St. Louis Cardinals at	Tom & Jerry And Friends	Father Told Me"	Hearts"	Row"	Davis Cup Tennis	/
3:00		Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Tom And Jerry	Cooking Aerobics	Chicago Cubs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Henry's Cat Seventeen	Bogg Meet The	Movie: "Jim Thorpe:	U.S. vs. Australia	-
4:00	must more a	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flinstones Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	" Transformers	Rocky Road Safe At Home	Movie: "The Aviator"	Wombles	All American"	"	. /
5:00	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Diff. Strokes Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life Good Times	Andy Griffith Hillbillies	"	Movie: "The	Movie: "Maxie"	SportsLook Running	1
6:00	News	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Benson	Sanford Portrait Of	Inside The NFL	Candidate"		SportsCenter Indy Colts	1
7:00		Scarecrow And Mrs. King	Webster Mr. Belvedere	Barnaby Jones	Wash. Week Wall St. Wk.	Movie: "The Ice	America Baseball	Movie: "Bachelor	Movie: "Creator"	Movie: "Pale Rider"	NFL's Greatest Moments
8:00		Dallas	SI. Hammer Sidekicks	National Geographic	Moneymakers McLaughlin	Pirates"	Atlanta Braves at	Party"	"	"	Top Rank Boxing	,
9:00		Falcon Crest	Starman	National Geographic	Innovation Market	News	Houston Astros	Movie: "Volunteers"	Gallagher	Movie: "The	Baronet vs. Ferrell
0:00	44111	News Dating Game	Buddies M*A*S*H	Beaver I Love Lucy	TV Classics Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	Night Tracks - Power Play		Movie: "Teachers"	Gauntlet"	SportsCenter Davis Cup
1:00	Rock 'N Roll	Lifestyles	Movie: "Outlaw	News Movie:	Ctry. Express	Movie:	Night Tracks	Movie: "Losin' It"	"	Movie: "Mata Hari"	Tennis U.S. vs.
-		CHIPS	Blues"	"Key Largo"		"Mummy's Shroud"	Night Tracks	inside NFL	"Emerald Forest"		Australia	n

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1986

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Kissyfur Gummi Bears	B'stain Bears Wildfire	Wuzzles Care Bears	Tom And Jerry Rainbow Brite	Algebra	Farm Report World Tom.	Wrestling	Movie: "Rhinestone"	Movie: "Cimarron"	Movie: "Chariots Of	Football Film
8:00	Smurfs	Muppets	Flintstone Kids	Popples Gang	Photo Vision Photo Vision	Charlando Business	National Geographic	"		Fire",	Fishing Fishing
9:00	P. Brewster	Galaxy High Teen Wolf	Ghostbusters Pd. Puppies	Bugs Bunny And Porky Pig	S. Previews Old House	People Wild Kingdom	Explorer	Inside The NFL	Movie: "Gold Is	Movie: "My Science	Running Powerboat
10:00	Chipmunks Universe	Playhouse Circus	Bugs Bunny New Ewoks	Puttin' On	Motorweek Dr. Marc	Photon Transformers	Cimarron Strip	Movie: "Teen Wolf"	Where You Find It"	Project"	Racing SpoCtr.
11:00		Hulk Hogan	Weekend Littles	Lifestyles	Painting Vict. Garden	Jem To Come	College	Preview	Movie: "Victory"	Movie: "The Jigsaw	NFL Game Tennis
12:00	Football	News Public People	Bandstand Kung Fu	Lost In Space	Sesame Street	Baseball St. Louis	Football Mississippi at	Survival		Man" Movie:	Ford Champ.
1:00		College	Generation	Incredible Hulk	Write Course Write Course	Cardinals at Chicago	Georgia	Movie: "Bye Bye	Movie: "Cannonball	"Fletch"	Davis Cup Tennis
2:00	"	Football lowa at	College Football	Bionic Woman	Society Society	Cubs		Birdie''	Run II''	M. Headroom	U.S. vs. Australia
3:00		Michigan State	Notre Dame at Alabama	Battlestar Galactica	Psychology Psychology	Soul Train	Bonanza	Movie: "Places In The	Paul's Case	Rock And Roll	"
4:00		" "	"	Buck Rogers	Congress Congress	Puttin' On Good Times	O. Wilson Motorweek	Heart"	Movie: "Streets Of	Movie: "Eddie And	Horse Racing
5:00		In Backyard CBS News	"	Black Sheep Squadron	Parenting Animals	It's A Living Big Family	Wrestling	Movie: "Oxford	Fire",	The Cruisers"	Magic Years Scholastic
6:00		Mama's Family Country Music	Buddies 9 To 5	Throb Big Family	Creatures Great & Small	Country At The Movies	College Football	Blues"	Movie: "Victory"	Real Buddy Holly Story	F'ball Scores College
7:00		Downtown	Life With Lucy Ellen Burstyn	Lifestyles	"Outlaw's Paradise"	Movie: "Quest For	Michigan at Wisconsin	Movie: "Teen Wolf"	"	Movie: "Jagged	Football Houston at
8:00		New Mike Hammer	Heart Of The City	Movie:	Bye, Bye Kipling	Fire"		Not News	Movie: "Year Of The	Edge"	Baylor
9:00		Twilight Zone	Spenser: For	Wagon"	Berlin Wall	News	Baseball	Weird Tales Weird Tales	Dragon"	Movie: "California	"
10:30	News Siskel & Ebert	News Solid Gold	Taxi Movie:	M.T. Moore "Look What's	I, Claudius	Write Songs Lifestyles	Atlanta Braves at	Weird Tales Movie:	"Adventures	Suite"	F'ball Rpt. SportsCenter
11:00	Saturday Night's Main	It's A Living	"Shout At The Devil"	Happened To Rosemary's	Alive	Police Story	Houston Astros	"Secret Admirer"	of a Plumber's Mate"	Movie: "Re-Animator"	Davis Cup Tennis
	Event MTV Top 20	At The Movies News	Rifleman	Baby" Solid Gold	ml .	Twilight Zone	Night Tracks: Chartbusters	Movie	"Cannonball Run II"	Movie	U.S. vs. Australia

CKY NUGGETS

6 nuggets, potatoes & gravy, biscuit & cole slaw.

For Only

901 N. 3rd

3002 Anderson

Expires 10-9-86

HOURS:

10-9 Monday-Saturday

Closed Sundays

2030 Tuttlecreek Blvd.

ONE FREE MOVIE RENTAL

$5.00 Off a Lifetime Membership

(Membership is Required) Offer good Mondays-Fridays

RENTALS - SALES (with coupon only)

vill take to ks he has nt to help ay call on s to assist also proto aid in k, which collegiate ans with ground, is he atrium

luring the

L, Page 3

The Rainmakers play to a packed house Saturday evening in the Union Ballroom. See Page 5.

Weather

Fair

Fair through Tuesday. High today around 70, low in upper 40s. Wind variable 5 to 15 mph. Sports

Topeka KS

55612 Overcome

The K-State Wildcats put up a good fight in Norman, Okla., as they took on the No. 6-ranked Sooners. See Page 6.

Kansas State

Monday October 6, 1986

Volume 93, Number 30

Kansas State University

Floods ravage

Kansas towns; cleanup begins

> By BECKY HOWARD Staff Writer

Flooding last week, which caused millions of dollars in damage, reached its peak this weekend in large sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, with governors in Missouri and Kansas declaring state disaster emergencies On Friday.

state disast southeast Ke Bourbon, C and Woodsor Officials 2,000 people the weekend The National to help wit build dikes.

'It's just se

Approxima northeaste evacuated & and Arkans banks. Offici the flooding with some a usual averag The only that of a 1 County, Mc inches of r Ashcroft (emergency !

57, and U.S. in southeast water. for real.'

Cattle take r grounds beg

A $342,800

guiding visi campus was ty adminis begin as soc Sources of indefinite, t Phase One general fur parking fee facilities pl: The prop tional signs Manhattan visitors to signs to ma posed, and s tify campus Visitor in for improve and Mississippi rivers were expected to crest beyond record flood levels. Record floods in the region were attributed to heavy rain since Sept. 20, accompanied by recent thundershowers related to Hurricane Paine. In Kansas, records were broken in Fort Scott as the Marmaton River crested Friday morning at 52.45 feet we flood stage The old

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Cowley, Cr. SUNDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1986

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	J. Kennedy	Jerry Falwell	Jimmy Swaggart	Superfriends Superfriends	Algebra	R. Schuller Of Faith	Tom & Jerry And Friends	Movie: "Oh God! You	Minors Cont'd Arthur & The	Movie: "The Bride"	College Football
8:00		Discovery	Kenneth Copeland	Wrestling	Sesame Street	Sunday Mass Superman	Cont'd Andy Griffith	Devil" Cont'd Fraggle Rock	Square Knights	:	SpeedWeek Outdoors
9:00		Oral Roberts Larry Jones	It is Written David Brinkley	Wild, Wild West	Mister Rogers Special	Cisco Kid Lone Ranger	Good News Movie:	Movie: "Agnes Of	Movie: "Cloak And	Movie: "Maxie"	Scholastic SportsCenter
10:30	Swaggart	Sunday Morning	Abb. & Cost.	Maverick	Sesame Street	Rawhide	"Quo Vadis"	God"	Dagger"	:	SportsCenter
11:00	Meet Press	NFL Today	Wrestling	Star Trek	Reading Secret City	Wild, Wild West	"	Video Jukebox Movie:	Paper Chase	"Remo Williams: The	NFL Game
12:00	NFL Football	NFL Football Regional	Movie: "The Road To	Movie: "Tarzan	Wash. Week Wall St, Wk.	Twilight Zone 1 Step Beyond		"Silverado"	Movie: "Two Loves"	Adventure Begins"	Auto Racing Race For Life
1:00	coverage	coverage	Rio"	Escapes"	Money World Vintage Years	Lead-Off Man Baseball	Portrait Of America	"		Movie: "A Test Of	200 ,,
2:00	"		Kung Fu	Movie: "Ma And Pa	Shakespeare Hour	St. Louis Cardinals at	Baseball Atlanta	Movie: "Dune"	Minors	Love" Movie:	Davis Cup Tennis
3:30	Spts. Legend Drag Racing	NFL Football Bucs at Rams	Movie: "Who's	Kettle Go To Town"	Firing Line	Chicago Cubs	Braves at Houston	:	Movie: "Garbo Talks"	"Dallas"	U.S. vs. Australia
4:00		or Cowboys at Broncos	Minding The Store?	Movie: "Breaking	Stage Nine Espanol	Movie:	Astros	Fraggle Rock	::	Gary Cooper	"
5:30		" "	Fame	Away"	S. Meiselas Sax Diplomacy	"Garden Of Evil"	Animals New Beaver	"Bad News Bears In	Movie: "Cloak And	Movie: "To Sir With	Hydroplane Racing
6:30		60 Minutes	Movie:	You Write The Songs	Wild America Nature Profiles	Fame	Wrestling	Breaking Training"	Dagger"	Love"	SportsCenter Superstars
7:00		Murder, She Wrote	"	Gidget It's A Living	Evening At Pops	Love Boat	National Geographic	Movie: "Agnes Of	Movie: "Altered	"Remo Williams: The	Wrestling
8:30		Movie: "The Last	Movie: "There Must	Ted Knight Check It Out!	Masterpiece Theatre	Odd Couple	Explorer	God"	States"	Adventure Begins'
9:30		Frontier"	Be A Pony"	Tales Write Songs	Masterpiece Theatre	News	Sports Page Jerry Falwell	Movie: "Silverado"	Brothers G. Shandling	Movie: "Maxie"	America's Cup
10:30	News	News Big Family	Taxi Football	Mama's Family National	Witness To Apartheid	Tales Lou Grant	J. Ankerberg	:	Movie: "Once Upon A	Movie:	SportsCenter
11:30	Throb	Business Day Review	Mannix	Geographic National	Shared	Fame	Jimmy Swaggart	Movie:	Time in America"	"Altered States"	NFL's Greatest Moments
		Herion	Fame	Geographic		Cannon	World Tom. Larry Jones	"Best Revenge"	"	Movie	College Football

MONDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1986

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00		CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Defenders	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo,	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Supergirl"	Movie	"Philadelphia Experiment"	Business SportsCenter
8:00		" "	"	GoBots Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Down To Earth I Love Lucy		:	Movie: "Fort Apache"	Australian Rules
9:00	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Jeannie $1 Mil. Chance	Family Ties M.T. Moore	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "Angel City"	Movie: "Advice To	Movie: "The	"	Football
10:00	torners.	Price is Right	Fame Fortune Family Ties	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Big Valley		The Lovelorn"	Whisperers"	Movie:	Play Golf SportsLook
1 1:00	Password	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched My 3 Sons	Congress Algebra	Falcon Crest	Perry Mason	All The Rivers Run	Movie: "The	"Coup De Tete"	Aerobics Outdoor Life
12:30		Midday As The World	All My Children	Get Smart Andy Griffith	Sesame Street	News	"Life And Assassination	:	Candidate"	Movie: "Cat's Eye"	College Football
1:00	Lives	Turns Capitol	One Life To	Hillbillies Green Acres	Bound For Bounty Bay	Dick Van Dyke Carol Burnett	Of The Kingfish"	Movie: "Red Dawn"	Movie: "Whistle Down	Movie:
2:00		Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Wildlife McLaughlin	Andy Griffith Heathcliff	Tom & Jerry And Friends	"	The Wind"	"Ladyhawke"	:
3:00		Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurts	Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	1001 Arabian Nights	Tall Tales & Legends	Movie:	Wrestling
4:00	Diff. Strokes	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flinstones Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Beaver	Movie:	The Red Balloon	"The Spiral Staircase"	Karate Sports
5:00		News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Diff. Strokes Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life Good Times	New Beaver Down To Earth	"Murrow"	Movie	Movie: "The	SportsLook Outdoors
6:00		News Newlyweds	Benson M'A'S'H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNell / Lehrer	Barney Miller Benson	Sanford Honeymooners	Fraggle Rock	:	Professionals"	SportsCenter NFL Films
7:00	ALF	Kate & Allie My Sister Sam	MacGyver	Barnaby Jones	Ancient Lives	National Geographic	Movie: "Divorce	Movie: "Supergiri"	Tall Tales & Legends	Movie: "The	Magic Years NFL Matchup
8:00		Newhart D. Women	NFL Football San Diego	Movie: "W.W. And	West Of The Imagination	National Geographic	American Style"	" "	Movie: "The	Philadelphia Experiment"	Baseball's Greatest Hits
9:00		Cagney & Lacey	Chargers at Seattle	The Dixie Dancekings"	Story Of English	News	Movie: "Virgin Island"	Movie: "Body Double"	Company Of Wolves"	Movie: "A View To A	Powerboats Aviation
10:30	News	News Dating Game	Seahawks	Beaver I Love Lucy	TV Classics Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.		"	Movie: "The	Kill"	Special SportsCenter
11:00	Carson	Night Heat	Football 700 Club	News Andy Griffith	J. McLaughlin	Movie:	National Geographic	'60s Reunion	Candidate"	Movie:	LA Raiders Auto Racing
1 2:00		Movie:	" Cillianae	Dick Van Dyke		"Any Westpenday"	Explorer	Movie: "Songwriter"	"Invasion U.S.A."	"Jagged Edge"	Fishing

Friday, October 3, 1986

Artist blends pop culture of East, West

By MARTA MONTGOMERY Collegian Reporter

Kathleen Shanahan will presented a slide show and lecture on her mixed media work at 10:30 a.m. today in the K-State Union Little Theatre.

The event is being sponsored by the Union Program Council Arts Committee and the public is invited to attend.

A reception in the Art Gallery will follow the presentation, said Marilyn Woodward, program adviser for UPC, where Shanahan will be available to speak to the guests and to answer their ques-

An exhibition of Shanahan's mixed media work is currently on display in the K-State Union Art Gallery. It is open to the public from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Shanahan said that in her work she tries to combine what she knows, perceives and observes from the East and West. Her interest lies in cross-cultural relationships.

"I am working on a personal hybridization of East and West," she said.

Shanahan spent a year as a visiting scholar in Osaka, Japan, at the Museum of Ethnology. Her interest in Japanese culture compelled her to spend that time looking for modern manifestations of the traditional Japanese beauty, particularly in the popular culture of comics, movies, habits and

"I like to work within the idea of visual metaphor, pitting objects and images against one another, and, in doing so, discovering that they're not such strange bedfellows after all," Shanahan

Shanahan has had numerous exhibits, both nationally and in Japan. Her work is part of collections in Japan, Europe, Australia and the United States.

Shanahan received her Bachelor of Fine Arts in 1969 from the University of Michigan and her Master of Fine Arts in 1974 from the University of Arizona. Currently she is an assistant professor of drawing at The Wichita State University.

Lee's Western Wear Any H Bar C Sportcoats, shirts, suits or slacks.

(with coupon) Expires Oct. 11 OPEN: 9-5:30 Daily, 9-8:30 Thurs.

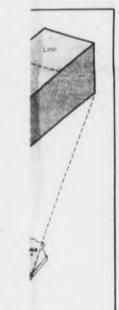

• 13 Varieties of Submarine Sandwiches

12th & Moro · Aggieville, U.S.A.

DINE-IN . CARRYOUT . 539-9308

Grilled Philadelphia Steak Sandwiches

taff/John Thelander County, one of ling ers

along a road in more than two ing to weeds, a and branches ued. is the worst,"

said Sunday. ing down." a., where flood Caney River at a record 31 of water were ing reservoirs deputy civil that by Sunday had receded e places. But wn in two and g through the ORMS, Page 3

ius all

t will take to orks he has tant to help may call on its to assist s also proer to aid in

irk, which collegiate cians with kground, is the atrium

during the AL, Page 3

The Rainmakers play to a packed house Saturday evening in the Union Ballroom. See Page 5.

Weather

Fair

Fair through Tuesday. High today around 70, low in upper 40s. Wind variable 5 to 15 mph. Sports

Topeka KS

66612 Overcome

The K-State Wildcats put up a good fight in Norman, Okla., as they took on the No. 6-ranked Sooners. See Page 6.

Kansas State

Monday

October 6, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 30

Floods ravage Kansas towns; cleanup begins and Mississippi rivers were expected

By BECKY HOWARD Staff Writer

Flooding last week, which caused millions of dollars in damage, reached its peak this weekend in large sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, with governors in Missouri and Kansas declaring state disaster emergencies - -

On Fr state d southeas Bourbon Cowley, Linn, Me and Woor Officia 2,000 per the wee The Nati to help build dik 57, and 1 in southe water.

'It's jus for real

Approx northea evacuate and Ark banks. Of the floodi with som inches o usual ave The on that of a County, Ashcrof emergen

Cattle take grounds b

A $342, guiding v campus v ty admit begin as s Sources indefinite Phase One general i parking fe facilities The pr tional sig Manhatta visitors I signs to m posed, and tify camp Visitor i for impro to crest beyond record flood levels. Record floods in the region were attributed to heavy rain since Sept. 20, accompanied by recent thundershowers related to Hurricane Paine.

In Kansas, records were broken in Fort Scott as the Marmaton River crested Friday morning at 52.45 feet foot shove flood stage. The old

Friday, October 3, 1986

Creativ Movement

ABOVE: Sharrise Horn, junior in business administration, and Gina Rigg, sophomore in business administration, practice their movements for a section of "Questionable," choreographed by Tammy Franka and Susie O'Brien, RIGHT: Cast members perform an improvisation for the final number of the dance concert.

Photographs by Brad Fanshier Story by Amy Greene

unky jazz beats, sweat and nervous competition. All are a part of the art of dance, and even more important to a choreographer.

student Five choreographers took on a challenge to choreograph dances for the Student Dance Concert. The performance begins at 8 p.m. today and Saturday on the stage of the Purple Masque Theatre.

The five choreographers and other student performers volunteered or were asked to be in a part of the first dance concert of the semester.

The concert is designed particularly for students who want to get involved and want to be a part of the performance.

The concert, involving about 20 students, is informally put together by students. All music and costumes are decided upon by the choreographers. Costumes are either ordered or handmade and can be quite expensive.

For example, a costume with a sequined bodice garnished with feathers (which can run $80 or more) is being worn in a tap dance piece.

Nancy Keyser-Shade, choreographer and senior in dance, said sometimes the dancers make their own costumes. The complexity of costumes also depends upon the budget.

The concert took five weeks to prepare, a relatively short period of time, said Keyser-Shade.

Roxanne Barthush, in structor in dance, gives ac vice to students performin in the concert and help direct the show. She an her students each have personal philosophy (what it takes to be a goo dancer.

"(A dancer needs) a goe body, technical training from an early age and desire to stick to dancing, said Barthush. "You hav to be persistant and kee trying...you can't reall stop.

To be a good dancer yo must have a desire to war to dance, then incorporat know-how, Keyser-Shac said. As a choreographer, lot of trial and error is it volved.

"You hear a piece (

deputy civil that by Sunday had receded e places. But wn in two and g through the

ORMS, Page 3

along a road in more than two

ing to weeds, a and branches

is the worst,"

said Sunday.

a., where flood

Caney River

at a record 31

of water were

ing reservoirs

ing down."

ued.

staff/John Thelander

1 County, one of

nus all

t will take to orks he has tant to help may call on its to assist is also proer to aid in

irk, which collegiate cians with kground, is the atrium

during the AL, Page 3

The Rainmakers play to a packed house Saturday evening in the Union Ballroom. See Page 5.

Weather

Fair

Fair through Tuesday. High today around 70, low in upper 40s. Wind variable 5 to 15 mph.

Topeks KS

66612 Overcome

The K-State Wildcats put up a good fight in Norman, Okla., as they took on the No. 6-ranked Sooners. See Page 6.

Kansas State

Monday

October 6, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 30

Floods ravage Kansas towns; cleanup begins

By BECKY HOWARD Staff Writer

Flooding last week, which caused millions of dollars in damage, reached its peak this weekend in large sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, with governors in Missouri and Kansas declaring state disaster

emergencies On Friday, state disast southeast Ka Bourbon, C Cowley, Cra Linn, Montg and Woodson Officials | 2,000 people the weekend The National to help with build dikes. I 57, and U.S. in southeast water.

'It's just so

Approxima northeaste evacuated S and Arkansa banks. Offici the flooding t with some a inches of ra usual averag

The only that of a 1 County, Mo Ashcroft c emergency §

Cattle take r grounds beg

A $342,800 guiding visi campus was ty adminis begin as so Sources of indefinite, l Phase One general fu parking fee facilities pl.

The prop tional sign Manhattan visitors to signs to ma posed, and tify campus Visitor in for improve and Mississippi rivers were expected to crest beyond record flood levels. Record floods in the region were attributed to heavy rain since Sept. 20, accompanied by recent thundershowers related to Hurricane Paine.

In Kansas, records were broken in Fort Scott as the Marmaton River crested Friday morning at 52.45 feet

Friday, October 3, 1986

ff/John Thelander County, one of long a road in ore than two g to weeds, a id branches .d.

the worst," aid Sunday. ig down." , where flood Caney River t a record 31 f water were ig reservoirs eputy civil at by Sunday nad receded places. But 1 in two and through the RMS, Page 3

us

vill take to .. ks he has nt to help ay call on s to assist also proto aid in

> k, which collegiate ans with ground, is he atrium

uring the L, Page 3

music and get an idea of what to work with," Barthush said.

Keyser-Shade, who choreographed modern dances to "Yakety-Yak" and "I-70," said a choreographer must listen to the music and then do what the music "says."

The Music from Coasters, Duke Ellington, Handel and The Art of styles.

When I Do the Mambo," a "Silhouettes," a ballet, ministration. were both choregraphed by created by Susan Dale, junior in dance. Dale said titude is more important than ability. Dale envisions a life on Broadway or in the movies. "To get in," said Dales, "is 90 percent who you know, 5 percent talent and 5 percent luck."

Christine Rome, a freshman in interior design, said to be a good dancer it takes effort and ability.

Tammy Francka, junior Noise provides the inspira- in dance, and Susie tion for a variety of dance O'Brien, senior in dance, put together "Ques-"Who's Got the Pain tionable." "Legs" was choreographed by Sharisse tap dance number, and Horn, junior in business ad-

The program will end with an impromtu dance performed by the ensemble she believes in dance, at- titled "Improvisation."

ABOVE: Nancy Keyser-Shade, senior in dance, gives instructions to cast members during a rehearsal in the Purple Masque Theatre. LEFT: Nancy Keyser-Shade and Tammy Francka, junior in dance, concentrate on syncronization during a rehearsal improvisation.

The Rainmakers play to a packed house Saturday evening in the Union Ballroom. See Page 5.

Weather

Fair

Fair through Tuesday. High today around 70, low in upper 40s. Wind variable 5 to 15 mph.

Topeks KS

66612 Overcome

The K-State Wildcats put up a good fight in Norman, Okla., as they took on the No. 6-ranked Sooners. See Page 6.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Monday October 6, 1986

Kansas State University

Floods ravage Kansas towns; cleanup begins

By BECKY HOWARD Staff Writer

Flooding last week, which caused millions of dollars in damage, reached its peak this weekend in large sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, with governors in Missouri and Kansas declaring state disaster emergencies On Friday state disast southeast Ka Bourbon, Cl Cowley, Cr. Linn, Montg and Woodson

Officials 2,000 people the weekend The National to help with build dikes. I 57, and U.S. in southeast water.

'It's just so for real.

Approxima northeaste evacuated 5 and Arkans banks. Offici the flooding with some a inches of r usual averag The only that of a County, Mo

Ashcroft (emergency :

Cattle take 1 grounds beg

A $342,80 guiding vis campus wa ty admini begin as so Sources o indefinite, Phase One general fu parking fee facilities pl The prop tional sign Manhattan visitors to signs to ma posed, and tify campu Visitor in

for improve

Union Concert

Volume 93, Number 30

and Mississippi rivers were expected to crest beyond record flood levels. Record floods in the region were attributed to heavy rain since Sept. 20, accompanied by recent thundershowers related to Hurricane Paine. In Kansas, records were broken in Fort Scott as the Marmaton River

crested Friday morning at 52.45 feet

Friday, October 3, 1986

Film Review

'Tough Guys' stars surpass feeble plot

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

In 1955, Archie Long and Harry Doyle made history when they robbed a train - the final train robbery of this century. Thirty years later, their prison sentences are up and they're back on the streets, but the world they encounter is only vaguely familiar: Their old neighborhood has deteriorated, big band music is out of fashion, and gymnasiums have gone co-ed.

It won't be easy, if not downright impossible, for them to adjust. Kirk Douglas and Burt Lancaster star as Archie and Harry in "Tough Guys" - a new comedy by director Jeff Kanew. Both stars have finally reached that age when they get to play characters their own age, instead of pretending they're much younger. This serves them both well.

Once out of prison, the parole officer gets Archie a job at an ice cream parlor and Harry - since he's over 70 years old - a place in a home for the elderly. Archie doesn't like taking orders and Harry doesn't like waiting to die but what else can they do? They get a little help in making that decison when the detective (Charles Durning) who originally put them away in '55 starts nudging them toward crime.

Unlike similar movies - "Going in Style" with Art Carney and George Burns or "The Grey Fox" with Richard Farnsworth -Kanew doesn't go for realism as he depicts the problems his characters face when getting old.

Instead he goes for broad comedy. This might've worked if Kanew hadn't framed nearly every line of dialogue as if it were a punch line. Instead of gradually building toward big laughs, Kanew allows his actors to ham it up, destroying the comedic timing. It's fun wat-ching Douglas and Lancaster at work again, but it would've helped if they had had a director willing to tell them when too much is too much. Without this restraint, they act as if they know they're being funny. And nothing destroys a comedian's joke as quickly as the sound of his own laughter.

See FILM, Page 7

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1986

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Defenders	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo,	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Door To	Movie Cont'd Tall Tales &	Movie Cont'd Movie:	Business SportsCenter
8:00	:	:		GoBots Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	Door"	Legends	"Cry Rapel"	Hydroplane Racing
9:00	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Jeannie $1 Mil. Chance	Family Ties M.T. Moore	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "Flamingo	Movie: "Reno And	Movie: "Texas	Movie: "Chariots Of	'85 Seahawks America's
10:30		Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Family Ties	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Big Valley	Road"	The Doc" Not News	Carnival" Elton John	Fire",	Cup SportsLook
11:00		Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched My 3 Sons	Write Course Psychology	Falcon Crest	Perry Mason	All The Rivers Run	Breaking Hearts Tour	Movie: "Jim Thorpe:	Aerobics Davis Cup
12:30		Midday As The World	All My Children	Get Smart Andy Griffith	Sesame Street	News	Movie: "G-Men"	"	Movie:	All American"	Tennis U.S. vs.
1:00	Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	Hillbillies Green Acres	Masterpiece Theatre	Dick Van Dyke Carol Burnett		Movie: "The Razor's	"Red Dawn"	Movie: "2010"	Australia
2:00	Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Mod. Maturity Living	Andy Griffith Heathcliff	Tom & Jerry And Friends	Edge"			Tennis
3:00	Happy Days	Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurts	Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Workin' For	Tall Tales & Legends	Movie: "Diamond	Jr. Challenge Cycling
4:00	Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flinstones Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Beaver	Peanuts Movie:	Movie: "Ups &	Horseshoe"	US vs. USSR Scholastic
5:30	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Diff. Strokes Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life Good Times	Andy Griffith Hillbillies	"To Find My Son"	Downs"	Movie: "Chariots Of	SportsLook 1985 Bears
6:00	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Benson	Sanford Honeymooners	Not News	Paper Chase	Fire"	SportsCenter Baseball
7:00	Matlock	Wizard	Baseball Playoffs	Barnaby Jones	Nova,	Movie: "Red Sun"	Movie: "The Shakiest	Movie: "The	Movie: "Red Dawn"	Movie: "Joshua Then	Superbouts
8:00	Crime Story	Movie: "The Last	Angels at TBA	Movie: "Badlands"	The Africans		Gun in The West"	Terminator"		And Now"	Roller Derby
9:00	1986	Frontier"	"	"	War And Peace	News	Movie: "Dear	The Hitchhiker Weird Tales	Elaine Boosler	Movie: "Prizzi's	Kick Boxing
10:00	News Tonight	News Dating Game	Buddies M*A*S*H	Beaver I Love Lucy	TV Classics Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	Detective"	Movie: "Thunder	"American Werewolf In	Honor"	Arm Wrest. SportsCenter
11:30	David	Simon & Simon	Nightline 700 Club	News Andy Griffith	Newsleaders	Movie:	Movie: "Land Of The	Alley"	London" Movie:	Movie:	1985 Broncos Top Rank
	Letterman Gene Scott	Movie: "Legs"	Rifleman	Dick Van Dyke Three Stooges		"A Fine Madness"	Pharaohs"	Movie: "Cease Fire"	"The Grey	"Goodbye, Emmanuelle"	Boxing

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1986

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Defenders	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "The Aviator"	Movie: "American	Movie Cont'd Movie:	Business SportsCent
8:00	"	" "		GoBots Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	"	Flyers"	"Fletch"	Roller Derb
9:30	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Jeannie $1 Mil. Chance	Family Ties M.T. Moore	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "GI Blues"	Movie: "City Heat"	"Devil And Daniel	Movie:	Track And Field
10:00	Jeopardy Scrabble	Price is Right	Fame Fortune Family Ties	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Big Valley		"	Webster" Movie:	"Tommy"	Baseball SportsLook
11:00	Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched My 3 Sons	Congress Algebra	Falcon Crest	Perry Mason	All The Rivers Run	"Rustlers' Rhapsody"	MaxTrax	Aerobics Davis Cup
12:30	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Get Smart Andy Griffith	Sesame Street	News,	Movie: "The		Paul's Case	Movie: "Great	Tennis U.S. vs.
1:00	Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To	Hillbillies Green Acres	Nova	Dick Van Dyke Carol Burnett	Mysterians"	Movie: "Agnes Of	Movie: "Victory"	Catherine"	Australia
2:00	Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	Baseball Playoffs	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Story Of English	Andy Griffith Heathcliff	Tom & Jerry And Friends	God"	"	Movie: "A Raisin In	Wrestling
3:00	Happy Days	Magnum, P.I.	Angels at TBA	Scooby Doo Smurfs	Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Preview Savage And	Tall Tales & Legends	The Sun"	"
4:00	Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life	Donahue	"	Flinstones Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Beaver	Beautiful	Faerie Tale Theatre	Movie:	Horse Wk.
5:00	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Diff. Strokes Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life Good Times	Andy Griffith Hillbillies	Movie: "Places in The	Movie: "American	"Maxie"	SportsLook Outdoors
6:00	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNell / Lehrer	Barney Miller Benson	Sanford Honeymooners	Heart"	Flyers"	M. Headroom	SportsCente Baseball
7:00	Highway To Heaven	Together Better Days	Baseball Playoffs	Barnaby Jones	Discover	Movie: "The Lonely	Movie: "Not Just	Movie: "Until	Brothers G. Shandling	"Remo Williams: The	Golf Hall of Fame
	Gimme Break You Again?	Magnum, P.I.	Mets at Astros	Movie: "The Ice	Channel 3 Moscow	Guy"	Another Affair"	September"	Movie: "Rustlers"	Adventure Begins"	Classic Auto Racing
9:30	St. Elsewhere	Equalizer		Pirates"	World Without Walls	News	Movie: "Roustabout"	Verdict: The Wrong Man	Rhapsody"	Movie: "Jagged	CART Michigan 250
10:30	News Tonight	News Dating Game	Buddles M*A*S*H	Beaver I Love Lucy	TV Classics Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.		Movie: "Agnes Of	"Can You Keep It Up For	Edge"	Cup SportsCente
11:30	David	Hot Shots	Nightline 700 Club	News Andy Griffith	Old House	Movie:	Movie: "Timberjack"	God"	A Week?" Movie:	Movie: "Maxie"	SD Chargers Karate
	Letterman Gene Scott	Movie	Riffeman	Dick Van Dyke Three Stooges		"The Executioner"		Movie: "Stand Alone"	"Victory"	Movie	Fishing Sports

1125A Laramie Plaza

Buy One 6" Sub, Get Second 6" Sub

FREE

Now through Oct. 9 (with coupon)

*Void with any other offer

ding ers

Staff/John Thelander

n County, one of

ed along a road in r more than two nging to weeds, a e and branches escued. was the worst,"

27, said Sunday. going down." Okla., where flood the Caney River lay at a record 31 nts of water were mming reservoirs

e, deputy civil aid that by Sunday ter had receded ome places. But town in two and gling through the STORMS, Page 3

ipus Hall

me it will take to er works he has assistant to help and may call on tudents to assist ate is also propenter to aid in

irtwork, which s of collegiate musicians with background, is ay in the atrium

hung during the MURAL, Page 3

The Rainmakers play to a packed house Saturday evening in the Union Ballroom. See Page 5.

Fair through Tuesday. High today around 70, low in upper 40s. Wind variable 5 to 15 mph.

Sports

Topeka KS

Overcome

The K-State Wildcats put up a good fight in Norman, Okla., as they took on the No. 6-ranked Sooners. See Page 6.

66612

Kansas State

Fair

Monday

October 6, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 30

Floods ravage Kansas towr cleanup begi

By BECKY HOWARD Staff Writer

Flooding last week, which caused millions of dollars in damage, reached its peak this weekend in large sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, with governors in Missouri and Kansas declaring state disaster

emergencies On Friday, state disast southeast Ka Bourbon, Cl Cowley, Cre and Woodson Officials (2,000 people the weekend The National to help with build dikes. I 57, and U.S. in southeast water.

Linn, Montge

'It's just so for real.'

Approxima northeaste evacuated S and Arkansa banks. Offici the flooding t with some a inches of ra usual averag The only 1

that of a 1 County, Mo Ashcroft c emergency §

Cattle take r

grounds beg

A $342,800

guiding visi

campus was ty adminis

begin as so indefinite, t

Phase One

general fur

parking fee facilities pl.

tional sign

Manhattan

visitors to signs to ma

posed, and tify campus

Visitor in for improve

The prop

Sources of ge ıs;

ins
vere expected flood levels. region were n since Sept.

to crest beyond record Record floods in the attributed to heavy rain 20, accompanied by recent thundershowers related to Hurricane Paine. In Kansas, records were broken in Fort Scott as the Marmaton River crested Friday morning at 52.45 feet

		Marie Charles
	1	Name
		754

THIIDCDAY COTORED & 4000

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Defenders	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Sphinx"	Movie: "Streets Of	"Dallas" Cont'd	Business SportsCente
8:00	"	"	:	GoBots Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies '	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	"	Fire" Cont'd	Movie: "The	Horse Wk. Cup
9:00	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Jeannie $1 Mil. Chance	Family Ties M.T. Moore	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "That Certain	Movie Makers Movie:	Movie: "Tennessee	Philadelphia Experiment"	Auto Racing NASCAR
10:00	Jeopardy Scrabble	Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Family Ties	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Big Valley	Woman"	"Teen Wolf"	Champ" Movie:	Movie: "The Wall"	Modifieds SportsLook
11:30	Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched My 3 Sons	Write Course Psychology	Falcon Crest	Perry Mason	All The Rivers Run	"Second-Hand Hearts"	" "	Aerobics Davis Cup
12:00	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Get Smart Andy Griffith	Sesame Street	News	Movie: "Across The	n n	"Gold is	Movie:	Tennis U.S. vs.
4:00	Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	Hillbillies Green Acres	Shakespeare Hour	Dick Van Dyke Carol Burnett	Pacific"	Movie: "Dune"	Where You Find It"	"Love and Larceny"	Australia
2:00	Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Photo Vision Photo Vision	Andy Griffith Heathcliff	Tom & Jerry And Friends	"	Misunderstood Monsters		Road To The
2:00	Happy Days	Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurfs	Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Survival	Tall Tales & Legends	Movie: "Ladyhawke"	Stanley Cup
A:00	Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flinstones Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Beaver	Out Of Step	Bogg Ounce Of Cure	"	'85 Lions
5:00	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Diff. Strokes Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life Good Times	Andy Griffith Hillbillies	Movie Makers	Movie: "Streets Of	Movie: "Eddie And	SportsLook Fishing
C:00	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Benson	Sanford Honeymooners	Movie: "Bye Bye	Fire" Washingtoon	The Cruisers"	SportsCente NHL Hockey
7:00	Cosby Show Family Ties	Simon & Simon	Baseball Playoffs	Movie: "It's A Mad,	Frontline	Movie: "The Goodbye	Movie: "To Catch A	Birdie"	Movie: "Second-Hand	Real Buddy Holly Story	Edmonton Oilers at
0:00	Cheers Night Court	Knots Landing	Mets at Astros	Mad, Mad, Mad World"	Mystery!	Girl"	Thief"	Movie: "Teen Wolf"	Hearts"	Movie: "Vision Quest"	Philadelphia Flyers
0:00	Hill Street Blues	Kay O'Brien	"		A.C. Clarke S. Previews	News	Movie:	Lionel Richie	Movie: "Blazing		Cycling
10:00	News Tonight	News Dating Game	Buddies M*A*S*H	Late Show	TV Classics Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	"Skyjacked"	Inside The NFL	Saddles"	Movie: "California	Mayor's Cup SportsCenter
4 4:00	David	Adderly	Nightline 700 Club	News Andy Griffith	World Chess	Movie:	Movie:	Movie: "The	Movie: "Creator"	Suite"	KC Chiefs Aviation
	Letterman Gene Scott	"Most Wanted"	Rifleman	Dick Van Dyke Three Stooges		"Mackenna's Gold"	"The Fountainhead"	Protector" Movie	Movie	Movie: "El Condor"	Special Horse Wk.

Friday, October 3, 1986

Film

Continued from Page 6

At times the broad comedy works well, as when Archie (Douglas) works as a busboy and tires of being ordered around by obnoxious customers. When he's mad, watch out when he clears a table. And by all means, don't ask him for a fork.

But the movie's major flaw is that it tries engaging our sympathies for Archie and Harry through manipulative means. Sure, the world they find is tougher than they ever believed possible. but now most everyone is downright nasty. The few people who aren't vicious are so generous they practically have halos.

Even though the movie has more than its share of weaknesses, the charm of Lancaster and Douglas keeps the movie from bogging down. They're not at their best, but even when they're off the mark they're still fascinating to watch. The dialogue they're given to work with isn't that bad, but director Kanew handles the scenes as if he were filming a TV sit com.

Staff/John Thelander

n County, one of

ding ers

ed along a road in r more than two nging to weeds, a e and branches escued.

was the worst," 27, said Sunday. going down.")kla., where flood the Caney River lay at a record 31 nts of water were mming reservoirs

e, deputy civil aid that by Sunday ter had receded ome places. But town in two and zling through the STORMS, Page 3

ipus

me it will take to er works he has assistant to help and may call on tudents to assist ate is also propenter to aid in

irtwork, which s of collegiate musicians with background, is ay in the atrium

hung during the MURAL, Page 3

OMMONWEALTH THEATRES MOVIE MARQUEE

CROCODILE DUNDEE RATED PG-13

DAILY AT 7 & 9 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 3 & 5

LATE SHOW FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NITE

THE GODS MUST BE CRAZY RATED PG FRI. & SAT. AT MIDNIGHT

WESTLOOP CINEMA 6

THE BOY WHO COULD FLY RATED PG

DAILY AT 4:30-7-9:40 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2 ABOUT LAST NIGHT RATED R

DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:30 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2:10

DAILY AT 4:30-7-9:40 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2

DUMB DICKS

RATED PG DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:30 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2:10

EXTREMITIES

RATED R

DAILY AT 4:45-7:20-9:25 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2:20

FERRIS BUELLER'S

DAY OFF RATED PG-13 DAILY AT 4:45-7:20-9:25 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2:20

Page 6.

Union Concert

The Rainmakers play to a packed house Saturday evening in the Union Ballroom. See Page 5.

Fair through Tuesday. High today around 70, low in upper 40s. Wind variable 5 to 15 mph. Sports

Topeka KS

66612 Overcome

The K-State Wildcats put up a good fight in Norman, Okla., as they took on the No. 6-ranked Sooners. See

Kansas State

Fair

Monday October 6, 1986

Volume 93, Number 30

taff/John Thelander

County, one of ling ers

scued.

ed along a road in r more than two iging to weeds, a e and branches was the worst," 7, said Sunday.

the Caney River ay at a record 31

nts of water were nming reservoirs

, deputy civil id that by Sunday

er had receded

ome places. But town in two and

gling through the

STORMS, Page 3

going down.")kla., where flood

Kansas State University

Floods ravage Kansas towns; cleanup begins

By BECKY HOWARD Staff Writer

Flooding last week, which caused millions of dollars in damage, reached its peak this weekend in large sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, with governors in Missouri and Kansas de emergencies in On Friday, (state disaste southeast Ka ... Bourbon, Ch Cowley, Cray Linn, Montgo and Woodson.

Officials es 2,000 people v the weekend The National to help with build dikes. K 57, and U.S. 1 in southeast I water.

'It's just so for real.'

Approxima northeaster evacuated St and Arkansa banks. Officia the flooding to with some ar inches of ra usual average

The only r that of a 16 County, Mo. Ashcroft d emergency S.

Cattle take r grounds beg

A $342,80 guiding vis campus was ty adminis begin as soc Sources of indefinite, I Phase One general fur parking fee facilities pla The prop tional sign Manhattan visitors to signs to ma posed, and tify campu Visitor in

for improve

and Mississippi rivers were expected to crest beyond record flood levels.

Record floods in the region were attributed to heavy rain since Sept. 20, accompanied by recent thundershowers related to Hurricane Paine.

In Kansas, records were broken in Fort Scott as the Marmaton River

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Friday, October 3, 1986

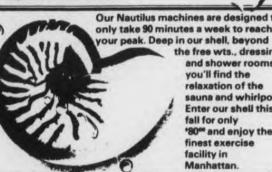

SUN. THU

8:00	-	JAZZ IN	THE MO	ORNING	G	JAZZ	SUNDAY
12:00	N	E	W			N A R	N A R
3:00 - 5:00	A	R	ΤI	S	Т	METAL HEAD	DR. DEMENTO
6:00 - 8:00	R	0	C	K		JAM	CROSS - POINT _
9:00					ROCK OF AGES	BOX	THE - "TOUR"_ MIDNITE DREAD - hermit at Nautilus Fitness Club. Our specially trained staff will get you started in in our shell. Over 25 Aerobio classes every week, with video-taped classes available to match your workout the free wts., dressing you'll find the relaxation of the sauna and whirlpoo Enter our shell this fall for only 000 and enjoy the facility in

AND INTO OURS Nautilus* Total Fitness Club

PYRAMID PIZZA'S FALL SPECIAL

707 N. 12th AGGIEVILLE

BY-THE-SLICE AND FAST, FREE DELIVERY

Octoberfest Savings Now through Sunday

Visit our Sidewalk Sale on Saturday! 704 N. Manhattan Ave. . In Aggieville . 539-7654 Mon.-Thur. 8:30-8:30 • Fri.-Sat. 8:30-5:30 • Sunday 12-5 ipus Hall me it will take to er works he has assistant to help and may call on udents to assist ate is also propenter to aid in

irtwork, which s of collegiate musicians with : background, is ay in the atrium

hung during the MURAL, Page 3

The Rainmakers play to a packed house Saturday evening in the Union Ballroom. See Page 5.

Fair

Fair through Tuesday. High today around 70, low in upper 40s. Wind variable 5 to 15 mph. Sports

Topeka KS

Overcome

The K-State Wildcats put up a good fight in Norman, Okla., as they took on the No. 6-ranked Sooners. See Page 6.

66612

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Monday October 6, 1986

Volume 93, Number 30

Kansas State University

Floods ravage Kansas towns; cleanup begins

By BECKY HOWARD Staff Writer

Flooding last week, which caused millions of dollars in damage, reached its peak this weekend in large sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, with governors in Missouri and Kansas declaring state disaster emergencies in affected areas.

On Friday, Gov. Carlin declared a state disaster emergency in 13 southeast Kansas counties: Allen, Bourbon, Chautauqua, Cherokee, Cowley, Crawford, Elk, Labette, Linn, Montgomery, Neosho, Wilson and Woodson. Officials estimated that 1,500 to 2,000 people were evacuated during the weekend in southeast Kansas. The National Guard was called upon to help with the evacuations and build dikes. Kansas highways 39 and 57, and U.S. 160 and 166 were closed in southeast Kansas due to the high

'It's just so weird that it's all for real.

-Preecia Lyons

Approximately 12,000 people in northeastern Oklahoma were evacuated Saturday as the Caney and Arkansas rivers flooded their banks. Officials in the state reported the flooding to be the worst in history with some areas recording up to 25 inches of rainfall compared to a usual average of three to four inches. The only recorded drowning was that of a 16-year-old boy in Cole County, Mo. Missouri Gov. John Ashcroft declared a state of emergency Saturday as the Missouri and Mississippi rivers were expected attributed to heavy rain since Sept. 20, accompanied by recent thunder-

In Kansas, records were broken in Fort Scott as the Marmaton River crested Friday morning at 52.45 feet 38 feet above flood stage. The old record was 49.34 feet set in September 1914. Iola also experienced severe floods as Elm Creek and the Neosho River spilled from their banks to flood the southern part of Pat Arnold, reserve deputy at the Fort Scott Police Department, said that 17 people were rescued by National Guard helicopters and eight to 10 were evacuated by boat during flooding in Fort Scott. Fort Scott Community College was established as a relief center by the Red Cross. Thirty Fort Scott homes were

"My mom said that everything to crest beyond record flood levels. Record floods in the region were showers related to Hurricane Paine.

the town.

destroyed.

"A major concern in the town was propane gas tanks - one leaking which were floating in the water. But that was all cleaned up," Arnold said. "Right now, the water is back in its banks and clean-up efforts have

Kimi Fine, freshman in engineering and a native of Fort Scott, spoke with her mother on the telephone Saturday to ask her about the

was just floating by in the streets. Our house wasn't damaged that bad we only had ankle-deep water in the basement. But some houses were completely underwater," she said. "The town is also worried about the drinking water being contaminated, and everyone is being asked to con-

Randy Hayden and Steve Springer float a desk from Springer Land Survey, Fort Scott, after flood waters had receded Saturday morning. The Marmaton serve their water."

Preecia Lyons, freshman in animal science and industry, planned to go home to Fort Scott for the weekend but couldn't because of the

"My parents finally contacted me and told me all about it. It's just horrible. The whole town is in terrible shape," Lyons said. "My dad's oil company was flooded out. Those huge oil barrels were floating in the water, and the diesel trucks were underwater. My dad went by boat and managed to rescue the computer in his office.

Lyons said that her four-story home currently has three other families housed in it because their own homes are completely flooded. She said the first floor of her home was underwater.

"It's just so weird that it's all for real," she said. "I've been watching it on television and it's hard to believe it's my hometown."

Lyons said that other businesses in the town were damaged or destroyed cause of the flood. Midwestern Trucking Inc., a company located close to the river, was completely underwater.

Roger Davis, Fort Scott senior in physical education, said his parents told him the lumber company was underwater and lumber was floating everywhere. The town's sale barn released approximately 250 cattle during the flood.

"Our house wasn't really affected by the flood, but my dad works for the railroad and the depot was underwater. I guess he'll be out of work for about a week," Davis said. "I'm anxious to go home and see what everything looks like."

River exceeded its banks, causing flooding in much of Bourbon County, one of

Staff/Robert Squires

Cattle take refuge on a Fort Scott house after about 250 cattle were released from the Fort Scott Sales Co. when the sale grounds began flooding. Although several cattle died, many survived by swimming to high ground.

Storms weaken, but flooding still plaguing Midwesterners

By The Associated Press

Rivers slowly receded Sunday from record flood crests in Oklahoma and Illinois, where an estimated 45,000 people were forced from their homes over the past week. and more were evacuated in parts of Water crested during the night at one Oklahoma city at a record 16 feet above flood stage, leaving snakes swimming for safety, and a levee break flooded a Missouri town.

Little or no rain fell Sunday across the region, which got up to 2 feet in the past week, but almost 12 inches of rain fell in 24 hours in Texas, causing scattered flooding around the western town of McCamey.

Damage in Illinois was estimated at $34 million Saturday. There was Oklahoma, said Steve Finefrock, a state Civil Defense official, but U.S. Rep. James R. Jones estimated damage in his district at $140 million.

Finefrock said an estimated 30,000 people had left their homes at one time or another over the past week because of flooding. About 3,800 families or 15,000 people had sought shelter in Illinois, a state public health spokesman said Saturday. Hundreds more fled their homes in Missouri, and Kansas Adjutant General Ralph Tice estimated 1,500 to 2,000 had evacuated in his state. At least nine deaths were linked to flooding in the Midwest and Pennsylvania and three people were miss-

At Yale, Okla., eight members of two families, including a 20-month-no way to estimate damage in old girl, were trapped along a road in fast, deep water for more than two hours Saturday, clinging to weeds, a barbed wire fence and branches before they were rescued.

"The last hour was the worst," Sallae Gardner, 27, said Sunday. "We saw ourselves going down."

At Bartlesville, Okla., where flood stage is 13 feet, the Caney River crested late Saturday at a record 31 feet as huge amounts of water were released from brimming reservoirs upstream.

Gordon Higbee, deputy civil defense director, said that by Sunday morning the water had receded about 2 feet in some places. But water still cut the town in two and sent snakes wriggling through the

See STORMS, Page 3

Plan for new signs gains approval

By JULIE ANDSAGER Collegian Reporter

A $342,800 proposal to install road signs guiding visitors to and around the K-State campus was recently approved by University administration. Implementation will begin as soon as possible.

Sources of funds for the entire proposal are indefinite, but $78,000 required to complete Phase One will come from maintenance and general funds, housing management and parking fees, said Larry Garvin, director of facilities planning. The proposal includes putting up directional signs along highways leading into Manhattan and streets in the city to route visitors to campus. Six campus entrance signs to mark K-State's boundaries are proposed, and street signs will be put up to identify campus streets. Visitor information centers also are slated for improvement, with two new centers to be added. Ten visitor information signs with maps, directory information and a telephone line to the Security and Traffic Information desk will be placed on campus.

George Miller, vice president of administration and finance, said increasing the number of directional and informational signs will help visitors find the University easily, therefore, improving its image.

"It's a little embarrassing to have someone across the street ask directions to the University when it's just across the street," Miller said.

"There are enough people who ask 'Where am I and how do I get to where?" Garvin said. "We continue to give street addresses and names to get there, but there are no street signs (on campus). Signs are part of the way people find their way around a city or on a campus."

Miller said he noticed that K-State didn't have enough signs and passed his observations on to the Facilities Planning Office.

Employees then conducted the study.

"There's no evidence when you come up Bluemont (Avenue) or as you proceed on up Anderson (Avenue) that people have ever arrived at Kansas State University," Miller said. "I also observed that there are no street signs on campus, yet we issue maps that have street names on them.'

The study was completed in May. It recommends the proposal be divided into four phases, with one being completed each year for the next four years. Garvin said Phase One may be finished by May.

"We looked at what's absent in terms of how people get around and thought about how you could start on I-70 and should be able to find your way to campus," he said. "We tried to recognize where the voids are in getting here and getting around when you're

Phase One will begin as soon as plans to in-See SIGN, Page 3

Mural arrives on campus to decorate Nichols Hall

By The Collegian Staff

After two years of waiting, Tuesday will mark the first day for the weeklong assembly of the Nichols Hall Mural. The mural was created by Eric J.

Bransby, 67, who was a professor at the University of Missouri-Kansas City. Bransby, who is now a freelance muralist in Colorado Springs, Colo., spent the past weekend transporting the 30-feet mural from Colorado Springs to K-State. "The mural consists of numerous panels which will be pieced together," said Sally Routson, coordinator of Student Activities. "This is why it will take nearly a week to install it. After hanging it, he is varnishing it, so that will also be very time consuming."

Bransby is basing the time it will take to install the mural on other works he has done. He is bringing an assistant to help piece together the mural and may call on one or two K-State art students to assist him, Routson said. K-State is also providing a University carpenter to aid in piecing together the mural.

Dedication of the artwork, which features lifesize figures of collegiate athletes and student musicians with geometric designs in the background, is scheduled for 2 p.m. Frid y in the atrium lobby of Nichols.

A metal plaque, to be hung during the

See MURAL, Page 3

NATIONAL

Ambassador to S. Africa sworn in WASHINGTON - On the day he was sworn in as ambassador to Liberia, Edward J. Perkins was under doctors' orders to stay in a wheelchair because of recent knee surgery. Instead, Perkins, visibly in pain, took the oath leaning on a cane.

Admiring fellow foreign service officers who recall that scene in July 1985 say the 6-foot-3 diplomat will need the same strength, grit and determination in the new job set for him: President Reagan's en-

For Perkins, the challenge of serving as American ambassador to the white-ruled country at a time of mounting violence there and uncertainty in the direction of U.S. policy toward Pretoria, is heightened because he is black. His nomination came the same week that Congress overrode a presidential veto and imposed tough economic sanctions against Perkins is being thrust into public scrutiny after a lifetime of quiet, and, for many years, obscure, service in the trenches of the U.S. foreign policy bureaucracy.

The concern among some blacks, as voiced on Friday by Rev. Jesse Jackson after he unsuccessfully urged Perkins to turn down the job, is that the Reagan administration does not want to confront the South African government in a substantive way so it has opted for a symbolic gesture.

Soviet dissident arrives in America

NEW YORK - Soviet dissident Yuri Orlov, freed from nearly a decade of internal exile in the deal that allowed an American reporter to leave Moscow, arrived Sunday in the United States and pledged to continue the human rights work that led to his banish-

"I'm very glad I have begun a free life," Orlov said, speaking through an interpreter at a brief meeting with reporters after he and his wife, Irina, arrived at John F. Kennedy International Airport about 1:30 p.m. CDT.

"I can say whatever I want freely. Now, I can speak my mind about how the Soviet Union should develop.

REGIONAL

Gas leak forces residents to leave

HUTCHINSON - Residents in a half-mile radius of a storage facility were forced from their homes for about six hours Saturday night when a release valve on a railroad tank car apparently malfunctioned and began leaking a toxic gas, authorities said.

No injuries were reported, said Bill Walker, director of Reno County Emergency Preparedness. The facility, Consolidated Storage, is between Hutchinson and Nickerson in northwestern Reno County.

Walker said the tank car leaked propane gas and hydrogen sulfide, a flammable, poisonous gas that smells like rotten eggs. "The only thing that we had escaping into the atmosphere was vapors," which firefighters dissipated with water, Walker said.

Law enforcement officials evacuated about 200 people living near the facility and blocked off a segment of Kansas 96 as workers transferred the remainder of the gas to another tank car.

INTERNATIONAL

Western-style store opens in China

PEKING — The first Western-style supermarket in Peking has been opened in the Lido Hotel, offering such previously unavailable or scarce items as breakfast cereals and disposable diapers.

The small store, managed by a Hong Kong supermarket chain, will accept only foreign exchange certificates, a special currency used by foreign visitors. It won't accept China's basic currency, the renmin-

An opening ceremony Friday was attended by U.S. Ambassador Winston Lord and Chai Zimin, former Chinese ambassador to the United States

Officials said they were not sure whether the supermarket was the first of its type in China, but were not aware of other Western-style

The state-run Friendship Store carries some imported canned and packaged goods, but supplies are sporadic and quickly run out.

Paper says Israel builds warheads

LONDON - A British newspaper said Sunday it has evidence that Israel has been building atomic weapons at a secret underground factory for 20 years despite Israel's assertions that it has no nuclear

The Sunday Times said it was told by a former Israeli arms technician that Israel has stockpiled about 100 atomic weapons. If true, that would rank Israel sixth in nuclear weapons power behind the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Israel has repeatedly denied it possesses nuclear weapons, but has said it has the capacity to produce them quickly if any of its hostile Arab neighbors acquires them.

The Sunday Times quoted the technician as saying Israel has built warheads at the Dimona nuclear research facility in the Negev desert for two decades. It also published photographs it said the technician, identified as Mordechai Vanunu, had taken inside Dimona. The weekly newspaper also published a diagram of an eight-level structure, mostly underground, where he was said to have worked.

The Sunday Times said the 31-year-old technician worked for nearly 10 years at a top-secret bunker that provided vital components for weapons production. It said he lost his job, along with 180 other Dimona workers, during a cost-cutting move.

Soviet submarine remains stalled

WASHINGTON - A Soviet nuclear-powered submarine remained "dead in the water" in the Atlantic Sunday but no smoke was seen spewing from the stricken ship, indicating a fire on board had been extinguished, Pentagon officials said.

Most of the crew members were evacuated to nearby Soviet merchant ships, and a U.S. Navy tug was in the area ready to assist if needed, officials said.

"As near as we can tell, the fire has been extinguished," said a Pentagon source, who spoke on condition of anonymity

U.S. P-3 Orion reconnaissance planes, which have been flying over the sub 552 miles east of Bermuda through the weekend, reported that smoke stopped spewing from the vessel Sunday morning and no personnel were observed on the deck of the sub, said Pentagon spokesman Maj. Larry Icenogle.

"The sub is still dead in the water. It is not moving," he said.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SENIORS AND GRADUATES IN ALL MA-JORS: Rhodes and Marshall Scholarship applica-tion packets are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in

K-STATE AMBASSADOR APPLICATIONS are and are due Thursday.

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN needs teachers for afternoon elementary-age students. For more information, contact the main desk at UFM,

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL APPLICA-TIONS are available in the college office.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Michael O'Donnell at 8 a.m. in Bluemont Graduate Conference Room. The topic will be "The Family Center: A Field-Generated and Expert-Approved Model."

ALPHA GAMMA RHO LITTLE SISTERS meet at 7:45 p.m. in Fairchild 202 for Royal Purple picture. Dress nicely.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets at 8 p.m. in Unior

BETA KAPPA NU AND CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER invites all seniors to attend a demonstration employment interview at 7:30 p.m. in Denison 224.

STUDENT GERONTOLOGY CLUB meets at 6 p.m. at 519 N. Manhattan Ave., No 3.

MANHATTAN CHAPTER OF THE NA-TIONAL ORGANIZATON FOR WOMEN meets at 6 p.m. at Valentino's Ristorante. The topic will be "Pornography in Manhattan."

PI SIGMA EPSILON meets at 7 p.m. in Union

FARMHOUSE LITTLE SISTERS meet for pictures at 9 p.m. in Fairchild 202

BUSINESS COUNCIL meets at 4 p.m. in Union

COMMUNICATIONS COMMITTEE meets at 6 p.m. in Union 203.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets at 8 p.m. in Union

CHIMES meets at 9 p.m. in Union 208.

Wichita_ Family Planning Inc.

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

Wed. AGD Bike Race Pre-Party

Friday—one night only!

Not the Glenn Miller Band

Free T.G.I.F. Set Free BBO

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Monday

HIGH ROLLERS

Any Call or Premium Drink only

616 N. 12th 539-9967

KSU Ambassador

Applications available in Anderson Hall, Room 122

Applications due Thursday, October 9

FLAVORED POPCORN FRESHLY MADE IN OUR STORE - A VARIETY OF TIMS TO CHOOSE FROM.

THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat!

> -- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's YOGURT! Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

It will knock your socks OFF!

COMEDY INVASION TONIGHT

at 9 p.m. Micheal Floorwax along with Michael Graham

531 N. Manhattan Bar Office 539-9727 539-4321

DEMONSTRATION TUES. OCT. 7 K-STATE UNION

RACE FOR JUVENILE DIABETES

Pick up your entry form in the Union

Tuesday and Wednesday. For more info. call 539-5560

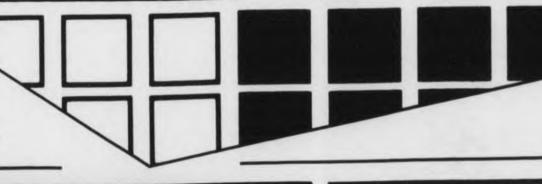

OCT. 11

K-State Union Zip.a. Tone

Techniques & Tips

ZI-099 660-12 👼

Oct. 7 ONLY the Bookstore will offer 10% Off all Zipatone Products. Use this ad as a coupon to assure your discount.

Aggleville

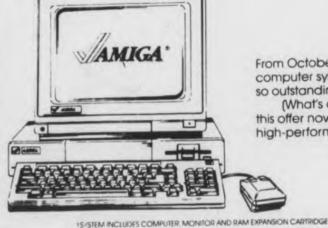

TUES. OCT. 7, 9 AM & 10:30 AM K-STATE UNION, ROOM 206 FREE SAMPLE PACKET TO ATTENDEES

Maidenform Open 10-5:30 Monday-Friday, 10-8 Thursday

10-5 Saturday

AMIGA® AMIGA SYSTEM † REGULAR SUGGESTED RETAIL $1995

From October 1st through November 30th take $500.00 off the computer system Business Week reported as having graphics so outstanding it's "the Maserati" of home computers:

(What's a high-performance machine without fuel? Seize this offer now and you'll save $500.00 to spend on the newest high-performance Amiga software.)

25% Discount on software with KSU I.D.

MIDWEST COMPUTERS 3035 Anderson-Village Plaza-537-4460

College entrepreneurs hear success stories

By SCOT SANDLIN Collegian Reporter

The K-State chapter of the Association of College Entrepreneurs on Saturday hosted a regional conference, which featured local and national "howto-be-successful" stories.

Approximately 120 students from K-State and other state universities attended the conference held in the Union.

Jack De Boer, chairman of the board of Residence Inn Inc., was the keynote speaker. De Boer is recognized around the country for his successful segment of the hotel market that attracts people to stay for several days at a time in a luxurious apartment-like atmosphere. The company, which began in Wichita, now has 81 Residence Inns across the coun-

His speech, titled "Success Is Seldom Permanent, But Neither Is Failure," emphasized the importance of personal relationships. He said he has learned that the only thing in business worth risking is money.

Before his success in the hotel business, De Boer had fallen on hard times. He said he had been in real estate, developing apartments and got caught up in status and ego. At one time, he was recognized as the second largest apartment developer in the country. De Boer said he was offered $100 million for his 16,000 apartment units, but he refused because he wanted a bigger piece of the pie,

"My ego had gotten too big," De Boer sald. "It was a sickness. Within a year after the offer, I was broke."

De Boer said he used a garden apartment he had developed and

Collegian Classifieds

Where K-State Shops

99¢

Bourbon -and-

Scotch Wells

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

FREE

BBQ

4-7 p.m.

made it into a hotel. He claims this has started a greatly needed new concept. He told the students if there is a big risk, there will be a big

In addition to De Boer, there were morning and afternoon

The morning speaker was L.L. McAninch, founder of Research Products Co. The investor and leading financier gave descriptions of his 18 businesses and told why some have done better than others. The L.L. McAninch Chair, an endowment in the College of Business Administration, has been set up so Robert Brockaus, professor of management, can travel throughout the world to small business and entrepreneurial conferences. In the afternoon, Mark David McKee was the featured speaker. McKee owns Pyramid Pizza and helped start Waddles Sportswear. McKee, 24, sold flowers in high school and had keg parties for a profit while attending Shawnee Mission South. He attended the University of Kansas and while there found a pizza business for sale he thought had potential. When he and a partner bought it, McKee said they knew nothing about the pizza business.

He said he promoted the business by emphasizing how important the college students were. McKee gave out free slices at football games and said he once delivered a pizza to Bob Hope, who was performing on stage in Allen Field House.

McKee now has new partners and has since reorganized his pizza business. He said he plans to open a store in Junction City.

AKAK

 $AT\Omega$

ВӨП

 $\Delta T \Delta$

Brother's

Mural

Continued from Page 1

dedication, will provide a brief history of the former Nichols Gymnasium, the fire that gutted it, reconstruction of the building and information about the artist.

The 30-feet by 10-feet mural is a dedication to Nichols Gymnasium, which was completed in 1911 and named after Ernest R. Nichols, president of K-State from 1899 to

Nichols was gutted by fire on Dec. 13, 1968. Since that time, students have promoted preserving the building, and this effort convinced the Kansas Legislature to appropriate a $5.58 million fund for restoration. The initial funds for planning were allocated in 1981, and construction began in the fall of 1983.

The building was dedicated on Nov. 16, 1985, and now houses the computer science and speech departments, a 350-seat performance laboratory theater and library storage space. The K-State Student Senate commissioned Bransby in 1984 to create the mural using $10,000 of student funds committed in 1975 for the Nichols Hall restoration pro-

Storms

Continued from Page 1

water for high ground. As many as 3,200 people had to evacuate in Bartlesville and surrounding areas. Along Oklahoma's Arkansas River, where water had to be released from the Keystone reservoir to offset heavy rain runoff, 17 shelters in Tulsa housed about 1,500 people Saturday night, said Red Cross spokeswoman Cheryl Blonsky. She said more people stayed with friends or relatives. An estimated 5,000 residents of suburban Jenks evacuated Saturday, along with 5,000 in Bixby and hundreds more in other communities. However, levees kept the river out of Jenks and residents returned home

Before the forced water releases from the Keystone reservoir, the Arkansas was nearly dry and could be crossed on foot. Downstream, the river was rising at Muskogee, with a crest expected Monday; in the state of Arkansas, the river was expected to crest Tuesday at 35 feet at Van Buren, 13 feet above flood stage.

> Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

> > ΣAE

ΣX

ΣΦΕ

ΤΚΣ

McDonald's

The women of Alpha Delta Pi would like to thank the following for their support & success of the ADPi Softball Classique:

FH

AXA

ПКА

ПКФ

Manhattan Citiy Parks & Rec. Dept. KSU Recreational Services

Benefitting the future Topeka

Ronald McDonald

House

★ FIJI—1st Place

★ ∆Y —2nd Place ★ K∑ -3rd Place

In Missouri, about 100 people were evacuated at Rhineland during the night and more were moved out by boat Sunday after a levee on the Missouri River broke, said emergency services spokesman Tom Mit-

The river was at 35.5 feet at St. Charles, about 10 feet above flood stage, and was expected to crest at 37 feet Monday.

At St. Louis, Mo., the Mississippi River is expected to crest Tuesday at 41 feet, 11 feet over flood stage but .3 feet less than the record set in 1973.

In hard-hit northeastern Illinois and in Chicago's western suburbs, the Fox and Des Plaines rivers were receding and many people were able to return home and begin cleaning

45 Years Serving America's Children

CHEAP ONDAYS & TUESDAYS!

DRAFT BEERS

8250 PITCHERS

HAVE YOU JOINED OUR AROUND THE WORLD

BEER CLUB?

Sign

Continued from Page 1

stall directional highway and street signs are made final with the Kansas Department of Transportation and the City of Manhattan.

Besides adding directional signs at a cost of $5,000, Phase One includes a total of 33 street signs for the main campus and Jardine Terrace Apartments streets and five campus information signs.

However, the bulk of Phase One lies in the two limestone and bronze campus identification signs that will cost $29,000 each. One will be placed at the intersection of Anderson and Manhattan avenues, the other at the corner of 17th Street and Anderson

In Phase Two, one information center is proposed. It would be located on 17th Street near the K-State Union parking lot where a visitor information center currently stands. The planned center will be open 21/2 hours later and be more visible, with signs on Anderson Avenue directing visitors to it. The budget for Phase Two is $100,000. The third phase of the proposal includes 11 directional signs on campus, five information signs and four campus identification signs. Two of the identification signs will cost $10,000 each, while the other two are $29,000. These signs will be located on the north and west edges of campus. Total cost for Phase Three is

The final phase will place a $75,000 information center on Claflin Road north of Ackert Hall. Although there is a visitor information booth on Vattier Street near Mc-Cain Auditorium, as well as the one in the Union parking lot, Garvin said the new information centers will be more useful to visitors than the previous booths.

"The information booth by McCain is unsuccessful in that it says 'Information' but it doesn't provide enough information," Garvin said.

Who will make the signs is still undecided. However, the University may be able to negotiate with the city and state to get some directional signs without payment, Garvin said.

'It seems to me that the state or city would be interested in routing traffic as steadily as they can," Miller said. "Federal highway standards do tell us certain kinds of things. The state must provide signs because they accepted federal funds to help build (I-70)."

Miller said the other state universities also have their logos on directional signs on major highways. For example, a University of Kansas Jayhawk appears on the sign at the KU exit.

With the new signs proposal, however, Miller said K-State will have its logo on its directional signs.

Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

Autumn Equinox Sale (This is a big one—Don't Miss It!)

OCTOBER 6-11

10%-40% OFF

Clothing—gloves, sweaters, socks, pants, parkas, shirts, shorts, boots, etc.

Luggage—duffles, travel packs
Bike Accessories—lots of BMX

Bike Accessories-lots of BMX items, handlebar bags, tires, pumps, shorts, etc.

Bikes-special prices on Fuji racing bikes, Cannondale SR $360 (reg. $465), all women's bikes, Schwinn, BMX & others.

·C Skis—package prices on new skis, & a few rentals for $15

Hrs.: M-F 10-6, Th 10-8, Sat. 10-5

FREE!

11:45 a.m., Tomorrow, Oct. 7,

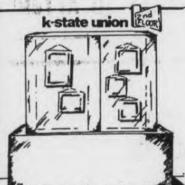

Union Courtyard

Her style combines immensely appealing originals with a long list of

Monday, October 6, 1986

Timestle

Today through.... October 17

Art Gallery

Award Designs by Bob Clore

K-State Union 2nd Floor Showcase

October 24 Collections of the KSU Art Department Faculty K-State Union

October 10

Exhibition & Sale of Fine Art Reproductions and Laser Photos

9 a.m.-5 p.m.,

K-State Union 1st Floor Concourse Hundreds to choose from $5 each or 3 for $13

k-state union

k-state union

Tomorrow, Oct. 7 Forum Hall, 8 p.m. $5 tickets available in Union Activities Center daily until 4 p.m. and at the door until all tickets are sold. Limited Seating.

Still crazy after all these years, comics for The Second City Touring Company are following in the footsteps of allumni like Joan Rivers, John Belushi, Dan Akroyd & Alan Arkin. See tomorrow's stars today for the rip-roaring comedy show that will knock you out of

k-state union

$15

Saturday, Oct. 11 10 a.m.-6:30 p.m. (Van leaves Union at 8 a.m.) Price includes gate admission and transportation Sign up in Union Activities Center, 8 a.m.-4 p.m. through Oct. 10.

Prepare yourself for a fun-filled day with your friends. Travel to a 16th century style village alive with entertainers, craftsmen and food purveyors. Where else can you dine with a king, slay a dragon or cheer a knight astride a fiery steed?

favorite cover tunes by such widely diverse artists as Bob Seger, James Taylor, Kenny Loggins, Emmylou Harris, Paul Simon and Billy Joel. Janet McLaughlin is 'Well worth hearing. Wk-state union

> This powerful drama is a realistic and engrossing portrayal of academic life. Timothy Botttoms stars as a first-year Harvard law student who strives to maintain his all important GPA in the competitive grind, while holding on to his personal integrity. Wednesday 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall

> & Thursday 3:30 p.m. Little Theatre, 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall $1.75: Rated PG: KSU ID Required. Don't forget! Kaleidoscope discount passes now available at all Kaleidoscope films and in the Activities Center, Union 3rd floor. 6 films for only $6!

""NEW AT THE UNION MOVIES"" Concessions are now being sold at all UPC films held in Forum Hall. For films held in Little Theatre, patrons are welcome to bring in refreshments purchased from the vending machines, Information Desk, Recreation, or Stateroom areas of the Union.

k-state union upc kaleidoscope

By committee recommendation, the Regents will soon consider whether they should require K-State to drop six of its degree programs from the College of Arts and Sciences.

The committee's reasoning for cutting K-State's programs, in this case, is flawed.

The Regents want to cut costs, but no money would be saved by cutting the graduate programs because they are being maintained at no extra cost. Some of them even generate funds.

The Regents also say they want no more than one institution to offer a program so that state university can develop a better quality program. However, that would eliminate competition to build quality programs and attract students.

Not only would this action hurt K-State (it would not stop here), but further efforts at paring the programs at all Regents institutions would damage the entire system of education in the state one of Kansas' best industries.

If the Regents decide to designate which institutions are to have certain programs, they better prepare themselves to revise their funding procedure and admissions policy. Enrollments at the various in- programs.

If the Board of Regents gets its stitutions are likely to be even more unequal than they are now.

If the University of Kansas became the only multipurpose institution in Kansas, the enrollment rate would rise accordingly, putting a strain on the school's resources.

The future enrollment rate would likely decline at K-State and the other Regents institutions because their diversity of programs would be reduced severe-

To meet the equal-quality standard, the Regents would have to prepare themselves for even larger bills than they have now because, as every corporate executive knows, specialization costs big bucks.

Their policy toward admissions would have to be one of total accessibility at every institution. No institution could turn an applicant down, because if a Kansas student could not get into a Regents institution where the program they wanted was offered, the student would have to go out of state.

Tuition at all the Regents institutions would also have to be equalized (no extra fees allowed) to allow fair access.

If the Regents choose to continue their cost-cutting measures, they are going to end up cutting a lot more than just

Editorial

Monday, October 6, 1986 - 4

Music more meaningful than lyrics

First and foremost, let me make this perfectly clear - the following is not meant to be a music review/critique.

I couldn't be any less qualified to attempt to pass judgment on the "music scene." I enjoy listening to the "good stuff" and could watch MTV for hours. After all, it's a great form of "mindless" entertainment, i.e. you can watch and watch and never have to think about it. Everyone needs to give his or her overworked brain a rest and enjoy television programs with no intellectual stimulation or benefit at all.

My friends have, on more than one occasion, commented on my "music appreciation," or rather, lack thereof. I really love to "jam" to the tunes but don't really take a great interest in the technical aspects. My roommate complains about finding fingerprints on her albums. I confess I find it difficult to put those round objects on the turntable without the use of my hands. I sure haven't found any handles on those suckers yet, and teethmarks or toeprints would mess things up even more.

My boyfriend won't even let me touch his turntable. He seems to think a little red "Close and Play" record player for ages 3 and up is all I should be let within breaking distance of. Maybe his unreasonable attitude has something to do with all those times I've thrown myself across the room tripping over the stereo speaker wires, the shag in the carpet or my own four feet.

There is a point to all of this - that too much emphasis is being placed on what the music says instead of how it feels. Parents are being warned to closely monitor their children's taste in music, specifically, the albums on which they spend their

The Parent's Music Resource Center, a national coalition, succeeded in forcing (or was TRACY CARLILE Collegian Columnist that, "very strongly admonishing?" - the end result was the same) record companies to affix warning labels to albums containing "suggestive lyrics." That smart move instantly made those albums more attractive to kids. Teenagers who had never bothered to listen to the words of a song suddenly became curious. After all, if someone in "authority" doesn't want you to do something, what better reason to do it? I for one became very curious, and subsequently confused, when I tried to figure out what the fuss was about.

Don't those well-meaning holier-than-thou's realize they're the only ones listening to the words instead of the music? They are intent on making everything "dirty," especially when they're the only ones who see it that way. Some insist that the lyric in Cyndi Lauper's "She-Bop" that goes "Can't stop messing with the danger zone," refers to masturbation. That was surprising news to the rest of us. I guess we're just ignorant, or not dirty-minded

Record stores report that these "mandatory of sorts" record labels haven't decreased record sales, or resulted in a great rush to purchase the contraband. Thank goodness, because considering the publicity given these nasty songs, it's amazing teenagers haven't raided the stores in search of what others want so desperately to keep from them. Maybe they aren't as dirtyminded and corruptible as some adults like to think they are.

When I was growing up (and I'd like to think I still am) I listened to music for music's sake, not to analyze the lyrics. The Steve Miller Band's "Book of Dreams" and Boston's first album were the albums we listened to in high school.

Those albums made us feel good, not because of what they said - we'd be hard pressed to remember the words - but because of how we reacted. We had (and still have, at times) excess energy to burn, and "rocking out" to our favorite tunes was a way to release that energy. If I was a "concerned" parent, I'd rather have my kids releasing that energy on the dance floor than in the backseat. By censoring music, kids will be that much more curious to find out what makes it "dirty," and perhaps act upon that knowledge.

Everyone listens to lyrics now and then, usually when that song has a special meaning to them. "Sad songs say so much" and sometimes express feelings better than we ever could. R.E.O. Speedwagon's "Time for Me to Fly" or Genesis' current hit, "Throwing It All Away," have special significance to the "dumper" or the "dumpee" in a broken relationship. It makes people feel better knowing that somebody once felt as rotten as they do.

Let's keep listening to music for the fun of it and not make it complicated like everything else is so rapidly becoming these days. Music should make us feel good. No matter how lousy we feel, someone's been there before and survived it long enough to write or sing about it.

U.S. should pressure Chile to end violence

Following the Sept. 7 leftist which authorizes the president to guerrilla attack on Chilean presi- restrict or eliminate "opinions, dent Augusto Pinochet, the news or communications likely to Chilean security forces closed alarm or upset the population." the Santiago offices of Reuters What alarms and upsets the and ANSA, the British and Italian population, however, is not opiinternational news agencies.

They abducted and killed journalist Jose Carrasco Tapia, clubbed and tear-gassed journalists who attended Carrasco's funeral and expelled three French priests who were accused of being spokesmen for leftist guerrillas.

They have closed six opposition magazines including "Hoy," an award-winning rightest publication.

Government forces have also detained at least 16 opposition activists, including members of political parties, university student associations, slum organizations and human rights groups.

They have indicted journalist magazine for interviewing a clandestine group.

measures, Pinochet has invoked the Chilean press and population Article 24 of the Constitution, nions or communications, but Pinochet's own brutal measures.

Pinochet has discovered that the easiest way to eliminate unwanted "opinions, news or communications" is to eliminate the people who espouse them through government death squads, such as the one that dragged Carrasco from his home.

Last week, Pinochet allowed ANSA news agency to resume work. Lifting the ban on ANSA is a positive step. However, until the government strikes Article 24 from the Constitution, the oppression is likely to continue.

Furthermore, until the United States, which paved the way for Juan Jorge Faundez of Cauce Pinochet's military coup 13 years ago, exerts pressure on its Chilean ally, as it did on Ferdi-To justify these heavy-handed nand Marcos in the Philippines, will continue to suffer.

Laurie Fairburn

Chris Stewart

Judy Goldberg Deron Johnson

DECLARE A OPEN FIRE ON STATE OF SIEGE! DEMONSTRATORS! TORTURE THE SEND OUT THE WE , WILL RESORT TO VIOLENCE Prisoners! is no answer! THEY?? the dissidents

Politicians use drug issue as cover

Election year issues are here. Every time congressional elections are due, we get bombarded with the same issues. These are not ordinary issues we see the rest of the year. One difference between election year issues and ordinary issues has to do with the time of year, but the main difference has to do with public opinion.

Election year issues are selected very carefully to gain all-important votes. You won't see controversial issues such as aid to Nicaraguan contras coming up at election time. An issue like that could bury half of Congress. Only issues like South Africa come up at election time because they have broad support.

The so-called war on drugs is one of these issues. Drugs have been around for decades, and every two years there is a new war on drugs. Drugs aren't mentioned in Congress during non-election years. The issue seems to have wide support among the people, at least those who vote regularly.

President Reagan seems to be upping the ante this year. His proposals for drug testing and the use of the military is breaking new ground in his quest to destroy the Constitution. He must think that 200 years is long enough for any constitution to survive.

The popularity of drug testing has reached threatening proportions. Everyone from big business to professional sports is making employees submit to drug testing. And now Uncle Sam wants your urine. They have been taking samples from military personnel for several years, but now they want to test all federal employees. They seem to think people would do a better job if they were drugfree. Considering the way the bureaucrats do their jobs, we should spike their water coolers with LSD.

A lot of businesses are using drug tests to screen prospective employees. Flunk the test and you don't get the job. Your financial well-being depends on some lab technician who throws his cigarette butts into your specimen jar. Business people who give these tests talk about the advantages of a drug-free workplace during their taxdeductible, three-martini lunches.

KIRK CARAWAY Collegian Columnist

With the controversy of drugs in professional sports, athletes have been some of the first victims of the testing paranoia. The owners of these teams seem to think drugs could hurt their teams' performances. What would happen if some of these players proved they could play better on drugs? Would warm-ups include snorting exercises?

If you think academic life is immune to this kind of invasion, think again. There is talk of testing not only high-school and college athletes, but students as well. If college campuses are home to the more intelligent people in this country, why do evil things like Communism and drugs flourish there? Who put the labels on these things?

If you happen to flunk one of these drug tests, contemplation of suicide is probably in order. A bad test could follow you like the plague. Who knows where your lab results could end up? The smoke of one joint could follow you to the grave.

There are two brands of drug tests on the market, and they both work about the same way. The tests will come out negative with the addition of outside substances that would alter the pH level. This can be done by pouring table salt, ammonia, acid or anything that can take the pH level out of the neutral 3to 4-point range.

In the midst of the paranoia about drugs, people in Oregon are voting to make marijuana legal this November. The Oregon Marijuana Initiative, if passed, would legalize possession and growth of the weed for personal use. This is one hell of a time to bring up the issue of drug legalization with the restless headhunters in Washington, D.C., who want to execute drug dealers. But some people in Oregon see it differently. Not only will legalization put an end to the stupidity of prohibition, it also drives out the organized crime element. If you can grow your own marijuana legally, there would be no need for dealers.

Some people believe legalizing marijuana would turn everybody into drug addicts, but there is evidence to the contrary. The Netherlands legalized the drug 10 years ago. Currently, only 12 pecent of the people in the Netherlands from the ages of 15 to 24 have even tried marijuana. In America, 54 percent of all teenagers have tried marijuana by the time they are 18. Obviously, prohibition isn't the answer. It didn't work on alcohol, so why should it work on other drugs?

The problem with this year's election rhetoric is that some of it might become law. Congressmen don't care whether the new laws are constitutional because the elections will be over by the time the Supreme Court hears the case. Some of them know the new measures are unconstitutional and support them for public relations purposes knowing the high court will strike them down after

People haven't learned that drugs are only a minor factor in the problem of drug abuse. A lot of people use drugs and never become addicted. A lot of people have access to drugs, yet never touch them. Maybe society, not the drugs, is the problem. Being treated like furniture could drive anybody into heavy drugs. Yet, this is what our system does to us. We treat each other like machinery instead of people. Maybe it is time we inject a little humanity into the system. After all, we created the system, so we can change it.

Kansas

REVIEWERS

CARTOONIST

Brad Camp Brad Fansh

Gary Johnson Andy Martin

GRAPHIC ARTISTS

PHOTOGRAPHERS

Gary Lytle EDITORIAL BOARD

ADVERTISING MANAGER

CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE

SALES REPRESENTATIVES
Jada Allerheiligan Roxie

ADV. GRAPHIC ARTISTS

Dave Adams
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR

Shelly Shaffer TEARSHEET MANAGER

Vicki Fernkopf

Mark Holly Sheila Hutinett

ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER

Tammy Girrens
STUDENT PUBLICATIONS DIRECTOR

Gloria Freeland NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

Renee Beaudor Kirk Caraway

Sue Dawson Jim Dietz

Erin Eicher

EDITOR Chris Stewart MANAGING EDITOR Jonie Trued NEWS EDITOR Sue Dawson CAMPUS EDITORS Margaret May EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier
PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR

Jim Dietz BUSINESS/GOVERNMENT EDITOR FEATURES/SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR

AGRICULTURE EDITOR ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

Laurie Fairburn SPORTS EDITOR Tim Fitzgerald
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR Tom Morris COPY EDITORS

June DeWeese Valerie Johnson STAFF WRITERS Jeff Bielser

Judy Goldberg Becky Howard Pat Hund COLUMNISTS an Baird Kirk Caraway

Tracy Carlile Wayne Long SPORTS WRITERS

Todd Nighswonge

Tony Carbaje Tom Perrin ADV. PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 626) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

The Rainmakers: storming success

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

The Rainmakers began their journey on the road to fame after hiring a manager, said Steve Phillips, lead guitarist. Doug Brown, part-owner of the booking agency the band, originally called Steve, Bob & Rich, had been using, became their manager about a year ago.

"He's a real hustler and he got the record company (Mercury/Polygram) interested in us and that's where it all started," Phillips said.

Working with Mercury/Polygram has allowed the band to remain true to its style, Phillips said. Horns and digital effects used on their self-titled album were the producer's idea. However, it was the band's decision to make an alteration in their ap-

'We're just trying to look a little more professional and not look like a band they just pulled out of a garage," Phillips said. Bob Walkenhorst, lead singer, said the band spent a long time deciding on a new name after they added drummer Pat Tomek almost a year ago.

"We didn't want to be Steve, Bob, Rich & Pat, and we didn't want to sound trendy," Walkenhorst said. "We wanted to sound a little more down to earth and a little mysterious.'

The band also wanted a name with a Midwestern sound, without a country band connotation.

Walkenhorst said he believes rock 'n' roll bands also have a responsibility to address current issues. The Rainmakers' song "Government Cheese" shows how welfare can harm people.

"Welfare doesn't accomplish a long-term goal," he said. "It robs people of their digni-

The song is pointing fingers at both sides: those who believe in welfare and those who want it abolished.

But Walkenhorst said he likes the audience to draw their own conclusions from songs by The Rainmakers.

"The fun part is digging for it (the meaning of the song)," he said. "I don't claim to have an answer, I'm just trying to raise a complicated question.

The Rainmakers taped their second video, "Downstream," during a Friday night concert at the Uptown Theater in Kansas City, Mo.

Walkenhorst said the song is about Harry S. Truman, Chuck Berry, Mark Twain and himself floating on a raft on the Mississippi River. He considers Truman, Twain and Berry three of the most important people in the history of his home state of Missouri.

'The song is about what they have in common and what I'd like to have in common with them: a sense of fun, humor and power," he said. "They affected people in a positive way.

"It was surreal fun, I got to get on the raft with them."

Phillips said MTV, which is currently airing their video for "Let My People Go Go," has opened up a big market for them by allowing audiences too young to enter clubs the chance to see The Rainmakers perform. "A lot of our songs are adult-oriented lyrically," Phillips said. "We wouldn't begin to guess that kids would like them."

Phillips said the group isn't planning to change their home base now that they are nationally known.

"We like it here, it's in the middle of the country," said Phillips. "We're kinda

Every member but Tomek is married. Phillips said his wife Becky and baby Zackery don't get the chance to travel with him because of the band's "rather hectic" schedule. Becky said even though touring separated the two while she was giving birth, she doesn't mind her husband's rigorous schedule.

"As long as they're selling records and they're enjoying themselves, then it's OK with me," she said.

"I think once in a while we'll just surprise people, I mean, The Beatles used to do that," Phillips said. "It would be nice to surprise everybody unannounced and just set up and play somewhere."

Since the summer, The Rainmakers have toured with Big Country and played clubs mostly on the East coast. "We're going on tour with the band Berlin," Walkenhorst said during the performance, "and it's our intention to (blow them away).'

The Berlin tour, which begins Oct. 17, will take them from coast to coast and into Walkenhorst said he believes opening for Berlin will be good for both groups because they play different types of music and are both trying to gain a larger audience.

Berlin recently produced the hit single "Take My Breath Away."

"They (Berlin) don't have a real strong audience and we're just building one," he

The band will go on tour in Europe in December, he said.

"We plan to blow down the iron curtain,"

Crowd sparks energetic show

> By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

At about 11 p.m. Saturday, an unrestrained roar emanated from the Union Ballroom. Inside, a whistling, stomping, clapping and cheering crowd pursued an encore from The Rainmakers.

Music Review

The Rainmakers played to an audience of about 850 in a concert sponsored by the Union Program Council Special Events and Eclectic Entertainment Committees. The event began with a warm-up performance by the Moving VanGoghs.

In between songs, Bob Walkenhorst, lead singer of The Rainmakers, reminisced about performing at local clubs.

"We've been playing Manhattan since about the first month our band was together," Walkenhorst said. "We've been to New York, the Big Apple, and I've seen wilder things here in the Little Apple."

The Rainmakers played for about an hour and returned for two encores.

"We love this school, we'll see you again, goodbye - thanks a lot," said Walkenhorst after the first encore. But the crowd's reaction was clear: they still hadn't had enough and insisted on a cond encore. "For our last number, we'd like to leave you with a big wet kiss," said

Walkenhorst, and The Rainmakers ended the concert with "Kissin' Time." Some people who had been loyal Steve,

Bob & Rich fans said they weren't quite ready for the band's change to The Rainmakers.

"It's going to take me a while to get used to their new stuff," said Aaron Rice, senior in construction science. "They'll still be Steve. Bob & Rich to me."

Staff/Brett Hacker

Kansas City's Rainmakers, (from left) Steve Phillips, Rich Ruth, Bob Walkenhorst and Pat Tomek perform to a packed Union Ballroom. The group played such favorites as "Let My People Go Go," "Downstream" and "Big Fat Blonde." The Rainmakers recently recorded a music video at the Uptown Theater in Kansas City, Mo.

Open 7 days a week Restaurant Free Delivery HUNAM EXPRESS 11 a.m.-1 a.m. Call 539-8888 or 537-0886 (eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

1304 Westloop 539-8888 (10% off with KSU ID)

SAMPLE WEEK AT TACO HUT OCTOBER 6-11

3 for $1.25 Tacos Monday reg. 55¢ each CLOSED Tuesday 85¢ Tostadas Wednesday reg. $1.20 $1.30 Fiesta Bowl Thursday reg. $1.90 & small drink $1.77 Chili burrito Friday reg. $2.15 $1.99 Sancho Supreme Saturday TACO HUY

Sun Mon Wed & Thurs 11 a m - Midnight Fri & Sat

2809 Claffin 539-2091

Adults: $3 in advance, $4 at door

Sponsored by Pi Kappa Lambda, a scholarship-benefit concert

IVAN SAND 34 Years of Experience

The Deciding Difference

- ▶ 66th District Representative 10 Years
- → Chairman of the House Local Government
- → Riley County Commissioner 24 years → School Board Member 13 years

Vote for Experience Vote IVAN SAND

Republican Representative 66th District Paid by Re-elect Ivan Sand Committee, Charlotte Shawver, Treas.

Falsetto's 2-for-1's happen every Monday! Buy any pizza and receive one of equal value FREE!

(For 1st session only)

* Now using new Wolff bulbs *

★Largest salon in Manhattan ★ ★ Exclusive cooling system ★ (Good Oct. 6, 7, 8, 1986)

1126 Laramie

776-2426

TODAY: Off Campus, Ford Oct. 7: Off Campus, Ford, Goodnow

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment call 539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Signs of progress highlight 'Cats' 56-10 loss

By TOM PERRIN Sports Writer

NORMAN, Okla. - Entering Saturday's game with powerful Oklahoma, K-State Coach Stan Parrish had two modest goals he asked his team to strive for.

Goal No. 1 on Parrish's list was for the Wildcats to score against the sixth-ranked Sooners. No small task, considering Oklahoma allowed only three points in two earlier home-game victories against UCLA and Minnesota.

For his second goal, Parrish wanted K-State to prove wrong the oddsmakers who established the Wildcats as 51-point underdogs to OU, which dropped from the top spot of The Associated Press poll after losing 28-16 to Miami (Fla.) the week before.

While the game turned into the rout almost everyone expected, K-State was able to make good on the two goals in a 56-10 Sooner

The 'Cats even scored a touchdown on OU - something no other opponent except topranked Miami has been able to accomplish. "The score doesn't show it, but we played about as good as we can play for almost three quarters," Parrish said. Nonetheless, except for a span from the middle of the second quarter until late in the third quarter, Oklahoma's domination of K-State was nearly complete. The Sooners' wishbone offense, turnover-plagued as it was under the direction of backup quarterback Eric Mitchel, still amassed 521 yards in total offense, including 429 yards rushing.

For Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer, the man with the highest winning percentage among all active Division I-A football coaches at a school five or more years, the 46-point rout wasn't quite enough.

"We didn't play as well as we could have. I was hoping we would have a better game execution-wise than we had today," Switzer said. "Our players didn't get pumped up for this.' As the game began, though, the Sooners didn't appear short of motivation as they rolled to a 21-0 lead with less than 10 minutes of the first quarter elapsed. Meanwhile, the defense, led by All-American linebacker Brian Bosworth, terrorized K-State's offense Oklahoma scored again after three plays of the second quarter to take a 28-0 lead. But from that point, the Sooners appeared to take a coffee break of sorts.

K-State stopped the Sooners cold in their next two offensive opportunities. And on a fourth-and-eight situation at the Oklahoma 31, K-State's Dewayne Baziel blocked a Todd Thomsen punt that Grady Newton recovered at the 19 and took in for a Wildcat touchdown. Switzer termed the circumstances surrounding the blocked punt "unusual."

"We had a guy in motion and we should have had a penalty on the play," he said. "They slipped offsides and jumped back and then that's when they blocked it."

K-State scored again late in the second quarter on a 32-yard field goal by Mark Porter that cut the lead to 28-10. The 42-yard scoring drive was fueled by a recovery of a Mitchel fumble by the Wildcat noseguard Jim Oehm.

The score stood until Mitchel completed his only pass of the day, a 58-yard scoring strike to backup receiver Carl Cabbiness with 2:15 left in the third quarter that put the game out of reach.

University of Oklahoma linebacker Brian Bosworth grabs K-State running back Todd Moody by the helmet as Sooner nose guard Dante Williams helps with the tackle. Oklahoma defeated

K-State 56-10 in the Big Eight Conference opening game for both teams Saturday in Norman,

Team Statistics

		OU	K-State
		22	11
	54	1-429	45-105
		96	102
		95	31
	1	3-8-0	14-25-2
		2-36	10-36
		5-4	3-2
		3-25	3-20
n	2	3:13	36:47
0	10	0	0-10
21	7	7	21-56
	0	n 2	22 54-429 96 95 3-8-0 2-36 5-4 3-25 n 23:13

Individual Statistics
RUSHING — K-State: Moody 19-57, Jordan 14-13,
R. Williams 7-(-29), Hanson 1-2, Brown 4-7. OU: Mitchell 12-126, Carr 10-49, Perry 6-41, Tillman 6-80, Collins 2-6, Stafford 4-33, E. Johnson 4-35, Anderson 1-6, Sullivan 5-32, Shepard 1-(-1), Counter 1-2, Smither

PASSING - K-State: R. Williams 13-21-2-97, Hanson 1-4-1-5. OU: Mitchel 1-6-0-58, Sullivan 2-2-0-38. RECEIVING — K-State: J. Williams 1-6, Wilson 1-4, Jordan 2-10, Brown 3-13, Elder 6-60, Hughes 1-9. OU: Cabbiness 1-58, Shepard 2-38.

While Mitchel, who filled in for the injured Jamelle Holieway, completed just 1 of 5 passes, his skills as a runner out of the wishbone are not in doubt. Despite problems holding on to the ball at times, Mitchel gained 126 yards on 12 carries and scored two touchdowns. "We were favored 50 points, so I think everybody relaxed and we didn't play to our full potential in the second quarter," Mitchell said. "Then we did the job in the second half." At a point when Parrish said K-State players were "exhausted," Oklahoma scored three more touchdowns in the fourth

"I really don't think we played bad at all," K-State quarterback Randy Williams said. "They scored a lot of points on turnovers and University of Oklahoma quarterback Eric Mitchel (1) pitches to Spencer Tillman, en route to a Sooner touchdown in the first quarter.

stuff like that. We played a pretty good game as a team." While conceding Oklahoma had the 'Cats "totally outmanned," Parrish was typically upbeat following the game.

'The final score isn't totally indicative of our effort today, at least I don't think so," he said. "We battled back and I feel good about > our kids." K-State, 0-1 in the Big Eight and 1-4 overall, will have this Saturday off before meeting arch-rival Kansas Oct. 18.

Mitchel, filling in for regular OU quarterback Jamelle Holieway, rushed for 126 yards and two touchdowns.

'Cat harriers place second at Stillwater

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

K-State's women's cross country team didn't have to face the powerful Arkansas Razorbacks on Saturday as expected, but found another formidable opponent in host Oklahoma State at the 50th annual running of the Oklahoma State Jamboree in Stillwater, Okla. The Cowboys nailed down top honors with 20 points, as favored Christine McMiken crossed the finish line in a first-place tie with teammate Veronica Haberl. The tandem conquered the Jamboree course in 17 minutes, 35 seconds.

K-State finished second out of six teams competing with 35 points. Prerace favorite Arkansas did not compete. The Wildcat men's team had the weekend off.

Chris Vanatta, fresh from rehabilitation of an Achilles tendon injury, captured third place and was the top Wildcat finisher with a time of 17:42.76. "I think she ran well considering the last two weeks she hasn't run too well (because of her sore foot)," K-State Coach John Capriotti said.

Additional K-State placers were Anneli Edling (fifth, 18:37.33), Betsy Silzer (eighth, 19:00.75), Lisa Wakem (ninth, 19:09.68), Jacque Struckhoff (10th, 19:21.39), Becky Ives (11th, 19:32.43) and Marge Eddy (12th, 19:46.21).

Struckhoff, attempting a comeback from a femur bone injury, ran her first race of the season. The junior, multiple All-American is unaccustomed to 10th-place finishes in her heralded running career.

"I think Jacque did a good job for her first race back," Capriotti said. "She is not in top condition yet, but I expect her to keep getting better and better."

Capriotti praised Oklahoma State's effort in the soggy, mudriddled race conditions. It seems everywhere Capriotti turns this season his team faces another Top-20 opponent. Four of the Big Eight Conference teams are ranked: Nebraska, Iowa State, Oklahoma State and K-State.

Again, the Wildcats did not field all of their top runners for the meet. Not making the trip were Angie Barry and KSU Open runner-up Alysun Deckert, whom Capriotti gave the weekend off.

With all of the top teams in the country expected to be present in two weeks at the Wisconsin-Burger King Invitational at Madison, Wis., Capriotti believes the "nation's No. 1 meet," as he calls it, will serve as a barometer for his teams' success the rest of the season.

"We are just starting to get everybody together," Capriotti said. "These next two weeks will be critical...We have a pretty good idea who the top seven or eight runners are now. We will know better where we stand after we go to Wisconsin."

Wildcats take third, fall to Kansas again

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's volleyball team finished third in the Autumn Classic Invitational Friday and Saturday in Springfield, Mo.

The Wildcats lost their openinground match to nationally ranked Southwest Missouri State Friday but came back the next day with a straight-set win over Louisville.

K-State settled for third place in the four-team field after the University of Kansas handed the 'Cats their second loss of the

The 'Cats' 15-8, 15-2 and 15-4 loss to Southwest Missouri State left the team winless this season against nationally ranked squads. Southwest Missouri State is the sixth top-20 team K-State has played this year.

K-State started well Saturday by downing Louisville 15-8, 15-9 and 15-7.

The 'Cats' good fortune was soon spent as Kansas dumped its intrastate rival 15-6, 12-15, 15-12 and 15-11.

Soccer squads go 3-1 in weekend matches

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's soccer teams posted a combined 3-1 record in action this weekend. The Wildcat men chalked up wins at Wamego and Topeka, while the women's squad went 1-1 in a pair of home games Saturday and Sunday at the rugby field near KSU Stadium.

The varsity men's team tackled Central Missouri State at Wamego and came away with a 1-0 win. Victor Atughonu scored the 'Cats only goal midway through the second half, with goalkeeper Akram Al-Ani recording the shutout. In Topeka, the men's second squad, KSU Too, dumped the Vana White soccer club 4-0. Scoring were Atughonu, Steve Thomas, Steve Lyon and David

The varsity women faced Rockhurst College Saturday and notched a 7-1 win. Julie Gallaher scored twice to pace the Wildcats. Adding single tallies were Julie Fintel, Rita Gregory, Leslie Goering, Jennifer Rice and Linda

But against Benedictine Sunday, the 'Cats came up short 2-1. The men's and women's varsity teams are slated to play at the Ed Chartrand Memorial Tournament this weekend in Kansas City. The K-State men are defending cham-

Plunkett directs Raiders in comeback

Missed call helps Raiders down Chiefs

By The Associated Press KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Jim

Plunkett fired the go-ahead touchdown pass and the Los Angeles Raiders, helped by a "communications breakdown" when the video replay official tried to disallow an earlier score, rallied to post a 24-17 victory Sunday over the Kansas City Chiefs. A pressbox announcement during the game said Jack Reader, the official in the video replay booth, ruled that Dokie Williams was out of bounds on a 12-yard touchdown pass from Marc Wilson in the second period. But Umpire Jim Keck "had a communications breakdown" with the booth and mistakenly let the play stand, the announcement said.

"Pass incomplete," said the video replay official in the pressbox. But Keck thought Reader said, "Pass is complete," and let the Los Angeles Raiders keep a touchdown

they were not suppposed to have Sunday in a wild, brawling victory over the Kansas City Chiefs. The Raiders were trailing 17-0 in the second quarter when Marc Wilson, on first down, connected from 12 yards with Dokie Williams, who made the catch as he was running out of bounds in the end zone. A ruling from the video replay official, Jack Reader, was requested. Moments later, Keck told the Raiders to kick the extra point after apparently misunderstanding what Reader said.

"I said it was incomplete and he thought I said complete," Reader said. "I looked at the replay again just to make sure and then I hear the whistle and look up and tried to get him. But the play was over and there was nothing I could do."

"Apparently the message was pass incomplete and I heard 'pass is complete," Keck said. "I repeated back what I thought I heard.

"Dokie said he was in. I'll go along with Dokie," said Raiders Coach Tom Flores, who got the go-ahead touchdown pass from veteran Jim Plunkett. "They called it a touchdown and that's what counts."

"I feel stinking lousy," said Chiefs Coach John Mackovic. "We bring these people in and pay them, then when it's all said and done we can't even get it correctly communicated to the field.' Albert Lewis, who was defending on the play, did not learn what happened until after the game. "I don't see how that could happen," he said. "That is beyond my understanding. One play did not cause us to lose. But when the other team scores a touchdown, you'd like for it to be legitimate. I guess it was just human error. Maybe next week the error will be in our favor."

Williams' score was the first of three unanswered Los Angeles touchdowns as the Raiders erased a 17-0 deficit to win for the second straight week and raised their record to 2-3. The Chiefs dropped to 3-2.

In the opening minutes of the third period Napolean McCallum, subbing for the injured Marcus Allen, scored on a 12-yard run to bring the Raiders to within three points at 17-14.

Plunkett, off the bench when Wilson suffered a hand injury, put the Raiders on top with a five-play, 46-yard scoring march capped by Hester's touchdown catch. Chris Bahr tacked on a 19-yard field goal for the Raiders with 2:55 to play.

Ag Secretary unveils farm mediation plan

By TOM SCHULTES Agriculture Editor

Beginning Friday, farmers and their creditors in the state will be able to seek mediation to possibly avoid foreclosure and bankruptcy filings.

The establishment of the mediation service was announced last Friday by Secretary of Agriculture Sam Brownback during a press conference in the Union Big Eight Room. Brownback also read a prepared statement from Gov. John Carlin.

The announcement was part of Ag Media Days at K-State Thursday and Friday sponsored by the College of Agriculture, the Agricultural Experiment Station and the Division of Cooperative Extension.

The service is being offered through the Farmers Assistance Counseling and Training Service at K-State and Prairie View Mental Health Center in Newton. FACTS is a division of the Kansas Board of Agriculture.

Brownback said the project is being underwritten by Kansas Farm Bureau, Kansas Farmers' Union, the American Agriculture Movement, Farm Credit Services of Wichita and the Kansas Bankers Association.

He said tax funds were not used to develop the system, nor are such funds to be used in the future. The service is to be funded by users, with costs set at $100 per hour for a mediation involving one farmer and one creditor.

Farmers using the service will pay a flat rate of $20 per hour regardless of the number of creditors involved. Creditors rates depend on the number of

Prairie View, said the facility will not be contributing financially but will be involved through the training and referral service for mediators. Thiessen said the past two to three months have been spent in mediator recruiting, selecting those sensitive to agricultural issues. He said there will be 25 trained initially, with another 10 to 15 in the state with previous experience available.

Stan Ward, FACTS director, said the main difference in the Kansas program and those in other states is that the Kansas system is totally voluntary, and mediation must be agreed to by all parties.

Ward said the states of Iowa and Minnesota have legislatively mandated mediation services, and Wisconsin uses a voluntary approach supported by legisla-

The first step in using mediation, which can be initiated by either the debtor or creditor, is in contacting FACTS. At this point, financial counseling is begun to develop possible options to foreclosure or bankruptcy.

Secondly, if both parties agree, Prairie View is contacted, and an area mediator is notified to establish a schedule. Ward said other states' experiences have shown that between four and six hours of mediation is used to reach a conclusion.

Brownback said the incentive for creditors to use mediation, when considering the large sums involved in agricultural operations, is that mediation is preferable to waiting two to five years for a settlement.

"(The mediation service) is to serve farmers and not political

Wefald discusses agricultural questions

By TOM SCHULTES Agriculture Editor

The role of the University in agriculture and the emergence of Kansas as a major food processing state were among topics discussed by K-State President Jon Wefald during a press conference Friday.

Wefald's press conference was part of activities for Ag Media Days at K-State Thursday and Friday. Ag Media Days was sponsored by the College of Agriculture, the Agricultural Experiment Station and the Division of Cooperative Exten-

Wefald said reductions in federal funding have had an impact on the cooperative extension, as well as other agricultural sectors. He said the reductions have caused a decrease in the number of county extension agents and services provided by extension, but the computerization of the division has helped in reducing the impact of manpower

Wefald also discussed funding approved Tuesday by the U.S. Senate for development of a satellite communications center at K-State. Extension has used satellite communications for seminars regarding property classification and laws affecting agriculture.

The bill, which had already received House approval, would provide $6 million in funding: $4 million for fiscal year 1987 and $2 million for FY Wefald said if K-State can produce documentaries, seminars and workshops using the system, the University should continue to do so.

He said the satellite facility would be useful for all colleges at the University and should not be restricted to the College of Agriculture or extension.

Walter Woods, dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at K-State, said the satellite system is not to be a total replacement for inperson services. He said that even with the high cost of television productions, the system has been considered cost-effective in its previous

In regard to future plans for the College of Agriculture, Wefald said he has not established any firm priorities, noting that strategic planning on capital projects and academic programs has just begun.

One project Wefald said would be high on the list is Phase II of Throckmorton Hall. He said the University has been working with Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., and $50,000 in planning funds has been included for consideration in the U.S. Department of Agriculture operating budget. The total project cost is estimated at $25 million The project, according to Woods, would expand Throckmorton to provide additional laboratory, office and greenhouse space to the north and east of the existing structure. He said it would not be possible to set a construction date until the governor's recommendation and the level of support from the federal government were known.

71 11 274

Wefald also expressed strong support for early proposals regarding the establishment of a Center for Rural Initiatives at K-State.

The proposal is in its early stages and support for funding would depend largely on the final proposal. K-State would be the logical choice for such a center, he said, due to its grain research activity and location.

"I'm very much in support of a rural center for initiatives," Wefald said. "I do support it."

The agriculture sector, throughout the state, should consider expansion of the food processing industry in Kansas, Wefald said.

"I don't know why we can't combine all of (the raw materials produced in the state) and make Kansas a major processing state," he said.

Wefald said another aspect to consider is the retention of quality facul-

"We need resources. We've got to make sure our faculty salaries are competitive," he said. "We don't want to lose all of our top people here in the next year because our salaries are so much lower than other landgrant universities or research universities around the country.

"So we're in a very precarious position...in terms of faculty salaries and operating budgets...we've not had the infusion of resources to do some of these things."

Wefald said the emphasis should be placed on industries already located in the region.

Despite the recession, drops in farm income and prices "to the lowest point in 30 years," he said, 'agriculture is the biggest industry in Kansas right now.

Wefald said the best way to recovery is "to promote the jobs and the processing and all the rest that goes with it." "Let's not fight it," he said. "Let's work with it.'

g dean accepts Extension Service job

By TOM SCHULTES Agriculture Editor

Walter Woods, dean of agriculture and director of the Agriculture Experiment Station at K-State, has been named as director of the Kansas Extension Service.

The appointment, made by K-State President Jon Wefald with the concurrance of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, allows Woods to succeed Fred Sobering, current extension director, who announced his an official retirement date of March Woods said he was notified of the appointment "about one week ago."

Wefald, in a press release, said he appointed Woods "because we need the strong continuity and leadership that he can provide for this key position at K-State. With the agricultural economy in crisis, strong teamwork is critical between research and extension to meet the needs of Kansas.

Woods said Friday that because of his current position as director of the Agriculture Experiment Station at K-State, he already had a close, working relationship with extension. This allowed him to take the director position without major changes from his current responsibilities.

Instead of working with another director, "I'll have that direct responsibility myself," he said.

Woods is also to continue as dean of the College of Agriculture. His current salary of $84,060 will not be changed.

Woods said he did not anticipate any changes in direction for extension, noting he felt it to be a responsive organization.

"I hope to continue to try to make it as responsive and effective as it can be," he said.

assified creditors involved. retirement in September. Sobering's Walt Thiessen, representing candidates," Brownback said. last day of work will be Dec. 31, with

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

By Jim Davis

Garfield

eanuts

By Charles Schulz

40 Had a bite 59 Mobster's

DOWN

1 Paul

film

Newman

2 "Who am judge?"

3 Inscribe

4 Tourist need

6 - - Man

(video game)

7 Biblical name

pillars

5 Mean

41 Vincent

Lopez

theme

47 French si one's

Benny

scrap

55 Receded

tear or

with Jack

43 Actor

45 Ruddy

48 Betray

10 Philiptermite

11 New York

address

21 FDR's pet

team

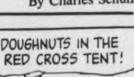

20 Reticule

22 Barbara

of TV

16 GI's

CLASSIFIED RATES One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper. Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad. Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.) Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52)

JOIN THE Irresistible Force: The Kansas Army National Guard needs

you! If you're a High School Junior, Senior, or Grad. between the ages of 17 and 35, you can become part of the IRRESISTIBLE FORCE.

*$2,000 Cash Bonus *$5,040 New G.I. Bill

*$10,000 Student Loan Repayment Program

*$20,000 Health Profession Loan Repayment Program *And Earn Over $1,200 per year

> For Information Call: SFC Don Hash (913)537-4108 day (913)537-2478 night

Part-Time

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword

ACROSS

13 Nautical "stop!" friends 14 "— Touch 49 He worked of Venus' 15 He played Alexander 54 Table Graham

Bell

17 - King 56 St.'s kin Cole 57 Word with 8 Stone 18 It precedes cent or form 19 Varnish ingredients 21 Man's hat 24 Hindu demon 25 Bustle 26 Moslem official

28 Rides the waves 31 Comedian Jay

33 Hot time for Henri? 35 Dies -36 Tarsus

38 Abbr. in finance

23 He played Barney Fife 27 Luxon native 29 Destiny 30 "The poet makes himself a -32 Swan genus 34 Authorize 37 Ignores 39 Liquids 42 Hacienda brick 44 Trouble 45 Kermit, for one 46 Pasternak heroine 50 Cagers' org. 51 - Harbor. N.Y. 52 Eggs, to Cicero 53 Fish catcher

CRYPTOQUIP

10-6

AIHCKLGZF XHNEXLKC

AWN LIIGKL LKEWXL

NDKKEFK TSZLTS Yesterday's Cryptoquip: OUR PLAYFUL CAT BEGAN TOYING WITH PIECE OF STRING, NOW SHE HAS A BALL.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: L equals R

oily skin. Mary Kay Cosmetics, Janet Milliken 539-9469. (27-36) MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49) CROSS REFERENCE—Student night at Cross Reference, Tuesday, October 7th, 8-11 p.m. Select group of music 25%-50% off. Sale table of books and bibles. (30-31) ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage clothing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

Hire the K-State Pep Band to play HAPPY BIRTHDAY

only $15 Band Office: 532-5740

leave name & number FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment, 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-1329. (1811) ONE BEDROOM studio apartment one block east of campus. Available now No pets. $190. Call 776-3624. (27-31) ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Putnam Hill, 1308 N. Manhattan, $195. Call 539-7521 or 776-7045. (30-34) ALL THIS for $227.50 per month. Three bedroom carpet, central air, maintenance free. Praîne Glen Townhouse, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., 776-4786. (30-39)

FOR SALE-AUTO

1975 WHITE Malibu-6 cylinder, 67,000 miles, air conditioning, power steering, brakes, runs great. Offer. Call 532-6939 or 539-9367. (28-32) 1984 BRONCO II-Blue/silver, power steering, a conditioning, centerlines, tinted glass, sharp. Call 539-1824 afternoons. (28-32) 1974 VOLKSWAGEN Super Beetle. Runs great. New front end, brakes. $1200 or best offer. 539-4855. (30-34)

1964 VW Bug-Rebuilt engine, new interior and paint. Excellent investment, $1,250. 1962 VW Bus - Rebuilt engine, good body, low mileage. 1-494-2388, St. George. (30tf)

FOR SALE-MISC The Ritz Denison & Claflin

79¢ 1/4 lb. Hamburger Exp. Date 10/12 537-3335

HEWLETT-PACKARD HP41C programmable calculator with memory module. Books and programs included, $125. Call Rob at 532-4835. (29-33) Hayes House of Music 327 Poyntz DOD Guitar Effects

30% Off 10 THOMAS MICK-See Union Information Desk Lost and Found for checkbook. Bring I.D. (30-32)

HELP WANTED 3,000 GOVERNMENT Jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 (26-64)

OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year around. Europe, South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA, 92625. (27-46)

CHOIR DIRECTOR, Zion Church of Christ, Junction City. Call 1-238-7770 or 537-2287. (28-30)

See Bill Jackson. (29-33)

PART TIME delivery person, hourly wage plus mile-age. Must have pick-up with topper. Hawley Print-ing Service, 610 North Third, 778-6731. (28-30) PART-TIME grill help needed at Kites, 619 North 12th.

WORK-STUDY student afternoons for receptionist duties and typing. Apply by October 10 at UFM. 1221 Thurston. 532-5866. (28-32)

Programmer

Established research and consulting firm has openings at entry- and mid-levels for exceptional individuals. -Positions require problem solving ability as well as data management and analysis

-Preference given to candidates with B.S. in computer science and experience in SAS, 4th generation languages. D.B.M.S. packag and enter active computing on IBM compatible mainframes. Possible relocation to Washington, D.C.

★ Send resume to Director of Human Resources Development Planning and Research Associations, Inc., P.O. Box 727, Manhattan. KS 66502

CASHIER AND grill cook, four to five days a week Grill experience preferred. Call Eddy, 537-3335 for interview. (29-31)

GRADUATE ASSISTANT position available in the Foreign Student Office. Five-tenths time; primary re-sponsibility will involve coordination of the conversational English tutoring program. Send resume and application letter to Foreign Student Office by October 20. For more information, call 532-6448. (30-32)

ATTRACTIVE HEALTHY freshman or sophomore.

Must live in Manhattan. Sincere interest in health and fitness-a must! Apply in person for part-time work at Manhattan Health Foods between 10 a.m. Noon weekdays. (30-32)

ODD JOBS around house, $3.50/hour, fit to your time schedule. Call 537-4648 or 539-9431, ask for Larry.

14

LOST LOST-LEVI jean jacket, size 36; set of keys in the 539-2376. (30)

PERSONAL 16

BE SQUARED—Sorry about the rumors from Miami. But, what the heck-Beck sometimes you have to go for it wet bathing suit or not! Keith. (30) IT USED to be that Christmas was the best time of the year, and if not then, then New Years was the time to cheer. But in this year of '86, the best time for the Tekes is the fun, and laughs, and beer we'll drink in the next three weeks. The fun that we'll be having is, as anyone who's someone knows, is that we'll be winning Homecoming with those beautiful Chi-O's. (30)

ITCHY: LAST week my thoughts were of you, the pur-suit of knowledge kept me away. Your smile I long to see this day, so this weekend lets scratch our-selves blue. (30)

ROOMMATE WANTED

2017 after 5 p.m. (21-30) MALE, NON-SMOKING roommate to share a beauti ful two bedroom, furnished apartment. (Sandstone Apartments). Call 537-9439. (27-31)

FEMALE TO complete a three bedroom basement

MALE, $95/month plus utilities, one block east of Haymaker. Call 539-5196. (28-32) FEMALE-SHARE two bedroom completely fur nished. 776-4794; 537-0751 after 7 p.m. (28-32)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share studio apartment. $115 a month plus half of utilities. Please call 537-3882. (30-32)

FEMALE TO share two bedroom apartment, $125. Close to campus, 539-1799. (30-31) SERVICES 18

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf) MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free. Clinically tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Pro-

ckish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes-sionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (91f) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, dissertations, manuscripts, term papers. (28-30) AUTO REPAIR - Low overhead brings savings to you. Oil and lube, tune up, brakes and other miscellane-ous repairs. 539-6552. (29-33) workers, low prices. Call 539-9701, ask for Taylor. (30-34)

FREE SET of spark plugs with a tune-up on your import car at J & L Auto Service. Call 1-494-2388, St. George (offer ends October 15, 1986). (29-37) NEED ODD Jobs done? We'll do them for you! Hard

Men still paid more than women

By The Collegian Staff

Women throughout history generally have been forced to work for lower wages than men.

Today women earn 35 percent of what a man does, said Marjorie Morse, Riley County cocommissioner, at the Friday meeting of Focus on Women.

Morse and Rosalys Rieger, also a Riley county commissioner, relayed information gained at a Salary Study Task Force Commis-

The committee studied the salary scales of county employees to evaluate the wages of men and women in a particular grade to see if salaries were comparative for the work they did.

"We considered the factors of location of the job, type of work done, environment of the work place and degree of education required for the job," Morse said.

"We wanted to evaluate the job, not the person," Rieger said. "It makes sense that someone working in the weather removing snow shouldn't receive the same pay as a clerk typist."

The study, done by a panel of seven members, was commissioned in September 1984, finished in November 1985 and will be implemented in January 1987, Rieger

The committee adjusted some of the job titles and decreased the steps within the grades from 19 to 10, Rieger said.

"This will give everyone a slight salary increase; in some cases, very healthy increases...step increases will be larger and less often," she said. "There will be a shift in average grade levels held by both men and women.'

Rieger said that men, who were at an average grade level of 8.5, now have an average level of 6.65. And women, at grade level 4.5 before, now are at 7.45.

Rieger said the full results determined by the committee will be out next week.

'Second City' improvisational acts require spontaneity to earn laughs

By The Collegian Staff

For Second City, the improvisational comedy group from Chicago, spontaneity is the performers' platform.

They don't deliberate over whether their next line will be funny. Like a Freudian slip, it just happens. Second City will perform its on-the-spot comedy at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Union Forum Hall.

Second City does ensemble work, a unique form of theater in which they create their material as they go. The members are young hopefuls looking for a chance to follow in the footsteps of past members like Bill Murray, John Belushi, Alan Alda, Joan Rivers, Betty Thomas and Shelley

Second City members performing Tuesday will be Will Clinger, Christine Dunn, Evan Gore, Joe Liss, Sean Masterson, Judy Scott, Ron West and John Holtson.

"They are terrific," said Lynett Collias, assistant to the producer of Second City, in a phone interview. "You can expect a night of satirical comedy. What they try to do basically is take an important event in the world and turn it into a comical situation. They honestly work hard and love being on stage."

Three of the five companies comprising Second City form The Touring Company, where competition is particularly fierce. The freshest Second City talent must be energetic, agile and tastefully funny as the group travels from city to city. The troupe carries few props, instead relying on a series of fast-paced sketches and creative improvisation based on audience suggestion. Performers perfect their craft in hopes of earning an audition during Second City workshops. A university or organization may request a workshop and a few members of a Second City touring company go in and give a lesson on improvisation techniques.

Second City has been performing for nearly 25 years, mostly before sold-out audiences. The troupe performed for a capacity crowd at K-State in 1983.

Second City's first performance was on Dec. 16, 1959, in an "improvised" theater above a Chinese laundry. Debuting on Broadway two years later, Second City became the epitome of the term "overnight suc-

Second City progressed to television in 1963. Its performances developed into a series of hour and half-hour specials. The television projects carry on today with "The Yesterday Show," now in production for Home Box Office.

In 1980, Second City ventured into film development. Current film projects include "The Pinkerton Lady," 'Weekend Warriors' and "Intimate Sex Lives.'

Janice Altland, Union Program Council adviser, said, "It will be the funniest thing we've done this far. We'll be seeing people we might be talking about in the future."

Tickets, all general admission, will be on sale at the Union Box Office and The Sound Shop in Aggieville for $5. The show is sponsored by the UPC Special Events Committee.

ROTC community service group reorganizes, shakes former image

By The Collegian Staff

A flight of angels is making a reappearance on campus this semester. An Air Force ROTC community service organization called "Angel Flight" is making a comeback and is set on shaking the poor image the group had on campus in the past, said organizer Stephanie Pfeifer, member of the Air Force ROTC program and sophomore in mathematics.

"In the past, this was an all-girls organization, and they had a reputation of just following all the ROTC guys around," Pfeifer said. "We are starting brand new, making this a coed organization open to everybody."

The original Angel Flight community service organization started in the 1960s and was active through the '70s until it fizzled out in 1982, she said.

The idea to reactivate this organization came to Pfeifer at the Arnold Air Society area convention last March.

Intramural Injuries Sports Injuries Call

Dr. Mark Hatesohl Chiropractic Family Health Center 3252 Kimball Avenue

(In the Candlewood Center)

Through the urging of others at the convention, she decided to plan and organize a community service organization for K-State that would attract students whether they were in Air Force ROTC or not.

The group's goals for the semester are undefined because this is its first year back in action, she said. Currently, the members are involved in recruiting. The group's first informal rush party attracted 16 people, Pfeifer said. football stadium after home games.

Angel Flight is a nationwide,

WE PROVIDE

SERVICES TO

KEEP YOU

WELL —

YOU ARE WELL

WORTH IT.

Lafene

Health Center

Even though the group is still recruiting, plans have been made for involvement in two activities. The group will be active in the Bloodmobile drive and the cleanup of the community-service program sponsored by the Arnold Air Society through Air Force ROTC programs at most universities.

The group was started to inform students about the military and to provide military involvement in community service. Now, the organization has taken some of the stuffiness away and has intentions of becoming a more universal group with less, but still some, emphasis on the military, Pfeifer said.

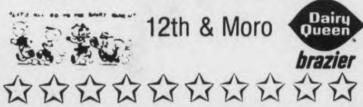

Our Grill Is Now Open!

Hamburgers French Fries Chicken Sandwiches Mushrooms Pork Tenderloins

Try Our: Cheeseburgers Onion Rings Fish Sandwiches Corn Dogs BBQ Beef Sandwiches

Chicken & Beef Nuggets Hot dogs & Chili dogs (reg. & super)

Aggieville Dairy Queen Brazier

OPEN:

6 a.m. Monday - Thursday CLOSED:

NEW HOURS

1 a.m. Sunday - Wednesday

OPEN ALL NIGHT THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

in Aggieville

UPC ARTS COMMITTEE PRESENTS

An Exhibition and Sale of Fine Art Reproductions and Laser Photographs

$5.00 each or 3 for $13.00

Monday - Friday October 6-10 9 a.m.-5 p.m. K-State Union 1st Floor Concourse

Cars, Cities. Animals, Scenery & Travel Posters. etc.

Many new prints available!

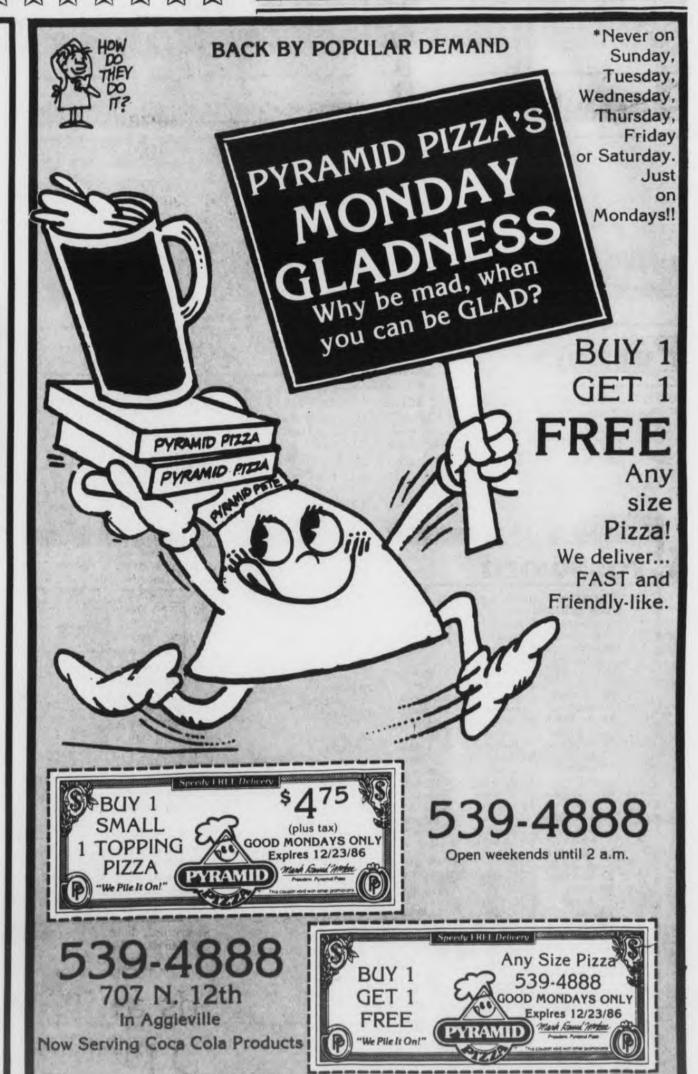

Hundreds to choose from!

M.C. Escher Picasso Van Gogh Dali

Renoir Seurat and many more

Plastic bags available.

Stone Sculptors

Thirty-one sculptors gather in St. Marys Saturday and Sunday to transform crude pieces of limestone into art. See Page 7.

Sunny today, high in mid- to upper 70s. Wind south 10 to 20 mph. Partly cloudy tonight, low in low to Sports

Young Blood

Topeka KS

Golf coach Rob Sedorcek is the youngest coach at K-State with the challange of moving the golf program from the cellar of the Big Eight. See Page 8.

66612

Kansas State

Sunny

mid-50s.

Tuesday October 7, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 31

Former director files suit against University

By ANNE BRANDSBERG Collegian Reporter

The former associate director of the K-State International Grains Program has filed a federal lawsuit claiming he was wrongfully fired after writing an annual

He said he was fired after questioning the faculty budget and criticizing the grains program for not voicing Kansas farmers' views that grain standards should be raised to Nicolaas E. Konijnendijk said he had been concerned that faculty members weren't teaching courses or doing other things they were paid to do under the program's $600,000 annual budget.

"There was money there to drive people to the airport and for cars, but not for what they should be doing," Konijnendijk said.

Program director, Charles Deyoe, a defendant in the suit, said Konijnendijk was fired after a performance evaluation and that grain standards or the program budget had audit showed the Kansas Wheat Commission was not closely monitoring its grants to the K-State program.

The grant money was reinstated after K-State and wheat commission officials promised to monitor the system more closely and hire more personnel.

Money not accounted for in the eight years the program has been in existence may total $3 million to $4 million, Konijnendijk said.

Jim Bair, director of marketing for the commission, said Friday that commission of-

Konijnendijk said he was not aware anyone had been hired but declined to comment further on the mismanagement of me not to stick my neck out. We had to make an evaluation report," Konijnendijk said about why he was fired.

The K-State International Grain Program is funded largely by a bushel tax on Kansas farmers through the Kansas Wheat Commis-

"Money is tight especially when the producers (farmers) are getting poorer. They shouldn't be spending money the wrong way," Konijnendijk said. He said the program's actions weren't fair to the farmers of Kansas.

Konijnendijk is originally from the Netherlands. He is in the United States with his 16-year-old daughter, Yvanna. Konijnendijk said he cannot return to Europe until his daughter graduates from high school.

Konijnendijk is not planning to work for another university when the Federal suit is decided. "I don't think that would be healthy

Defendants in the suit include Deyoe, the Kansas Board of Regents and Walter Woods, dean of the College of Agriculture. Konijnendijk contends that they violated his rights to due process and freedom of speech by firing Konijnendijk seeks more than $10,000 in actual damages and more than $10,000 in punitive damages.

Parents claim schools still discriminate

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Topeka attorney Richard Jones Monday charged minority children are being denied a quality education at city schools due to discriminatory policies enacted by the school board, which stem from the district's dual school system abolished 32 years ago by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Jones made the allegation during his opening arguments as the nation's most famous school desegregation case - Brown vs. Topeka Board of Education - was reopened in U.S. District Court.

The first witness scheduled to take the stand was William Lamson, of Jackson, Miss., an expert witness retained by Jones who has analyzed the demographics of the Topeka district. Jones said Lamson will attempt to prove that decisions by the school board during the past 30 years have had segregative effects on the district. Parents of 17 schoolchildren reopened the case in 1979 based on their claim Topeka schools remain segregated despite the landmark Supreme Court ruling in 1954 which banned racial segregation in schools nationwide. During opening arguments, which lasted more than two hours Monday morning, attorneys for the city and state school boards rejected Jones' contention that the school board failed to live up to the high court mandate that it eliminate "all vestigates of discrimination, root and branch" from its old dual system. Jones said the district had dragged its feet in implementing a program of desegregation and "sent out signals" to white residents prior to integrating white schools to "give them time to get out of the path and get another house. The plaintiffs also hope to prove the board intentionally concentrates black faculty in certain schools.

He asked that U.S. District Judge Richard

See BROWN, Page 9

ficials were satisfied the program was using The International Grain Program at nothing to do with it. He also denied the farmers' money properly. K-State has been helping Kansas farmers budget was mismanaged. report. When asked what the International Grain sell their wheat in a worldwide market since "You have to be kidding," Deyoe said. for me," he said. Program directors had done with the money, it was formed in 1978. The program provides The program's budget had been questioned Konijnendijk said, "That's for them to say, training in trading, milling, baking and other once before. Last year, the Kansas Senate but I don't think they were doing what they industrial activities to hundreds of foreign briefly held back the wheat commission's wheat buyers. contribution to the K-State program after an boost grain sales abroad.

"I think I did something wrong. They told

Staff/John Thelander

K-State head football coach Stan Parrish instructs prospective football team members before beginning 40-yard dash tryout drills. The student body overwhelmed Parrish when approximately 170 prospects for the "12th man" turned out for the initial tryout Monday afternoon at KSU Stadium. Twenty people survived tryout cuts.

Parrish asks for '12th man,' gets 170 hopefuls in which they attempted to break 4.7

Parrish said.

By TOM MORRIS Assistant Sports Editor

K-State football coach Stan Parrish asked for an inch, but he received a mile.

Parrish issued a plea for help to the student body last week because of a rash of injuries to his team, including three in the defensive backfield.

The 'Cats' coaching staff was looking for students to fill 10 positions on the Wildcats' kickoff team at home games - similar to the "12th man" concept employed by Coach Jackie Sherill at defending Southwest Conference champion Texas A&M.

All interested University students were invited to Monday's tryout, but Parrish said he wasn't sure what response the idea would generate. "Maybe no one will show up, maybe 30 guys will show up," he said. But the student body overwhelmed Par-

170 prospects showed up for the initial tryout Monday at KSU Stadium. When Parrish made the initial announce-rish's meager prediction. Approximately ment about his plan last Wednesday, he said he was looking for a "few" good men. "This exceeds my wildest expectations," many out for the ballgames."

Parrish said. "I wish we could get this Roughly 140 prospects ran two time trials Collegiate Athletic Association rule states college athletes have five calendar years to earn four years of eligibility). Wildcat football hopefuls eliminated school before the fall of 1982 (a National seconds in a 40-yard dash, and only 20 survived the initial tryout. They will be con-

Thirty hopefuls were cut before the time trials because they had graduated high tacted later in the week for further testing,

Monday, Parrish said, were welcome to participate in a winter conditioning program and to try to make it as a walk-on this

As the prospects discovered, the tryout was based primarily on a single factor speed.

"We're looking for kids that can run," defensive coordinator Jerry Hartman said. While 4.7 was the standard cutoff point, a 4.8 or 4.9 was acceptable if the prospect was taller or weighed more than the majority of the remaining hopefuls.

"Hey, if a kid would have come out that was 6-4 and weighed 270, we would have took a look at him even if he would have run a 5.1," Hartman said. For most of the prospects, such as Mark

See TRYOUTS, Page 10

K-State 'badly' needs money from athletic fee, Travis says

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Staff Writer

Although no formal appeal has yet been issued, a student athletic fee is needed "very badly" by the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, Athletic Director Larry Travis said. "We're $2 million under every other budget in the conference," he said. "We've got to increase our budgets. I'm going to turn this thing around if it kills me.

No official request has been made by the department, but an Athletic Fee Task Force formed by Student Senate has been meeting for the past several weeks to determine the feasibility of such a fee.

Travis is scheduled to meet with the task force at 5:30 tonight in the Student Governing Services Office in the Union.

Travis said the idea for an athletic fee, which would generate $300,000 to $400,000 a year, came about last year.

"As I looked through all our revenue producers, it was glaring that we didn't have any type of athletic fee," he said. "We're one of the few schools in the conference that doesn't have an athletic fee.'

A telephone survey of athletic departments in the Big Eight Conference showed that three other universities charged students an athletic fee and four did not (see related

Travis' philosophy behind the assessment of an athletic fee is based on competitiveness.

"The reason our football team is not competitive is because we don't have the mentality that we want to be competitive," he said. "My philosophy is to go full speed ahead and be as competitive as we can be."

And that takes money. It's no secret that the athletic department

By JUDY LUNDSTROM

Staff Writer

and

TIM FITZGERALD

Sports Editor

Out of the eight Big Eight Conference schools, only three athletic departments rely on the raising of money by charging students

A phone survey of the conference schools taken by the Collegian staff found Colorado charges the largest student athletic fee.

$16.50 per semester, while Iowa State and Kansas charge $9.75 per semester and $6.50 an athletic fee.

is struggling financially.

per semester, respectively.

ing of each semester.

When the final audit of the 1985-86 fiscal year is completed, the department will be about $400,000 in the red, Travis said.

He said the cause of the deficit was not mismanagement by the administration of Dick Towers, former athletic director who was fired by past University President Duane Acker, but by different philosophies.

"Our idea is more promotion and marketing than the last regime," he said. "We're struggling, but we made it through conference to adopt an athletic fee charged to students when they pay fees at the beginn-

Officials at each of the three Big Eight schools with athletic fees said the money raised by the fee goes to support some of the Men's basketball and football are considered "revenue" sports by athletic depart-university's "non-revenue" sports.

last year. I never want to go through another year like that again.'

Travis believes a stronger athletic program will benefit the entire University. "Back when (K-State football coach)

Vince (Gibson) was here, K-State was the place to be," he said. "I was at KU when it was happening, and K-State was gaining students and KU was losing them."

Sports is what makes the news, he said. "When something happens in the engineering department, you'll see a little blurb in the Survey finds three schools use athletic fee

ments because of their profit-generating capabilities. All other sports funded by an K-State Athletic Director Larry Travis will athletic department are classified as nonmeet at 5:30 tonight with the Athletic Fee revenue, due to their reliance on money rais-Task Force to discuss the possibilities of ed from other functions of the department. K-State becoming the fourth school in the

Like the fees at Colorado, Iowa State and KU, the fee Travis is proposing would defer the costs the K-State athletic department incurs through the sponsorship of teams competing in track, cross country, women's basketball, baseball, volleyball, golf and women's tennis.

Travis' proposal would, in a

See SURVEY, Page 10

paper," he said. "But you read about K-State every day in the papers because of sports."

Travis said the information provided to the Athletic Fee Task Force by Mike Jones, business manager for the athletic department, will show that the department is "very underfunded.'

If an athletic fee is assessed to students, he said, the money generated would be used "strictly for supplementing the non-revenue programs.' Non-revenue programs are all sports except men's football and men's basketball. Travis said even in a bad year the two revenue sports are self-supporting, but the non-revenue sports are costing the Depart-

$900,000 annually. While athletic fee monies would supplement those sports, they still would fall way short of the total expense, he said.

ment of Intercollegiate Athletics $850,000 to Travis stressed that none of the money generated would be used to pay the department's $2 million share for the Fred Bramlage Coliseum.

"We have to pay for our share of the coliseum," he said. "We're working on the loan with the Foundation."

The KSU Foundation loaned the athletic See FEE, Page 10

INTERNATIONAL

Contra plane crash kills Americans

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — The Defense Ministry said Monday night that a man who survived the downing of a Contra rebel supply plane in southern Nicaragua identified himself as a U.S. military adviser in El Salvador, and the three dead crewmen as Americans.

The ministry said in a statement that the survivor of the Sunday afternoon incident had identified himself as Eugene Hafenfuf, 35, and said he was a U.S. military adviser in El Salvador.

There was no confirmation immediately available late Monday of Hafenfuf's identity by U.S. officials in Central America.

In Washington, Maj. Eugenia Thornton, a Pentagon spokeswoman, said she had no report on the plane incident, no confirmation that it had occurred, and no identification of any individuals who might have been aboard such a flight. The Nicaraguan Defense Ministry statement said Hafenfuf had identified the other crewmen as Americans but it gave no further details about him or his whereabouts Monday, or about the three

The government's Voice of Nicaragua radio said the plane was shot down about 18 miles north of San Carlos, near the Costa Rican border. San Carlos is 91 miles southwest of Managua.

Tass says fire doomed Soviet sub

WASHINGTON - A nuclear-powered, nuclear-armed Soviet submarine, apparently doomed from the moment it experienced a fire and explosion last Friday morning, sank and was abandoned by its crew early Monday in the western Atlantic Ocean.

The Soviet news agency Tass said no lives were lost when the socalled Yankee-class submarine went down around 4 a.m. EDT, and the Pentagon said it had no reason to doubt that statement.

The vessel sank in waters 18,000 feet deep about 1,060 nautical miles to the east of Cape Hatteras, N.C., or roughly 600 miles east of the island of Bermuda. A Soviet merchant ship, which earlier had been attempting to tow the vessel, collected survivors and remained in the area on Monday, the Pentagon said.

Two ranking U.S. military officers said the sinking posed no threat to the environment, even though the submarine was powered by two nuclear reactors and carried up to 16 nuclear-tipped, SS-N-6 ballistic

The warheads atop one of those missile could very well have been blown into the sea and sank when the submarine experienced a fire and explosion while submerged on Friday, said Vice Adm. Powell F. Carter Jr., the staff director for the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

NATIONAL

Study correlates cancer to poverty

NEW YORK - Poor people run higher risks of getting cancer and dying from it, according to an American Cancer Society report and a

Among the reasons are cigarette smoking and a tendency for cancers to be caught at later, less curable stages among the poor, scientists said.

Research had previously found disparities between blacks and whites on the frequency and deadliness of cancers, but a re-analysis shows that much of that effect really comes from differences in socioeconomic status, said Dr. Harold P. Freeman, chairman of the committee that produced the report.

For overall cancer survival, Freeman said, poor people fare 10 percent to 15 percent worse than middle-class patients. That gap is very close to national figures that show overall cancer survival for whites at about 50 percent and for blacks at about 37 percent, Freeman said.

An income-linked disparity also shows up for surviving specific cancers, such as those of the colon and breast, he said.

Reagan downplays summit hopes

WASHINGTON - President Reagan sought Monday to dispel what he termed "inaccurate speculation and false hopes" that his summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev will lead to new superpower

Reagan also said he would confront Gorbachev in Iceland this weekend on the Soviet Union's continued military operations in Afghanistan and "unceasing" human rights violations.

Meanwhile, House Democrats, saying they don't want to hamper Reagan's arms bargaining power at the summit this weekend, said they were willing to compromise on arms control restrictions added to a Pentagon budget bill.

Reagan, speaking to a business group meeting at the White House, said in the strongest terms since the Iceland summit was announced last week, that he viewed it as merely a preparatory session for the full-scale meeting he and Gorbachev envisioned after they first met in Geneva last November.

REGIONAL

Southeastern Kansas drying out

TOPEKA - As floodwaters continued to recede in southeastern Kansas Monday, officials began to assess the damage from nearly 20 inches of rain which inundated the area last week.

"The damage assessment teams have arrived and should know by (Tuesday) how much damage we've got," said Shirley Bailey, executive director of the Neosho, Allen and Woodson counties' Red Cross. "Right now, we're just concentrating on getting everyone help

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers was scheduled to visit Oswego late Monday, to help city officials decide how to stop the water rushing over a levee north of the city.

"There's just so much water going over the top, and it's washing away the levee," said Labette County Undersheriff Mick Tucker. "We're not sure if it's broken or just too small."

The three or four homes near the levee were evacuated, but the town of Oswego was not threatened, he said.

He said the river was beginning to recede slowly, "and it should start going down fast in the next day or so." But he said it may be several days before the water is down enough to assess the damage. In the midst of so much water, Galesburg residents were being asked to conserve drinking water. Galesburg City Clerk Don Dague said Monday there was a major line break in Rural Water District No. 4, which serves about 2,000 people in Galeaburg and the surrounding area. He said repairs would have to wait until the Neosho river receded.

Galesburg Elementary School will be closed until water is available and residents are using what is left in a storage tank.

Hayden says momentum unclear

TOPEKA - Speaker Mike Hayden, the Republican nominee for governor, conceded Monday that it's unclear whether he or Democratic Lt. Gov. Tom Docking currently has the most momentum in the race for the governorship.

However, Hayden told a news conference at the Kansas Reception and Diagnostic Center that "we'll be there at the finish line" after a flurry of campaigning in the final month before the Nov. 4 general election.

"If you'll remember in the primary, we got (advertising) out early and then we let the other candidates spend their money," said Hayden, who added that his campaign saved its funds for a advertising blitz during the final days before the primary election.

"We've got a good plan in the general election," Hayden said. "Let me say it's that final sprint that's so, so important."

Hayden has seen his stock decline from a 12 percent lead in some statewide polls shortly after the primary to about a 4 percent margin over Docking, the Democratic nominee, in polls conducted early last

Responding to a question of who currently has the most momentum in the governor's race, Hayden said, "I don't really know." But Hayden added that "timing is everything in politics" and some of his advisers believe Docking's popularity may have peaked prematurely. He said issues such as the two candidates' opposing stands on capital punishment may be the deciding factor in the race.

Hayden reiterated his support of a penalty of death by lethal injection for people convicted of first-degree murder. He said Docking has lost support among voters in such traditional Democratic strongholds as Wyandotte County because of his opposition to capital punishment.

Osawatomie man kills wife, self

OSAWATOMIE — An Osawatomie man killed his wife and then turned the gun on himself Sunday after police cornered him in an abandoned rural home, authorities said.

Miami County Sheriff's Detective Mark Schmidt said that Chris Tyrell, 39, shot his wife, Mary Lois, 26, also of Osawatomie, as she came out of a private club at about 3 a.m. Sunday near their Miami County sheriff's officials said Tyrell waited outside the bar until it closed, and when his wife walked out of the building he walked up her and said, "Mary, you're dead," before firing twice. She was killed instantly.

Tyrell then fled on foot. Detectives trailed Tyrell to an abandoned home southwest of Osawatomie at about 10 a.m. Sunday. "Numerous attempts to talk the subject out were unsuccessful,"

Schmidt said.

Officers lobbed tear gas canisters into the house and moments later they heard a shot. Tyrell was discovered dead at about 10:30

Schmidt said Monday that Mrs. Tyrell had filed for divorce less than a week ago. The Tyrells had been married for less than a year. On Friday, Tyrell had been served a restraining order that he stay away from his wife, according to court documents.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CHILD CARE COOPERATIVE is now enrolling infant through school-age children. For more information, call Director Nancy Bolsen at

SENIORS AND GRADUATES IN ALL MA-JORS: Rhodes and Marshall Scholarship applica-tion packets are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Eisenhower 113.

VOTER REGISTRATION is available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Oct. 14 in the SGS Office and is ed by Associated Students of Kansas.

K-STATE AMBASSADOR APPLICATIONS are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Anderson 122 and are due Thursday. UNIVERSITY FOR MAN needs afternoon teachers for elementary-age students. For more information, contact the main desk at UFM,

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES BOARD 1986-87 registration forms are due in the SGS Office by Oct. 15.

532-5560, by Oct. 15. ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL applications are available in the College of Arts and Sciences

JUNIORS AND SENIORS: There will be a table at the Union to get Sears credit card ap-plications today through Friday.

GOLDEN KEY MEMBERS: Membership cer-tificates may be picked up today through Friday in Bluemont 13.

TODAY

HORTICULTURE THERAPY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Fairchild 202. Yearbook pictures will be aken following the program.

CIRCLE OF WINNERS meets at 7 p.m. in SPURS meets at 8:30 p.m. in Fairchild 202.

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS meet at 9 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS will have an expanding

HORSEMEN'S ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. in Call 204. Executives meet at 7 p.m.

GRANT PROPOSAL WRITING WORKSHOP will be at 3:30 p.m. in Denison 220. The workshop will include getting started, vocabulary and

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 202. Yearbook pictures will be taken follow-

FRENCH CLUB meets to take yearbook pictures at 4 p.m. in Calvin 102. GREAT COMMISSION STUDENTS meet at 7:30 p.m. at 1543 Campus Drive.

SCHOOL meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom 3. The guest speaker will be Virginia Quiring, ciate dean of Farrell Library Services

STUDENT ALUMNI BOARD meets at 6:30

Universile FREE Munchies Club 4-7 p.m. 17th & Anderson Across from KSU that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT! Frozen Yogurt Stores

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL

ENGINEERS meets to take yearbook pictures at 7:15 p.m. in Fairchild 202. There will be an informational meeting on resumes and interviewing at 7:45 p.m. in Durland 152.

PHI ALPHA THETA meets at 10:45 a.m. in COLLEGE REPUBLICANS meet at 7:30 p.m.

PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 6 p.m. in

WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER SINGLE

BAKERY SCIENCE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in

INSTITUTE OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS

meets to hear a presentation by Kirk Reid from Hallmark Cards at 7 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

WEDNESDAY

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS meet at noon at the

DATA PROCESSING AND MANAGEMENT

Buy, Sell or Trade

in Collegian Classifieds

Enjoy smooth, creamy

Frozen Yogurt

ASSOCIATION meets at 7 p.m. in Union 20

Shellenberger 301. Officers meet at 6:30 p.m.

PARENT'S GROUP meets at 7 p.m. in Durland

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

 Mexican Beer $1.25 All Imports

Baby Back Rib Nite Only $4.95 Tuesdays!

The original RUNZA sandwich is a delicious blend of fresh ground beef, cabbage, onions and special spices all baked inside homemade bread. Cheese lovers can try 'em with cheese.

1101 Moro

Aggieville

TODAY: Off Campus, Ford, Goodnow Oct. 8: Off Campus, Goodnow

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment call 539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

SUN FREE CONNECTION COUPON

(For 1st session only)

★Now using new Wolff bulbs ★

★Largest salon in Manhattan★ ★ Exclusive cooling system ★ (Good Oct. 6, 7, 8, 1986)

1126 Laramie

776-2426

Rocky Mountain BONKERS

TONIGHT ALL MIXED DRINKS $1.50

> coming Friday, Oct. 10 & Saturday, Oct. 11

LINE 1 and $1.25 MEXICAN BEER (J.T. McCord's favorite)

See our newly opened Eyeglass Department Drs. Bullock •Latest style frames and Horsch

Practice of Optometry Prof. Bldg. 404 Humboldt

Manhattan, Ks.

•Eyeglasses warranted against breakage for As always, we provide professional care and management of the contact lense patient. •Large contact lens inventory For Your Complete Eye Care Needs, Call Us 776-9461

local

1-800-432-0036 out of town

Applications Now Available

the College of Arts & Sciences for Arts & Sciences Council

Applications Due: Oct. 10

Police raid LaRouche headquarters searching for evidence

By The Associated Press

LEESBURG, Va. - Federal, state and local law enforcement authorities raided the headquarters of political extremist Lyndon LaRouche on Monday as several LaRouche associates were indicted in an alleged nationwide credit card fraud scheme.

While hundreds of officers searched for evidence at two office buildings used by LaRoucheaffiliated organizations here, a federal grand jury in Boston handed up a 117-count indictment alleging wire fraud, unauthorized use of credit cards, obstruction of justice and contempt of court.

Two corporations, three campaign committees and 10 LaRouche associates were named in the Boston indictment. The groups named in the indictment are Caucus Distributors Inc. and Campaigner Publications

LaRouche is a frequent fringe candidate for president who has announced he is running for president in 1988 as a Democrat.

Ed Spannaus, treasurer of LaRouche's presidential campaign, called the action a "political dirty trick," coming four weeks before the general election. Several LaRouche followers are running for offices around the country.

Spannaus spoke at a news conference in a bookstore operated by LaRouche associates, across the street from one of the LaRouche offices being searched by federal and state agents.

"Many of you have just been witness to one of the biggest political dirty tricks in history," he said.

hundreds of offices around the country, and gained widespread attention in April by winning Democratic nominations for lieutenant governor and secretary of state in Illinois.

Dozens of state police, Loudoun County sheriff's deputies and federal agents could be seen guarding and entering and leaving the two Leesburg buildings where LaRouche's corporations and organizations make their head-

A LaRouche spokeswoman, Nereida Thompson, said she did not know where LaRouche was Monday. At his $1.2-million estate just outside town, more than half a dozen state police and U.S. Secret Service agents stood watching the front gate throughout the day.

LaRouche's followers have run for buildings occupied by LaRoucherelated organizations began about 7 a.m., EDT. The buildings serve as the headquarters for the LaRouche organization.

> Dan Small, assistant U.S. attorney in Boston, said the agents had warrants for a variety of documents relating principally to a federal investigation into allegations of credit card fraud by organizations related to LaRouche.

Several of the 10 named in the Boston indictment had been arrested by midday, authorities said.

Federal agents arrested Roy Frankhouser of Reading, Pa., on obstruction of justice charges. Also arrested on such charges, according to FBI agent Jim Mull, were LaRouche associates Jeffrey Steinberg, 37, and Michelle The searches of two office Steinberg, 36. Jeffrey Steinberg has described himself in unrelated court peal acted on Monday. documents as a security adviser to LaRouche for at least 11 years.

Federal authorities said the Steinbergs were named in the Boston indictment, along with LaRouche lieutenant, Paul Goldstein, who was also arrested and taken into custody in Leesburg.

Meanwhile in Washington, the Supreme Court cleared the way for NBC to collect more than $250,000 from LaRouche, who had unsuccessfully sued the network for alleged libel. The court, without comment, rejected LaRouche's contention that he was treated unfairly and his rights were violated.

A cashier's check for $256,451.26 from LaRouche's lawyers was turned over to a federal court in Alexandria, Va., on Sept. 19 to be held in escrow pending the outcome the ap-

The federal grand jury in Boston had been investigating for nearly two years allegations of what prosecutors said was a massive pattern of credit card fraud involving LaRouche-related organizations.

Prosecutors said in court papers made public earlier this year that individuals complained that amounts were charged to their credit cards in excess of those they authorized to be given to the LaRouche groups.

Federal authorities, including U.S. Attorney Henry Hudson of the Eastern District of Virginia, acting U.S. Attorney Robert S. Mueller III of the District of Massachusetts, the FBI, U.S. Secret Service, Internal Revenue Service, U.S. Postal Service, and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms are investigating alleged violations.

Workshop teaches faculty to compete for research funds

By ANN CLIFFORD Collegian Reporter

Faculty members can compete more effectively for research project funding if they understand the process of writing a successful grant proposal, said Bert Biles, assistant dean for sponsored programs.

The Graduate School Office of Research and Sponsored Programs will be conducting a workshop series designed to help faculty and graduate students interested in preparing their first grant proposals from 3:30 to 5 p.m. today.

Five more will follow each Tuesday through Nov. 18 in Denison 220.

'...ordinary people can write good proposals, and real people do get money.'

-Bert Biles

The best way to compete for funding is to submit better proposals, Biles said. He said better proposals come with an understanding of the process, more creative research ideas and coherent presentation.

"The single group we can have the greatest impact on through the seminars are those faculty members who have never written a grant," Biles said.

The early workshop sessions will provide an introduction to available information resources and ways to develop contacts within funding agencies, he said. The third and fourth sessions will deal with idea development and more detailed planning of the research project. The quality of the idea and the details included are two key characteristics of successful grant proposals, he said.

The final sessions will cover budgets, steps to secure University clearances and how funding agencies review proposals. Biles said at the end of the workshops, faculty members will be prepared to write their proposals and can then receive individual help from the graduate school office.

Faculty from all colleges and departments will benefit from the workshops, he said, because the scope of material covered is broad and the advice comes from experience and observation of successful grant proposals.

K-State faculty members received a record $19.5 million in research funding during the 1986 fiscal year. Biles said the increase is due to more faculty members writing more and better proposals.

The University would like to continue to increase research funding. and one way to do this is to inform the faculty who have not written successful grant proposals of ways to compete more effectively, he said.

In addition to showing faculty members the steps to take, Biles said the workshops will provide them with a sense of confidence about writing proposals.

Biles said the ability to write successful grant proposals is not "magic," but comes from an understanding of what funding agencies are looking for. It is important to remember, he said, that "ordinary people can write good proposals, and real people do get money.

Professor researches livestock disease

Horst Leipold, professor of pathology, is considered a leader in genetic research. Leipold's work, in the causes and effects of livestock diseases, has been helpful in establishing nationwide disease control programs.

By CHAD L. SANBORN Collegian Reporter

When Horst Leipold, professor of pathology, came to K-State, he only planned on staying one year. That was 1964. Since then he has become a leader in genetic research. Leipold grew up in a small German agricultural village that was poor and lacked opportunities.

'You either fell into place and did what the others did - work in the textile factories - or you got out," he said.

So Leipold got out.

After graduating from Justus Liebig-University in Giessen, Germany, he came to K-State in an exchange program. He said the research was similar, and he liked what he saw, so much that he got both his master's and doctorate from K-State in 1967 and 1968.

The main area of Leipold's work deals with the causes and effects of diseases in livestock.

"I work primarily with cattle and horses," he said. "We outline diseases and then try to develop practical cures.

"I have helped set up nationwide disease control programs, and they have been very successful at prevention and control.'

His work has appeared in more than 150 magazines, including Nutrition Report International and the Journal of Dairy Science. He has also been published in numerous books, such as the "United States Dairy Association Yearbook.

Leipold said he sometimes runs into resistance when trying to convince farmers that some diseases can be cured.

"Dairy people are fine people to work with, but sometimes they feel diseases are just something that happens," he said. "They feel that the sickness can't be controlled. I try to show them the scope of the disease and give them a handle on controlling it.

To relax, Leipold said he enjoys photography, traveling and reading. Also, he and his wife like to translate old letters left by German farmers who migrated to Kan-

"It is tough because it is a different kind of German, but I enjoy it very much," he said. "It is an educational hobby. It teaches history.'

He said he enjoys reading positive books, and he tries to carry over that positive outlook to the sometimes controversial future of genetics.

"I feel we will handle the new technology. It has unlimited possibilities for humans and animals as far as curing and preventing genetic diseases.

"However, people will have to discuss the ethics of what should be applied and what should be left alone," he said. "I'm happy people take on these issues. We live in a democratic society, and we should discuss this openly. We should also listen to advice.'

As far as his own future in genetics is concerned, Leipold said it will be much like the past.

"I want to keep improving on prevention," he said. "I'm also excited about new technology in embryo transplants.

"There are new diseases being found, and there are still some old ones we don't understand. There is always something to do.'

Techniques

A CAN FOR ALL REASONS Filled with Freshly flavored or plain POPCORN We Make It Here-Just For You! THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

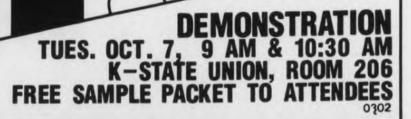

1314B Westloop • 537-7079

TUES. OCT. 7 K-STATE UNION

K-State Union Bookstore

660-12

Oct. 7 ONLY the Bookstore will offer 10% Off all Zipatone Products. Use this ad as a coupon to assure

er calendar

UNION BOOKSTORE K-STATE NEAT! SEE

Available in the K-State Union Box Office and the Sound Shop in Aggieville For more ticket info or charge by phone call (913) 532-6589.

"WE CARE" about your health

*Outpatient Clinic

*Lafemme (GYN) Clinic

*Allergy Clinic

*Mental Health Clinic

*Physical Therapy Department

*Laboratory

*Pharmacy

*X-Ray Department

*Dietary Counseling

*In-patient Hospital

*Sports Medicine Clinic

*Wart Clinic

*Clinic Hours: 8-11:30 a.m. 1-4:30 p.m. *24 hour, 7 days a week health care services

*Time-saving Appointment System

Call 532-6544 for an appointment LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Students can change outcome of elections affect the results at the polls. If every K-State student would have voted for the liquor-by-the-drink amendment the last time it was on the ballot, that amendment would already be part of the Kansas constitution.

freedoms available in the United States compared to what they "repressive other countries." However, the same students are repressing their own rights by not voting. To appreciate the freedoms of the United States, one must exercise

Considering the number of Americans who do not vote on election day, it is hard to believe the United States is ruled "by the people." Recently, apathy is more a part of election day than democracy.

In the primary election Aug. 5, only 43 percent of the registered voters in Riley County voted. This statistic doesn't even tell the

K-State voter participation can whole story because many eligible citizens do not even register. The United States has an elaborate system of government that guarantees citizens an equal opportunity to express their opi-

One person's vote may not have Many students often praise the a great effect on governmental events. However, if all citizens vote, the true majority opinion will be reflected. As it is now, only the opinions of those active in politics are shaping the laws of the United States.

In addition to the election of state political officers, the following five amendments to the Kansas constitution will be voted on Nov. 4: pari-mutuel wagering, lottery, liquor-by-the-drink, classification of the property tax, and revising article 6 concerning education.

All of these amendments will in some way affect K-State students, and therefore students should exercise the right that defines them as U.S. citizens.

Campaign issues turn to mudslinging battle

As November elections ap- via the media. proach, campaigns have predicthe campaign for attorney general in Kansas has gone from practically non-existent to something much worse: accusatory and devoid of real ed up. issues.

The only "real" issue at this point is the discussion of how incumbent Republican Robert Stephan handled - or, more appropriately, mishandled - a sexual discrimination suit filed against him by a former secretary. Democratic candidate Dennis Moore, for whatever reasons, has rekindled this issue

That this is the only "real" tably begun to heat up. However, issue being discussed is disgusting. Seemingly, the harrassment suit is old news, but in politics it appears anything that can be dredged up will be dredg-

The potential is here for an ugly campaign, one similar to the one being waged in Missouri between Democrat Harriet Woods and Republican Christopher Bond for the U.S. Senate race.

Moore and Stephan both should make sure their campaigns do not reach that point. Kansas voters deserve better.

Nuclear plants unsafe under existing usage last week to shut down Britain's 38 nuclear power plants if it gains governmental control in the next election. Sweden has already decided to phase out nuclear power by 2010 and is researching the feasibility of alternate energy sources. Will the United States be next?

This summer the Union of Concerned Scientists published a report that revealed similarities between General Electric power plants used in the United States and the defunct nuclear plant at Chernobyl. The report stated that the pressure suppression containment at Chernobyl is not unlike those of nearly half the nuclear plants in the United States. It also cited similarities in the modern control equipment used at Chernobyl and commercial reactors in the United States - redundant and protected power cables and a nitrogen chamber to protect against fires.

Even if U.S. nuclear reactors are safe, problems exist with storing radioactive wastes. nuclear power for more than 40 years, the industry has not brakes had been developed.

The British Labor Party voted developed a safe way to store the waste. A number of radioactive waste dumps in the United States leak into ground water, a fact often hidden by the nuclear industry.

> Instead of pursuing the possibilities of alternative energy sources - solar power or fusion - the United States has looked for another way to deal with radioactive waste from the fission process. Scientists have considered rocketing waste into space. For people living near a launch site, however, this procedure could be dangerous in the event of an accident.

Attempts at reprocessing have also failed miserably due to insufficient technology. Dumping waste at sea has even been proposed but if that was feasible, transporting the waste to the coasts could pose serious dangers if a truck overturned.

Until the United States develops another form of energy or satisfactorily solves the problem of storing nuclear waste it will continue to endanger the Despite the United States' use of lives of citizens. The situation is similar to driving a car before

22nd Amendment needs expansion

With only two years remaining before the next presidential election, a national movement is underway to repeal the Constitution's 22nd Amendment that limits the president to two terms of office.

Led mostly by fans of President Reagan, people supporting the movement don't want to see him forced out of the White House by an amendment originally pushed by Republicans to prevent a Democrat from doing what they want Reagan to do - seek a

Even if you don't like Reagan or don't want him to have a third term, there are a few sound reasons for repealing the 22nd Amend-

First, the two-term limit is counterproductive to the United States' democratic principles. The Constitution's system of checks and balances is lopsided because there are no limitations on the number of terms congressional members can serve. Furthermore, a president may be forced out of office against the wishes of the public or is bogged down by becoming a "lame duck" during the second term.

In extreme incidences, national security could be damaged by the two-term limit. In case of a major national emergency such as a war, forcing a change in the country's leadership could provide enough weakness to produce dire consequences.

In addressing this issue, I have an idea that would be better for all of us. It would satisfy the founding fathers' desire for a system of checks and balances and a "government of the people, by the people, and for the people." It could be done, however, not by repealing the president's two-term limit, but

PHIL NORDHUS Collegian Columnist

by extending the limitations to Congress as Under my proposal, the president would have the current two-term limit extended to three. Thus, the president would be allowed to serve up to 12 years.

Although this wouldn't eliminate the "lame duck" or other shortfalls created by a term limitation, it would give the president eight years of office before facing these problems. At the same time, it would prevent a president from holding the office indefinitely and becoming, in effect, an elected monarch.

The president's foreign policy power would be enhanced by the lengthened limitation, especially in the area of treaty negotiations. If a foreign government didn't like a president's policy or terms on an issue, it might be forced to deal with the United States instead of holding out for the election of a new president with different policies.

As for Congress, senators would be limited to two terms and representatives would face a similar 12-year limitation. This would mean the maximum years in office for the president and Congress would be the same, and checks and balances would be in line.

An additional bonus of this type of limitation would be that it would eliminate the professional politician and produce a national leadership representative of the public. Because congressional members would no longer have an unlimited length of time in office, they would be inclined to place their concern for the people before their concern for re-election, and they would legislate action the public needs.

Tuesday, October 7, 1986 - 4

In addition to limiting the number of terms, it might be helpful to change the length of terms for House members from two years to four years. Doing so would allow representatives to focus more on their duties and less on the next election.

The limited number of terms would mean an increase in the turnover rate of the congressional membership. With more open seats to be filled, opportunities for women and minorities to run for political office would increase, giving them more equitable

Some people, however, believe limitations such as this will force good politicians out of Congress. While their concern is understandable - after all, we need all the good politicians we can get - just the opposite would result. A good politician would not stagnate in office for a long period of time, but would seek higher offices. Limiting the number of terms would also force out the bad politicians, allowing the good ones to move up more effectively.

It comes down to this question: should we eliminate the 22nd Amendment or expand it? While expanding it will probably create new problems, it would solve even more.

U.S. makes up stories

Re: Scott Miller's column, "Reagan's policies betray revolution," in Thursday's Collegian.

Thursday evening as I was watching the CBS Nightly News, I was also reading the editorial page of the Collegian. Dan Rather and his team were reporting the policy of disinformation that the Reagan administration has recently stepped up in the intent of toppling the Gahdafi regime.

At this point I was reading Scott Miller's very enlightened piece on Reagan's betrayal of the American Revolution and our founding fathers. These two journalistic efforts fit together quite well as one seemed to directly support the other.

As Miller wrote of the people's right and duty to be informed, particularly concerning "the characters and conduct of their rulers, CBS News was discussing the sad state of affairs that results when the government of a fine democratic republic such as the United States engages in a policy of intentionally lying to the news media in hope of achieving some international political goal. The newsmen and those being interviewed were concerned that this could seriously damage the credibility of the administration. How would the American people know what is really the truth and what is made up just to scare Gadhafi?

As CBS was pointing out that a policy of disinformation such as this was more characteristic of a totalitarian government that of a democracy, I moved down the editorial page to Randal S. Beeman's article.

Beeman is very concerned that the Reagan administration is going to "sell us further down the river" to the Communists. If he is so worried about the threat of the Soviet Union, I would suggest that he examine the authoritarian nature that has been exhibited on occasion by the Reagan administration.

I would also ask Beeman to consider the Reagan policy toward Nicaragua. The administration's support of the contra terrorism, its attempts to incite the Miskitos of the Nicaraguan Atlantic Coast, and their efforts at "outright sabotage" of the Sandinista government are analogous to Beeman's charges against the secret police of the Soviet Union. To paraphrase Beeman himself, how can we expect the Soviet Union to reach an agreement with a government such as ours is proving itself to be?

Regina Oxford senior in finance

Regents reasons poor

Re: The article, "Board may cut six degrees," in Thursday's Collegian. In the article I am quoted as rejecting the "false assumption that enrollment figures mean something." I suspect that a word has dropped out of this quotation along the way, perhaps through my fault. It gives the misleading impression that I take enrollment figures in a major to be meaningless, which is not my position. The false assumption which I would vehemently reject, and which I believe to underlie the Regents' review, is the notion that only enrollment figures mean anything. together with the notion that there is a single numerical standard, equally applicable to all fields, determining the number of students a program must enroll to be both effective and

The Regents' review of our department praised our faculty's research record, praised our commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching and praised our graduates for their successes in graduate and professional schools. The Regents also took note of several areas in which additional resources would help us do a better job. The single critical note sounded by their review is that our "degree production" is "extremely low" (though we are comparable to our peer institutions in this regard).

From all this, the only conclusion drawn by the Regents is that we should consider dropping our major. I conclude from this that nothing except raw numbers - not program quality, not importance to the University as a whole - means anything in their review; it is this demonstrably false assumption that I

Robin Smith professor and acting head Department of Philosophy

Parking fee misuse

Editor,

Re: The article, "Plan for new signs gains approval," in Monday's Collegian.

I hope that your information regarding using parking fees for sign on campus and around town, as quoted in your article is

While I was a member of the Traffic and Parking Committee, we were told over and over again by the University administration that the parking fees were only used for the maintenance of the parking lots and traffic control signs on campus.

Using these fees for signs does not seem to coincide with what we were told, or can the administration change their minds now and use the fees for what they want, and then tell us that they need to increase the parking fees to repair the parking lots?

Lewis Hine classified employee Department of Physics

Remote-control glider 'more challenging' than gas-powered

Staff/Brad Fanshier

owned and piloted by Steve Black, not shown, at the L.P. Washburn Recrea-

John Worm, junior in mechanical engineering technology, launches a plane tional Area Monday afternoon. Worm is one of many people who have taken up the hobby of flying remote controlled planes and gliders.

By TIM DIXON Collegian Reporter

The intramural fields at the L.P. Washburn Recreational Area sometimes resemble a miniature Kansas City International Airport.

John Worm, junior in mechanical engineering technology, is one of several people at K-State who have taken up the hobby of flying remotecontrolled gliders. Most of the people at the fields fly gliders, but there are some who have gas-powered, remote-controlled planes.

"Gliders are more of a challenge to keep up," Worm said. "Once the gaspowered ones run out of gas, they go

Worm said the gas-powered planes are much more expensive than the gliders. The planes cost about $300 for the motor, plane and control box. The complete set for gliders costs around $110.

The average weight of a glider is about 20 ounces. Most of the ones flown at the fields are made out of balsa wood and are covered with plastic. The gliders are then equipped with a receiver that picks up a signal from the control box operated by the controller.

To get the glider in the air, Worm said, he and his friends use what they call a "high start," which is similar to a slingshot approach. They take about 100 feet of tubing and 400 feet of string, stretch it out and sling the glider into the air.

'Usually you can get a launch of about 200 feet," Worm said. Room is needed to fly the gliders, and Worm

Sig Ep's 'Safety Duck' ride

said they need the space to get the gliders up and bring them back down

Once the gliders are in the air, the next step is to try to find a thermal spot close to where the gliders are

A thermal spot is air that is warm, and at the fields the best spot to find this is over the tennis court area. What the thermal spot does is help to keep the gliders up in the air much longer, Worm said.

It's much easier to fly the gliders than the planes at the fields, he said, because the planes need a concrete surface to land on. Gliders can land anywhere.

'Gliders are more of a challenge to keep up.'

John Worm

Worm said gliders are easier to learn to operate than the planes. A glider has only two controls, the rudder and the elevator, whereas a plane has four controls.

However, the glider's two controls cut down on the number of maneuvers that can be performed. The gliders can only do loops, Worm said. Anything else will make the gliders lose altitude and come down.

The wind determines when the gliders can be flown. Worm said they usually have to wait until the evenings when the wind is calmer before they can send the gliders up. If they try to send one up in a strong wind, the glider either will be knocked down or sail away from them.

College chooses new ambassadors

By ROGER McKNIGHT Collegian Reporter

The College of Agriculture has announced 38 new members of the 1986-87 Ag Ambassadors program.

The addition brings the total membership to 65 students, coming from 37 different counties across the state of Kansas, said Larry Erpelding, associate director of resident instruction.

The purpose of the Ag Ambassadors program is for the students to serve as goodwill ambassadors for the College of Agriculture and its students, promoting communication between prospective students and the college. They also assist with various College of Agriculture and Ag Student Council activities, Erpelding said.

like Ag Ambassadors allows the student to receive self-fulfillment, in that they are helping prospective students make important decisions,"

Some of the activities scheduled for the ambassadors include promoting the program to students, teachers, counselors and county extension personnel. The ambassadors will correspond with the different audiences through classes and clubs in their home communities, Erpelding

The ambassadors will also assist with Ag Careers Day, Ag Science Day and the Telefriend Program.

"One of their major projects they have just completed was The KSU Experience, where high-school seniors across the state became a

"Being involved in an organization student for a day in the College of Agriculture," Erpelding said.

The program helps the participants develop their personal leadership qualities because they are placed in a position of speaking to groups, organizing tours and hosting students on campus and around the state, he said.

"They also benefit because of the attachment to the College of Agriculture," Erpelding said. "It is a definite association that puts them in a close contact with the faculty, administration and students, so they really feel a part of the college and University.'

The Ag Ambassadors were selected through an application process and 10-minute interview sessions conducted Sept. 15.

feur service provided by the members of Sigma Phi Epsilon that prevents its members from driving home drunk, said Doug president of the Sig Ep house. The "Safety Duck" theme is a takeoff from the popular song "Safety Dance," Shiebe said.

Scheibe, senior in accounting and

By MAUREEN MURPHY

Collegian Reporter

hallucinating when they see an orange duck decoy strapped onto a car and hear quacking noises emanating from it. They may soon find out it can be their safest way

The "Safety Duck" is a chauf-

Aggieville-goers

A portion of the song says "You can ride if you want to, or you can leave your friends behind. If your friends are drunk and they don't ride, then they're no friends of

"I was real tired of guys getting DUIs and not remembering driving home," Shiebe said. "I thought that there's got to be something we can do." He lived in Manhattan this summer and said a lot of people would take the BADD (Bartenders Against Drunk Drivers) cab home, but many times they couldn't get one, so they would go ahead and drive home.

takes drunk members home

"We were just thinking of something crazy to do, and we came up with the Safety Duck idea. This way people can go out and have the best time they can," he said. "There's no sense driving drunk. Scheibe said the advantage to the "Safety Duck" is it takes people down to Aggieville as well as brings them home. This way people can't use the excuse of not wanting to leave their cars in Aggieville and having to pick them up the next day The "Safety Duck" service is provided on Friday and Saturday nights. Two members volunteer each night to run half hour shifts starting at 9 p.m. Around midnight, the "Safety Duck" drives until 2 or 3 a.m., Scheibe said. He said they have no problems getting volunteers to drive, and it saves so many problems for the continuously through Aggieville time involved. "It's a blast driving because you're sober, and you hear all the stories, and you're still in on the Aggieville scene," he said.

He said whoever is driving on the designated night uses his own car. Gas money is collected from riders who donate their extra change to a pig that sits on the dashboard. During the week, the pig sits in the house where members add their spare change.

Scheibe said a member from the fraternity who used to work at a pizza restaurant donated a delivery sign that is strapped to the driver's car. The pizza delivery emblem has been replaced with a bright orange duck decoy. Another member donated a duck call to complete the duck image. While one member does the driving, the other is the duck caller. The service was started about a month ago. Scheibe said the "Safety Duck" service is basically for members of the Sig Ep house, but he said they'll "pile anybody in." About three-fourths of the members who go to Aggieville use the service, he said. On busy weekends, the house has two cars running trips. "It's just so fun to see a car coming with a duck strapped on top of it," Scheibe said. "You get in and you just go home.'

Public funding could aid amendment fight

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - An attorney for the State Board of Education said Monday the board can use public funds in a campaign to defeat a proposed constitutional amendment on the November ballot that would give the Legislature power to review the board's regulations.

Dan Biles, the board's attorney, made the remarks during a board strategy session in preparation for a campaign against the amendment. Biles said a review of state laws showed there was "no problem" with using public funds to oppose the question. However, Biles said although nothing would prohibit individual board members from using public funds to make personal mailings to oppose the proposition, he believed such a move "would create an issue."

"There just aren't any statutes that addresses this," Biles said. "You're free to do as you see proper.'

Board members are solidly opposed to the amendment, which would eliminate the board's "selfexecuting" power as an independent branch of state government and would impose legislative review on the board's actions. The proposal will be on the ballot as constitutional question No. 5.

During the strategy session, board member Bill Musick, a Minneapolis Republican, said the most important message to get across to voters is that a "no" vote is a vote to keep the status quo.

Board Chairman Robert J. Clemmons, a Republican from Independence, said he plans to ask Gov. John Carlin to oppose the amendment. Clemmons said Carlin has made his support known for the other four proposed amendments being presented to voters in November.

But board member Marion Stevens, a Wichita Republican, warned that too much board activity against the amendment could result in "overkill" that would be counterproductive.

Have you done your resume? Unsure of interviewing procedures? Now there's an answer!

Your complete guide to resumes, interviewing and job hunting strategies.

"GETTING HIRED"

Proceeds go to the KSU S.A.D.D. Chapter On Sale Today! Main Floor of the Union

FAMILY HAIRCARE SAVINGS!

OFF ADULT CUT

OFF ADULT CUT

J.C. Penneys 124 S 4th family haircutters Downtown

Earn Up To $200 In Extra Credit!

Now you can earn credit dollars - up to a $200 cash rebate* - with the purchase of an Apple® computer from an authorized Apple dealer between April 1 and October 31, 1986. It's called "Apple's Student Break." And all that's required is written verification of your full-time status as a student in a two- or 4-year college or university. It couldn't be any easier than that.

Or any more worthwhile. Because you can use your new Apple computer to research and write, organize and create high-quality presentations. And with access to hundreds of educational software programs, you can increase your knowledge in hundreds of subjects. In fact, you won't find a better learning tool than an Apple computer.

Or a better time to buy one. See us today for further details.

539-0801

Westloop Shopping Center Manhattan Hours

> Mon.-Fri. 9-6 Saturday 9-1

Your Full Service VALCOM. Computer Center.

Apple and the Apple legis are regotered trademarks of Apple computer to: Macmitoh is a trademark of Methods Laborators to: and is being used with express permission of its corner.

Starship concert highlights Homecoming Week events

By MARTA MONTGOMERY Collegian Reporter

In the mid-'60s, college students were rocking and rolling with a group called the Jefferson Airplane.

Twenty years later, one of the highlights of Homecoming Week will be a concert by the same group, now known as Starship. The concert will be at 8 p.m. Oct. 24 in Ahearn Field House

The five-member RCA recording group is known for such successful top-40 hits as "Jane," "We Built This City," "Sara" and "Find Your Way Back."

The band formed as "Jefferson Airplane" in the mid-'60s, changed its name to "Jefferson Starship" in 1974 and in 1985 became "Starship."

Julie Stephens, Special Events Committee chairperson and senior in social sciences, said plans for this concert have been in the making since the summer.

The committee began by checking with agents to find out what K-State's Homecoming Weekend, as well as what groups were affordable. Starship was the best op-

Early in September an offer was made to Starship, but Stephens said it was only a week ago that they confirmed.

In the past the Special Events Committee has been limited in what it could present, Stephens said. The Chicago concert two years ago was an exception to a rule that disallowed costly presentations.

The Chicago concert was allowed because it was co-sponsored with Contemporary Productions. This assured the Special Events Committee would not operate at a

Since the Chicago concert, Lee Greenwood has given a successful Parents' Day concert in Ahearn, and the Harlem Globetrotters gave a show in February for thousands of fans.

'We are (now) in a position that we can do something that is a little bit more of a risk," Stephens said. groups were available for Stephens predicted that the Starship concert will be another success, but if it isn't, "it will limit the committee in the future."

Stephens said that in some ways, K-State is at a disadvantage when looking for groups to play for this sort of event. She said many groups are interested only in playing in bigger cities, to larger audiences. It was an advantage that Starship also had plans to do other shows in the area, Stephens said. This is one factor that agents look for when booking tours.

Although there are better concert facilities than Ahearn, Stephens points out that it has been used successfully in the past, and it is a facility that can be worked

Both the Chicago and Lee Greenwood concerts were on Parents' Day. This year there will not be a concert scheduled for Parents' Day, simply because the date is too close to Homecoming, Stephens said.

Tickets for Starship are $12.50 and $11.50 and went on sale Monday. Concert seating in Ahearn is approximately 10,000.

ROTC cadets 'fly' through course

By LISA SHEIKH Collegian Reporter

Tom Cruise may have seemed pretty convincing in his smash-hit role as a "Top Gun" pilot, but several K-State students did more than just act the part.

Over the summer, six ROTC pilotqualified cadets attended Air Force's Flight Screen programs in San Antonio, Texas, and Daytona Beach, Fla. All six passed "with flying col-

"The flight program is a very demanding program which includes ground instruction and flight proficiency examinations," said Terry Heyns, head of the Department of Aerospace Studies. "The failure rate is 35 percent. This makes Kansas State's record 100 percent completion especially noteworthy."

Cadets who completed the program are John Braun, junior in mechanical engineering; Mark Ford, senior in electrical engineering; Daniel George, junior in engineering technology; Steve Lindahl, senior in information systems;

Jeffery Pennington, junior in industrial engineering; and Garrett Schmidt, junior in physics.

To complete the training, the cadets had to perfect 37 flying maneuvers during the intense threeweek program. The maneuvers tested are identical to those which one must pass for a pilot's license. But what makes the program particularly difficult, the cadets agreed, is the time constraint and the tremendous stress.

Heyns said the program is designed to "wash out" those who do not demonstrate the attitude or aptitude necessary to complete the 49-week Air Force pilot training program which, for these cadets, will follow graduation.

"They try to give us a feel for what it will be like in undergraduate pilot training, and that's what makes it so hard," Schmidt said.

Last year was the first time ROTC cadets were required to attend this program. The two K-State cadets who participated last year were successful in the program.

Previously, a Flight Instruction program was offered in Manhattan The Air Force wanted to get away from this, though, because the program didn't sufficiently prepare students for the undergraduate pilot training, Schmidt said. The screening at the small airports was not as intense as the Flight Screening Program, he said.

'Anybody can learn how to fly,' Schmidt said, "but they want to see if you can do it in 16 training days."

Lindahl said the cadets' success in the program was due to "the desire to work really hard at what you were doing, because if you didn't work hard down there, you weren't going to make it."

"There were guys all around you that were washing out," George said. Some left after only one day

The cadets agreed that self discipline, optimism, hard work and luck were all necessities at this pro-

In response to the suggested comparison between their experience and the movie "Top Gun," Schmidt said, "Keep in mind, a lot of that is Hollywood.'

Governor Carlin to ask assistance, disaster declaration from Reagan

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Gov. John Carlin said Monday he will request a presidential disaster declaration from President Reagan for nine flood-ravaged counties in southeast Kansas.

In addition, Carlin said he would ask assistance from the Farmers Home Administration for four other counties in the area which also sustained damage during flooding late last week and over the weekend.

Carlin said the disaster declaration request would cover Allen, Bourbon, Chautauqua, Cherokee, Crawford, Labette, Montgomery, Neosho and Wilson counties.

For five of the counties - Allen, Bourbon, Chautauqua, Montgomery and Wilson - the governor is requesting Individual Family Grants, public assistance, Farmers Home Administration low-interest loans and loans from the Small Business Administration.

Carlin said the same assistance would be requested for Cherokee, Crawford, Labette and Neosho counties except for the Individual Family Grants. The uninsured damage in those areas does not appear to meet federal standards for the grants, he

The governor said he would request Farmers Home Administration assistance for Woodson, Elk, Cowley and Linn counties. Carlin said the list of counties targeted for FmHA assistance may be expanded

Student lobbyists set platform at assembly

By KRISTI KRUCKENBERG Collegian Reporter

Public service scholarships and merit-based salary increases for working college students were two ideas which members of the Associated Students of Kansas voted to support at a legislative assembly Friday through Sunday in Kansas Ci-

ASK is a lobbying organization made up of students from Kansas Board of Regents' schools. At this assembly, several issues were covered in committee meetings, including access, excellence, information, opportunity and university governance.

In the committee meeting on access, ASK members discussed improving existing student aid programs.

"We want to make sure everyone has access to public education," said Kevin Elmore, senior in computer science and ASK board member.

This access includes providing "public service scholarships" to students who are willing to do work for their community.

"Public service scholarships would be eligible to students willing to spend some time working in their community, such as teaching at local schools or tutoring on campus," Elmore said.

Also on the meeting's agenda was discussion of high-school graduation requirements. Elmore said ASK voted to support the Board of Education's efforts to increase high-school graduation requirements in the state "If these standards were raised, colleges would not have to offer so many remedial courses," he said.

ASK members also voted to support "merit salary increases" for students returning to the same university job year after year.

In the committee meeting on ex cellence, ASK members decided to take action to keep faculty members teaching freshman and sophomore level courses, said Scott King, sophomore in pre-law and ASK

"We feel it's important that faculty members, not graduate teaching assistants, teach these courses King said.

In this meeting, delegates also discussed the problem ASK called 'brain drain.

About 60 student delegates attend ed the assembly, 13 representing K-State. One delegate may attend each legislative assembly for every 1,000 students attending his or her university.

Two armed men seize store; undetermined amount taken

By The Collegian Staff

At about 10:20 Sunday evening, Dutch Maid Supermarket, 1522 Poyntz Ave., was robbed by two men

The gunmen took an undetermined amount of cash from the store's registers, said Gary Kearby, store manager.

Balloon

Boutique

'Gifts For All Occasions'

(not just balloons)

"Call or Come On In"

539-0106

-We Deliver-

619 N. 3rd

THE ICECREAM

SOCIAL

Makes old-fashioned

ice cream treatsstill America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love our atmosphere.

> Try our soft-serve.

1314 Westloop

Kearby said the store's security system was turned off as the gunmen ordered.

"It doesn't do much good to have the security system on if it's going to endanger people's lives," Kearby said. "That's why we turned it off."

The Riley County Police Department is looking for two black men in connection with the robbery.

Tuesday

IMPORT BEER

NIGHT

Featuring Bottles of Mae's

Favorite Beers

from across the Seas

$1.25

Memberships Available

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

· SOFT-EXTENDED WEAR FOR SLEEPING

· SOFT BIFOCAL

• FAST REPLACEMENT OF LOST

OR DAMAGED LENSES PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE . SOFT-TINTED TO ENHANCE YOUR EYE COLOR

SOFT FOR ASTIGMATISM

. FLEX-OXYGEN PERMEABLE FREE CONSULTATION

537-1118

1119 WEST LOOP PLAZA

KSU Ambassador

Applications available in Anderson Hall, Room 122

Applications due Thursday, October 9

Books & Copies SELF-SERVICE COPIES 81/2 x 11, white ALSO: reductions & enlargements thesis copying - 50% cotton paper transparencies spiral binding 10% KSU faculty discount on books

FirstBank Center 1814 Claflin 776-3771

Hours: 8-9 M-F 9-5 Sat. 12-9 Sun. Tonite

$2 Pitchers

Fridayone night only Not The Glenn Miller Band Free T.G.I.F. set

Free BBQ

Tot cider, hayrides, falling leaves

and colorful trees

Free Delivery

Restaurant 1304 Westloop 539-8888

11 a.m.-1 a.m. Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

man handler nails your nails stop you from man handling. "Beautiful nails for the total look."

Don't let

* Call Cheryl NOW!

776-4455 1209 Moro

Let a fulltime nail specialist care for your nails.

Frost her autumn days with delicious diamond dazzle

537-7079 THE FUTURE IS IN INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS A representative will be on campus TUESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1986 to discuss GRADUATE STUDY MERICAN GRADUATE SCHOOL INTERNATIONAL MANAGEMENT GLENDALE, ARIZONA 85306

INTRAMURAL MANAGERS MEETING

Interviews may be scheduled at

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER

4 p.m. Forum Hall, K-State Union WEDNESDAY, OCT. 8

Thurs., Oct. 9, 5 p.m.

Stone Carving A Historical Art

ST. MARYS — The noise of hand chiseling, combined with pneumatic jackhammers and a generator to run air compressors, made for a rather noisy workplace Saturday and Sun-

St. Marys hosted the 1986 Stone Symposium which was sponsored jointly by the Kansas Sculptors Association and Bayer Stone, Inc., of St. Marys.

The intent of the two organizations is to donate to a Kansas community a sculpture carved during the symposiums, which will be conducted every two years in St. Marys.

Max and Sue Bayer, owners of Bayer Stone, Inc., were pleased with the turnout of 31 participants, even though it was less than the number that showed up in 1984.

The Bayers, along with the St. Marys Historical Society, wanted to promote the history of Kansas. Through contacts with the KSA, the project began.

"Our business has nothing to do with sculpture," Sue Bayer said. "But we've had artists request pieces of stone before and I thought it would be neat to gather up artists, sculptors and anyone with an interest in stone carving to chisel on a piece of stone for a

For some of the sculptors, this was their first or second time to work on a piece of

"We've got a long-time sculpting professor from KU. Some of these people have two or three years' experience and some are doing it for the first time," Max Bayer said.

"Everybody has a different reason behind being here. It's not because we do this for a living and I'm not a sculptor. We like to encourage art, and we like the thought of Kansas stone being used by Kansas artists," he Sculpting is a hobby for some people. For others, it's a means of expression.

For some, it is both artistic expression and a way to make a living. However, they are the minority.

"Most generally, sculpting is a hobby on the said Bob Rose, retired cinematographer and full-time sculptor.

"We have some art teachers, a dental technician, a shoe repairman, an art student, a maker of custom-made jewelry and a real estate estimator," he said.

Rose is the designer of this years' project an eight-ton, 16-foot-high replica of a sunflower which will be donated to the Kansas Department of Transportation. The carving will be placed at a rest area on the south side of I-70, just west of the interchange of Kansas Highway 177.

Six Kansas communities and the state of Kansas requested a sculpture from the sym-

"It's a fact that there are many people interested in having a sculpture in their town or in their yard," said Brent Bayer, 1981 K-State graduate in journalism and mass communications, and son of Max and Sue.

The Kansas Sculpture Association chose the Kansas Department of Transportation to receive this year's carving.

"The different plans were submitted and KDOT chose the one they liked best and the location," Brent Bayer said.

The carving done in the 1984 symposium was designed and the work was created before either a location or a recipient was selected. The city of St. Marys was selected to receive the sculpture and the site chosen is the city park adjacent to Highway 24 which runs through the town.

"In the future, we plan to pin down the (community) first, so the recipients have a choice in the design," Rose said. "That also gives the sculptor some idea of what to put in the place.'

Rose said the team carving project was begun on Aug. 30 and a team of eight sculptors has been working on it every Saturday since.

The team sculpture done in 1984 was designed by Richard Stauffer, who teaches sculpture at Emporia State University. The work was given to the city of St. Marys and was positioned in one of the city parks last month. Stauffer spoke at the Oct. 4 dedication of the work his team created.

"I'm a Kansan and I'm proud of that," Stauffer said. "I feel a special kinship with the hills and clouds and stones and the people who have been here before me. In this piece, there are symbols dealing with those people who were here before us that we owe so much

There are three basic symbols in the statue: a feather, for the American Indian; a cross, for the Jesuits who had much to do with the Christian heritage of St. Marys; and the wagon wheel, for the pioneers who settled Kansas.

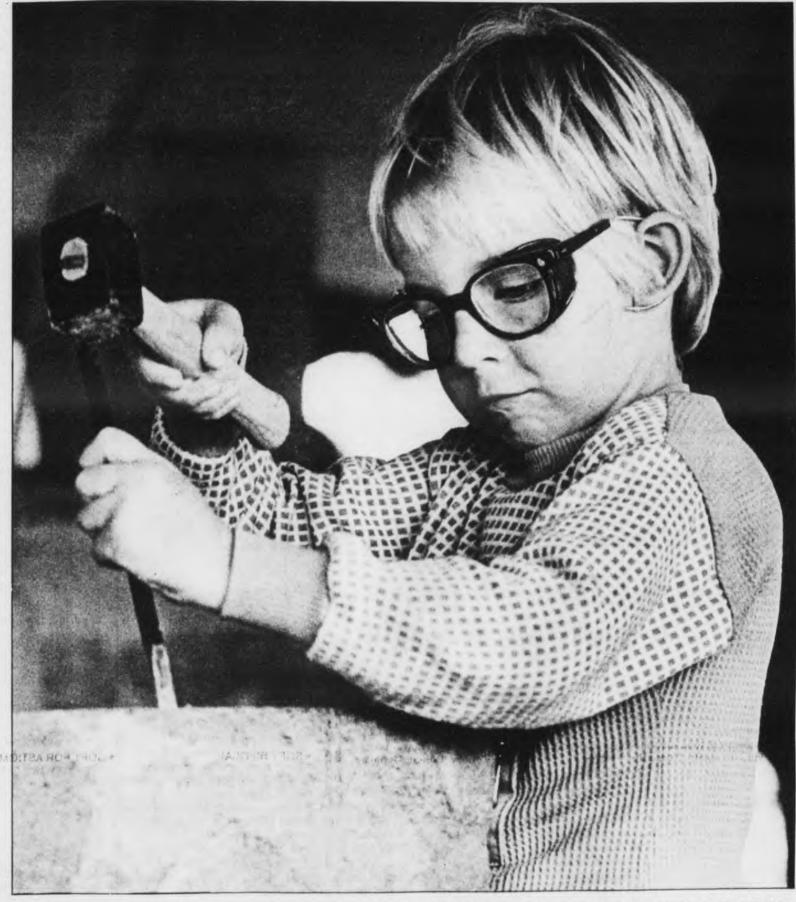

"Part of that is coming out in the title, "The Presence of Three,' of the statue in St. Marys. I contend they are still here," Stauffer said.

The work stands 12 feet high and consists of three interlocking pieces. Other pioneer symbols include low relief carvings of a pilgrim hat, coffee kettle, saw, spade, ax, rifle, campfire, hawk's wings, tomahawk, bows and arrows, a fish, chalice and an open Bible. Low relief carvings are line drawings and are cut to a depth of approximately one-half inch.

"There have been sculpting groups for hundreds of years in Greece, Italy and Egypt. Team sculpting is a novel idea for the American artist," said Ernest T. Ross, a fulltime sculptor from Kansas City, Mo.

The team that worked with Stauffer on "The Presence of Three" include Ross; Jim Bass, a full-time sculptor from Topeka; Jim Patti, a shoe repairman from Lawrence; Stacy Hall, a sculpting student at Emporia

See CARVING, Page 10

Trying out a pitching tool and hammer for the first time, Alec Miller, 6. Manhattan, begins the initial steps to a stone carving. Observers had the chance to pay a small registration fee and explore their artistic talents during the 1986 Stone Symposium in St. Marys.

With a critical eye, Jerry Miller of Kansas City, Kan., examines his partially finished stone art form of an Egyptian princess. Miller has carved for years in metal, but only worked in stone for two.

With blocks of limestone on tree stump podiums, 31 sculptors, either first-timers or veterans, work diligently on their art. Some artists perceive the shape before they begin carving while other artists just begin carving and let the shape happen.

Throughout the centuries stone carving has employed the hammer with the pitching tool, pointed and toothed chisels. Kansas limestones, silverdale and cottonwood, in addition to a "chestnut" red limestone were commonly used in the Stone Symposium '86.

Story by Bob Olson Photographs by Jeff Weatherly

Player liability varies among Big 8 schools

From Staff and Wire Reports

How much responsibility must a coach assume for the conduct of his players? It's a prickly question that touches upon many subjects, including media treatment of athletes. Not surprisingly, some Big Eight coaches have some differing perspectives. It seems to depend on one's recent experiences.

Jim Criner of Iowa State, who's lost several players this fall to offthe-field problems, takes a different attitude than K-State's Stan Parrish and Colorado's Bill McCartney.

"If the president of the school were held responsible for every mistake that every student made, the students would never get anything done." Criner said.

"If the head coach is going to be responsible for every mistake every player makes, it's going to be hard to get things done," Criner said. "We've just tried to put it in proper perspective and let our players know that when you've got over 100 guys, someone's going to make a mistake.

"We can't let that interfere with what we're trying to do. We tell them to keep their eyes on the goals and go from there," Criner said.

'You have to set guidelines for the

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - Roger Clemens, the most dominant pitcher in baseball this season, said his injured right elbow was

"100 percent" ready Monday as the Boston Red Sox prepared to meet the California Angels in Game 1 of the Clemens, who was 3-0 against the Angels this year, ad-

But the right-hander, who led the AL with a 24-4 record

"My arm's 100 percent," Clemens said. When pressed and 2.48 earned run average, said he would be fine to start Tuesday night's playoff opener against Mike Witt.

for details about his recovery, he firmly replied, "I don't

Witt was 18-10 this year and 1-2 against Boston. Overall,

While Clemens' problems may have cleared up,

Reggie Jackson, the Angels' designated hitter, again was in the postseason spotlight, nursing a left hand injured when he hit a dugout wall Saturday night during a game at Texas. California Manager Gene Mauch said the incident occurred when Jackson got upset after making

X-rays on Jackson's hand were negative, and he took

"I think by tomorrow (Tuesday) I'll be 100 percent,"

Mauch said he would wait until Tuesday before

"A lot depends on Reggie," Mauch said. "He says he's Jackson, despite his "Mr. October" reputation, has a career average of only .234 in 10 playoff series. However, in the World Series, he has hit .357 with 10 home runs in

Two other Boston players who had been slowed by

Boggs, the major leagues' batting champion at .357, did

"Four days off and sitting in the trainer's room doing

Red Sox Manager John McNamara said Gedman was feeling "some discomfort" from being hit in the shoulder

Chilly temperatures in the upper 40s were forecast for Clemens said, "The weather is not going to make a dif-

Both teams worked out at Fenway Park on Monday in ference" to him and Witt said he had the "type of metabolism I work up a sweat no matter how cold it is."

brisk 50-degree temperatures with wind gusts up to 40

the therapy drove me crazy," Boggs said. "I just hope not play in Boston's final four games because of a right minor injuries, third baseman Wade Boggs and catcher deciding on a lineup for the 7:20 p.m. CDT game.

five appearances, thereby gaining his nickname.

Rich Gedman, were expected to start Game 1.

by a foul tip Saturday, but was ready to play

Jackson said. "I've hurt my hands a lot, but my hands another injury clouded the outlook for the start of the the Angels won the season series 7-5, with the teams splitmitted his elbow that was hit by a line drive last week

American League playoffs.

was still "sore to touch."

want to talk about my arm anymore.'

ting six games at Fenway Park.

best-of-seven series.

batting practice Monday.

have always come back."

a quick healer.'

hamstring injury.

Tuesday night.

the therapy worked."

kids to follow. You make the simple and self-explanatory, such as 'don't embarrass yourself, the team or the University.' People don't realize this is a 24-hour job. I'm a social worker, psychiatrist, dad and a coach," Parrish said.

"Each coach has to take responsibility for every altercation on or off the field for his squad," McCartney said. "Any coach who does not stand responsible or accountable for everything that happens is not doing the job he's been hired to do.

"We're still working with the youth of America, the leaders of today and tomorrow. It's our responsibility to see that they measure up. When a guy doesn't, it's an indictment of the coach. When it happens frequently, then they ought to replace the coach and get somebody else in there that's going to be better for the kids," Mc-Cartney said.

Oklahoma's Barry Switzer and Nebraska's Tom Osborne both pointed to the intense scrutiny the media reserves only for athletes.

"If a kid screws up at Slippery Rock, I read about it," Switzer said. "We just know more about what's going on in other people's families where years ago we didn't know. When you've got more than 100 kids

Major League's best prepare for run at baseball pennants

Healthy Clemens NY, Astros pair ready for Angels pitching abilities

League playoffs.

than just pitching.

Johnson.

of the year.'

ter balance and a stronger bench.

what kind of moves he's going to make.

together, you're going to have problems. There is no program in the country that's immune to that. We've all got to deal with those situations."

"It seems like college coaching has gotten more complex in many areas," Osborne said. "We're heavily involved in drug-testing. We have to be held accountable, and rightly so, for what 150 players do on and off

"Certainly, one of the things that bothers me is that players are subject to so much scrutiny," Osborne said. "When one of our players gets a traffic ticket and doesn't appear in court on the right day, he gets headlines. But the average student wouldn't even get in fine print.

'Some of it tends to get exaggerated. It just seems like it's gotten to be a lot more complicated, a job where the coaching part of it becomes almost secondary," Osborne said.

"Ultimately, the coach is responsible for the players," Parrish said. "When something happens, they are judged as a football player and not as a student - and that's a sad situation," Parrish said. "A coach has to be responsible for the actions, both good and bad, taken by your football

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON - Houston Manager Hal Lanier realizes very well that it will be strength-against-strength when the Astros meet the New York Mets in the National ching," Lanier said. "That's their strength. They have so

However, the Astros also have superb pitching. Their staff finished with an earned run average of 3.15, second in the National League, behind the Mets' 3.11. The Astrosy had one stretch, beginning on Sept. 23, during

The best-of-seven playoff series begins Wednesday night in the Astrodome, with 1985 NL Cy Young Award winner Dwight Gooden of New York facing Mike Scott, who led the NL with 306 strikeouts and pitched a no-hitter against San Francisco on Sept. 25 when the Astros clinched the NL West. Scott was 18-10, while Gooden was 17-6

Lanier, first-year manager for the Astros, he has a great deal of respect for his Mets counterpart, Davey

Johnson. And he realizes the Mets have more weapons

"Davey's done a great job, and I think the difference

this year with the Mets is that they're not just one pitcher," said Lanier, who was a coach for the pennant-winning St. Louis Cardinals last year. "They've had

Kevin Mitchell, Tim Teufel and Len Dykstra all for the whole season. They can go to their bench. They have bet-with Mitchell. You throw a right-hander, and they come at you with Dykstra, Wally Backman and Howard

The Mets' manager, on the other hand, recognizes

Lanier's game plan, refined as a coach under Cardinals

Manager Whitey Herzog. On offense, the Astros' philosophy is to attack, be aggressive, take the extra

"You know pretty much what the other guy's style of

"Anytime a team plays up to its potential, you've done a good job as a manager. And the Houston club was the best of any one in the National League in the second half

Pointing out the age of the Houston staff - Nolan Ryan is 39 and Bob Knepper is 32 - Mets right-hander Ron

Darling said he thought the edge in pitching still belonged have hit on," the 25-year-old Darling said, "but is Houston better? Who knows?...I'd just like to see our numbers when we're that old. And you can't take away

Game 2 Thursday night at Houston will match left-hander Bob Ojeda of New York against the right-handed

Ryan. The Game 3 pitching opponents will be Darling from us that we led the league in pitching."

"I know that pitching is the battleground a lot of people managing is," Johnson said, "so you tend to anticipate

"You throw a left-hander at them, and they come back for the Mets, who clinched the NL East on Sept. 17.

which they won six of eight games, all by shutouts.

many people who can shut you down."

"They won their division so early because of their pit-

'Cats' golf coach Sedorcek youngest of young mentors

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

Editor's Note: This is the sixth in a series featuring K-State athletic coaches. The series will appear Tuesdays on the sports page.

Last year the doors to the K-State athletic coaches' offices were spinning and everytime the door stopped the new person inside was younger than his predecessor.

None, however, were as fresh from the graduation line as firstyear golf coach Rob Sedorcek. Sedorcek, the ace of the men's staff during his four-year playing stint, accepted the K-State golf job after former coach Ray Wauthier retired from the University with 37 years of service to his credit.

The baby of probably the nation's youngest collegiate coaching staff on the Division I-A level, the 24-year-old Sedorcek relishes the thought of being one of the greenhorn coaches at K-State - if not the youngest coach in the

"I found," Sedorcek said, "that people that I played against and talked to this summer would find out that I am now coaching at K-State would say 'Rob, that is great that Kansas State is hiring someone young with new ideas.'

"I have gotten a lot of comments from Big Eight coaches already that say the team is improved and we should be able to make a move

Age is not the only hurdle Sedorcek is battling in his quest to elevate the Wildcat golf program from the cellar of the Big Eight. Where most Big Eight coaches have the luxury of coaching and recruiting for one team - men's or women's - Sedorcek handles both programs. He is also faced with strict budgetary restraints this year, as is all the non-revenue coaches this year.

Athletic Director Larry Travis told Sedorcek to find the golfers who can help make K-State competitive and when the "big two" football and men's basketball start generating more revenue his program will be more adequately funded.

"Our budget is basically at the mercy of football and basketball," Sedorcek said.

The Coaches of K-State

Sedorcek had a busy spring last year as he practically revamped the entire men's squad who lost a several golfers to graduation. Among the coaches' signings was an oddity of sorts, his brother, Jeff.

While it is not uncommon to hear of sons playing for their coaching fathers on the collegiate level, it is a rare sight to see a brothercoaching-brother combination.

"It is not much different (than coaching any of his other players) because I more or less coached him through junior programs and high school," Sedorcek said. "He would call me up when he had a problem in high school and I would help him out. "It is not a problem because he knows where he wants to go (onto the professional tour) and I know where he wants to go, so I am just pushing him to reach it," he said.

As most of the sports at K-State have begun doing since Travis took over at K-State a year and a half ago, Sedorcek opened up a nationwide search for golfing talent to fill his talent void.

"Last year I recruited on a national basis," Sedorcek said. "The general comment I got was 'Oh, K-State has a golf program?"

As Sedorcek looks across the tee boxes and the practice greens this fall he sees a group of young athletes who he can relate to interpersonally. The new coach just stepped out of the shoes of being a student-athlete two years ago.

"I would say it is probably more of an asset (being young)," Sedorcek said, "because I can relate to the kids better. I was just there a few years back. But, I would say it is harder for the kids sometimes because I'm so young. They say 'Rob, lets go get a beer' or something like that and I have to say 'no' because of the position I

Rob Sedorcek has taken over the golf coaching position from 37-year veteran, Ray Wauthier. Sedorcek, who graduated from K-State last year, is the youngest coach on the athletic department's staff.

Wildcats finding recruiting gold within Sunshine State's borders junior college programs are Women's tennis coach Steve

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

When Athletic Director Larry Travis took over the helm of Wildcat athletics a year and a half ago, he instituted a number . of policies to elevate the ailing K-State sports programs.

Among Travis' many ideas was a national recruiting search for athletes, in all sports, to accomplish the five-year plan he brought with him from his previous duties at Georgia Tech.

The state that keeps popping up across the Wildcat coaches signing lists more and more frequently is Florida.

Football coach Stan Parrish signed four prep players from the Sunshine State during his inaugural recruiting season as the Wildcat mentor. The four signees bring the total of K-State football players from the state to seven, tying it with California for the second highest total behind Kansas.

Bietau also has found a recruiting coup in Florida. Upon receiving the K-State job two years ago, Bietau plucked junior college All-American Lena Svensson from Palm Beach Junior College and this year signed two more women from the state - Valerie Rive' and Lena Nurmi, who will join the team in January.

There seems to be a lot of good athletes coming from that area, we will continue looking there.' -Coach Lon Kruger

"I think what happens a lot of times is you get a player from a certain area and they like and go back and tell others about the place and you tend to get more," Bietau said.

"Florida is one of the top three areas for junior tennis and their always among the top," he said. However, K-State's best known Florida product is sophomore basketball star Norris Coleman. Coleman entered the K-State scene last year and took the University and Big Eight by storm averaging a whopping 21.8 points per game to claim first-team All-Big Eight honors and Newcomer of the Year award in the conference.

First-year basketball coach Lon Kruger came in last year and signed another top prospect from Florida when he got junior college All-American Mitch Richmond to join the Wildcat basketball team.

"We are looking at several kids in that area," Kruger said. "There seems to be a lot of good athletes coming from that area, we will continue looking there.

"Norris - you all know what he can do from last year and Mitch comes in with a lot of credentials."

'Cats claim two; tourney still open

By The Collegian Staff

The K-State baseball team swept a double-header from Kansas City Kansas Community College Sunday at Frank Myers Field.

Scott Spangenberg led the Wildcats to a 6-4 victory in the opener by driving in four runs. In the second victory, Wildcat reliever Darryl Rowley pitched five innings of twohit baseball in the 'Cats' 4-2 win.

The next action for K-State will be Sunday when Northeast Oklahoma comes to Manhattan for a doubleheader with the Wildcats.

The K-State rugby team's A- and

B-ides both lost to the Kansas City Blues this weekend at Swope Park in Kansas City, Mo. The A-Side attempted to battle back from a 11-0 halftime deficit, but came up short with a 14-4 loss to the Blues. The loss dropped the team's record to 4-3 on the season.

The B-Side team also fell to the Blues 17-3. The rugby teams will next be in action Saturday when they travel to Pittsburg State.

Tennis coach Steve Bietau has moved the deadline for entering the KSU women's tennis team's open tournament to Thursday.

The original deadline for the tournament, which is designed to raise funds for the K-State tennis team, was today. The tournament will be played Saturday and Sunday on the courts adjacent to the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

The K-State women's golf team finished fifth out of an eight-team field last weekend at the Northern Iowa Invitational. The Wildcats were paced by Paige Harrison who finished the tournament with rounds of 81. 82 and 84.

The team finished the tournament with a combined score of 1049, 70 strokes behind tournament champion Nebraska.

Group helps improve relationships

By KELLY KLOVER Collegian Reporter

In conducting a study of "needs" a few years ago, the University found that the top need of K-State students had to do with relationships.

For the second consecutive year, the Counseling Center has offered its Enhancing Relationships program for individuals wanting to improve their interactions with others. The eight-part group series began Sept. 18 and will meet from 3:30 to 5 p.m., every Thursday through Nov. 6, in Holton Hall.

Facilitators for the group are Cliff Schuette, assistant director of the Counseling Center, and Carol Eikleberry, a counselor at the Counseling Center and a psychology doctoral student from the University of Washington, Seattle.

The program is directed toward individuals who want to enhance interactions with roommates, friends, boyfriends and girlfriends, and spouses, Schuette said. Participation, which is free of charge, is limited to eight individuals. Consequently, not everyone who signs up can be involved, he said. Positions are filled after each person is interviewed, and it is determined whose needs can best be met by the program. One does not have to be a student to sign up.

Schuette said the program is to help people improve relationships. "It's a developmental or preventative approach in helping people fulfilling develop more relationships," he said. The program is not a therapy group, Schuette said. Individuals desiring therapy are referred to some other type of assistance. Of the eight individuals who participated last year, two were engaged, two were siblings, two were roommates, and two were non-pairs. This year there is only one pair - a married couple.

Schuette said the weekly sessions are "fairly unstructured." It is not a class in which Schuette and Eikleberry teach and run the group. It is everyone's responsibility to provide a stimulus to get things going, he said.

The students dictate what their goals and objectives are so the sessions can be customized to meet their needs. One goal of the group is to improve listening skills. The members will practice listening to each other speak, and then paraphrase one another to be certain that they understood correctly.

The group will also learn the importance of eye contact and nonverbal behavior. Other topics that are likely to be addressed are self disclosure, conflict resolution and appreciating interpersonal differences.

Occasionally, group members "homework" might have assignments. This may involve the observation of people interacting in the Union or other gathering places, to determine what might or might not be helpful communication

The idea for the program came about in a staff planning meeting two years ago, Schuette said.

Brown

Continued from Page 1

D. Rogers, who is hearing the case without a jury, find that discrimination exists and a remedy be ordered to achieve a greater mixing of the races at Topeka schools.

Dan Biles, attorney for the state Board of Education, said the 10-member panel had been "recklessly accused of intentionally depriving Topeka schoolchildren of their constitutional rights to a quality education." He said documents and cross examination of Jones' witnesses would prove the allega-

Gary Sebelius, attorney for the school district, said the actions by the seven-member Topeka school board since the historic Supreme Court decision show a "record of progress over 36 years."

He said there was never any finding in the original case that Topeka teachers and facilities were racially imbalanced, nor have subsequent investigations by the U.S. Department of Justice or federal education agencies failed to find any significant problems in that area. Sebelius said the school board cannot be held responsible for city annexation of ethnic neighborhoods over the past three decades which result in some schools having higher than average minority enrollments.

Federally subsidized housing projects and municipal urban renewal projects caused displacement of some minority families and had a big impact on demographic shifts in attendance patterns, Sebelius said in discounting a claim by Jones the district had influenced development ethnic and minority neighborhoods in Topeka. And he pointed out the school district has implemented an open enrollment policy and teacher redistribution plan which resulted in a better racial balance among students and instructors at Topeka elementary and secondary schools.

"I'm glad all sides have indicated to the court we are not going spend time on what is dead and gone ... (but) where we are now in 1986," Rogers said. He urged both sides not to dwell on the historical or emotional aspects of the case because he is familiar with the history of the case.

The original suit began when Brown's daughter, now Linda Brown Smith, had to walk past white school in her neighborhood to go to a black

The complaint filed Feb. 18, 1951. on behalf of 20 black elementary students alleged that white children of elementary school age were allowed to attend neighborhood schools close to their homes, while black students were forced to travel to separate all-black schools outside their districts.

Family roles change during farming crisis

By JULIE ANDSAGER Collegian Reporter

Family farms have always relied on family members to hold the business together, but the sagging farm economy of the past few years has changed some of their roles.

Traditionally, each member of the family would perform regular chores. Today, however, one member usually has to work in an off-farm job, said David Darling. assistant professor of community development.

"The big thing is that someone in the home who works on the farm has to go out of the home and earn money," Darling said. "I'm amazed at the people across the state who go out and get jobs where you wouldn't think there are jobs.'

Kansas has been hardest hit by inadequate agricultural prices in the

HERE IS THE INTREPID REPORTER

Garfield

JPM DAV95 10.7

eanuts

HERE'S THE WORLD WAR I

FLYING ACE SEARCHING

ENEMY, THE KED BARON.

THE SKIES FOR HIS

FOR "THE BLOOM PICAYUNE" ON

THE TRACK OF THE BIGGEST

STORY OF HIS CAREER ...

Bloom County

northwest corner of the state, where most farmers grow only wheat, he said. The southeast area, with more diversification of enterprises, is not feeling the pinch as much.

However, farms going out of business eventually lead to the decline of small rural towns. This "ripple effect" is causing the farm problem to spread beyond those directly involved in family farm operations, said Katey Walker, associate professor of human development and family studies. It also means more people are becoming concerned with the family farm.

"Everybody, I think, feels some sympathy for people who are in really acute stages of distress," Walker said. "There has been a lot of community effort to be a good listener and find where sources of help are. People are becoming good neighbors

THE SEARCH FOR THE FABLED

BASSELOPE! SIR... WHAT,

EXACTLY, 15 A BASSELOPE ?

DUCKING IN AND OUT

GAME OF HIDE-AND-SEEK

52 " - Kind maker

DOWN

2 Tokyo,

once

3 Trouble

4 Atelier

5 "Dear -

of Man"

OF THE CLOUDS, HE

PLAYS A DANGEROUS

PART BASSET

HOUND PART

ANTELOPE.

VERY RARE

A BASSELOPE SOUNDS VICIOUS . HAVE ANY PROTECTION ?

PEEKABOO, I SEE YOU!

BRINGING

UP THE REAR

While much of the news about family farms in crisis reports suicides and marital problems, she said, only about one-third of farm families are actually facing a farm loss. The possibility of losing the farm is stressful, but families are learning to cope with hard times. In addition to support from within the family, religious organizations have developed support programs for farmers and rural communities. "Some people, particularly if they've been in farming a long time, will tell you that there's always been hard times in farming," Walker said.

"Most families do find that it's important to maintain communication within the family," she said. "Parents make a real effort to talk to a child, particularly teenagers, and explain what's going on, so that they know what's going on and don't feel it's their fault.'

By Berke Breathed

THANK YOU ALL SO MUCH!

By Jim Davis

By Charles Schulz

ACTUALLY, WORLD WAR I

SELDOM SAID, "PEEKABOO,

FLYING ACES VERY

I SEE YOU!"

THE SHOES ARE BY "REEBOK".

THE WEAPON, BY "LOUISVILLE

"BANANA REPUBLIC."

PRIVE-THRU RESTAURANTS

ARE SO CONVENIENT

SLUGGER"... THE FASHIONS BY

assifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publi noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper. Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01 MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52) NEW OIL controlling skin conditioner especially for oily skin. Mary Kay Cosmetics, Janet Milliken, 539-9469. (27-36)

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m.

Parking in rear. (27-49) CROSS REFERENCE-Student night at Cross Ref Tuesday, October 7th, 8-11 p.m. Select group of music 25%-50% off. Sale table of books and bibles. (30-31)

SINGLE PARENTS Group will meet Tuesday evenings, childcare provided. Call Center for information, 532-6444, (31)

02 ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of cos-

JOIN THE

Irresistible Force:

tumes. Also, new and used records, vintage clothing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

The Kansas Army National Guard needs you! If you're a High School Junior, Senior, or Grad. between the ages of 17 and 35, you can become part of the IRRESISTIBLE FORCE

*$2,000 Cash Bonus

*$5,040 New G.I. Bill *$10,000 Student Loan Repayment Program

Repayment Program *And Earn Over $1,200 per year

$20,000 Health Profession Loan

Part-Time For Information Call:

SFC Don Hash

(913)537-4108 day (913)537-2478 night PAYING TOO much for medical insurance? Not sure?

Get a quote. Call Molly Pennington Myers, 776-7199. (31-33)

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword 35 German

ACROSS 1 Ammo for a shooter? 36 Decom-5 Clear league

37 Part of

A.P.

38 Band of color

41 Gazelle

42 Barren

43 University in N.Y.

а Нарру

48 "Put on

49 Sargasso

bell 8 Coarse file

12 Entrance 13 Grill's partner 14 Miss Kett

15 University in N.Y. 17 Family fight 18 Sandra —

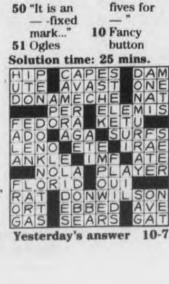

O'Connor 19 Limits 21 Flight member?

24 Flower garlands

25 Active sport 26 Harvard and Hofstra

30 Norma's heavenly neighbor 31 Steno groups 32 - Grant' of TV 33 French university

11 Steno's needs 16 Disfigure

53 Marionette 20 Lubricates 21 Health 1 D.C. org. resorts 22 Spanish

> 23 Winglike 24 Diving birds 26 "The Bare-

6 Cebine monkey foot -27 Adhesive 7 Parisian 28 Eternities girl's name 8 Trash 29 Beer: 9 "...two

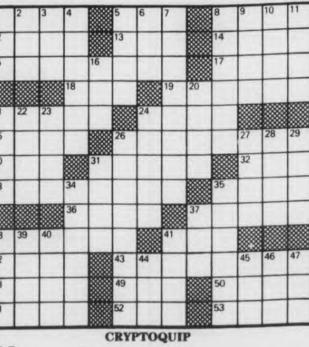

31 Ship's deck 34 June stars 35 Supports 37 Kentucky

38 Vault 39 "Old Dog 40 Pudding ingredient

bluegrass

41 "The Long - Line 44 Strong impulse

45 Grape 46 Sun. talk 47 Work unit

10-7

YWZEDRUNC'D CPFMQ

APTWKUNG

TPZPNUWF

EGUD AYWKUMP PKGP: Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WONDERFUL ROOFER WAS INSPIRED TO REPAIR CHURCH STEEPLE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: E equals K

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment, 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-1329. (18tf) ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Putnam Hill, 1308 N. Manhattan, $195. Call 539-7521 or 776-7045. (30-34) ALL THIS for $227.50 per month. Three bedrooms carpet, central air, maintenance free. Prairie Glen Townhouse, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., 776-4786. (30-39)

FOR SALE-AUTO 1975 WHITE Malibu-6 cylinder, 67,000 miles, air conditioning, power steering, brakes, runs great. Offer. Call 532-6939 or 539-9367. (28-32) 1984 BRONCO II-Blue/silver, power steering, air

conditioning, centerlines, tinted glass, sharp. Call 539-1824 afternoons. (28-32) 1974 VOLKSWAGEN Super Beetle. Runs great. New front end, brakes. $1200 or best offer. 539-4855. (30-1964 VW Bug—Rebuilt engine, new interior and paint. Excellent investment, $1,250. 1962 VW Bus-Rebuilt engine, good body, low mileage. 1 494-2388, St. George. (30tf) 1975 VW Rabbit, $700 or best offer, 539-5716 (8-10 a.m.). (31-33) 1982 CAMERO, V-8, 55,000 miles, good condition, $5,000 or best ofter 537-1534, ask for Wayne or Buzz. (31-34)

FOR SALE-MISC

Hayes House of Music DOD Guitar Effects 30% OFF

327 Poyntz 776-7983

ATARI 800XL, 1050 drive, software, $300. Casio MT-68 electronic keyboard, $75. Radio Shack PC-2 1K pocket computer, $75. Call 532-5136. (31-35)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 1/4 Hamburger

Exp. Date 10/12 (with coupon) 537-3335

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08

MUST SELL now! Two bedroom, one bath mobile home. Ideal for college student or new family. Appliances, washer/dryer hookups, outdoor storage and patio deck. 539-7729. (31-34)

10

FOUND

THOMAS MICK-See Union Information Desk Lost and Found for checkbook. Bring I.D. (30-32)

NEUTERED, DE-CLAWED, orange and brown calico cat, full grown. Call 776-2333 or 539-2546. (31-33)

HELP WANTED 13

3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (26-64) OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year around. Europe. South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information Write IJC, PO. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA,

92625. (27-46) WORK-STUDY student afternoons for receptionist duties and typing. Apply by October 10 at UFM, 1221 Thurston. 532-5866. (28-32)

PART-TIME grill help needed at Kites, 619 North 12th See Bill Jackson. (29-33) CASHIER AND grill cook, four to five days a week

Grill experience preferred. Call Eddy, 537-3335 for interview. (29-31)

Programmer Established research and consulting firm has openings at entry- and mid-levels for exceptional individuals.

-Positions require problem solving ability as well as data management and analysis skills -Preference given to candidates with B.S. in computer science and experience in SAS, 4th generation languages, D.B.M.S. packages and enter active computing on IBMcompatible mainframes. Possible relocation to Washington, D.C.

* Send resume to Director of Human Resources Development Planning and Research Associations, Inc., P.O. Box 727, Manhattan, KS 66502

GRADUATE ASSISTANT position available in the Foreign Student Office. Five-tenths time; primary responsibility will involve coordination of the conversational English tutoring program. Send resume and application letter to Foreign Student Office by October 20. For more information, call 532-6448. (30-32)

ATTRACTIVE HEALTHY freshman or sophomore Must live in Manhattan. Sincere interest in health and fitness-a must! Apply in person for part-time work at Manhattan Health Foods between 10 a.m. Noon weekdays. (30-32)

ODD JOBS around house, $3.50/hour, fit to your time schedule, Call 537-4648 or 539-9431, ask for Larry. (30-32) LAB ASSISTANTS for Pathology Laboratory. Part-time, 1-6 p.m. and full-time 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Send qualifications to Peterson Clinical Laboratory, P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, Ks. 66502, EOE. (31-37)

LOST

MEN'S BLUE Seiko watch, left in McCain's 2nd floor men's restroom Saturday, October 4. Sentimental alue. Please return. Call 539-4397 or return to Mc-Cain Music Office. (31-34)

A THREEFOLD, brown billfold with a velcro latch lost in vicinity of Cardwell and Durland Hall. Call

PERSONAL

KAPPA SIG Dad, Ed-Roses are red, daisies are yellow; your daughter thinks, you're one heck of a fellow. Here's to the party, that lasted till dawn; we closed it down, without even a yawn. Love-your

AGR JEFF Nyp-This is going to be a great year because you're the best big B a girl could ask fort Love, your sis, Donna. (31)

CRAIG K .- "You're growing older but not up; your metabolic rate is pleasantly stuck"—Jimmy and I wish you a Happy Birthday! (31) CHRIS, HOW 'bout them Cowboys? I saw the whole thing! Shawn. P.S. Who's Bill Bates? (31) THETA MOMS, Janamal, Steg, Deannamas: Country Kitchen was the spot, for breakfast out with your dot. We love you more than words can say, we hope you have a wonderful day. Janise, Dana, Debbie THETA'S KIM and Jill-We woke you up this morn ing, we're sorry there wasn't much warning; but now you know we love you—from the two girls above you! (31)

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS, Did you see the An nouncements? We'll see you at the meeting to THETA PLEDGES-C.B., D.P., C.M., K.K. the coolest partiers of all! You too, Melissa! Love ya, M.F. (31)

AD Pi-OU Travellers-You almost drove me crazy while I drove you all over Oklahoma. It was great Ha, Ha! Love, KT. (31) LESLIE-REMEMBER the racquetball game last Sunday. Meet me on the court every Sunday night or in the Union around 11. Lee. (31-33) K.D. TAMMER-Chocolate cream pie, tonight at 10:01 p.m., room 18. Love, Daver. (31) KD ANNE-Status Report: 1. You, 2. Sleep. 3.

Cheetos, 4. Beer. Watching you is better than watching football! - Your #1 Fan. (31) KD TRACY-The day is finally here, so skip the been because Wackers is near Have a great 21st birth day. Love-your roomies. (31) ROOMMATE WANTED

MALE, NON-SMOKING roommate to share a beauti ful two bedroom, furnished apartment. (Sandstone Apartments). Call 537-9439. (27-31)

MALE, $95/month plus utilities, one block east of Haymaker Call 539-5196. (28-32)

FEMALE-SHARE two bedroom completely fur ed. 776-4794; 537-0751 after 7 p.m. (28-32) FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share studio apart ment. $115 a month plus half of utilities. Please call 537-3882, (30-32) FEMALE TO share two bedroom apartment, $125 Close to campus, 539-1799. (30-31)

LIKE TO share modern, bright, spacious three bedroom apartment near campus with one or two roommates (male or female). Prefer single, nonsmokers with communal living experience. Call Theo, 532-6387, 539-6972. (31-34)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted: Mature, responsible non-smoker for three bedroom duplex, washer dryer, microwave, dishwasher, and storage. In quiet neighborhood, $133.33 per month plus one third utilities. Call Suzie at 532-6436, after 5 p.m. 539-9293 (31-34)

18 SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help Free preg nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free Clini-

cally tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Pro-ckish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes sionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf) AUTO REPAIR - Low overhead brings savings to you Oil and lube, tune up, brakes and other miscellane ous repairs. 539-6552. (29-33) FREE SET of spark plugs with a tune-up on your in port car at J & L Auto Service. Call 1-494-2388. St. George (offer ends October 15, 1986). (29-37)

NEED ODD jobs done? We'll do them for you! Hard workers, low prices. Call 539-9701, ask for Taylor (30-34)

WORD PROCESSING using software which includes spelling checker, Reasonable rates. Call 539-8633, ask for Curt. (31-34)

LEGAL NOTICE (Published in the Kansas State Collegian)

October 7, 1986 STATEMENT OF OWNERSHIP, MANAGE-MENT AND CIRCULATION OF THE KAN-SAS STATE COLLEGIAN. (Required by 39 U.S.C. 3685)

Date of Filing: October 1, 1986 Title of Publication: Kansas State Colle-

Frequency of Issue: Daily except Saturdays, Sundays, and student holidays. Location of Headquarters or General Business Offices of the Publishers: Room 103, Kedzie Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas 66506.

Publisher: Student Publications, Inc. Kedzie Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas. Director, David L. Adams, Kedzie Hall, K.S.U., Manhattan, Kansas

Editor: Chris Stewart, Kedzie Hall, K.S.U., Manhattan, Kansas 66506. Managing Editor: Jonie Trued, Kedzie Hall, K.S.U., Manhattan, Kansas 66506.

Owner: Student Publications, Inc., Kedzie Hall, K.S.U., Manhattan, Kansas 66506. Extent and Nature of circulation: Average No. copies each issue during preceding 12 months, total number copies printed, 11,843; paid circulation, sales through dealers and carriers, street vendors and counter sales, 11,413; mail subscriptions, 275; total paid circulation, 11,688; free distribution by mail, carrier or other means, 25; copies distributed to news agents but not sold, none; total distribution, 11,713; office use, left-over, unaccounted, spoiled after printing, 130; total, 11,843. Actual number of copies of single issue published nearest to filing date: total number copies printed, 13,405; paid circulation, sales through dealers and carriers, street vendors and counter sales, 12,804; mail subscriptions, 440; total paid circulation, 13,244; free distribution by mail, carrier or other means, 28; copies distributed to news agents but not sold, none; total distribution, 13,272; office use, left-over, unaccounted, spoiled after printing, 133; total, 13,405.

> David L. Adams Director

Survey

Continued from Page 1

$20-a-semester plan, eliminate the need for students to purchase tickets for either football or basketball, or in a $10 or $15 plan, lower student season football and basketball tickets to $15.

Student season tickets at Colorado are $25 for football and $25 for basketball, said Sports Information Director Dave Plati.

At Iowa State, football tickets sell for $28 and basketball tickets are $33, said Ralph Sudbeck in the business and finance office.

Season tickets at KU are $28 for football and $35 for basketball, said Susan Wachter, business manager of the athletic department.

The other conference schools besides K-State which currently dividual mind of designer, instruc-dividuals merge technique, style and function. The single focus is ab-native Kansas limestone and opened their stone quarry every Saturday for six weeks in October and November 1984, providing facilities and support staff for the volunteer sculptors. The entry fee of $10 doesn't come close to covering the actual cost of the stone donated by an art show at K-State next year.

There will be a workshop and lectures," Patti said. "The Kansas

Sculpture Association will put it on.

We hope to get a grant from the University for visiting arts," he said.

When we get together we appreciate team carve projects than an individual ego. No matter how good any of us thinks we are, when we're working on the project, the individual ego leaves." Patti said.

one another," he said.

"You don't find a lot of sculptors.

"There's a lot more to one of these

"We plan to have a conference and the company, Sue Bayer said.

solutely necessary," Ross said.

Carving

of volunteer labor.

Fee/Ticket Price* Comparison Basketball Ticket Football Ticket Semester School Fee 25.00 25.00 16.50 Colorado 20.00 25.00 Oklahoma 22.00 36.00 Oklahoma State N 33.00 9.75 28.00 Iowa State 18.00 42.00 N Nebraska 35.00 28.00 6.50 Kansas 30.00 24.00 Kansas State 27.00-40.00 40.00 Missouri

"Student's season ticket price. ""Subject to seat location

don't have athletic fees are basketball (depending on seats). Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Nebraska and Missouri.

Student ticket prices are as follows: Oklahoma, $25 for football and $20 for basketball; Oklahoma State, $36 for football and $22 for basketball; Nebraska, $42 for football and $18 for basketball; Missouri, $40 for football and $27-$40 for Currently, student ticket prices at K-State are $24 for football and $30 for basketball.

Reasons for the four other schools not having athletic fees varied, but most indicated the simple lack of a

"We've been on a sellout basis in football since 1962, so we have no need for one," said Tom Simons, associate Sports Information Direc-

That is not a position K-State finds Haliburton added.

tor at Nebraska

itself in. Thus, Travis has started a movement for the student body to help support K-State's minor sports, while he attempts to build up the generating capacities of his revenue

Tryouts

Continued from Page 1

Continued from Page 7 Fahley, the tryout was the chance for State University; and Jerry Miller, a a long shot at fulfilling a dream. builder from Kansas City, Kan. The Fahley, sophomore in prework took approximately 300 hours professional secondary education, wasn't asked to return to any future "A sculpting team maintains a single mind rather than the very in-'It's always been a dream of mine to participate in a big-time football tor, artist, worker or student. All inprogram. I figured this is probably the only opportunity I'll have in my life to even get a chance to par-Bayer Stone, Inc., donated the ticipate," Fahley said. Although Fahley is 25 - a stint in the U.S. Army made him eligible for NCAA Division I status - and hasn't participated in any organized athletics since 1978, he said he wasn't discouraged by failing to make the Fahley even said he would give the off-season conditioning program serious consideration.

"Yeah, definitely. If that's what it takes (to make the team), I will," he said. "This is the closest I'll probably Max Keltz, a junior in agriculture education, said he attended the tryout because he was curious.

"I just kind of wanted to see how close I could come to making it, I guess," Keltz said. Keltz, 20, also missed the cut and said his attempts to make the 'Cats' squad would probably end after Monday.

"I'd have to get a lot bigger to play because I'm not fast enough," Keltz

Most of those who survived Monday's tryout were previously acquainted with collegiate athletics. Kevin Vondemkamp, junior in animal sciences and industry, played baseball for the University for two years but said he was eager for a chance to make the football team.

"It's just the coolest thing," Vondenkamp said. "All week I've been waiting for this."

Another qualifier, Jeff Wong, sophomore in civil engineering, had an offer to play football for Butler County Community College after graduating from Wichita High School Southeast, but declined.

Wong said he was thinking about trying out for the 'Cats this spring and Monday's tryout was a good op-

"I want to make this, I am excited. I really want to make the team and show everybody that I can do it,'

Wong said. K-State's players as well as the coaches were surprised about the turnout. And they watched the coaches' stopwatches with eager interest as time trials were conducted. "It's unbelievable," punter Troy Faunce said. "I thought maybe 40 or 50 would show up.'

And apparently the team has accepted the fact that Parrish is looking for outside help.

"It will get the crowd involved, that's what's important right now,"

Faunce said. "I think it will help boost school spirit as well," defensive back Willie

Hartman and Parrish said they don't expect all of Monday's qualifiers to make the team, but both said they would like to see the "12th man" concept become a reality.

"We will probably lose some of them to eligibility or physical requirements, and we will lose some by their own choice. They'll discover that what they perceive as college football is not college football," Hart-

"It won't be like they're going to line up and be a star," Parrish said. "They'll have to prove through a little hard work that they're a candidate for special teams.

And even though it will be next week before the finalists can begin full-contact workouts, there's a slight chance the "12th man" can take the field Oct. 18 against University of Kansas.

"I would say it would be a long shot," Parrish said, "but its a possibility."

Also contributing to this report were sports writers Tony Carbajo and Tom Perrin.

-NEW HOURS-OPEN: 6 a.m. Mon.-Thurs. CLOSE:

1 a.m. Sun.-Wed.

OPEN ALL NIGHT THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Aggieville

Fee

Continued from Page 1

department the $2 million to pay for its share of the coliseum.

The proposed athletic fee has two options. One would be to assess students a fee of $20 per semester and allow free admission into all athletic events.

The other option would be a $10 or $15 fee per semester and a charge of $15 apiece for season football and basketball tickets.

The first option would pose a problem because of the limited number of seats allotted students at ballgames. Travis said there would be no problem with football seating, but the method would exclude some students at basketball games.

We're willing to give 5,000 seats to students for basketball games," he

He added most colleges that have this kind of program allot the tickets on a first come, first serve basis.

Travis said the general feeling he got from talking to students was the preference of a lower athletic fee and lower ticket prices.

Travis said the athletic department was going to take the idea to Student Senate last spring, but decided to "give it some time to make sure the students had an input into the

Travis said his previous employer,

Collegian Classifieds

Cheap, but Effective

Pitchers

Free

Adm.

Ladies Nite Tomorrow

Georgia Tech, charged an athletic fee of $25 per quarter.

"We're not trying to hold students up at all," he said. "I'm not going to push it (the athletic fee). I understand the students' feelings, and I'm not going to try and ramrod (the fee through).

Travis said he chose not to push for the fee because he wants a "nonbiased situation.'

"If the task force presents the facts, the students are enlightened enough to look at the facts and make a judgment," he said.

"I feel the majority of students will favor it - whether they vote or not, I don't know," he said.

IT'S

99¢ each 3 for $2.50 11:30 a.m.-2 p.m.

5-9 p.m. 11:30 a.m.-10:30 p.m. in bar PLUS

MARGARITAS Strawberry or Lime $1.25 all day and night

> AGGIE STATION RESTAURANT & BAR

1115 Moro • 776-0030

ATTENTION

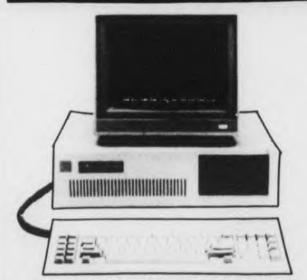

Organization Groups:

Pictures for the Royal Purple will be taken in Fairchild 202 not in Calvin 102. The dates and times are still the same, only the location has changed.

If you have any questions stop by Kedzie 103 or call 532-6557.

Attention K-State Students, Faculty & Staff

We'll give you 25% OFF the KAYPRO PC How You Get the Rest is Up to You

100% IBM COMPATIBLE

Come by for Information and a Demonstration

COMMONWEALTH

COMPUTERS, INC.

Overland Park, KS 66212

10426 Metcalf

KAYHYU PC

with 20 meg hard disk 1696.25

 768 kb. Ram Memory 2-360K Floppy Disk Drives

• 6 Open Options Slots Monochrome Monitor

8 FREE Software Packages Including

Wordstar and Correctstar 12 Months Parts and Labor Warranty

 Serial & parallel ports, color graphics & monchrome video card included

> PLUS $1,800 worth of FREE Software

Dot Matrix Printers from $225 and Letter Quality Printers from $325

(913) 648-8086

Juniors, Seniors & Grads...

SOME CREDI

APPLY NOW FOR YOUR VERY OWN...

 Bring a photocopy of your School I.D.

 No cosigner required APPLY NOW ON CAMPUS!

Date: Oct. 7, 8, 9

Time: 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Place: K-State Union

(just outside the stateroom)

@ Citicorp, 1986

56612

Cooking For One

Preparing meals for only one person does not have to be a mind-boggling problem. See Page 7.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in mid-70s. Wind south 10 to 20 mph. Cloudy tonight with a 30 percent chance for rain.

Turning Pro

0164 8705 1

Former All-American K-State volleyball player Renee Whitney is heading for Switzerland to play on a professional team. See Page 9.

Wansas State Historical Soc

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Wednesday

October 8, 1986

Volume 93, Number 32

Kansas State University

Athletic image helps University, Travis says

By JUDY LUNDSTROM and JEFFREY BIELSER Staff Writers

The recently revealed $400,000 deficit in last year's athletic department budget is not the reason for proposing a non-revenue athletic fee, said K-State Athletic Director Larry Athletic Fee Task Force members invited Travis to the Tuesday night meeting in the Student Government Services office to answer their questions concerning the feasibility of the proposed athletic fee.

"We started this thing (considering an athletic fee) a year and a half ago," Travis said. "We probably could have gotten it through, but put it on hold to get the task force formed to look into the situation.'

Travis said he "had some misgivings" about asking Student Senate for a fee at that time without allowing the students to have some input into the decision.

If passed, the fee would be used only for supplementing non-revenue sports, enabling K-State to offer fully funded scholarships, he said.

"In order to be competitive, you must be able to offer the full amount of scholarships," Travis said. Scholarships and travel expenses are areas currently underfunded.

The athletic department currently spends $850,000 to $900,000 annually on non-revenue sports, he said.

"We need about $1.2 to $1.3 million to be competitive," Travis said. we (the athletic department) don't get anything, then cost-wise our programs will diminish.

'The Big Eight Conference is very prestigious - we've got to be com-

"If we have to go to the students for help, then we will."

Currently, the department is ahead on predicted individual ticket sales but behind on season tickets.

"If we get 35,000 to 40,000 people at the University of Kansas game (Oct. 18), we'll be back in the ball park on our figure predictions," said Mike Jones, athletic department business manager. Figure predictions are the dollar amounts predicted to be generated at each game.

Travis said the athletic department has been trying to boost ticket sales through heavy promotion within an 80-mile radius of Manhattan. He said there is an estimated 350,000 people in the area and "if we can get 10 percent of those people involved in buying season tickets, that's 30,000.' Travis also said the department is trying to make ticket prices competitive by keeping them lower. Ticket sales are not the only source of revenue for K-State athletics. Last year, K-State alumni and other donors contributed $700,000, Travis

He said fund-raising efforts are "making us money" and added that funds are up more than $14,000 over last year's amount.

Even though the department receives money from many sources, Travis said, "We give back a lot of

"Next to the food centers, the department hires more students than any other department on campus,' he said.

Money isn't the only contribution athletics make to the University, Travis said. "As our athletic programs improve, we'll be able to attract more students.'

"Academics and athletics go handin-hand," he said. "We have to be able to balance academics and athletics - there is a place for both

Travis said he believes the image of the University and athletics are connected, and morale should change as the athletic programs begin to improve. Travis said he believes there is a correlation between winning and an athletic fee. He cited Georgia Tech University's example where after adoption of a $25-per-quarter athletic fee, the university's average team finish moved from last to third in the Atlantic Coast Conference. "Recruiting money is an investment, not an expenditure," he said. Travis said the football team started this season with a better skill level than last year, and next year it should be a little better. "You're not going to be competitive with Oklahoma in one year no way," he said. "We've got to build one notch at a time." With more funds, the department may be able to reinstate men's tennis and women's softball - two sports that were cut from this year's pro-

See FEE, Page 11

Athletic Director Larry Travis and Mike Jones, business manager for the athletic department, discuss the proposed student athletic fee with the Athletic Fee Task Force Tuesday evening in the Student Government Services office. The proposed fee would supplement non-revenue sports.

Flood damages surpass early estimates

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - State officials who toured southeastern Kansas Tuesday said an initial damage estimate of $60 million from flooding appeared

"We've been saying over $60 million but I think that's low," said Maj. Joy Cole, public information officer for the adjutant general's office. "It may be that much just for agriculture. I wouldn't doubt it." Gary Kilgore, an extension service crops specialist, estimated crop damage at $50 million to $60 million after 340,000 acres were flooded in the southeast corner of the state.

Col. Mahlon Weed, deputy director of the Kansas Emergency Preparedness Office, was joining officials of the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the Red Cross on a tour which began Tuesday morning at Chanute.

Three teams will travel through Thursday to nine counties to survey damage to private and public land and buildings, Cole said.

"At this point, we know at least 700 homes had water in them but we don't know the extent of the damage yet," she said.

A firm estimate of the total damage in the state probably would not be made until after the U.S. Department of Agriculture completes its estimate of farmland damage, probably over the weekend, Cole said.

Waters from the flooding continued to recede Tuesday as the cleanup efforts continued. Some rivers were still above flood stage Tuesday morning. At Parsons, where flood stage is 18 feet, the Neosho River was at 25.3 feet Tuesday morning. Downstream at Oswego, which has a 17-foot flood stage, the river was at 26.6 feet.

At Chanute, the river had dropped nearly 13 feet in the past 24 hours and was 4.5 feet below flood stage at 18.52 feet Tuesday morning.

The Verdigris River was at 38.6 feet, or 8.6 feet above flood stage, at Independence.

Skies were sunny around the state Tuesday with highs expected to range between 75 and 85. After overnight lows from the upper 40s northwest to the upper 50s southeast, highs in the 70s were forecast for

Glass artist finds new dimension

By The Collegian Staff

Glass containers litter the floor. The stench of chemicals permeates the small room. A desk displays a book of ancient Japanese philosophy. In this room, Mitsugi Ohno, assistant professor of chemistry, creates his works of art with glass. Ohno is the only person in the world that can blow a glass Klein bottle and, moreover, he said he is the only one in the world who can blow it into the fourth dimension. The Klein bottle looks like a bud vase, is about four inches high and has a small glass cylinder protruding from the top. Ohno said he creates the fourth dimension when the cylinder bends around the bottle and enters the bottom, thus bending back upon itself.

In 1959, two years before he immigrated to the United States, Ohno made a model of the Klein bottle after he was issued a challenge by M.J. Levy Jr., a sociologist from Princeton Univer-

Later, in 1961, Levy told Ohno only three people in the United States could blow the shape of the Klein bottle. He said Ohno would be an expert if he could master the task.

Ohno did master the Klein bottle. When he arrived in the United States, his K-State supervisor, A.B. Cardwell, gave him the task of modifying the present Klein bottle by putting a hole in it.

Ohno said that at first he thought it couldn't be done mathematical-

See OHNO, Page 11

Mitsugi Ohno, assistant professor of chemistry, displays one of about 200 glass Klein bottles he has blown into the fourth dimension. Ohno is the only one in the world who can blow a glass Klein bottle.

U.S. government denies link with American in Nicaragua

By The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua - An American who survived when Sandinista soldiers shot down a cargo plane said Tuesday he is an aviation specialist who boarded the C-123 in El Salvador.

Nicaraguan officials have claimed Eugene Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., is an American military adviser serving in El Salvador and the transport shot down Sunday in southern Nicaragua was carrying weapons ammunition to rebels fighting the leftist Sandinistas.

Officials in Washington denied any connection between Hasenfus and the U.S. government.

Hasenfus was allowed to speak to local journalists briefly in San Carlos, a port on Lake Nicaragua near the crash site. He said the plane began its journey in Miami, picked him up in El Salvador, then took a Nicaraguan aboard in Honduras and entered Nicaraguan air space from Costa Rica at a site known as La Noca on the San Juan River.

According to Hasenfus, the Nicaraguan was one of three men killed in the crash.

It was not clear from the American's brief remarks whether he was a military man or a civilian.

Nicaraguan army officers who accompanied Hasenfus said the other two men killed were Americans they identified as Wallace Blaine Sawger Jr. and Bill Cooper. Their hometowns were not available.

Nicaragua had said initially that all three dead men were Americans.

The bodies were said to be in bad condition and still at the crash site in a remote jungle area north of the San Juan River, which helicopters had difficulty in reaching because of poor weather.

Sandinista officials said the plane was shot down with a Soviet-made surface-to-air missile at a spot 35 miles north of Costa Rica and 91 miles southeast of Managua.

'I don't know where he is and what he's doing. I only know what I see on the TV.

— Sally Hasenfus

The helicopters that picked Hasenfus up at the crash site were based at Juigalpa, about 60 miles east of Managua and 65 miles northwest of the crash site near the village of El

The Defense Ministry said the downed plane carried 50,000 rounds of ammunition for Soviet-made AK-47 rifles, rocket-propelled grenades, dozens of automatic rifles, jungle boots and other military sup-

Secretary of State George P. Shultz said in Washington that the plane did not belong to the U.S. government, and a CIA spokeswoman denied Sandinista claims that the survivor was an employee of the intelligence agency Shultz told reporters the aircraft "wasn't an American cargo plane" but was hired by "private people," including Americans. He did not

In Wisconsin, Hasenfus' wife, Sally, said of her husband in a telephone interview earlier: "I don't know where he is and what he's doing. "I only know what I see on the TV, too, and I really don't know any more."

name the people.

However, David Holliday, spokesman for the Senate Intelligence Committee, said Sally Hasenfus had called the State Department "and said her husband worked for CIA." And I.W. Stephenson, a retired pilot and aviation executive, said Hasenfus told him 20 years ago that he was going to work in Vietnam for Air America, then a CIA proprietary corporation.

A brother, William Hasenfus, 47, of Oshkosh, said Eugene Hasenfus began working last summer for an air freight company in Florida whose name and location he did not know. He said Eugene was an a former Marine and the brothers once ran a parachuting school.

Foreign Ministry spokeswoman Angela Saballos said the government was preparing a protest note to Washington about what she called "escalated aggression by the United States against Nicaragua U.S. Embassy spokesman Alberto Fernandez said the embassy delivered a note to the Foreign Ministry on Tuesday morning requesting permission to meet with

INTERNATIONAL

Reagan to push for human rights

WASHINGTON - President Reagan hailed freed Soviet dissident Yuri Orlov on Tuesday as "a hero for our time" and promised to press for improvements in human rights as well as progress in arms control during the summit meeting in Iceland.

"Unless there is real Soviet movement on human rights, we'll not have the kind of political atmosphere necessary to make lasting progress on other issues," Reagan told Orlov and a group of human rights activists in a White House meeting.

Orlov and his wife, Irina L. Valitova, met privately with the president in the Oval Office prior to the Cabinet room meeting. A beaming Reagan ushered the diminutive human rights activist and his wife into the room as the several dozen participants rose to their feet, ap-

Asked whether Orlov had given him a message for Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Iceland, the president said the 62-year-old physicist had asked Reagan "to carry on the work he had carried on" in the Soviet Union, to "strive for freedom."

After the session, Orlov told reporters that Reagan should not pursue an arms control agreement unless Soviet commitments on human rights can be won.

U.S. 'opens door' to peace accord

JERUSALEM - Prime Minister Shimon Peres said Tuesday the United States was mediating negotiations between Israel and Jordan and that "the door has been opened" for possible peace talks.

His comments came in his final speech to Parliament as prime minister before swapping jobs with Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir. Peres called on Shamir to preserve the "climate of dialogue" with moderate Arab states and to maintain a momentum toward peace in the Middle East.

"Between us and Jordan negotiations are under way, via the U.S.," Peres said. 'We have not yet reached the negotiating table, but the door has been opened," he said.

U.S. officials have shuttled between Israel and Jordan in recent years trying to launch peace talks, but Peres' speech was the first time he has indicated publicly that the Americans were succeeding in bringing Israeli and Jordanian officials together.

Murder attempt results in 5 arrests

NEW DELHI, India - Five men from Punjab state were arrested in connection with last week's assassination attempt on Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi, the United News of India reported Tuesday.

The news agency quoted officials at the Central Bureau of Investigation as saying the men were arrested Monday. It said four were from Sangrur district in the south of the state and the fifth was a Sikh priest from Amristar district.

Gandhi, 42, escaped injury Thursday when a lone gunman fired as the prime minister left a prayer meeting in New Delhi. The man arrested at the scene, Karamjit Singh, 26, is from Sunam village in Sangrur district. He is in police custody.

UNI said the four men arrested Monday in Sangrur were named Singh, but did not say whether they were related to Karamjit Singh.

Singh, which means lion, is part of nearly all male Sikhs' names. Militant Sikhs have been waging a four-year guerrilla campaign in Punjab state for creation of an independent homeland. Extremist Sikhs have issued numerous threats against Gandhi, whom they accuse of repressive policies.

Officials at the Central Bureau of Investigation declined comm-

Rocky

Mountain

ment on the UNI report.

The report did not give a reason for the reported arrests.

NATIONAL

Agency bans widely used herbicide

WASHINGTON - The Environmental Protection Agency said Tuesday it was imposing an immediate ban on dinoseb, a widely used herbicide, because of the danger of birth defects and sterility it poses Normally, the agency proposes a ban and orders hearings, but this time, EPA said the risk was too great. It estimated that 25,400 farm workers, 1,300 of them females, could be exposed during the several months that hearings would require.

In the course of a year, about 45,000 workers will normally be exposed to 7 million to 11 million pounds of dinoseb.

EPA said there was no hazard from eating food treated with the chemical. "The dangerous routes of exposure are inhalation and skin absorbtion by people who apply the pesticide," agency Administrator Lee M. Thomas said in a statement.

"Exposure to dinoseb during or shortly after field application poses a very serious risk of birth defects to the unborn children of pregnant women, particularly if exposed during the early stages of the pregnancy," and it "may also pose a risk of sterility for male workers," Thomas said.

REGIONAL

Interstate improvements to begin

TOPEKA - Work should begin within two months on $42.7 million in construction along a 2.5-mile stretch of Interstate 70 and Interstate 670 in Kansas City, Kan., a state Department of Transportation official said Tuesday.

Patrice Pomeroy, a spokeswoman for the department, said the work includes rebuilding 1.7 miles of I-70 from the east side of the highway's interchange with Interstate 635 to about Seventh Street, the site of the future I-670 interchange. That work will cost about $24.2 million.

Pomeroy said slightly more than $17 million will be spent on two bridges over the Kansas River for I-670, a long-delayed piece of the interstate highway system which will serve as more of a direct route from I-70 in Kansas City, Kan. to the south side of the downtown freeway loop in Kansas City, Mo.

The department awarded contracts for the projects last week and although construction is scheduled to begin in about two months, the bulk of the work probably will not be under way until next spring.

Museum closes due to rising costs

LIBERTY, Mo. - A museum in a building where Jesse James staged his first bank robbery is to close at the end of the month because of dwindling attendance and increasing costs.

Jack Wymore, who owns the 128-year-old building, announced last winter that he planned to close the museum this fall.

With an Oct. 31 deadline approaching, Wymore says that "nobody's been able to come up with a good suggestion" for saving the Jesse James Bank Museum.

Wymore opened the museum on Feb. 13, 1966, the 100th anniversary of the $60,000 robbery of what was then the Bank of Clay County Savings Association.

The museum attracted 8,000 to 10,000 visitors a year at its peak, but now is down to 3,000 to 4,000, Wymore said. He said he hasn't made any money on it over the past dozen years, and is now losing about $700 a month on it, not counting utilities.

Wymore, who considers the museum a local education project, has been reluctant to raise the admittance fee - $1.25 for adults - for

Campus Bulletin

VOTER REGISTRATION is available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Oct. 14 in the SGS Office and is sponsored by Associated Students of Kansas.

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES BOARD 1986-87 registration forms are due in the SGS Office by Oct. 15.

K-STATE AMBASSADOR APPLICATIONS are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Anderson 122 and are due Thursday.

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN needs afternoon teachers for elementary age students. For more information, contact the main desk at UFM, 532-5560, by Oct. 15.

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL applications are available in the College of Arts and Sciences Office, Eisenhower 116.

JUNIORS AND SENIORS: A table will be available at the Union to get Sears credit card ap-plications today through Friday.

GOLDEN KEY MEMBERS: Membership certificates can be picked up today through Friday in PUBLIC RELATIONS STUDENT SOCIETY for yearbook and Human Society Survey sign-up

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH: Student Cancer $500 Research Award applica-tions are available until Dec. 5 in Ackert 233.

Dr. Mark Hatesohl

3252 Kimball Avenue

(In the Candlewood Center)

Enjoy smooth, creamy

Frozen Yogurt

that tastes like Ice Cream

but with 80% less fat!

--FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's

YOGURT

Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

Chiropractic Family Health Center

Intramural

Sports

Call

Injuries

Injuries

537-8305

TODAY

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS meet at noon at the

DATA PROCESSING AND MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION meets at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

FOREST AND PARK RESOURCE CLUB

BAPTIST CAMPUS CENTER meets at 11:30

THURSDAY

GRAIN SCIENCE CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. in

OMICRON NU will have a pledge meeting at 7:30 a.m. in Union Flint Hills Room. AGRICULTURE AMBASSADORS meet to take yearbook pictures at 6 p.m. in Kedzie 210. PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Trotter 201.

ORDER OF OMEGA meets at 4:30 p.m. at Charlie's, 1800 Claffin Road.

GOLDEN KEY meets at 6:45 p.m. in Union 212. GAY AND LESBIAN SUPPORT GROUPS meet at 7:30 p.m. Call 532-6442 for location.

THETA XI LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9 p.m. at

Will Power & Weight

Control Seminar 9 a.m.-12 noon Are you tired of failing at Weight Control?

Let Us Share Our Success With You!

Saturday, Oct. 11 No Admission Charge!

All Seasons Motel 1501 Tuttle Creek Blvd. Manhattan

Over-Eaters Anonymous 537-0323 Call Shannon for more details

FUNDRINKERY

TONIGHT TONIGHT

Mexican Beer $1.25 Tequila $1.25 Well Drinks $1.50

80¢ Draws $1 Wine Sunset Grille Open 5-9 This Week's Special

6 oz. Sirloin $5.65 (price includes salad bar, potato & bread)

Credit Union Initiates Youth Loans

Parents who teach their children how to manage money and work with a personal budget have taught a valuable lifelong

The KSU Credit Union will help your children establish a credit history and fiscal responsibility through the new Youth

Loan Program. Dependent children of credit union members may borrow for such needs as buying a newspaper route, a bicycle, lawn mower, prom gear or a used car. A parent member must co-sign the loan.

Children, ages 8 to 18 with credit union savings accounts, are eligible to participate in the Youth Loan Program. If the co-signing parent has been a member for at least the 60-day membership requirement, the child will not need to meet this loan stipulation.

Let the KSU Credit Union share in the lifelong lesson and help build your child's future. Drop by Anderson Hall to discuss the program with a loan officer.

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants

Anderson Hall, Room 24A Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday 532-6274

$2 Pitchers

$1.25 also featuring LINE 1 on stage Friday and Saturday Oct. 10-11

TONIGHT ALL IMPORTS

with the Pi Phis!!!

invite you to party

encounter.

1208 Moro

SALE

Now Thru Sunday Only!

selected 15% to 50% off SPORT COATS entire stock 20% off men's DRESS SLACKS

Men's Lee and Levi's CORD JEANS

selected Guys FASHION JEANS 25% off entire stock Gals FASHION JEANS

PLUS OTHER GREAT BUYS!

1208 Moro Aggieville

City slapstick

Staff/John La Barge

issuing what aides call "a cry from the heart" to appeal to the president to adhere to his often-stated position

Also being criticized by conservatives is the administration handling of the incident involving Nicholas

Daniloff, the correspondent for U.S.

News and World Report, who was arrested in Moscow on spying charges and released only after the administration apparently agreed to permit a Soviet U.N. employee to plead no contest to spying charges.

that he will not yield on SDI.

Sean Masterson (right) portrays God during a scene in Heaven as Will Clinger portrays a non-believer during The Second City performance Tuesday night in Union Forum Hall. The Second City improvisational comedy group from Chicago consists of nine comedians that tour the country and perform at many campuses.

Reagan warns against 'false hopes'

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan's warning against "false hopes" as he prepares for his second meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev might also include a caution to conservatives against false alarms about the Iceland summit.

To conservatives who attained power on Reagan's coattails, summitry carries the potential that the president's sense of history will override ideology and prompt him to trim his plans for a missile defense system in exchange for promise of an arms control agreement with the Soviets.

In a speech at the White House on Monday, Reagan said he was going to Iceland to plan for a full-scale summit in the United States and not for "treaty-signing and publicity."

"Iceland is a base camp before the summit," said Reagan. "I hope that in explaining this I have done something to dispel some of the inaccurate speculation and talse nopes raised about the Iceland talks."

That was standard pre-summit rhetoric. Expectations are inevitable when a president heads for a meeting with his Soviet counterpart. Dreams of progress toward reducing arms and tensions rush into the public mind and presidents routinely warn against getting hopes too high.

But among Reagan's strongest core of political supporters, the expectations are quite different.

Rep. Jack Kemp is taking the lead in articulating the conservative

GOODSON

AUTO TRIM

Tailor Made Seat Covers

Tanneau Covers

Boat Covers Convertible Tops

Vinyl Tops Complete Auto, Truck

& Boat Upholstery

201 Sarber Lane

(behind Wal-Mart)

Manhattan, Kansas 66502

Phone 776-7679 Res. 776-7614

The New York congressmen, trying to position himself as the conservative heir to the Reagan legacy in preparation for a bid for the 1988 Republican presidential nomination, is using a speech to the Heritage Foundation to spell out conservative

With his nomination and election in 1980, Reagan moved the Republican Party several degrees to the right. He adopted a tough line against the Soviets and for his first six years in office did not meet with any Kremlin

Then came the Geneva summit 11 months ago and conservatives breathed a sigh of relief when that meeting ended with no substantive agreements on arms control. Now with another round of summitry impending, a new nervousness is apparent among hard-liners.

is likely to level any "soft on communism" charge against the president, the man who has dominated their movement and held their loyalty for 20 years. Instead they bitterly attack Secretary of State George P. Shultz and the State Department for somehow leading the Reagan toward unwise compromises with the fort, setting out his views as a staunch opponent of any compromise on the Strategic Defense Initiative, Reagan's plan to develop and deploy a space-based missile defense

With the Reagan-Gorbachev summit only three days away, Kemp is

But no one on the Republican right Care Services P.A. Personalized Physician Care Abortions Through All Legal Stages Free Pregnancy Tests Kemp is taking the lead in that ef-Modern Medical Facilities 5107 E. Kellogg Wichita, Kansas

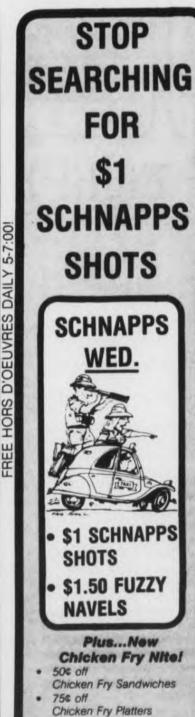

Ladies Get . . . •25¢ Draws

•$2 Pitchers

•$1 Coolers

•Free Adm.

FREE TACO BAR AT K'S & KQLA'S .G.I.F. CHILL-OUT VI

A Reciprocating Club!

(316)684-5108 October 9th-19th 10 Days Only up to 25% off from 19.99 Oversized Shirts 19.99 Corduroys from 19.99 Fall Sweaters from 19.99 Twill & Corduray Stirrups 2 for 20.00 Cotton Turtlenecks carousel

1215 Moro

Mon.-Fri. 10-6

Thurs. 10-8:30

Sat. 10-6

Sun. 1-5

Commissioners, gas station owner discuss downtown parking lot fees two years. Conkwright opted to pave the lots and said he has more than enough parking for his business and

The commissioners disagreed on what the businesses are actually paying for. Most agreed they were willing to decrease the amount Conkwright pays, but how much, and who would pick up the additional

Commissioner Suzanne Lin-

damood made a motion to decrease the yearly payments to $2,000 from the $5,317 currently being paid. This would better reflect Conkwright's benefits gained from improved payments caused discussion.

does not want to pay for any more.

By CHRISTINE DOLL Collegian Reporter

Deciding who derives what percentage of benefit from parking lots in the downtown area was the problem city commissioners tried to tackle again in their meeting Tuesday

John Fay, representing Dean Conkwright, owner of the gas station at the intersection of Colorado and Third streets, said Conkwright receives less benefit from the new parking lots than he would like for the cost involved.

The gas station and the city share the cost of the lot because the business is in a benefit district. The idea of benefit districts is to lower the price of city improvements by charging business' benefiting from the project part of the bill.

"This is very similar to the problem we faced last month - they're very similar," Commissioner Gene Klingler said.

After 45 minutes of discussion, commissioners voted to consider the problem at the next meeting.

Conkwright bought two lots adjacent to the gas station from the city in 1981. The contract said Conkwright must either expand his sidewalks, gutters and curves, she said. "It's hard to justify $2,000 for gutters and sidewalks and curves," Lindamood said, explaining that Conkwright already had parking. Commissioners Nancy Denning and Rick Mann agreed that part of the benefit gained from the parking lot is an overall business atmosphere, and the lot may soon become a business in itself.

'What can it (the property) turn into? We need to look down the line," Denning said.

If Conkwright's share is decreas-business or pave the two lots within ed, someone must pick up his cost, commissioners said. Lindamood and Commissioner Dave Fiser were opposed to passing the cost onto other businesses in the area. "These people were moved from the downtown area. I feel uncomfortable passing another levy on to them," Lindamood said. Klingler said the increase would be about $30 a month to each rental unit if the other businesses are reassesed. Commissioners also granted a request made by Brent Bowman, architect designing the downtown mall plaza, to go ahead with the designs of the plaza fountain and sculpture.

The National Endowment for the Arts has given the project a $50,000 grant, and the Manhattan Arts Council has matched that amount in private donations. This money will pay for the design and construction of the fountain and sculpture.

The city must approve the final designs to ensure the designs will compliment the design of the mall, even though the city didn't contribute any of the money

Athna Tacha, an artist hired by the city, submitted a design of a fountain and sculpture to the commission a few months ago, but it was rejected.

NASA may be rushing shuttle, report says

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A congressional committee said Tuesday that some people in NASA may still be pushing for an unrealistic number of space shuttle flights, jeopardizing promotion of a safety-first program throughout the agency.

The committee also said the space agency may not have the expertise to conduct the shuttle program properly and does not yet understand how or why deficiencies in its testing program went undetected.

"NASA management and the Congress must remember the lessons learned from the Challenger accident and never again set system beyond its safe functioning," the House Science and Technology Committee said in a report on the Jan. 28 explosion that killed the shuttle's crew of seven.

The committee, plowing the same investigative furrow as the Rogers commission, disagreed with that panel's finding that NASA's decisionmaking process was flawed.

"The fundamental problem was poor technical decision-making over a period of several years by top NASA and contractor personnel," said the committee.

Ed Campion, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said officials would not unreasonable goals which stress the comment until they had seen the report.

> NASA has announced that it is aiming for the first post-Challenger liftoff on Feb. 18, 1988 and that it will have five flights that year.

> The committee, which has oversight responsibility for NASA, said its role is different from the Rogers commission's and that it disagreed with some of that panel's findings.

There was no disagreement with the immediate cause of the accident, a flawed joint in the right booster rocket that allowed hot gases to escape past O-ring seals, eating into the huge fuel tank and setting off the explosion.

Now you can buy Godfather's Pizza™ by the slice! Hot, fresh, and delicious! And you get these choice cuts of pizza fast...without the wait you have at other restaurants.

Convenient and quick...

Enjoy your Hot Slice™ in our restaurant. Or take it with you! Stop in as you shop or while you're in-between appointments. It's the most convenient, quick way to satisfy your pizza craving. And you'll love the taste!

Use this moneysaving coupon at

1118 Laramie / Near KSU 539-5303 In Aggieville by Mini-Mart

Hot Slice[™] only 99¢ with this coupon

Mon.-Sat. 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.

(Single Topping) Dine-in or Carryout only Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit. Valid only at 1118 Laramie

11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.

Mon.-Sat.

Offer expires Oct. 4, 1986

Godfather's Pizza, Inc.

Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 029) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Segregation must end in state's capital city of what should have been - and supposedly was - settled 32 years ago. However, many of the same elements of the original Brown vs. Topeka Board of Education are being rehashed in a desegregation suit against the Topeka Board of Education that began Monday.

In the new case, a group of plaintiffs - including Linda Brown Smith, daughter of the one of the plaintiffs of the original case - is contending that the changes ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court after it ruled segregation unconstitutional in May 1954 have not been fully carried out within the Topeka school district.

Although Topeka's District No. 501 doesn't have separate black and white schools per se, 16 of the schools do have either significantly higher or lower enrollments of non-whites than the average 25 percent minority enrollment within the district. The percentage of minority enrollment ranges from as high as 62 percent on the city's east side to as low as 8 percent on the west side.

This disparity in minority enrollments is the very thing the Supreme Court addressed in its 1954 ruling. Before the original case reached the U.S. Supreme

The case currently being Court, the federal court had ruled played out in federal court in for the board based largely on the Topeka is a repeat performance 1896 Supreme Court case Plessy vs. Ferguson, in which the high court ruled that "separate but equal" education was legally acceptable.

However, in 1954, Chief Justice Earl Warren read the high court's opinion: "We conclude that in the field of public education the doctrine of separate but equal has no place. Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal."

This, the plaintiffs contend, is exactly what is occurring in Topeka and that is largely the reason they began proceedings on this case seven years ago. Despite the fact there are no longer all-black or all-white schools, the public perceives the schools as either black or white based on its enrollment. That perception alone is damaging.

It's puzzling that after 32 years, this issue has to be discussed. It's more puzzling that it has to be discussed in the same court system that originally settled it. It's most puzzling that this is occurring in Topeka, the state's capital city where it would seem justice is a much-revered concept.

It is imperative that this case be settled for good this time. This is one issue that doesn't need a repeat performance.

Dole aids University, ignores responsibility helped launch the University into the age of satellite communications, but he may have a shaky re-entry with Kansas residents.

Dole proposed and lobbied for a bill to appropriate $6 million for the Educational Satellite Communications Center to be built in Manhattan.

The $8.6 million center will provide global transmission of University programs, a goal the University has been trying to attain for the past 18 months. The center will provide information and instruction around the world in areas such as veterinary medicine and agriculture.

While Dole pushed through appropriation for the center - an

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., act he may not have been able to accomplish had he not been Senate majority leader — he has a record of turning a deaf ear to Kansas residents. He has opposed statewide opinions on the issues of South Africa and sanctions against aid to contra rebels in Nicaragua.

Dole may be pushing for a career move, ignoring the responsibility of being the voice of Kansas in Senate. The citizens of Kansas have a right to question Dole's motives and the his representation in Senate.

Dole should be commended for his support of the satellite center. However, he should be reminded of his responsibilities as the representative of the people.

Letters

Irresponsible planning

Re: University Provost Owen J. Koeppe's letter, "Students miss facts," in Thursday's Collegian.

How nice it is to see an administrator expressing an opinion on a campus issue. In my years at K-State, it has been very rare that I have seen administrators openly volunteer information to the students. I hope the lines of communication are loosening up.

However, I cannot let Koeppe's assertion that the students have overlooked important facts go without a rebuttal.

He appears to be correct in stating that students of the late 1970s and early '80s generally supported construction of a new coliseum. But those students also believed that the project would be handled responsibly by the administration. Unfortunately, those students were wrong. The administration has shown itself to be highly irresponsible by not following established lanning methods. Only now are they going to perform one of the initial planning steps, a market study. Koeppe is correct in stating that students should recognize some administrators for the recent bond refinancing. The students should not, overlook that the same administrators fabricated a story that they had hired a consultant with a computer program that performed an optimization process to decide how those funds should be utilized. They proceeded to take $500,000 of the funds for a repair and replacement account for the

As for the $700,000 "windfall" to be disbursed by Student Senate, the administration did its best to quietly guide most of that money to a specific project. When it appeared that not as much money as it wanted would go to Holton Hall refurbishment, Assistant Vice President Pat Bosco twice expounded to Senate, "This is what it was intended for!"

On top of all of these financial shenanigans, shouldn't the students be a bit concerned that the administration raised the student commitment to the coliseum from $6 million to $7 million without telling the students?

Steve Milligan

graduate student in chemical engineering

U.S. newscasts over-play theatrics

When I visited Great Britain in January, I had expected to find many similarities between its culture and that of the United

Because both countries shared the same language and heritage, it seemed logical each country would borrow or copy ideas from the other. Although this was true in many instances, one exception was the news

While the purpose of television news programs in both countries is to inform the viewers of current events, the difference is the way they approach the task.

In Great Britain, the concept of this visual medium's news programs emphasizes constant, thorough information. To maintain a steady flow of current information to the viewer, the British Broadcasting Co. broadcasts detailed news round-ups on a regular basis throughout the day.

These longer news updates cause the broadcast time of other programs to fall at irregular intervals. Although there is continuity to the day's format, it is not as rigid as American programming.

In contrast, American news programming emphasizes consistency and predictability in all air times for programs. Instead of airing programs at irregular intervals such as 6:20 p.m. or 8:50 a.m. as the British do, American networks and television stations broadcast on the hour or half hour with commercial breaks every 15 minutes.

This regularity has forced American news programming to conform to a rigid format that has no leeway for long news updates. While American stations broadcast oneminute news blurbs at commercial breaks, British stations have detailed news roundups on a regular basis throughout the day.

SUSAN BAIRD Collegian Columnist

The most noticeable contrast between the two systems is the style of the newscast. Both British and American television produce fullblown newscasts, but British productions are more low-key.

Unlike American newscasts, BBC productions focus more on presenting quality material in an organized manner and less on showmanship and theatrics. The television newsanchor sits at an ordinary desk and holds the script. Behind him is a plain white screen on which background pictures can be

The newsanchor reads each story in a straightforward, dignified manner. Few graphics or other special effects are used. 'Newscasts' on "Monte Python's Flying Circus" are excellent parodies of BBC broad-

In contrast, American newscasts in recent years have started to emphasize eye appeal and visual effects. The newsanchor sits at a polished desk with a smile attached to his or her face. Emblazoned on the backdrop is the network's name. Brightly colored graphics and splashy photos illustrate every story. Unfortunately, these visual effects may detract from the story itself.

The trend toward this broadcast style demonstrates how popular eye appeal and visual effects are with the American public.

Wednesday, October 8, 1986 - 4

This nation has become obsessed with every form of visual media. Since the days of nickelodeans, Americans have always enjoyed moving pictures, and the invention of television increased America's infatuation.

Now, the importance of visual media has reached mammoth proportions. Big-screen televisions rank high on the Christmas list, while owning a video cassette recorder is as common as the two-car family.

Although these visual paraphernalia are convenient luxeries that some believe serve a useful purpose, they have some adverse side effects.

A person doesn't need to be literate to "read" a picture. Consequently, pictures are a convenient medium through which to convey an idea. But because of this convenience, the visual media are a more potent media form. It would be far easier to misrepresent a situation and convey the wrong idea through a visual medium than through words.

Second, if a person relies on an outside source to visualize a story for him, he will soon lose his creative ability to visualize the setting for himself. The visual effects could also distract him from the meaning behind

If a person relies on this media form a great deal, ultimately he might not be able to think or reason clearly. He will have grown accustomed to accepting ideas presented by others instead of contemplating the issues

Visual media may add color to a person's life. But they can also distract from the true meaning of life and weaken a person's self-

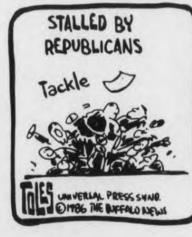

K-State leads Big Eight humor list

What happens when you cross David Letterman's top-10 lists with K-State? Big-Eight

For those who aren't familiar with Letterman's top-10 lists, they are lists of reasons why something is going to happen or not happen. However, most of the reasons are unrelated to the topic and, thus, somewhat humorous.

Hence, I bring to you a few Big-Eight lists relative to the University.

Eight big reasons that K-State will have a losing record in football this season: Larry Travis isn't quarterback.

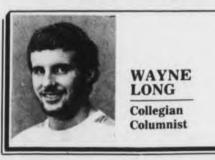

- Stan Parrish is Jim Dickey in disguise. K-State's real football players are in the - band. - Nebraska.
 - Oklahoma. K-State football players don't play well
- under artificial lights.
- And the No. 1 reason K-State will have a losing record - division II schools don't play

Eight big reasons there will be another riot after the K-State-University of Kansas football game this year:

- Tradition.
- Chaos is fun.

television again.

- K-State may record a second victory. KSU Police Department will be too busy answering the emergency phones on campus to stop the riot.
- Manhattan police will be ticketing cars in the green zone and fail to hear the noise. Harassment has no morals. Band members once again will try to
- surround the goalpost and keep it from leaving the stadium with everyone else. And the No. 1 reason there will be a riot most students want to be on national

The eight most frequently asked questions to U-LearN:

- Are potatoes still good to eat if they have sprouted while sitting in the cupboard? When is Cyndi Lauper going to give a
- Landon Lecture? Is Blue Key Honor Society in charge of Homecoming again?
- If my instructor can't speak English very well, do I have the right to talk in pig Latin just to mess him up?

How long has it been since K-State has had a winning record in a major sport? If my date throws up at the party, can I

- finish her drink? Are there any specially made radios that won't pick up Top-40 radio stations and would it be worth having one in Manhattan?
- And the most frequently asked question answered by U-LearN — how much must our enrollment drop before Oklahoma is taken off our football schedule?
 - U-LearN's eight most common answers: Wash it, than eat it.
- When David Lee Roth becomes University president.
- Homecoming is the same as last year. All's airfa in oreignfa anguagesla.
- More than two seasons. - Wash it off, then drink it.
- No and No.

- And the most frequent answer given by U-LearN - more than a prairie schooner
- Eight big reasons the University needs the Fred Bramlage Coliseum:
- It would allow us to play football games inside so we can fill the stands for Stan. - Ahearn Field House has too much tradi-
- It will free Ahearn for professional wrestling matches.
- Because Fred Bramlage says so.
- Ahearn is too easily accessible to terrorists. - It will allow the 7,000 fans who usually go - to the basketball games two seats each. So basketball recruits will be in awe. - And the No. 1 reason we need a new col- iseum so students won't demand their money back.

Eight big reasons there soon will be an athletic fee added to tuition: - So the Athletic Fee Task Force can say they've done something. - So Larry Travis can triple his salary.

So we can continue to attract the best athletes in the nation.

- Most people are tired of being embarrassed by saying they actually bought tickets to K-State athletic events.

So the new coliseum will have a parking lot.

- Because the ex-women's softball team and ex-men's tennis team are in favor of it. So Stan Parrish can buy his own police.

car and megaphone. - And the No. 1 reason why we will soon have an athletic fee - so the student body can help pay for mandatory drug tests of our athletes.

Energy waste concerns local extension agents

By KRISTI KRUCKENBERG Collegian Reporter

Some experts believe Americans waste up to one-fourth of the total energy they use, a practice that can significantly increase monthly utility

"October has been declared American Energy Awareness Month to stimulate public awareness about the need to continue saving energy and to develop energy resources and technologies," said Richard Hayter, director of engineering extension.

This year's slogan, "Invest Now for Your Energy Future," aims to make energy consumers aware of the country's limited resources. The campaign also is designed to provide consumers with information about using these resources more effectively, he said.

Hayter is the director of the Kansas Energy Extension Service, which promotes energy conservation yearround.

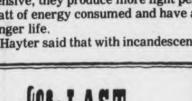

There are several ways students living in residence halls, apartments or houses can reduce energy waste and lower utility bills, he said.

One of the most obvious ways to conserve energy is to turn off all lights when they are not in use, Hayter said.

"This saves energy in two ways," he said. "First, the energy in the light itself is conserved. Since 100 percent of the energy in the light is heat, turning lights off also decreases the amount of heat that has to be removed from the room."

Fluorescent light bulbs should be used wherever possible, Hayter said. Fluorescent replacement bulbs are available for table lamps and ceiling fixtures. Although they are more expensive, they produce more light per watt of energy consumed and have a longer life.

Hayter said that with incandescent

WEDNESDAY MEANS

MARGARITAS

WELL DRINKS ALL DAY & NIGHT!

SANTA CLAUS PATIO!

bulbs, the higher the wattage, the more energy-efficient the bulb.

"Two 60-watt bulbs require more energy than one 120-watt bulb," he

In warmer weather, cooling costs can be kept to a minimum, and comfort can be maintained through the use of fans, Hayter said.

"Portable fans do a good job in lowering the air temperature, and help lower air-conditioning bills," he

For students living in residence halls or greek housing, it isn't a good idea to open windows in an attempt to cool a room, Hayter said. Instead, he suggests letting the building's maintenance people know there is a

"Sometimes controls aren't working properly, and a simple adjustment can correct the problem just as easily without energy waste," he

When a building "overcools," it also is wise to consult maintenance,

In the winter, Hayter does not suggest using any air-moving device, including ceiling fans. As air moves through a room, a higher room temperature is needed to compensate for heat lost and to create a comfortable environment.

Finally, Hayter said, choosing appropriate clothing for the season can help in energy conservation.

"Remember to dress for the season," he said. "Wearing heavier, better-insulated clothing helps you stay comfortable, allowing you to tolerate a lower room temperature."

NEW HOURS-

OPEN: 6 a.m. Mon.-Thurs. CLOSE:

1 a.m. Sun.-Wed.

OPEN ALL NIGHT THURSDAY, FRIDAY,

SATURDAY

Aggieville

and Spritzers FREE Cajun

Hors D'oeuvres 4-7 p.m. hiersile

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

Residence halls choose hosts for VIPs

By BARRY STEFFEN Collegian Reporter

As part of a new program to get more high school students interested in dorm life, University residence halls have selected 11 residents to act as hosts for these "very important people."

The selections were made Sept. 24 from 28 applications, said Rosanne Proite, assistant director of housing. All applicants were required to be current residents of a hall and to have past experience in dorm life. The VIP hosts selected are from Boyd, Haymaker, Putnam, Goodnow and Moore halls.

From Boyd is Peggy Porter, junior in office administration. Todd Martin, sophomore in microbiology, is a resident of Haymaker, and Kerri Weddle, senior in political science, is from Putnam.

Hosts from Goodnow are Daniel Bagunu, sophomore in accounting; Brian Engelken, sophomore in accounting; Andrea Monique Hurlbut, sophomore in modern languages; and Carol Ray, senior in elementary education.

Roshan Bajracharya, sophomore in agronomy; Julie Dahl, freshman in agriculture education; Jody Hundley, junior in modern languages; and Lori Novak, sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine, are Moore residents.

"I'm surprised that we were able to get the quality people we did at this time of year," said program coordinator Scott Kane, graduate student in student counseling/personal services and director of Haymaker.

Kane said all the hosts are energetic and very positive about K-State and would be good representatives of the University and the residence halls Proite said the hosts' primary responsibilities will include giving tours and accompanying participants to activities, in addition to performing other duties that will vary according to the needs and interests of prospective students.

The housing department was looking for students who would be loyal to K-State and, at the same time, truthful and honest about the information they submit to visitors about the University, Proite said.

"I feel very comfortable with the selections made," she said. "I believe we got some very qualified VIP host Engelken said he applied for the position "mainly to help the recruitment of students in-

Wichita _

Family Planning Inc.

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

to residence halls."

"I expect to enrich my knowledge of K-State housing through this position," VIP host Dahl said. "I also intend to make many new friends and encourage visitors to attend K-State."

Kane said that after prospective students contact the Admissions Office with an interest in visiting the dormitories, the hosts will be con-

"We hope to give visitors the opportunity to look at the dorms and show them what we have to offer," Kane said. "We are interested in helping our own cause. But at the same time, we are trying to recruit students to attend K-State."

Kane said he primarily wants hosts to let prospective students know they have a friend and a good contact at the University for infor-

Free Pregnancy Testing Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107 general practice dedicated to Optometry in a friendly manner

We'd like to be your Optometric office • Extended wear, Gas permeable, Tinted extended wear, Tinted soft contact lenses.

• All types of F.D.A. approved contacts. · Approx. 5,000 contact lenses in stock.

· Free consultation and trial contact lens fitting.

Drs Price, Young and Odle

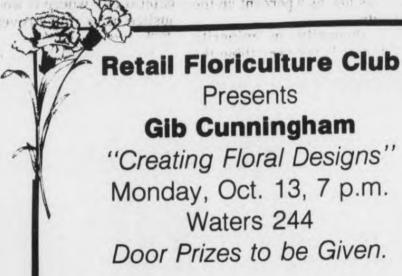

1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan 537-1118

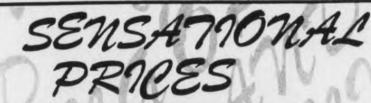

pot an imparage se

LUNAR TUNE DJS DELIVER

Residence Hall and Fraternity Social Chairmen receive a free tape with price quote. Contact Dan Schirer at 776-9140

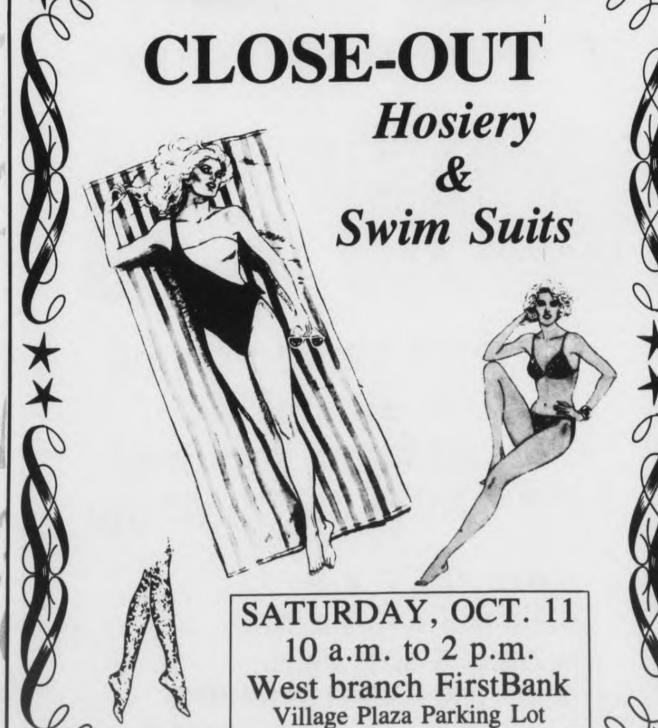

Palmetto's STIRRUPS 2000 1499

SHIRTS 2800 2200

FAMOUS LABELS

DOWNTOWN 331 POYNTZ MON.-SAT. 9:30-5:30 THURS. 9:30-8:30

Ag specialists discuss farm ideas, research methods at symposium

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

By attending the only annual world-wide symposium on farming systems research and extension for developing countries, participants from around the globe can discuss ways to improve farm production, said Jim Jorns, assistant director of the International Agricultural Programs at K-State.

The symposium was developed because of the need for people to share research in farming systems, Jorns said.

This year's theme is "Farming Systems Research and Extension: Food and Feed." He said 80 to 85 professionals from 30 countries and representatives from 30 states are attending the annual conference, which has been at K-State since it began six years ago. About 260 people are attending the symposium, which began Sunday and ends today.

Jorns said the symposium helps farmers in developing countries adapt to agricultural techniques that can improve their production with help from these professionals. "We are not dealing with new technology in agriculture here," he

An increase in farm production in developing countries, Jorns said, would have a positive impact on Kansas agriculture in the long

"In theory, Kansas agriculture would suffer from lagging exports if developing countries increase food production," Jorns said.

The problem with this theory is that as the level of production increases in these countries, the level of agricultural imports also will increase to that country because there would be more economic dollars available to buy imported products, he said.

Symposium participants can attend one of several concurrent sessions in which papers are presented on commodity research in farming systems or research crop/animal interactions in farming systems research and extension. Two to four different sessions have been structured throughout each day.

One of the participants at the symposium, Jean Valbrun of Haiti, said his job in farming system research is to help farmers in his country use different varieties of black beans and sorghum in field trials. Such practices will help increase production, Valbrun said.

He said he has benefitted from the symposium because he "hears things from all the countries that help me compare those systems with what I'm doing here (in

Harry Manges, professor of agricultural engineering, said many of the professionals giving paper presentations at the conference have spent some time working in developing countries and have experience dealing with farmers in subsistent agriculture

Manges presided over the "Linking Food and Feed" paper presentations, and he said all three presentations in that session dealt with farming system research by professionals who worked in Nepal, Lesotho and India.

These farming system research programs are not detailed research programs, Manges said, but rather integrated systems that include several different farming

Student to premiere on television, will host, produce cable segments

By LISA SHEIKH Collegian Reporter

A University student will host and produce two segments of the television show, "Inside the Animal World," a Sunset Zoo production premiering on cable television at 6

Kay Backues, junior in biology, was selected for this position after working as a volunteer at Sunset Zoo for two years, during which time she gained exposure to a variety of animals, their ailments and their treatments.

In addition to Sunset Zoo, Backues has worked at Sedgwick County Zoo in Wichita and at a small-animal clinic, where she gained more experience in working with animals.

The show, which will be presented weekly by Channel 41 (cable Channel 8), will feature a variety of animals and animal-care tips. Backues will host the segments titled "Veterinary Rounds" and "Pets and People." Backues is writing the scripts herself, she said.

"It's kind of fun," she said. "I've never worked in front of a camera before."

On "Veterinary Rounds," Backues will visit the University Veterinary Medicine Hospital each week to talk with doctors about some common ailments of pets, such as heartworms, rabies, distemper and parvo.

'We're just trying to make the public more aware of what can happen to their pets," Backues said. "I'll try to answer some of the most common questions people have."

In her other segment, "Pets and People," Backues will, for the first four shows, be demonstrating "how to teach your parrots some tricks," she said. Aiding her in this endeavor will be a white Umbrella Cockatoo that has mastered such popular parrot skills as saying "Hello," waving and kissing.

On future episodes of "Pets and People," Backues will visit with area residents who, for instance, breed dogs or own snakes - "just general pet-type stuff," she said.

The main hosts of the show will be Don Wixom, education director at Sunset Zoo, and Caroline Meeks, head keeper at the zoo. Prior to this, the two hosted "Speaking of Animals," a production of Sunset Zoo that ran for 11 years, Meeks said.

On "Inside the Animal World," Wixom and Meeks will be presenting "Zoofari." This segment will consist of film clips and interviews that capture highlights from zoos all over the country, Meeks said.

In addition, Ron Schultze, a volunteer coordinator at the zoo, will host "Backyard Naturalist," during which he will discuss the various insects and animals that might be found in one's backyard, Meeks said.

The fifth and final segment of the show, "Species Spotlight," will be hosted by several interns at the zoo, many of whom are also University students. Most of these students are biology majors, Backues said. The fifth segment will involve the presentation of a different animal each week by a different intern.

Backues, who will work with such unusual animals as the cockatoo in her segments of the show, said she is excited about the prospect of meeting people in town with exotic

"I have always been interested in animals, exotics especially," she said. "When you're raised on National Geographic documentaries, that's what happens.

Although the show will feature a variety of animals, her primary concern will be for "common pets with common ailments.'

Backues will not receive a salary for her work on the show, she said, but the experience is proving beneficial. Because her goal is to become a veterinarian, this job will enable her to meet and talk with doctors at the hospital.

ATTENTION

Organization Groups:

Pictures for the Royal Purple will be taken in Fairchild 202 not in Calvin 102. The dates and times are still the same, only the location has changed.

If you have any questions stop by Kedzie 103 or call 532-6557.

Juniors, Seniors & Grads...

GIVE YOURS SOME CREDIT!

APPLY NOW FOR YOUR VERY OWN.

- Bring a photocopy of your School I.D.
- No cosigner required APPLY NOW ON CAMPUS!

Date: Oct. 7, 8, 9 Time: 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Place: K-State Union

(just outside the stateroom)

Take This Coupon To Wendy's

Buy a BIG CLASSIC and Get a SIDE SALAD for ONLY 99¢

Offer Expires October 14, 1986

412 N. 3rd Street

3006 Anderson

UPC ARTS COMMITTEE PRESENTS

An Exhibition and Sale of Fine Art Reproductions and Laser Photographs

$5.00 each

or 3 for $13.00

LAST THREE DAYS

Wednesday-Friday, October 8-10

Cars, Cities,

Animals, Scenery & Travel Posters,

Many new prints available!

New Shipment of Photographs JUST ARRIVED!

Hundreds to choose from!

M.C. Escher Picasso Van Gogh Dali

Renoir Seurat and many more

Plastic bags available.

Cooking for one

need not be...OVERWHELMING

ou've decided it's time to think nutrition and thrift when it comes to eating. No more running to the nearest greasy burger joint for every other meal.

You've decided to start cooking for yourself.

As you enter the supermarket to buy your weekly stock of food, the mind-boggling masses of large-quantity food items stare at you from each shelf. As you amble down the seemingly endless aisles of the supermarket, you begin to panic and ask yourself, "Is this really worth it? Is this really as easy as everyone says it is? Will I really save money cooking for myself?"

Yes, yes and yes.

Yes, yes and yes.

Cooking for one need not be overwhelming.

With the large increase in the number of singleperson households in recent years, consumer demand has led to the development of an array of food items, cooking guides and appliances for the lone cook.

Carole A.Z. Harbers, associate professor of foods and nutrition, said young adults are leaving home and living on their own earlier in life. Also, the number of single senior citizens has increased.

Singles tend to marry later in life, she said, and about half of all American marriages end in divorce. Armed with these statistics, it is easy to understand why a large and diverse singlesoriented market has grown from these single-lifestyle trends.

Cooking for one is not only easy nowadays, but it's fun and leaves lots of room for creativity, said Roberta Nelson, graduate student in public administration. Nelson has lived on her own for quite a few years and said she has cooking for one down to an art.

Nelson always begins her culinary adventures by going through local newspapers to find the weekly food sales. She then gathers coupons that correspond to her food choices and heads out to a local discount grocery store. She finally visits other Manhattan grocery stores for such items as day-old bakery goods and deli specialty items.

Nelson is an advocate of single-serving food products. The popular single-serving frozen entrees are a real timesaver and tasty, too, she said.

Another tip for the lone cook is to keep a lot of what Nelson calls "basics" on hand. Potatoes, milk, bread, cheese and simple canned soups — tomato, cream of mushroom, cheddar, beef broth and chicken broth — are all basic food items that can be turned into a number of dishes. Nelson also recommends having at least five basic spices on hand to create different flavors of food.

A microwave and a Crockpot are musts for the single cook, Nelson said. These items are timesavers and offer lone cooks diversity in their cooking endeavors.

Additionally, Nelson suggests the lone cook "should make a big deal out of a meal." Nelson makes all her meals special by creating a pretty place setting at her dining-room table. Eating out of the pan over the stove and eating in front of the television while holding on to the plate are not acceptable, she said.

''Plan your meal in courses. Separate each course on your plate or in bowls," she said.

"Also, I have a glass of tea or wine with my meal

no soda."

Nelson also suggests substituting breadsticks for bread and substituting unique types of cheese for the basic cheddar or American cheese. These tips make for a fun and interesting meal, she said.

In addition, Nelson recommends having a couple basic cookbooks on hand to use as guides. While most single cooks will protest that recipes are tailored more for a family feast than for the single cook, there are cookbooks available with single-serving recipes in them.

In the meal-creating process, the lone cook has an abundance of food items from which to choose. Local grocery stores carry single servings of yogurt, tea, coffee, raisins, fruit juice, fish, chicken, pancakes, lasagna, oatmeal, french fries, beans, beef, turkey and soup. And the list goes on.

With the advent of the single portion, scaleddown utensils used to prepare these mini meals have evolved. Most department stores carry tiny microwaves, mini woks, four-cup coffee makers, little toaster ovens, single-burner hot plates, mini griddles, four-quart popcorn makers and a number of small pots, pans and casserole dishes.

Lone cooks living in residence halls should fear not. Cooking for one can be easy for them, too, said David Yoder, director of Marlatt Hall. In the offices of most of the residence halls are cake pans, bowls, electric mixers, cooking and baking utensils, pizza pans and frying pans that hall occupants may check out.

Yoder said the residents are also allowed to have just about any cooking or baking appliance in their rooms as long as it isn't causing a problem with overloading the circuits, he said. Residents may have small refrigerators in their rooms as well, making it easier for the lone cook to keep fresh food items on hand.

If money and time are big concerns for the student cooking for one, it might be advisable to weigh the pros and cons of eating out versus eating in.

At one extreme — and if one is not too picky — a person conceivably could go to a different bar every night for happy hour, eating free hors d'oeuvres and ordering drinks, a cheap alternative, but probably not the best eating-out idea.

If, like many students, one is on a limited budget and finds food bills growing faster than the national deficit, then consider this: At a Manhattan grocery store, an average-priced, frozen 11-ounce fried chicken dinner (complete with mashed potatoes, corn and dessert) costs about $1.82.

Add a cup of soup for about 29 cents and a glass of milk for about 11 cents and the total is $2.22. In comparison, many restaurants in Manhattan offer a fried chicken dinner with potatoes, vegetable, biscuit and tossed salad for $4.75. Add a cup of soup for 90 cents and a glass of milk for 75 cents, and the total comes to $6.40.

The difference in the cost of the two meals is $4.18. Quality in both meals may vary, but most lone cooks would agree that what you lose in time, you sufficiently recover in money.

Photograph by Gary Lytle

Story by Patti Paxson

Committee adopts new smoking policy

By DON SCOTT Collegian Reporter

The University Smoking Policy Committee adopted a new smoking policy Sept. 30 that eliminates smoking in every building on campus, unless designated by the sign "Smoking Permitted."

John Lambert, K-State's director of public safety and chairman of the committee, said there was an increased concern with the potential adverse health effects of smoking on nearby personnel, staff or students.

The old campus smoking policy states that smoking is not permitted in any classrooms, laboratory, office or other area where students meet for class or lab work duties. It is also restricted in areas of interior woodconstructed buildings, public buildings and buildings in which combustible materials are being used or stored. But smoking is permitted in department offices and other designated areas if the department head permits it.

The new policy does not permit smoking in any laboratory, elevator, library, art gallery, concert hall, place of public assembly, waiting room of a medical care facility, building corridor or other locations where "No Smoking" signs are posted.

Jean Station

Smoking in all campus buildings, except private offices, shall be confined to areas designated by a sign posted by or at the request of the person in control of the area and approved by the Department of Public Safe-

Other members of the Smoking Policy Committee are Micheal O'Neil, assistant professor of philosophy; Paul Nelson, junior in pre-nursing, and Luanne Ingersoll, library assistant II.

"I think the new policy is a good idea, said Greg Greif, senior in mechanical engineering. "There is nothing worse than walking behind or being around someone who is smoking.

"Smokers continually carry a cloud around with them. Nearby people get the smell in their hair and Greif said he thought the new policy could possibly lead to a decline in chain smokers.

"I like the current policy, and I'm sure I'll like the new one even better," said Marcia Skoch, junior in physical education. "I've seen how badly affected lungs are because of smoking. I know the harm it can do RAPINS IN THE RESERVE OF THE PARTY OF THE PA to the body."

Although those around the smoker are not actually inhaling the smoke directly from the cigarette, Skoch said, they still are affected.

"I don't think the new policy is unfair, because people who don't smoke are infringed upon. Smokers need to be a lot more courteous to the people around them," she said.

The change-over to the new smoking policy, Lambert said, could take from one to two years. He said it will take that long to complete the resigning and to consult with persons in control of various areas where an option is permitted.

Gary Walter, senior in engineering technology, said he wondered

MEREDITH MANOR

INTERNATIONAL

EQUESTRIAN CENTRE

Individually structured programs:

1 week through Master's degree

Programs in dressage, jumping, western, training, breeding, business, teaching,

Meredith Manor

Waverly, WV 26184

Phone: 304/679-3128

Box 76GL

For more information phone or write:

blacksmithing, leatherworking.

whether non-smokers should be allowed to sit in a smoking area.

"There aren't many areas where you can study and smoke," Walter said. "It really isn't fair if a nonsmoker is occupying space that was limited to a smoker, especially if the areas are reduced.

Walter said he didn't think the new policy would decrease the number of smokers because it isn't dealing with the main force causing the habit. That force, he said, is psychological and chemical dependancy

The Kansas law currently states that unlawful smoking in a public place is a misdemeanor and could result in a fine of up to $25. K-State has the authority to enforce this law.

Machine tabulates ballots paper ballots votes are made on."

By The Collegian Staff

Riley County has purchased a new vote tabulation machine to be used for county elections.

The machine, purchased from the county's elections committee funds, costs $42,000. It is hoped the machine will increase efficiency and accuracy in future elections, said Wanda Coder, county clerk and elections officer.

"The old way of tabulating votes by hand was very inefficient and required many long hours of work," Coder said. "Now, we have a machine which features an optical scanner that tabulates the

The machine, made by American Information Systems, is capable of giving running totals of votes every half-hour. She said this will help keep the media updated. So far, the scanner has only been tested once - during the recent primary elections - and performed as expected. "If it is used correctly, it will run correctly and give a very ac-said. The machine is kept in storage when not in use, but it will be brought to the city building for use during county elections.

curate vote tabulation," Coder

AGGIEVILLE

Wednesday

$1.50 House drinks

$2

Blended drinks $1

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Wines

80c DRAFT BEERS

AGGIE STATION RESTAURANT & BAR 1115 MORO 1 776-0030

Friday-one night only Not The Glenn Miller Band! Free TGIF Set Free BBQ

5th Annual 1986 IIKA Lil' Sister Olympics

Congratulations to the Sigma Chi House

This year's winner in the Pi Kappa Alpha Lil' Sister Olympics

Thanks to all who participated. See you again next year.

BUD LIGHT.

$1.50 Drinks Theta/Sigma Nu night

This weekend the Four Pops, formerly Misstakes

"This weekend the Oh's"

AGGIEVILLE - MANHATTAN

TODAY: Off Campus, Goodnow

Haymaker

the Collegian for photo schedules.

Oct. 9: Off Campus, Goodnow,

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment call 539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow

Wednesday, Oct. 8, 1986

This powerful drama is a realistic and engrossing portrayal of academic life. Timothy Bottoms stars as a first-year Harvard law student who strives to maintain his all important GPA in the competitive grind, while holding on to his personal integrity.

an R rated, rather kinky tale of survival

a boy and his dog

Wednesday, Oct. 8 at 7:30 p.m.; Forum Hall & Thursday, Oct. 9 at 3:30 p.m.; Little Theatre & 7:30 p.m.; Forum Hall; $1.75; Rated PG; KSU ID required

Wk-state union

Roman Polanski's CHINATOWN, set in Southern California in the 1930's reverberates with the subtle eroticism of the love affair between Jack Nicholson as the small-time shamus and Faye Dunaway as his big-time

Jack Nicholson DOUBLE FEATURE Rated R

Easy Rider

EASY RIDER is the film that began the New Hollywood revolution. It is an American odyssey-the story of two men who set out to discover their country and their place in it.

Monday, Oct. 13 & Tuesday, Oct. 14 7 p.m.; Forum Hall $1.75; Rated R; KSU ID required

Gentlemen Prefer Blondes

Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell star as two showgirls who embark for France seeking rich husbands in this musical featuring "Diamonds are a Girls Best Friend.'

Saturday, Oct. 11: 2 p.m.; Little Theatre & Sunday, Oct. 12: 2 & 7 p.m.; Little Theatre $1.50; Unrated; KSU ID required.

k-state union

Agnes of God

Did Agnes, a child-like nun, strangle her baby, a baby she doesn't even remember conceiving or giving birth to? Jane Fonda stars as the psychiatrist determined to find the

Friday, Oct. 10 & Saturday, Oct. 11 7 & 9:30 p.m.; Forum Hall $1.75; Rated PG-13; KSU ID required

Don Johnson stars in a bizarre but comical story of survival in the year 2024. This off-beat tale traces the exploits of Vic and his canine companion Blood in a post-atomic wilderness.

Friday, Oct. 10 & Saturday, Oct. 11 at midnight

Forum Hall $1.75; Rated R; KSU ID required

Renee Whitney, All-American women's volleyball player formerly of the K-State squad, has accepted an offer to join a women's professional volleyball club that trains in Leysin, Switzerland.

Former 'Cat Whitney taking talents to Alps

By LORI LUGINBILL Collegian Reporter

For one former K-State athlete, the thrill of victory will not end with her college athletic career.

Renee Whitney, an All-American as a setter on K-State's women's volleyball team from 1982-85, accepted an offer about three weeks ago from a women's professional volleyball club that trains at the American College of Switzerland in Leysin, a small Swiss community nestled in a valley of the Swiss Alps. As Whitney puts it, the offer from Switzerland is a golden opportunity she thought might never happen. "I've always wanted to do something like this but never thought it would really happen," Whitney

Besides the adjustment to a new climate and surroundings, culture shock looms in Whitney's near future. The Leysin team consists of 11 women and a coach from Holland. And except for two Americans on the team, the women are all Swiss.

Whitney knew she wanted to play volleyball after college but didn't know where. In May, she was contacted by a professional volleyball club in California but spurned the of-

Then the idea of playing volleyball in Europe caught her attention. She began talking with people who had played or were playing volleyball in Europe. It wasn't long before those conversations led to an offer by the Leysin women's coach.

"I pondered the offer awhile before I accepted, but finally decided it was just too good to pass up," Whitney

The Swiss have a complex system of volleyball team classifications, with six leagues a team can play in. "Volleyball Leysin" team will only play other Swiss teams, but Whitney said the opportunity will offer her a chance to have an impact with the

"We're not in the highest league, but that way we have room to move up and something to work for," Whitney said.

Whitney, who will leave for Switzerland on Monday, has made a six-month commitment to play volleyball in Switzerland, she said. It is too late for her to attend classes this semester at the 350-student American College of Switzerland, but she plans on taking courses the following semester.

The season opener for the Leysin team is Oct. 18, which is only four days after Whitney arrives. The season will end in mid-March, which will offer Whitney a chance to tour Europe following the end of school in

Mackovic claims game films prove Raiders' flagrant play

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Kansas City Coach John Mackovic opened his weekly media luncheon Tuesday with game films which he said shows Los Angeles Raiders players deliberating attempting to injure the Chiefs last Sunday.

Raiders' defensive lineman Greg Townsend appeared in one film to be kicking David Lutz in the head as the Chiefs' tackle lay on the ground without his helmet.

In other footage from the game interrupted twice for fights, Los Angeles cornerback Lester Hayes appears to be spearing Chiefs' wide reciever Carlos Carson from behind.

Carson went out with a sprained right knee and ankle after the hit from Hayes. Lutz was later lost for at least two weeks with a knee injury.

Chiefs guard Brad Budde is seen being punched by Raiders defensive end Howie Long, who drew a 10-yard penalty. Raiders' safety Vann McElroy was the only player ejected in Sunday's game, which the Raiders came from behind to win 24-17.

Mackovic showed similar plays from films of the Chiefs' two previous games with the Raiders.

"Brad played the rest of the game with a broken nose and Carlos was knocked right out of the game," Mackovic said. "We don't know for sure, but it's possible that David Lutz' knee injury may have been aggravated in the fight. The same is true with Mark Adickes' neck injury. You can judge for yourself what you see on these films. We sent them to the league office in New York on Monday. I'm not going to make any comment regarding the officials or the league office.'

Adickes, an offensive lineman, had his helmet ripped off by Townsend and was later found to have a sprained neck that may keep him out of a game at Cleveland this Sunday.

Asked if the Raiders were trying deliberately to maim his players, Mackovic said, "Yes. No question

Mackovic was reminded that Pittsburgh Steelers Coach Chuck Noll once characterized the Raiders' play as "a criminal element" several years ago. "Perhaps Chuck Noll's never had another ally," Mackovic said. "Perhaps no one else ever said 'I agree.' But I learned a long time ago if you speak the truth you can be a majority of one. I believe that wholeheartedly.'

Joe Browne, an NFL spokesman. acknowledged the league had received the films and Mackovic's charges.

"We will review the film and if there is any disciplinary action to take we will notify both clubs," Browne said. "Normally, this is about a 10-day process.

Fines for fighting during games have been as high as the $2,000 William Perry of the Chicago Bears paid for dumping St. Louis quarterback Neil Lomax on the head during an exhibition game last August.

Mackovic said he was "not on a crusade," then added, "I don't want it to sound like I am.

It's unfair to our team and it's unfair to the people who have worked so hard to put a winning team, together for us to completely absolve ourselves of situations that are not in the best interests either of the game or ourselves," Mackovic said.

Baseball team hopes 'Diamond Girl' idea will aid interest

By DAVE WAGNER

Collegian Reporter

K-State's baseball team has issued a call for women to participate in its

Well, they were not actually called to play but to participate in a program that would closely involve them with the team. The 12 to 15 women selected will be called Diamond Girls and will be a part of baseball games throughout the

"This is similar to a cheerleading squad for girls who are interested in the baseball team, but there will be more actual involvement with the players," said Jeff Stewart, assistant baseball coach. "We are committed to making K-State baseball something we can all be proud of, and we feel the Diamond Girl program will enhance our appeal to K-State students, faculty and alum-

Athough the baseball team hasn't had a Diamond Girls program in the recent past, Stewart said the team is set on making this a good experience for all women that express interest.

"The Diamond Girls' main purpose is to promote K-State baseball...both on and off the field," he said. "Responsibilities they will have include developing a leadership structure, fund raising, field preparation before games and general administrative duties. We feel that they will add a lot of color to our program."

Another activity the Diamond

Girls will be involved in is a "Bat Buddy" program. This program would give each woman on the squad two baseball players to be in charge of, according to Stewart.

"What this really involves is preparing snacks for the players during the week, giving them a card on their birthday and little things like that," he said. "Really, they will just be making the players feel appreciated.

Along with these activities, the women may also be given the opportunity to travel with the team to away games.

'When I was at Memphis State, the Diamond Girls squad had a traveling budget, and they attended many away games. One season they even traveled to Hawaii with us at a reduced rate," he said. "We would really like to see the same thing."

With this new program about to become a reality, the K-State baseball players have expressed enthusiasm about it. "I think it is a great idea," freshman Chris Chiles said. "It will be nice to see some girls out on the field for a change.

"So far," Stewart said, "the girls who have called have expressed a lot of enthusiasm. We are real pleased with that because we feel that this will be a great experience for all those involved."

Interviews for the Diamond Girls will be 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday in the Brandeberry Indoor Complex. To set an interview time, call 532-5723 during the day or 776-1731 in the evening.

Angels claim No. 1 from Red Sox

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - Mike Witt pitched a five-hitter and the California Angels jolted Boston ace Roger Clemens for four runs in the second inning Tuesday night to beat the Red Sox 8-1 in the first game of the American League playoffs Clemens, pitching for the first time since being struck on the right elbow by a line drive last week, could not find his rhythm early on the clear, 50-degree night.

Brian Downing drove in four runs for the Angels who scored more runs against Clemens than any team this year. They pounded him for 10 hits and eight runs, seven earned, in 7 1-3

Witt, meanwhile, flirted with the first no-hitter in playoff history, holding the Red Sox hitless for 5 2-3 innings before Wade Boggs beat out an infield chopper for a single. The hit broke a string of 16 straight batters retired by Witt after walking Boggs, the major-league batting champion, leading off the first.

When Boggs got his hit, however, Witt and the Angels had the game in control and they coasted the rest of the way in the the opener of the bestof-seven series. Game No. 2 is scheduled for 2:05 p.m. CDT Wednes-

Clemens, the most dominant pitcher in baseball this season with a 24-4 record including a 3-0 mark against the Angels, came out throwing hard with fastballs exceeding 95 mph. He escaped a two-on, two-out jam in the first inning by retiring Doug DeCinces on a drive to the center-field wall, and opened the second by easily striking out Rob Wilfong and Dick Schofield.

But then Clemens, averaging just over two walks per game this season, suddenly ran into trouble. He walked Bob Boone on a 3-1 pitch and narrowly missed on a full-count delivery to Gary Pettis.

Ruppert Jones followed with a line single up the middle and rookie Wally Joyner, who had doubled in the first inning, sliced an RBI double.

Parrish slashes '12th Man' squad from 140 down to eight students

By The Collegian Staff

K-State football Coach Stan Parrish has pared the number of prospects in his "12th man" kickoff team program down to eight from the over 140 who tried out Monday at KSU Stadium.

Parrish made the cuts after watching the prospects run 40-yard sprints for time and then analyzing the times. Parrish said the eight finalists will be contacted and asked to get physicals before joining

After the physicals and the verifications of eligibility of the prospects with the National Collegiate Athletics Association, the eight players will be required to practice three days in shorts before putting on pads for regular practice.

Parrish attributed the great response to the tryouts to the timing of the announcement and the fact that prospects had missed the two-a-day practices which run prior to the season.

Parrish said he hoped he would get the same response from walkons at the start of practices this spring. Players not making the cut are still eligible to try out for the team at that time.

The fastest time run in the 40 by one of the prospects was 4.65 seconds. Parrish had said he would like to have had everyone he intended to ask to stay with the team to run a 4.7 or faster.

Task force members should fairly represent student body

The great thing about being in the news business is as soon as one controversial issue is resolved, something else comes tumbling down the stairs and hits you in the shins.

Last year, the big campus issue was the Fred Bramlage Coliseum, and last week that issue came to a conclusion of sorts. Now, it has been handily replaced, ironically, by another issue related to the athletic depart-Many K-State students are asking whether or not they should be forced to pay an athletic fee at the beginning of each semester to help support some of K-State's smaller sports. Once again, the students' pocketbooks are being raided due to another entity falling upon hard times. I'm not talking about just K-State or the coliseum. No, this is a national problem. President Reagan is seemingly deriving tremendous enjoyment in hacking away at the amount of financial aid available for academic grants and loans in the name of saving bucks for the Department of Defense. Some day the entire world might say, "Gee, those Americans are stupid, but they fight real mean."

Another group turning to the students for a bail out is our own Kansas Board of Regents, which persistently raises the amount of K-State's tuition. Financially, it seems like the beginning of time, when I think of what tuition was my freshman year. K-State Athletic Director Larry Travis met with the Athletic Fee Task Force Tuesday night in the Student Government Services office to discuss the circumstances that led to the need of an athletic fee. There seems to be a certain hostility among some of the members of the task force toward the entire idea of having an athletic fee. This is interesting, since, as I understand it, the mission of this committee is to collect facts and make judgments - not the other way around.

Travis came to Tuesday's meeting to answer questions committee members might have about the possibilities of an athletic fee being instituted.

There were many questions presented, and Travis answered all of them. Maybe the committee members didn't always hear what they wanted to hear, but they heard what Travis had to say. "I'm not trying to ram anything down your throat," said Travis concerning the purposes of the committee looking into the issue. "We (the athletic department) want to promote the facts. We'll put it out there (for the students to look at). If they go for it, they go for it. If they don't, they don't."

The big question in this issue was brought up by a task force member. "Is there a correlation between winning and an athletic

That's almost impossible to answer off the top of your head, but if I had the choice of racing a $5,000 or $10,000 car against the $15,000 cars of my opponents, I think I know which vehicle I'd be driving.

My problem with certain task force members' handling of this issue is that at times there seems to be much predestined bias engrained in their questions and their reactions to the answers they receive.

They were chosen to be a representative of the student body, not to make all the decisions for the student body. If any group has that power, it is Student Senate, not the task force. I would hope that these biased members - and let it be clarified it is a minority of the committee - will keep an open mind throughout these proceedings. As a task force member, they serve as a representive to the interests of the entire student body.

It is their duty. It is why they were chosen for the task force. It is hoped that it is the reason they applied for the committee.

I would hope no member of the task force has violated the trust of the student body through the use of their position of power to promote their own opinions or the opinions of a small group of friends.

Hospital use down; alternatives popular

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Hospital use by Americans has plummeted to its lowest level in 15 years, as clinics and outpatient programs served a growing number of people, according to government statistics released Tuesday.

There were 148 hospital stays for every 1,000 Americans last year, the first time since 1971 that the rate has dropped below 150, the National Center for Health Statistics reported.

"The rate has been coming down dramatically," said Robert Pokras of the agency's Division of Hospital Care Statistics

Growing use of outpatient services and introduction of the Diagnosis Related Group method of payment were among the reasons for the decline, said health statistician Edmund Graves.

Under the DRG program, federal payments to hospitals are set at a flat fee based on the patient's illness rather than on the length of stay or services performed. The program is designed to encourage hospitals to control

That system, in addition to other efforts to encourage use of clinics and outpatient services, has been stressed in the last two

Hospital use responded to that by plummeting 11 percent between 1983 and 1985, reports the Center for Health Statistics.

"In addition, the average length of stay for hospitalized patients is continuing to drop. The average stay in 1985 was 6.5 days compared with 7.7 days a decade ago," the Statistics Center reported.

The report is based on patient discharges reported by a sample of 414 hospitals across the nation

The hospital use rate could well continue to drop as this trend continues under government encouragement, he said.

The average length of stay also could keep falling as hospitals continue their efforts to get people treated and on their way more quickly, he said. Home care following hospital treatment is becoming increasingly popular.

Jetliner receives false air instructions

By The Associated Press

MIAMI - Two recent incidents in which someone posing as an air controller radioed false instructions to pilots have raised concerns among industry experts, who say such pranks have the potential for disaster.

"It isn't considered to be a major problem because it happens so infrequently," Joann spokeswoman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Washington, said Tuesday. "But when it happens it's very serious."

431 Town East Center

just east of Food 4 Less

539-0363

Now Open

Ouality Ladies Shoes

Reduced Prices

MANY NAME BRANDS

THE SHOE FACTORY

In one of the two incidents here over the past two weeks, a commercial jetliner was sent into a premature descent by an impostor who cut in on aviation frequencies, the FAA said.

The misdirected descent was immediately corrected by a genuine air traffic controller monitoring the plane's course, said Jack Barker, regional spokesman for the FAA.

The culprit was familiar enough with airline jargon to fool the pilot, and had access to a special transmitter that broadcasts on air controller frequencies. Barker refused to

Hours

Mon.-Sat.

9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

speculate whether the person was an ex-pilot or controller.

"The guy is an absolute nut," said Larry Shulte, head of the Airline Pilots Association in Miami. "It carries the potential of endangering lives ... he's got to be put in jail."

The FAA declined to release any other details of either incident, and refused to identify the airlines in-

Experts say the task of fooling a pilot is difficult. The phony controller must know the direction and altitude

But people who have worked in industry or even aviation buffs can pick up the necessary information without much difficulty, said Wayne Williams, a Nova University (Fort Lauderdale) professor who heads the the non-profit National Transportation Safety Association.

"This is bad news," said Williams, a former U.S. Air Force pilot and safety investigator. "In very real terms, this guy is attempting murder."

1116 Moro

Open 7 days a week Restaurant HUNAM EXPRESS Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

For appointment or information call (316) 265-4349

ONFIDENTIAL & CONCERNED CARE Out-patient pregnancy terminations

HAIR STYLING & TANNING 1107 N. 3rd, 537-1003

NEW BEGINNINGS!

FOUR DAYS LEFT OF TACO HUT'S SAMPLE WEEK!

CLOSED Tuesday 85¢ Tostadas Wednesday reg. $1.20 $1.30 Fiesta Bowl Thursday reg. $1.90 & small drink $1.77 Chili burrito Friday reg. $2.15 $1.99 Saturday Sancho Supreme

Sun., Mon. Wed. & Thurs. 11 a.m.-Midnight Fri. & Sat. Closed Tuesday

2809 Claffin

TACO HUT

Have you done your resume? Unsure of interviewing procedures? Now there's an answer!

Your complete guide to resumes, interviewing and job hunting strategies.

"GETTING HIRED"

only $100

Proceeds go to the KSU S.A.D.D. Chapter On Sale Today! . Main Floor of the Union

SKYDIVE

Train this Friday, Jump Saturday.

Information meeting Thursday 7 p.m., Union 207 Pilots needed: Call Bill 532-5617

> SUPPORT KSU BASEBALL as a member of the

DIAMOND GIRL PROGRAM

Diamond girls will promote K-State baseball through leadership and responsibility. Activities performed include fund raising, general game administration, ushering and selling concessions. All activities will be supervised by the K-State Coaching Staff.

> For more information or to set up an interview time, call:

> > 532-5723 days 776-1731 evenings

Interviews are tomorrow in the Brandeberry Indoor Complex.

.....

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.

Comprehensive Health can help with free, confidential pregnancy testing and safe, affordable abortion services by qualified physicians. We offer birth control, gyn exams and treatment for sexually transmitted diseases.

No age requirement. We accept insurance, as well as VISA and MasterCard. A Kansas licensed facility, Comprehensive Health has been providing quality health care to women since

Comprehensive Health Associates

4401 West 109th (1-435 & Row) Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400

Ben Franklin

Westloop Center Manhattan

776-4910

New Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Sat. 9 a.m.-7 p.m., Sun. 1-6 p.m.

WEDDING ARRANGEMENTS

We'll create the perfect atmosphere for your wedding. Our floral designers will visit with you about the dresses and reception hall to coordinate the arrangements. We specialize in contemporary silk arrangements and have a wide selection of flowers. We also do traditional arrangements.

Come by and meet our staff. Let us do your wedding bouquets, corsages and centerpieces.

"Better Quality for Less"

Mushrooms Corn Dogs BBQ Beef Sandwiches Pork Tenderloins Chicken & Beef Nuggets

Our Grill Is Now Open!

Try Our:

Cheeseburgers

Fish Sandwiches

Onion Rings

Hot dogs & Chili dogs (reg. & super)

Aggieville Dairy Queen Brazier

Hamburgers French Fries

Chicken Sandwiches

12th & Moro

brazier 公公公公公公公公公公公公

The Men of Pi Kappa Phi would like to congratulate the newly initiated Little Sisters of the Star and Lamp

Veronica Archer Julie Austin Mary Lee Beaver Debbie Biggs Amy Carstenson Tammy Eberhart Steffanie Freeman Donna Lin Hecke Lori Jackson Kathy Kitchen Cristi Liening

Vicki Melean

Mandy Miller Lynda Rathbone Liza Rock Jodi Rowh Maria Saurer Janice Stein Susan Stein Renee Steinlage Karen Taylor Stephanie Tryda

Jill Urban

Chris Viveros

A TRULY SPECIAL LUNCH

For a truly special lunch in every way, visit the Pinata Restaurante in Aggieville. We offer special prices, special service, and delicious Mexican food prepared especially for you. Every Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., choose from our selection of six luncheon specials and enjoy a truly special lunch.

Free, convenient parking right at our door.

Open Daily 11 a.m.

1219 Bluemont (913) 539-3166

LaRouche sends Reagan message

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Political extremist Lyndon LaRouche, his inner circle penetrated by indictments and a sweeping federal fraud investigation, declared Tuesday that "I have committed no crime" and "will not submit passively to an arrest."

LaRouche, who was not indicted, responded to the charges against 10 of his followers and five of his organizations by saying the Reagan administration will be "condemned by history" if federal prosecutors seek to charge him, after a massive raid seeking records at his headquarters in Leesburg, Va.

" will not submit passively to an arrest, but in such a scenario I will defend myself," LaRouche said in a statement read by Warren Hamerman, head of LaRouche's National Democratic Policy Committee.

LaRouche's statement was described as "a personal message" to President Reagan.

LaRouche also charged that Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev "demanded my head, as a price" for the Iceland summit with Reagan this weekend.

LaRouche, a frequent fringe candidate for president who says he is running again in 1988, espouses bizarre theories of global conspiracy involving the Queen of England, international drug traffickers, the Soviet KGB and prominent Americans.

He also blamed the raids, which involved nearly 400 police and federal investigators, on White House chief of staff Donald Regan and Assistant Attorney Generaldesignate William Weld, formerly the U.S. attorney in Boston, where the federal investigation of LaRouche's organization began.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes, asked about LaRouche's statements, said: "I don't know anything about any of that."

Federal prosecutors, meanwhile, refused to comment on whether LaRouche himself was at the focus of their ongoing investigation. The 117-count indictment charged wire fraud in alleged unauthorized credit card charges. The indictments said $1 million in unauthorized charges were made involving 1,000 people in the period leading up to the 1984 general election, when LaRouche was a presidential candidate. It also described a scheme to defraud by soliciting loans when there was no intent to repay. U.S. Attorney Henry Hudson, of the Eastern District of Virginia, said evidence seized under warrants at the two LaRouche headquarters included items which had been sought by a Boston grand jury and which the LaRouche organizations had refused to turn over.

He said this evidence backed up obstruction of justice charges in the indictment.

Four of the 10 LaRouche followers named in the indictments remained at large Tuesday, and FBI special agent in charge Joseph Krahling said they are believed to have left the country.

White House chief of staff justifies military disclosure

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan's chief of staff, commenting on the disclosure of secret administration plans to trick Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi into believing U.S. forces might attack again, said Tuesday that, "when you have an opponent as wily and as dastardly as Gadhafi, almost anything goes."

But Donald T. Regan, appearing on the NBC-TV "Today" show, said, "We would never lie to the American Regan Tuesday said the administration was trying to keep Gadhafi guessing about American intentions.

"What we're trying to do there is to show that if the fleet moves one way, let him think what he wants on it. And if the fleet moves another way, let him think something else. That's all we're trying to do."

Ohno

Continued from Page 1

ly. However, about a week later, he said he had a dream in which the answer was revealed.

Ohno created the new model of the Klein bottle, which he considers to be the greatest, yet most difficult, work

"I'm proud of this," Ohno said. "It's the challenge of this that makes it worthwhile."

BUYING OR selling a car, truck, motorcycle, RV, boat, trailer? See Wheel 'n' Deal, Blue Hills Shopping Center, Saturdays, 8 a.m. Parking spot, wi dow sticker, area advertising, $10. Manhattan Emergency Shelter, 537-3113. (32-33)

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

JOIN THE

Irresistible Force:

The Kansas Army National Guard needs

you! If you're a High School Junior, Senior,

or Grad. between the ages of 17 and 35, you can become part of the IRRESISTIBLE

*$10,000 Student Loan Repayment

Although some students may not know about Klein bottles, many are familiar with other examples of Ohno's work. One of his creations is the glass model of Anderson Hall on display in the Union.

In addition, Ohno has constructed works of glass art in museums and other public places. His latest work was a model of the U.S. Capitol, which was donated to the Smithsonian National Museum in Washington, D.C. Ohno said it took more than four years to construct and is more than 57 inches in width.

1978 DATSUN - Excellent, new tires, brakes, engine

FOR SALE-MISC

537-4347 (32-36)

4142 (32-34)

Exp. Date 10/12

02 tuned-up, AM/FM. Call 537-8799 after 5:30 p.m. (32-

ATARI 800XL, 1050 drive, software, $300. Casio MT-68 electronic keyboard, $75. Radio Shack PC-2 1K pocket computer, $75. Call 532-5136. (31-35)

ALPINE 7374, 5900, 3317, 8101, Harman Kardon

AMDEK 310A graphics monitor, $70. Call Sara, 532-

BICYCLES: MEN'S 10-speed; women's three-speed

The Ritz Denison & Claflin

69¢

1/4 Hamburger

537-3335

SINGER SLANT-O-Matic sewing machine. Call 776-

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08

MUST SELL now! Two bedroom, one bath mobile home. Ideal for college student or new family. Appliances, washer/dryer hookups, outdoor storage and patio deck. 539-7729. (31-34)

1983 YAMAHA 550XT-Great shape, 1,600 miles.

THOMAS MICK-See Union Information Desk Lost

NEUTERED, DE-CLAWED, orange and brown calico cat, full grown. Call 776-2333 or 539-2546. (31-33)

3.000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/

OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year around. Europe,

WORK-STUDY student afternoons for receptionist duties and typing. Apply by October 10 at UFM, 1221 Thurston, 532-5866, (28-32)

PART-TIME grill help needed at Kites, 619 North 12th.

GRADUATE ASSISTANT position available in the For eign Student Office. Five-tenths time; primary re-sponsibility will involve coordination of the conversational English tutoring program. Send resume and application letter to Foreign Student Office by October 20. For more information, call

HELP WANTED

Kitchen and Cashier Help

Management Positions Available

(Preferably food & science majors)

Apply at store or call 539-3304

Cafe Latino

Must live in Manhattan. Sincere interest in health and fitness-a must! Apply in person for part-time work at Manhattan Health Foods between 10 a.m.

ODD JOBS around house, $3.50/hour, fit to your time schedule. Call 537-4648 or 539-9431, ask for Larry.

ATTRACTIVE HEALTHY freshman or sophomore.

South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month, Sightseeing, Free information Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA.

year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701

and Found for checkbook. Bring I.D. (30-32)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

539-7527, ask for Jody (32-34)

FOUND

FREE

(26-64)

92625. (27-46)

See Bill Jackson. (29-33)

Noon weekdays. (30-32)

HELP WANTED

(with coupon)

ith double rack; 21 inch girls high-rise (2). 776-

5712; after 5 p.m., 539-7616. (32-34)

CA260, CA240, Hatchback box speaker, Best equipment available, Reasonable offers, Robert, gram, Travis said.

Fee

"If we were able to generate enough funds so we could make the programs we have more competitive, we would try and bring them (the eliminated sports) back,

Continued from Page 1

When questioned how he would justify an athletic fee to older or returning students, or those with families to support, Travis said, "I agree that it is tough. From my perspective it will hopefully increase the value of their degree.'

He said the fee would be a sacrifice for people who might not be interested in going to any athletic events.

But Travis also said students pay fees for the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex and Lafene Student Health Center whether they use these facilities or not.

Ultimately, though, Travis said students will have the final decision on adopting an athletic fee.

"You've got more access to information (about athletic department budgets) than any other students in the country," he said.

Classifieds

APPARENTLY, THEY WANT

TO USE THEM AS ... UH ...

REPUBLIC" CLOTHES?

MACHINE GUNS BLAZING

2 Winglike

3 Vacation month

5 Mire

6 Actress

Alicia

or arm

Maureen

8 John or

9 Holiday

month

scraps

Diana

10 Table

11 Singer

fore stick

7 It's be-

4 Chemical

20 Mountains or river

sight of 23 Windy

souper?

words?

27 Valentine

month

31 Shoshone

Long -

40 Burden in bearer

12 "- Walks

Beauty'

43 Chinese

dog

44 Wife of

Zeus

Needs Me"

29 Stead

32 Trifle

34 "As

26 Bachelor's month

25 London

pea-

last

22 Catch

HE DIVES DOWN OUT

OF THE CLOUDS ...

E

SAY WHERE ARE

YOUR NEW "BANANA

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the erro does not alter the value of the ad.

YES, A BASSELOPE IS PART BASSET HOUND, PART

ANTELOPE. THE MILITARY

Garfield

JPM PAV95 10-8

eanuts

rossword

39 Cheer

41 Silence!

43 Passages

46 Courage

51 Month of feasting

54 Odd: Scot.

volcano

50 Cure

55 Philip-

56 Gaelic

57 Methods

58 Animal's

59 Location

foot

for mail or laundry

ACROSS

1 Prayer

stick:

5 Flower

time

12 Jewish

13 "Faerie

lady

14 - and

15 Its days

17 Behaves

are

18 Indo-

8 Fragrance

month

Queene

Leander

numbered

Native Am.

HERE'S THE WORLD WAR I

FLYING ACE ZOOMING

OVER ENEMY LINES ...

HAS BEEN LOOKING FOR

ONE FOR YEARS ...

Bloom County

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.) Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, igion, national origin, sex or ancestry

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Hayes House of Music DOD Guitar Effects 30% OFF

327 Poyntz 776-7983

DO YOU HAVE ANY IDEA

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN

YOU HIKE UP A PAIR OF

SHORTS AND YOUR LEGS

000P5! SORRY ..

ARE ONLY TWO INCHES

LONG ?

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52)

NEW OIL controlling skin conditioner especially for oily skin. Mary Kay Cosmetics, Janet Milliken, 539-9469. (27-36)

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

FREE—CREDIT for Juniors and Seniors. Union Table, October 8-10, 8:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. by Sears and KSU Marching Band. (32-34)

Hire the K-State Pep Band to play HAPPY BIRTHDAY only $15

Band Office: 532-5740 leave name & number

By Berke Breathed

THE EXPRESSION

15 CALLED

WEDGIE!

BUT I SHAN'T

ELABORATE

By Jim Davis

By Charles Schulz

THINK I JUST

SHOT A ZAMBONI

Program *$20,000 Health Profession Loan

*$2,000 Cash Bonus

*$5,040 New G.I. Bill

FORCE

ATTENTION

Repayment Program

*And Earn Over $1,200 per year Part-Time For Information Call:

SFC Don Hash (913)537-4108 day (913)537-2478 night

PAYING TOO much for medical insurance? Not sure? Get a quote. Call Molly Pennington Myers, 776-

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

FOR RENT-APTS TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment, 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Putnam Hall, 1308 N. Manhattan, $195. Call 539-7521 or 776-7045 (30-36)

ALL THIS for $227.50 per month. Three bedrooms carpet, central air, maintenance free. Prairie Glen Townhouse, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., 776-4786. (30-39) FOR RENT: Newly re-decorated room for male. Furnished, close. $110 plus gas/electric, six month lease. Deposit. 537-9693. (32-34)

FOR RENT: Room for female. Furnished, close to campus. $115 plus gas/electric, six month lease. Deposit. 537-9693. (32-34)

FOR SALE-AUTO

06 1975 WHITE Malibu-6 cylinder, 67,000 miles, air conditioning, power steering, brakes, runs great. Offer. Call 532-6939 or 539-9367. (28-32)

1984 BRONCO II-Blue/silver, power steering, conditioning, centerlines, tinted glass, sharp. Call 539-1824 afternoons. (28-32)

1974 VOLKSWAGEN Super Beetle. Runs great. New front end, brakes. $1200 or best offer. 539-4855. (30-1964 VW Bug-Rebuilt engine, new interior and paint. Excellent investment, $1,250. 1962 VW Bus—Rebuilt engine, good body, low mileage. 1-494-2388, St. George. (30tf) 1975 VW Rabbit, $700 or best offer. 539-5716 (8-10

1982 CAMERO, V-8, 55,000 miles, good condition $5,000 or best offer. 537-1534, ask for Wayne or Buzz. (31-34)

1966 CHEVY Van—1973 motor, many new parts, $1,700 or best offer. 539-0104 or 539-2637. (32-36)

By Eugene Sheffer

Cashier and Grill Cook Four to Five Days a Week. Grill Experience preferred. Call Eddy, 537-3335

for interview.

LAB ASSISTANTS for Pathology Laboratory. Parttime, 1-6 p.m. and full-time 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Send qualifications to Peterson Clinical Laboratory, P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, Ks. 66502. EOE. (31-37)

LOST

MEN'S BLUE Seiko watch, left in McCain's 2nd floor men's restroom Saturday, October 4. Sentimenta value. Please return. Call 539-4397 or return to Mc-Cain Music Office. (31-34)

A THREEFOLD, brown billfold with a velcro latch lost in vicinity of Cardwell and Durland Hall. Call 532-3615. (31-33) BLUE CHECKBOOK on campus last Tuesday, Sep tember 30. Please call James if found, 539-2074 (32-33) 16

PERSONAL

LESLIE-REMEMBER the racquetball game last Sunday. Meet me on the court every Sunday night or in the Union around 11. Lee. (31-33)

ATTENTION 1985 Delt spring pledge class: Oklahoma U. road trip was the best time ever. Goin' through Strong City ..., beer me, KKG Stephanie B— thanks for the permission slip, "...should've been a state trooper," pass me a blonde, frequent stops, impromty party favors, open-window award Blaster, "We ain't gonna' be gettin' along," No O.U. Chacks- Boz. (32)

TRI DELT Jana: Sometimes people wonder if dreams come true. This one will. Promise. What do you say to an unforgetable 10-17-86? Love, Ron. (32) CHERYL-HAPPY Birthday to a spunky woman!

C.R.A.D.S. (32)

TO MY DDD Dot Kelly S .- Have a wonderful birthday and may all your wishes come true. Love, your Mommy. (32)

SIGMA NU-Mannequins party crew! The fun has just begun. -Love, Thetas. (32)

KD PLEDGES—Have a great, super, fantastic day! We love you! The Members. (32)

KIM LYNN: The Shady Lane and Kearney will never be the same. Lizard. (32) SKYDIVERS BEVERLY and Ida-You can jump out of our airplane any day! Yahooo! (32) KAPPA DELTA Golden Key Members-Congratulations Jo Berger, Toni Bittel, Patty Jones, Becky Lu-cus, Denise Otte, Cristy Scales, Kay Garvert and Anne Brandsberg on your initiation. AOT. (32) KAPPA DELTA Mom Evans-Happy Birthday, Peggy!

BOO BOO . . . Yogi loves you and misses you a great deal! Yours forever, Jeff. (32) CHI-O Baby Laurie - Today is the day and soon you will see, just who your new mommy really will be! have blonde hair and am really tall, but most of all, think you're a doll. I can't wait until tonight! Love,

We love you! AOT from your Kappa Deltas. (32)

Mom. (32) CHI-O MARLA, You're my new dot, today you will see, I'm happy as ever and proud as can be! Love, Mom

DELTS-WE jammed at the Olympics and really had fun, in our eyes you each are truly #1. Love, the Delt Darlings. (32)

BILL BATES is great. Now I've thought things over, so call me and we'll do lunch. CV. P.S. You're silly. (32) BOO BOO-Surprise! Happy 21st Birthday. Love.

ROOMMATE WANTED

MALE, $95/month plus utilities, one block east of Haymaker. Call 539-5196. (28-32)

FEMALE-SHARE two bedroom completely furnished. 776-4794; 537-0751 after 7 p.m. (28-32)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share studio apart ment. $115 a month plus half of utilities. Please call 537-3882. (30-32)

LIKE TO share modern, bright, spacious three bedroom apartment near campus with one or two roommates (male or female). Prefer single, nonsmokers with communal living experience. Call Theo, 532-6387, 539-6972. (31-34)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted: Mature, responsible. non-smoker for three bedroom duplex, washer dryer, microwave, dishwasher, and storage. In quiet neighborhood, $133.33 per month plus orethird utilities. Call Suzie at 532-6436; after 5 p.m.,

539-9293. (31-34) MALE ROOMMATE ten blocks from campus. Place to put a horse. $150 plus one-third utilities. 539-5105. (32-34)

SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free, Clini-

cally tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

Make a Saturday Memory with LaRide Limousine Service

539-7926 (20% off with your Campus Directory coupon!)

AUTO REPAIR -- Low overhead brings savings to you. ous repairs, 539-6552, (29-33)

Oil and lube, tune up, brakes and other miscellane FREE SET of spark plugs with a tune-up on your import car at J & L Auto Service. Call 1-494-2388, St George (offer ends October 15, 1986). (29-37)

ROSS CUSTOM SECRETARIAL SERVICE

TERM PAPERS THESES DISSERTATIONS

RESUMES (with cover letters) FACULTY MANUSCRIPTS

Come see us at 614 N. 12th (across from Kite's) for your work to be done in a professional manner, quickly. We take pride in our work! We look forward to our association with the University community.

> Tel: 539-5147 Lee Ross, Owner

NEED ODD jobs done? We'll do them for you! Hard workers, low prices. Call 539-9701, ask for Taylor.

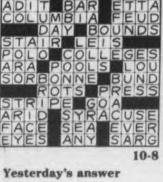

WORD PROCESSING using software which in-cludes spelling checker. Reasonable rates. Call 539-8633, ask for Curt. (31-34)

1 Portu-16 Compass European guese coin 19 Coercion reading 38 Topics 21 Abound 24 Ewe's mate Solution time: 24 mins 25 Flute's little cousin 28 Hacienda room 30 Except 33 Lyric

34 Shower time 35 DDE's area 36 Lump or mass 37 Groom, in India 38 Deuce-topper

45 Easy task 47 Hillside dugout 48 Remainder 49 Sir Herbert -52 WWII org. 53 26 Down,

CBM USS-FWRNMBM YCRF

RWZPU YWFPWRZ YWR-CUWNF? Yesterday's Cryptoquip: MY HANDY LOCKSMITH'S FAVORITE VACATION AREA: FLORIDA KEYS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Y equals F

Wheat Weaving

Georgia Nonte is weaving wheat and teaching the craft to others in her spare time. See Page 3.

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy today with a 20 percent chance for rain, high in low 60s. Wind northeast 10 to 15 mph.

Sports

66612

Ransas State Mistorical 300

Alvsun Deckert is trying to compete hard in a cross country team of All-Americans. See Page 8.

Kansas

Thursday

October 9, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 33

Americans defect from U.S.; Soviet Union grants asylum

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW - The official Soviet news agency Tass reported Wednesday that an American cancer researcher defected to the Soviet Union after being fired from his job because he opposed U.S. foreign

The news agency said Arnold Lokshin, his wife and three children arrived in Moscow on Wednesday after being granted political asylum.

Tass said Lokshin was a 47-yearold biochemist and oncologist who headed the cancer research laboratory at St. Joseph's Hospital in Houston, Texas, from 1980 until last month.

The man identified as Lokshin, a woman identified as his wife, Lauren, and three children were shown on the Soviet television evening news. Speaking in English, he told TV viewers that he and his wife had opposed the Vietnam War and had fought for social justice in the United States ever since.

Lokshin was quoted as telling Tass he and his wife made a "very difficult" decision to leave the United States after being persecuted for waging "an active struggle against the dangerous aspects of the foreign policy of the Republican administra-

Lokshin was quoted as saying that he had brought with him examples of what he claimed were FBI measures against his family.

He said the family's telephone conversations were tapped, private mail opened, that they were followed and received provocative phone calls,

Tass reported. "This all finished with my being fired and threatening to physically destroy me, together with my three children, the oldest of whom is 15," Lokshin was quoted as saying.

"Lauren and I are deeply thankful to Soviet authorities that they deemed it possible to grant us political asylum," he was quoted as saying. 'Obviously, not everything that lies before us will be easy and simple, and perhaps one of the main difficulties will be to master the Russian language quickly and sufficiently, " he was quoted as saying.

Lokshin praised Soviet research into cancer and said he was ready to make a contribution, Tass said.

The news agency said Lokshin had done research work at Harvard University and the University of South Carolina in addition to working in Houston. It said he held a doctorate in philosophy and a bachelors' degree in biochemistry.

Jack Byrd, a spokesman for St. Joseph's Hospital, said Lokshin was once an employee, but had not worked there for the last six weeks.

Debra Allen, a spokeswoman for the University of South Carolina, said Lokshin had not done any work at the school.

Margery Heffron, a spokeswoman for Harvard University, said there is no record of an Arnold Lokshin in the Medical School's appointment records dating back to 1910.

Embassy officials to see survivor

By The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua - The Foreign Ministry said Wednesday it will allow U.S. Embassy officials to see the American who survived when Sandinista troops shot down a supply plane, and that it will return the bodies of Americans who were killed.

Foreign Ministry spokeswoman Angela Saballos read over government-run radio a Foreign Ministry statement of protest addressed to U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

She said embassy officials could question 45-year-old Eugene Hasenfus, and that the bodies of Americans killed when the plane was shot down would be returned.

But Saballos did not say where Hasenfus was being held nor did she say when American officials would be allowed to see him.

Officials of the leftist Nicaraguan government say three people were killed: two Americans identified as pilot William J. Cooper and co-pilot Wallace Blaine

Sawyer Jr., and a third man who has not been identified but is believed to be an American. The plane was hit by missile fire and crashed into the jungle of southern Nicaragua

The government protest, signed by acting Foreign Minister Victor Hugo Tinoco, said the supply plane was an example of the United States' "flagrant violation of international rights and the United Nations charter.

Barricada, the Sandinista party newspaper, said in the first account of the capture that Hasenfus walked a mile through the jungle after the C-123 was shot down Sunday. It said an army patrol found him in an abandoned shack, where he had fashioned a hammock from his parachute.

Capt. Rosa Pasos, who speaks for the Defense Ministry, said the American from Marinette, Wis., was being questioned at a location she refused to disclose.

'All I can say is that he spent the night with our authorities and that he is being treated well," she said.

In Washington, Lt. Col. Arnie Williams, a Pentagon spokesman, said Wednesday the Defense Department has been unable to establish any military background for Cooper. Williams said too many men with that name served in the military and additional information was needed. Williams confirmed that a U.S. Air Force record existed for someone with the name Wallace Blaine Sawyer Jr.

Born April 20, 1945, Sawyer graduated from the U.S. Air Force Academy and served from June 5, 1968, to Sept. 13, 1974, receiving an honorable discharge as a captain.

Sandinista officials claim cargo found on the plane indicates it was part of a CIA operation to supply U.S.-backed rebels who have been fighting the leftist Sandinistas for 41/2 years. They said the Americans were U.S. military advisers from El Salvador.

President Reagan and other U.S. officials deny that the plane or the men were connected with the American government.

Chilean ruler

alters junta,

fires generals

By The Associated Press SANTIAGO, Chile - President Augusto Pinochet dismissed the army member of Chile's military junta and retired nine generals Wednesday in a shake-up of senior

The changes appeared to underline Pinochet's determination not to relax his Pinochet, the 70-year-old army commander, named one of his most loyal aides, Lt. Gen. Humberto Gordon, director of the secret police agency, to represent the army on the four-member junta effective Dec. 11. Gordon will replace Lt. Gen. Julio

Among those retired were Maj. Gen. Luis Danus, commander of the southern military region; Brig. Gen. Gaston Frez, commander of the northern region; and Maj. Gen. Alejandro Medina, the joint chiefs of staff chair-

Danus and Frez were known to favor talks with the non-Marxist civilian opposition about transition to democratic rule. Danus has said that Chile's month-old state of siege

Canessa is said to enjoy wide prestige in the army as an officer more loyal to the in-

The 53,000-man army has been Pinochet's power base since he seized the presidency from Salvador Allende, an elected Marxist,

Pinochet has hinted at prolonging his was unnecessary in his region.

stitution than to the president.

in a 1973 coup.

13-year-old military government.

army ranks.

man.

Classy art

Eric Bransby (left) freelance muralist from Colorado, does some touching up Wednesday afternoon as his assistants attach a panel of the mural in Nichols Hall. The mural is titled "Student Achievement" and will be installed this week and completed for a dedication ceremony scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday in the atrium lobby of Nichols.

presidency beyond his current eight-year term, which ends in 1989.

Soviets use electronic bugs to monitor embassy reports

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Soviets were able to read sensitive U.S. diplomatic correspondence from Moscow for years because of a security lapse that allowed the Kremlin to install electronic bugs in embassy typewriters, a Senate panel says.

a 141-page report on counterintelligence, the Senate Intelligence Committee said Tuesday that the incident marked the second time since 1978 that U.S. officials allowed Soviet agents to obtain typewriters while they were being shipped to the U.S. Embassy.

As a result, "for years, the Soviets were reading some of our most sensitive diplomatic correspondence, economic and political analyses, and other communications," the panel said. Without giving the date of the second incident, the committee said the typewriters were shipped to the Soviet Union through a commercial company without escort or guard. This allowed the Soviets access to "The compromised typewriters were used in the embassy for a significant period," the

CBS News reported in March 1985 that the bugged typewriters were in use from 1982 until the bugging was uncovered in 1984.

Electronic devices have been available for years that can translate the sounds of a typewriter into text.

"What made this incident especially astonishing was that it occurred despite a similar discovery in 1978, when security officers found that a shipment of IBM Selectric typewriters destined for the U.S. Embassy had been shipped from Antwerp (Belgium) to Moscow by a Soviet trucking line," the report said.

Then, "the potentially compromised equipment identified in 1978 was returned to the United States before being placed in service," the report said. Committee officials said they were barred from saying whether bugs actually were found in the typewriters that fell into Soviet hands in 1978.

'Unfortunately, the Soviets again gained access to several similar IBM machines that were not recognized for a substantial time as being compromised," the committee said.

Committee studies crosswalk need

By ANN CLIFFORD Collegian Reporter

A new car count and pedestrian count has been taken this week at the intersection of Denison Avenue and College Heights Road.

The Student Affairs and Social Services Committee has been working since March to get a crosswalk at the intersection, said Brett Bromich, senior in business administration and chairman of the committee. He said the committee received a number of complaints about the intersection from students last semester and decided to make it one of its main projects.

The pedestrian count was taken from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday, said Chuck Williams, city engineering supervisor. The car count began on Monday and will continue through Thursday or Friday, he said. The car count will have been conducted for about three days and the results will be available sometime next week, he said.

"We're in the process of doing that (the car and pedestrian count) now," he said. "We haven't compiled the information yet."

Last April the Student Affairs and Social Services Committee counted the number of cars and pedestrians at the intersection each hour from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. The totals were then sent to the city traffic department on April 22, Bromich said.

The committee's count showed the necessary number of pedestrians to qualify the intersection for a crosswalk, but it was short the number of cars during one hour, Bromich said.

The city of Manhattan did its own count in May, Bromich said. The count was done by electronic counters and did not qualify the intersection for a crosswalk.

Since the city's count was done during dead week, the committee felt the count was not accurate and asked them to do another count during normal traffic, Bromich said.

Another reason the city's count may have been inaccurate, Bromich said, was because the counters used were placed too far back in the intersection to include traffic entering from Durland parking lot, the Wildcat Apartment parking lot and the Sigma Alpha Epsilon front drive.

The counters for the new count have been placed in positions to exclude the same traffic this time, Bromich said.

Bromich said a crosswalk is needed at the intersection because during the busy times of the day as many as 200 cars and 100 people cross in a 15-minute period.

Cars would be "a little more likely to stop and let people cross if there were white lines painted on the street," Bromich said.

"Ideally, we would like to have a light but we at least need a crosswalk until money can be appropriated for a traffic light," Bromich said. The money appropriation could take six years, he said.

The situation at the intersection affects more than students, he said. Campus employees and Manhattan residents are also inconvenienced by the heavy traffic.

"To get the city to do anything we have to keep applying the pressure. We need to show them that there are more people interested than just the 18 people on the committee," Bromich said. The Student Affairs and Social Services

Committee becomes aware of student concerns, such as the crosswalk, through word of mouth and letters, Bromich said.

By The Associated Press

INTERNATIONAL

Yugoslavia imprisons U.S. citizen

TITOGRAD, Yugoslavia - A naturalized U.S. citizen was sentenced to seven years in prison Wednesday for his activities in a campaign for an ethnic Albanian republic, the official news agency Tanjug reported.

Peter Ivezai was sentenced after being convicted by a five-judge panel here for anti-Yugoslav activities.

Ivezaj, 30, of Sterling Heights, Mich., was jailed in August while in Yugoslava with his family to visit relatives. He emigrated to the United States in 1972, and has dual U.S.-Yugoslav citizenship.

His trial began Friday and ended Monday. Foreign reporters were not allowed to cover the trial.

Ivezaj was accused of participating in anti-Yugoslav demonstrations in Detroit, Chicago and Washington, D.C., protests the court said were directed against the Yugoslav constitutional system and aimed at toppling the socialist government, according to court sources who spoke on condition of anonymity.

NATIONAL

Judge losing impeachment battle

WASHINGTON - Federal judge Harry E. Claiborne lost ground in two arenas Wednesday in his fight against removal from office: The Senate voted against allowing him to summon witnesses at his impeachment trial and a court refused to interfere with that decision.

After 21/2 hours of closed-door debate, the Senate rejected Claiborne's attempt to present witnesses who would testify for him before the Senate, which is trying him.

In the federal courthouse at the foot of Capitol Hill, U.S. District Judge Harold Greene was asked by Claiborne's lawyer to overrule the Senate. Greene refused, saying the question was whether he could interfere with a proceeding of the legislative branch and "the answer clearly is no.'

Claiborne's lawyers said after the ruling they would take their case to the U.S. Court of Appeals. It was unclear when the appellate court

Drug bill includes death penalty

WASHINGTON - The House, ignoring threats of a Senate filibuster that could scuttle election-year anti-drug legislation, approved a compromise bill Wednesday that includes the death penalty for drug-related killings.

The bill, which authorizes $1.8 billion for drug enforcement, education and prevention, was passed, 391-23, and sent back to the Senate for further action. House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, acknowledged he was getting "mixed signals" from the Senate, where "some senators say they will filibuster" against the death-penalty provision that was also included in the original House bill passed Sept. 11.

"That's their problem," Wright said, adding that the House "couldn't pass it under the circumstances without the death

THRIFTIER THURSDAYS!

FREE ADMI

Only $1.50

FREE ADM!

0104 TGIF Chill-Out

Coming!

Pitchers

penalty.' Wright said other senators told him they had enough votes to stop a filibuster and permit consideration of the legislation.

The death penalty for murders committed in the furtherance of a continuing illegal drug operation was inserted by Wright in compromise language that was approved Tuesday by the Rules Commit-

FOREST & PARK

RESOURCE

CLUB MEETING

TONIGHT

7p.m.

Call Hall 228

Phil Thornburg,

from the Kansas City

Parks & Recreation

Department.

Guest Speaker:

REGIONAL

Stephan allows security officers

TOPEKA - State law allows community colleges to hire security officers, who may exercise "all general law enforcement powers," Attorney General Robert T. Stephan said Wednesday.

However, Stephan said in a non-binding legal opinion for Garden City Community College that the school security guards are not considered by law to be "law enforcement officers" and therefore would be ineligible to attend the Kansas Law Enforcement Training

The opinion was prepared for Ward E. Loyd, an attorney for the Garden City school, who said the Garden City police has provided campus security for the past several years. But Loyd said that arrangement was being discontinued on Jan. 1.

Loyd said the college wanted to know whether it had the authority to hire security officers on its own, and if so, the extent of legal limitations upon the authority of such officers.

Board opposes Legislative review

TOPEKA - The State Board of Education issued a statement at the conclusion of its monthly meeting Wednesday outlining reasons members oppose a proposed constitutional amendment that would give the Legislature power to reject the board's policies before they Topping the list of reasons the board cited for voting to oppose the amendment is that the proposition is not necessary for the betterment of schools in Kansas, the statement said.

"This amendment will actually hinder the best interests in education because the Legislature has many issues to debate in the three months it is in session each year, while the state board meets each month during the year to act on education issues only," the state-

In addition, the Legislature already has "substantial and sufficient authority" over the board, according to the statement. Almost every expenditure of funds the board makes must be authorized by the Legislature, the statement said.

Dole appeals for farm flood relief

WASHINGTON - Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., appealed to the Agriculture Department on Wednesday to grant an exception so grain in flood-stricken areas of Kansas will remain eligible for federal crop loans.

Dole, in a letter to Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng, said milo, corn and soybeans in parts of Kansas have begun to sprout after being soaked by recent heavy rains and floods. In some grain samples, Kansas officials have measured sprout damage greater than 15 percent. When that occurs, the grain is designated as "sample grade" and is made ineligible for price sup-

"This could severely restrict producers' cash flow and complicate marketing decisions at a time when many producers are already experiencing great financial stress," wrote Dole.

The senator's letter supports a request by the state office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service for permission from USDA to grant loans on sample grade grain.

"This could severely restrict producers' cash flow and complicate marketing decisions at a time when many producers are already experiencing great financial stress," wrote Dole.

The senator's letter supports a request by the state office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service for permission from USDA to grant loans on sample grade grain.

Campus Bulletin

GRAIN SCIENCE CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. in

OMICRON NU will have a pledge meeting at 7:30 a.m. in Union Flint Hills Room.

AGRICULTURE AMBASSADORS meet at 6 p.m. in Kedzie 210 for yearbook pictures.

PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Trotter 201.

GOLDEN KEY meets at 6:45 p.m. in Union 212.

ORDER OF OMEGA meets at 4:30 p.m. at

GAY AND LESBIAN SUPPORT GROUPS meet at 7:30 p.m. Call 532-6442 for location

THETA XI LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9 p.m. at

ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at

TREPRENEURS meets at 6 p.m. in Calvin 103. Yearbook pictures have been canceled.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON LITTLE SISTERS meet at 6 p.m. at the TKE house for meeting and

PARACHUTE CLUB will have an information

ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGIATE EN-

COLLEGIATE INTERNATIONAL TRADE ASSOCIATION meets at 7 p.m. in Calvin 116.

ANOREXIA NERVOSA AND ASSOCIATED DISORDERS offers a support group for anorexics, bulimics and friends at 7:30 p.m. in Union 204.

SAILING CLUB meets at 8:30 p.m. in Union

PHI ALPHA EPSILON meets at 4:30 p.m. in AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERS meets at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120.

Athletic fee clarification

By The Collegian Staff

Although Oklahoma State University does not charge students a specific athletic fee, the athletic department does receive a percentage from a student activity fee each year, said Ronald Froman, athletic department business manager.

reported that OSU did not have an athletic fee, a fact that K-State's recreation center at OSU.

athletic department disagreed with at Tuesday night's Athletic Fee Task Force meeting.

"We don't have a specific athletic fee," Froman said. "We have a student activity fee of which we (the athletic department) receive $295,000 a year."

Froman said funds generated by the activity fee also support A survey in Tuesday's Collegian other campus departments, such as student government and the

CAMPUS HEART OF AGGIEVILLE

"Clockwork" Orange

12:00 O'CLOCK MIDNIGHT FRI. & SAT. OCT. 10 & 11 ALL SEATS $2.50

SKYDIVE

Train this Friday, Jump Saturday.

Information meeting Thursday 7 p.m., Union 207 Pilots needed: Call Bill 532-5617

MANHATTAN WHY PAY MORE?

If you think you're getting a good deal on your

MUFFLER AND BRAKES

Call midas and see if it's really true

539-0551

330 N. Seth Childs WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD

M-F 7:30-5:30 Sat. 8-12 noon

Regular

Muffler

Installed

Lifetime Guaranteed Brake Pads

Lifetime Brakes

 Resurface Rotors Or Drums Repack Wheel Bearings Inspect Grease Seals

Inspect Hydraulic System

FREE Estimates

FAST Service

NO Obligation

 Vehicles Equipped with Semi-Metallic Pads $15 extra most cars & light trucks

January 3-10, 1987 $316/$284 (with your own equipment) (VISA & MASTERCARD accepted) THE CHRISTMAS BREAK PLAYGROUND OF THOUSANDS OF STUDENTS!

*Round Trip Motor "Sleeper" Coach Transportation
*Five Nights Lodging at Kutuk Condominiums
*Four Day Lift Tickets

Four Day Equipment Re

Pre-Party
On-Site Trip Advisor 'Moving' & Groovin' Nuts & Bolts Steamboat Party/Dance

INFORMATION MEETING: Thursday, October 16, 1986

SIGN-UP BEGINS: Friday, October 17, 1986 8 AM - 3 PM Union Activities Center, 3rd Floor

TONIGHT BEGINNING AT 6 ALL DRINKS $1.50

at

Rocky Mountain

plus

LINE 1 and MEXICAN BEER $1.25 FRIDAY from 10 p.m. 'til 2 a.m.

Kansan views wheatweaving as natural craft

By SCOTT SHORTER Collegian Reporter

For some Kansans, it seems natural to use wheat in the Wheat State for crafts.

Georgia Nonte, an employee of the Union Bookstore, is involved in wheatweaving and other folk arts. Nonte has made gifts for the Riley Country Pre-School Association to present to its speakers at its meetings. She has also had two displays of her work on the second floor of the Union: the first in January 1985, and the second in July 1986.

Nonte said a magazine, American Heritage Crafts, got her started with wheatweaving in 1974, and her interest increased when she and her husband moved to Kansas from Illinois in 1975. She said she has always been interested in folk art, and this gave her another skill.

"My husband said since we were in Kansas I ought to do something from Kansas," Nonte said. "So I thought since I was in a state with wheat I should do something with

"When I got out here I went and bought myself some wheat and went for my magazines. There was a special seminar at a store called Creative Crafts in downtown Manhattan," which has since been closed, she said.

That was her first class in wheatweaving, Nonte said, and she followed it with another at the University for Man.

"From that I got the titles of some English wheatweaving books," she said. "They have more in them than the basic craft magazines."

Nonte has taught several different UFM classes on wheatweaving and has given demonstrations to Girl Scout groups.

"I also taught five Japanese women whose husbands were here working on a grain science project in 1981," she said. "I met them when I had a sale. They wanted to learn to wheatweave since their husbands were in grain science.

"I usually don't teach because I work so much and the craft stores teach it," Nonte said. "I sent them downtown to Creative Crafts to take lessons, but they spoke so little English no one at the shop could understand what they wanted. The (Japanese) women got frustrated and left the shop."

She said she decided to teach them after hearing about their situation and conducted the class in her home.

"Even though they could not understand the language, they could watch me and do what I was doing," Nonte said. "All of them learned the simple weaves very well."

Nonte's husband, David, is employed by Schmidt Bakery in Baltimore, and she has sent several of her works to his friends.

"The big thing is for all the bakers to have some wheat. They think it is a big thing because they never get to see wheat in this form," Nonte said.

"I have sent wheat to six different countries. People who work here at K-State know I do this, and if they need a gift sent overseas, this is a good gift."

Nonte, explaining the preparation of wheat used for weaving, said the wheat must be picked two weeks before harvest. If cut too late, she said, it will be too brittle. She said the wheat must be hung upside down so it can be dried by the air. Before the wheat can be used, it must also have the excess stalk taken off, and then soaked in water for 15 to 20 minutes. It can be kept damp for six to seven hours in a wet towel

while not in use.

Whenever she has some free time, Nonte said she conducts demonstrations of wheatweaving, hide tanning or Indian beading at the Goodnow House Museum, 2301 Claflin Road.

She said she has been interested in folk arts since before she was in school, learning the skills from her grandmother.

"Before I went to kindergarden I could crochet, bead and embroider," she said.

Nonte, in addition to her volunteer work for the museum, is a member of both the Riley County Historical Society and the Riley County Geneological Society.

"I am into anything that will keep history and our heritage around," she said.

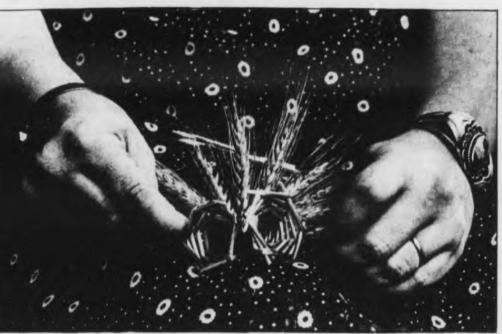

For those interested throughout the nation, there is now a national organization to promote their interests.

Hutchinson was the site of the first National Wheatweaving Association's workshop Aug. 29-31. About 100 people from 14 states attended the workshop. Some of the states represented, in addition to Kansas, included New York, California and North Dakota, said Joyce Branbury, Russell, spokeswoman for Kansas Wheat Commission Speak for Wheat.

Branbury said classes were held for every wheatweaver, from beginner to advanced, as well as a class concerning the marketing of their products.

"We were really pleased with the turnout for the first-ever national wheatweaving event," she said. "There is certainly an interest in wheatweaving all across the nation, and now we'll be able to share ideas and promote the art even more."

Staff/Brad Fanshier

LEFT: Georgia Nonte uses her mouth to put the finishing touch on a wheatweaving creation while weaving outside the Goodnow House Museum. ABOVE: Nonte completes one of her objects woven of wheat. Nonte, who started weaving in 1974, sells her creations at craft shows and teaches wheatweaving in her spare time.

House passes new version of Superfund

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The House overwhelmingly passed the broadly supported $9 billion "Superfund" renewal bill Wednesday, completing congressional action on major environmental legislation that the White House is threatening to veto.

The toxic-waste cleanup bill headed toward President Reagan's desk after a 386-27 roll call in the House, giving the measure nearly 100 votes more than would be needed to override any veto.

During the debate, a parade of House members from both parties urged Reagan to sign the legislation. A veto, said Rep. Norman Lent, R-N.Y., "would be a grave error."

Shortly before the House action, Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., and 80 other senators — 35 of them Republicans — wrote Reagan, urging him to sign the bill despite administration opposition to some of its tax provisions.

"We must all compromise," the letter said. "A mother whose child has been poisoned by toxic waste in the water will not ask whether a broad-base tax mechanism was used to fund Superfund."

The bipartisan legislation, hammered out through nearly three years of tough negotiations, would pump $8.5 billion over the next five years into a toxic waste cleanup program that began stalling a year ago when Congress failed to renew its taxing authority.

This would be a more than five-fold increase for Superfund, which was budgeted at $1.6 billion its first five years and which has been heavily criticized for completing only two dozen or so dump cleanups since 1980.

The bill, which cleared the Republicancontrolled Senate 88-8 last Friday, also would create a new $500 million attack against leaking underground fuel storage tanks, which pose an increasing threat to drinking water supplies.

House leaders outlined plans to ensure that Congress, heading for adjournment, would have the opportunity to override the veto that is being threatened by the White House.

"We're very confident we can override a veto," said Rep. Dennis Eckart, D-Ohio, who has been active in the effort to revive and expand Superfund.

Normally, the president has 10 days to sign or veto a bill. If he does not act in this period while Congress is in session, it automatically becomes law. But if the 10 days expire after Congress has adjourned, the president can pocket-veto legislation by not signing it.

Eckart said leaders have agreed to keep

Congress at least technically in session past the 10-day period on Superfund to deny the pocket veto and give it a chance to override a direct veto.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill,

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said that if the legislation is vetoed, "we'd have to call the House back into session."

Call for your FREE Personal Appointment or stop by.

Discover Estee Lauder's

STAR WORLD COLORS

Lana and Tricia will demonstrate new fall colors
Saturday, October 11
9 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

ATTENTION

Organization Groups:

Pictures for the Royal Purple will be taken in Fairchild 202 not in Calvin 102. The dates and times are still the same, only the location has changed.

If you have any questions stop by Kedzie 103 or call 532-6557.

Juniors, Seniors & Grads...

GIVE YOURSELF SOME CREDIT!

APPLY NOW FOR YOUR VERY OWN...

 Bring a photocopy of your School I.D.

 No cosigner required APPLY NOW ON CAMPUS!

Date: Oct. 7, 8, 9

Time: 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Place: K-State Union

(just outside the stateroom)

e Citicorp, 1986

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

'Diamond Girls' dulls self-image of women

First Stan Parrish put out a call for "a few good men" to help his football team. Now Jeff Stewart, K-State's assistant baseball coach, has put out a call for a few good "girls."

Girls?

Stewart announced interviews to select a group of "girls" to be called Diamond Girls will be conducted today. Now, there may be some very gifted girls attending K-State, but the overwhelming the group offensive, then they must also find the duties of the Diamond Girls archaic and sex-

Girls will be picked for the squad, cheerleading squad - with a few ball uniforms.

The cheerleading squad at K-State is representative of both sexes, and attends games and functions to raise spirit. They are not required to make snacks or buy players birthday cards, which are a couple of the subserviant functions of the Diamond Girls' "Bat Buddy" program.

The Diamond Girls program sounds more akin to a fraternity little sisters program than a majority of female students are cheerleading program, which is women. If one finds the name of fine as long as the women involved are aware of that fact.

The baseball team also wants the Diamond Girls to travel with them to away games. If the Stewart said 12 to 15 Diamond University has travel money and wants to put women on the diawhich will be similar to a mond, let's see them back in soft-

Travis gives students option on athletic fee

So often we hear students gripe about their lack of influence in affairs that affect them. Many view events as something wholly facts and let the students vote on beyond their control. Tuition the issue. costs continue to rise while financial aid is reduced - and students can do little or nothing about either. The University administration's decision to make students responsible for an additional $1 million for the infamous Fred Bramlage Coliseum is a classic example.

But amazingly, the proposed student athletic fee might be different. At Tuesday's Athletic Fee Task Force meeting Athletic Director Larry Travis told students they will make the final decision on the proposed athletic

Proposed athletic fee options include a $20 per semester fee and free admission to all athletic events or a $10-15 fee with $15 per semester admission to athletic events. Travis said funds generated by an athletic fee would supplement non-revenue sports. Non-revenue sports, those that do not produce profits, include all sports at K-State except football and men's basketball.

The purpose of the task force, Travis explained, is not to make premature judgments on the world, national and even local issue, but to gather all relevant

> "We started this thing a year and a half ago. We probably could have gotten it through (Student Senate), but put it on hold to get the task force formed to look into the situation," Travis said, adding that K-State students have more access to information about athletic department budgets than any other students in the country.

Although the athletic department's $400,000 deficit and $2 million coliseum debt are discouraging, the fact that its budget is available for public scrutiny in the Student Government Services office is encouraging. The administration seems to have followed the lead of Mikhail Gorbachev and his promise of a more open society.

The problem is to overcome student apathy. It behooves all students to inform themselves about the proposed athletic fee. The Athletic Fee Task Force meetings are at 5:30 p.m. Tuesdays in the SGS conference room and are open to the public.

Thursday, October 9, 1986 - 4

Program promotes campus sexism

Re: The article, "Baseball team hopes 'Diamond Girl' idea will aid interest," in Wednesday's Collegian.

Following right on the coattails of Tuesday's Collegian, this article seemed rather like the football team's bid for walk-on specialty team players. The similarities stop

Coach Stan Parrish opened a great opportunity to the masses of untapped talent. The "12th man" squad was chosen on a standard for professional play. If you can run 40 yards in less than 4.7 seconds they can teach you to play the game.

If Mike Clark, baseball coach, and Jeff Stewart, assistant baseball coach, want women to participate in their program why don't they let them try out for the team? Instead, I think they want objects, something to show off, and blatant sexual objectification has no place on this campus.

Further, I take exception to the use of the word "girl." The cutoff between girls and women is typically 12 to 15 years of age. I doubt they will be selecting many preadolescent females for this squad. And what are the criteria for acceptance? Ability to prepare snacks, smile, pucker and twink your cheeks? Should slightly overweight or plain women not apply? That's what it sounded like. They are looking for some nice, cute bat girls to show prospective players around campus. Is this how women at K-State see themselves?

There is no sexual parity on this campus. If there was, we might have an all men's cheerleading squad for the women's basketball team, but we don't. The women's basketball team is very exciting to watch, and I for one would enthusiastically support a break from traditionally defined sex roles.

DOUGLAS J. SCHMIDT

Guest Columnist

Can men join the Diamond Girls? Why not? I can whip up one heck of a snack and I don't mind searching for birthday cards in the Union bookstore. I am going to show up at your tryouts with my attorney. If I don't get a fair interview and an equal shot to make the Diamond Girls' squad, I am going to shout discrimination so loudly it will make your

This semester I am head coach of the K-State Women's Soccer Club. K-State also has a men's soccer team. I am pleased to report that we share facilities, equipment and soccer knowledge freely. The teams are mutually supportive by attending each other's games and social functions. More importantly, the men and women respect each other as soccer players. The men's team and the fans who saw us beat Rockhurst College 7-1 last Saturday know that women's soccer at K-State is more than an image organiza-

My guess is that the baseball players did not come up with the Diamond Girl idea (sorry, fellows, you got caught in the middle). I believe the new coaching staff is responsible and the players begrudgingly accepted. What should the players care? I assume they are out there to play ball. The scuttlebutt I hear in the Union Stateroom is that the players were not in favor of this program and that the coaches had to resort to the distribution of several hundred leaflets to the dorms and sororities.

Free access to media hype didn't hurt either. Either the reporter had little understanding of equality issues or he was duped by the assistant baseball coach. Shame on him and his editor for not seeking out and presenting more than one view. I suggest he call the Women's Resource Center at 532-6444. They might put him in touch with women who vehemently oppose this sort of thing.

I don't accept the fact that women can't play ball as well as men. When I was a kid we played a good deal of baseball with my parents in the lot behind our house. Dad was one of the best fungo flyball hitters I've seen and Mom always put on a good showing in right field. Despite stern warnings, my brothers and I used to tease my younger sister that she threw like a girl. (We were pretty awful in those days and didn't know much better.) With Mom and Dad's encouragement she kept at it. My dear sister Beth learned to throw, and hit, and steal second. She tosses a fast ball at better than 80 mph and can throw a breaking pitch that will scare the living hell out of you. If you are planning to "try out" for the Diamond Girl squad I urge you to consider your actions in light of this column. What does this organization do for your image and the image of other women in the eyes of men? Support the baseball team by attending the games and social functions, not by demean-

Douglas J. Schmidt is a graduate student in entomology.

ing yourself as a showpiece.

Disinformation destroys credibility

SCOTT

Collegian

Columnist

MILLER

The United States' "Teflonesque" president just might survive yet another sticky issue. Consider last week's hottest news item - a Washington Post article in which Bob Woodward of Watergate fame exposed some White House deception that took place in August. The article has some top Reagan officials, from the CIA's chief spook William Casey to the great communicator himself, irate over unauthorized news leaks.

It all started Aug. 14, when nationalsecurity adviser John M. Poindexter sent a memo to Reagan in which he described a destabilization campaign aimed at Libya's Col. Moammar Gadhafi. The memo stated that this campaign "combines real and illusionary events - through a disinformation program - with the basic goal of making Gadhafi think that there is a high degree of internal opposition to him within Libya, that his key trusted aides are disloyal, and that the United States is about to move against him militarily."

Gee, that sounds harmless enough, as long as no one lies to the American population. But somehow this distinguished "disinformation program" found its way into the Aug. 25 Wall Street Journal, one of the most widely circulated newspapers in America. We all know the White House officials wouldn't deliberately lie to the American public; they just won't set the record straight when their "disinformation" is printed in every major newspaper in the country.

When asked in August about the Wall Street Journal article, which claimed that Gadhafi was planning new terrorist attacks, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes called the report "authoritative." At the same time U.S. intelligence officials were secretly admitting that Gadhafi was "quiescent" on the terrorist front. In White House officialese, "authoritative" does not necessarily mean true.

Although Speakes said last week that the propaganda in the Wall Street Journal was 'generally correct," he refused to comment on whether there was a plan to spread disinformation abroad. But don't let the White House moguls fool us into thinking that lying to the foreign press is somehow acceptable. They know foreign wire services pick up local stories and send them directly to the United States where they are disseminated as "authoritative" by thousands of publications. To lie to the foreign press is essentially no different than lying to the domestic press. Judging from Speakes' statement about the "generally correct" nature of the Wall Street Journal article, the administration is going to stand by its story and hope that Reagan's Teflon armor, which has seen the administration through a host of miscalculations and blunders, will continue to provide a non-stick coating, a coating that has already proved a more effective shield than even Reagan's wildest pipe dreams about Strategic Defense Initiative.

The great prevaricator himself said Friday as he fled from the attacking press corps to his Camp David Retreat, "We didn't tell any lies, and we weren't doing any of these disinformation things that we've been cited with doing." Hmm, does that mean that he and his cronies have been doing some "disinformation things" other than the ones they've been cited with? Excuse me if I seem to analyze the president's words a little closely, but I've always had this irrational fettish for the truth.

CIA director Casey has vowed to get to the bottom of all this. That doesn't mean he cares if the information in the Wall Street Journal article is true. He's only after the person who leaked the information. (When one enters the upper echelons of the intelligence society, truth is no longer relevant.)

Last week Casey unleashed a special team of senior FBI bloodhounds to track down the source of the Aug. 25 Wall Street Journal article. One must wonder, however, why an investigation was not initiated until after last week's Washington Post article appeared. After all, the administration has known for 21/2 months about the Wall Street Journal article. One would think the trail would be cold by now - but not the FBI, which is determined to ensure that the only leaking done at the White House is for the president's "voluntary" drug testing.

The real irony here, however, is the White House decision to call in the FBI to investigate what it considers to be an unreliable information source. It's a shame the American people can't call in their own watchdogs to investigate the White House magnates, who are also a questionable source of information.

There's an old cliche that says those who don't learn history are condemned to repeat it. If only that were true. The last time Bob Woodward caught a president and his buddies lying, it toppled an administration. Could we get so lucky?

> LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged.

'Diamond Girls' sexist

Editor,

Re: The article, "Baseball team hopes 'Diamond Girl' idea will aid interest," in Wednesday's Collegian.

Sometimes I believe that K-State reporters turn a blind eye to the news they are reporting; otherwise, I question how a one-sided article such as this could turn up in a college

I am not as concerned with the reporting in the article as I am with its content. I take offense at the request that the men's baseball team is making to the women of K-State. Let me quote some of the more absurd portions of assistant baseball coach Jeff Stewart's request: First each "Diamond Girl" will be in charge of two players. "What this really involves is preparing snacks for the players during the week, giving them a card on their birthday and little things like that," and can we conclude that these responsibilities include sleeping with those two players on the night before every home game?

The implications to me seem rather obvious. The baseball team is looking for a troupe of "girls" to dote on them, wait on them and perform other varied domestic duties. First, if the men's baseball team is looking for "girls," why don't they put the same article in the elementary or junior high school paper?

Second, I find it appalling that the K-State men's baseball team has the audacity to put such a request up to a group of women they supposedly perceive as their peers. Is this equality? Do the "Diamond Girls" need to know anything about baseball, or do they just need to sit and look pretty? Yes, you may get the idea that I find this request demeaning and degrading to women.

What I find most discouraging is that there will be a number of women responding to this article. I don't think these women see the significance of their role in this situation. Again and again I see that women are expected to accept a role which has the sole duty of supporting men. I see the "Diamond Girl" organization as harmful to the image of women at K-State.

The outrageous duties expected of the "Diamond Girls" are well above and beyond acceptable boundary lines for supporting one's university or a university athletic

I strongly urge all women who are planning to try out for the "Diamond Girls" not to do so for the reasons I've mentioned above. Please preserve your dignity (and that of all the other women at K-State) and disregard the K-State men's baseball team's outrageous request.

Linda J. McPheron graduate in entomology

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

'Diamond Girls' dulls self-image of women

First Stan Parrish put out a call extra duties. for "a few good men" to help his football team. Now Jeff Stewart, K-State is representative of both K-State's assistant baseball sexes, and attends games and coach, has put out a call for a few functions to raise spirit. They are good "girls." Girls?

Stewart announced interviews to select a group of "girls" to be called Diamond Girls will be conducted today. Now, there may be some very gifted girls attending K-State, but the overwhelming majority of female students are women. If one finds the name of the group offensive, then they must also find the duties of the cheerleading squad - with a few ball uniforms.

The cheerleading squad at not required to make snacks or buy players birthday cards, which are a couple of the subserviant functions of the Diamond Girls' "Bat Buddy" program.

The Diamond Girls program sounds more akin to a fraternity little sisters program than a cheerleading program, which is fine as long as the women involved are aware of that fact.

The baseball team also wants Diamond Girls archaic and sex- the Diamond Girls to travel with them to away games. If the Stewart said 12 to 15 Diamond University has travel money and Girls will be picked for the squad, wants to put women on the diawhich will be similar to a mond, let's see them back in soft-

Travis gives students option on athletic fee

So often we hear students gripe about their lack of influence in affairs that affect them. Many view world, national and even local issue, but to gather all relevant events as something wholly facts and let the students vote on beyond their control. Tuition costs continue to rise while financial aid is reduced - and students can do little or nothing about either. The University administration's decision to make students responsible for an additional $1 million for the infamous Fred Bramlage Coliseum is a classic example.

But amazingly, the proposed student athletic fee might be different. At Tuesday's Athletic Fee Task Force meeting Athletic Director Larry Travis told students they will make the final decision on the proposed athletic

Proposed athletic fee options include a $20 per semester fee and free admission to all athletic events or a $10-15 fee with $15 per semester admission to athletic events. Travis said funds generated by an athletic fee would supplement non-revenue sports. Non-revenue sports, those that do not produce profits, include all sports at K-State except football and men's basketball.

The purpose of the task force, Travis explained, is not to make premature judgments on the

"We started this thing a year and a half ago. We probably could have gotten it through (Student Senate), but put it on hold to get the task force formed to look into the situation," Travis said, adding that K-State students have more access to information about athletic department budgets than any other students in the country.

Although the athletic department's $400,000 deficit and $2 million coliseum debt are discouraging, the fact that its budget is available for public scrutiny in the Student Government Services office is encouraging. The administration seems to have followed the lead of Mikhail Gorbachev and his promise of a more open society.

The problem is to overcome student apathy. It behooves all students to inform themselves about the proposed athletic fee. The Athletic Fee Task Force meetings are at 5:30 p.m. Tuesdays in the SGS conference room and are open to the public.

Program promotes campus sexism

Re: The article, "Baseball team hopes 'Diamond Girl' idea will aid interest," in Wednesday's Collegian.

Following right on the coattails of Tuesday's Collegian, this article seemed rather like the football team's bid for walk-on specialty team players. The similarities stop

Coach Stan Parrish opened a great opportunity to the masses of untapped talent. The "12th man" squad was chosen on a standard for professional play. If you can run 40 yards in less than 4.7 seconds they can teach you to play the game.

If Mike Clark, baseball coach, and Jeff Stewart, assistant baseball coach, want women to participate in their program why don't they let them try out for the team? Instead, I think they want objects, something to show off, and blatant sexual objectification has no place on this campus.

Further, I take exception to the use of the word "girl." The cutoff between girls and women is typically 12 to 15 years of age. I doubt they will be selecting many preadolescent females for this squad. And what are the criteria for acceptance? Ability to prepare snacks, smile, pucker and twink your cheeks? Should slightly overweight or plain women not apply? That's what it sounded like. They are looking for some nice, cute bat girls to show prospective players around campus. Is this how women at K-State see themselves?

There is no sexual parity on this campus. If there was, we might have an all men's cheerleading squad for the women's basketball team, but we don't. The women's basketball team is very exciting to watch, and I for one would enthusiastically support a break from traditionally defined sex roles.

DOUGLAS J. SCHMIDT Guest Columnist

Can men join the Diamond Girls? Why not? I can whip up one heck of a snack and I don't mind searching for birthday cards in the Union bookstore. I am going to show up at your tryouts with my attorney. If I don't get a fair interview and an equal shot to make the Diamond Girls' squad, I am going to shout discrimination so loudly it will make your head spin.

This semester I am head coach of the K-State Women's Soccer Club. K-State also has a men's soccer team. I am pleased to report that we share facilities, equipment and soccer knowledge freely. The teams are mutually supportive by attending each other's games and social functions. More importantly, the men and women respect each other as soccer players. The men's team and the fans who saw us beat Rockhurst College 7-1 last Saturday know that women's soccer at K-State is more than an image organiza-

My guess is that the baseball players did not come up with the Diamond Girl idea (sorry, fellows, you got caught in the middle). I believe the new coaching staff is responsible and the players begrudgingly accepted. What should the players care? I assume they are out there to play ball. The scuttlebutt I hear in the Union Stateroom is that the players were not in favor of this program and that the coaches had to resort to the distribution of several hundred leaflets to the dorms and sororities.

Thursday, October 9, 1986 - 4

Free access to media hype didn't hurt either. Either the reporter had little understanding of equality issues or he was duped by the assistant baseball coach. Shame on him and his editor for not seeking out and presenting more than one view. I suggest he call the Women's Resource Center at 532-6444. They might put him in touch with women who vehemently oppose this sort of thing.

I don't accept the fact that women can't play ball as well as men. When I was a kid we played a good deal of baseball with my parents in the lot behind our house. Dad was one of the best fungo flyball hitters I've seen and Mom always put on a good showing in right field. Despite stern warnings, my brothers and I used to tease my younger sister that she threw like a girl. (We were pretty awful in those days and didn't know much better.) With Mom and Dad's encouragement she kept at it. My dear sister Beth learned to throw, and hit, and steal second. She tosses a fast ball at better than 80 mph and can throw a breaking pitch that will scare the living hell out of you.

If you are planning to "try out" for the Diamond Girl squad I urge you to consider your actions in light of this column. What does this organization do for your image and the image of other women in the eyes of men? Support the baseball team by attending the games and social functions, not by demeaning yourself as a showpiece.

Douglas J. Schmidt is a graduate student in entomology.

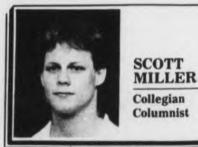

Disinformation destroys credibility

The United States' "Teflonesque" president just might survive yet another sticky issue. Consider last week's hottest news item a Washington Post article in which Bob Woodward of Watergate fame exposed some White House deception that took place in August. The article has some top Reagan officials, from the CIA's chief spook William Casey to the great communicator himself, irate over unauthorized news leaks.

It all started Aug. 14, when nationalsecurity adviser John M. Poindexter sent a memo to Reagan in which he described a destabilization campaign aimed at Libya's Col. Moammar Gadhafi. The memo stated that this campaign "combines real and illusionary events — through a disinformation program — with the basic goal of making Gadhafi think that there is a high degree of internal opposition to him within Libya, that his key trusted aides are disloyal, and that the United States is about to move against. him militarily."

Gee, that sounds harmless enough, as long as no one lies to the American population. But somehow this distinguished "disinformation program" found its way into the Aug. 25 Wall Street Journal, one of the most widely circulated newspapers in America. We all know the White House officials wouldn't deliberately lie to the American public; they just won't set the record straight when their 'disinformation' is printed in every major newspaper in the country.

When asked in August about the Wall Street Journal article, which claimed that Gadhafi was planning new terrorist attacks, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes called the report "authoritative." At the same time U.S. intelligence officials were secretly admitting that Gadhafi was "quiescent" on the terrorist front. In White House officialese, "authoritative" does not necessarily mean true.

Although Speakes said last week that the propaganda in the Wall Street Journal was 'generally correct," he refused to comment on whether there was a plan to spread disinformation abroad. But don't let the White House moguls fool us into thinking that lying to the foreign press is somehow acceptable. They know foreign wire services pick up local stories and send them directly to the United States where they are disseminated as "authoritative" by thousands of publications. To lie to the foreign press is essentially no different than lying to the domestic press.

Judging from Speakes' statement about the "generally correct" nature of the Wall Street Journal article, the administration is going to stand by its story and hope that Reagan's Teflon armor, which has seen the administration through a host of miscalculations and blunders, will continue to provide a non-stick coating, a coating that has already proved a more effective shield than even Reagan's wildest pipe dreams about Strategic Defense Initiative.

The great prevaricator himself said Friday as he fled from the attacking press corps to his Camp David Retreat, "We didn't tell any lies, and we weren't doing any of these disinformation things that we've been cited with doing." Hmm, does that mean that he and his cronies have been doing some "disinformation things" other than the ones they've been cited with? Excuse me if I seem to analyze the president's words a little closely, but I've always had this irrational fettish for the truth. CIA director Casey has vowed to get to the bottom of all this. That doesn't mean he cares if the information in the Wall Street Journal article is true. He's only after the person who leaked the information. (When one enters the upper echelons of the intelligence society, truth is no longer relevant.)

Last week Casey unleashed a special team of senior FBI bloodhounds to track down the source of the Aug. 25 Wall Street Journal article. One must wonder, however, why an investigation was not initiated until after last week's Washington Post article appeared. After all, the administration has known for 21/2 months about the Wall Street Journal article. One would think the trail would be cold by now - but not the FBI, which is determined to ensure that the only leaking done at the White House is for the president's "voluntary" drug testing.

The real irony here, however, is the White House decision to call in the FBI to investigate what it considers to be an unreliable information source. It's a shame the American people can't call in their own watchdogs to investigate the White House magnates, who are also a questionable source of information.

There's an old cliche that says those who don't learn history are condemned to repeat it. If only that were true. The last time Bob Woodward caught a president and his buddies lying, it toppled an administration. Could we get so lucky?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged.

Letters

'Diamond Girls' sexist

Re: The article, "Baseball team hopes 'Diamond Girl' idea will aid interest," in Wednesday's Collegian.

Sometimes I believe that K-State reporters turn a blind eye to the news they are reporting; otherwise, I question how a one-sided article such as this could turn up in a college

I am not as concerned with the reporting in the article as I am with its content. I take offense at the request that the men's baseball team is making to the women of K-State. Let me quote some of the more absurd portions of assistant baseball coach Jeff Stewart's request: First each "Diamond Girl" will be in charge of two players. "What this really involves is preparing snacks for the players during the week, giving them a card on their birthday and little things like that," and can we conclude that these responsibilities include sleeping with those two players on the night before every home game?

The implications to me seem rather obvious. The baseball team is looking for a troupe of "girls" to dote on them, wait on them and perform other varied domestic duties. First, if the men's baseball team is looking for "girls," why don't they put the same article in the elementary or junior high school paper?

Second, I find it appalling that the K-State men's baseball team has the audacity to put such a request up to a group of women they supposedly perceive as their peers. Is this equality? Do the "Diamond Girls" need to know anything about baseball, or do they just need to sit and look pretty? Yes, you may get the idea that I find this request demeaning and degrading to women.

What I find most discouraging is that there will be a number of women responding to this article. I don't think these women see the significance of their role in this situation. Again and again I see that women are expected to accept a role which has the sole duty of supporting men. I see the "Diamond Girl" organization as harmful to the image of women at K-State.

The outrageous duties expected of the "Diamond Girls" are well above and beyond acceptable boundary lines for supporting one's university or a university athletic

I strongly urge all women who are planning to try out for the "Diamond Girls" not to do so for the reasons I've mentioned above. Please preserve your dignity (and that of all the other women at K-State) and disregard the K-State men's baseball team's outrageous request.

Linda J. McPheron graduate in entomology

State receives revised request from Trailways

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - The Kansas Corporation Commission Wednesday accepted Trailways Lines Inc.'s revised request to abandon most of its routes through Kansas, starting a "120-day clock," during which the commission must hold hearings and issue a decision.

Trailways officials have cited financial troubles as the primary reason for discontinuing all bus service in six Midwestern states and all but one route through Kansas. In papers filed with the KCC, the company says it lost $636,626 on its Kansas routes during the year ending June 30.

The proposal will affect 69 Kansas towns, leaving 40 of those without any form of bus service. Another 22 cities would retain bus services from other companies and seven communities would see Trailways service reduced.

The Dallas-based company revealed its plan to drop the routes on Aug. 29 but on Sept. 10, the KCC ordered Trailways to submit a more formal and thorough petition to discontinue the service. The commission received a revised petition from Trailways on Sept. 22, said Steve Menaugh, a spokesman for the KCC.

Trailways, the largest provider of bus service in Kansas, proposes to abandon service on five routes in the state, including all routes through western Kansas.

The only surviving route under the plan would run from Kansas City to Wichita via Lawrence, Topeka, Emporia and Augusta. The route also travels through Winfield and Arkansas City on the way to Oklahoma Ci-

Under the action Wednesday, the commission:

- Started the "120-day clock" as of Sept. 22, meaning the commission must conclude proceedings and issue a ruling before Jan. 20.

Orders Trailways to publish notices of the plan in the newspapers of all communities affected by the company's proposal and inform readers that public protests or comments must be filed no later than Nov. 20 with the KCC in Topeka.

Menaugh said responses from the notices, which must be published by Oct. 25, will help the commission determine how many public hearings it should conduct and in which com-

Mandates that Trailways submit financial information on the within 10 days of the time the company receives the order. The financial data should include figures on revenue, expenses and daily rider-

The company's revised application says the abandonments have been forced by the lack of revenues necessary for Trailways to "enjoy a reasonable rate of return" for its ser-

"It is the abandonment of that service by the citizens of the state of Kansas which has ultimately forced Trailways Lines Inc. to seek authority from this commission to discontinue certain routes of its existing service," the petition said.

Trailways proposes to drop all routes through Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Nebraska, South Dakota and Illinois.

A request Trailways filed June 30 to abandon its Wichita-to-Lincoln, Neb., route has been consolidated with the Aug. 29 petition to drop most of its other Kansas routes. An order the commission issued Tuesday granted a request by the city of Fort Scott to intervene in the case.

Cities that would lose all bus service as a result of the Trailways proposal are Alton, Arma, Atwood, Baxroutes proposed for abandonment ter Springs, Belleville, Beloit, Blue Rapids, Bucklin, Cawker City, Cedar Vale, Chetopa, Cimarron, Concordia, Cunningham, Downs, Fort Scott, Galena, Glasco, Greensburg, Haviland, Hesston.

Kingman, Lakin, Lindsborg, Louisburg, Marysville, Minneapolis, Moundridge, Overlin, Olathe, Osborne, Overland Park, Phillipsburg, Pleasanton, Randolph, St. Francis, Sedan, Stockton, Syracuse and Waterville.

Communities losing Trailways service but remaining on other bus routes are Abilene, Greyhound Lines; Caney, KG Lines Inc.; Coffeyville, KG Lines; Colby, Greyhound; Dodge City, Bickel Bus Line; Garden City, Oklahoma Transportation Co.; Goodland, Greyhound; Hays, Greyhound; Junction City, Greyhound; McPherson, Hutchinson Shuttle Service; Manhattan, Greyhound; Newton, Hutchinson Shuttle; Norton, Bickel; Oakley, Greyhound; Pittsburg, Viking Trailways; Pratt, Hutchinson Shuttle; Rossville, Greyhound; Russell, Greyhound; St. Marys, Greyhound; Salina, Greyhound; WaKeeney, Greyhound and Bickel; and Wamego, Greyhound.

Reagan to defend SDI plan at summit

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan intends to stand firm on his "Star Wars" plan and urge an 80 percent slash in Soviet nuclear missiles in Asia at his meeting with Mikhail S. Gorbachev in Iceland, an administration official said Wednes-

If the Soviet leader agrees to make concessions on the missiles, Reagan and Gorbachev probably will emerge from their session in Reykjavik this weekend with a framework for a treaty to sharply reduce U.S. and Soviet nuclear missiles in Europe, the official said.

Also, the president and the general secretary are likely to set a date for a

Washington in December, said the official, who demanded anonymity.

But Reagan does not intend to negotiate with Gorbachev about the U.S. Strategic Defense Initiative, known popularly as Star Wars, and he is not expected to make much headway with the Soviet leader toward reducing long-range U.S. and Soviet nuclear weapons.

The State Department advised the president to seek a compromise with Gorbachev on their views of the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty, the official said, but Reagan rejected the full-scale summit meeting in lessen chances of nuclear war. Gorbachev asked Reagan in a letter last month to promise to keep the treaty alive for up to 15 years.

The ABM treaty strictly limited U.S. and Soviet radar systems and other defenses against missiles, to

The Soviets contend the accord prohibited the testing and deployment on Star Wars nuclear and other futuristic devices in space. Reagan, on the other hand, proposed to Gorbachev in a letter in July that the two countries proceed with anti-missile defenses in 71/2 years.

The State Department saw a basis for a compromise between the two positions, but other U.S. agencies persuaded the president that the two stands were in conflict, the official Reagan met with his senior advisers Tuesday at the White House and reaffirmed his intention to ask Gorbachev for better treatment of dissidents and other Soviet citizens.

On arms control issues, the two sides appear to be closest on reducing their intermediate-range nuclear missiles

Reagan last month authorized U.S. negotiator Max M. Kampelman to seek an interim agreement providing deep reductions instead of eliminating the missiles entirely, as the president initially proposed.

Reagan will discuss with Gorbachev a potential agreement limiting each side to 200 warheads, with the Soviets held to 100 missiles in Europe and the other 100 in Asia, the official said.

Contest scholarships aid business students

By KELLI CARR Collegian Reporter

Three high-school seniors were the winners of a drawing conducted last spring during Open

The prizes were not a billion pencils, a million limited signature editions of campus maps or autographed photos of the Tap-a-Keg-a-Day club. The prizes were scholarships from the College of Business Administra-

Some students may have difficulty grasping the concept of receiving a scholarship without months of paper work or the GPA of Socrates. But the College of Business Administration had no problem with making a scholarship award as easy as writing a name and address on a slip of paper and putting it in a box for a random drawing.

Business Council members brainstormed, and the idea of a drawing for a scholarship at Open House came to mind to give a needed spark to the festivities of Open House. Fred Neuman, senior in finance and last year's College of Business Administration Open House chairman, said the idea from business council was to get incoming students involved in Open House and to be innovative in recruitment during Open House.

Neuman said business students wanted to give visiting students and their parents a reason to look a little closer at K-State and the business college.

Some of the eligibility requirements for the scholarship were: applicants had to be enrolled in high school as a junior or senior; applicants had to register in person in Calvin Hall on April 5, 1986; those registered didn't need to be present to win; applicants could only register once; all blanks on the entry had to be filled in to be considered eligible; winners of scholarships had to enroll in the business administration pre-professional program or the scholarship would be denied.

The scholarships were awarded as the names were drawn. The first and second names drawn received $100 awards each, and the third name drawn received the $500 award.

The winner of the $500 scholarship was Jacinda Zimmerman, a freshman from Ransom. She said she entered the drawing because she thought it was a great opportunity to get some extra money for college expenses.

"The money went directly toward my tuition for first semester, which was great," Zimmerman said.

She said receiving the scholarship helped her to sell her parents on K-State. She had planned on attending K-State all along, and the extra $500 made her choice definite.

The $100 award winners were Maureen Darrow, a freshman from Hutchinson, and Andy McIlvaine, a freshman from Manhat-

The College of Business Administration hopes to repeat the drawing again this year, Neuman said, providing funds are available. He also said other colleges showed interest in using this type of promotion for Open House

Education groups support amendment

By The Associated Press

MERRIAM - Two education groups that often find themselves at odds joined forces with Gov. John Carlin Wednesday to encourage voters to approve a proposed constitutional amendment that would classify property for tax purposes.

Spokesmen for Kansas-National Education Association and the Kansas Association of School Boards endorsed the property classification amendment during a news conference at the Johnson County

The proposed amendment will appear as constitutional question No. 3 on the Nov. 4 general election ballot. Carlin has embarked on a statewide

Tonite

watch baseball playoffs on Big Screen T.V.!

FRIDAY

T.G.I.F.

$2.50 pitchers

FirstBank Center

Denison & Claflin

539-9619

education campaign on the issue, which he admits is not well understood.

"The passage of this amendment in the November election will help protect the stability of funding for public education by preventing massive shifts in the property tax burden," Carlin said.

The classification amendment pasically would do away with the current constitutional requirement that property be taxed on a "uniform and equal" basis at 30 percent of its fair-market value.

Under terms of the amendment, three classes of property, taxed at rates of 30 percent, 20 percent or 12 percent, would be established. Commercial and industrial property

Tonite

$1.75 Pitchers

$1 Coolers

Tomorrow

Not The Glenn

Miller Band

Fri. Nite only

FREE T.G.I.F.

Set

FREE BBQ

would fall into the 30 percent bracket while residential property would be in the 12 percent category

Many pieces of property currently are assessed at a rate far below the 30 percent "uniform and equal" requirement. And officials say that without the amendment, all property would be assessed at 30 percent of fair-market value at the conclusion of statewide reappraisal in 1969.

The news conference was the third in a series in which Carlin is announcing endorsement of the classification amendment by farm, business, labor and education groups. The final one is next week in Topeka when the Kansas AFL-CIO will endorse the amendment. Previously, farm and business organizations have endorsed it.

Carlin has called the property classification amendment the most ignificant change to come before Kansas voters in 125 years of

Juli

Taco

Bar

4-7 p.m.

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

THURSDAY

Margarita

Madness

99¢

Margaritas

NEW HOURS-OPEN: 6 a.m. Mon.-Thurs. CLOSE: 1 a.m. Sun.-Wed.

OPEN ALL NIGHT THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Aggieville

ELECTRICAL AND COMPUTER ENGINEERING STUDENTS

Pre-Enrollment Advising Begins Monday, October 13 EECE Students should make an appointment NOW with Professor Hunt in Durland 263

Students who obtain pre-enrollment advising are given first priority at the time of pre-enrollment.

DONUT LOVERS DOZEN

TKE Powder-Puff All Star Game Thursday, Oct.9, 1986 8p.m.

All fraternities and sororities welcome

Griffith Park

1/2 Dozen Donuts

1/2 Dozen Donuts

1/2 Dozen Donuts

(with coupon)

OPEN:

Weekdays 11 a.m.-1 a.m. Weekends 11 a.m.-2 a.m. Sundays 11 a.m.-12 midnight

LUNCH TIME SPECIALS 11 a.m.-3 p.m. LUNCH TIME DELIVERY 11 a.m.-1 p.m. REGULAR DELIVERY STARTS AT 5 p.m.

Families of hostages eager for negotiation

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - The wife of hostage Thomas Sutherland, saying she understands both sides, offered Wednesday to mediate between the Reagan administration and Islamic Jihad for the release of her husband and two other kidnapped Americans.

Jean Sutherland said she believed the timing for negotiations was right because she "sensed a clear readiness by the two sides to discuss the demands and conditions" for the release of the captives.

In an Arabic-language statement, Jean Sutherland appealed to Islamic Jihad to contact her through a post office box or to call her at her home or at work at the American University of Beirut, where she teaches English.

"I am willing to act as a person to offer my good offices because I feel I know and can understand the positions and feelings of both parties," she said in her state-which it does seem to me at this point both sides are ready to have," she said.

Peggy Say, sister of hostage Terry A. Anderson, on Monday offered to go to Beirut to meet the kidnappers to find out with whom they wanted to negotiate.

There was no reported response to either offer from Islamic Jihad, the Shiite fundamentalist group that holds Sutherland, Anderson and a third American, David

The 53-year-old Jean Sutherland said she intended to return to the United States soon "and I feel that I am in a natural position to serve this dialogue.

"I am going to see anybody and everybody that is concerned with our case this time because I feel that it is very, very important. Timing is important," she said.

Thomas Sutherland, 55, of Fort

Collins, Colo., was dean of agriculture at the university when he was kidnapped June 9, 1985. Anderson, 38, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, was kidnapped March 16, "I am willing to do anything I 1985. Jacobsen, 55, director at the can to facilitate the dialogue American University Hospital, was abducted May 28, 1985.

Pilots can train to escape wind shears

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Pilots can be taught to recognize, avoid and possibly even escape from the deadly downdrafts that produce wind shear, the leading cause of airline crashes in the United States, a researcher said Wednesday.

In addition, as many as 100 American airports will be equipped in the next five years with a new radar system that has now been shown to give up to four minutes' warning of wind shears, said John McCarthy, who directs wind-shear avoidance research at the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder, Colo.

The combination of improved pilot

Enjoy smooth, creamy

Frozen Yogurt

that tastes like Ice Cream

but with 80% less fat!

-- FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's

YOGURT

Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

radar systems and other instruments could reduce the frequency of airline crashes to no more than one every 20 or 30 years, McCarthy said. He spoke at a press briefing sponsored by the Institute of Electrical and Electronic

The National Traffic Safety Board has ranked wind shear - a sudden shift in wind speed or direction, often accompanied by rain and thunderstorms - as the leading cause of death of airline passengers in the United States, McCarthy said.

The agency has said wind shear was responsible for 17 aircraft accidents in the past 15 years. Among them are the crash of a Delta flight on Aug. 2, 1985 near Dallas that Pan American flight in New Orleans on July 9, 1982, in which 154 people

McCarthy said that while plans are under way to install ground-based and cockpit-based wind-shear detection equipment, the quickest way to reduce the number of wind-shear accidents is through improved pilot training.

Pilots are traditionally warned to stay out of thunderstorms, which are notorious breeding grounds for wind shear, but McCarthy says pilots are not always following that admoni-

The decision to fly into a thunderstorm at the Dallas report was cited by the National Traffic claimed 133 lives, and the crash of a Safety Board as the most important of several contributing causes of the Dallas crash, McCarthy said.

One of the most important causes of wind shear is the so-called microburst, a downdraft that can appear, grow and disappear in 10 minutes, but which can result in wind-speed shifts of 50 miles an hour or more within seconds. "It isn't very fast, but it's enough to cause an airplane to crash," McCarthy said.

He said that pilots who unavoidably find themselves in a microburst have a 75 percent chance of recovering and escaping from it if they ignore standard procedures and raise the nose of the plane by as much as 15 degrees.

WHEN YOU BUY 1 AT REGULAR PRICE, YOUR SECOND IS ONLY 1 CENT

Offer good through 10/12/86 only at: One coupon per visit Piñata Restaurante 1219 Bluemont in Aggieville 539-3166

ANY and ALL MIXED DRINKS

(all brands, all drinks) 80¢ Draws ■ $1.00 Wine ALL DAY & ALL NIGHT!

AGGIE STATION RESTAURANT & BAR 1115 MORO • 776-0030

rentals for $15.

Hrs.: M-F 10-6, Th 10-8, Sat. 10-5

calenda

BOOKSTORE UNION YOUR WALL!

NIGHTLIFE

After darkness falls, activity continues

For many K-State students, class schedules and other commitments don't always conform to a 9-to-5 schedule.

A student's activities continue after the end of classes. There are many activities - like studying, playing or just relaxing - that can be done on or around campus after dark.

Every student must - at some point in his or her collegiate career - study, and many students choose to study during the evening.

Farrell Library is one gathering place for studious people. Jerry Miller, junior in architectural design, often studies in Room 315.

"I spend about two or three hours a day here. I live on the intensive study floor at Marlatt (Hall), but that doesn't mean a lot. This place has a good study atmosphere. I like the high ceiling and the cool air," he said.

But studying is not all students do at night. There are club meetings almost every evening and most clubs meet in the Union. The Big Eight Room and Room 212 offer large groups spacious meeting places. Jay Schroeder, senior in accounting, said the rooms are good meeting places.

"I'm in Beta Alpha Psi, a business fraternity, and we have about 100 members. The large rooms help us keep a formal procedure, which helps the meetings run smoother," he said.

Sometimes a formal setting is not the best. For instance, the Student Gerontology Club met at an Aggieville tavern.

Rather than the usual four-coldwalls setting, they discussed business while sipping beer and listening to mean Texas blues in the backround. Club President Aimee Reinhardt, senior in family life and human development, said the setting helps bring in people.

"We've done this before, and today we had a good showing. I'm sure this (the setting) didn't hurt," she said.

Students don't work all the time, and play time can be as beneficial as

Jim Rogers and Ed Hover, printing services employees, web up the press in the basement of Kedzie Hall, where the Collegian is printed. Working through the night the printing staff finishes as the new morning dawns.

study time. Once again, the Union is a popular evening meeting grounds.

The Union offers many recreational activities. There are movies in the Little Theatre and Forum Hall, as well as discussions over timely topics. In the basement there are billiards, television and video Bowling also seems to be popular, and it is not just for students. Sharon Pultz, a Manhattan resident, said it helps break the routine.

"I'm just subbing tonight. When a friend asked me to sit in, I thought, 'why not?' Normally, I just watch. TV. I think I may join a league," she Even former K-State basketball star and fraternity member Ed Nealy was there. But it wasn't Mr. Party or Mr. Basketball that brought some of the little sister hopefuls out.

Lana Palmquist, freshman in elementary education, liked the way the hosts treated the guests.

"I've been to five little sister parties, and these guys are the nicest. Rather than waiting for you to talk to them, they start conversation and make you feel right at home," she

Many people may be reluctant to go on campus at night. But K-State Police Lt. Robert Mellgren, the campus is relatively safe.

Jerry Miller, junior in architectural design, frequently studies in Room 315 at Farrell Library. He says the late evening hours, high ceiling and cool temperature make it easier to study.

students use the late hours to complete tasks they cannot fit in during the day.

Lights stay on in Goodnow Hall early into the morning Tuesday as students study for the next day's classes. Many LEFT: Bobbi Wallace, junior in journalism and mass communications, talks over a problem, with sorority sister Amy Heinrich, sophomore in advertising, on the steps of the Sigma Sigma Sigma house after Heinrich finished work at midnight. ABOVE: Security officer Forrest Walker rechecks the doors of buildings on the south side of campus after the student security personnel lock

Story by Chad L. Sanborn

Photos by Brett Hacker

Mets shut out in NL playoffs

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON (AP) - Mike Scott prevailed in the heralded Shootout at the K Corral with Dwight Gooden, equaling a playoff record with 14 strikeouts and throwing a five-hitter as the Houston Astros defeated the New York Mets 1-0 Wednesday night in the first game of the 1986 National League playoffs.

Glenn Davis' home run leading off the second inning was all Scott, who led the major leagues in strikeouts with 306, needed.

Gooden, the major-league strikeout leader the past two seasons, gave up seven hits and struck out five in seven innings while working in and out of trouble as the Astros wasted numerous scoring chances.

Game 2 of the best-of-seven series Thursday night will match Houston right-hander Nolan Ryan, 12-8, baseball's all-time strikeout leader. against left-hander Bob Ojeda, 18-5. The shutout was the first in the NL playoffs since Rick Sutcliffe and Warren Brusstar of Chicago combined to beat San Diego 13-0 in Game 1 of the 1984 series. The last individual shutout by an NL pitcher was Bob Forsch for St. Louis.

Danny Jackson of Kansas City pitched a 2-0 shutout in Game 5 of last year's American League playoffs against Toronto.

Scott became only the third NL pitcher to strike out 10 or more in a playoff game, the most recent being John Candelaria, who also struck out 14 against Cincinnati on Oct. 7, 1975 while with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Davis, who became only the second Astro to hit 30 or more homers in a season with 31 this year, hit a 1-0 pitch from Gooden to straightaway center field to lead off the second.

New York center fielder Lenny Dykstra was at the wall waiting, but there was no chance. It was over the fence with plenty to spare, and the Astros had the first league championship playoff homer of their

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - Bob Boone of the California Angels called it "probably the toughest day seeing I have ever played in."

Marty Barrett of the Boston Red Sox said that any ball that went up in the air got lost in the sun.

Everyone agreed that the high sky with a bright fall sun over Fenway Park played havoc Wednesday as Boston registered a 9-2 victory to even the American League playoff series at one victory each.

The Red Sox broke a 2-2 tie on Dwight Evans' gift double on a popup behind second base in the fifth inn-

"That was the key play," said Barrett, Boston's second baseman, who had three hits. "As soon as Evans popped it up, I knew it was trouble. Any ball hit in the air was tough, very tough. You saw it go up and you lost it in the sun, then caught it as it came out. By that time, you could have misjudged it."

"It was a very bright day and the time of day made it very tough - and it showed," Boone said of the 2 p.m. CDT start.

"It was a tough field," said Evans, who has become accustomed to such playing conditions as Boston's right fielder since 1972. "To see a pitcher lose a high hopper in the sun such as happened to (Kirk) McCaskill in the second is very rare. On fly balls to the outfield, you didn't know where they were going to end up because of the wind blowing from right to left."

Of his RBI double, Evans said, "I always try to run hard on a popup and this time it paid off."

He added he knew it was trouble when he saw second baseman Bobby Grich and shortstop Dick Schofield look at each other, then look up for

Boston starter and winner Bruce Hurst allowed 11 hits, including rookie Wally Joyner's first home run since Aug. 4, and joked about the vic-

"I pitched a nifty 11-hitter," Hurst said. "With all the things that were happening out there."

Stadium. Deckert finished second overall at the Kansas State Open meet the Midwest, but still feels she can do better.

Alysun Deckert streches out before practice Wednesday in Memorial two weeks ago at Warner Park against some of the stiffest competition in have."

Deckert assumes lead among harriers

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

It isn't hard to get lost in the shuffle when one is thrown into a pack of All-Americans.

So the story goes with women's cross country runner Alysun Deckert. A junior who graduated from Salina South High School, Deckert hasn't grabbed the headlines that have followed the collegiate careers of fellow teammates Jacque Struckhoff, Betsy Silzer, Anne Stadler and, more recently, Anneli Edling.

"It is hard," Deckert said, while stretching out for an afternoon run. "You come out of high school always being No. 1, then you hit college and everybody else has that same ability. It takes a lot of adjustment - especially mentally."

Until the Kansas State Open meet two weeks ago at Warner Park, Deckert was stuck in a rut the last two seasons in a way that matched the old cliche "close but no cigar."

Deckert constantly finished second or third among the Wildcat harriers but was never able to break the ice surrounding the victory stand.

That all changed in front of the home folks against some of the stiffest competition in the Midwest. Deckert garnered second-place overall honors on the new course layout at Warner Park and turned a few heads in the process.

"It was a really positive experience," Deckert said. "I think I can do better than that still. But getting second sounds good no matter how far back you are (from the first place runner)."

But Deckert didn't catch track and cross country coach John Capriotti by surprise with her second-place finish. He's said all season she was ready for a major breakthrough.

"I think it may have surprised a lot of people, but it didn't surprise me or Alysun," Capriotti said.

"I know how good Alysun can be and Alysun knows how good she can be. I have expected her to run this well all season. 'She has had injury problems in the past, but now I think she is coming into her own where she should be," he said. "I think you will see her continue to get better and bet-Capriotti recruited Deckert, as well as a host of other women run-he was an assistant coach under associate athletic director and former mentor Steve Miller. Miller, and now Capriotti, both believe in recruiting primarily ners currently on the team, when from within Kansas and then searching elsewhere for talent. 'When I was here I saw her run

(in high school) several times,"

'needed to have'' said she wants to help, or better yet lead, the women's cross country team to a Big Eight championship and a topfive national finish. "My expectations are still the Capriotti said. "She ran very well in high school but because she was from Kansas, I think a lot of people shied away from her. She was our top recruit that year, no doubt. She was the girl we felt we needed to

The girl K-State believed it same," Deckert said. "I have a tendency to set high goals sometimes and I'm just trying not to get ahead of myself now."

"I think every girl we have is vital and Alysun is equally vital (to the team's goals this year)," Capriotti said. "Every girl has to run well for us to have a chance. It will be interesting in the next month to see how she does."

Oklahoma, Longhorns scrimmage for 81st time at Dallas

By TOM MORRIS

Assistant Sports Editor One of the biggest college football rivalries takes place Saturday as Oklahoma, a 56-10 winner over K-State last week, faces the Texas Longhorns in Dallas.

The Sooners (3-1) are 3-5-2 in their last 10 games at the Cotton Bowl, and Texas (2-1) holds a commanding 47-29-4 lead in the series. The 81st meeting between the two schools will be carried live by ABC television. Kickoff is scheduled for 2:35 p.m.

K-State wide receiver Todd Elder, a Tulsa, Okla. native, knows about

"If you're not a Sooner fan down there, you're a communist," Elder

Five weeks into the collegiate football season and not one Big Eight running back averages more than 100 yards rushing per game.

Is the conference converting to a passing league? Could be. Thirtythree Big Eight defenders have at least one interception this season.

The Big Eight/Raycom network game of the week is Colorado (0-4) at Missouri (1-3). Kickoff is slated for 12:04 p.m. Saturday.

Oklahoma State's Cowboys (2-2)

ing an ESPN telecast Saturday with a 6:45 p.m. starting time - only the second night game in Memorial Stadium history.

In other conference action, Iowa State's Cyclones (3-1) are at Kansas (3-1). The Jayhawks-ISU game will give either winner their best start

Other statistics and comments from around the conference include the following.

From the records can be deceiving department: despite Nebraska's commanding 23-2-1 lead in its series against Oklahoma State, the meet Nebraska (4-0) at Lincoln dur- Cowboys have lost 14 of those games by 10 points or fewer - eight by four points or less.

Losing six offensive linemen to various injuries so far this season helps explain Colorado's 0-4 start.

"I don't think we're snakebit on the offensive line, it's just that these things sometime happen," coach Bill McCartney said. "You can't go around thinking you're snakebit. If you do, that's the negative way of looking at things."

Missouri has had the ball inside its opponent 20-yard line 14 times this season, and the Tigers have made the most of those opportunities by recording nine touchdowns and five field goals.

Iowa State coach Jim Criner on the importance of the win over Wyom-

"This was a big game...We're heading into Big Eight play with more momentum and confidence than we've ever had," he said.

It's anniversary time this weekend in Lawrence as Kansas' athletic department plans to honor members of the 1961 Bluebonnet Bowl championship team during its 25th anniversary season.

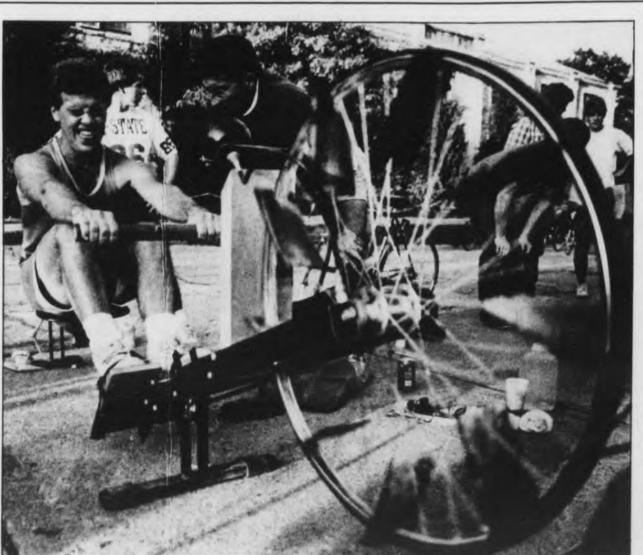

KU's only bowl victory came in the 1961 Bluebonnet Bowl game when the 47,751 to 46,308.

Jayhawks defeated Rice 33-7 in Houston.

Nebraska coach Tom Osborne said the 'Huskers narrow 27-24 defeat of South Carolina was a "good" game. "It was a good game for the fans and a good game for football. We may drop in the rankings but if you saw the game, you realize we played pretty well," Osborne said. "Down the road this will...help us more than a blowout would have.

Big Eight schools report 1986 average attendance figures that are more than 1,000 persons per-game ahead of last year's final tally -

Staff/Robert Squires

Rowing on

David Shepherd, senior in animal sciences and industry, pulls an ergometer raising money for the K-State Crew while Brent York, women's rowing coach, urges him on. The Crew raised more than $1,800 Wednesday.

One-game suspension given to Raiders' end

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Defensive end Greg Townsend of the Los Angeles Raiders was suspended for one game for three "flagrant" fouls committed against the Kansas City Chiefs, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle announced Wednesday.

"The one-game suspension, without pay, is effective for the Raiders' Oct. 12 game in Los Angeles against Seattle," Rozelle said in a statement.

Townsend can appeal the suspen-

Chiefs Coach John Mackovic on Tuesday showed films of the Chiefs-Raiders games to the media and said the Raiders were trying to hurt members of his team.

"Following a review of television and coaching tape, and film of the...game, I have today (Wednesday) notified defensive lineman Greg Townsend of the Raiders that he is being suspended for one game as a result of flagrant unsportsmanlike conduct he committed against three Kansas City players," Rozelle said in his statement.

"Specifically, the review revealed that Townsend, while Kansas City had possession of the ball during the second period of the game, committed the following acts:

"Pursued Kansas City guard Brad Budde and, at a point at least 15 yards from the ball carrier, struck Budde in the back. This unsportsmanlike act, undetected by the game officials, incited a general melee involving players of both

"Stomped on the uncovered head of Kansas City tackle David Lutz, who had lost his helmet during the melee and was in a prone position on the field.

"Grabbed the helmet facemask of Kansas City guard Mark Adickes, swung him forcibly and ultimately ripped the helmet from his head.

'All three of the above mentioned actions - particularly the last two, which involved the highly vulnerable head and neck areas - could have inflicted serious injury. None of this kind of behavior, provoked or unprovoked, can be tolerated in the NFL," Rozelle said. Adickes was later found to have a sprained neck that may keep him out of this week's game at Cleveland.

In the film shown by the Chiefs from the Raiders' fight-marred 24-17 victory, it appeared Budde was punched by Raiders defensive end Howie Long, who drew a 10-yard penalty. Los Angeles safety Vann McElroy was the only player ejected in Sunday's game, which the Raiders rallied from a 17-0 deficit.

"Brad played the rest of the game with a broken nose," Mackovic said. "We don't know for sure, but it's possible that David Lutz' knee injury may have been aggravated in the deliberately trying to maim his players, the Chiefs' coach said, 'Yes. No question about it."

Asked if Los Angeles was

A Raiders spokesman on Tuesday said the allegations were "utter nonsense.

Coach Tom Flores of the Los Angeles Raiders reacted angrily Wednesday to claims made by Kansas City Coach John Mackovic that members of his team tried to injure Chiefs' players last Sunday.

"We don't condone violence, we don't teach it, we never have, we never will," Flores said at his weekly breakfast meeting with reporters.

"We played Sunday's game at one point without six starters. Any time you play a game like that, you're going to have injuries. I could show you a lot of things in that game that went against us. On one play (Los Angeles tight end) Todd Christensen was wrestled to the ground and there was

New legislation could increase amount of money students can borrow

By MARTHA SCHAEFER Collegian Reporter

Thousands of University students use some type of financial assistance to get through college. The three most popular loans at K-State are Guaranteed Student Loans, National Direct Student Loans and Pell

During the 1985-86 academic year, including summer, 5,966 GSLs totaling $14,207,154 were given to students. The same year, 2,134 NDSLs were given. The total of these was $1,656,445, said Larry Viterna, director of student financial

To date, 3,841 GSLs totaling $8,877,063 have been given to students. The NDSLs are somewhat lower with 1,754 having been granted, totaling $1,634,185, Viterna said. Compared to last year, the loans have increased, he said.

GSLs and NDSLs are paid back after a student graduates, but a student receiving a Pell Grant is not responsible for repayment.

Because a Pell Grant does not have to be repaid, the maximum amount of money a student can receive is $2,100 per year. This amount varies depending on living situation and basic needs, Viterna said.

The U.S. House of Representatives and Senate have passed the Higher Education Reauthorization Act that would authorize $10.2 billion for higher education. If President Ronald Reagan signs the act, the amount of money a student will be able to borrow will increase. By 1992, a student may be able to receive up to $3,100 for tuition and living expences, Viterna said

He said he thinks these increases will begin by the 1988-89 school year. "Many students who were eligible for Pell Grants last year are not eligible this year," Viterna said. Pell funds were cut because of the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings act. These reductions were part of the reductions most federal programs

More students have applied for work-study because Pell funds are short this year. By next year this should not be a problem because full funds will again be available, he said. Congress is hoping to have a budget that meets the reduction deficit guidelines, and within this budget is full funding for the Pell Grant program. It will be decided later this month, Viterna said.

"GSLs and NDSLs have not been reduced to students at all this year," Viterna said.

The maximum amount of money an undergraduate can borrow annually is $2,500, at 8 percent interest. It does not have to be repaid until the student has been out of school for six to nine months.

Students may also take out an Emergency Student Loan, borrowing up to $200. Depending on the student's situation, he will be given 30 to 90 days to repay the loan, Viter-

There are certain situations that warrant more money to be borrowed, he said. If a student has not

HUNAM EXPRESS

1116 Moro 537-0886

(eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

received a financial aid check on time, tuition as well as some living expenses can be loaned. In situations such as these, a longer grace period may be given to the student if the loan cannot be repaid on time. Funding for ESLs comes from the state as well as the finance charges from previous loans. From Aug. 18 to Sept.15, $682,000 has been loaned to students for different reasons, Viterna said. Last year $451,000 had been loaned by Sept. 15, an increase of $231,000.

"We try to to make sure there is a need for the loan," he said. "You just don't walk in and get one."

T•N•T THURSDAYS Ladies Day 99¢ Margaritas

99¢ Fuzzy Navels 99¢ Tacos THURSDAYS

4-7 p.m.

418 Poyntz

IMPORT BEER NIGHT

50¢ off All Imports

> All Day THURSDAYS

HOME OF THE AROUND the WORLD BEER CLUB

Open at noon Sundays!

NCR

COMPUTER DISCOUNTS ™ 50%

on all microcomputer equipment and related accessories sold ONLY

- State College & University Students
- Faculty
- State Employees

complete systems as low as $1299

This special purchase program is being exclusively administered by Foresight Solutions, !nc. of Lawrence. Please call for a FREE PRODUCT BROCHURE.

(913) 842-7526

Lawrence, KS 66044

FREE FRAME

with the purchase of any pair of prescription lenses at our regular low discount price, you can choose ANY frame in stock and it's FREE! NO

LIMITATIONS on style selection or type of frame. We can fill your doctor's prescription. Facet cuts $75 additional.

This ad cannot be used in conjunction with any other optical promotion.

SALE ENDS: OCT. 11

Some Boutique Frames not included

We use the Highest Quality Lenses!

OPTICAL STUDIO

1210 MORO • 537-1574

Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

EXPOSE IF

TODAY: Off Campus, Goodnow,

Oct. 10: Off Campus, Haymaker

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment call

539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow

the Collegian for photo schedules.

Haymaker

Presents

Collegiate International Trade Association

DON WISSMAN

V.P. Development, Planning & Research, Assoc.

Oct. 9 7 p.m. Calvin 116 Open to all interested students.

Wash It In AGGIEVILLE

SPEEDWASH

75¢ Wash 25¢ Dry "Free Parking" Visit our back room.

> Open Sun.-Thurs. 24 Hours Daily Fri.-Sat.

4:30 a.m.-12 midnight 1118 Moro

Open 7 days a week

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

PRICE $11.50,$12.50

Available in the K-State Union Box Office and the Sound Shop in Aggieville.

For more ticket into or charge by Westate union 97fm phone call (913) 532-6589.

Do you want more from life than you've achieved?

Maybe you haven't had the chance to achieve success yet. Or perhaps you've tried, but haven't reached the goals you set for yourself, and need to get out of a rut and back on track. There's always room for improvement, whether you're interviewing for your first real job or running your own company.

Success and image, hand in hand.

Your image is one of the biggest factors influencing how far you'll get in life. How you come across to the people you meet every day can affect your achievements in business and elsewhere. Everyone knows the importance of first impressions. But are you really aware of the impression you give others, the image you project? It's not just the suit you wear. Your image is made up of everything from your self- confidence to your hairstyle to how physically fit you

Enhance your total image!

Discerning your current image, and making suggestions so you will come across in the best possible way, is what Total Image Workshops are all about. Through expert presentations, demonstrations and group participation, you will gain invaluable information that can take you from ordinary to extraordinary. Specific topics to be covered include: physical assessment and evaluation; dressing appropriately for both business and pleasure; wardrobe planning; shopping for investments in image; first impressions; communication skills; skin and hair care; color consultation; and more.

An invitation to success.

The Total Image Workshop, sponsored by Borck Brothers Fine Menswear, is coming to Manhattan this fall. WHEN: October 21, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. WHERE: Holiday Inn's Holidome, 530 Richards Drive COST: $125 for the day, including lunch. FOR MORE INFORMATION: Call 537-8636,

9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

If you are excited about the possibilities a better total image holds for you, fill out the form at right and mail to reserve a place now. Come on, open the door of success

Mail completed form and check to: Borck Brothers/Total Image Workshop P.O. Box 55 Manhattan, KS 66502

If you are graduating soon and about to up this opportunity!

launch into a career, you can't afford to pass for yourself!

Name Street State _ Telephone No.(___) Zip___

Support groups aid troubled farmers

By CHAD L. SANBORN Collegian Reporter

In the past when a farmer needed a barn, his neighbors helped him build it. A resurgance of that bond between a farmer and his neighbors is being seen in today's peer support groups

With the failing farm economy, farmers are faced with more and different kinds of stress than ever before, said Char Henton, counselor for Farmers Assistance Counseling and Training Services.

Henton said the problems may range from financial and legal questions to emotional problems. She and Charles Griffen, another same area. He is trying to set up a counselor at FACTS, work to bring distressed farmers together.

"Farmers tend to be proud people," Henton said. "They think they are the only ones having problems and they don't want their neighbors

"Often though, a farmer will call us on the (distress) hotline, and then later, a person who lives three or four miles away from him will call with much the same problem. Yet neither one realizes their friends are going through the same thing."

Griffen said his job is to connect farmers with other farmers in the statewide network to help support the groups. However, he feels the groups should be run without outside help.

"The groups need local leadership," Griffen said. "We can connect people and offer guidelines and advice, but the face-to-face emotional support of friends and neighbors is what makes the groups

Henton said the most successful peer group is in Scandia, located northwest of Manhattan. She said it started when two couples got together, without any outside help, and discussed their common problems. The group is now up to 20 members.

"The meetings are structured like (Alcoholics Anonymous) meetings," she said. "The discussions go no further than the

"Besides talking, they give other types of moral support. For instance, if a farmer's land is being auctioned off at the court house, they will go (to) the sale with him. They may not say anything, but they let the farmer know he has friends," Henton said.

However, Griffen said, there is no set structure for these groups.

Student Senate to hear bill on support of state lottery

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate will hear first readings tonight on bills concerning senate support of the state lottery, liquor by the drink and pari-mutuel betting in Kansas.

The State and Community Affairs Committee members, sponsors of all three bills, are proposing the legislation in order to endorse student opinion on these issues. The committee based student opinion on a poll published by The Collegian on Sept.

The poll showed that 76 percent of the students support the state lottery, 68 percent support liquor by the drink and 70 percent support pari-

The members of the committee believe liquor by the drink and a state lottery would greatly increase revenue for the state and parimutuel betting would enhance tourism, also increasing state Senate will also hear a first reading on revisions for the Engineering Student Council Constitution and By-Laws. The revision includes three new articles concerning the Kansas State Engineer editor and staff selection process, and requirements for ratification and amendment of the constitution.

Senate will meets a 7 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room.

A CAN FOR

ALL REASONS Filled with Freshly flavored or plain POPCORN

We Make It Here-Just For You! THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

1314B Westloop • 537-7079

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE THURSDAY $2 Pitchers Drinks

50¢ Draws

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Forthefunolit! thefunolit! 7 🔊 PUTT-PUTT 🥔 torthefunofit across from Wal-Mart

Forthefunofit Forthefun

TANNING SESSIONS No Purchase Limit 519 N. 12th Offer Ends Oct. 14 (Next to Domino's)

SGA

YOU ARE INVITED TO THE DEDICATION OF "STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT"

by Eric J. Bransby A mural commissioned by students to commemorate their efforts to preserve Nichols Hall.

2 p.m., Friday, October 10, 1986 Nichols Hall Atrium

SGA

LIVING ETHICAL WILLS

Union State Room #3 12:00 Noon TODAY

This series gives an excellent opportunity to receive the "bequest" of a campus leader, in terms of what she/he hopes to leave humanity as guiding principles for life.

> Laverne Lindsey Assistant Provost

The K-State Union Bookstore

Come In And Check Us Out!

REGISTER NOW!

YOU CAN REGISTER TO VOTE IN THE S.G.S. OFFICE IN THE UNION

FROM 8a.m.-5p.m. MONDAY-FRIDAY.

DEADLINE: OCT. 14

YOUR VOTE IS YOUR VOICE

Presents Gib Cunningham "Creating Floral Designs"

Retail Floriculture Club

Monday, Oct. 13, 7 p.m. Waters 244 Door Prizes to be Given.

Thursday, October 9, 1986

k-state union upc feature films

a movie that pulsates with dramatic urgency." William Wolf. GANNETT NEWS SERVICE

Did Agnes, a child-like nun, strangle her baby, a baby she doesn't even remember conceiving or giving birth to? Jane Fonda stars as the psychiatrist appointed to determine whether Agnes is competent to stand trial. Also stars Meg Tilly and Anne Bancroft.

Tomorrow and Saturday, 7 and 9:30 p.m., all shows in Forum Hall.

$1.75; KSU ID required; Rated PG-13

The year is 2024... a future you'll probably live to see.

a boy and his dog an R rated, rather kinky tale of survival

Miami Vice's Don Johnson stars in a bizzare but comical story of survival in the year 2024. This offbeat tale traces the exploits of Vic and his canine companion, Blood, in a post-atomic wilderness.

Tomorrow and Saturday, 12 midnight, Forum Hall. $1.75; KSU ID required; Rated R.

k-state union upc feature films

listic and engrossing portrayal of academic life. Timothy Bottoms stars as a first-year Harvard law student who strives to maintain his all important GPA in the competitive grind, while holding on to his personal

Today, 3:30 p.m. in Little Theatre, 7:30 p.m. in Forum Hall, $1.75; KSU ID required; Rated PG.

K-state union

LET THYSELF GO

GENTLEMEN PREFER BLONDES

Two showgirls embark for France seeking rich husbands in this musical featuring "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Saturday, 2 p.m. in Little Theatre, and Sunday, 2 and 7 p.m. In the Little Theatre. Stars Marilyn Monroe!

Easy Rider is the film that began the New Hollywood Revolution. It is an American odyssey - the story of two men who set out to discover their place in it Stars Jack Nicholson, Peter Fonda and Dennis Hopper. (Shows first on Tuesday night)

k-state union

Roman Polanski's CHINA-TOWN, set in Southern California in the 1930's reverberates with the subtle eroticism of the love affair between Jack Nicholson as the small-time shamus and Faye Dunaway as All shows in Forum Hall, 7 p.m. his big-time client. (Shows first

Jack Nicholson Double Feature

Monday, Oct. 13, and Tuesday, Oct. 14. $1.75; KSU ID required; Both shows Rated R.

Attorneys question witness' credibility

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Defense attorneys on Wednesday attacked the credibility of the expert witness for a group which claims Topeka schools were never integrated despite a landmark U.S. Supreme Court ruling in 1954 which abolished racial segregation in public schools.

Gary Sebelius, lead attorney for the Topeka Board of Education, criticized the standards the expert, William Lamson of Jackson, Miss., used in identifying schools as having racially disproportionate minority populations and said Lamson created a "rule of thumb standard to fit his preconceived notion that Topeka schools are segregated."

"You had trouble with this case, didn't you?" Sebelius asked Lamson during cross examination. "You couldn't find any reasonable scale to prove Topeka schools were racially identifiable so you created your own rule of thumb standard. That's because there is no appropriate measure for defining a racially identifiable school."

Sebelius also produced documents he said proved Lamson conferred with American Civil Liberties Union attorney Chris Hansen, who is directing the case for the plaintiffs, to ensure his expert report corresponded with Hansen's case.

In addition, Sebelius charged Lamson eliminated from his report charts and information which showed the school district had implemented a desegregation plan in 1956 which resulted in a "wide dispersion of black students" into previously white Topeka schools. According to one chart Lamson omitted, 60 percent of the black students in the district were dispersed across the district.

Lamson also was questioned about his billing of the ACLU and the fact he's performed about $70,000 worth of work for Hansen but has only been paid some $20,000. Sebelius implied the expert had a vested interest in the outcome of the case because it might determine whether or not he was paid the $50,000 balance.

Lamson and Hansen defended themselves against each charge. Lamson stood behind his analysis and said he did not have any "preconceived notions" about the conclusions he would reach prior to studying the history and data of the

Hansen said there was nothing wrong with sharing his case strategy with Lamson and said he simply admitted and explored by defense at-"screwed up" by allowing the defense to get its hands on a sensitive

The action came in the third day of the reopened Brown vs. Topeka Board of Education school desegregation case being heard in U.S. District Court by Judge Richard D. Rogers.

Sebelius said Hansen may have prejudiced the Lamson's work by sharing with him private workpapers and strategy proposals of the legal team.

In September 1984, Hansen sent an eight page "co-counsel memorandum" to Lamson, a demographics expert hired by the ACLU to prove Topeka schools remain segregated. In the memo, Hansen outlined to other attorneys and Lamson his strategy for proving Topeka schools remain segregated.

The memo was in Lamson's possession at the time he was writing his 240-page analysis of the Topeka school district's actions over the past 35 years. Hansen objected strenuously to its use in court, saying it was inadvertantly mailed to Lamson, who added he did not rely on it when writing his report.

However, Rogers allowed it to be torneys.

Sebelius made the memo the cornerstone of his campaign to destroy Lamson's credibility as an expert witness in the case. In his cross examination of Lamson, Sebelius said Lamson's final report was influenced by the memo and Hansen's need to provide evidence to support certain arguments laid out in the memo.

The memo is significant because Lamson has attempted to prove the school board intentionally circumvented the Supreme Court by reestablishing a dual school system in the city after 1954. Lamson was hired to prove Topeka never integrated its schools despite the Supreme Court mandate.

Lamson has said that rather than integrate Topeka schools, the school board created an all-white district on the city's west side and actually "sent signals" and provided white residents time to move out of attendance areas in the center city which were "blackening."

Sebelius also tried to cast doubt on Lamson's credibility by pointing out that the expert sent every page of the report to the ACLU's New York offices to be typed and proofed before the final draft was prepared.

Congress to propose railroad disclosures

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Congressional negotiators have agreed to a proposal that a Kansas lawmaker says could help small grain shippers obtain more favorable contracts with railroads.

The proposal by Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., and Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., would require the Interstate Commerce Commission to disclose the main provisions of a railroad's grain shipping contracts.

Kassebaum said Wednesday the information would help shippers, particularly small grain elevator operators, to determine if they have been treated unfairly in negotiations with a railroad.

The legislation is to address complaints by small elevator operators that they are unable to determine whether a railroad is discriminating against them and providing a more favorable deal to a neighboring or competing reduction package.

An aide to Kassebaum said that current contract disclosure requirements by the ICC do not even provide enough information to clearly identify shippers.

"Finally, information which is essential to filing an unfair competition or discrimination challenge will be available,"

Kassebaum said in a statement. Under a 1980 railroad deregulation law, a shipper can challenge a contract before the ICC and force a railroad to grant them the same favorable terms if they have been discriminated against.

"In six years not one shipper has been able to successfully negotiate the obstacle course established by the commission," Kassebaum said.

The contract disclosure proposal was approved by a joint conference committee as it resolved differences between the House and Senate on transportation issues included in a large deficit-

lassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publi-

Bloom County

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

QUIETLY. THE INTREPID REPORT

ER AND HIS ARMED ASSISTANT

LIE IN WAIT FOR THEIR ELUSIVE

PREY: THE FABLED BASSELOPE

Garfield

Peanuts

HERE'S THE WORLD WAR I

FLYING ACE READING A

SWEETHEART BACK HOME

LETTER FROM HIS

for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad. found ON CAMPUS can be advertised

FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555. Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SUDDENLY, THEY SPY THE

THE THICK WOODS! THE

CHASE IS ON !!

RARE ANIMAL SCURRYING DEEP INTO THE INKY DARKNESS OF

DEAR EX-BOYFRIEND

I AM GOING TO MARRY

YOUR COUSIN...JUST THOUGHT

DOWN

only

2 "I Only

You"

3 Mimic

4 Leader

of the

Hermits

5 Southern

6 Harem

blossom

chamber

8 Chemical

Eyes for

1 For men

YOU'D LIKE TO KNOW ...

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52)

NEW OIL controlling skin conditioner especially for oily skin. Mary Kay Cosmetics, Janet Milliken, 539-9469. (27-36)

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

FREE-CREDIT for Juniors and Seniors. Union Table, October 8-10, 8:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. by Sears and KSU Marching Band. (32-34)

BUYING OR selling a car, truck, motorcycle, RV, boat, trailer? See Wheel 'n' Deal, Blue Hills Shop-ping Center, Saturdays, 8 a.m. Parking spot, window sticker, area advertising, $10. Manhattan Emergency Shelter, 537-3113. (32-33)

ATTENTION

RECKLESSLY THEY TEAR THROUGH

THE THORNS AND POISON IVY!

UPON THE BUCKING, SNORTING,

AND TOGETHER THEY LEAP

SPITTING BEAST !.

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage clott ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

FEEL

PARTICULARLY

COMPELLED TO

KEEP UP WITH

THIS STORY ?

By Berke Breathed

May re

By Jim Davis

JPM PAV95 10-9

By Charles Schulz

P.S. 600D LUCK

IN THE WAR

FANGS GLISTEN! BLOOD FLOWS!

PAYING TOO much for medical insurance? Not sure? Get a quote. Call Molly Pennington Myers, 776-

Hayes House of Music DOD Guitar Effects 30% OFF

327 Poyntz 776-7983

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

FOR RENT-APTS TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Putnam Hall, 1308 N. Manhattan, $195, Call 539-7521 or 776-7045. (30-36)

FOR RENT: Newly re-decorated room for male. Furnished, close. $110 plus gas/electric, six month lease. Deposit. 537-9693. (32-34)

FOR RENT: Room for female. Furnished, close to campus. $115 plus gas/electric, six month lease. Deposit, 537-9693. (32-34)

FOR SALE—AUTO

1974 VOLKSWAGEN Super Beetle. Runs great. New front end, brakes. $1200 or best offer. 539-4855. (30-1975 VW Rabbit, $700 or best offer 539-5716 (8-10

1982 CAMERO, V-8, 55,000 miles, good condition

$5,000 or best offer. 537-1534, ask for Wayne or Buzz. (31-34) 1966 CHEVY Van-1973 motor, many new parts $1,700 or best offer. 539-0104 or 539-2637. (32-36)

1978 DATSUN-Excellent, new tires, brakes, engine tuned-up, AM/FM. Call 537-8799 after 5:30 p.m. (32-1972 PLYMOUTH Duster, six-cylinder, air conditioning, power steering. Excellent school car, $795. Call 1-468-3535. (33-35)

1978 T-BIRD—Blue, power steering, power brakes, stereo, very clean Call 539-9044, ask for Kendall (33-37)

1982 THUNDERBIRD, one owner, $3,900. Call 537. 4272 or 539-9512. (33-35)

1971 VW Station Wagon—automatic, dependable $875. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (33tf)

FOR SALE-MISC

ATARI 800XL, 1050 drive, software, $300. Casio MT-68 electronic keyboard, $75. Radio Shack PC-2 1K pocket computer, $75. Call 532-5136. (31-35)

ALPINE 7374, 5900, 3317, 8101, Harman Kardon CA260, CA240. Hatchback box speaker. Best equipment available. Reasonable offers. Robert. 537-4347. (32-36)

AMDEK 310A graphics monitor, $70. Call Sara, 532 5712; after 5 p.m., 539-7616, (32-34)

BICYCLES: MEN'S 10-speed; women's three-speed with double rack; 21 inch girls high rise (2). 776-4142. (32-34)

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 69¢ 1/4 Hamburger

Exp. Date 10/12

537-3335

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword 42 Defeats

ACROSS 45 Punched 1 One-time Mideast 49 Tennis ruler 5 Crowd 8 " ... - a man 50 Actor with seven

star

Arthur

Ayres

cerned

Gardner

school

along

52 Be conwives 12 Sticky 53 Do in stuff 13 Fruit 54 Actress cooler

14 Rescue 55 Brit's 15 State 16 Guy's date 56 Pulls 17 Pizzeria fixture

20 Wail 22 Fuss 23 Part of MPG 24 Forest plant

27 Poem type 32 Actress MacGraw 33 Pig - poke 34 OSS suc cessor 35 Zigzag braiding 38 Revue piece

39 Piano piece? 40 Self

57 Inlet 18 Hamburger, 58 Ending for 9 Wild one 10 Flat head or 11 Big top back Solution time: 27 mins. 46 Allie's roomie 47 Cupid 48 Fender 51 Braun Yesterday's answer or Gabor

BEST REGARDS, YOUR

EX-SWEETHEART

abbr. 29 Steps 7 Phone part 30 102, Romanstyle compound 31 Krazy of comics 36 Author Ken et al.

19 Madison

storm follower

25 Whitney or

Wallach

transport

21 Tarzan

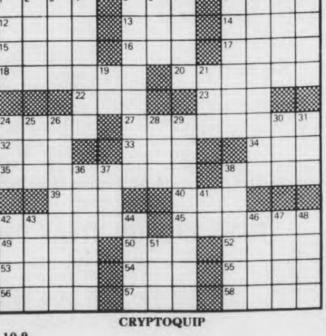

24 Distant

26 Eastern

28 Company

Ave. brain-

37 Bread choice 38 World Cup 41 Oriental 43 European 10-9

UXHSU NMB DBRSQ ZBUWM-

SXLW TUBD LNSQSZ HUBLLSQ

WMS VXRGLM TGZZGLM VGZS Yesterday's Cryptoquip: ARE TOO-SINCERE FANS OF NIGHT FISHING FIN-ATICS?

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Z equals N

SINGER SLANT-O-Matic sewing machine. Call 776-5243 after 6 p.m. (32-34) PRAIRIE HAY, $1.50 per bale, will deliver. Call Doug.

532-6767 or Wamego. 1-456-7491. (33-37) KRAMER GUITAR with Red Strat body and Floyd Rose frem, $350 negotiable. Peavey MX 130 watt guitar amp. $250. Boss headphone guitar amp, like new, one year old, $100. Call 537-8198. (33-35) FOR SALE: Baby ferrets, seven weeks old. Call 776-

COMPUTER—APPLE II/C—Fully equipped and in excellent condition. Reasonably priced. Call Melissa at 532-6799 from 8-11 a.m. (only). (33-35)

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08 MUST SELL now! Two bedroom, one bath mobile home. Ideal for college student or new family. Appliances, washer/dryer hookups, outdoor storage and patio deck. 539-7729. (31-34)

1983 YAMAHA 550XT-Great shape, 1,600 miles 539-7527, ask for Jody. (32-34)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

FREE NEUTERED, DE-CLAWED, orange and brown calico cat, full grown. Call 776-2333 or 539-2546. (31-33)

GARAGE SALES

FOUR-FAMILY. 1528 University Drive, Friday 4-7 p.m., Saturday 8 a.m.-1 p.m.; Bar stools, Singer sewing machine, baby clothes, clothing, antiques kitchen items, toys (33-34)

HELP WANTED

3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring, Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (26-64)

South America, Australia, Asia, All fields, $900-2,000 month, Sightseeing, Free Information, Write IJC, PO. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA,

HELP WANTED

Kitchen and Cashier Help Management Positions Available (Preferably food & science majors)

Apply at store or call 539-3304 Cafe Latino

PART-TIME grill help needed at Kites, 619 North 12th See Bill Jackson. (29-33)

LAB ASSISTANTS for Pathology Laboratory. Parttime, 1-6 p.m. and full-time 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Send qualifications to Peterson Clinical Laboratory. P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, Ks. 66502, EOE. (31-37)

HAVE BASIC carpentry skills? Want to trade rent for work? Call Larry, 537-4648, (33-35) Cashier and Grill Cook Four to Five Days a Week. Grill Experience preferred.

Call Eddy, 537-3335 for interview. WORK STUDY student secretary. Accurate typing.

clerical skills. Learn word processing, database programs. $3.50 plus depending on experience. See/call Parn, Center for Aging, Fairchild #1, 532-

LOST

MEN'S BLUE Seiko watch, left in McCain's 2nd floor men's restroom Saturday, October 4. Sentimental value. Please return. Call 539-4397 or return to Mc-Cain Music Office (31-34) A THREEFOLD, brown billfold with a velcro latch lost in vicinity of Cardwell and Durland Half. Call 532-3615. (31-33) BLUE CHECKBOOK on campus last Tuesday, September 30. Please call James if found, 539-2074 NOTICES 15

TIRED OF bingeing? Free seminar on Will Power and Weight Control, 9 a.m.-noon, Saturday, October 11th—All Seasons Motel. What have you got to lose? (33-34) JOIN THE

Irresistible Force: The Kansas Army National Guard needs

you! If you're a High School Junior, Senior, or Grad. between the ages of 17 and 35, you can become part of the IRRESISTIBLE FORCE *$2,000 Cash Bonus

*$5,040 New G.I. Bill *$10,000 Student Loan Repayment Program *$20,000 Health Profession Loan

Repayment Program

*And Earn Over $1,200 per year Part-Time For Information Call:

SFC Don Hash (913)537-4108 day (913)537-2478 night

PERSONAL

LESLIE-REMEMBER the racquetball game last Sunday. Meet me on the court every Sunday night or in the Union around 11. Lee. (31-33)

DEWEY AND Stevens-Sorry we missed our rendezyous Monday night, but we were having a few wine coolers at Comedy Invasion, and got home too late. - B&J. (33) forgotten our favorite neighbors. Thanks for your contribution! Love-the AD Pi's. (33) SKYDIVERS KAREN, Ed. Brandt and Mike-We're behind you training for national competition. The Parachute Club.(33-34)

TKE BEEF-We've made some bets you've won but few, and you those Mets are gonna come thru Can't wait for the weekend it'll be a blast, 'cuz each time spent together is better than the last. Happy

DELT LARRY McAffee: Tonight's the night, we'll have some fun; as a pledge son you rate number one Love, your pledge mom. (33) appear-go to Dark Horse for your free beer Next clue there. (33) WOMEN OF DDD-It started with talk, it started with drink, we got together and started to think. First in Homecoming sounded great, together we can only

LIKE TO share modern, bright, spacious three bed room apartment near campus with one or two roommates (male or female). Prefer single, non smokers with communal living experience. Call Theo, 532-6387, 539-6972. (31-34)

17

dryer, microwave, dishwasher, and storage. In quiet neighborhood, $133.33 per month plus one third utilities. Call Suzie at 532.6436; after 5 p.m. 539-9293 (31-34) to put a horse. $150 plus one-third utilities, 539-5105. (32-34)

nished, fireplace and dishwasher. In quiet neighborhood. Call 537-9439. (33-37)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preq nancy test. Confidential Call 537-9180 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25 (1tf)

ROSS CUSTOM SECRETARIAL

TERM PAPERS THESES

DISSERTATIONS RESUMES (with cover letters)

Come see us at 614 N. 12th (across from Kite's) for your work to be done in a professional manner, quickly. We take pride in our work! We look forward to our association with the University

> Tel: 539-5147 Lee Ross, Owner

AUTO REPAIR - Low overhead brings savings to you Oil and lube, tune up, brakes and other miscellane ous repairs. 539-6552. (29-33) FREE SET of spark plugs with a tune-up on you port car at J & L Auto Service. Call 1-494-2388, St. George (offer ends October 15, 1986) (29-37) NEED ODD jobs done? We'll do them for you! Hard workers, low prices. Call 539-9701, ask for Taylor (30-34)

Make a Saturday Memory

LaRide Limousine Service 539-7926

with

(20% off with your Campus Directory coupon!)

WORD PROCESSING using software which includes spelling checker. Reasonable rates. Call 539-8633, ask for Curt. (31-34) WORKING ON a paper? Word processing, reason able rates. Laura, 532-2362, room 131. Call for info

mation. (33-37) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, disserta-

tions, manuscripts, term papers, (33-35)

PHI DELTS: Please forgive our mistake. We haven't

DTD MARSHAL: Today is the day your mom will be first rate. Again last night we had a lot of fun, Tr Delt and ATO can only be number one. Get psyched! The Men of ATO. (33)

ROOMMATE WANTED

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted: Mature, responsible. non-smoker for three bedroom duplex, washer

MALE ROOMMATE ten blocks from campus. Place

ROOMMATE WANTED: Responsible, non-smoker for nice two bedroom apartment, completely fur-

ROOM FOR rent in two bedroom at 238 Westwood yard/parking, $145/month plus utilities. Quiet neighborhood (33-37)

SERVICES

MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free. Clinically tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Pro-ckish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246 (27tf)

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

SERVICE

FACULTY MANUSCRIPTS

community.

Washington prosecutor charges white supremacists in bombings

By The Associated Press

SPOKANE, Wash. - A second and third man, both tied to a white supremacist group, were charged Wednesday in a series of recent bombings in the northern Idaho resort of Coeur d'Alene.

Kootenai County, Idaho, prosecutor Glenn Walker charged David Dorr, 35, and Edward Hawley, 22, with three counts each of bombing a building and one of attempted bombing. Conviction on all four counts would carry up to a 70-year prison sentence.

The charges stem from the Sept. 15 bombing of a priest's home, two Sept. 29 explosions in the heart of Coeur d'Alene and the planting of another bomb that failed to go off. Another blast caused no damage and no charge was filed in connection with that explosion.

bombings. Robert Pires, 22, was arrested on the same charges Monday. He has been held in an undisclosed location since he volunteered to help authorities late last week, the FBI has said.

Dorr, Hawley and Hawley's wife, 26-year-old Olive, were arrested last Thursday night on federal counterfeiting charges.

539-TAME or 539-8601

Arts and Sciences senator resigns

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate lost one of its Arts and Sciences senators last Thursday when Kevin Eickmann, senior in in formation systems, resigned. Eickmann said he enjoyed senate, but this year his schedule kept him too busy, and senate took up valuable

"I've been busy this year and taken on too much. I'm trying to make ends meet," he said. "I knew I had to quit something sometime or other, and I didn't want it to be school."

This year, Eickmann said many of his classes involve work outside of class, and he works about three nights a week. Senate meetings always seemed to fall on nights when he had a lot of things to do, he said.

Special

This was Eickmann's second term as an Arts and Sciences senator. The Arts and Sciences Council will replace his position before the February elections, he said.

Eickmann said he wanted to be an Arts and Sciences senator because he wanted to be more involved in the University, and he felt senate was a good way to accomplish this. He was involved in student government in high school and enjoyed it, so he decided to get involved at the college level.

He found his position as senator to be interesting and exciting.

"You learn how the University works, and what goes on. It's enjoyable to know that you have a say in what's going on," Eickmann said.

The only part of senate he said he wouldn't miss were the long meetings, which would sometimes last from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m.

"I felt bad stepping down now with the athletic fee coming up because I have strong feelings about that," Eickmann said. "That's one of my

CLIP, KEEP & SAVE

Save with Style Gals Perms Reg. Price Feels so Lively . . $30 Apple Pectin . . . $38 $28 Warm & Gentle . . $45 Guys Perms Body All perms include cut and style FREE can of mousse with perm any size Gourmet White Popcorn -limit one per person-(offer expires Oct. 16, 1986) Mon.-Sat. 11-11, KORNPOPPER Sun. Noon-11

For large quantity orders phone 539-3336

Celebrate Octoberfest With

50% OFF

539-3830

12 inch pizzas 2 toppings on each 1 FREE quart of Pepsi

ONLY $12.25

Coupon not good with any other special. No expiration date.

THURSDAY IS T.G.I.T. Pitchers!! FREE HOUR OF POOL

404 Humboldt

(good for one person & one coupon/visit) Expires 10/16/86

1125 Laramie Plaza Upstairs

776-6338

50¢ off small pizza $1.00 off medium pizza $2.00 off large pizza $3.49 Buffet Daily

11 a.m.-Midnight 7 days a week

Expires 10-16-86 FREE DELIVERY

1800 Claflin FirstBank Center 776-0004

kinko's

Great copies. Great people.

10 FREE COPIES

81/2 x 11, 20 lb. White Limit 1 coupon per visit

Exp. Date 10/16/86 Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 7:30-Midnight

Fri. 7:30-7, Sat. 9-5

Sun. 10-Midnight

1110 Laramie 537-7340 Crimper's Hair Design Studio

613 N. Manhattan 539-7621

Jim offers a 20% Discount with this coupon

on any Perm, Haircolor or Highlight Offer Expires Dec. 12, 1986

> Effective October 1st Merry Christmas Early

Lords 'n Ladys Hair Design & Skin Care

Haircuts $9—Reg. $13 Perms $35 to $40 Includes haircut and style

Call for your appointment now 776-5651 Offer expires December 25, 1986 A (ut Above

Upstairs 1st Bank Center Denison & Claflin 537-3200

Fri. & Sat. 9-5 Sundays 1-5

Back to School Special Haircut & Style $9.00

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK

with the purchase of any sub

12th & Moro-Aggieville expires 10/15/86 with this coupon only

void with other offers

with this ad Expires Oct. 15, 1986

SPECIAL!

10 sessions for $25 Expires 10/15/86 FirstBank Center

Second Level Denison & Claflin

537-0744

Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 8am.-Midnight Fri. & Sat. 8a.m.-8p.m. Sun. 1p.m.-10p.m.

> Buy one Chimichanga and get the 2nd one FREE

Cafe Latino

606 N. 12th Aggieville

Open Daily 11 a.m.-LATE Expires: 10/16/86

ARMCO APPLIANCE VIDEO RENTALS Free membership and no deposit

Rent 1 tape at $1.50 and get the 2nd one FREE

(with coupon only) Exp. Date 10/16/86

1122 Laramie St. Handi Corner in Aggieville

539-8786

Celebrate Octoberfest with a Delicious New Frozen Yogurt Treat!!

Our frozen yogurt has one-fifth the fat and one-half the calories of ice cream! FREE SAMPLES every time you come in.

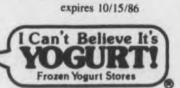

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt Announces

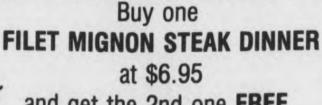

Bring this coupon in to receive 50% off any Softie

Cookiewich available in a variety of frozen yogurt flavors and cookie combinations. Limit one per customer.

705 N. 11th Nautilus Towers Open: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Sunday and get the 2nd one FREE (offer expires 10/15/86)

FirstBank Center-Upstairs Claffin & Denison

Hours: M-Th 6:30 a.m.-1 a.m. F-Sat. 6:30 a.m.-2 a.m. Sun. 7:30 a.m.-Midnight

Buy A Chicken Sandwich GET A

WHOPPER JR. FREE

Expires 10/16/86

Topeka KS

State Forecaster

Jarvin Emerson is the head of the Department of Economics and also serves as one of the Kansas' economic advisers. See Page 3.

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy today, high in low 60s. Wind southeasterly 10 to 15 mph. Cloudy Saturday with a 60 percent chance of rain.

Sports

Minors' Umpire

James Friedrichs has been a minor league baseball umpire for three years and officiates other sports in the off-season. See Page 7.

56612

Kansas State

Friday October 10, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 34

Students

Plane crash survivor reveals work for CIA

By The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua - An American captured after a Contra weapons supply plane was shot down over Nicaragua said Thursday he worked with CIA employees and took part in 10 such flights from Honduras and El Salvador.

Eugene Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., said in a nationally broadcast news conference that four of the flights were made from Aguacate air base in Honduras and six from Ilopango air base in El Salvador.

"We would be flying into Honduras ... and we would be loading up on small arms and ammunition and this would be flown to Nicaragua," he said. "These we would drop to the Hasenfus said 24 to 26 "company people" assisted the program in El Salvador, including flight crews, maintenance crews and "two Cuban nationalized Americans that worked for the CIA." Hasenfus identified the Cuban-Americans as Max Gomez and Ramon Medina.

Hasenfus said he was offered the job in June by William J. Cooper, identified as the pilot of the aircraft. Cooper was one of three people killed when the aircraft was shot down Sunday by a surface-to-air missile and crashed in southern Nicaragua.

Nicaraguan officials have claimed the supply operation was part of a CIA effort to help the Contras, who have been fighting for 41/2 years to overthrow the leftist Sandinista government. Under restrictions imposed by Congress, the CIA may not aid the Contras.

CIA spokeswoman Kathy Pherson said the agency could only respond to Hasenfus' remarks by repeating its earlier denials of involvement.

President Reagan and other U.S. officials also have denied that the plane or its crew had ties to the U.S. government

Hasenfus said he was told he would be paid $3,000 per month plus housing, transportation and expenses for working with the air crews. He said he was employed by Corporate Air Services, which has the same Miami address as Southern Air Transport, formerly owned by the Hasenfus said he left the Marines in 1965 and then "took an employment with a company called Air America. This company worked in Southeast Asia."

Air America was one of the CIA airlines during the Vietnam War.

He said he stopped working for Air America in 1973 and returned to the United States.

Hasenfus said Cooper was a former pilot with Air America. Nicaraguan officials have said they found a Southern Air Transport identification card on Cooper.

The father of Wallace Blaine Sawyer Sr., identified as the co-pilot killed in the crash, said his son once

See PLANE, Page 10

athletic fee By JUDY LUNDSTROM Staff Writer

may settle

Though their feelings were mixed as to whether a student athletic fee is needed at K-State, most Athletic Fee Task Force members agree on one point - the issue will come to a referendum.

"It's going to end up being decided on by the students," said Doug Folk, junior in electrical engineering and chairman of the task force.

"What we need to do is get enough information to them so they can make an intelligent decision. Folk said he thought Tuesday night's meeting with Athletic Director Larry Travis went "real well." "He answered some questions people had about where the money was going to go if there is a fee," he said. Folk said he believed the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics was justified in coming to the students for money, but added that he had not made a decision as to the feasibility of the athletic fee.

"The one question left to answer for me is whether it's right for students to be giving them (the athletic department) money," he Folk agreed with Travis that a good athletic program enhances university morale.

"I'm convinced that athletics being competitive is going to help the University," he said.

Bill Majerus, task force member and graduate in agronomy, said he asked questions at the meeting to find out if the athletic department was "looking into other areas as well. "They are making money," he said. "They are moving forward on the financial side.'

Majerus said he believed the majority of the student body had already formulated an opinion "without really looking at the facts.

"I believe our education is the most important investment that we, the students, make to our future," he said. "The bottom line is that it's our academic education that's going to determine our success in the job market.'

Sandy Marihugh, sophomore in business administration, said she thought the meeting with Travis was "very worthwhile.

"I appreciated Mr. Travis' enthusiasm," she said. "He felt that, regardless of what happened with the fee proposal, the department would keep on going."

Marihugh said she hadn't yet made a decision about the fee.

"The committee is to be totally objective and unbiased," she said, adding that the task force was formed because "not every student has the time or desire to sit down and look at all the facts.'

"The meeting (Tuesday night) will definitely get the ball rolling," she said. "We still have a lot to discuss, but we don't have the final say."

Steve Ligon, senior in animal sciences and industry, said he was

See FEE, Page 10

State department spokesman denies captive airman's story

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A top State Department official said Thursday an American captured in Nicaragua. who implicated the CIA in an operation to resupply Contra rebels, was not telling the truth because of Sandinista threats and intimidation.

Assistant Secretary of State Elliott Abrams, in a telephone interview, said no one should believe anything the detained American, Eugene Hasenfus, says, until Hasenfus can speak freely.

Abrams called The Associated Press hours after Hasenfus told a nationally televised news conference in Managua that he had worked with CIA employees in his efforts to keep the Contras supplied with weapons and other equipment.

Before his cargo plane was shot down over southern Nicaragua on Sunday, Hasenfus said he had taken part in 10 such flights from Honduras and El Salvador. He said 24 to 26 CIA personnel had taken part in the operation in El Salvador.

The State Department official made this assertion as the FBI launched a preliminary inquiry to determine whether Americans operating privately are violating U.S. laws by flying weapons and other equipment to the rebels.

FBI spokesman Paul Miller said in Miami that two agents began the inquiry Wednesday to find out whether the Neutrality Act or any other U.S. statutes had been violated by the efforts to resupply Contra counterrevolutionaries resisting the leftist Sandinista government.

Abrams said the Sandinistas have denied U.S. officials consular access to Hasenfus, in direct violation of the Vienna Convention.

"There is only one reason to keep a

See CIA, Page 10

Reagan leaves for second summit, vows to seek nuclear arms control

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan, embarking for his second summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, vowed Thursday to seek progress toward nuclear arms control but said his goal is not to "dash off a few quick agreements."

In a statement before he boarded a helicopter on the White House lawn enroute to Andrew Air Force Base and a 51/2-hour flight to Iceland for the Saturday and Sunday meetings, Reagan said the hurry-up summit "can be a step, a useful step and, if we persevere, the goal of a better, safer world will someday be ours and all the world's."

For the United States to pursue peace, he said, "we must face the tough issues directly and honestly and with hope."

But he said that "we cannot pretend that differences aren't there, seek to dash off a few quick agreements, and then give speeches about the spirit of Reykjavik.'

Indeed, the president said, there are "serious problems with the Soviet positions on a great many issues, and success is not guaranteed." "But if Mr. Gorbachev comes to Iceland in a truly cooperative spirit, I think we can make some progress," Reagan added.

He said the American people had supported him and that such support would be "important to our

"Believe me, I will need this same support through the negotiations of the coming year," he said.

He pledged to talk frankly to Gorbachev about the differences between their countries on arms reduction, human rights, regional conflicts such as the one in Afghanistan and other major issues.

Meanwhile, presidential Chief of Staff Donald Regan said Reagan heads for Iceland "quite confident that he knows the issues."

Regan, interviewed on the "CBS Morning News" said he, too, hoped for progress on arms control.

"For the last 40 years, we've had a policy in the United States shared with the other leading power, the Soviet Union, that if you nuke us we'll nuke you back. It's a policy of mutual assured destruction, a mad

As for human rights, Regan said: "They're definitely of equal concern to this president. They're not of equal concern as far as the Soviets

Steven Jensen, employee of Steven Construction, climbs a 40-foot wall of re-bar Thursday while reinforcing it before a wall of the new biochemistry building behind King Hall is poured.

Shutters' whir to announce K-State's largest photo session

By TERESA TEMME Staff Writer

At exactly 12:01 a.m. Sunday, the sound of clicking shutters will announce the beginning of the biggest photo session in K-State's history. Next week, more than 30 former K-State student photographers will return to shoot K-State from all angles in a project titled, "A Week at Kansas State. The photographs will be compiled into a 10-by-14-inch, 160-page "coffee table" picture book, depicting K-State college life in 1986. Sixty-four of the pages will feature color photographs. "The focus of the project is to provide comprehensive coverage of all missions of K-State today," said Publications Inc., publisher and distributor of the book

Adams said the photographers will use more than a thousand rolls of film in their coverage of various events and people, both on and off

The photographers will begin the project early Sunday morning with coverage of Manhattan night life and will wind the week down by photographing the final activities in Aggieville after the K-State vs. University of Kansas football game.

"The best thing that will come out of the week is the association the present students will have with the students of yesterday," Adams said.

Tim Janicke, photo editor for the Kansas City Times and former Dave Adams, director of Student K-State student, will serve as editor of the book.

Janicke will be in charge of deciding which photos will appear in the final production. All photographs will be stored in the University Archives by the Office of Photographic

"I believe three beneficial things will come out of the week," Janicke said. "First, it will give the alumni a chance to meet each other. Second, it will give the students a chance to meet and work with the alumni, through which they should learn a lot. Third, if the book is successful, we will be able to start a scholarship for photojournalists.'

Janicke said one of the unique things about the project is it will bring together K-State journalism graduates from the 1950s to the pre-

One of the project coordinators for the book will be Pete Souza, an alumnus and White House staff photographer. He has been coordinating the photography team for the project, and during the week he will be distributing photo assignments.

Andy Nelson, junior in journalism and mass communication and assignment coordinator, said the book will be, "a slice of history. It will give students a chance to look back and say, 'This is what it was like when I was at K-State.' The alumni will be able to look at it and realize how K-State has changed."

Adams said the idea for the book began when a few photographers were discussing a reunion for the photojournalists.

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

Jeff Taylor, former Student Publications photographer now employed at the Columbia (Mo.) Daily Tribune, was one of the project's founders. "The idea had been tossed around for quite a while. It was in a lot of people's minds," Nelson said. "(Jeff) Taylor just crystalized the idea: he brought it to Pete Souza's attention.' "All of a sudden it started snowballing. All of us got excited about the idea, and it took off," Adams said.

The idea was submitted to the University in February, and a University Committee was formed to organize the details, form a budget and present the idea.

"It is logical that Student Publications should be the publisher," he said. "Most of the returning photojournalists worked for Student Publications while they were here.

"The KSU Foundation and Student Publications Inc. are underwriting the $50,000 advance money to print the project's book," Adams said. "Sales of the book are expected to cover this expense. Should the project make a profit, the funds will be used to endow a permanent photojournalism scholarship at K-State in the Department of Journalism and Mass Communications." Adams said they are hoping to sell 6,000 books at $19.95 each. The books will be available for distribution by Deal of the State of Party

NATIONAL

Hepatitis virus could aid research

BOSTON - Scientists' long quest to grow the hepatitis B virus in a test tube has been achieved by at least six research teams, and researchers say the discovery should speed the search for new drugs

"I think it's extraordinarily important," said Dr. Frank V. Chisari, a hepatitis expert at the Research Institute of Scripps Clinic in La

Although the virus easily infects people, scientists had failed for at least a decade to make it thrive in human tissue in test tubes, a key step in learning how the virus functions and testing medicines that

Over the past year, new information about the germ's reproduction has provided important clues to the puzzle.

The first team to publish its solution, headed by Dr. Max Essex of the Harvard School of Public Health, reports on its work in Friday's issue of the journal Cell.

At an August meeting in Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y., that was closed to reporters, Essex's group and five others discussed a variety of similar techniques to grow the virus.

In an interview, Essex attributed his success to the availability of human cancer cells that would support the virus and new techniques for transferring genes, along with "hard work and luck."

The hepatitis B virus infects 200,000 Americans annually. It can cause cirrhosis and other liver diseases, including liver cancer. Worldwide, hepatocellular carcinoma caused by the virus strikes an estimated 250,000 people each year and kills vrtually all of them.

Senate convicts Judge Claiborne

WASHINGTON - The Senate on Thursday convicted U.S. District Judge Harry E. Claiborne of "high crimes and misdemeanors," making him the fifth federal official in history removed from office

Claiborne, a convicted tax evader and federal prisoner, was thrown off the bench at 4:14 p.m. EDT, following adjournment of the first Senate impeachment trial in 50 years.

The chief U.S. district judge for Nevada was found "guilty" on three of four impeachment articles by the necessary two-thirds majority. He was acquitted on a fourth article, although a majority of senators voted "guilty." Claiborne, 69, was found guilty on Articles I and II, accusing him of the same willful tax violations that caused a federal court jury to Article III, of which he was acquitted, said the judge's criminal conviction alone warranted his removal. Article IV contended his conduct betrayed the judiciary and the nation.

The votes were: Article I, 87-10; Article II, 90-7; Article III, 46-17; and Article IV, 89-8. Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, voted "present" on all four counts. However, on count III, 34 senators joined him in

Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Ill., said many senators voted "present" on the third article because they believed a "guilty" vote would establish the precedent that a criminal conviction "was equivalent to being guilty on impeachment."

A conviction on any article would have been sufficent to oust Claiborne from his lifetime job. Until now, he has earned his $78,700 salary while in prison.

Study shows cocaine use common

WASHINGTON - The number of Americans who use cocaine regularly has soared while abuse of most other drugs leveled off in the 1980s, federal health officials reported Thursday

A government survey conducted in 1985 found that 5.8 million Americans had used cocaine in the previous month, a 38 percent jump from the 4.2 million people reported in a similar 1982 survey

But the eighth National Household Survey on Drug Abuse found little change in the number who used cocaine at least once in the past year. Their ranks grew only from 11.9 million in 1982 to 12.2 million.

Cocaine users are resorting to the drug more frequently, possibly as they exhaust what Dr. Donald Ian Macdonald, head of the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration, called a "grace period" for many young people before cocaine plays havoc with their

Macdonald said the widening use of crack, a potent, smokable form of cocaine, is also cutting short any "grace period."

INTERNATIONAL

Defector publicly thanks Soviets

MOSCOW - The case of an American cancer researcher who defected to the Soviet Union with his family is not unique - other Americans have come to this Communist nation in the past 70 years in hopes of finding a better life.

But despite Soviet restrictions on emigration, the tide of defections has flowed overwhelmingly from East to West, with hundreds of thousands of Soviets leaving.

Arnold Lockshin said he arrived in Moscow on Wednesday with his wife and three children because of U.S. harassment prompted by his opposition to Reagan administration policies. His decision to seek political asylum received wide coverage Thursday in the Soviet

Lockshin, 47, formerly of Houston, told Western reporters who called his hotel room Thursday that he would give no more interviews immediately. "Today is a day of getting ourselves put together," he said. "I don't want to say anything at this point right now."

Like other defectors before him, Lockshin appeared on Soviet television to thank the Soviet government for granting him asylum. The publicity was similar to that given American defectors in the 1960s who said they opposed U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War.

Lockshin's move, just days before the superpower summit in Iceland, gives the Kremlin a propaganda boost at a time when Soviets who have been denied permission to emigrate or join spouses in the West are trying to draw world attention.

The United States, unlike the Soviet Union and East bloc countries, does not restrict emigration. U.S. officials, while denying Lockshin's claims of harassment, said he was free to live where he chose.

Protest coalition disallowed funds

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The government decreed Thursday that South Africa's largest anti-apartheid coalition cannot receive foreign funds. The group said it expects to be outlawed within President P.W. Botha issued the order against the United Democratic Front under the Affected Organizations Act, which allows him to prohibit foreign funding of political organizations considered to be under foreign influence.

Botha's action froze 100,000 rand ($45,000) in UDF bank accounts, said Azhar Cachalia, its national treasurer. He said more than half the annual budget of "millions of rands" comes from abroad, most of it from Scandinavia and none from the United States or Soviet Union. Cachalia told reporters the multiracial coalition, formed three years ago, will challenge the order in court next week. He and the UDF president, Albertina Sisulu, are the only members of the 15-member national executive who have not gone into hiding or been jailed under the national state of emergency imposed June 12,

"This morning's proclamation will certainly hurt the UDF, but not to such an extent that it will be crippled," he said.

REGIONAL

American children dying of hunger

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Every 53 minutes, a child dies in the United States because of poverty, a nutritionist said Thursday.

Mary Futrell, professor of food science and human nutrition at lississippi State University, spoke at the 86th annual conference of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare.

'Children replaced the elderly as the poorest group in the United States in 1984, and that condition continues today," she said. She said hunger among U.S. children is often ignored or denied because there are few pictures of bony, emaciated youngsters from this country. However, she said, anemia and deficiencies in key vitamins and minerals doom many of them to mentally and socially "The effect of hunger and poverty on children in America is devastating," she said.

Futrell said that in no other industrialized country are children the largest poverty group. Half of the nation's black children, a third of Hispanic children and a sixth of white children are poor, she said. Futrell called for a nutrition surveillance program to identify the nation's hungry children, along with more money for food programs, especially for children under 5.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

VOTER REGISTRATION is available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Tuesday in the SGS Office and is sponsored by Associated Students of Kansas.

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES BOARD 1986-87

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN needs afternoon teachers for elementary-age students. For more information, contact the main desk at UFM, are available in the College of Arts and Sciences Office. ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL applications

GOLDEN KEY MEMBERS: Membership certificates can be picked up today in Bluemont 13.

PUBLIC RELATIONS STUDENT SOCIETY OF AMERICA MEMBERS: Check PRSSA board yearbook and Human Society Survey sign-up.

ITEMS LOST AND FOUND on campus may be claimed from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday in Union baseme

TODAY

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY APPLICANTS FOR 1987: There will be a meeting to discuss the application process from 1 to 4 p.m. in Eisenhower 14.

PARACHUTE CLUB will have its first jump class at 6 p.m. in Durland 129.

DEPARTMENT OF GRAIN SCIENCE will have a picnic for students, faculty and staff at 6 p.m. in Pottorf Hall at Cico Park.

WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER - FRIDAY FOCUS ON WOMEN meets at noon in Union 213. The topic will be "Labor of Love, Labor of Sor-

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

SATURDAY

PARACHUTE CLUB will jump at Wamego Airport. Awards banquet will be after jumping. Call club members for location. THETA XI LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9:30 p.m. at the Theta Xi house.

NEWMAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 7 p.m. in St. Isidore's basement, 711 Denison Ave.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA LITTLE SISTERS meet

at 8 p.m. at ATO house

PHI KAPPA TAU LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9 p.m. at Phi Tau house. Executives meet at 8:30

STUDENT GERONTOLOGY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. at the Riley County Seniors' Sevice Center, 412 Leavenworth St. The panel will discuss "How MENNONITE STUDENT GROUP will have a afternoon. There will be no evening meeting.

Pets Can be Used as a Therapy.'

BAPTIST CAMPUS CENTER meets at 7 p.m. at the Baptist Campus Center, 1801 Anderson

ACACIA LITTLE SISTERS meet at 10 p.m. at

SIGMA CHI LITTLE SISTERS meet for initiation at 7:30 p.m. at the Sigma Chi house

MONDAY

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY APPLICANTS FOR 1987: There will be a discussion of the ap-plication process from 9 a.m. to noon in

CHIMES meets at 9 p.m. in Union 208.

PI SIGMA EPSILON will have an orientation meeting at 8 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

MARKETING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room. Beecham Products will present "Advancement in the '80s with Beecham."

HUMAN ECOLOGY CLUB meets at 5 p.m. in

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER will show the video tapes, "Interview Preparation" and "The Interview" at 3:30 p.m. in Holtz 107B.

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

Blue River Pub

FRIDAY & SATURDAY "Valentine and the Very Wealthy"

-They're Back Again!! $2 Cover

$1.25 Wine coolers $1 bottled beer

*No KSU Student I.D. required Next to Tuttle Creek Dam 537-9877

Accustoff The

$1.25 MEXICAN BEER

(What could it be? Ends with an "A" begins with a "C".)

TONIGHT and SATURDAY only at BONKERS, 1216 Laramie

12:01 "BASKETBALL"

Early Frost Sale:

TGIF

Old Time Rock 'n' Roll and free hors d'eeuvres 5 p.m.

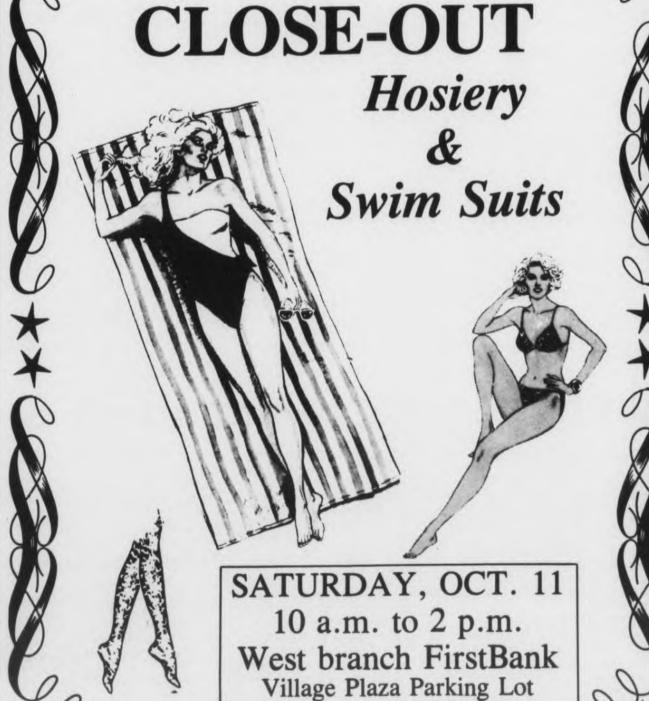

Comedy Invasion

This Monday night at 9 p.m. Doug Ferrari

531 N. Manhattan OFFICE

5ft. Shefflera (reg. 16.99) 6ft. Hawaiian Shefflera St. Mary Peace Lily Geg. $16.99 Ming or Black Avalia Philodendron Wend-embe 21/2 ft. Sansivaria Nice, full Dieffenbachia. "Tropic Alex" (reg. $ 24.99) chinese Evergreen (reg. $ 24.99)
St. Mary Peace Lily (reg. $ 24.99)

economic adviser for the state of Kansas for the past 20 years. Emerson, who received more notority in the last three years with the floundering economy.

Jarvin Emerson, head of the Department of Economics, has been the doesn't get much attention while the state's economy is doing well, has

Professor advises on economic acitivity

By The Collegian Staff

Jarvin Emerson has one of those jobs that doesn't get much recognition until something bad happens.

Emerson, head of the Department of Economics, has been an economics adviser for the state of Kansas for more than 20 years, but only about three years ago did people realize it.

That was because the state's economy began to flounder.

"When we're accurate on our economic forecast we don't get as much attention, but when the economy goes in a nose dive everyone wants to know why," Emerson said.

Forthefunofit! thefunofit! 2

the state when he was an economic adviser to former Gov. William Avery. In the following years, he also worked for former Govs. Robert Docking and Robert Bennett. Emerson mainly worked on the economic and revenue forecast for the Budget Division of the state of Kansas but has also worked with the Consumer Revenue Estimating Group, representatives from the Dept. of Revenue, the Budget Division, Legislature Research Department and University economists.

Some of the forecasts he makes for the state include quarterly and annual income, total wages, salary, total farm income, property income,

He first started as a forecaster for employment and unemployment levels, Emerson said. There are many factors which he said combine to determine the economic outlook. Taxes are one of the most important elements, he said. Some of the taxes that have a major economic impact on the state are corporate, independent, sales and cereal malt beverages.

The last three years have been the most difficult economically for the state, Emerson said.

"Kansas' economy is about the same or a little worse than the rest of the states, but is better off than states like Oklahoma and Iowa.'

Because Iowa depends so much on farming and Oklahoma is so dependent on oil, those states face a more ominous future. However, Kansas industry is more diversified, and Emerson said its forecast is somewhat better.

Black 'mind set' blocks end to African unrest

By JEFFREY J. BIELSER Staff Writer

A "mind set" created by Afrikaners in South Africa prevents almost any kind of peaceful solution to the unrest of blacks in that country, said Martin Ottenheimer, professor of sociology.

Ottenheimer was one of five panel members who spoke at a preconvocation forum Thursday night in Farrell Library. The forum was in preparation for Dennis Brutus, who will present the second University Convocation of the academic year at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in McCain Auditorium.

This "mind set" allows the ruling white class to "have no compunction of walking up to a porch and shooting a child in the back of the head," Ottenheimer said.

Because of this type of thinking, "economic sanctions are a waste of time," he said. Ottenheimer was referring to recent sanctions imposed on South Africa against a veto from President Ronald Reagan.

Ottenheimer said he was first exposed to this view of South African blacks on a trip to South Africa 20 years ago.

"An Afrikaner told me, 'There is no use educating blacks. Blacks in South Africa are very similar to animals, and there is no reason to educate animals," Ottenheimer said.

Ruling whites have set up levels in South African society that separates the different classes, "with the whites at the top of course," Ottenheimer said.

Kehla Mdluli, sophomore in secondary education, is from South Africa and said blacks in opposition to the white minority government welcome sanctions against the government

"Blacks will be hurt by sanctions, but they won't kill us like apartheid is killing us," he said.

"Suffering isn't new to us," Mdluli said. "We've been suffering since 1652 (when South Africa was first settled by whites)."

The situation in the country is

"deteriorating rapidly," he said. 'The government is becoming more violent.'

However, among the blacks, "most people are becoming more determined and violent." Mdluli said. "They are willing to die rather than live with chains.

"A violent revolution is very imminent," he said.

Racial discrimination and violence are not the only things adding to the repression of the black majority in South Africa — economic conditions skewed heavily in favor of the white minority help keep them in power.

Wayne Nafziger, professor of economics, said the average annual income for black South Africans is $500. This compares to an average annual income for Asians and coloreds (people of mixed ancestry) of $2,000.

The average income for whites in South Africa was unknown, but, he said it was "much higher than the United States average of $15,000 (per year)."

A status that puts the white rulers in a "plus-Western" position is an important factor in the whites wanting to keep power and avoid any redistribution of wealth in the country, Nafziger said.

The perceived higher status of the South African average income over western incomes is a prestigious point for the white minority rulers, he said. If there is any erosion in this status, then there is an erosion in prestige.

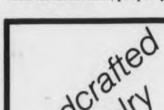

Wealth in South Africa is highly concentrated.

Ten percent of the wealthiest people in South Africa, all of them white, hold 75 percent of the property, Nafziger said. Their incomes comprise 57 percent of the income in South Africa.

In terms of wealth, South Africa is very important to the United State: in terms of strategic mineral wealth.

'South Africa is more important to us than we are to South Africa," said Jerry Rosenberg, assistant professor of political science

See FORUM, Page 10

across from Wal-Mart & Rorthefund ™ Jean Station

STRECKER GALLERY

332 Poyntz

10-5 T-S

The Men of Phi Kappa Tau would like to congratulate the newly tapped Little Sisters of the Shield.

Natasha Acker Carla Kohn Ann Linderkamp Sondra Baker Jan Peter Joyce Bettenbrock Amber Ray Becky Brown Julie Brunner Michelle Rooney Lori Schwermer Stacie Dinsmore Lainie Dunn Sam Stopple Susanne Endicott Laura Sullivan Lynda Sylvis Sheila Fenske Karen Vodraska Sonia Gilbert Karen Zavala Janet Harmon

THE SHOE FACTORY

431 Town East Center just east of Food 4 Less 539-0363 Now Open

Quality Ladies Shoes At Reduced Prices

MANY NAME BRANDS

Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

SUNDAY SUPPER

5:30

(50¢ donation or free if needed) 1021 Denison Ave. (Look for the two red front doors)

> Do You Have A Personality? presented by

> > Susan Angle Sponsored by CUMENICAL HRISTIAN

> > > NISTRIES

EXPOSE IF

TODAY: Off Campus, Haymaker Oct. 11: Off Campus, Marlatt

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment call 539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Just bring this coupon to RUNZA, buy any sandwich and get an order of homemade onion rings FREE!

1101 Moro

Litchfield Theatres

Aggieville

Paramount Pictures proudly invites you to a Special Sneak Preview, Starring Academy Award Winner William Hurt and introducing Marlee Matlin.

"Brilliant!"

-Marilyn Beck, CHICAGO TRIBUNE SYNDICATE "A deeply romantic...and sexy love story." -Peter Travers, PEOPLE MAGAZINE

SNEAK PREVIEW

SATURDAY, OCT. 11th 7 P.M.

SETH CHILDS

Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Administration's lies cause distrust in U.S.

This week, Americans found ed because of the incident. that President Reagan's reign of terror against Libya is still occurring. The April bombing mission must not have been enough, because now they are using disinformation to terrorize Libya into non-action.

The Reagan administration has condoned the use of lies when they serve its purposes. It is a dangerous situation when a democratic government starts lying to handle its political problems. Democracy turns into dictatorship when political leaders mislead us with this so-called disinformation.

deal of scrambling in Washington, D.C. Half of the administration is denying the disinformation scheme while the other half is apologizing for the mistake. Chief State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb resign- suspicion?

The justification given for this lying is that the lies were only leaked to foreign news services and were not supposed to appear in the American press. While some people might buy this explanation that the operation was bungled, we must question the principle of lying to our allies and our enemies. This country is supposed to be the pillar of democracy in the world.

What does the rest of the world think about the U.S. government lying to them? Will they ever trust us when we say we have proof of Lybian terrorist plots? The situation has caused a good Does this give them reason to doubt all the evidence used to justify the April attack? Should anybody believe anything the Reagan administration says? How many more lies were thrown on the public? Is anything above drink amendment to the Kansas include popcorn, beer nuts and constitution, the state's liquor pretzels? laws may not become any less complicated.

Requiring food sales confuses liquor issue

For economic reasons, voters should vote "yes" to the amendment. However, the amendment itself could use some revision.

If the amendment passes, liquor by the drink would be allowed in businesses that derive at least 30 percent of their profit from food sales. Private clubs would be allowed to serve liquor by the drink without food sales.

The purpose of the 30 percent food sales requirement is to prevent cocktail lounges from proliferating throughout the state. Considering the higher drinking age and the state's slow economy, a surge of these kind of businesses opening is unlikely.

Determining what constitutes 30 percent food sales also presents a problem for law en-

If voters pass the liquor-by-the- forcement officials. Do food sales

Currently, clubs reciprocating memberships are required to derive 50 percent of their revenue from food sales, and businesses have found loopholes to this requirement. The 30 percent requirement is an even more vague interpretation of food sales.

George Puckett, director of the Kansas Restaurant Association, said the food requirement would leave the state in the position it is in now, which gives people "another reason to view our liquor laws with skepticism."

When the state revises the liquor laws, it should do away with the ambiguities. Understandable and enforceable laws are more likely to be respected by visitors to the state and Kansas residents themselves.

Tangling with tall tales for tourists

"Tuesday, May 20, 1985, Lexington, Mass. - One of the notable features of this town was the appearance everywhere of various mundane artifacts which reportedly crossed the life of George Washington. There was the chair he sat in, the table and dishes he took his meal from, the hat rack where he hung his hat, a metal bolt to which he once tied his horse and even strands of George's hair. I decided not to ask about the toilet seat."

And I thought the Beatles were the start of such foolishness. Can't you just picture those Mothers of the American Revolution tearing their hair out at Washington's inaugural!? I have this vision of several thousand hysterical young Americans throwing copies of the Constitution at George's podium to be signed, while the first president belts out another round of "All men are created equal. Yeah! Yeah! Yeah!'

By the way, the first paragraph, taken from my journal, was written when I stopped in Boston to see my sister on my way overseas last year. Aside from seeing the war memorials, famous homes and an abundance of "historical artifacts," I also discovered the source of many modern-day expressions.

For instance, the beds in those days were often understrung with rope or some other chord which tended to become loose after a night or two of rest, leading to a sagging bed and thus, an uncomfortable night's sleep. To remedy this, special keys were used to tighten the ropes before bedtime, which led to the saying: "Good night, sleep tight."

Another expression arose from the fact that the king of England had decreed that no wood more than 23 inches in width would be allowed to be used in the colonies. All wood of greater width was reserved for use in England. The only exception to this rule was if a larger tree were to fall because of high winds during a storm. Thus, we have the present-day term "windfall," describing some benefit which comes by chance.

DAN OWENS Collegian Columnist

Here's one for you Aggieville patrons. In the taverns in those days, credit was often extended to customers, and a record of the quarts and pints they had consumed would be kept on the wall of the tavern. When a man had accumulated too many marks, the bartender would tell him to watch his pints and quarts, or as we say today, "mind your P's and Q's.'

In the revolutionary days and before, paper was scarce and taxed heavily. Because of this, a letter would be written in such a form as to leave room for another mailing address to be inscribed. The receiver of the original letter would write a letter in response between the lines of the original letter, and send the now twice-used piece of paper back to the original author, instructing him to "read between the lines."

My favorite idiom involves one of the oldest tools of civilization — fire. In the 18th century, it wasn't considered prudent for the woman of the home to let the kitchen fire go out (matches weren't invented until the 1850s). To prevent this, the burning coals of one day's fire were stored overnight in a small, iron box. When a new family moved into the area, it was the custom to bring coals from your box to the new home to help the family start its first fire. From this custom comes the term "housewarming."

Friday, October 10, 1986 - 4

This wealth of useful information came from our tour guide, and made me feel enlightened and privileged, like when my parents explained to me where babies come from. I later discovered that tour guides everywhere like to make one feel this way with such stories.

At the Tower of London, for instance, I was shown a collection of metal skullcaps, which the guide claimed were called "secrets." People who could afford to worry about such things used to hide these "secrets" underneath their veils or other headgear to protect themselves from thieves and highwaymen. Of course, this bourgeois custom led to the expression, "It's a secret, keep it under your hat."

One has to wonder sometimes about the authenticity of such stories; I mean, it would be really easy to make up such nonsense to attract more visitors to, say Manhattan;

For instance, did you know that Ulysses S. Grant was a closet hot-air balloonist? Indeed, he once set off in a balloon from Denver with the intention of sailing to Washington, D.C. But Ulysses ran out of whiskey over Abilene and his advisers were forced to land Grant on the spot where Holton Hall now stands, leading to the founding of the nation's first "land-grant" university.

Grant stumbled down the hill and into the then dry town of Manhattan. Upon informing one of the locals, a Volga-German, that he was the president and was looking for a saloon, the immigrant is reported to have replied, "Ah gee, vi'll haf to make one by dat dark horse ofer der."

Perhaps I'd better quit while I'm not so far behind. My editor tells me my columns had better start making more cens-or she might not run them.

Many characters make individuals

Player feels prejudice

Re: Linda J. McPheron's letter, "Diamond Girls sexist," in Thursday's Collegian.

As a member of the K-State baseball team and as an individual, I have a terrible sense that prejudices have been brought against me by sexist allegations by McPheron. With a new coaching staff at the helm of my third year in baseball, I sensed a fresh start for baseball and athletics at K-State. Baseball Coach Mike Clark and coaches Jeff Stewart, Mike Keenan and Mike Hutchins as well as pitching coach Larry Spresser, are all first-class individuals who have come to our fine school with ideas to bring school pride as well as self-pride to our team.

When traveling to schools across the country, I saw 75 percent of the programs we competed against having very prominent and successful "Diamond Girls" programs. Not only are these schools giving women an opportunity to be involved in the sport, but are letting them have an opportunity to be close to a game they may have a liking for.

I have a 9-year-old pen pal from Glastonbury, Conn., named Lynell Grube. She attended many of my summer league games in Cape Cod, Mass., and is a devoted baseball fan and a New York Yankee fanatic. Her favorite players are "Mike Pagliarulo, Dave Righetti and Ed Whitson." Every letter she writes gives me a full, detailed description of games she attends with her whole family, which brings me to the point of Jeff Stewart's beliefs on the Diamond Girl program. Stewart dispersed among the players a guideline sheet to make the selection process "not a beauty contest but rather a general guide for questions pertaining to baseball." The questions included "Why do you want to be a Diamond Girl?" "What experience do you have in baseball?" "What would you do to promote the baseball program and the Diamond Girls program?" and "Will being involved with this impede your studies?" It also included questions pertaining to the game: "What does RBI mean?" and "What is the most important position on the field?" My pen pal Lynell would be one of the finest Diamond Girls and an assett to our program.

Finally, I have found that a vast majority of the players have been subjected to criticisms by students and fans as being athletes who seem to have to be waited on and doted on such as McPheron has brought out. Outlandishly untrue!

Our team practices three to four hours daily and an hour, in addition to workouts, is used in preparing the field, landscaping and reshaping the entire look of our grounds. Everyone is given a duty and no one walks away until the project is complete. Do we complain? No! Because Mike Clark, Jeff Stewart, Mike Keenan, Mike Hutchins and Coach Spresser have given us the pride to turn the program around ourselves and they are now giving the women of our University an opportunity to give input to our team as well as in a game that they may love.

Remember, any baseball loving woman can come for an interview but beauty queens need not apply.

Jeff Peterson junior in journalism and mass communications

Quotes for the day: "You may think you have the right answer but you're wrong. It's a delusion." - Professor Kingsfield, "The Paper Chase." "Just when we thought we knew the answers, they changed the questions" - a view of school and life from college students

I've often wondered what it would be like to be part of someone else's mind. It would be great to see an event or a person through two sets of eyes and two minds at the same time. How do other people view an event or another person? How does it differ from my meone else have on the world? What is another person thinking? We're all so different, that it's a wonder we're not at each other's throats constantly. (Yes, I know. The world's a chaotic place.)

view? What angle or perspective does so-

Or are we so different? We are each unique individuals, viewing the world from different perspectives. An individual's personality, experience and education tinge the angle of view. Where one person sees beauty, another sees ugliness or what one person terms funny, another finds

But is the view we each have really the view? Particularly when it pertains to other people, who we see is not necessarily who is

When a person walks by you on campus, what or whom do you see? We base so much on appearances and first impressions. What someone is wearing, the way an individual speaks or moves, are the major means of judging the type of person

But is the person we see really the person there? Usually not. It's a delusion or an illusion - the magic of being human.

JEAN TELLER Collegian Columnist

We all wear more than one face. We present ourselves differently to different people in different situations. The person our friends see is not the person a stranger sees.

I don't know whom people see when they first meet me. I'm not sure I really want to know. But I do know they don't see the entire person I am. Very few people on this campus know who the real Jean is, even those I consider friends. I know me fairly well, after all we've been together for 30 years. But no one else really does.

Do people see the woman who hates to play games, the bookworm, the country music lover, the introvert who likes to be around people but appreciates the silence of being alone? Probably not. You might, if you watched me for a while, be able to surmise I love sweaters and big earrings and I love to laugh but I'm not sure anyone could figure out who

Why do we present different faces to the world? Who really knows? It's undoubtedly a self-defense mechanism to protect us from the hurt others can cause us.

Unfortunately, it is also what keeps us from really understanding the people around us. We can't see the world from the same angle or from within someone else's mind. And we can't drop the facade of being more than one person.

A science fiction short story I read recently touched on that subject. The character in the story believed we were lying when we said we were individuals because, after all, there is more than one person inside each of us -aweird story but basically a true concept.

We really are more than one person. It's not hard to figure out the different people housed inside one body. For me, there's the writer, the student, the instructor, the bookworm, the movie/television fanatic, the loner, the hat collector, the TV director, etc. I'm sure you can figure out your other identities, too.

We all need to be aware of our other personalities - whether we were born with them or have developed them as a selfdefense. If we know the other personalities inside us, perhaps we can better identify with the other people around us. We need to be able to relate to others as well as we relate to

The barriers and facades need to be broken. Individuals need to be aware of other people, of other ideas and feelings. Each of us needs to take the chance and open up to others instead of staying safe. It's not easy. I'm getting better at it but I still keep to myself too much - but not as much as the high-school girl scared of her own shadow.

It's not easy to be individuals, and it's not easy being more than one person at a time, but it is who and what we are as human beings. It's what makes life interesting.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author.

Writing bad checks

K-State alumni donors lead Big Eight

By The Collegian Staff

K-State ranks first in the Big Eight in the percentage of alumni who financially support their alma

Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation, said the number of alumni and friends who support the University through donations has increased from 9,813 in 1978 to more than 25,000 in 1986.

During the past nine years, the Foundation's assets from donors have grown from $16 million to more than $63 million. These assets are not just in dollars and cents. Assets obtained by the Foundation through ex-

Foundation's assets increase greatly

tensive mail solicitations, telefunding and aggressive fund-raising programs include real estate, scholarships, endowments and various programs-and projects of the University.

Loub said the substantial increase is due to the positive response by alumni and friends and is a great tribute to the Foundation and various alumni organizations.

"The Foundation is extremely appreciative of the outstanding response it has received from alumni and friends of K-State over the years. They (contributions) are even more meaningful when Kansas has not enjoyed tremendous economic prosperity," Loub said.

"Fund-raising is successful in direct proportion to the absence of negatives," Loub said. He said he believes if people are turned off by something at the University, they will be less likely to give.

'We must remember very few people are looking to give away money,"

The purpose of the Foundation is to provide those services to the University which are not or cannot be provided through appropriated state funds or student fees and to perpetuate excellence in the educational opportunities at K-State.

The Foundation is currently involved in a fund-raising campaign for the horticulture gardens being planted north of Hollis House along Denison Avenue.

Plans are being made for fundraising drives to finance a major scholarship campaign, distinguished chairs and professorships and an art museum.

Graduate wins award for cancer study

By AMY PETRY Collegian Reporter

A 1972 K-State graduate received national recognition in September for his contributions to the development of a new technique used in cancer research.

Joe Gray, doctoral graduate in physics, was awarded the O.E. Lawrence Memorial Award by Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel.

Gray was honored for his contributions in the field of Flow Cytometry. Flow Cytometry is a technique used to sort living and non-living cells and to analyze several features of cells, said Chander Bhalla, head of the Department of Physics.

The technique has developed over the last 15 years, Gray said, and is "a tool to study the variety of various properties.

'This is an honor to be selected for this award," Bhalla said. Thousands of outstanding scientists give contributions to the panel that selects the recipient, he said. Five or six past winners have been Nobel prize winners, he a

The award

the recommendation of his colleagues at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., Bhalla said.

The research is significant to genetics, Bhalla said. Many labs will make use of this technology in the future, he said.

Gray said the Flow Cytometry technique is being implemented in various research areas. Flow Cytometry has developed improved techniques to get information about cell proliferation for research of cancer and Down's Syndrome, Gray said. Clinical trials are currently being conducted with patients in large cancer research institutes, Gray

Flow Cytometry has been successfully used to measure properties of DNA and RNA in individual cells, Gray said. This is done with an instrument that takes individual cells apart and puts them into liquid suspension, he said.

The cells are then squirted through a laser beam that adjusts a light wavelength to pick up a fluorescent

A photo detector, a flash of light, then measures the intensity of the electrical pulse properties of DNA content, Gray said. Then the desired cells are collected, and the rest are thrown away, he said.

"The precise measurement happens very fast - 40,000 cells per second," Gray said. "It is interesting to measure DNA content and tell the

"We are able to take chromosomes out of the cells to purify and sort each type," he said.

Flow Cytometry makes it easier to extract material in larger quantities for DNA and RNA research, Bhalla said. "Genetics is one of the hardest areas to research," he said.

At K-State, Gray worked in nuclear physics under the supervision of James Legg, professor of physics, Bhalla said.

"He (Legg) is one of the highlights of the faculty for excellent instruction, labs and one-on-one," Bhalla said.

Gray's major contribution was in a different area than his original field, whole new area; that is what's remarkable," Bhalla said.

Gray said his physics background "got him in the business." The instrumental use in nuclear physics is similar to the usage in Flow Cytometry, Gray said. The quantitative mathematical analysis concept is used to describe behavior of cells, he said.

Gray has been section leader of the cytophysics section in the biomedical sciences division at Livermore since 1982. Previously he worked as assistant adjunct professor of radiology at the University of California, Davis, and adjunct professor of lab medicine at the University of California, San Francisco.

There has not been any kind of Flow Cytometry research in the physics department at K-State, Bhalla said.

can mean trip to jail letter to the person stating that if the payment is not made to the

By STEVEN ZADINA Collegian Reporter

Writing a bad check could be the result of poor bookkeeping. It could also mean going directly to jail - without passing Go and without collecting $200.

When a person writes a bad check, he or she is committing a misdemeanor. If the check is for more than $150, the offense is a felony.

After a bad check is written, a warrant may be issued for the person's arrest if the amount is not paid within a given time period. The offender is taken to jail, may post bail to be released and must appear in court. The check writer also has a permanent criminal record.

If a person writes a bad check in Riley County, the business receiving the check is required to send a seven-day registered letter to the person. The letter is to notify the person of the return of the check, the amount due the store and the date by which it must be paid, said Capt. Wayne Anderson of the

Riley County Police Department. If payment is not made by the established date, the check is sent to the county attorney, he said. As of June 1986, the county attorney's office had received several hundred more bad checks than during the same period last year, and a total of 3,100 checks had been received as of Oct. 3.

After receiving the bad check, the county attorney sends another store in 10 days, charges will be

If payment is still not made, a warrant is issued for the person's arrest. Between the time he or she is arrested and the court date, the person has one more chance to pay off the check with court costs added. If the money is still not paid, then the case goes to court.

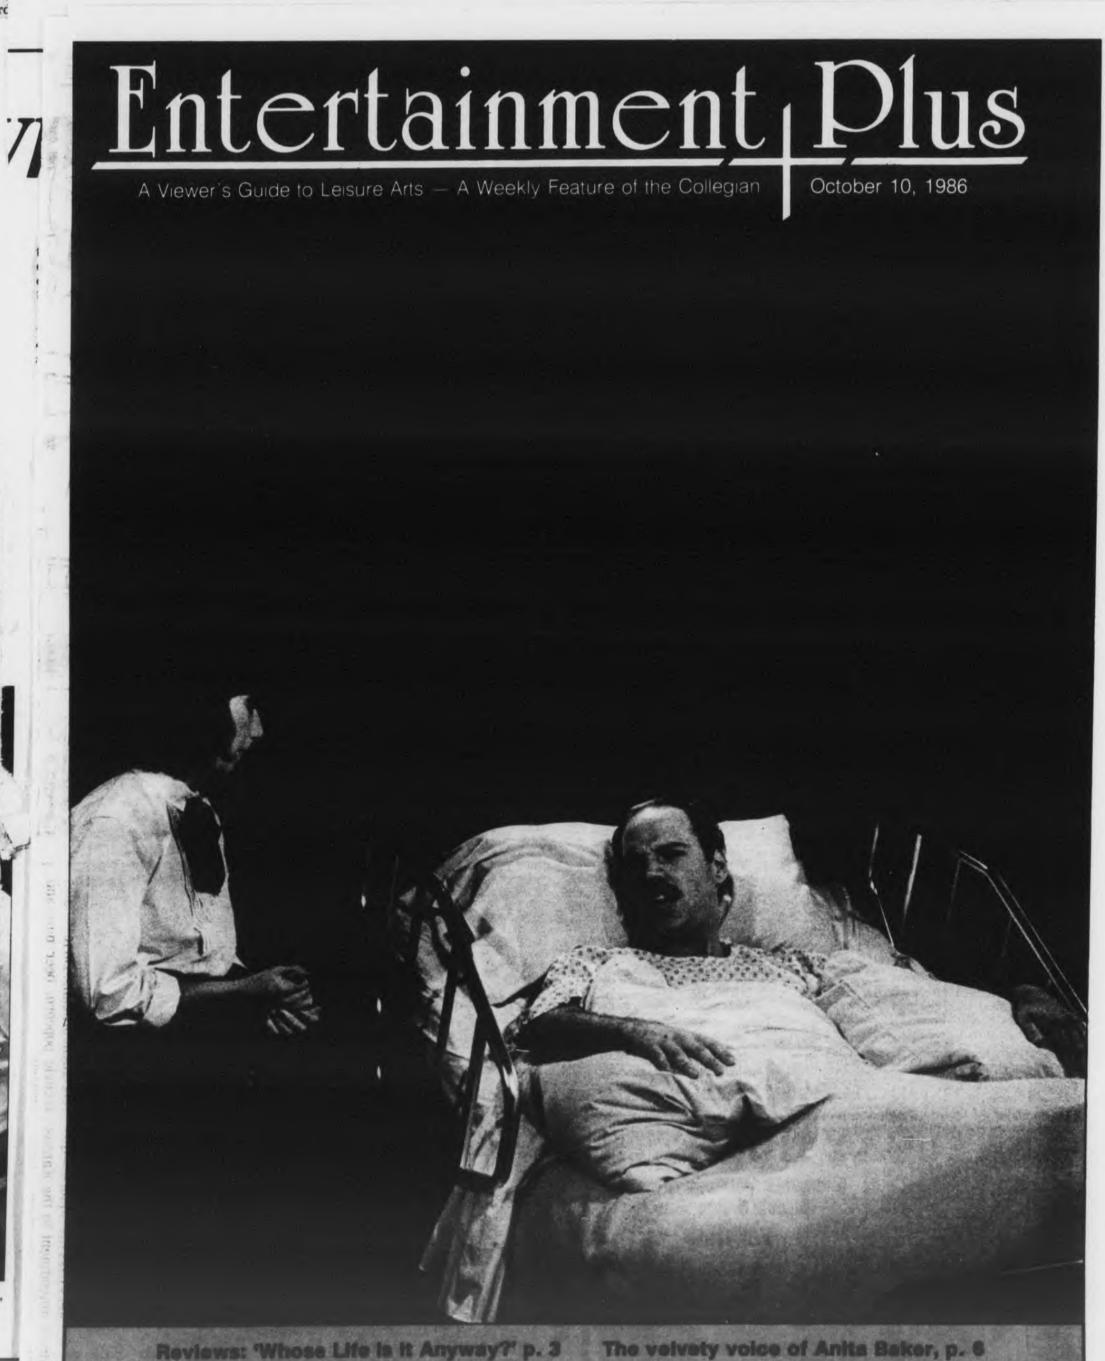

Anderson said when police receive a warrant on an individual, they make every attempt to find that person. If the person cannot be located, the police enter all the available information on the individual into the national crime computer. NCIC. Once the information is stored, the person can be arrested for the check charge if he or she is ever arrested for another crime or given a traffic ticket, Anderson

The minimum penalty for this crime is a $10 to $20 fine and payment of the court costs, the initial amount of the check and the return check charge, said attorney William Kennedy III. The maximum penalty is up to one year in jail, a fine of up to $2,500 and payment of the court costs and the intial amount of the check, Kennedy said.

The county attorney's office will not take a case where the bad check is written for less than $5, although he said some stores want to go to court for as little as 37

m!

MEXICAN RESTAURANTE

K-State ranks first in the Big Eight in the percentage of alumni who financially support their alma

Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation, said the number of alumni and friends who support the University through donations has increased from 9,813 in 1978 to more than 25,000 in 1986.

During the past nine years, the Foundation's assets from donors have grown from $16 million to more than $63 million. These assets are not just in dollars and cents. Assets obtained by the Foundation through exFoundation's assets increase greatly

tensive mail solicitations, telefunding and aggressive fund-raising programs include real estate. scholarships, endowments and various programs and projects of the University.

Loub said the substantial increase is due to the positive response by alumni and friends and is a great tribute to the Foundation and various alumni organizations.

"The Foundation is extremely appreciative of the outstanding response it has received from alumni and friends of K-State over the years. They (contributions) are even more meaningful when Kansas has not enjoyed tremendous economic prosperity," Loub said.

"Fund-raising is successful in direct proportion to the absence of negatives," Loub said. He said he believes if people are turned off by something at the University, they will be less likely to give.

"We must remember very few people are looking to give away money,"

The purpose of the Foundation is to provide those services to the University which are not or cannot be provided through appropriated state funds or student fees and to perpetuate excellence in the educational opportunities at K-State.

The Foundation is currently involved in a fund-raising campaign for the horticulture gardens being planted north of Hollis House along Denison Avenue.

Plans are being made for fundraising drives to finance a major scholarship campaign, distinguished chairs and professorships and an art museum.

Graduate wins award for cancer study

By AMY PETRY Collegian Reporter

A 1972 K-State graduate received national recognition in September for his contributions to the development of a new technique used in cancer research. Joe Gray, doctoral graduate in physics, was awarded the O.E. Lawrence Memorial Award by Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel.

Gray was honored for his contributions in the field of Flow Cytometry. Flow Cytometry is a technique used to sort living and non-living cells and to analyze several features of cells, said Chander Bhalla, head of the Department of Physics. The technique has developed over the last 15 years, Gray said, and is "a tool to study the variety of various properties.' "This is an honor to be selected for this award," Bhalla said. Thousands of outstanding scientists give contributions to the panel that selects the recipient, he said. Five or six past winners have been Nobel prize winners, he a

The award

the recommendation of his colleagues at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., Bhalla said.

The research is significant to genetics, Bhalla said. Many labs will make use of this technology in the future, he said.

Gray said the Flow Cytometry technique is being implemented in various research areas. Flow Cytometry has developed improved techniques to get information about cell proliferation for research of cancer and Down's Syndrome, Gray said. Clinical trials are currently being conducted with patients in large cancer research institutes, Gray said. Flow Cytometry has been successfully used to measure properties of DNA and RNA in individual cells, Gray said. This is done with an instrument that takes individual cells apart and puts them into liquid suspension, he said. The cells are then squirted through a laser beam that adjusts a light wavelength to pick up a fluorescent then measures the intensity of the electrical pulse properties of DNA content, Gray said. Then the desired cells are collected, and the rest are thrown away, he said.

"The precise measurement happens very fast - 40,000 cells per second," Gray said. "It is interesting to measure DNA content and tell the differences.

"We are able to take chromosomes out of the cells to purify and sort each type," he said.

Flow Cytometry makes it easier to extract material in larger quantities for DNA and RNA research, Bhalla said. "Genetics is one of the hardest areas to research," he said.

At K-State, Gray worked in nuclear physics under the supervision of James Legg, professor of physics, Bhalla said.

"He (Legg) is one of the highlights of the faculty for excellent instruction, labs and one-on-one," Bhalla

Gray's major contribution was in a different area than his original field,

A photo detector, a flash of light, whole new area; that is what's remarkable," Bhalla said.

Gray said his physics background "got him in the business." The instrumental use in nuclear physics is similar to the usage in Flow Cytometry, Gray said. The quantitative mathematical analysis concept is used to describe behavior of cells, he said.

Gray has been section leader of the cytophysics section in the biomedical sciences division at Livermore since 1982. Previously he worked as assistant adjunct professor of radiology at the University of California, Davis, and adjunct professor of lab medicine at the University of California, San Francisco.

There has not been any kind of Flow Cytometry research in the physics department at K-State, Bhalla said.

Writing bad checks can mean trip to jail

By STEVEN ZADINA Collegian Reporter

Writing a bad check could be the result of poor bookkeeping. It could also mean going directly to jail - without passing Go and without collecting $200.

When a person writes a bad check, he or she is committing a misdemeanor. If the check is for more than $150, the offense is a felony.

After a bad check is written, a warrant may be issued for the person's arrest if the amount is not paid within a given time period. The offender is taken to jail, may post bail to be released and must appear in court. The check writer also has a permanent criminal record.

If a person writes a bad check in Riley County, the business receiving the check is required to send a seven-day registered letter to the person. The letter is to notify the person of the return of the check, the amount due the store and the date by which it must be paid, said Capt. Wayne Anderson of the

Riley County Police Department. If payment is not made by the established date, the check is sent to the county attorney, he said. As of June 1986, the county attorney's office had received several hundred more bad checks than during the same period last year, and a total of 3,100 checks had been received as of Oct. 3. After receiving the bad check, the county attorney sends another letter to the person stating that if the payment is not made to the store in 10 days, charges will be

If payment is still not made, a warrant is issued for the person's arrest. Between the time he or she is arrested and the court date, the person has one more chance to pay off the check with court costs added. If the money is still not paid, then the case goes to court.

Anderson said when police receive a warrant on an individual, they make every attempt to find that person. If the person cannot be located, the police enter all the available information on the individual into the national crime computer, NCIC. Once the information is stored, the person can be arrested for the check charge if he or she is ever arrested for another crime or given a traffic ticket, Anderson said.

The minimum penalty for this crime is a $10 to $20 fine and payment of the court costs, the initial amount of the check and the return check charge, said attorney William Kennedy III. The maximum penalty is up to one year in jail, a fine of up to $2,500 and payment of the court costs and the intial amount of the check, Kennedy said. The county attorney's office will not take a case where the bad check is written for less than $5, although he said some stores want to go to court for as little as 37

MEXICAN RESTAURANTE

m!

re

Friday, October 10, 1986

Television Index

A CIC VISION	muca
Ma	nhattan Cable
KSNT (NBC)	7
WIBW (CBS)
KLDH (ABC)	2
KSHB (IND)	8
KTWU (PBS)	11
WGN (IND)	10
WTBS (IND)	12

HBO, Showtime, CINEMAX, ESPN Additional cable channels not listed in guide: Manhattan cable channels 4 (NBC), 5 (CBS) and 9 (ABC) correspond to channels 7, 3 and 2, respectively.

Premium cable:

Entertainment

EDITOR Chris Stewart ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR Laurie Fairburn PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan

GRAPHIC ARTIST Carlos Corredor

On Our Cover

Meg Anderson and Tom Overmyer, both of Manhattan, are players in the Manhattan Civic Theatre's production of "Whose Life is it Anyway?," the story of a paraplegic's stuggle for the right to his own destiny. The play opens tonight at 8 in the basement of the City Auditorium, 11th Street and Poyntz Avenue.

> Photograph by John Thelander

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1986

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:30	Today	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Defenders	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Heidi"	Movie: "Cannonball	"Maxie" Cont'd	Business SportsCenter
8:30				GoBots Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Down To Earth I Love Lucy		Run II"	Movie: "Diamond	SpeedWeek Powerboat
9:30		Pyramid Card Sharks	Jeannie $1 Mil. Chance	Family Ties M.T. Moore	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "The Lives Of	Movie: "Forbidden"	Movie: "Cimarron"	Horseshoe",	Racing Cycling
10:30	Jeopardy Scrabble	Price is Right	Fame Fortune Family Ties	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Big Valley	Jenny Dolan"			Movie: "Cat's Eye"	Mayor's Cup SportsLook
11:30		Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched My 3 Sons	Society Society	Falcon Crest	Perry Mason	Movie: "Oh God! You	Movie	Movie:	Aerobics Running
12:30		- Midday As The World	All My Children	Get Smart Andy Griffith	Sesame Street	News	Movie: "Valley Of The	Devil"	"	"Kind Hearts And Coronets"	CFL Football
1:00	Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	Hilbillies Green Acres	Mysteryl	Dick Van Dyke Carol Burnett	Giants" WomanWatch	Not News Movie:	Movie: "Two Loves"	Crazy About	announced
2:30	Santa Barbara	Gulding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobliee Zoo	Kitchen Painting	Andy Griffith Heathcliff	Tom & Jerry And Friends	"Royal Wedding"		The Movies Movie:	NHL Hockey Edmonton
3:30	Happy Days	Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurfs	Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurts	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Adventures Of Robin Hood	Tail Tales & Legends	"The Jigsaw Man"	Oilers at Philadelphia
4:00	Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life	Donahue	ThunderCets G.I. Joe	Flinstones Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Rocky Road Safe At Home	Movie: "Rhinestone"	Minors	Rock And Roll	Flyers
5:00	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Diff. Strokes Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life Good Times	Andy Griffith Hillbillies		Movie: "Cannonball	Movie: "My Science	SportsLook Outdoors
6:00	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Benson	Sanford Honeymooners	Inside The NFL	Run II"	Project"	SportsCenter SpeedWeek
7:00	A-Team	Scarecrow And Mrs. King	Baseball Playoffs	Barnaby Jones	Wash. Week Wall St. Wk.	Movie: "The Deep"	Movie: "Munster Go	Movie: "Stripes"	Movie: "Invasion	Movie: "Maxie"	Wrestling
8:30	Miami Vice	Dallas	Red Sox at Angels	Movie: "I Was A Male	Moneymakers McLaughlin	:	Home"	" "	U.S.A."	"	Top Rank Boxing
9:30	LA Law	Falcon Crest	"	War Bride"	Innovation Market	News	Bonanza	Movie: "Fraternity	Movie: "Year Of The	Movie: "Re-Animator"	Bert Cooper vs. Spencer
10:38	News Tonight	News Dating Game	Buddies M*A*S*H	Late Show	TV Classics Business Rpt.	Magnum, P.I.	Night Tracks - Power Play	Vacation" Movie:	Dragon"	M. Headroom	Chavis SportsCenter
11:00	Rock 'N Roll	Lifestyles	Movie: "Macon	News Movie:	Ctry. Express	Movie:	Night Tracks	"Porky's Revenge"	Movie	Movie: "Perfect	Harness NFL Films
12:30	Evening News Gene Scott	CHIPs	County Line"	"Brother Orchid"		H"	Night Tracks	Not News	" "	Timing" Movie	Fishing Running

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1986

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Kissyfur Gummi Bears	B'stain Bears Wildfire	Wuzzles Care Bears	Tom And Jerry Rainbow Brite	Algebra	Farm Report World Tom.	Wrestling	Movie: "Supergir!"	Movie: "The Girl With	"Starman" Cont'd	Cup Harness
8:00	Smurts	Muppets	Flintstone Kids	Popples Gang	Photo Vision Photo Vision	Charlando Business	National Geographic		Green Eyes"	Movie: "Ghost-	Fishing Fishing
9:30	P. Brewster	Galaxy High Teen Wolf	Ghostbusters Pd. Puppies	Bugs Bunny And Porky Pig	S. Previews Old House	People Wild Kingdom	Explorer	Inside The NFL	Movie: "The Iron	busters"	Running Powerboat
10:30	Chipmunks Universe	Playhouse Circus	Bugs Bunny New Ewoks	Puttin' On	Motorweek Dr. Marc	Photon Transformers	Cimarron Strip	Movie: "The Heavenly	Mistress"	"Life Of The Party: The	Racing SpoCtr.
11:00		Hulk Hogan	Baseball Playoffs	Lifestyles	Painting Vict. Garden	Jem College	College	Kid" Red Balloon	Movie: "Red Dawn"	Story Of Beatrice"	NFL Game Women's
12:30		To Be Announced	Astros at Mets	College Football	Sesame Street	Football Pittsburgh at	Football Auburn at	Workin' For Peanuts	"	Movie: "Cry Rape!"	Bowling Pro Tour
1:00	Colorado at Missouri	College	"	Colorado at Missouri	Write Course Write Course	Notre Dame	Vanderbilt	Movie: "Red Dawn"	The Red Balloon	Movie:	Fashion Actio
2:30	"	Football Michigan	Pregame College	:	Society Society	Twilight Zone	:	".	Movie: "Cloak And	"Victory"	WCT Tennis Scottsdale
3:00	Spts. Legend Victor	State at Michigan	Football Oklahoma vs.	Battlestar Galactica	Psychology Psychology	Soul Train	Bonanza	Movie: "Agnes Of	Dagger"	Movie:	Open Semifinal
4:00	Awards Siskel & Ebert	"	Texas	Buck Rogers	Congress Congress	Puttin' On Good Times	O. Wilson Motorweek	God"	Elton John Breaking	"Man With One Red Shoe"	Horse Racing
5:00	Wheel Fortune NBC News	To Be Announced	:	Black Sheep Squadron	Parenting Animals	It's A Living Big Family	Wrestling	Movie: "Supergir!"	Hearts Tour	"Remo Williams: The	Magic Years Scholastic
6:00	Hee Haw	Mama's Family Country Music	9 To 5 Men Of Oct.	Throb Big Family	Creatures Great & Small	Country At The Movies	College Football	" "	Movie: "Red Dawn"	Adventure Begins"	F'ball Scores College
7:00	Facts Of Life 227	Downtown	Baseball Playoffs	Lifestyles	"Boot Hill Bandits"	Movie: "Mountain	Washington at Stanford	Movie: "The Heavenly		Movie: "Starman"	Football Oklahoma
	Golden Girls Amen	New Mike Hammer	Red Sox at Angels	Movie: "The Siege At	Austin City Limits	Men"	"	Kid" The Hitchhiker	Movie: "Compro-		State at Nebraska
9:00	Hunter	Twilight Zone		Red River"	Special Oper.	News,	Sanford	Robin Williams At The Met	mising Positions"	Movie: "Nightmare On
10:38	News Siskel & Ebert	News Solid Gold	Taxi Movie:	M.T. Moore Movie:	I, Claudius	Write Songs Lifestyles	Night Tracks: Chartbusters	Movie: "Body Double"	Elayne Boosler	Elm Street" "Remo	F'ball Rpt. SportsCenter
11:00	Saturday Night Live	It's A Living	"The ice Pirates"	"The Phantom Of The Opera"	Alive	Police Story	Night Tracks		Movie: "Caged_Heat!"	Williams: The Adventure	Wrestling
12:00	MTV Top 20	At The Movies News	Rifleman	Solid Gold		Twilight Zone	Night Tracks	Movie: "Terminator"	Movie	Begins" Movie	College Football

6 nuggets, potatoes & gravy, biscuit & cole slaw.

For Only

3002 Anderson Expires 10-16-86

ENJOY YOUR LEISURE TIME! Discover LAUNDRY LAND

Drop off your laundry . . . we'll do it for you 7 days a week!

Bring us all your washables for same day wash-dry-fold laundry service. Dry cleaning and self service also available. Try our quick professional service, you'll be glad you did! 2048 N. Tuttle Creek Blvd. 776-1939

K-State alumni donors lead Big Eight

By The Collegian Staff

K-State ranks first in the Big Eight in the percentage of alumni who financially support their alma

Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation, said the number of alumni and friends who support the University through donations has increased from 9,813 in 1978 to more than 25,000 in 1986.

During the past nine years, the Foundation's assets from donors have grown from $16 million to more than $63 million. These assets are not just in dollars and cents. Assets obtained by the Foundation through ex-

Foundation's assets increase greatly

tensive mail solicitations, telefunding and aggressive fund-raising programs include real estate, scholarships, endowments and various programs-and projects of the University.

Loub said the substantial increase is due to the positive response by alumni and friends and is a great tribute to the Foundation and various alumni organizations.

"The Foundation is extremely appreciative of the outstanding response it has received from alumni and friends of K-State over the years. They (contributions) are even more meaningful when Kansas has not enjoyed tremendous economic prosperity," Loub said.

"Fund-raising is successful in direct proportion to the absence of negatives," Loub said. He said he believes if people are turned off by something at the University, they will be less likely to give.

"We must remember very few people are looking to give away money,"

The purpose of the Foundation is to provide those services to the University which are not or cannot be provided through appropriated state funds or student fees and to perpetuate excellence in the educational opportunities at K-State.

The Foundation is currently involved in a fund-raising campaign for the horticulture gardens being planted north of Hollis House along Denison Avenue.

Plans are being made for fundraising drives to finance a major scholarship campaign, distinguished chairs and professorships and an art

Graduate wins award for cancer study

By AMY PETRY Collegian Reporter

A 1972 K-State graduate received national recognition in September for his contributions to the development of a new technique used in cancer research.

Joe Gray, doctoral graduate in physics, was awarded the O.E. Lawrence Memorial Award by Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel.

Gray was honored for his contributions in the field of Flow Cytometry. Flow Cytometry is a technique used to sort living and non-living cells and to analyze several features of cells, said Chander Bhalla, head of the Department of Physics.

The technique has developed over the last 15 years, Gray said, and is "a tool to study the variety of various properties. "This is an honor to be selected for this award," Bhalla said. Thousands of outstanding scientists give contributions to the panel that selects the recipient, he said. Five or six past winners have been Nobel prize winners, he a

The award

the recommendation of his colleagues at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., Bhalla said.

The research is significant to genetics, Bhalla said. Many labs will make use of this technology in the future, he said.

Gray said the Flow Cytometry technique is being implemented in various research areas. Flow Cytometry has developed improved techniques to get information about cell proliferation for research of cancer and Down's Syndrome, Gray said. Clinical trials are currently being conducted with patients in large cancer research institutes, Gray

Flow Cytometry has been successfully used to measure properties of DNA and RNA in individual cells, Gray said. This is done with an instrument that takes individual cells apart and puts them into liquid suspension, he said. The cells are then squirted through a laser beam that adjusts a light wavelength to pick up a fluorescent

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1986

WIBW

Jerry Falwe

NFL Today

Pvt. Ber

CBS News

60 Minutes

Movie: "Circle Of

News Debate

WIBW

Pyramid Card Sharks

As The Work

Violence: A Family Drama

7:00 30 J. Kennedy

1 1:00 Meet Press

12:00 NFL Footbal Kansas City

1:00 Chiefs at

3:00 NFL Footba

6:00 Our House

8:00 Movie: 30 "When The

9:00 Bough

1 1:00 Stan Parri

7:00 Today

10:00 Jeopard

12:30 Days Of Our

3:30 Happy Day

8:30 Movie:

9:00 Mindes

10:00 News

1:00 Lives 1:30 Anoth

8:30

KSNT

10:00 News Throb

KLDH

Playoffs Red Sox at

OCTOBER 13, 1986

KLDH

$1 Mil. Che

All My Children

One Life To Live

M.V.R.H

MFL Foo

Football 700 Club

Angels

A photo detector, a flash of light, then measures the intensity of the electrical pulse properties of DNA content, Gray said. Then the desired cells are collected, and the rest are thrown away, he said.

"The precise measurement happens very fast - 40,000 cells per second," Gray said. "It is interesting to measure DNA content and tell the differences.

'We are able to take chromosomes out of the cells to purify and sort each type," he said. Flow Cytometry makes it easier to extract material in larger quantities for DNA and RNA research, Bhalla said. "Genetics is one of the hardest areas to research," he said.

At K-State, Gray worked in nuclear physics under the supervision of James Legg, professor of physics, Bhalla said.

'He (Legg) is one of the highlights of the faculty for excellent instruction, labs and one-on-one," Bhalla said.

Gray's major contribution was in a different area than his original field,

WGN

Of Sherlock

Odd Coupl

Tales Lou Gran

Fame

WGN

G.I. Joe Transfor

Facts Of Life Good Times

KTWU

Sesame Street

Wall St. Wk.

Firing Line

Wild America Nature Profile

KTWU

Body Electric Hatha Yoga

Congress Algebra

Wildlife McLaughli

3-2-1 Contact

Vost Of The

KSHB

Wrestling

Wild, Wild West

Star Trek

"Tarzan's

Movie: "Ma And Pa

Kettle Back On The Fan

Movie: "Jane Eyre"

Solid Gold

New Gidget It's A Living

Ted Knight Check It Out!

"The Lonely

KSHB

Family Ties M.T. Moore

Bewitched My 3 Sons

Hillbilles Green Acres

Late Show

News Andy Griffith

whole new area; that is what's remarkable," Bhalla said.

Gray said his physics background "got him in the business." The instrumental use in nuclear physics is similar to the usage in Flow Cytometry, Gray said. The quantitative mathematical analysis concept is used to describe behavior of cells, he said.

Gray has been section leader of the cytophysics section in the biomedical sciences division at Livermore since 1982. Previously he worked as assistant adjunct professor of radiology at the University of California, Davis, and adjunct professor of lab medicine at the University of California, San Francisco.

There has not been any kind of Flow Cytometry research in the physics department at K-State, Bhalla said.

SHOW

Duffy Moon The Late Great

Candidate

Movie: "Love With A

Brothers G. Shand

SHOW

Movie: "Garbo Talks"

"The Grey Fox"

Knights Red Haw

Edge"

MAX

Movie:

"Fletch"

"The Op

Movie: "To Sir I

Love"

HBO

"Places In The

Seventeen Fraggle Rock

Movie: "The Razor's

Lional Richi

Fraggle Roci Henry's Cat

Movie: "Maxie

Party"

Movie: "The Little

HBO

Movie: "To Find M

"The Corn is Green"

Out Of Step

Red Balloc

"The Gr

Son"

Drummer Girl'

WTBS

"The Great Gatsby"

"Bareloot The Park"

Explorer

J. Ankerbe

World Tom. Larry Jones

WTBS

Jeannie Bewitche

The Dust

Perry Mas

Movie: "Coast Of

Tom & Jerry And Friends

"A Touch Of

Movie: "Good N

Down To Earth I Love Lucy

Writing bad checks can mean trip to jail

By STEVEN ZADINA Collegian Reporter

Writing a bad check could be the result of poor bookkeeping. It could also mean going directly to jail - without passing Go and without collecting $200.

When a person writes a bad check, he or she is committing a misdemeanor. If the check is for more than $150, the offense is a felony.

After a bad check is written, a warrant may be issued for the person's arrest if the amount is not paid within a given time period. The offender is taken to jail, may post bail to be released and must appear in court. The check writer also has a permanent criminal record.

If a person writes a bad check in Riley County, the business receiving the check is required to send a seven-day registered letter to the person. The letter is to notify the person of the return of the check, the amount due the store and the date by which it must be paid, said Capt. Wayne Anderson of the Riley County Police Department.

If payment is not made by the established date, the check is sent to the county attorney, he said. As of June 1986, the county attorney's office had received several hundred more bad checks than during the same period last year, and a total of 3,100 checks had been received as of Oct. 3.

After receiving the bad check, the county attorney sends another letter to the person stating that if the payment is not made to the store in 10 days, charges will be

If payment is still not made, a warrant is issued for the person's arrest. Between the time he or she is arrested and the court date, the person has one more chance to pay off the check with court costs added. If the money is still not paid, then the case goes to court.

Anderson said when police receive a warrant on an individual, they make every attempt to find that person. If the person cannot be located, the police enter all the available information on the individual into the national crime computer, NCIC. Once the information is stored, the person can be arrested for the check charge if he or she is ever arrested for another crime or given a traffic ticket, Anderson

The minimum penalty for this crime is a $10 to $20 fine and payment of the court costs, the initial amount of the check and the return check charge, said attorney William Kennedy III. The maximum penalty is up to one year in jail, a fine of up to $2,500 and payment of the court costs and the intial amount of the check, Kennedy said.

The county attorney's office will not take a case where the bad check is written for less than $5, although he said some stores want to go to court for as little as 37

visit

n!

THE BEST MEXICAN RESTAURANTE

MAX

Movie: "The Wall"

Movie: "The Bedford

200 020000

ESPN

Fishin' Hole

WCT Tennis Scotteriale

Open Final

Auto Racing CART Lagun

Seca 300

Wrestling

Billiards World Open

SportsCenter

Auto Racing Formula One

Grand Prix of Mexico

ESPN

WCT Tennis Scottsdale

Open Semifinal

Play Golf SportsLook

Aerobics Roller Derby

CFL Footbal

Winnipeg Blue Bombe

Cup

SportsLook Outdoors

SportsCen NFL Films

Magic Years NFL Matchus

Megazine Waterskii

Auto Racing Spe 1000

Jr. Challe

Edday, October 10, 1986 Friday, October 10, 1986

Play Review

Play's lead holds feeling of production

By LAURIE FAIRBURN Entertainment Editor

If it were not for an unwavering performance by Tom Overmyer, Manhattan resident, the Manhattan Civic Theater's production of "Whose Life is it Anyway?" would be as bland as unflavored gelatin.

The production, which opens tonight and runs tomorrow and Oct. 17 and 18, is not, however, without merit. "Whose Life is it Anyway?" is a compelling story about a young sculptor's refusal to accept life as a paraplegic and his struggle for the right to choose his destiny. The conflict that arises between a patient's convictions and a physician's ethics is not one with a pat resolution. But too often this conflict is merely stated, it isn't portrayed.

Overmyer, as the strong-willed Ken Harrison, incorporated more truthful acting in his role than many of his supporting players did with their entire bodies. And he did it lying in a hospital bed, without ever moving from the neck down. Not a twitch escaped from his finger as he screamed at doctors and nurses that he didn't need their help, their Valium, their food.

His supporting players, namely Lori Manges, as Dr. Scott, and David Cox, as Dr. Emerson, lacked physical interpretations of their character. As a result, much strong dialogue lost its potential. Cox occasionally showed a full depth of character, that, if held for the duration would have resulted in a strong performance.

The real acting took place beteen Overmyer and Rix Shanline, Manhattan. Shanline, as hearing Judge Millhouse, was a comfortable, convincing presence on the stage. Once there was a match for Overmyer's performance, the production found its emotional niche.

These two even subdued the extremely poor blocking that plagued the production. Too often the actors performed at the audience. rather than communicating with their fellow actors. This weighed heavily on the success of the performers as an ensemble, and sadly, the play itself.

MCT is located in the basement of the City Auditorium.

own comi the c "I peop entir arou chan "0 what Over move unde creal son. It

Over phys your react said. adjus people Ove relate "H intell who I exter On hard paral Harrison oncerned. constitut

His

Lori a and Depa ing N junio son Clem Joh Larry dent. Hill a Micha Other Ande Nyber Butts Oth Man ny, s mass senio Mank

Butts

The Dolar

Civic

Dol

with

LEE'S WESTERN WEAR

*All boots in stock including Tingley, LaCrosse 5-buckle, Northerner 16" chore boots and 2buckle chore boots. We also carry Northerner insulated boots.

This includes all leather boots, too!! *ALL NAME BRANDS-MADE IN U.S.A. 10% off (with coupon) located 21/2 miles east on Hwy. 24 776-6715 Good through 10/18/86

Writing bad checks

K-State alumni donors lead Big Eight

By The Collegian Staff

K-State ranks first in the Big Eight in the percentage of alumni who financially support their alma

Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation, said the number of alumni and friends who support the University through donations has increased from 9,813 in 1978 to more than 25,000 in 1986.

During the past nine years, the Foundation's assets from donors have grown from $16 million to more than $63 million. These assets are not just in dollars and cents. Assets obtained by the Foundation through ex-

Foundation's assets increase greatly

tensive mail solicitations, telefunding and aggressive fund-raising programs include real estate, scholarships, endowments and various programs and projects of the University.

Loub said the substantial increase is due to the positive response by alumni and friends and is a great tribute to the Foundation and various alumni organizations.

"The Foundation is extremely appreciative of the outstanding response it has received from alumni and friends of K-State over the years. They (contributions) are even more meaningful when Kansas has not enjoyed tremendous economic prosperity," Loub said.

"Fund-raising is successful in direct proportion to the absence of negatives," Loub said. He said he believes if people are turned off by something at the University, they will be less likely to give.

"We must remember very few people are looking to give away money,"

The purpose of the Foundation is to provide those services to the University which are not or cannot be provided through appropriated state funds or student fees and to perpetuate excellence in the educational opportunities at K-State.

The Foundation is currently involved in a fund-raising campaign for the horticulture gardens being planted north of Hollis House along Denison Avenue.

Plans are being made for fundraising drives to finance a major scholarship campaign, distinguished chairs and professorships and an art

Graduate wins award for cancer study

By AMY PETRY Collegian Reporter

A 1972 K-State graduate received national recognition in September for his contributions to the development of a new technique used in cancer research.

Joe Gray, doctoral graduate in physics, was awarded the O.E. Lawrence Memorial Award by Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel.

Gray was honored for his contributions in the field of Flow Cytometry. Flow Cytometry is a technique used to sort living and non-living cells and to analyze several features of cells, said Chander Bhalla, head of the Department of Physics.

The technique has developed over the last 15 years, Gray said, and is "a tool to study the variety of various properties. "This is an honor to be selected for this award," Bhalla said. Thousands of outstanding scientists give contributions to the panel that selects the recipient he said Diese a past winn winners,

The aw

the recommendation of his colleagues at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., Bhalla said.

The research is significant to genetics, Bhalla said. Many labs will make use of this technology in the future, he said.

Gray said the Flow Cytometry technique is being implemented in various research areas. Flow Cytometry has developed improved techniques to get information about cell proliferation for research of cancer and Down's Syndrome, Gray said. Clinical trials are currently being conducted with patients in large cancer research institutes, Gray

Flow Cytometry has been successfully used to measure properties of DNA and RNA in individual cells, Gray said. This is done with an instrument that takes individual cells apart and puts them into liquid suspension, he said.

The cells are then squirted through

A photo detector, a flash of light, then measures the intensity of the electrical pulse properties of DNA content, Gray said. Then the desired cells are collected, and the rest are thrown away, he said.

"The precise measurement happens very fast - 40,000 cells per second," Gray said. "It is interesting to measure DNA content and tell the differences.

"We are able to take chromosomes out of the cells to purify and sort each type," he said.

Flow Cytometry makes it easier to extract material in larger quantities for DNA and RNA research, Bhalla said. "Genetics is one of the hardest areas to research," he said.

At K-State, Gray worked in nuclear physics under the supervision of James Legg, professor of physics, Bhalla said. "He (Legg) is one of the highlights of the faculty for excellent instruction, labs and one-on-one," Bhalla

Grav's major contribution was in a whole new area; that is what's remarkable," Bhalla said.

Gray said his physics background "got him in the business." The instrumental use in nuclear physics is similar to the usage in Flow Cytometry, Gray said. The quantitative mathematical analysis concept is used to describe behavior of cells, he said.

Gray has been section leader of the cytophysics section in the biomedical sciences division at Livermore since 1982. Previously he worked as assistant adjunct professor of radiology at the University of California, Davis, and adjunct professor of lab medicine at the University of California, San Francisco.

There has not been any kind of Flow Cytometry research in the physics department at K-State, Bhalla said.

can mean trip to jail letter to the person stating that if the payment is not made to the

By STEVEN ZADINA Collegian Reporter

Writing a bad check could be the result of poor bookkeeping. It could also mean going directly to jail - without passing Go and without collecting $200.

When a person writes a bad check, he or she is committing a misdemeanor. If the check is for more than $150, the offense is a

After a bad check is written, a warrant may be issued for the person's arrest if the amount is not paid within a given time period. The offender is taken to jail, may post bail to be released and must appear in court. The check writer also has a permanent criminal record.

If a person writes a bad check in Riley County, the business receiving the check is required to send a seven-day registered letter to the person. The letter is to notify the person of the return of the check, the amount due the store and the date by which it must be paid, said Capt. Wayne Anderson of the

Riley County Police Department. If payment is not made by the established date, the check is sent to the county attorney, he said. As of June 1986, the county attorney's office had received several hundred more bad checks than during the same period last year, and a total of 3,100 checks had been received as of Oct. 3.

After receiving the bad check, the county attorney sends another store in 10 days, charges will be

If payment is still not made, a warrant is issued for the person's arrest. Between the time he or she is arrested and the court date, the person has one more chance to pay off the check with court costs added. If the money is still not paid, then the case goes to court.

Anderson said when police receive a warrant on an individual, they make every attempt to find that person. If the person cannot be located, the police enter all the available information on the individual into the national crime computer, NCIC. Once the information is stored, the person can be arrested for the check charge if he or she is ever arrested for another crime or given a traffic ticket, Anderson

The minimum penalty for this crime is a $10 to $20 fine and payment of the court costs, the initial amount of the check and the return check charge, said attorney William Kennedy III. The maximum penalty is up to one year in jail, a fine of up to $2,500 and payment of the court costs and the intial amount of the check, Kennedy said.

The county attorney's office will not take a case where the bad check is written for less than $5, although he said some stores want to go to court for as little as 37

THE BEST

AURANTE

Friday, October 10, 1986

When it's time to decide, very artist's purpose is to take a form and give it life ten by Brian Clark, was critically acand meaning, but when the artist claimed on Broadway. Tom Conte loses this ability or will to create, his received a Tony award for his porwill to live may be destroyed.

This is the plight a young man faces in "Whose Life Is It Anyway?," a Manhattan Civic Theatre production opening at 8 tonight. There will also be 8 p.m. performances Oct. 11, 17 and 18.

"Whose Life Is It Anyway?" is not another depressing story about an individual's inability to go on living. The play portrays the struggle between a patient's right to choose and a doctor's professional ethics that life should be preserved, no matter what

This emotional and stirring play focuses on a young aspiring sculptor, Ken Harrison, recently paralized in an automobile accident. Confined to life in a hospital, he battles against the hospital administration for the right to be discharged, knowing he will be unable to survive without constant medical attention.

trayal of the lead character

Alumnus Tom Overmyer, Manhat tan resident, plays the witty and strong-willed Harrison, forced to depend on a life-support system for basic survival functions. Harrison decides his life is not worth continuing and prepares to fight for his dismissal from the hospital.

To help prepare for this role, Overmyer studied medical journals. For the physicalization, which he said is the most difficult aspect of the characterization, Overmyer studied exercises from Kate Anderson, associate professor of speech, to learn to mentally isolate parts of his body during the performance.

The two-act play evolves around Harrison in his hospital bed, so during the performance the audience sees a physical symbol of L dependence and isolation in the world around him. The constant ac-

TOP: Dr. Scott, played by Lori Manges, Manhattan, ponders a thought while Ken Harrison, played by Tom Overmyer, Manhattan, waits for response. ABOVE:

Nurse Sadler, played by Raina Granger, junior in theater, and Nurse Anderso played by Miriam Climenhaga, sophomore in theater, attend to Harrison.

nent aphs IVED!

ose from! Renoir Seurat and my more

ailable.

K-State ranks first in the Big Eight in the percentage of alumni who financially support their alma

Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation, said the number of alumni and friends who support the University through donations has increased from 9,813 in 1978 to more than 25,000 in 1986.

During the past nine years, the Foundation's assets from donors have grown from $16 million to more than $63 million. These assets are not just in dollars and cents. Assets obtained by the Foundation through ex-

Foundation's assets increase greatly

tensive mail solicitations, telefunding and aggressive fund-raising programs include real estate, scholarships, endowments and various programs and projects of the University.

Loub said the substantial increase is due to the positive response by alumni and friends and is a great tribute to the Foundation and various alumni organizations.

"The Foundation is extremely appreciative of the outstanding response it has received from alumni and friends of K-State over the years. They (contributions) are even more meaningful when Kansas has not enjoyed tremendous economic prosperity," Loub said.

"Fund-raising is successful in direct proportion to the absence of negatives," Loub said. He said he believes if people are turned off by something at the University, they will be less likely to give.

"We must remember very few people are looking to give away money," Loub added.

The purpose of the Foundation is to provide those services to the University which are not or cannot be provided through appropriated state funds or student fees and to perpetuate excellence in the educational opportunities at K-State.

The Foundation is currently involved in a fund-raising campaign for the horticulture gardens being planted north of Hollis House along Denison Avenue.

Plans are being made for fundraising drives to finance a major scholarship campaign, distinguished chairs and professorships and an art

whole new area; that is what's

Gray said his physics background

'got him in the business." The instrumental use in nuclear physics is similar to the usage in Flow

Cytometry, Gray said. The quantitative mathematical analysis concept is used to describe behavior of

Gray has been section leader of the cytophysics section in the biomedical sciences division at Livermore since

1982. Previously he worked as assistant adjunct professor of radiology at

the University of California, Davis,

and adjunct professor of lab

medicine at the University of Califor-

There has not been any kind of

Flow Cytometry research in the physics department at K-State,

remarkable," Bhalla said.

cells, he said.

nia, San Francisco.

Bhalla said.

Writing bad checks can mean trip to jail

By STEVEN ZADINA Collegian Reporter

Writing a bad check could be the result of poor bookkeeping. It could also mean going directly to jail - without passing Go and without collecting $200.

When a person writes a bad check, he or she is committing a misdemeanor. If the check is for more than $150, the offense is a felony.

After a bad check is written, a warrant may be issued for the person's arrest if the amount is not paid within a given time period. The offender is taken to jail, may post bail to be released and must appear in court. The check writer also has a permanent criminal record.

If a person writes a bad check in Riley County, the business receiving the check is required to send a seven-day registered letter to the person. The letter is to notify the person of the return of the check. the amount due the store and the date by which it must be paid, said Capt. Wayne Anderson of the Riley County Police Department.

If payment is not made by the established date, the check is sent to the county attorney, he said. As of June 1986, the county attorney's office had received several hundred more bad checks than during the same period last year, and a total of 3,100 checks had been received as of Oct. 3.

After receiving the bad check, the county attorney sends another letter to the person stating that if the payment is not made to the store in 10 days, charges will be

If payment is still not made, a warrant is issued for the person's arrest. Between the time he or she is arrested and the court date, the person has one more chance to pay off the check with court costs added. If the money is still not paid, then the case goes to court.

Anderson said when police receive a warrant on an individual, they make every attempt to find that person. If the person cannot be located, the police enter all the available information on the individual into the national crime computer, NCIC. Once the information is stored, the person can be arrested for the check charge if he or she is ever arrested for another crime or given a traffic ticket, Anderson said.

The minimum penalty for this crime is a $10 to $20 fine and payment of the court costs, the initial amount of the check and the return check charge, said attorney William Kennedy III. The maximum penalty is up to one year in jail, a fine of up to $2,500 and payment of the court costs and the intial amount of the check, Kennedy said.

The county attorney's office will not take a case where the bad check is written for less than $5, although he said some stores want to go to court for as little as 37

Graduate wins award for cancer study

By AMY PETRY Collegian Reporter

A 1972 K-State graduate received national recognition in September for his contributions to the development of a new technique used in cancer research.

Joe Gray, doctoral graduate in physics, was awarded the O.E. Lawrence Memorial Award by Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel.

Gray was honored for his contributions in the field of Flow Cytometry. Flow Cytometry is a technique used to sort living and non-living cells and to analyze several features of cells, said Chander Bhalla, head of the Department of Physics.

The technique has developed over the last 15 years, Gray said, and is "a tool to study the variety of various properties.

"This is an honor to be selected for this award," Bhalla said. Thousands of outstanding scientists give contributions to the panel that selects the recipient, he said. Five or six past winners have been Nobel prize winners, he a

The award

the recommendation of his colleagues at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore. Calif., Bhalla said.

The research is significant to genetics, Bhalla said. Many labs will make use of this technology in the future, he said.

Gray said the Flow Cytometry technique is being implemented in various research areas. Flow Cytometry has developed improved techniques to get information about cell proliferation for research of cancer and Down's Syndrome, Gray said. Clinical trials are currently being conducted with patients in large cancer research institutes, Gray

Flow Cytometry has been successfully used to measure properties of DNA and RNA in individual cells, Gray said. This is done with an instrument that takes individual cells apart and puts them into liquid suspension, he said. The cells are then squirted through a laser beam that adjusts a light wavelength to pick up a fluorescent

A photo detector, a flash of light, then measures the intensity of the electrical pulse properties of DNA content, Gray said. Then the desired cells are collected, and the rest are thrown away, he said.

"The precise measurement happens very fast - 40,000 cells per second," Gray said. "It is interesting to measure DNA content and tell the differences.

"We are able to take chromosomes out of the cells to purify and sort each type," he said.

Flow Cytometry makes it easier to extract material in larger quantities for DNA and RNA research, Bhalla said. "Genetics is one of the hardest areas to research," he said.

At K-State, Gray worked in nuclear physics under the supervision of James Legg, professor of physics, Bhalla said.

"He (Legg) is one of the highlights of the faculty for excellent instruction, labs and one-on-one," Bhalla

Gray's major contribution was in a different area than his original field,

MEXICAN RESTAURANTE

Friday, October 10, 1986

Those Life is it Anyway?'

tivity around him emphasizes his own helplessness and nelps create compassion and understanding for the character.

"I am so totally dependent on other people," Overmyer said, "during the entire play I have people moving around me like I'm a piece of mer-

"Of course, I cannot really know what it feels like to be handicapped,' Overmyer said, "but the inability to move below the neck helped me understand the frustration and create a real compassion for this person."

It is this frustration that helps Overmyer relate to the character physically.

"You have to realize that any kind of severe injury is such a blow to your body that your mind is going to react in a different way," Overmyer said. "It takes people a long time to adjust to these changes and some people, unfortunately, never do."

Overmyer said he believes he relates well to his character.

"He's quick-witted. He's fun. He's intelligent and he's an intense person who believes his sculpting work is an extension of himself."

On a serious level, Harrison finds it hard to continue his life as a paraplegic. "I do not wish to die," Harrison says, "but as far as I'm oncerned...this condition does not onstitute life.'

His two physicians are played by Lori Manges, Manhattan resident, and David Cox, chairman of the Department of Biochemistry. Playing Nurse Sadler is Raina Granger, junior in theater. Head Nurse Anderson is played by Miriam Clemenhaga, sophomore in theater.

John the orderly is played by Larry Nicholson, Manhattan resident. The two defending attorneys, Hill and Kershaw, are played by Michael McCarty and Don Olsen. Other parts in the play are by Meg Anderson, Corbin Novotny, Ann Nyberg, Rix Shanline and Janice Butts.

Other players are Meg Anderson, Manhattan resident; Corbin Novotny, sophomore in journalism and mass communications; Ann Nyberg, senior in theater, Rix Shanline, Manhattan resident, and Janice Butts, senior in theater.

The director of the play is Frank Dolan, vice president of Manhattan Civic Theatre.

Dolan said the play deals not only with how Harrison feels, but also with the manner the other characters react to the situation.

Harrison is constantly sensitive to the professionalism that shrouds the hospital and its employees. In one scene, the inexperienced Nurse Sadler asks Harrison, "What did you do?" With a hint of sarcasm, he informs her that using the past tense to a handicapped person is not allowed in the professonal medical world.

Harrison's attitude about life is not one of despair. He realizes hospitals are good, and he knows that maybe some people have made good lives for themselves, but each man must make his own decision, and he has made his.

As with this acceptance, the audience can see Harrison go through the emotions that accompany any loss. There's anger, there's sorrow, but at the end there is finally accep-

Harrison's acceptance of his inability to continue living outside the hospital is what the psychiatrists focus on in a hearing to prove he is clinically depressed and therefore not mentally able to make a competent decision. Harrison's defense is based on the Writ of Habeus Corpus, a law that makes it illegal to deprive a person of his basic rights.

"The issue in this play is so important, and each person in the audience will deal with it differently," Overmyer said. "With this play, the audience is not just entertained, but also forced to think about the issue of the right to life."

"I'd like to see people really discussing the issue when they leave, and not just the play," Dolan said.

ABOVE: David Cox, head of the Department of Biochemistry, as Dr. Emerson, and Dr. Scott discuss further treatments. BELOW: Harrison spends one of many reflective moments alone in his hospital bed.

Story by Melissa Ranson Photos by John Thelander

pon per visit

nent aphs IVED!

ose from!

Renoir Seurat and any more

ailable.

K-State ranks first in the Big Eight in the percentage of alumni who financially support their alma

Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation, said the number of alumni and friends who support the University through donations has increased from 9,813 in 1978 to more than 25,000 in 1986.

During the past nine years, the Foundation's assets from donors have grown from $16 million to more than $63 million. These assets are not just in dollars and cents. Assets obtained by the Foundation through ex-

Foundation's assets increase greatly

tensive mail solicitations, telefunding and aggressive fund-raising programs include real estate, scholarships, endowments and various programs and projects of the University.

Loub said the substantial increase is due to the positive response by alumni and friends and is a great tribute to the Foundation and various alumni organizations.

"The Foundation is extremely appreciative of the outstanding response it has received from alumni and friends of K-State over the years. They (contributions) are even more meaningful when Kansas has not enjoyed tremendous economic prosperity," Loub said.

"Fund-raising is successful in direct proportion to the absence of negatives," Loub said. He said he believes if people are turned off by something at the University, they will be less likely to give.

"We must remember very few people are looking to give away money,"

The purpose of the Foundation is to provide those services to the University which are not or cannot be provided through appropriated state funds or student fees and to perpetuate excellence in the educational opportunities at K-State.

The Foundation is currently involved in a fund-raising campaign for the horticulture gardens being planted north of Hollis House along Denison Avenue.

Plans are being made for fundraising drives to finance a major scholarship campaign, distinguished chairs and professorships and an art

"got him in the business." The instrumental use in nuclear physics is similar to the usage in Flow

Cytometry, Gray said. The quantitative mathematical analysis concept is used to describe behavior of

Gray has been section leader of the

cytophysics section in the biomedical

sciences division at Livermore since

1982. Previously he worked as assistant adjunct professor of radiology at

the University of California, Davis,

and adjunct professor of lab

medicine at the University of Califor-

There has not been any kind of

Flow Cytometry research in the

physics department at K-State,

cells, he said.

nia, San Francisco.

Bhalla said.

Writing bad checks can mean trip to jail

By STEVEN ZADINA Collegian Reporter

Writing a bad check could be the result of poor bookkeeping. It could also mean going directly to jail - without passing Go and without collecting $200.

When a person writes a bad check, he or she is committing a misdemeanor. If the check is for more than $150, the offense is a

After a bad check is written, a warrant may be issued for the person's arrest if the amount is not paid within a given time period. The offender is taken to jail, may post bail to be released and must appear in court. The check writer also has a permanent criminal record.

If a person writes a bad check in Riley County, the business receiving the check is required to send a seven-day registered letter to the person. The letter is to notify the person of the return of the check, the amount due the store and the date by which it must be paid, said Capt. Wayne Anderson of the Riley County Police Department.

If payment is not made by the established date, the check is sent to the county attorney, he said. As of June 1986, the county attorney's office had received several hundred more bad checks than during the same period last year, and a total of 3,100 checks had been received as of Oct. 3.

After receiving the bad check, the county attorney sends another letter to the person stating that if the payment is not made to the store in 10 days, charges will be

If payment is still not made, a warrant is issued for the person's arrest. Between the time he or she is arrested and the court date, the person has one more chance to pay off the check with court costs added. If the money is still not paid, then the case goes to court.

Anderson said when police receive a warrant on an individual, they make every attempt to find that person. If the person cannot be located, the police enter all the available information on the individual into the national crime computer, NCIC. Once the information is stored, the person can be arrested for the check charge if he or she is ever arrested for another crime or given a traffic ticket, Anderson

The minimum penalty for this crime is a $10 to $20 fine and payment of the court costs, the initial amount of the check and the return check charge, said attorney William Kennedy III. The maximum penalty is up to one year in jail, a fine of up to $2,500 and payment of the court costs and the intial amount of the

check, Kennedy said. The county attorney's office will not take a case where the bad check is written for less than $5, although he said some stores want to go to court for as little as 37

Graduate wins award for cancer study the recommendation of his colwhole new area; that is what's A photo detector, a flash of light, By AMY PETRY then measures the intensity of the remarkable," Bhalla said. leagues at Lawrence Livermore Na-Gray said his physics background

Collegian Reporter

A 1972 K-State graduate received national recognition in September for his contributions to the development of a new technique used in cancer research.

Joe Gray, doctoral graduate in physics, was awarded the O.E. Lawrence Memorial Award by Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel.

Gray was honored for his contributions in the field of Flow Cytometry. Flow Cytometry is a technique used to sort living and non-living cells and to analyze several features of cells, said Chander Bhalla, head of the Department of Physics.

The technique has developed over the last 15 years, Gray said, and is "a tool to study the variety of various properties.

"This is an honor to be selected for this award," Bhalla said. Thousands of outstanding scientists give contributions to the panel that selects the recipient he said. Five or six past winner:

winners, he

The awar

tional Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., Bhalla said.

The research is significant to genetics, Bhalla said. Many labs will make use of this technology in the future, he said.

Gray said the Flow Cytometry technique is being implemented in various research areas. Flow Cytometry has developed improved techniques to get information about cell proliferation for research of cancer and Down's Syndrome, Gray said. Clinical trials are currently being conducted with patients in large cancer research institutes, Gray

Flow Cytometry has been successfully used to measure properties of DNA and RNA in individual cells, Gray said. This is done with an instrument that takes individual cells apart and puts them into liquid suspension, he said.

The cells are then squirted through a laser beam that adjusts a light electrical pulse properties of DNA content, Gray said. Then the desired cells are collected, and the rest are thrown away, he said.

"The precise measurement happens very fast - 40,000 cells per second," Gray said. "It is interesting to measure DNA content and tell the differences

"We are able to take chromosomes out of the cells to purify and sort each type," he said.

Flow Cytometry makes it easier to extract material in larger quantities for DNA and RNA research, Bhalla said. "Genetics is one of the hardest areas to research," he said.

At K-State, Gray worked in nuclear physics under the supervision of James Legg, professor of physics, Bhalla said.

'He (Legg) is one of the highlights of the faculty for excellent instruction, labs and one-on-one," Bhalla said.

Gray's major contribution was in a

Friday, October 10, 1986

Friday, October 10, 1986

Music Review Anita Baker

triumphs on latest release

By DERON JOHNSON Features Editor

Remember in elementary school when your teacher taught you about onomatopoeia, words - such gurgle" or "buzz" — whose sounds suggest their meaning?

If so, you'll understand me when I say the name Anita Baker is onomatopoetic with the definition of her music: smooth. If not, you'll love the album anyway.

"Rapture" is the newest release by Baker, whose velvet-covered pipes probably couldn't emit a wrong note if they had to. It is truly a treat to hear Baker, who sings with an eloquence and emotional intensity unparalleled by any popular singer today. Side one opens with "Sweet Love," a song which has received considerable airplay. Anyone who believes romance is dead needs to give this song a listen.

This song is exemplary of the entire album in that Baker's singing is enhanced by rich background vocals and instrumentation. However, Baker is not over-powered by these elements. She proves a fine voice really needs no embellishment.

The words and music of three of the album's eight cuts are written by Baker. Besides Baker's voice, the stongest part of this album are the lyrics. There is not one cliche or tired phrase on the album and this is significant considering seven of the songs are "love"

Another standout on side one is "Caught Up in the Rapture," the best song on the album. "Caught up in the rapture of love/ "Nothing else can compare/ "When I feel the magic of you." There is an ever-sosubtle guitar accompaniment throughout the song which com-pletes the fine blend of instrumen-

Side two begins with "Mystery," a song originally performed by Manhattan Transfer. Baker's ver-sion is a little slower and much more soulful than her predecessors'. Probably the only criticism of the song is it would be better to hear Baker sing something we haven't already

See ANITA, Page 7

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1986

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:30	0 %	CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Defenders	y Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Oh God! You	Movie:	"Raisin In The
8:30			"	GoBots Beaver	Sesame Stree		Down To Eart Love Lucy		"Victory"	Sun" Cont'd Movie:	SportsCent
9:30		Pyramid Card Sharks	Jeannie $1 Mil. Chance	Family Ties M.T. Moore	Sesame Street	1101-011-01	Movie: "The Man I	Movie:	Movie:	"A Test Of Love"	Scottsdale Open Final
10:30	Jeopardy Scrabble	Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Family Ties	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Big Valley	Love"	"Red Dawn"	"The Whisperers"	Movie: "Victory"	Wrestling
11:00		Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched My 3 Sons	Write Course	Falcon Crest	Perry Mason	Movie:	Movie:	"	SportsLook
12:30		Midday As The World	All My Children	Get Smart	Psychology Sesame Street	News	Movie:	"Royal	"Cannonball	Movie:	Aerobics Surfer
4:00	Lives	Turns	One Life To	Andy Griffith Hillbillies	"	"	"They Made	Wedding" Movie Makers	Run II"	"Diamond Horseshoe"	College Football
1:30		Capitol	Live	Green Acres	Masterpiece Theatre	Dick Van Dyke Carol Burnett	Me A Criminal"	Movie: "Advice To	Movie: "Streets Of	Maria	Oklahoma
2:30		Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Mod. Maturity Living	Andy Griffith Heathcilff	Tom & Jerry And Friends	The Lovelorn"	Fire"	Movie: "Night Of The	State at Nebraska
3:30		Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurts	Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurts	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Movie:	Movie:	Comet"	Women's
4:00	Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flinstones Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Beaver	"Teen Wolf"	"Whistle Down The Wind"	Movie: "Ghost-	Bowling Pro Tour
5:30	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Diff. Strokes Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life Good Times	Andy Griffith	To Climb Seventeen	Tall Tales &	busters"	Scholastic SportsLook
6:30	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNell / Lehrer	Barney Miller	Sanford	Movie: "Android"	Legends Paper Chase	Movie: "Man With One	Cowboys
7:00	Matlock	Wizard	Boss / P'off	Barnaby Jones	Nova	Benson Movie:	Honeymooners Movie:	"	"	Red Shoe"	SportsCenter Baseball
	Crime Story	Movie:	Pains / P'off	Last	"	"Body Heat"	"Money From	Movie: "Red Dawn"	Movie: "Victory"	Movie: "A Test Of	Superbouts
O:30	1986	"Miles To Go"	M'light / B'ball P'off	Convertible	The Airicans		Home"		"	Love" M. Headroom	Roller Derby
9:30	"		J. & Mike / B'ball P'off	:	War And Peace	News	Movie: "Death	The Hitchhiker Weird Tales	Huey Lewis Movie:	Movie:	Kick Boxing
0:30	News Tonight	News Dating Game	Buddles M*A*S*H	Late Show	TV Classics Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	Penalty"	Movie:	"Streets Of	"The Spiral Staircase"	From Atlanta
1:00		Simon & Simon	Nightline 700 Club	News Andy Griffith	Newsleaders			"Teen Wolf"	Fire"	Movie:	SportsCenter
2:30		Movie: "Other Women"		Dick Van Dyke Three Stooges		"Young Philadelp- hiens"	Portrait Of America	Robin Williams At The Met	Movie: "Company Of	Love"	NFL Stars Top Rank Boxing

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1986

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:30		CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Defenders	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Lies My	Movie: "Love With A	"Love and	Business
8:30				GoBots Beaver	Sesame Stree	Hilbilles	Down To Earl		Perfect	Crazy About The Movies	SportsCen Sallboardir
9:30	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Jeannie $1 Mil. Chance	Family Ties M.T. Moore	Sesame Stree	Weltons	Movie: "Second	Not News Movie:	Stranger" Movie:	Movie:	Gr. Prix of
10:30	Jeopardy Scrabble	Price is Right	Fame Fortune Family Ties	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Hathe Yoge	Big Valley	Sight: A Love Story"	"Reno And	"Gold is Where You	"Cover Girl"	Mex. Baseball
11:30	Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restiess	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched My 3 Sons	Congress Algebra	Falcon Crest	Perry Mason	The Doc" Movie: "Maxie"	Find It" Movie:	Movie:	SportsLook
12:30	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Get Smert Andy Griffen	Sesame Street	News	Movie: "Day Of The		"Closk And Degger"	"Fort Apache"	Hydroplane
1:00	Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	Hillbillies Green Acres	Nova	Dick Van Dyke Carol Burnett		Lionel Richie Movie:	Movie:	*	Racing Old Timers Baseball
2:00	Santa Berbera	Guiding Light	Gen Hos. / P'all	Munaters Zoobilee Zoo	Story Of English	Andy Griffish Heathcliff	Tom & Jerry And Friends	"Forbidden"	"Red Dawn"	Movie: "Starmen"	Classic
3:00	Happy Days	Magnum, P.L	Pleyofts Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurts	Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurts	Scooby Doo Flintstones		Bogg Meet The		Wrestling
4:00	Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life	Donahue	ThunderCats Playoffs	Finatones Jetsons	Mater Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Beaver	Survival	Wombles	Movie: "Cry Rapel"	".
5:30	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Diff. Strokes Gimme Break	Secame Street	Facts Of Life Good Times	Andy Griffish	"Supergirl"	Movie:	Movie: "The	Horse Wk. SportsLook
6:00	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M'A'S'H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNetl / Lehrer	Berney Miller	Sanford		"Love With A Perfect	Oblindatable	Outdoors
7:00	Highway To Heaven	Together Better Days	Poll Class / Poll	Barneby Jones	Re	Movie: "The Sunshine	Honeymooners Movie: "Meye"	Movie: "Stripes"	Stranger" Brothers	Experiment"	SportsCenter NHL Hockey Montreal
8:00	Gimme Break You Again?	Magnum, P.L.	Dynasty / Baseball P'off	Last Convertible	Movie:	"The Sunshine Boys"	"Mays"	"Stripes"	G. Shandling Movie:	"My Science Project"	Canediene at
	St. Eleawhere	Equation	Hotel / Baseball P'off	" "	"Huey Long"	News	Movie:	Movie:	Movie: "Creator"	Movie:	Buffalo Sabres
	News Tonight	News Dating Game	Buddles M'A'S'H	Late Show	TV Classics Business Rpt.	Honeymooners.	"A Last Cry For Help"	"Maxie"	Mouter	"Creator"	Baseball
1 1:00		Hot Shots	Mobilina	News	Old House	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	"	Not News	Movie: "Night School"		Cup SportsCenter
1 0:00	ettermen	Movie:	700 Caus	Andy Griffith Dick Van Dyke		Movie:	Movie:	Movie:	Movie:	Williams: The	Fishin' Hole
12:30 (Gene Scott	"Deadly Game"	Riffeman	Three Stooges		"Up Periscope"	"Girtel Girtel Girtel"	"The Terminator"	"Year Of The Dragon"	Adventure Begins"	Flathing Fashion

HAIR STYLING & TANNING 1107 N. 3rd, 537-1003

Buy any deli-sandwich, get one of equal value FREE!

Now through Oct. 16 (with coupon)

*Void with any other offer

nd

upon per visit

ment raphs UVED!

toose from!

Renoir Seurat and nany more

vailable. union

K-State ranks first in the Big Eight in the percentage of alumni who financially support their alma

Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation, said the number of alumni and friends who support the University through donations has increased from 9,813 in 1978 to more than 25,000 in 1986.

During the past nine years, the Foundation's assets from donors have grown from $16 million to more than $63 million. These assets are not just in dollars and cents. Assets obtained by the Foundation through ex-

Foundation's assets increase greatly

tensive mail solicitations, telefunding and aggressive fund-raising programs include real estate, scholarships, endowments and various programs and projects of the University.

Loub said the substantial increase is due to the positive response by alumni and friends and is a great tribute to the Foundation and various alumni organizations.

"The Foundation is extremely appreciative of the outstanding response it has received from alumni and friends of K-State over the years. They (contributions) are even more meaningful when Kansas has not enjoyed tremendous economic prosperity," Loub said.

"Fund-raising is successful in direct proportion to the absence of negatives," Loub said. He said he believes if people are turned off by something at the University, they will be less likely to give.

"We must remember very few people are looking to give away money,"

The purpose of the Foundation is to provide those services to the University which are not or cannot be provided through appropriated state funds or student fees and to perpetuate excellence in the educational opportunities at K-State.

The Foundation is currently involved in a fund-raising campaign Denison Avenue.

Plans are being made for fund-for the horticulture gardens being planted north of Hollis House along

raising drives to finance a major scholarship campaign, distinguished chairs and professorships and an art

Graduate wins award for cancer study

By AMY PETRY Collegian Reporter

A 1972 K-State graduate received national recognition in September for his contributions to the development of a new technique used in cancer research.

Joe Gray, doctoral graduate in physics, was awarded the O.E. Lawrence Memorial Award by Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel.

Gray was honored for his contributions in the field of Flow Cytometry. Flow Cytometry is a technique used to sort living and non-living cells and to analyze several features of cells. said Chander Bhalla, head of the Department of Physics.

The technique has developed over the last 15 years, Gray said, and is "a tool to study the variety of various properties. "This is an honor to be selected for this award," Bhalla said. Thousands of outstanding scientists give contributions to the panel that selects the recipient, he said. Five or six past winners have been Nobel prize winners, he added. The award was given to Gray at the recommendation of his colleagues at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., Bhalla said.

The research is significant to genetics, Bhalla said. Many labs will make use of this technology in the future, he said.

Gray said the Flow Cytometry technique is being implemented in various research areas. Flow Cytometry has developed improved techniques to get information about cell proliferation for research of cancer and Down's Syndrome, Gray said. Clinical trials are currently being conducted with patients in large cancer research institutes, Gray said.

Flow Cytometry has been successfully used to measure properties of DNA and RNA in individual cells, Gray said. This is done with an instrument that takes individual cells apart and puts them into liquid suspension, he said. The cells are then squirted through a laser beam that adjusts a light wavelength to pick up a fluorescent dye in the cell used to identify particular DNA or RNA, Gray said.

A photo detector, a flash of light, then measures the intensity of the electrical pulse properties of DNA content, Gray said. Then the desired cells are collected, and the rest are thrown away, he said.

"The precise measurement happens very fast - 40,000 cells per second," Gray said. "It is interesting to measure DNA content and tell the differences.

"We are able to take chromosomes out of the cells to purify and sort each type," he said.

Flow Cytometry makes it easier to extract material in larger quantities for DNA and RNA research, Bhalla said. "Genetics is one of the hardest areas to research," he said.

At K-State, Gray worked in nuclear physics under the supervision of James Legg, professor of physics, Bhalla said. "He (Legg) is one of the highlights of the faculty for excellent instruction, labs and one-on-one," Bhalla Gray's major contribution was in a different area than his original field, Bhalla said. "He took what he learned at Kansas State and applied it to a whole new area; that is what's remarkable," Bhalla said.

Gray said his physics background 'got him in the business." The instrumental use in nuclear physics is similar to the usage in Flow Cytometry, Gray said. The quantitative mathematical analysis concept is used to describe behavior of cells, he said.

Gray has been section leader of the cytophysics section in the biomedical sciences division at Livermore since 1982. Previously he worked as assistant adjunct professor of radiology at the University of California, Davis, and adjunct professor of lab medicine at the University of California, San Francisco.

There has not been any kind of Flow Cytometry research in the physics department at K-State, Bhalla said.

Writing bad checks can mean trip to jail

By STEVEN ZADINA Collegian Reporter

Writing a bad check could be the result of poor bookkeeping. It could also mean going directly to jail - without passing Go and without collecting $200.

When a person writes a bad check, he or she is committing a misdemeanor. If the check is for more than $150, the offense is a felony.

After a bad check is written, a warrant may be issued for the person's arrest if the amount is not paid within a given time period. The offender is taken to jail, may post bail to be released and must appear in court. The check writer also has a permanent criminal record.

If a person writes a bad check in Riley County, the business receiving the check is required to send a seven-day registered letter to the person. The letter is to notify the person of the return of the check, the amount due the store and the date by which it must be paid, said Capt. Wayne Anderson of the Riley County Police Department.

If payment is not made by the established date, the check is sent to the county attorney, he said. As of June 1986, the county attorney's office had received several hundred more bad checks than during the same period last year, and a total of 3,100 checks had been received as of Oct. 3.

After receiving the bad check, the county attorney sends another letter to the person stating that if the payment is not made to the store in 10 days, charges will be filed.

If payment is still not made, a warrant is issued for the person's arrest. Between the time he or she is arrested and the court date, the person has one more chance to pay off the check with court costs added. If the money is still not paid, then the case goes to court. Anderson said when police receive a warrant on an individual, they make every attempt to find that person. If the person cannot be located, the police enter all the available information on the individual into the national crime computer, NCIC. Once the information is stored, the person can be arrested for the check charge if he or she is ever arrested for another crime or given a traffic ticket, Anderson said.

The minimum penalty for this crime is a $10 to $20 fine and payment of the court costs, the initial amount of the check and the return check charge, said attorney William Kennedy III. The maximum penalty is up to one year in jail, a fine of up to $2,500 and payment of the court costs and the intial amount of the check, Kennedy said.

The county attorney's office will not take a case where the bad check is written for less than $5, although he said some stores want to go to court for as little as 37

THE BEST MEXICAN RESTAURANTE

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1986

	KSNT	WIBW	KLDH	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00		CBS Morning News	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Defenders	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo _{,,}	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Oxford	Movie: "Ups &	"Tommy" Cont'd	Business SportsCenter
8:00	:	"	" "	GoBots Beaver	Sesame Street	Hillbillies	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	Blues"	Downs"	Movie: "Man With One	Horse Wk. Cup
9:30	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Be Thinner $1 Mil. Chance	Family Ties M.T. Moore	Sesame Street	Waltons	Movie: "That Hagen	Movie: "Murrow"	Movie: "The Girl With	Red Shoe" Movie:	Auto Racing CART Lagun
10:30	Jeopardy Scrabble	Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Family Ties	Laverne & Shirley	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Big Valley	Girl"	:	Green Eyes"	"The Opposite Sex"	Seca 300 SportsLook
11:30	Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched My 3 Sons	Write Course Psychology	Falcon Crest	Perry Mason	Movie: "Agnes Of	Elton John Breaking	Movie:	Aerobics NHL Hockey
12:30	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Get Smart Andy Griffith	Sesame Street	News	Movie: "The	God"	Hearts Tour	"The Jigsaw Man"	Montreal Canadiens at
1:00		Turns Capitol	One Life To	Hillbillies Green Acres	Shakespeare Hour	Dick Van Dyke Carol Burnett	Adventures Of Robin Hood"	Movie: "The Aviator"	Movie: "Cimarron"	"Life Of The Party: The	Buffalo Sabres
2:00	The state of the s	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Photo Vision	Andy Griffith Heathcliff	Tom & Jerry And Friends	:	"	Story Of Beatrice"	Auto Racing
3:00		Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurfs	Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Movie: "1001 Arabian	Red Hawk Movie:	M. Headroom Movie:	Billards
4:00	Diff Strokes	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flinstones Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Beaver	Nights" Movie:	"Ups & Downs"	"A View To A Kill"	World Open '85 Packers
5:00		News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Diff. Strokes Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life Good Times	Andy Griffith Hillbillies	"The Heavenly Kid"	Paul's Case	:	SportsLook Fishing
6:30		News Newsyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNell / Lehrer	Barney Miller Benson	Sanford Honeymooners	Movie: "Oxford	 Washingtoon	Movie: "To Sir With	Sports/Center Speed/Week
7:00		Simon & Simon	O. World / Baseball P'off	Barnaby Jones	Airmen Missing	Movie: "Fun With	Movie: "World War	Blues"	Movie: "Teachers"	Love"	College Football
8:00		Knots Landing	Colbys / Baseball P'off	Pound Pupples	Mysteryl	Dick And Jane"	III"	Movie: "Agnes Of		Movie: "Man With One	Murray State at Akron
9:30		Kay O'Brien	20-20 / Baseball P'off	Star Fairles	A.C. Clarke S. Previews	News	Movie: "Willard"	God"	Movie: "Altered	Red Shoe" Cornedy	:
10:30	Manue	News Dating Game	Buddies M*A*S*H	Late Show	TV Classics Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	:	Inside The NFL	States"	Movie: "Mata Hari"	Wrestling SportsCenter
4 4:00		Adderly	Nightline 700 Club	News Andy Griffith	World Chess	Movie:	Movie: "The Hunted	Verdict: The Wrong Man	Gallagher	:	NFL Films Karate
11:36 12:38	Letterman	"Dark Side Of Innocence"	Rifleman	Dick Van Dyke Three Stooges		"Sergeant Rutledge"	Lady"	Movie: "Body Double"	Movie: "Caged Heat!"	"Into the Night"	Pro Champ. Horse Wk.

Friday, October 10, 1986

Continued from Page 6

heard, even though she turns in a wonderful rendition.

Another song on side two, "Watch Your Step," allows Baker to stand up to her man a la Tina Turner. "I know the kind of pain you offer/ "Baby, I've felt your kind of pain before/ "Change your mind like revolving doors/ change your clothes."

Overall, this album puts the listener in such a mellow, reflective mood that someone could drop a bomb or a Wendy O. Williams album on the turntable and you wouldn't much care. Baker simply oozes soul.

Probably the only problem Baker has with this album is it will be a monumental task to equal or surpass it her next time in the studio. Such a task would certainly be intimidating, even if your name is Anita Baker.

But that's the future. For now, do yourself a favor: Get comfortable in your favorite easy chair, dim the lights and let Baker's soothing vocals take over. You won't be disappointed.

of ind

coupon per visit

Crocodile DUNDEE Look who's sneaking

6p.m.—all seats $2.50 Movie info. 539-1291 Tuesday is bargain night!

All shows starting before into town!

"CROCODILE DUNDEE" DAILY AT 7 & 9 RATED PG-13 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 3 & 5

LATE SHOW FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NIGHT "CLOCKWORK ORANGE" RATED R FRI. & SAT. AT MIDNIGHT

COMING SOON "CAMPUS THEATRE". THE COLOR OF MONEY" STARRING PAUL NEWMAN AND TOM CRUISE

DAILY The Boy Who AT 4:30-7-9:30 Could MATINEE Fly SAT. &

RATED R

MATINEE SAT.& SUN.

AT 2:10

"THAT'S LIFE"

RATED PG-13

DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:20

MATINEE SAT. & SUN.

AT 2:10

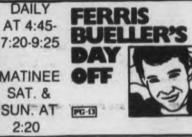

PG SUN. AT 2

PG-13

Cruise

'JUMPIN' JACK FLASH" AT 4:45-7:20-9:25 DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:20 SAT. &

"DEADLY FRIEND"

RATED R DAILY AT 4:45-7:20-9:25

MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2:20

ment raphs LIVED!

loose from!

Renoir Seurat and nany more

vailable.

K-State alumni donors lead Big Eight

By The Collegian Staff

K-State ranks first in the Big Eight in the percentage of alumni who financially support their alma

Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation, said the number of alumni and friends who support the University through donations has increased from 9,813 in 1978 to more than 25,000 in 1986.

During the past nine years, the Foundation's assets from donors have grown from $16 million to more than $63 million. These assets are not just in dollars and cents. Assets obtained by the Foundation through exFoundation's assets increase greatly

tensive mail solicitations, telefunding and aggressive fund-raising programs include real estate, scholarships, endowments and various programs and projects of the University.

Loub said the substantial increase is due to the positive response by alumni and friends and is a great tribute to the Foundation and various alumni organizations.

"The Foundation is extremely appreciative of the outstanding response it has received from alumni and friends of K-State over the years. They (contributions) are even more meaningful when Kansas has not enjoyed tremendous economic prosperity," Loub said.

"Fund-raising is successful in direct proportion to the absence of negatives," Loub said. He said he believes if people are turned off by something at the University, they will be less likely to give.

"We must remember very few people are looking to give away money," Loub added.

The purpose of the Foundation is to provide those services to the University which are not or cannot be provided through appropriated state funds or student fees and to perpetuate excellence in the educational opportunities at K-State.

The Foundation is currently involved in a fund-raising campaign for the horticulture gardens being planted north of Hollis House along Denison Avenue.

Plans are being made for fundraising drives to finance a major scholarship campaign, distinguished chairs and professorships and an art

Graduate wins award for cancer study

ASK A FRIEND ABOUT

By AMY PETRY Collegian Reporter

A 1972 K-State graduate received national recognition in September for his contributions to the development of a new technique used in cancer research.

Joe Gray, doctoral graduate in physics, was awarded the O.E. Lawrence Memorial Award by Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel.

Gray was honored for his contributions in the field of Flow Cytometry. Flow Cytometry is a technique used to sort living and non-living cells and to analyze several features of cells, said Chander Bhalla, head of the Department of Physics.

The technique has developed over the last 15 years, Gray said, and is "a tool to study the variety of various properties.

'This is an honor to be selected for this award," Bhalla said. Thousands of outstanding scientists give contributions to the pa--1 +hat the recipient, he sa past winners have I winners, he added.

The award was g leagues at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., Bhalla said.

The research is significant to genetics, Bhalla said. Many labs will make use of this technology in the future, he said.

the recommendation of his col-

Gray said the Flow Cytometry technique is being implemented in various research areas. Flow Cytometry has developed improved techniques to get information about cell proliferation for research of cancer and Down's Syndrome, Gray said. Clinical trials are currently being conducted with patients in large cancer research institutes, Gray

Flow Cytometry has been successfully used to measure properties of DNA and RNA in individual cells, Gray said. This is done with an instrument that takes individual cells apart and puts them into liquid suspension, he said.

Friday, October 10, 1986

alla are then squirted through

A photo detector, a flash of light, then measures the intensity of the electrical pulse properties of DNA content, Gray said. Then the desired cells are collected, and the rest are thrown away, he said.

"The precise measurement happens very fast - 40,000 cells per second," Gray said. "It is interesting to measure DNA content and tell the differences.

"We are able to take chromosomes out of the cells to purify and sort each type," he said.

Flow Cytometry makes it easier to extract material in larger quantities for DNA and RNA research, Bhalla said. "Genetics is one of the hardest areas to research," he said.

At K-State, Gray worked in nuclear physics under the supervision of James Legg, professor of physics, Bhalla said.

"He (Legg) is one of the highlights of the faculty for excellent instruction, labs and one-on-one," Bhalla does it better!

whole new area; that is what's remarkable," Bhalla said.

Gray said his physics background "got him in the business." The instrumental use in nuclear physics is similar to the usage in Flow Cytometry, Gray said. The quantitative mathematical analysis concept is used to describe behavior of cells, he said.

Gray has been section leader of the cytophysics section in the biomedical sciences division at Livermore since 1982. Previously he worked as assistant adjunct professor of radiology at the University of California, Davis, and adjunct professor of lab medicine at the University of California, San Francisco.

There has not been any kind of Flow Cytometry research in the physics department at K-State, Bhalla said.

Writing bad checks can mean trip to jail

By STEVEN ZADINA Collegian Reporter

Writing a bad check could be the result of poor bookkeeping. It could also mean going directly to jail - without passing Go and without collecting $200.

When a person writes a bad check, he or she is committing a misdemeanor. If the check is for more than $150, the offense is a

After a bad check is written, a warrant may be issued for the person's arrest if the amount is not paid within a given time period. The offender is taken to jail, may post bail to be released and must appear in court. The check writer also has a permanent criminal record.

If a person writes a bad check in Riley County, the business receiving the check is required to send a seven-day registered letter to the person. The letter is to notify the person of the return of the check, the amount due the store and the date by which it must be paid, said Capt. Wayne Anderson of the

Riley County Police Department. If payment is not made by the established date, the check is sent to the county attorney, he said. As of June 1986, the county attorney's office had received several hundred more bad checks than during the same period last year, and a total of 3,100 checks had been received as of Oct. 3.

After receiving the bad check, the county attorney sends another letter to the person stating that if the payment is not made to the store in 10 days, charges will be

If payment is still not made, a warrant is issued for the person's arrest. Between the time he or she is arrested and the court date, the person has one more chance to pay off the check with court costs added. If the money is still not paid, then the case goes to court.

Anderson said when police receive a warrant on an individual, they make every attempt to find that person. If the person cannot be located, the police enter all the available information on the individual into the national crime computer, NCIC. Once the information is stored, the person can be arrested for the check charge if he or she is ever arrested for another crime or given a traffic ticket, Anderson said.

The minimum penalty for this crime is a $10 to $20 fine and payment of the court costs, the initial amount of the check and the return check charge, said attorney William Kennedy III. The maximum penalty is up to one year in jail, a fine of up to $2,500 and payment of the court costs and the intial amount of the check, Kennedy said.

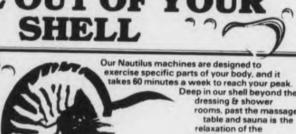

The county attorney's office will not take a case where the bad check is written for less than $5, although he said some stores want to go to court for as little as 37

per visit

COME OUT OF YOUR

There's no reason to be a herm at Nautilus Fitness Club. Our specially trained staff will get you started in the most comp exercise program in the area.

There's even room to dance in our shell. Over 20 Aerobic video-taped classes available complete fitness club in Manhattan.

AND INTO OURS Nautilus Total Fitness Club

AGGIEVILLE MANHATTAN 776-1654

Manhattan Cable T.V. 610 Humboldt 776-9239

PYRAMID PIZZA'S FALL SPECIAL

MORE RADIO TEMNEVER...

Confidence

707 N. 12th AGGIEVILLE

BY-THE-SLICE AND FAST. FREE DELIVERY

THE alace Cards & Gifts

704 N. Manhattan Ave. . In Aggieville . 539-7654 Mon.-Thur. 8:30-8:30 • Fri.-Sat. 8:30-5:30 • Sunday 12-5 ent phs ED!

enoir urat and y more e from!

lable.

K-State ranks first in the Big Eight in the percentage of alumni who financially support their alma

Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation, said the number of alumni and friends who support the University through donations has increased from 9,813 in 1978 to more than 25,000 in 1986.

During the past nine years, the Foundation's assets from donors have grown from $16 million to more than $63 million. These assets are not just in dollars and cents. Assets obtained by the Foundation through ex-

Foundation's assets increase greatly

tensive mail solicitations, telefunding and aggressive fund-raising programs include real estate, scholarships, endowments and various programs and projects of the University.

Loub said the substantial increase is due to the positive response by alumni and friends and is a great tribute to the Foundation and various alumni organizations.

"The Foundation is extremely appreciative of the outstanding response it has received from alumni and friends of K-State over the years. They (contributions) are even more meaningful when Kansas has not enjoyed tremendous economic prosperity," Loub said.

"Fund-raising is successful in direct proportion to the absence of negatives," Loub said. He said he believes if people are turned off by something at the University, they will be less likely to give.

"We must remember very few people are looking to give away money,"

The purpose of the Foundation is to provide those services to the University which are not or cannot be provided through appropriated state funds or student fees and to perpetuate excellence in the educational opportunities at K-State.

The Foundation is currently involved in a fund-raising campaign for the horticulture gardens being planted north of Hollis House along Denison Avenue.

Plans are being made for fundraising drives to finance a major scholarship campaign, distinguished chairs and professorships and an art

Graduate wins award for cancer study

By AMY PETRY Collegian Reporter

A 1972 K-State graduate received national recognition in September for his contributions to the development of a new technique used in cancer research.

Joe Gray, doctoral graduate in physics, was awarded the O.E. Lawrence Memorial Award by Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel.

Gray was honored for his contributions in the field of Flow Cytometry. Flow Cytometry is a technique used to sort living and non-living cells and to analyze several features of cells, said Chander Bhalla, head of the Department of Physics.

The technique has developed over the last 15 years, Gray said, and is "a tool to study the variety of various properties.'

'This is an honor to be selected for this award," Bhalla said. Thousands of outstanding scientists give contributions to the panel that selects the recipient, he said. Five or six past winners have been Nobel prize winners, he added.

The award was given to Gray at

Good Morning Kappa Sig:

During the night your bags left you.

So have a good weekend one and all.

We talked and we planned and we got away clean, And we know that you'll think of us during your dreams.

We've gone to a place where the Cyclones roam,

Oh, about your brothers whom you thought were lost,

But don't worry too much 'cause Sunday we'll be home.

Playboy

Z-Man

Thumper Whiz Kid

Billy Bob

Veteran

Skeeter

And our special guest: Pup Tent

We grabbed them and snagged them and took them without cost.

The '86 Bags of Spring and Fall! Machine

Crash & Burn

Big Al

Schu

Dad

Snoz

Ikes

How do you do?

See you later.

Whiner

Sleepy

Booger

AWOL

Woody

The Rock

The Wheez

the recommendation of his colleagues at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., Bhalla said.

The research is significant to genetics, Bhalla said. Many labs will make use of this technology in the future, he said.

Gray said the Flow Cytometry technique is being implemented in various research areas. Flow Cytometry has developed improved techniques to get information about cell proliferation for research of cancer and Down's Syndrome, Gray said. Clinical trials are currently being conducted with patients in large cancer research institutes, Gray

Flow Cytometry has been successfully used to measure properties of DNA and RNA in individual cells, Gray said. This is done with an instrument that takes individual cells apart and puts them into liquid suspension, he said.

The cells are then squirted through a laser beam that adjusts a light wavelength to pick up a fluorescent dye in the cell used to identify particular DNA or RNA, Gray said.

A photo detector, a flash of light, then measures the intensity of the electrical pulse properties of DNA content, Gray said. Then the desired cells are collected, and the rest are thrown away, he said.

"The precise measurement happens very fast - 40,000 cells per second," Gray said. "It is interesting to measure DNA content and tell the differences

'We are able to take chromosomes out of the cells to purify and sort each type," he said.

Flow Cytometry makes it easier to extract material in larger quantities for DNA and RNA research, Bhalla said. "Genetics is one of the hardest areas to research," he said.

At K-State, Gray worked in nuclear physics under the supervision of James Legg, professor of physics, Bhalla said.

"He (Legg) is one of the highlights of the faculty for excellent instruction, labs and one-on-one," Bhalla

Gray's major contribution was in a different area than his original field, Bhalla said. "He took what he learned at Kansas State and applied it to a whole new area; that is what's remarkable," Bhalla said.

Gray said his physics background "got him in the business." The in-strumental use in nuclear physics is similar to the usage in Flow Cytometry, Gray said. The quantitative mathematical analysis concept is used to describe behavior of cells, he said.

Gray has been section leader of the cytophysics section in the biomedical sciences division at Livermore since 1982. Previously he worked as assistant adjunct professor of radiology at the University of California, Davis, and adjunct professor of lab medicine at the University of California, San Francisco.

There has not been any kind of Flow Cytometry research in the physics department at K-State, Bhalla said.

Writing bad checks can mean trip to jail

By STEVEN ZADINA Collegian Reporter

Writing a bad check could be the result of poor bookkeeping. It could also mean going directly to iail - without passing Go and without collecting $200.

When a person writes a bad check, he or she is committing a misdemeanor. If the check is for more than $150, the offense is a

After a bad check is written, a warrant may be issued for the person's arrest if the amount is not paid within a given time period. The offender is taken to jail, may post bail to be released and must appear in court. The check writer also has a permanent criminal record.

If a person writes a bad check in Riley County, the business receiving the check is required to send a seven-day registered letter to the person. The letter is to notify the person of the return of the check, the amount due the store and the date by which it must be paid, said Capt. Wayne Anderson of the

Riley County Police Department. If payment is not made by the established date, the check is sent to the county attorney, he said. As of June 1986, the county attorney's office had received several hundred more bad checks than during the same period last year, and a total of 3,100 checks had been received as of Oct. 3. After receiving the bad check, the county attorney sends another letter to the person stating that if the payment is not made to the store in 10 days, charges will be

If payment is still not made, a warrant is issued for the person's arrest. Between the time he or she is arrested and the court date, the person has one more chance to pay off the check with court costs added. If the money is still not paid, then the case goes to court.

Anderson said when police receive a warrant on an individual, they make every attempt to find that person. If the person cannot be located, the police enter all the available information on the individual into the national crime computer, NCIC. Once the information is stored, the person can be arrested for the check charge if he or she is ever arrested for another crime or given a traffic ticket, Anderson

The minimum penalty for this crime is a $10 to $20 fine and payment of the court costs, the initial amount of the check and the return check charge, said attorney William Kennedy III. The maximum penalty is up to one year in jail, a fine of up to $2,500 and payment of the court costs and the intial amount of the check, Kennedy said.

The county attorney's office will not take a case where the bad check is written for less than $5. although he said some stores want to go to court for as little as 37

MEXICAN RESTAURANTE

Offer good through 10/19/86 only at: One coupon per visit Piñata Restaurante 1219 Bluemont in Aggieville

539-3166

UPC ARTS COMMITTEE PRESENTS

An Exhibition and Sale of Fine Art Reproductions and Laser Photographs

$5.00 each

or 3 for $13.00

LAST DAY TODAY 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

New Shipment of Photographs JUST ARRIVED!

Cars, Cities, Animals, Scenery & Travel Posters, etc.

Many new prints available!

Hundreds to choose from!

M.C. Escher Picasso Van Gogh Dali

Renoir Seurat and many more

Plastic bags available.

There When You Need Us

We're

Emergency Care 24 Hours A Day

It's easy to avoid thinking about accidents or sudden illness, or to think that it could never happen to you or your family. But emergencies do happen, every day and it's good to know that help is immediately available. Our staff of skilled health care professionals are committed to your good health in our community. Remember we're there when you need us.

05 SUNSET AVENUE 913-778-3300

By JOHN EVANS Collegian Reporter

Since Greg Claassen graduated from K-State in 1980, he has found himself working with some real "dummies."

Claassen, a graduate in agricultural economics, has been working as a ventriloquist and traveling across the United States and Canada.

He first became interested in ventriloquism when he was 9 years old. He went to a pork production convention, heard a ventriloquist performing there and was fascinated.

By his freshman year in high school, Claassen said he decided he wanted to be a ventriloquist. He began practicing with a cheap plastic dummy and started reading books from his school library on ventriloquism.

In 1974, he performed his first paid show at a soil conservation meeting.

"I didn't know if they were laughing at me because I wasn't very good or if they liked my material," he said.

In 1979, Claassen won the Bob Hope Talent Search contest at K-State and went on to the national finals. The following summer, he got a job at Silver Dollar City in Missouri doing between 500 and 600 shows in three months.

Claassen has six dummies but uses only three in a show. Four of the dummies are hand-carved from wood.

The man who made Claassen's four carved dummies is Foy Brown, an 80-year-old retired fireman from Lawrence.

"I started out with a dummy named Jeff. He is like a young Charlie McCarthy. He is about 13 to 14 years old, a smart aleck and enjoys the girls," Claassen said.

He said his favorite dummy is an old-timer from the hills of the Ozarks named Louie. This character is 75 to 80 years old and likes to flirt with another dummy named Iris. She is approximately 60 years old, single, flamboyant and flirty.

Jeff, Louie and Iris were all carved by Brown, and the face alone requires approximately 150 hours of work, Claassen said.

"The dummies seem like real people to me," he said. "But a ventriloguist must think that way to convey the life-likeness to the audience."

The big success of ventriloquism is that with the dummies, Claassen said, he can comment on things he might otherwise be afraid to say.

"Everybody has, at one time in their life, wanted to throw their voice," Claassen said. "I'm probably living out other people's Botha threatens wheat import ban

S. African sanctions may hurt farmers

Our Grill Is Now Open!

Try Our:

Chicken & Beef Nuggets

Hot dogs & Chili dogs (reg. & super)

Aggieville Dairy Queen Brazier

合合合合合合合合合合合

Do you want more from life

12th & Moro Queen

Chicken Sandwiches Fish Sandwiches

Cheeseburgers

BBQ Beef Sandwiches

Onion Rings

Corn Dogs

By JUDI WALTER Collegian Reporter

After Congress overrode President Reagan's veto concerning sanctions against South Africa Oct. 2, many people became concerned with the financial impact on the farmer.

The legislation bans all new investment and bank loans in South Africa, ends landing rights in the United States for South Africa Airways and bans the importation of South African iron, steel, coal, textiles, uranium, food and agricultural products, said Howard Tice, executive director of the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers.

The purpose of the sanctions is to pressure the South African government to abandon apartheid and grant full rights to all races.

South African Foreign Minister R.F. Botha told senators, before their vote, that South Africa would ban all U.S. grain imports if the sanctions became law, said Renee Wessels, press secretary for Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan.

Botha's threat did not change Congress' vote, she said.

Slattery, like Sen. Nancy Landon Kassebaum, R-Kan., noted that exports of Kansas wheat to South Africa amount to about one-half of 1

Hansen

Nutrition Center

Across from Village Plaze

. WEIDER BODY-BUILDING

. ALL MAJOR BRANDS

OF NATURAL FOODS . WHOLE GRAIN PRODUCTS

. NATURAL DIET AIDS

HOURS: Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m.

your own company.

. BOOKS ON NUTRITION

* STOP BY TODAY *

537-4571

3112 Anderson

PRODUCTS

percent of the state's wheat sales abroad, Wessels said.

Even though such a small amount would not have a great impact, Slattery "doesn't feel that food should be used as a political tool," Wessels

"When countries use food as a tool, they are using the farmer as the lever. Farmers get hurt the worst," Tice said.

South Africa has experienced shortfalls on grain because of drought, said David Frey, assistant administrator of the Kansas Wheat Commission. "They are an 'up and down' weather country," Tice said. "When the weather is good, they have their own production and don't need to import grain.

"The feeling is they will need to import for the next couple of years because of their drought," Tice said. Since June 1, the U.S. has exported 168,000 metric tons, or 6.17 million bushels, of wheat to South Africa, said Darrell Holaday, marketing

Hamburgers

Mushrooms

Pork Tenderloins

than you've achieved?

Maybe you haven't had the chance to achieve success yet. Or perhaps you've tried, but haven't reached the goals you set for yourself, and need improvement, whether you're interviewing for your first real job or running to get out of a rut and back on track. There's always room for Your image is one of the biggest factors influencing how business and elsewhere. Everyone knows the importance of first impressions. But are you really aware of the impression you give others, the image you project? It's not just the suit you wear. Your image is made up of everything from your self- confidence to your hairstyle to how physically fit you far you'll get in life. How you come across to the people you meet every day can affect your achievements in

Success and image, hand in hand.

French Fries

director for Kansas Farm Bureau. This figure is relatively small compared to the 915 million bushels of wheat exported last year (June 1, 1985, to June 1, 1986), Holaday said. If figured at a market price of $2.15 a bushel, the 6.17 million bushels of wheat exported to South Africa would be valued at $13.2 million. The impact of a stoppage of grain sales to South Africa depends in part on sales to other nations, such as Nigeria and the Soviet Union.

Nigeria, an African nation against apartheid in South Africa, imports 510,000 metric tons, or 19.2 million bushels of wheat, Holaday said. This is three times the amount that South Africa imports.

Holaday said he believes Nigeria will buy only what it needs wherever it is the least expensive.

Tice, on the other hand, said he believes countries like Nigeria will be a plus - especially if they will pick up the slack by buying grain that would have gone to South Africa. Twenty-five members of Congress signed a letter Oct. 3 to President Reagan asking him to encourage the Soviets to abide with the 1983 grain agreement, Wessels said.

In 1983, the Soviets promised to buy between 9 million to 12 million metric tons of grain, with a minimum of 4 million metric tons of

They have purchased less than 4 percent of the minimum 150.4 million bushels that they promised to buy in the 1983 agreement. If the Soviets purchased the 150.4 million bushels of wheat at a market price of $2.15 a bushel, sales would exceed $323.4 million.

Potential importing countries look at countries who propose embargoes as unreliable - so they look elsewhere, Tice said.

"Renee, we know why you are so excited!!"

-We love you,

Across from KSU

Discerning your current image, and making suggestions so you will come across in the best possible way, is what Total Image Workshops are all about. Through expert presentations, demonstrations and group participation, you will gain invaluable information that can take you from ordinary to extraordinary. Specific topics to be covered include: physical assessment and evaluation; dressing appropriately for both business and pleasure; wardrobe planning; shopping for investments in image; first impressions; communication skills; skin and hair care; color consultation; and more.

Enhance your total image!

An invitation to success.

The Total Image Workshop, sponsored by Borck Brothers Fine Menswear, is coming to Manhattan this fall. WHEN: October 21, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. WHERE: Holiday Inn's Holidome, 530 Richards Drive COST: $125 for the day, including lunch. FOR MORE INFORMATION: Call 537-8636,

9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

If you are excited about the possibilities a better total image holds for you, fill out the form at right and mail to reserve a place now. Come on, open the door of success for yourself!

If you are graduating soon and about to launch into a career, you can't afford to pass up this opportunity!

Mail completed form and check to: Borck Brothers/Total Image Workshop P.O. Box 55 Manhattan, KS 66502

lame Street
City	State
Zip	Telephone No.()

COME TO THE MOVIES

TONIGHT

7:30 p.m.

WE'LL WATCH "TWICE IN A LIFETIME"

STARRING GENE HACKMAN AND ELLEN BURSTYN,

HAVE POPCORN AND DISCUSS THE MOVIE. HOPE TO SEE YOU THERE!

The Campus Ministry of: The Church of the Brethren, The United Church of Christ, The Presbyterian Church (USA); The United Methodist Church

CUMENICAL

HRISTIAN

NISTRIES

Kruger hopes crowd will rock Ahearn again

By RON RENO Sports Writer

Football coach Stan Parrish recently turned to the student body for help, and now it's new head basketball coach Lon Kruger's turn.

While Parrish was merely seeking "a few good men" to play on his special team squads, Kruger is looking for considerably more - 11,200 people to be exact. That is the number of people Ahearn Field House holds at capacity.

"We need (the fans') interest and support," Kruger said. "They've had a lot of effect on a lot of games down through the years and certainly played a big role in the basketball tradition at Kansas State. We need them to again be a big factor in what Kruger wants to restore fan enthusiasm to the level he remembers it being from his previous time here. when sellouts were the rule rather than the exception. Kruger played under retired coach Jack Hartman between 1971-74, and was an assistant under Hartman from 1977-82 before leaving to assume the head coaching position at Pan American University.

Kruger, who fondly recalls previous boisterous crowds at Ahearn, insists that fan support is vital if K-State is to return to the top of the Big Eight Conference. Kruger has instituted a number of promotions to try to rekindle fan interest.

K-State will kick off its season with a midnight practice at 12:01 Wednesday morning (the first day teams are allowed to practice), almost a month and a half before K-State begins play with its home opener against South Dakota on Nov. 29.

The practice is open to the public, and Kruger extended an invitation to the entire student body to attend. Admission to the practice is free, and it will consist mostly of an intrasquad scrimmage which will allow the fans glimpse of this year's team, Kruger said.

The basketball team's first promotional effort took place Sunday with the "Superstars of K-State" competition. The event was organized by Scott Kusick, who helps the athletic department with promotions.

Kusick said eight fraternities were paired with eight sororities, and each of the teams were were led by two basketball players. Kusick said the events in the competition ranged from a pingpong tournament to a tug-of-war.

The team of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity and Gamma Phi Beta sorority won the competition. The squad was captained by senior Ron Meyer and freshman Steve Henson.

Kusick, who said he hopes the event becomes an annual one, added, 'I think that for being the first time, being on a Sunday and being put together in such a short time, it went really well. There was a lot of participation."

Kruger also said he would like to see a return to another K-State tradition - camping out for student

"We're hoping to see a return en masse of the camping out process that was really big here a few years ago," Kruger said. "We'd really like to promote groups of students to come over and camp out and attend practice. We need to get this thing going from the ground floor. We need to start out with a great deal of interest and enthusiasm.'

Ticket manager Carol Adolph said those tickets will go on sale the afternoon of Nov. 3. The tickets will be $30, and will include admission to all home games except the Nebraska game on Jan. 10, which will be played during the Christmas intersession.

Kruger is also doing his best to personally drum up support around the

"We're hoping to have a chance to speak to as many student groups around campus as possible," he said. "We've spoken to several already about the things that we're doing and our need for support."

While student support is essential, Kruger is also seeking support within the Manhattan community. He has announced that the team will put on a shooting clinic at 8:30 a.m. Nov. 8.

"We're inviting boys and girls of any ages and from anywhere," Kruger said. "Our players and coaches will put that on, and hopefully they'll stay and watch practice afterwards, and maybe even go to the football game that afternoon."

The football team will be battling the Cowboys of Oklahoma State that

Beating ISU, Mizzou vital to 'Cats' season

By JENNY CHAULK

Collegian Reporter This weekend is a crucial one for the K-State volleyball team. Tonight, the Wildcats play Big Eight rival Missouri, a team K-State has defeated only once in the past six years. Saturday, the Iowa State Cyclones come to town. Last month, they soundly defeated the Wildcats in three games.

"They basically blew us out of their gym in Ames," Coach Scott Nelson said. 'It was more like 12 players against none.

We were helping them play great." This weekend also marks the midpoint of the season, and "...if we don't have wins, it will be tough to finish high in the conference standings," Nelson said. The Wildcats are 7-9 overall and 0-2 in Big Eight conference play.

"Our goal for the weekend is to win," Nelson said, "and to play well in those Missouri, which has finished second in conference standings for five of the past six years, posts a 1-10 record. Nelson said this is a bit misleading.

"They are 1-10, and I think is mostly due to the fact that they have a new coach," Nelson said. "It takes time for players to we have a great opportunity to put adjust to a new system, and it takes a coach a while to get to know his players." K-State played Missouri earlier this season in the K-State Invitational. "In reviewing the match," Nelson said, "it was up and down for both teams. We beat them twice in lopsided games, and they beat us once. The final game was pretty close."

"Missouri is a competitive team, and the rivalry between us and them is real intense," Nelson said. "We can't enter the match thinking they are 1-10. At this point, the teams they've lost to are regionally ranked." Iowa State is 5-9 overall and 1-2 in con-

"Iowa State's losses have also been against good opponents," Nelson said. "In the conference, they beat us and have lost to Nebraska and Oklahoma. When we played them, we made lots of unforced errors and just did not play well at all.

"This is a pivotal match for Iowa State also," Nelson said. "They have lost their last four matches in a row, and they will be looking to get back on a winning track. But we are ready to play this weekend, particularly against Iowa State, because of what happened last month.'

Nelson said the matches this weekend and the week of Oct. 19 are good opportunities for the Wildcats to move up in Big Eight standings because they are all in Manhattan.

"I've said all year long it is extremely hard to win on the road in this conference," Nelson said. "The reverse side of this is that you have to win at home.'

"Our backs are starting to be against the wall, as far as Big Eight matches go," Nelson said. "We're 0-2 right now, and we need wins. Our next four Big Eight matches are at home (the Wildcats play Kansas on Oct. 20 and Nebraska on Oct. 22), so ourselves in a solid position to finish high in the conference. I wouldn't be surprised if a 5-5 team finishes in the top three.

"Now, we're starting to play the best volleyball we've played all season," Nelson said. "This comes in the nick of time. In the first part of the season, we stressed development and improvement. This weekend is significant. A good home crowd and a couple of wins are what we

The Missouri and Iowa State matches will be played at 7:30 p.m. in Ahearn Field House. Admission to the matches is $1 for students, $2 for adults and children under 12 get in free.

Student spends summers as umpire

K-Stater aiming for major leagues

By AMY PETRY Collegian Reporter

With the baseball season winding down, most fans have had their chance to do their fair share of yelling at umpires.

And James Friedrichs, senior in animal sciences and industry, has heard all of the yelling he can take for one summer. Friedrichs has been a minor league umpire for three years.

He had thought about becoming an umpire, but in the end, Friedrichs didn't go looking for umpiring as a profession - it found him.

"I first started umpiring American Legion Baseball," Friedrichs said. The original plan was to go to school and then farm with his brothers, he said. "Agriculture wasn't good so I was looking for something else."

After his sister finally talked him into becoming an umpire, Friedrichs attended the Joe Brinkman Umpire School in February 1984. The training process takes about a month, including two weeks of intense teaching by major league umpires, he

"I'd never go through it again, but I'm glad I qualified," Friedrichs said.

Following his graduation, he spent his first year working in the class-A California League and the next two years he traveled north to work in the class-A Pioneer League which included teams in Montana, Idaho and "We are paired with a partner for the season," Friedrichs said. "There are many miles of travel involved throughout the season. We travel on our own schedule, not with a certain team." Friedrichs said one of the experiences he remembers well is his first game. He said it was the wildest baseball game he had ever seen - and since it was the first game he was umpiring, his parents came to watch. 'A brawl broke out between players and it was mass confusion on the field. It was finally under control, when the managers got into it. There were six people injured," he said.

"I was bummed (after the game)," Friedrichs said. "Dad came into the locker room and told me it was the most exciting game he'd ever seen. He just handed me a Friedrichs is biding his time; he, like any other umpire, has a dream of making it to the Major Leagues.

The first years an umpire works, he is assigned to the short-season class-A leagues, and that is just the beginning of the long journey towards the major leagues.

"To get to the major leagues everyone must 'pay their dues', Friedrichs said. "Possibly, depending on my performance, I could get a promotion to the long (season)

Friedrichs said the odds are against him making the major leagues. There are usually only one to two openings per year and approximately 200 applicants, he said.

"It's almost like you have to wait for someone to die." Friedrichs said.

Chiefs invaded by flying foes

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - The Kansas City Chiefs, pro football neighbors of the Kansas City Royals baseball team, have more bats than they can handle.

No Louisville Sluggers, these bats are living, breathing creatures of the night that have taken up residence beneath the upper

The Jackson County Sports Authority has agreed to seek bids on having the cracks in a seam in the upper reaches of the stadium sealed with foam.

tiers at Arrowhead Stadium.

Tennis team beaten by KU

By The Collegian Staff

The K-State women's tennis team traveled to Lawrence Wednesday to face Kansas and ran into a very talented Jayhawk team. K-State fell to the 'Hawks 9-0 dropping the Wildcats' record to 1-4. 'We thought we were capable of doing better than 9-0," Coach Steve Bietau said. "They were clearly the No. 2 team in the conference last year and we are not capable of playing with them yet."

Bietau is pleased with the way his team has handled the slow early year progress.

"I think the attitude of the girls is still good. We have taken our lumps from the good teams, now we can take on some people we believe we can be competitive against,"

James Friedrichs, senior in animal sciences and industry, referees a football game at the L.P. Washburn Recreational Area. Friedrichs is a minor league baseball umpire.

Mets, Houston even after 5-1 NY victory

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON - The pitching pendulum swung to New York Thursday night as Bob Ojeda matched finesse against the power of Nolan Ryan, pitching the Mets to a 5-1 victory over Houston for a split of the first two games of the National League playoffs.

Held without a run in support of their ace, Dwight Gooden, in the first game of the playoffs Wednesday night, New York's tableset-ters, Len Dykstra and Wally Backman, got the Mets' scoring machine going against Ryan. And the big hitters — Keith Her-nandez, Gary Carter and Darryl Strawberry - applied the throt-

Hernandez hit a two-run triple along with a single and scored a run. Carter had an RBI double, and Strawberry drove in a run with a long sacrifice fly. Backman had two hits, scored twice and drove in a run.

Angels' pitcher keeps beating adversity

By The Associated Press

ANAHEIM, Calif. - John Candelaria knows about adversity. He also knows about bouncing back. It is a tribute to his resiliency that he will start for the California Angels Friday night in Game 3 of the American League playoffs against the Boston Red Sox. Candelaria has felt the sting of criticism from teammates and management.

He underwent surgery for arm problems that threatened his career. And he watched his infant son die after 11 months in a coma.

"The last couple of years taught me to deal with reality," he said.

On Friday night, Candelaria will deal with a different kind of reality. The series is tied 1-1, and the Angels are counting on the left-hander to put them in front again in the best-ofseven series.

It seemed an unlikely scenario early in the season when Candelaria missed the first three months because of elbow problems. But he went 10-2 with a 2.55 earned run average after coming back in July.

His return, speeded-up because of a need for another starting pitcher on the staff, helped the Angels win the American League West. He did, however, have to take off a couple of weeks in September because of elbow soreness.

"If I would've taken my time and come back in August, I wouldn't have had the problem," Candelaria said. "I'm not putting the blame on anybody. I was trying to rush, too."

Candelaria, who will be 33 next month, teamed with Mike Witt, Kirk McCaskill and Don Sutton to give California a solid rotation on a team that finished second in the league in Witt beat Boston 8-1 on a five-hitter in Game 1 of the playoffs, while the Red Sox prevailed over McCaskill 9-2 in the second game on Wednesday.

Candelaria will be opposed by Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, who was 16-10 this season. Sutton is scheduled to pitch Game 4 on Saturday, while the Red Sox have not named their starter.

Friday's game will begin at twilight to accomodate television. That is not a hitter's favorite part of

"It's tough at the time, especially picking up the ball," Boston designated hitter Don Baylor said.

While Candelaria has enjoyed success on the field, he has had anguish away from it. Last year, his infant son, John Robert Jr., died after being in a coma for nearly a year following a swimming pool accident.

'The tragedy that happened to my family really hurts," said Candelaria, who prefers not to discuss the subject more than that.

'Cats' nose guard takes new duties in stride

By RON RENO Sports Writer

Look in the K-State football media guide, and you won't see sophomore Jim Oehm's name listed as either a starter or a second-team performer. Watch the team play, though, and there's No. 78 battling in the trenches at noseguard. In fact, Oehm is listed as a defensive tackle in the media guide, and has had little prior experience at his new position. "I think I played noseguard for one play in one game (in high school) and then the coach moved me back out," said Oehm, who played defensive tackle in his high school days at Marysville as well.

Since the sudden departure of starter Tim MacDonald before the Northern Iowa game, Oehm has played a vital role for the defense. He played behind junior Rick Lewis that game, but has assumed the starting position ever since. "Jimmy's done a heck of a job for us at nose, he really has," Coach Stan Parrish said. "He got thrust into the position under some very, very tough circumstances, but he's done a good job for us. We've had our best noseguard play in the last couple

Oehm said while it has always been a dream of his, he never really expected to start before the season

"My goal was to start, eventually work my way into the starting lineup. But I didn't get to practice in the spring because of my shoulder (injury), and I knew that I'd have to come in and prove myself to them,"

Oehm said he has had to make several adjustments in his position change, and that he still has several areas he needs to improve.

"I get double-teamed almost every time down at the nose," he said. "It's probably more physical down in there. Everything happens so much quicker, you're right on top of the ball. If (the play) is a dive or something right up the middle, it's on you right away, whereas at end you had a while to see it come at you." "I'm pretty small yet for a noseguard," said Oehm, who weighs a modest 235 pounds and stands 6-foot-2. "I just keep working on my quickness and strength. I want to keep getting bigger, as big as I can get. I've just been trying to eat more.'

Oehm said while practice can be tedious at times, it is all worth it on Saturday afternoon.

"It's a challenge to go out there and compete against somebody. It's like running in a race. You have to prepare yourself for the event, and then when it comes, you've got to show what you've got," Oehm said.

He added that while team success is paramount, he enjoys the head-tohead competition against the other team's offensive line.

"It's just like a battle; who is going to win?" he said. "Usually right at the first is going to decide it. You've got that in the back of your mind, you're not going to let him whip you, and you're going to hold your own ground."

Despite his lack of size and his inexperience at noseguard, Oehm seems to be holding his ground quite

Violin to be featured. at school fund raiser

By STEVEN DAVID Collegian Reporter

Among the more than 550 items to be featured at the third annual Manhattan Catholic Schools auction Saturday is a rare violin handmade by Ernst Heinrich Roth in 1923.

Roth is from a family of fine violin makers from Markneukerchen, Germany. Born in 1887, Roth soon became a first assistant to his father, Gustav Roth, and by 1902 he had established his own shop. Roth became known as one of the leading violin makers of his time.

Warren Walker, professor of music, aided the auction committee in estimating the violin's historical and monetary value. The excellent condition of the instrument and bow gives it a list value of $2,500 to $2,600. The violin is a copy of an original dating from 1714. The Lamy bow is also a copy of an 18th century original.

Sydney Carlin, the donations committee chairwoman, said the silver-mounted bow alone is worth $400.

The violin was donated anonymously in mid-August. Some students at K-State have played the violin, Walker said. He said it had an excellent sound.

Carlin said arrangements could be made to accommodate those who wish to see or test the instru-

The auction will also feature new, antique and specialty items,

HUNAM EXPRESS

537-0886

Christian

Rock Concert

1116 Moro

Carlin said. Some items to be auctioned off include a trip to Hawaii, a lake lot in Arkansas, scholarships to summer athletic camps, interest on $1 million for a day, a television set, a fur jacket and three scholarships to Catholic col-

Less expensive items like dinners and services such as haircuts and car maintenance make up a large part of the auction agenda,

Donations come from private individuals and local businesses. The donations committee contacts these people in order to get contributions, Carlin said.

"We work to get unique things that represent the business," she

Carlin said the community support for the auction, which has been sold out the last two years, has been growing every year.

The auction is divided into two parts - a silent auction and an oral auction. The silent auction will run from 6 to 10:30 p.m. Silent bids will be accepted for 450 items. Four auctioneers will control the bidding in the oral auction that begins at 7 p.m. and will continue until midnight.

The auction will be a formal and social event with hors d' oeuvres and food being served. Tickets are $20. The event is by reservation only by calling Paula Cooper at 537-4451. The event will take place at the Luckey Gymnasium at 220 S. Juliette Ave.

Restaurant

$7 at the door

Oct. 11, 8 p.m.

Manhattan City Auditorium

Tickets available at: Christian Books & Gifts

Cross Reference

Manhattan Christian College

Open 7 days a week

Admission $6 Advance

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

Speech tournament slated for weekend

By CANDY LEONARD Collegian Reporter

Forensics squads from 27 universities will "swing" through Kansas and stop Saturday and Sunday at K-State for a speech tournament.

The speech department calls it a "swing" weekend because K-State and Bethel College, North Newton. will host speech tournaments jointly this weekend. Squads will compete at Bethel College today and Saturday.

Teams can then "swing" over to K-State's tournament, which runs from Saturday afternoon through Sunday, said Lynne Ross, instructor of speech and coach of K-State's forensics squad.

'This is good scheduling for those students who want to get out to two Squads from 27 universities expected tournaments in one weekend's worth of traveling," Ross said.

Competing squads are coming from schools in Nebraska, Oklahoma, Missouri, Colorado, and several teams from Texas are entered in the tournament, Ross

Preliminary rounds will start at 4 and 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, and begin again at 8:30 a.m. on Sunday. The judging of events will take place in various rooms in Denison and Eisenhower halls. The schedule and room assignments for all events will be posted in Denison Hall lobby, Ross

"The tournament is important because it establishes K-State as (having) a successful (speech) program, because we have put on successful tournaments," Ross said.

K-State's tournament will feature 12 events, including After Dinner Speaking, Dramatic Duo, Persuasion, Prose, Poetry, Dramatic Interpretation, Informative, Impromptu, Extemporaneous, Communication Analysis, as well as two other new events, Ross said.

"We're experimenting with an event that's a version of what high school's call Impromptu Duet Acting," Ross said.

Each duo that competes draws a situation, a character and an item and has 10 minutes to put them together in a scene, Ross said.

The second new event at the tournament is "Sales," a marketing type of persuasive speech given on a real or imaginary product, Ross said.

"Hopefully, this will give students some serious practice in persuasive skills," Ross said. "No brand names can be used. More than 25 students participate in all levels of K-State's forensics program, but many will be assisting with this tournament rather than competing, Ross said. "It's a good chance for our kids to see some good competition without having to travel this weekend," Ross

NEW HOURS-OPEN: 6 a.m. Mon.-Thurs.

CLOSE: 1 a.m. Sun.-Wed.

OPEN ALL NIGHT THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

ardees

Aggieville

For confidential

help, call irthright

FREE Pregnancy Tests 103 S. Fourth 537-9180

Retail Floriculture Club

Presents

Gib Cunningham

"Creating Floral Designs" Monday, Oct. 13, 7 p.m. Waters 244

Door Prizes to be Given.

ELECTRICAL AND COMPUTER ENGINEERING STUDENTS

Pre-Enrollment Advising Begins Monday, October 13 EECE Students should make an appointment NOW with Professor Hunt in Durland 263

Students who obtain pre-enrollment advising are given first priority at the time of pre-enrollment.

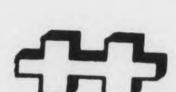

ATTENTION

Organization Groups:

Pictures for the Royal Purple will be taken in Fairchild 202 not in Calvin 102. The dates and times are still the same, only the location has changed.

If you have any questions stop by Kedzie 103 or call 532-6557.

產限甲學民國國產

Celebrating the 75th Year of The Republic of China In Memory of Our Country's Founder Dr. SunYat Sen Sponsored by KSU China Club

CATCH THE EXCITEMENT THIS WEEKEND

KSU vs. MU TONIGHT 7:30 p.m.

KSU vs. ISU SATURDAY 7:30 p.m.

Students $1 Adults $2

> ALL MATCHES AHEARN FIELD HOUSE

Governor includes students in PRIDE recognition event

By CANDY LEONARD Collegian Reporter

More than 100 young people will get a taste of K-State Saturday in connection with the Governor's PRIDE program recognition day, said Nancy Hause, assistant director of New Student Programs.

The Governor's PRIDE program is a community-oriented program stressing community improvement. It is a cooperative effort of the University's Extension Service and the Kansas Department of Economic Development.

While adults are participating in workshops and activities throughout the afternoon, young people can attend a special program offered through the new campus visitations unit. Hause said.

The event will begin with a buffet luncheon in the Union Catskellar and a performance by the Manhattan High jazz band, "The Blue Notes."

"We're dividing the young people into six groups to rotate through the tour of the colleges," Hause said.

Each college will make a 15-minute presentation to the groups. The College of Agriculture is featuring its bakery science program in "Eating Around the Doughnut

The College of Architecture and Design is presenting a light show at the Heliodon in Seaton Hall. This dome is used to show how a building looks under different light conditions, Hause said.

Microcomputer analysis will be discussed by the College of Business Administration, and the College of Engineering will be demonstrating robotics.

Different teaching stations will be set up by the College of Education, and the College of Human Ecology will cover opportunities in hotel and restaurant management, Hause

The final program, sponsored by the Department of Speech and the College of Arts and Sciences, will consist of make-up demonstrations, excerpts from recent productions and sign language set to music.

"The young people will join the adults in Forum Hall for a show by the K-State Singers at 4:30," Hause

The Governor's PRIDE awards banquet begins at 5 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. University President Jon Wefald will fill in for Gov. John Carlin and present cash awards given by leading businesses .

Senate hears bills of support for changes in constitution

SHOOT!

QUICK!

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate heard first readings on three bills Thursday night at its regular meeting in the Big Eight Room.

The bills were proposed by the State and Community Affairs Committee concerning liquor by the drink, pari-mutuel betting and a state lottery.

The committee believes Student Senate should act as a gauge of student opinion and support these

IN THE FLESH!

IT'S HUGE ! HURRY

Garfield

GIMME THAT!

Bloom County

issues. Students' opinions were based on a poll published in The Collegian last month.

Mike Riley, senior in political science, said the purpose of the bill was to "approve of these issues on behalf of the students."

The proposed bills will be voted on next Thursday at the senate meeting. Jim Akin, associate director of career planning and placement, joined the senate as its faculty representative. He will continue to sit in on the meetings for the rest of the year.

FLASH!

I HAVE PLANS FOR THIS RAPIO CONTROLLED TANK

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cil-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.
Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised
FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

NEW OIL controlling skin conditioner especially for oily skin. Mary Kay Cosmetics, Janet Milliken, 539-9469. (27-36) MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49) FREE—CREDIT for Juniors and Seniors. Union Ta-ble, October 8-10, 8:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. by Sears and

JOIN THE Irresistible Force:

The Kansas Army National Guard needs you! If you're a High School Junior, Senior, or Grad. between the ages of 17 and 35, you can become part of the IRRESISTIBLE

*$2,000 Cash Bonus

KSU Marching Band. (32-34)

*$5,040 New G.I. Bill *$10,000 Student Loan Repayment

Program *$20,000 Health Profession Loan

Repayment Program *And Earn Over $1,200 per year

Part-Time For Information Call:

SFC Don Hash (913)537-4108 day (913)537-2478 night

PI SIGMA Epsilon, a national fraternity in marketing, sales management and selling, is having an orientation meeting on Monday, October 18 at 8 p.m. in Union Little Theatre. All majors welcome. For more information, contact John at 537-2603. (34)

LOOKING!

THPTHPF!

By Berke Breathed

HOW CAN

A PHOTOGRAPH

GO THPTHPFF

By Jim Davis

(00000)

By Charles Schulz

WE'LL TAKE

NO PRISONERS

Classifieds

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of cosing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

Releases

by Boston

NEW

'Til Tuesday Joan Jett Gerneral Public Wang Chun Housemartins And More!

Pete Townsend

The Sound Shop

At

In Aggieville

FOR RENT-MISC RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment, 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-1329. (18tf)

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Putnam Hall, 1308 N. Manhattan, $195. Call 539-7521 or 776-7045. (30-36)

FOR RENT: Newly re-decorated room for male. Furnished, close. $110 plus gas/electric, six month lease. Deposit. 537-9693. (32-34)

FOR RENT: Room for female. Furnished, close to campus. $115 plus gas/electric, six month lease. Deposit. 537-9693. (32-34)

QUIET, WELL-maintained, one bedroom furnished apartment in modern complex, two blocks west of campus. Laundry, patio, parking facilities. $216/ month, November 1 lease, deposit. No pets, waterbeds. Prefer non-smoking graduate student, re-search assistant or mature employed adult. 537-9686 for application and information. (34-39)

FOR SALE-AUTO

1974 VOLKSWAGEN Super Beetle. Runs great. New front end, brakes. $1200 or best offer. 539-4855. (30-

1982 CAMERO, V-8, 55,000 miles, good condition $5,000 or best offer. 537-1534, ask for Wayne or 1966 CHEVY Van -- 1973 motor, many new parts, $1,700 or best offer. 539-0104 or 539-2637. (32-36)

1978 DATSUN-Excellent, new tires, brakes, engine tuned-up, AM/FM. Call 537-8799 after 5:30 p.m. (32-

1972 PLYMOUTH Duster, six-cylinder, air condition ing, power steering. Excellent school car, $795. Call 1-468-3535. (33-35) 1978 T-BIRD—Blue, power steering, power brakes, stereo, very clean. Call 539-9044, ask for Kendall.

1982 THUNDERBIRD, one owner, $3,900. Call 537-

4272 or 539-9512. (33-35) 1971 VW Station Wagon—automatic, dependable, $875. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (33tf)

1981 CHEVETTE-Four-speed, air conditioning, AM-FM radio, excellent condition, 50,000 miles. $2,300. Call 539-0567 or 537-1107. (34-38)

FOR SALE-MISC

ATARI 800XL, 1050 drive, software, $300. Casio MT-68 electronic keyboard, $75. Radio Shack PC-2 1K pocket computer, $75. Call 532-5136. (31-35)

Mexican Buffet Ramada Restaurant Every Sunday 5-7:30 p.m. $3.95

ALPINE 7374, 5900, 3317, 8101, Harman Kardon CA260, CA240. Hatchback box speaker. Best aipment available. Reasonable offers. Robert, 537-4347. (32-36)

AMDEK 310A graphics monitor, $70. Call Sara, 532-5712; after 5 p.m., 539-7616. (32-34) BICYCLES: MEN'S 10-speed; women's three-speed with double rack; 21 inch girls high rise (2). 776-

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 69¢

1/4 Hamburger Exp. Date 10/12 (with coupon)

537-3335 SINGER SLANT-O-Matic sewing machine. Call 776-

5243 after 6 p.m. (32-34) PRAIRIE HAY, $1.50 per bale, will deliver. Call Doug,

532-6767 or Wamego, 1-456-7491. (33-37)

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword

1 Aqueduct 45 Rescind

ACROSS

events

6 Modern music

style

9 Health

12 Market resort

place

13 Zsa Zsa's

sister

14 Waiter's

eanuts

I CAN'T BELIEVE IT ..

HERE I AM OVERSEAS

FIGHTING IN THE WAR

GOING TO MARRY MY COUSIN!

3 Frosh's

4 Pennsylvania

port

5 Historic

Egypt

7 Bard's

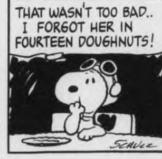

river

name in 0

10-10

NRTPI URRX ZE TJEHL, KWO KWO JKW-OHGRWZTG JRLE

CRYPTOQUIP

NHZPWHO ZW Yesterday's Cryptoquip: RACER WHO MOVED NORTHEAST FROM SWEDEN CROSSED THE LAVISH FINNISH LINE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: J equals P

KRAMER GUITAR with Red Strat body and Floyd Rose trem, $350 negotiable. Peavey MX 130 watt guitar amp, $250. Boss headphone guitar amp, like new, one year old, $100. Call 537-8198. (33-35)

FOR SALE: Baby ferrets, seven weeks old. Call 776-

Hayes House of Music DOD Guitar Effects 30% OFF

776-7983 327 Poyntz

COMPUTER-APPLE II/C-Fully equipped and in excellent condition. Reasonably priced. Call Melissa at 532-6799 from 8-11 a.m. (only). (33-35)

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08 MUST SELL now! Two bedroom, one bath mobile home. Ideal for college student or new family. Appliances, washer/dryer hookups, outdoor storage and patio deck. 539-7729. (31-34)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 09

1983 YAMAHA 550XT-Great shape, 1,600 miles. 539-7527, ask for Jody. (32-34)

1982 KAWASAKI GPz550-New chain/sprocket

$1,200/best offer. 776-7109 after 5 p.m., David/Rick.

GARAGE SALES

FOUR-FAMILY, 1528 University Drive, Friday 4-7 p.m., Saturday 8 a.m.-1 p.m.: Bar stools, Singer sewing machine, baby clothes, clothing, antiques, kitchen items, toys. (33-34)

SATURDAY 8 a.m.-?, 818 Smith, Northview: Bed frame, headboard; couch; dinette table, 4 chairs; gas heating stove/pipes; ladies' bowling ball, bag, shoes; 1975 Monte Carlo; kitchenwares; Avon bottles; cameras; baby/adult clothing; curtains/ bedspreads; much miscellaneous. (34)

HELP WANTED

13 3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (26-64)

OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year around. Europe, South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA,

HELP WANTED

Kitchen and Cashier Help Management Positions Available (Preferably food & science majors) Apply at store or call 539-3304

Cafe Latino

LAB ASSISTANTS for Pathology Laboratory. Parttime, 1-6 p.m. and full-time 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Send qualifications to Peterson Clinical Laboratory, P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, Ks. 66502. EOE. (31-37)

HAVE BASIC carpentry skills? Want to trade rent for work? Call Larry, 537-4648. (33-35)

Cashier and Grill Cook Four to Five Days a Week. Grill Experience preferred. Call Eddy, 537-3335

for interview.

WORK STUDY student secretary. Accurate typing. clerical skills. Learn word processing, databas programs. $3.50 plus depending on experience. See/call Pam, Center for Aging, Fairchild #1, 532-

WANTED MALE or female for part-time position dairy help. Call 1-944-3641. (34-38)

MEN'S BLUE Seiko watch, left in McCain's 2nd floor men's restroom Saturday, October 4. Sentimental value. Please return. Call 539-4397 or return to Mc-

Cain Music Office. (31-34)

15 TIRED OF bingeing? Free seminar on Will Power and Weight Control, 9 a.m.-noon, Saturday, October

11th-All Seasons Motel. What have you got to

PERSONAL 16

SKYDIVERS KAREN, Ed, Brandt and Mike-We're behind you training for national competition. The Parachute Club.(33-34) TRI DELTA Diana — Congratulations on being chosen for 1986-87 Rush Coordinator! We're so proud of you! Love, your sisters. (34) SIG EPS Mark, Brett, Chris, and Alan-We're going back to the 50's and into the past, get ready for the biggest blast. We'll "Rock Around the Clock" Sat urday night boppin' til broad daylight. We'll preparty before, so don't be late says your Tri-Sigma

AGR CHRISTOPHER-So you've got a fuzzy face and you're wearing (ugh) boots—but olive juice anyway. I wanna Roulette with you! Love, Jill. (34) ALAWI ABU Hussein-Oklahoma was great, let's do it again! Nafartiti. (34) HEY AL, Hope your new car has a portable steering like the Tempo! (34)

SMADING, WE'LL catch a wave with Tri Sigmacontinue to party with your parents, sister, Anne too-more fun than you'll remember! Love, Lisa.

HEY TRI-Delts-Pack your bags, and get ready to fly, don't let today's airport function pass you by. De-parture time-4. Love, the Pikes. P.S. Remember "It just doesn't matter!" (34)

BUNNEYMAN-HAPPY Anniversary! I love you and hope to see you Sunday. BW. (34)

TRI SIGMA Party Goers-Hoppin' N Boppin'twisting to the tunes, poodle skirts, bobbi socks and blue suede shoes. The 50's are back and we're all going spastic—including Max Headroom at our Coke-a-Cola Classic. (34)

MARK LARSON-We'll celebrate one year of great times along with the Coke-Cola classic. A night you won't forget. Happy Anniversary to no average guy. Love, Edie. (34)

SIGMA TRI and Sigma Chi-Let's show them all who's really got that Purple Pride! Here's to a great Homecoming. (34)

HUTCH GIRL—For the past year you have made my life sparkle and shine, thanks. Love, the Hick. (34) SNUGGLEPUSS M.S. - Romancing '86-'87. Down in only one catagory. We'll come back. Fantasy 111389. Love, S. Marvin. (34)

MARLATT RADIO Rockers: A very long distance thanx! You sang the "Stripes" off those sleepy Stillwater coeds. Happy trails to you in your pink Cadillacs. Sincerely, Chicago's Rock 'n Monk. (34) KD ALL Stars-Congratulations Linda Bogner, Denise Otte and Marsha Page on being selected for the TKE Powder-Puff All Star game. AOT, the mbers. (34) NEW KD Pledges-We welcome Alayne Ward, Sondre Grimm, Karen Riffel, Susan Reimer, Elizabeth Gingrich and Julie Basqail into our sisterhood. AOT, the members. (34)

BIG BASH Flash #1, to the men of K-State. Keep your calendars open, October 25th is the date. Hope to see you at the Reunion. Gamma Alpha. (34)

AGR ROULETTER Dates Julie, Jill, Karin, and Nikki—first clue: You think you're better, you think you've won; It's now our turn, to have some fun. At 6 o'clock the chase begins, you'll have to finish to know who wins. It's a place where all the cowboys play, K-Mart, chicken and Bud on the way. So come on Theta's, let's have some fun; get your car in gear and get on the run. (34)

PHI GAMS: Be ready to jam today at 3, instead of Slim's—at the Horse we will be. Let's keep the tra-diton by meeting for jiff'n. Love, the KD's. (34)

LINDA AND Susan, the two most important women of my life; Thanks for being there when I needed you-Love, Shane. (34)

MICHELE, THANKS for being so special to me. I need you! Your Hub. (What's got into you?). (34)

MARI-I'M in love with you and would really like to go out with you. How about a date Saturday night? Your favorite nerd. (34)

BANANA...UM...um...I hope you "really" have a good show tonight! Love, your favorite cripple. (34) DIAMOND, AFTER extensive and tedious investigation, my 6th sense concluded that you scored 44%. P.R.W. (34) CHOPPER GARYBEAR—Quarterly report received with excellent ratings. Forecast for next fiscal quarter even better. I'm happy we capitalize time according to SAP instead of expensing it. ILY. KDAMB. (34) JENNY THE Cheerleader-Sparkling conversation and contemplating the cosmos sucks! I want you for your body. Let's make this weekend a gas with lots of tsielovatsaing. Tank. (34) AXE-ALPHA Chi Epsilon-The AXE has swung, it's in full swing; we visited the girls, but were never seen. But we are here, and here to stay; and we'll be back another day. So don't forget about what you've heard, 'cause AXE is here and here for good! (34) DELTS JIM and Larry-You guys are the greatest. I'm glad you're my "kids." Your mom, Dana. (34) MEN OF AGR, have a partying time at Rouletter. Love

TKE KELLY and Greg-To the barn party we're rarin' to go, bring lots of booze cause we don't drink slow. Get ready for a knee slappin' hell of a time, well, that mighty fine! - Ann and Mel. (34)

ROOMMATE WANTED

LIKE TO share modern, bright, spacious three bedroom apartment near campus with one or two roommates (male or female). Prefer single, nonmokers with communal living experience. Call Theo, 532-6387, 539-6972. (31-34)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted: Mature, responsible, non-smoker for three bedroom duplex, washer, dryer, microwave, dishwasher, and storage. In quiet neighborhood, $133.33 per month plus one-third utilities. Call Suzie at 532-6436; after 5 p.m.,

539-9293. (31-34) MALE ROOMMATE ten blocks from campus. Place to put a horse. $150 plus one-third utilities. 539-

ROOMMATE WANTED: Responsible, non-smoker for nice two bedroom apartment, completely furnished, fireplace and dishwasher. In quiet neighborhood. Call 537-9439. (33-37)

ROOM FOR rent in two bedroom at 238 Westwood, yard/parking, $145/month plus utilities. Quiet neighborhood. 539-3835. (34-37)

SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

MARY KAY Cosmetics—100% fragrance free. Clinically tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

ROSS CUSTOM SECRETARIAL SERVICE

TERM PAPERS THESES

FACULTY MANUSCRIPTS Come see us at 614 N. 12th (across from Kite's) for your work to be done in a professional manner, quickly. We take pride in our work! We look forward to our association with the University

Tel: 539-5147

Lee Ross, Owner FREE SET of spark plugs with a tune-up on your im-

539-8633, ask for Curt. (31-34)

mation. (33-37) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, disserta-tions, manuscripts, term papers. (33-35)

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza. Church School 9:45 a.m.; Wor-ship 8:30 and 11 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerfeldt, 539-8685; Sue Amyx, 776-0025. Transportation to church-776-8790 after 9 a.m. (34)

day, 7 p.m. (34) First United Methodist Church 612 Poyntz 8:45 a.m. Communion first Sunday of the month

John D. Stoneking Pastor set and North Delaware welcomes students to ser vices: Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 8 and 10:45 a.m. Bible classes, 9:30 a.m. Sunday. (34) TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN—Worship Service 10:45 a.m.,; Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office,

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church. 3001 Fort Riley Blvd. invites you to worship with them Sunday at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. Adult Sunday School Class meets 9:45 a.m. at the church office 2607 Allison College Care Cell meets Saturday, 6:30 p.m., also Bible Study Tuesday evenings—contact 539-5369. For any additional information, call 537-7173. (34)

WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison

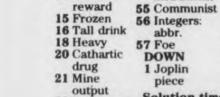

WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church, 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Worship Service, 8:30 and 11 a.m. and Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Bob Burton. teacher. Evening Service, 6 p.m. Horace Breisford, Pastor; Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565. For

MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison, daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. (34) COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 College Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. Sunday Worship, 8:15 and 11 a.m. Church Training, 6 p.m. Sunday. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service, 7 p.m. Phone: 537-7744, (34)

ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church-6th and Poyntz. Communion is celebrated on Sunday at 8 a.m. (Rite I) and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call

776-9427. (34)

23 Cargo unit 24 Worries 25 Palm type 27 Reserved 29 From that place

31 Manger scene 35 French painter 37 Cheer 38 Settle a debt

shot

43 Meadow

41 Throw the

of a sort 49 Make fitting 52 Islands ment 53 Computer language 54 Indian 44 Diabolical

47 Miner,

8 Amigo instrument 9 Fence-

nia wine 11 Church parts Solution time: 24 mins.

Yesterday's answer 10-10 51 Sample

17 Pantry shelves 19 Doctor, at times 21 East, in Berlin

22 Cheer 24 Evergreen 26 Available in emergencies 28 Cause trouble

30 Artificialcrossing ly shy stairs 32 Assemble 10 Califorpages 33 Do garden work 34 Plato's H 36 Verdi over output 38 Happen 39 Elicit 40 Stacked 42 Harass 45 Make over

46 Tennis term 48 Author Fleming 50 Actress Dawber

DISSERTATIONS RESUMES (with cover letters)

community.

port car at J & L Auto Service. Call 1-494-2388, St. George (offer ends October 15, 1986). (29-37)

NEED ODD jobs done? We'll do them for you! Hard workers, low prices. Call 539-9701, ask for Taylor. (30-34) WORD PROCESSING using software which in-cludes spelling checker. Reasonable rates. Call

WORKING ON a paper? Word processing, reason able rates. Laura, 532-2362, room 131. Call for infor-

CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m.; Evening Service, 6 p.m.; Prayer Service, Wednes-

8:45 a.m. & 11 a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), Sun-

9:45 a.m. Church School

539-3921. (34)

(the white building with the two red doors). (34)

transportation daytime call 776-0424. (34) Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.; Saturday evening at 5 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions

FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz (537-8532). Welcome students to worship service at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (34)

FOR SALE: Baby ferrets, seven weeks old. Call 776-

Hayes House of Music

DOD Guitar Effects

30% OFF

COMPUTER-APPLE II/C-Fully equipped and in excellent condition. Reasonably priced. Call Me lissa at 532-6799 from 8-11 a.m. (only). (33-35)

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08

MUST SELL now! Two bedroom, one bath mobile and patio deck. 539-7729. (31-34)

539-7527, ask for Jody. (32-34)

GARAGE SALES

HELP WANTED

92625. (27-46)

home. Ideal for college student or new family. Appliances, washer/dryer hookups, outdoor storage

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 09

1983 YAMAHA 550XT-Great shape, 1,600 miles.

1982 KAWASAKI GPz550-New chain/sprocket,

$1,200/best offer. 776-7109 after 5 p.m., David/Rick.

FOUR-FAMILY, 1528 University Drive, Friday 4-7 p.m., Saturday 8 a.m.-1 p.m.: Bar stools, Singer sewing machine, baby clothes, clothing, antiques, kitchen items, toys. (33-34) frame, headboard; couch; dinette table, 4 chairs;

gas heating stove/pipes; ladies' bowling ball, bag, shoes; 1975 Monte Carlo; kitchenwares; Avon bottles; cameras; baby/adult clothing; curtains/ bedspreads; much miscellaneous. (34)

3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (26-64)

OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year around. Europe,

South America, Australia, Asia. All fields.

$900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA,

HELP WANTED

Kitchen and Cashier Help

Management Positions Available

(Preferably food & science majors)

Apply at store or call 539-3304

Cafe Latino

LAB ASSISTANTS for Pathology Laboratory. Part-

Box 128, Manhattan, Ks. 66502. EOE. (31-37)

HAVE BASIC carpentry skills? Want to trade rent for work? Call Larry, 537-4648. (33-35)

Cashier and Grill Cook

Four to Five Days a Week.

Grill Experience preferred.

Call Eddy, 537-3335

for interview.

WORK STUDY student secretary. Accurate typing,

clerical skills. Learn word processing, databas

WANTED MALE or female for part-time position

MEN'S BLUE Seiko watch, left in McCain's 2nd floor

men's restroom Saturday, October 4. Sentimental value. Please return. Call 539-4397 or return to Mc-

TIRED OF bingeing? Free seminar on Will Power and Weight Control, 9 a.m.-noon, Saturday, October

SKYDIVERS KAREN, Ed. Brandt and Mike-We're

TRI DELTA Diana - Congratulations on being choser

SIG EPS Mark, Brett, Chris, and Alan-We're going back to the 50's and into the past, get ready for the biggest blast. We'll "Rock Around the Clock" Sat urday night boppin' til broad daylight. We'll pre-party before, so don't be late says your Tri-Sigma

AGR CHRISTOPHER—So you've got a fuzzy face and you're wearing (ugh) boots-but olive juice anyway. I wanna Roulette with you! Love, Jill. (34)

SMADING, WE'LL catch a wave with Tri Sigma-

HEY TRI-Delts—Pack your bags, and get ready to fly, don't let today's airport function pass you by. Departure time—4. Love, the Pikes. P.S. Remember continue to party with your parents, sister, Anne too-more fun than you'll remember! Love, Lisa.

behind you training for national competition. The Parachute Club.(33-34) for 1986-87 Rush Coordinator! We're so proud of 11th-All Seasons Motel. What have you got to 16 dairy help. Call 1-944-3641. (34-38)

Cain Music Office. (31-34)

you! Love, your sisters. (34)

it again! Nafartiti. (34)

like the Tempo! (34)

"It just doesn't matter!" (34)

LOST

NOTICES

PERSONAL

07 programs. $3.50 plus depending on experience. See/call Pam, Center for Aging, Fairchild #1, 532-time, 1-6 p.m. and full-time 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Send qualifications to Peterson Clinical Laboratory, P.O.

13

SATURDAY 8 a.m.-?, 818 Smith, Northview: Bed

327 Poyntz

776-7983

Governor includes students in PRIDE recognition event

By CANDY LEONARD Collegian Reporter

More than 100 young people will get a taste of K-State Saturday in connection with the Governor's PRIDE program recognition day, said Nancy Hause, assistant director of New Student Programs.

The Governor's PRIDE program is a community-oriented program stressing community improvement. It is a cooperative effort of the University's Extension Service and the Kansas Department of Economic Development.

While adults are participating in workshops and activities throughout the afternoon, young people can attend a special program offered through the new campus visitations unit, Hause said.

The event will begin with a buffet luncheon in the Union Catskellar and a performance by the Manhattan High jazz band, "The Blue Notes."

'We're dividing the young people into six groups to rotate through the tour of the colleges," Hause said.

Each college will make a 15-minute presentation to the groups. The College of Agriculture is featuring its bakery science program in "Eating Around the Doughnut Hole." The College of Architecture and Design is presenting a light show at the Heliodon in Seaton Hall. This dome is used to show how a building looks under different light conditions, Hause said.

Microcomputer analysis will be discussed by the College of Business Administration, and the College of Engineering will be demonstrating robotics.

Different teaching stations will be set up by the College of Education, and the College of Human Ecology will cover opportunities in hotel and restaurant management, Hause

The final program, sponsored by the Department of Speech and the College of Arts and Sciences, will consist of make-up demonstrations, excerpts from recent productions and sign language set to music.

"The young people will join the adults in Forum Hall for a show by the K-State Singers at 4:30," Hause

The Governor's PRIDE awards banquet begins at 5 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. University President Jon Wefald will fill in for Gov. John Carlin and present cash awards given by leading businesses .

Senate hears bills of support for changes in constitution

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate heard first readings on three bills Thursday night at its regular meeting in the Big Eight Room.

The bills were proposed by the State and Community Affairs Committee concerning liquor by the drink, pari-mutuel betting and a state lottery.

The committee believes Student Senate should act as a gauge of student opinion and support these issues. Students' opinions were based on a poll published in The Collegian last month.

Mike Riley, senior in political science, said the purpose of the bill was to "approve of these issues on behalf of the students.'

The proposed bills will be voted on next Thursday at the senate meeting. Jim Akin, associate director of career planning and placement, joined the senate as its faculty representative. He will continue to sit in on the meetings for the rest of the year.

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error

does not alter the value of the ad.
Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised
FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52)

NEW OIL controlling skin conditioner especially for oily skin. Mary Kay Cosmetics, Janet Milliken, MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

FREE—CREDIT for Juniors and Seniors. Union Ta-ble, October 8-10, 8:30 a.m. -2:30 p.m. by Sears and KSU Marching Band. (32-34)

JOIN THE Irresistible Force:

The Kansas Army National Guard needs you! If you're a High School Junior, Senior, or Grad. between the ages of 17 and 35, you can become part of the IRRESISTIBLE FORCE.

*$2,000 Cash Bonus

*$5,040 New G.I. Bill

*$10,000 Student Loan Repayment Program

*$20,000 Health Profession Loan

Repayment Program *And Earn Over $1,200 per year

Part-Time For Information Call: SFC Don Hash (913)537-4108 day

(913)537-2478 night PI SIGMA Epsilon, a national fraternity in marketing, sales management and selling, is having an orientation meeting on Monday, October 18 at 8 p.m. in Union Little Theatre. All majors welcome. For more information, contact John at 537-2603. (34)

By Berke Breathed

Bloom County

Garfield

BASSELOPE!

By Jim Davis

eanuts

I CAN'T BELIEVE IT ..

HERE I AM OVERSEAS

2 Longevity

place

vania

port

5 Historic

Egypt

6 Of late

7 Bard's

river

8 Amigo

crossing

name in

4 Pennsyl-

By Charles Schulz

69¢

1/4 Hamburger Exp. Date 10/12

537-3335

5243 after 6 p.m. (32-34) PRAIRIE HAY, $1.50 per bale, will deliver. Call Doug. 532-6767 or Wamego, 1-456-7491. (33-37)

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword 44 Diabolical

45 Rescind

fitting instrument

54 Indian

56 Integers:

abbr.

DOWN

57 Foe

53 Computer

language instrument.

55 Communist 9 Fence-

of a sort

47 Miner,

49 Make

52 Islands

ACROSS 1 Aqueduct events 6 Modern music style 9 Health resort 12 Marketplace

13 Zsa Zsa's sister 14 Waiter's reward 15 Frozen 16 Tall drink 18 Heavy 20 Cathartic drug 21 Mine output

23 Cargo unit 24 Worries 25 Palm type 27 Reserved 29 From that place 31 Manger 35 French painter 37 Cheer 38 Settle a debt 41 Throw the shot 43 Meadow

11 Church 1 Joplin parts piece Solution time: 24 mins.

Yesterday's answer 10-10

17 Pantry shelves

19 Doctor, at times 21 East, in Berlin

22 Cheer 24 Evergreen 26 Available in emergencies 28 Cause trouble 30 Artificially shy stairs 32 Assemble 10 Califorpages 33 Do garden nia wine work 34 Plato's H 36 Verdi output 38 Happen over 39 Elicit 40 Stacked 42 Harass 45 Make over 46 Tennis term 48 Author Fleming

50 Actress

Dawber 51 Sample

21 22 54 CRYPTOQUIP

10-10

NHZPWHO ZW XZLUIHW Yesterday's Cryptoquip: RACER WHO MOVED NORTHEAST FROM SWEDEN CROSSED THE LAVISH FINNISH LINE.

ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

Boston Pete Townsend 'Til Tuesday Joan Jett Gerneral Public Wang Chun Housemartins

And More!

At The Sound Shop In Aggieville

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

1329. (18tf)

FOR RENT-APTS 04 TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Putnam Hall, 1308 N. Manhattan, $195. Call 539-7521 or 776-7045. (30-36)

FOR RENT: Newly re-decorated room for male. Furnished, close. $110 plus gas/electric, six month lease. Deposit. 537-9693. (32-34)

FOR RENT: Room for female. Furnished, close to campus. $115 plus gas/electric, six month lease. Deposit. 537-9693. (32-34) QUIET, WELL-maintained, one bedroom furnished apartment in modern complex, two blocks west of campus. Laundry, patio, parking facilities. $216/ month, November 1 lease, deposit. No pets, waterbeds. Prefer non-smoking graduate student, re-search assistant or mature employed adult.

537-9686 for application and information. (34-39) FOR SALE-AUTO

1974 VOLKSWAGEN Super Beetle. Runs great. New front end, brakes. $1200 or best offer. 539-4855. (30-

1982 CAMERO, V-8, 55,000 miles, good condition $5,000 or best offer. 537-1534, ask for Wayne or Buzz. (31-34) 1966 CHEVY Van—1973 motor, many new parts, $1,700 or best offer. 539-0104 or 539-2637. (32-36) 1978 DATSUN - Excellent, new tires, brakes, engine

1972 PLYMOUTH Duster, six-cylinder, air condition ing, power steering. Excellent school car, $795. Call 1-468-3535. (33-35)

tuned-up, AM/FM. Call 537-8799 after 5:30 p.m. (32-

1978 T-BIRD—Blue, power steering, power brakes, stereo, very clean. Call 539-9044, ask for Kendall. 1982 THUNDERBIRD, one owner, $3,900. Call 537-

1971 VW Station Wagon—automatic, dependable $875. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (33tf) 1981 CHEVETTE-Four-speed, air conditioning, AM-FM radio, excellent condition, 50,000 miles, $2,300. Call 539-0567 or 537-1107. (34-38)

FOR SALE-MISC

4272 or 539-9512. (33-35)

ATARI 800XL, 1050 drive, software, $300. Casio MT-68 electronic keyboard, $75. Radio Shack PC-2 1K pocket computer, $75. Call 532-5136. (31-35)

Mexican Buffet Ramada Restaurant Every Sunday 5-7:30 p.m. $3.95

ALPINE 7374, 5900, 3317, 8101, Harman Kardon CA260, CA240. Hatchback box speaker. Best equipment available. Reasonable offers. Robert, 537-4347. (32-36)

AMDEK 310A graphics monitor, $70. Call Sara, 532-5712; after 5 p.m., 539-7616. (32-34) BICYCLES: MEN'S 10-speed; women's three-speed with double rack; 21 inch girls high rise (2). 776-

4142. (32-34) The Ritz Denison & Claflin ALAWI ABU Hussein-Oklahoma was great, let's do HEY AL, Hope your new car has a portable steering

(with coupon)

SINGER SLANT-O-Matic sewing machine. Call 776-

BUNNEYMAN-HAPPY Anniversary! I love you and hope to see you Sunday. BW. (34)

TRI SIGMA Party Goers-Hoppin' N Boppin'twisting to the tunes, poodle skirts, bobbi socks and blue suede shoes. The 50's are back and we're all going spastic—including Max Headroom at our Coke-a-Cola Classic. (34)

MARK LARSON-We'll celebrate one year of great times along with the Coke-Cola classic. A night you won't forget. Happy Anniversary to no average guy. Love, Edie. (34)

SIGMA TRI and Sigma Chi-Let's show them all who's really got that Purple Pride! Here's to a great Homecoming. (34) HUTCH GIRL-For the past year you have made my life sparkle and shine, thanks. Love, the Hick. (34) SNUGGLEPUSS M.S.-Romancing '86-'87. Down in only one catagory. We'll come back. Fantasy 111389. Love, S. Marvin. (34) MARLATT RADIO Rockers: A very long distance thanx! You sang the "Stripes" off those sleepy Stillwater coeds. Happy trails to you in your pink

Cadillacs. Sincerely, Chicago's Rock 'n Monk. (34) KD ALL Stars-Congratulations Linda Bogner, Denise Otte and Marsha Page on being selected for the TKE Powder-Puff All Star game. AOT, the

NEW KD Piedges—We welcome Alayne Ward, Son-dre Grimm, Karen Riffel, Susan Reimer, Elizabeth Gingrich and Julie Basqall into our sisterhood. BIG BASH Flash #1, to the men of K-State. Keep your calendars open, October 25th is the date. Hope to see you at the Reunion. Gamma Alpha. (34) AGR ROULETTER Dates Julie, Jill, Karin, and Nikki-first clue: You think you're better, you think you've won; it's now our turn, to have some fun. At 6 o'clock the chase begins, you'll have to finish to know who wins. It's a place where all the cowboys play, K-Mart, chicken and Bud on the way. So com on Thata's let's have some fun; get your car in gear and get on the run. (34) PHI GAMS: Be ready to jam today at 3, instead of Slim's-at the Horse we will be. Let's keep the traditon by meeting for Jiff'n. Love, the KD's. (34)

LINDA AND Susan, the two most important women of my life; Thanks for being there when I needed you-Love, Shane. (34)

MICHELE, THANKS for being so special to me. I need you! Your Hub. (What's got into you?). (34) Rose trem, $350 negotiable. Peavey MX 130 watt guitar amp, $250. Boss headphone guitar amp, like guitar amp, $250. Boss headphone guitar amp, like new, one year old, $100. Call 537-8198. (33-35)

MARI-I'M in love with you and would really like to go out with you. How about a date Saturday night? Your favorite nerd. (34)

BANANA...UM...um...I hope you "really" have a good show tonight! Love, your favorite cripple. (34) DIAMOND, AFTER extensive and tedious investigation, my 6th sense concluded that you scored 44%. P.R.W. (34)

CHOPPER GARYBEAR-Quarterly report received with excellent ratings. Forecast for next fiscal quarter even better. I'm happy we capitalize time according to SAP instead of expensing it. ILY.

JENNY THE Cheerleader—Sparkling conversation, and contemplating the cosmos sucks! I want you for your body. Let's make this weekend a gas with lots of tsielovatsaing. Tank. (34) AXE-ALPHA Chi Epsilon-The AXE has swung, it's in full swing; we visited the girls, but were never seen. But we are here, and here to stay; and we'll be back another day. So don't forget about what you've heard, 'cause AXE is here and here for good! (34) DELTS JIM and Larry-You guys are the greatest. I'm glad you're my "kids." Your mom, Dana. (34) MEN OF AGR, have a partying time at Rouletter. Love

TKE KELLY and Greg-To the barn party we're rarin' to go, bring lots of booze cause we don't drink slow. Get ready for a knee slappin' hell of a time, fine! -Ann and Mel. (34)

ROOMMATE WANTED

17 LIKE TO share modern, bright, spacious three bedroom apartment near campus with one or two roommates (male or female). Prefer single, non smokers with communal living experience. Call

Theo, 532-6387, 539-6972. (31-34) FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted: Mature, responsible, non-smoker for three bedroom duplex, washer, dryer, microwave, dishwasher, and storage. In quiet neighborhood, $133.33 per month plus one third utilities. Call Suzie at 532-6436; after 5 p.m.,

539-9293. (31-34) MALE ROOMMATE ten blocks from campus. Place to put a horse. $150 plus one-third utilities. 539-

ROOMMATE WANTED: Responsible, non-smoker for nice two bedroom apartment, completely furnished, fireplace and dishwasher. In quiet neigh-borhood. Call 537-9439. (33-37)

ROOM FOR rent in two bedroom at 238 Westwood, yard/parking, $145/month plus utilities. Quiet neighborhood. 539-3835. (34-37)

18

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf) MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free. Clinically tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf)

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

ROSS CUSTOM SECRETARIAL SERVICE

TERM PAPERS THESES DISSERTATIONS

RESUMES (with cover letters)

FACULTY MANUSCRIPTS

Come see us at 614 N. 12th (across from Kite's) for your work to be done in a professional manner, quickly. We take pride in our work! We look forward to our association with the University community. Tel: 539-5147

Lee Ross, Owner FREE SET of spark plugs with a tune-up on your import car at J & L Auto Service. Call 1-494-2388, St. George (offer ends October 15, 1986). (29-37)

NEED ODD jobs done? We'll do them for you! Hard workers, low prices. Call 539-9701, ask for Taylor. (30-34)

WORD PROCESSING using software which in-cludes spelling checker. Reasonable rates. Call 539-8633, ask for Curt. (31-34) WORKING ON a paper? Word processing, reasonable rates. Laura, 532-2362, room 131. Call for information. (33-37) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, disserta-

tions, manuscripts, term papers. (33-35)

WELCOMES 23 WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza. Church School 9:45 a.m.; Worship 8:30 and 11 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerfeldt 539-8685; Sue Amyx, 776-0025. Transportation to church-776-8790 after 9 a.m. (34)

CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m.; Evening Service, 6 p.m.; Prayer Service, Wednesday, 7 p.m. (34) First United Methodist Church 612 Povntz

8:45 a.m. Communion first Sunday of the month 9:45 a.m. Church School 8:45 a.m. & 11 a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services John D. Stoneking Pastor

ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), Sunset and North Delaware welcomes students to services: Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 8 and 10:45 a.m. Bible classes, 9:30 a.m. Sunday. (34) TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN-Worship Service 10:45 a.m.,; Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office, WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd. invites you to worship with them Sunday at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. Adult Sunday School Class meets 9:45 a.m. at the church office 2607 Allison

College Care Cell meets Saturday, 6:30 p.m., also Bible Study Tuesday evenings—contact 539-5369. For any additional information, call 537-7173. (34) WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison

(the white building with the two red doors). (34) WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church, 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Worship Service, 8:30 and 11 a.m. and Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Bob Burton, teacher. Evening Service, 6 p.m. Horace Breisford, Pastor; Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565. For transportation daytime call 776-0424. (34) MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.; Saturday evening at 5 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. (34)

COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 College Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. nday Worship, 8:15 and 11 a.m. Church Training. 6 p.m. Sunday. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service, 7 p.m. Phone: 537-7744. (34) FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz (537-8532). Welcome students to worship service at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (34) ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church-6th and Poyntz. Com munion is celebrated on Sunday at 8 a.m. (Rite I) and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call 776-9427. (34)

NRTPI URRX ZE TJEHL, KWO JRLE KWO JKW-OHGRWZTG

Today's Cryptoquip clue: J equals P

Plane

Continued from Page 1

worked for Southern Air Transport. At the news conference, Capt. Ricardo Wheelock, chief of intelligence of the Nicaraguan army, was asked if Hasenfus had been treated well since his capture Mon-

"Hasenfus is being treated under the best possible conditions...for a prisoner of war," Wheelock said. Nicaraguan officials have said

Hasenfus faces up to 30 years in prison, although no charges have been filed.

U.S. Consul-General Donald Tyson met for two hours Thursday with officials at the Nicaraguan Foreign Asked when the Sandinistas would allow U.S. officials to see Hasenfus, man from our consul, and that is to keep the pressure on," Abrams said.

"I'm confident they (the Sandinistas) are telling him, 'If you say the things we want to hear, you'll be in prison for 30 years," he added.

"If you don't cooperate, you'll be

He also claimed that the Sandinistas allowed Hasenfus' wife to visit him for only 30 seconds since she flew to Managua from her

Wisconsin home after the Sunday

THE TCECREAM SOCIAL

> Makes old-fashioned ice cream treatsstill America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love

our atmosphere.

Try our

soft-serve.

IN AGGIEVILLE USA

Tonite

One Nite

only

Not the Glenn

Miller Band

Free T.G.I.F.

Set

Free BBQ

1314 Westloop

out in no time."

Continued from Page 1

Tyson said: "I really don't have anything to say.'

Hasenfus' wife, Sally, accompanied U.S. officials to the Foreign Ministry, but did not leave with them. She arrived in Managua on Wednesday night.

Foreign Ministry spokeswoman Angela Saballos said the bodies of the three men killed in the crash would be returned to their families. One victim has not identified.

Nicaragua sent the United States a note of protest Wednesday and called on the Reagan administration "to abandon its politics of force, threats and intervention in Central American and accept the path of dialogue."

In Tegucigalpa, Honduras, the Nicaraguan Democratic Force, the largest of the Contra groups, said the men on the plane had worked with them since 1984.

plane crash. Abrams insisted that the resupply operation was carried out exclusively by private citizens.

"This was not a U.S. government operation," he said. "It was not U.S. financed. It was not CIA."

The FBI inquiry was touched off by the downing last Sunday of an American-manned C-123 cargo plane in southern Nicaragua. The aircraft reportedly had been based in Florida.

The Neutrality Act forbids private individuals from carrying out military expeditions from U.S. soil against countries which are not at war with the United States.

disappointed with some of the questions the members asked Travis. "I'd rather have seen it subjective, athletic fee.

Roger Haymaker, junior in

"The decision is probably going to be up to the student body in the end," he said. "There are so many opinions here, that it will probably be comthe (Student) Senate, then a referen-

They x really

CAMPUS HEART OF AGGIEVILLE

"Clockwork"

Orange

12:00 O'CLOCK MIDNIGHT

FRI. & SAT. OCT. 10 & 11

ALL SEATS $2.50

IVAN SAND

The Deciding Difference

Investments Committee

School Board Member 13 years

Vote for Experience Vote IVAN SAND Republican Representative 66th District

Commission

Paid by Re-elect Ivan Sand Committee, Charlotte Shawver, Treas.

→ 66th District Representative 10 Years

- Member, Commercial and Financial Institutions Committee, Pensions and

Chairman Big Lakes Regional Planning

34 Years of Experience

Fee

Continued from Page 1

not objective," he said of the meeting. Ligon said he hadn't made a decision yet, but liked the idea of an

"But whether it fits here at K-State, I don't know," he said.

"I like the way Travis is handling it," he said. "If he wasn't thinking about the students, he would have pushed for it (the fee) last year. In the end, it's inevitable that it will come down to a referendum."

business administration, agreed.

promised in committee, then go to Collegian Coupons add up!

Haymaker said he thought the attitude at the task force meeting 'swayed back and forth as the questions changed.

"I think he's got a tough position," he said of Travis. "Sure, they (the athletic department) can come to us for money, but I don't know if it should come from us. I haven't made a decision as of yet," Haymaker

"I see problems," said political science senior Kirk Caraway. "It doesn't seem justified in a school this small for an athletic department to have a budget that big.

Caraway said the task force should check into the students' financial situations before making a decision.

"It may appear I'm leaning one way right now, but only because we've only looked at one side of the spectrum," he said.

"If somebody can prove to me that most people can afford this fee, that may convince me."

Folk said the task force will begin focusing on whether students can afford an athletic fee and "if they should have to afford it."

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's

Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

A PEACH OF

A DEAL.

All peach

schnapps drinks

only 75¢

616 N. 12th

Forum

Continued from Page 3

South Africa has more than 50 percent of all world deposits of several minerals deemed strategic to the United States, he said.

It holds 75 percent of the platinum group mineral deposits in the world, Rosenberg said. The Soviet Union has the remaining 25 percent.

He pointed out that the recent sanctions passed by Congress didn't include a ban on the import of strategic minerals.

The United States is approaching sanctions with a "double-face," he

"We'll sanction you (South Africa) as long as it hurts you and not us," Rosenberg said.

Dealings between the United States and the South African government have been affected mainly by the perspective from which the United States views South Africa, he

The American perspective is a global view coming from playing a superpower role, he said.

"We look at the areas that affect us the most," Rosenberg said. Africa in general had been largely ignored before the 1960s because the African states were viewed as extensions of European relations, he said. After many African nations gained their independence from colonial rulers, South Africa was seen as a stabilizing force against any communist governments which might emerge in the area, Rosenberg said. It was a policy of "benign neglect" which was a name given to relations with South Africa during the administration of President Richard M.

> Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

GRAIN SCIENCE PICNIC

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10 6 p.m.

Nixon, he said.

Pottorf Hall, CiCo Park

STUDENTS, FACULTY, STAFF INVITED!!

Mae's Parlor Mae's Parlor FRIDAY

AGGIEVILLE FRIDAY VODKA DRINKS

$1.50

DRAWS 75¢ Free

Hors D'oeuvres 539-9967

AGGIEVILLE SATURDAY TONIC DRINKS $1.50 SCHNAPPS

$1.00 PITCHERS

$2.50 010 M.12th 539-9967

CARHARTT -

DAN POST - H & H - CARHARTT - LEVI - WRANGLER - ACME - CAROLINA

NDERBILT'S

A running shoe that goes beyond state-of-the art and into the realm of running technology of the

The Breeks Kinetic Wedge The Kinetic Wedge Is a specially designed piece of EVA strategically positioned under the first metatarsal head (the ball of the foot). It relieves the

The Nexus upward pressure on the ball of the foot and allows the of the foot and allows the joint to drop down naturally. This action keeps the arch in a strong raised position and effectively eliminates excessive mid-stance pro-nation, a leading cause of overuse injuries. By keep-ing the arch and foot aligned naturally, the run-ner achieves much greater efficiency in his or her gait. Only Brooks features the full anatomical last. The shoe is constructed on a form that is shaped exactly like the contours of the bottom of your foot. (Ordinary shoes are made on flat-bottom forms or are merely contoured at the heel.) The result? Unsurpassed comfort, stability and natural fit.

Ordinary Last

outsole systems compress and lose much of their cushioning properties. The Nexus has a cutout area in the outsole which permits the midsole to deflect downward through the opening in the outsole rather than compressing under stress. This gives the runner a more durable and more stable cushioning system.

Deflection Cushion-ing System During heei-strike, ordinary midsole/ outsole systems compress and lose much of their across the top of the foot. It provides a customized fit for normal, wide or high arched feet, and feet with Normal For

System An exclusive design distributes pressure evenly er the resistance supplied by the rollbar. An unbreak-able heel counter made from DuPont HYTREL®. For lacing wide/high teet with pattern arched sensitive

Compare to $79.95

Diagonal Relibar Diagonal Relibar design in the rearfoot provides resistance against the inward roll of the foot at heelstrike. The farther the past rolls howard to over the second provided the second reliable followers the constitutions of the second reliable followers the constitutions of the second reliable followers the constitutions of the second reliable followers the second reliable fol heel rolls inward, the great

TONY LAMA - JUSTIN - NOCONA

WRANGLER — ACME — CAROLINA — WOLVERINE — TONY LAMA — JUSTIN — NOCONA

We're There When You Need Us

Emergency Care 24 Hours A Day

It's easy to avoid thinking about accidents or sudden illness, or to think that it could never happen to you or your family. But emergencies do happen, every day and it's good to know that help is immediately available. Our staff of skilled health care professionals are committed to your good health in our community. Remember we're there when you need us.

Topeka Ka

Picking Up

The Sigma Lambda Chi construction science honorary spent Sunday afternoon cleaning up Pillsbury Crossing. See Page 5.

Cloudy

Cloudy with a 20 percent chance for light rain today. Highs 45 to 50. Light east winds. Clearing tonight.

Sports

Weathered Out

The K-State Soccer Club loses out in the eighth annual Ed Chartrand Memorial Tournament this weekend in Kansas City, Mo. See Page 7.

66612

Kansas Collegian

Monday October 13, 1986

.....

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 35

Captured American to be tried

By The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — President Daniel Ortega says that an American captured after a rebel supply plane was shot down will be tried soon, but it still was not clear Sunday what charges would be filed against him.

The president made his first comments on the Oct. 5 downing of a C-123 transport over southern Nicaragua in a nationally broadcast town meeting Saturday.

Ortega angrily denounced what he called the "direct participation" of the U.S. government in aiding guerrillas fighting the Nicaraguan government.

Ortega later told reporters that Eugene Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., will be tried soon in the People's Courts.

"In a very short time, I mean quickly, he will be sent to the appropriate courts to be judged," he other Sandinist officials have said Hasenfus could face up to 30 years in prison. The People's Courts were formed after the leftist Sandinist National Liberation Front came to power in July 1979, ending 42 years of government by the rightist, pro-

American Somoza dynasty.

The president said documents found in the C-123's wreckage proved the U.S. role. "There are no doubts about the involvement of the United States in all these actions," Ortega

President Reagan and other officials have denied any U.S. government involvement in the flight.

But Ortega said U.S. officials "stimulate terrorist actions such as this, but when people die they do not take responsibility for the action. ... They just call them heroes."

Ortega said other Americans helping the insurgents, known as Contras, would end up in prison or be killed. The remains of the American pilot and co-pilot of the plane, who died in the crash, were sent home

"If the United States makes the mistake of invading Nicaragua, that is how American soldiers will end up—dead or prisoners of the Nicaraguan people," Ortega said.

Sandinist troops seized Hasenfus last Monday. He had his first meeting Friday with U.S. consul Donald Tyson.

Hasenfus said Thursday he took part in 10 supply flights from El Salvador and Honduras for rebels inside Nicaragua and that the CIA was involved in the operation.

The Central Intelligence Agency armed and trained the Contras from 1981 to 1984.

Leaf stretch

Staff/Jim Dietz

Kim Peterson, Manhattan, reaches to get a leaf from a tree while gathering leaves Sunday on the KSU Tree Walk. Peterson was collecting leaves for her botany class at Manhattan High School.

U.S., Russian leaders adjourn without pact

By The Associated Press

REYKJAVIK, Iceland — President Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev, on the verge of an agreement to destroy all their offensive nuclear weapons over the next 10 years, ended their summit in disappointment Sunday over a dispute concerning the testing of American "Star Wars" technology.

The hangup involved the Soviets' insistence that research on the antimissile system be confined to laboratory work. Reagan declared, "This we could not and will not do,"

Gorbachev said that he made "very serious, unprecedented concessions and accepted compromises that are unprecedented." But he said there was a "rupture" over U.S. insistence on being allowed to test space weapons outside the laboratory. "Who was going to accept that?" he said. "It would have taken a madman to accept that."

The Iceland impasse was so complete that the leaders did not set a date for a third superpower meeting, and the future of arms control talks was left in doubt.

Gorbachev told reporters "the Americans came to this meeting empty handed," and top Soviet official Georgi Arbatov described the summit here as "the dead end to which they (the Americans) have driven the whole issue of arms control."

Secretary of State George Shultz said the two sides had verbally agreed to slash long-range missile and bomber aresenals in half in five years and completely by 1996. In addition, they were prepared to eliminate all but 100 medium-range missiles on each side — including all those deployed in Europe — during the first five-year phase and the balance of those in 1996 as well, Shultz said.

"A tremendous amount of headway was made," he told a news conference here, "but in the end we couldn't make it."

The problem: U.S. insistence on proceeding with testing of the Strategic Defense Initiative (Star Wars) with the idea of using it a decade from now as an "insurance policy" to prevent any enemy from launching a successful nuclear strike, Shultz said.

Shultz said U.S. leaders were "deeply disappointed" in the outcome. His early evening statement, the first word on the summit outcome, followed hours of high hopes built upon statements of progress issued by both sides.

Gorbachev told reporters in his post-summit news conference, as he did after the 1985 Geneva summit, that "the world situation is very dangerous" and that "there is a shortage of new thinking" among U.S. arms control experts. Nonetheless, he said the progress in some areas amounted to "substantial gains here in Reykjavik."

Reagan, talking to American military personnel at Keflavik Naval Air Base just before he boarded Air Force One for the nearly six-hour ride back to Washington, said the two sides had "moved toward agreement" on drastic reductions in intermediate-range weapons in Europe and Asia and on other issues.

But, the president said, "there remained at the end of our talks one area of disagreement ... The Soviet Union insisted that we sign an agreement that would deny to me and to future presidents for 10 years the right to develop, test and deploy a defense against nuclear missiles for the people of the free world."

Shultz told reporters, "The two leaders just decided they were not able to agree. At that point, the two leaders, being unable to agree, adjourned."

See SUMMIT, Page 9

Free club memberships raise legal questions at state level

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

Area clubs have been distributing and offering through the mail free club cards, which may be illegal, according to the state director of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Agency.

Kansas Statute 41-2601 states: "No membership may be granted within 10 days of the application. Each membership must be renewable annually upon payment of the annual dues of at least $10."

John Lamb, ABC state director, said money collected from the sales of club cards is kept by the establishment, but that sales tax must be paid on each membership sold.

Two Manhattan club owners said they believe that if they pay taxes on the cards, they can give them away. Greg Salavar, part-owner of Rocky Mountain Bonkers, said he was told by Dean Campbell, owner of Campbell Distributors, that giving away club cards and paying taxes on them

"As long as we pay taxes on the cards, we can do it," Salavar said.
Campbell said he didn't tell

Salavar paying taxes on free club cards was legal. "I don't think I've ever given him that message," Campbell said. "The regulation is that there's a minimum of $10 plus sales tax."

Campbell Distributors sells Anheuser Busch products in the Anheuser Busch products in the Manhattan area.

Don Ramey owner of Mannequins

Don Ramey, owner of Mannequins and Bushwacker's, said he was told by the ABC that giving away club cards and paying taxes on them was

"I talked to the ABC a couple of years ago and they told me it was legal to give away memberships as long as I paid the taxes on them," Ramey said.

"He certainly is misinformed," said Jack Richardson, chief of enforcement for ABC.

"I checked it out with the Department of Revenue, too, and they said the same thing," Ramey said of giving away memberships.

He said he may have spoken with someone at the Department of Revenue about giving away club cards as many as eight years ago.

Barbara Clark, public information officer at the Department of Revenue, said ABC is a division of the department and, therefore, goes by the same interpretation of the

"We would have to concur with Mr. Lamb," she said. "The gentleman (Ramey) from Manhattan is wrong."

Bushwacker's sent letters to at least eight sororities offering to buy club cards for seniors over 21 years old, according to social chairwomen and sorority presidents interviewed.

The letter said, "We would like to show our appreciation for your patronage over the past few years, Bushwacker's would like to buy your graduating seniors a year's membership to our club."

See CARDS, Page 10

Hayden's student support growing

By RENEE BEAUDOIN Government Editor

A second Collegian poll indicates Republican gubernatorial candidate Mike Hayden is gaining continued support among students before the Nov. 4 election.

Kansas Speaker of the House Hayden has widened his lead over Democratic candidate Lt. Gov. Tom Docking to a nearly 21-percent margin, an increase of 2.5 percent from the first Collegian poll, published

Sept. 15.

The results of the random poll of 427 students show Hayden with 49.9 percent of the students' votes, with Docking receiving 29 percent. Of the students polled, 21.1 percent were undecided.

Since the last poll, there are 15.6 percent fewer undecided, with Hayden gaining 57.7 percent of the previously undecided

students.

The first poll showed Hayden with 40.9 percent of the students' votes, Docking with 22.4 percent and 36.7 percent undecided.

The respondents were asked the following questions: If you were to vote today, would you be for or against pari-mutuel betting? If you were to vote today, would you be for or against the state lottery? If you were to vote today, would you be for or against liquor-by-the-drink? Mike Hayden is the Republican candidate for governor, Tom Docking is the Democratic candidate for governor. If you were to vote today, which would you vote for?

Of the students polled, 51 percent of the respondents are male and 49 percent female. Eighty-three percent are undergraduates and 17 percent graduate students. Fifty-eight percent of the students polled are registered to vote, with 14 percent still planning to register before the Tuesday deadline. Eighteen percent say they will not register to vote in this election.

When asked about the issues placed on the Nov. 4 ballot, student opinion is even stronger than in last month's poll.

If the lottery measure is passed, it would allow for the establishment of a state lottery as Missouri and Colorado now have.

The enactment of a state lottery in Kansas was favored by 83.4 percent of the students polled, 11.7 percent were against the measure, and 4.9 percent were undecided about the lottery.

In the last Collegian poll, 75.9 percent of the students were in favor of a state lottery,

against the state lottery? If you were to vote today, would you be for or against liquor-by-the-drink? Mike Hayden is the Republican 15 percent were against it, and 9.1 percent were undecided.

This poll shows the passage of the lottery was legal.

has gained 7.5 percentage points.

Pari-mutuel betting would allow the state to build race tracks and other facilities allowing limited gambling in Kansas.

Pari-mutuel betting was favored by a majority of the students. In favor of parimutuel betting were 76.5 percent of the students. Against the measure were 15.4 percent, and 8.1 percent were undecided.

The last poll showed 70 percent of the students in favor of pari-mutuel betting, 14.7 percent against and 15.3 undecided.

The passage of the liquor-by-the-drink measure would mean the end of private reciprocal clubs on the basis of a county-by-county vote. In counties favoring the measure, bars that now must be within the club system could become open bars for those 21 years old or older.

Liquor-by-the-drink was favored by 78.9 percent of the students, with 16.3 percent against the measure and 4.8 undecided.

In the last poll, 68 percent of the students were in favor of liquor-by-the-drink, 21 percent were against it, and 11 percent were undecided.

Election Collegian Poll

The Candidates

Mike Hayden For: 49.9%

Tom Docking For: 29%

Undecided: 21.1%

The Issues

Liquor by the Drink Pari-Mutue

For: 78.9% Against: 16.3% Undecided: 4.8% Pari-Mutuel Betting

For: 76.5% Against: 15.4% Undecided: 8.1% For: 83.4% Against: 11.7% Undecided: 4.9%

NATIONAL

Pilots with DUIs continue to fly

PITTSBURGH - As many as 16,000 airplane pilots may be continuing to fly even though their automobile drivers licenses have been revoked or suspended for driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol, according to a published report.

As many as 1,000 of them may be commercial pilots, The Pittsburgh Press said Sunday.

A study by the Inspector General's office of the Department of Transportation compared a list of 700,049 aviators with the names of 4 million motorists listed with the National Drivers Registry as having their licenses suspended or revoked since 1960 for driving under the influence.

The study, now being reviewed by the Federal Aviation Administration, was called "surprising and alarming" by a Department of Transportation official, who declined to allow the newspaper to publish his name.

"Most of them are private or business pilots, but about a thousand are Class 1, or commercial, pilots," the DOT official said.

Texas mansions join auction block

HIGHLAND PARK, Texas - Mansions valued at six figures are joining thousands of modest tract houses on the auction block as economic hard times stir up a blizzard of foreclosure notices in virtually every neighborhood in Texas.

In the Dallas suburbs of Highland Park and University Park, speculators who once struck gold by redeveloping lots are left holding half-million-dollar palaces that nobody wants to buy.

Seventy-seven foreclosures have been posted in the "Park Cities" this year, compared to 14 for all of 1985, according to Foreclosure Listing Service Inc.

In River Oaks and Hedwick Village, Houston neighborhoods where Mercedes are more common than crab grass, mansions are going at fire sale prices by hard-pressed owners who seek to get out with credit and reputation intact.

Residential foreclosures in Houston increased from 9,075 in 1984 to 17.393 in 1985, said Nicki Brandt of Baca Publications, a Houston firm that reports on real estate activity. She said through eight months of 1986, there were 16,703 foreclosures in the area. More than 40,000 properties have gone on the foreclosure auction block in the last two years in Texas as the energy, agriculture and real estate industries slump, and several times that number have been "posted," or notified of intent to foreclose.

REGIONAL

State official supervises Hays bank

HAYS - The state bank commissioner has taken charge of the Hays State Bank, which will provide strict supervision while regulators consider an offer to sell the bank, according to letters sent

But banking officials said they were concerned that depositors might make a run on the bank, which would deplete deposits and jeopardize the impending sale.

"I would hope they (depositors) know that a run contributes to the problems," said Assistant Bank Commissioner Mike Heitman.

Each account in the Hays State Bank, amounts to less than $100,000. That's the level at which the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. provides insurance, meaning no depositors would risk losing any money, banking officials said.

Stockholders last week were mailed copies of letters informing them that the state had taken control of the bank Sept. 18.

INTERNATIONAL

Iran commando units attack Iraq

by Kurdish guerrillas struck deep inside Iraq for the second time in 24 hours, killing hundreds of Iraqi troops, while Iraq announced its warplanes bombed two Iranian cities.

an attack against military bases in Koi Sanjaq and Altun Kopru, north of the oil center of Kirkuk, which was attacked the previous

"Hundreds of Iraqi troops were killed while security bases, a local headquarters of Iraq's ruling Baath Party as well as fuel storage centers and power installations were destroyed," said the broadcast, monitored in London. Koi Sanjaq and Altun Kopru are Kurdish towns in the Kurdistan mountains of northeast Iraq, within 80 miles of the border with Iran.

There was no immediate Iraqi comment on the latest attacks. But Iraq said its planes hit Shiraz and Isfahan in Iran on Sunday and that it had launched an overnight raid on a large maritime target off Iran's coast.

Six African leaders declare war

MAPUTO, Mozambique - Leaders from six southern African nations said after a one-day summit Sunday that South Africa had concentrated its forces along the borders of Mozambique and Zimbabwe and was preparing for war.

South Africa has already embarked on the road of fascism and of war against the peoples of southern Africa," the leaders of the socalled Front Line states said in a declaration issued Sunday night. They called on "all the peoples and governments of the world to block South Africa's race towards generalized war.' The statement added: "South African forces are concentrated along the borders with Mozambique and Zimbabwe, and commando units have infiltrated to carry out acts of terrorism in Mozambique." South Africa regularly stations troops along its borders to prevent incursions by guerrillas of the African National Congress. Mozambique said in a communique Saturday that South Africa was planning an air raid to help overthrow the government and had secretly sent a commando force into the capital.

China redesigns investment policy

PEKING - China, responding to complaints that its poor investment climate is driving away foreign business, announced it will lower taxes, guarantee operating autonomy and reduce red tape for foreign enterprises.

In a document published by the official Xinhua News Agency on Sunday, the government listed 22 provisions "for the encouragement of foreign investment."

The provisions specify that investors will be able to hire and fire their workers free from interference from local officials.

Foreign enterprises will also have the right to appeal what they feel are arbitrary fees and regulations by local officials, a common

They will receive tax breaks, be exempt from some subsidies that have driven up the cost of labor, have access to bank loans and have priority in obtaining water and other infrastructure needs

The new provisions are restricted mainly to two types of foreign enterprises, those manufacturing products designed for export and those bringing advanced technology into the country.

However, the level of investment declined this year, partly from rising dissatisfaction with artificially high labor and operating costs, inability to get needed parts and material, and difficulty in repatriating profits due to China's lack of foreign exchange.

NICOSIA, Cyprus - Iran said Sunday its commando units backed

Iran's official Tehran Radio said the Saturday night operation was

PI SIGMA EPSILON will have an orientation

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

VOTER REGISTRATION is available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Tuesday in the SGS Office and is sponsored by Associated Students of Kansas.

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES BOARD 1986-87

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN needs afternoon

teachers for elementary-age students. For more information, contact the main desk at UFM, 532-5560, by Wednesday.

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL applications are available in the College of Arts and Sciences Office, Eisenhower 116. LOST AND FOUND will be from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday near the Catskeller.

STUDENT CANCER RESEARCH AWARD APPLICATIONS for $500 are available in Ackert 233. The application deadline is Dec. 5.

MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY APPLICANTS FOR 1987: There will be a discussion of the application process from 9 a.m. to noon in Eisenhower 114.

CHIMES meets at 9 p.m. in Union 208.

meeting at 8 p.m. in Union Little Theatre

MARKETING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room. Beecham Products will present "Advancement in the '80s with Beecham."

HUMAN ECOLOGY CLUB meets at 5 p.m. in

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER will show the video tapes, "Interview Preparation" and "The Interview," at 3:30 p.m. in Holtz 107B.

BUSINESS COUNCIL meets at 4 p.m. in Union

RETAIL FLORTICULTURE CLUB meets at 7

PRE-LAW CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union

FARMHOUSE LITTLE SISTERS will have a

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF HEATING, REFRIGERATING AND AIR-CONDITIONING meets at 7 p.m. in Durland 173. Yearbook pictures will be taken after the meeting.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA will have pledge ceremonies at 8:30 p.m. in Union 213.

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS PROMOTION AND PUBLICITY meets at 7 p.m. at Kite's Bar & Grille, 619 N. 12th

Hee's Alterations 1st Anniversary Special

$1 Off length alterations on pants or jeans Reg. price $4

Limit one coupon per customer

Offer good through Oct. 31, 1986 1125 Laramie Plaza, Aggieville Mon.-Fri. 10-5:30, Sat. 10-2

SPA & TANNING SALON

One Year Anniversary Special

Previous Customers

12 tanning sessions for $20 New Customers

10 tanning sessions for $20

(offer expires Oct. 19)

776-7874

1214 C Moro Behind Aggie Ski & Sport

Special Anniversary Show One year ago today we began Comedy Invasion. Thanks to all of you who have made the Comedy Invasion a smashing success. For those of you who haven't seen our show, you don't know what you're missing. Every Monday night we feature the finest comedian touring the country. So

Don't miss the laughs!

DOUG FERRARI hails from San Francisco. He has appeared on The Tonight Show, David Letterman, Star Search and is currently working on a movie to be released next summer. A favorite in the San Francisco Bay Area where he has won the San Francisco Laugh Off the last three years.

COMEDY INVASION Every Monday at 9 p.m. TONIGHT

Special Anniversary Show Featuring

DOUG FERARRI Admission Coupons

& Specials

REGISTER NOW!

YOU CAN REGISTER TO VOTE IN THE S.G.S. OFFICE IN THE UNION

FROM 8a.m.-5p.m. MONDAY-FRIDAY.

DEADLINE: OCT. 14

YOUR VOTE IS YOUR VOICE

Buy any pizza and receive one of equal value FREE!

A WEEK AT

-Seminar-

9:15 to 9:30

AFTER 1:30 to 2 2:30 to 2 2:45 to 3

BREAK

4:15 to 5:00

5:00 to 6:30

MORNING at McCain Auditoriu

Registration in McCain Lobby

Student Publications Stidesho Pete Souza-White House Photographe

Darryl Heikes-Photographer at U

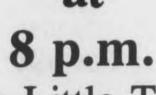

All K-State students and faculty with valid I.D.'s are invited to attend the AWAKS Photography Seminar Wednesday, October 15, 1986.

	Linuoliabinis inc. Liestoem
noon o	Jim Richardson-Special Projects Editor at the Denver Post
	"Documentary Photography" including "Cuba, Kansas"
noon to	1:20
NOON i	Little Theater—K-State Union	III.
2:20	John Sleezer-Staff Photographer at the Philadelphia Inquirer
	National Geographic Internship "In to Africa"	ll .
2:45	Dave Kaup-Chief Photographer at the Olathe (Kan.) Daily News
	"Cameras in the Courtroom"
3:45	Panel Discussion moderated by Dr. Carol Oukrop on Ethics in Photography
	Gary Haynes-Assistant Managing Editor at the Philadelphia Inquirer
	Tim Janicke-Picture Editor at the Kansas City Times
	John Bock-Staff Photographer at the Topeka Capital-Journal
	Sam Greene-Co-owner of the Delores (Colo.) Star
3:45 to	4:00
4.15	Andy Nation Contest Distance by Sec.

PI SIGMA EPSILON

National Professional Fraternity in Marketing, Sales Management and Selling invites ALL MAJORS to an Orientation Meeting

Tonight

Union Little Theatre National Professional Fraternity in Marketing, Sales Management and Sellin

Kidnappers' cousin being held in Kuwait

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - The kidnappers of three American hostages in Beirut are cousins of a prisoner being held by the Kuwait government, Newsweek magazine reported.

While they have demanded the release of 17 prisoners, unidentified intelligence sources indicated the kidnappers might settle for the freedom of just three Lebanese Shiite Moslems, including their cousin, who have been sentenced to death, the magazine reported in its Oct. 20

Newsweek cited information from intelligence and diplomatic sources, the families of hostages and "soundings in Beirut" as the basis for its story.

The cousin was identified as a bomb maker, Mustafa Yousef, who also uses the Christian alias of Elias Fuad Saab.

The kidnappers, who sign their communiques Islamic Jihad, are members of a family called the Mugniyahs, part of the Musawi clan led by Hussein Musawi from the Bekaa, the magazine said.

Three Americans are held hostage: Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for Associated Press: agriculturist Thomas Sutherland, 55, of Fort Collins, Colo., and hospital administrator David Jacobsen, 55, of Huntington Beach, Calif.

In October 1985, Islamic Jihad released blurred photographs of what it said was the body of hostage William Buckley, who had been captive for about 19 months. It said he was killed in retaliation for Israel's air raid that month on Palestine Liberation Organization headquarters in

Newsweek said, however, that administration officials believe Buckley died of pneumonia and other complications as the result of an especially brutal torture ses-

After his death, the kidnappers semed to pay closer attention to the health of the others, the magazine reported.

The first months of captivity for Anderson, 38, were the worst, and his anger and stubborn streak marked him for frequent beatings and threats.

For the first three weeks, he was chained to a bed and threatened with death if he uttered a single word. After Anderson angrily answered one threat with an expletive, he was beaten, kicked and tortured for six months with taunts that his family and government had abandoned him.

Later, however, he was allowed to watch a videotape made by his family on a TV set brought into his cell.

He has repeatedly refused to make scripted appearances his captors have demanded of him, but when they let him read about the Reagan administration's efforts to free U.S. reporter Nicholas Daniloff from Moscow, Anderson agreed to go on camera, according to the magazine.

Anderson likes to engage another guard, Haj, in political arguments, it said. One argument so enraged the kidnappers they took away the bread from the hostages' meager rations of bread and cheese.

Newsweek pieced together the following details about the hostages:

They have been kept in the basement of a half-finished apartment block in the suburbs of Beirut. They have been wrapped like mummies with packing tape and shuttled to different hiding places in wooden coffins and am-

- Their guards are Moslems who pray five times a day. One, a widower in his early 20s named Said, has three childen and earns $27 a month.

The hostages also have exercised and played with a puzzle given to them by their captors.

Center provides cultural understanding

By PATTI PAXSON Collegian Reporter

Although the Culture Learning Center in Room 102 of the International Student Center is physically only the size of an average bookcase, the information it contains encompasses most of the world.

Larry Paris, staff assistant at the International Student Center, and Donna Davis, director of the center, came up with the idea of the Culture Learning Center in the spring of 1985 when Davis read an advertisement about culture telegrams.

Paris began putting together the Culture Learning Center by first contacting the David M. Kennedy Center for International Studies at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah. This organization creates culture telegrams, or Culturgrams, he said. Culturgrams are described by the David M. Kennedy Center as "briefings to aid understanding of, feeling for, and communication with other people." Culturgrams are one of three sections of the Culture Learning Center, Paris said. The center also provides folders containing information about countries and materials to help non-English speaking people learn the Culturgram describes customs, beliefs

Each of the four-page Culturgrams is dedicated to one of 81 countries.

A Culturgram gives information about customs and courtesies, the people, lifestyle, the nation, useful words and phrases and suggested readings. Each Culturgram includes a map of the nation itself and a map of the nation in relation to other na-

Culturgrams explain such topics as the general attitudes of a people, their language, their religion, their personal appearance, dating and marriage customs and eating habits, as well as a nation's land, climate, history, government and economy.

For example, the Culturgram for Italy advises a visitor, "When invited for a visit or dinner, it is customary to take a wrapped box of chocolates or some flowers as a gift. When giving flowers, avoid chrysanthemums, which are only used to decorate graves. An odd number of flowers should be taken.'

Flowers are involved in a visit to India, as well. The Culturgram for India states, "At social gatherings, guests are often adorned with a garland of flowers. The garland should be removed immediately as an expression of humility, and carried in hand."

Another part of the Culture Learning Center comprises large folders that contain maps, pictures, educational and travel brochures, fact books and, perhaps, sample newspapers. Though there are not as many nations covered in the folder section as the Culturgram section, Paris said he is trying to add to this section by contacting various embassies and consulates around the

The third part of the Culture Learning Center contains Englishlearning materials. Non-Englishspeaking students and their spouses can learn and practice English by doing exercises, readings and quizzes offered in lesson form, he said. The material is offered at beginning, intermediate and advanced levels.

Paris said he hopes to obtain some language tapes in both English and non-English languages to add to the

If a student or faculty member needs to use the resources in the Culture Learning Center, anything from the three sections may be checked out, he said. Professors sometimes request a Culturgram on a particular nation because they have a new student coming to the United States, and they want to be familiar with that student's nation and customs, Paris

The International Student Center sponsors lectures at area schools and civic organizations. These lectures are presented by University students who tell audiences about their home country. He said foreign students often use their country's Culturgram as an organized framework for the lecture.

American and foreign members of the K-State community make copies of Culturgrams to take with them on trips overseas, Paris said. Culturgrams are a good way to prepare for a first-time visit to a foreign land.

Paris said the International Student Center also provides foreign newspapers, magazines, books, newsletters and other international information to supplement the Culture Learning Center.

Feds sorting through LaRouche records

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Federal investigators, with more than two truckloads of seized records to sort through, are focusing on obstruction of justice charges as they try to unravel political extremist Lyndon LaRouche's network of organiza-

After nearly two years of investigating what U.S. Attorney Henry Hudson called "an organizational policy of fraud and bilking," the government last week raided LaRouche's Virginia headquarters and indicted several of his inner circle members, his fund-raisers and assorted corporations and commit-

The government provided a broad look at its case last week in persuading a federal magistrate to hold without bond two top LaRouche lieutenants facing obstructon charges.

That evidence touched LaRouche himself, who has not been charged but who prosecutors contend "dominates and controls" an organization charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice.

It also shed light on what is one of the most bizarre political organizations ever - whose members, according to the FBI, make late-night harassing telephone calls to opponents and thought they could get CIA help to "spike" a federal fraud investigation of them.

LaRouche is a frequent fringe candidate for president who espouses a complex conspiracy view of the world that defies ideological labels, lumping the Queen of England, Soviet leaders and prominent Americans as co-conspirators and

Ten of his followers and five of his organizations were indicted in Boston on charges of fraud, in a scheme in which $1 million was allegedly bilked in unauthorized credit card charges, and conspiracy to obstruct justice for alleged efforts to thwart the fraud probe.

The Boston grand jury investigation began in the last weeks of LaRouche's 1984 presidential cam-

Government sources, speaking only on condition of anonymity, said the investigation is looking into whether others up the hierarchical ladder of the LaRouche organization were involved in obstruction efforts.

"It's like Watergate," said one source. "The coverup is sometimes more of a problem than the act itself."

The investigation began with charges of credit card fraud, and the indictment also describes a scheme to solicit huge loans from people with no intent to repay.

While the indictment describes $1 million in alleged fraud nationwide, the charges involved only about $60,000 worth among New England residents. Government sources said the remainder was carried on in other areas, outside the Boston grand jury's jurisdiction.

LaRouche was also described in the indictment as instructing a key aide on how to handle the Boston grand jury investigation.

Commission approves Philippines constitution

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines - A commission on Sunday approved the final draft of a constitution that gives President Corazon Aguino a six-year term, sets legislative elections for May and contains safeguards against authoritarian rule.

The draft also grants the legislature an unprecedented say over the future of U.S. military bases in the Philippines, sets up a bill of rights and a human rights commis-and will be submitted to the voters for ratification in January.

heads in prayer after panel chair- dinand E. Marcos braved rain to at- The draft provides for six-year woman Cecilia Munoz Palma announced the vote. The document was completed after 132 days of often bitter debate.

Aquino was not available for com-

Presidential spokesman Teodoro Benigno said the president planned

776-0030

LADIES: THEY'RE BACK!

The Station

PRESENTS

THE DREAM MACHINE PRO MALE DANCERS FROM THE WEST COAST!

> Wednesday, Oct. 15 Tickets $6 advance-$7 door

-NO RESERVE SEATING-

Males will be admitted after 10:30 p.m.

DONUT LOVERS DOZEN

AGGIE STATION 1115 MORO

sion which was approved 44-2, will be to campaign for the charter's presented to Aquino on Wednesday ratification and that she was confident it would win popular approval.

In downtown Manila, about 5,000 Commission members bowed their followers of deposed President Ferdecree. tend a rally and call for Aquino's ouster. Speaker Chito Lucero asked the crowd if they would vote for the constitution, and the people shouted,

After taking power in February, Aguino abolished Marcos' 1973 constitution that allowed him to govern by authoritarian rule. Aquino then appointed the commission to come up with a draft for a new constitution. In the meantime, she rules by presidential terms, allowing Aquino to stay in office until June 1992.

It also restores the presidential system of government that Marcos abolished when he declared martial law in 1972.

It calls for a 24-member senate and a 250-member lower house.

Pizza and FREE drinks with coupon

Dine-in, carryout or delivery

Save on Godfather's delicious giant combo pizza with FREE DRINKS, during our EARLY WEEK SPECIAL - Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only. Our Combo Pizza is a mouth-watering mozzarella monster laden with beef, sausage, pepperoni, olives, onions, mushrooms, and tomato sauce, then topped with a mountain of delicious dairy cheese. Our pizza outweighs 'em all.

There's nobody's pizza like Godfather's Pizza.® Come in today, bring the mob, and cut a Combo down to size.

539-5303

Call For Delivery

1118 Laramie In Aggieville by Mini-Mart

COMBO PIZZA or up to 4 toppings Thin or original crust Plus FREE drinks in 32 oz. reusable cups! 3 drinks with giant,

2 drinks with mediu

Early Week Special COMBO PIZZA or up to 4 toppings Thin or original crust

Plus FREE drinks in 32 oz. reusable cups! 3 drinks with giant, 2 drinks with medium

1/2 Dozen Donuts

(with coupon)

1/2 Dozen Donuts Offer good thru 10/17/86

(with coupon)

1/2 Dozen Donuts For 99¢

FirstBank Center Corner of Denison & Claflin

776-7529

(with coupon)

MANHATTAN WHY PAY

If you think you're getting a good deal on your

MUFFLER BRAKES

Call madas and see if it's really true

539-0551 330 N. Seth Childs

WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD

M-F 7:30-5:30 Sat. 8-12 noon

Regular Muffler Brakes

•Inspect Hydraulic System per axel

Lifetime

 Vehicles Equipped with Semi-Metallic Pads $15 extra most cars & light trucks warranty information availa

•Repack Wheel Bearings •Inspect Grease Seals

 Lifetime Guaranteed Brake Pads •Resurface Rotors Or Drums

•FREE Estimates

FAST Service

NO Obligation

FEATURES, SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR

Todd Nighswonger

AGRICULTURE EDITOR Tom Schultes
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR Laurie Fairburn

SPORTS EDITOR Tim Fitzgerald
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

COPY EDITORS June DeWeese Valerie Johnso STAFF WRITERS Jeff Bielser Judy Goldberg Becky Howard Pat Hund

COLUMNISTS Susan Baird Kirk Caraway Tracy Carlile Wayne Long

SPORTS WRITERS Tony Carbajo Tom Perrin

GRAPHIC ARTISTS Carlos Corred Chrisie Ninci

Kirk Caraway

Joe Cook PHOTOGRAPHERS Brad Camp Brad Fansh John LaBarge EDITORIAL BOARD

Judy Goldberg Deron Johnson Chris Stewart Teresa Temm Jonie Trued Margaret May

Jeff Tuttle

ADVERTISING MANAGER ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER Ronda Corie CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE

Shelly Shaffer TEARSHEET MANAGER Vicki Fernkopf SALES REPRESENTATIVES Roxie McKee Todd Schultz

ADV. GRAPHIC ARTISTS Tammy Girrens STUDENT PUBLICATIONS DIRECTOR

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR Gloria Freeland NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR ADV. PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Kalb shows integrity, resigns from position

Citing his inability to continue acquiescing to the Reagan administration's much-ballyhooed "disinformation" campaign, Bernard Kalb resigned his State Department spokesman position last week. No one familiar with the disinformation — a kind term for the more appropriate word "lie" — or Kalb's journalistic background can fault his decision.

The disinformation involved the administration's attempt to falsely persuade Libyan leader Col. Moammar Gadhafi that a significant number of people in Libya opposed him, that some of his aides were disloyal, and that the United States was planning a military attack on the country.

One of the key elements to the similar level of integrity.

plan's success was the planting of false reports within the American press. After Kalb realized that he had been used unwittingly as a mouthpiece for the lies, he believed he had no choice but to step down.

As a former network correspondent for CBS News and NBC News, Kalb had a strong journalistic background, which he brought to the spokesman position two years ago. That background forbade him from continuing to put up with the blatant deception the administration was feeding him.

Integrity dictated that he step down. It's too bad the administration he worked for doesn't have a

U.S. should support toxic waste program

The Superfund renewal bill for ports us. toxic waste cleanup has passed the House and is sitting on President Reagan's desk.

Ignoring environmental concerns, Reagan has threatened to veto the bill that would give funds to the toxic waste cleanup program. The program has been failing for a year because Congress did not renew the program's taxing authority.

The bill left the House with nearly 100 votes more than needed to override a veto.

Toxic waste cleanup is not to be taken lightly. There is an old saying about the balance of nature being on a fine line, and the saying is true. We have to be careful what we do to the land that sup-

The Dust Bowl era of the 1930s is an example of disturbing this delicate balance. We learned our lesson about over-cultivating cropland, but we need to apply that lesson to the other means of changing the world.

There is nothing we can do about toxic waste; it is already here. We need to take legislative steps and spend money now to ensure that we do not make the biggest mistake in history and shirk our duty to future generations. Taking the cheaper route usually leads to trouble later.

With the overwhelming support of Congress, the one man at the top needs to think before he vetos this bill and endangers the future.

etters

Erroneous reasoning

Re: The articles, "K-State 'badly' needs money from athletic fee, Travis says" and "Survey finds three schools use athletic fee," in Tuesday's Collegian.

I would like to respond to the two articles in Tuesday's Collegian. I believe this athletic fee is a question that the students need to look into a little closer.

With the price of education getting higher by the day and with such services as financial aid and our academic programs being cut, how can we afford to put an athletic fee in? Do we want to become a college known for our sports or for our academic programs? In the long run, being known for our academic programs would be more beneficial to the school. The greatest majority of students do not go to a school just because there is a good sports program. They are here for an education.

It has been said that sports here are good publicity for the school and draw students. Why don't the academic programs get the publicity they deserve? Is it because sports are a higher priority? Why aren't the different academic departments getting in the public eye? Is it because the administration is more concerned with keeping up with Nebraska and Oklahoma on the sports field? How many people are actively involved in non-revenue sports? Will we be spending all of this money on a selected few who are talented and ambitious enough to compete? Are the students, who will end up paying for these sports, willing to take part or will we be supporting a select few? You go to college to receive an education, not to play varsity

Joe H. Davis junior in computer science

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included.

Our war in Nicaragua defies logic

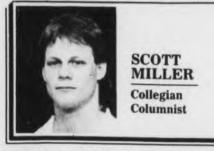

Like most Americans, I like to think I have a conscience. This country prides itself on its high moral standards. Often, however, there are gross discrepencies between our alleged morality and factual reality. I'm referring specifically to our five-year war on the people of Nicaragua.

Notice I make no reference to governments. As a democracy, where governmental policies are supposed to reflect the wishes of the majority, we must accept responsibility for the government's actions. Despite efforts to portray the Contras as freedom fighters, our support and apathy have made the war in Nicaragua possible. It is, quite frankly, our war.

I also reject The Associated Press contention that the Contras are "rebels fighting the Nicaraguan government." The AP's descriptions of the Nicaraguan situation is similar to President Reagan's. He has expounded many times that our war on the Nicaraguan people is an effort to save them from the 'communist, totalitarian dungeon' they are in. Such comments appeal to us - we like to think we're helping people around the world. Such comments do a lot for American pride.

What they fail to do, however, is address the truth. Such comments fail to explain why the overwhelming majority of the 12,000 Nicaraguans who have died in our war have not been Sandinista officials, but civilians. Such comments do not explain why a supposedly moral nation supports a mercenary army employing the most disgusting tactics

At a University Lou Douglas Lecture last year, former CIA officer John Stockwell described the Contras' tactics, including their procedure for dealing with peasant families suspected of supporting the Sandinistas. Such families are taken to a secluded area where the father is castrated and killed, the mother is raped, and the children are forced to watch. Stockwell added that sometimes for variety, the children are tortured while the parents are forced to watch. That's our tax dollars in action - fighting our war and saving Nicaraguans from a "communist, totalitarian dungeon."

However noble the aims of our war are said to be, I still have trouble justifying statesponsored terrorism to achieve those aims and that's assuming the goals of our war really are noble.

After events last week concerning the downed American plane carrying arms and military supplies to the Contras, we have reason to question our collective conscience and how it is reflected by governmental policies. The facts concerning U.S. government involvement in arms shipments to the Contras are not yet clear; the Senate will be investigating that issue this week. Without getting into the subjunctive world of what if questions (i.e. What if our government authorized arms shipments in violation of the Neutrality Act and the Arms Export Control Act?), we do know that private citizens, such

WHEN IN FACT

IT WAS A BUNCH

of IDIOTS,

as retired Gen. John Singlaub, have aided the Contras with money, supplies and arms with consent, if not encouragement from our government.

Monday, October 13, 1986 - 4

When asked whether he approved of these efforts to help the Contras, Reagan said, "We're in a free country where private citizens have a great many freedoms.'

How true. Yet, one freedom we apparently don't have is the freedom to send agricultural supplies to the Nicaraguan people. Last month, the Reagan administration denied Oxfam, a Boston-based humanitarian organization, permission to send farm tools and supplies to Nicaragua. The people whom we are allegedly trying to save from a "communist, totalitarian dungeon" are not fair game to save from malnutrition caused by our own blockade.

Oxfam used donations to purchase seed, shovels and medical and school supplies to send to refugee camps in Nicaragua. The official word from Washington was that "such transactions are inconsistent with current U.S. foreign policy." So our foreign policy allows us to ship 50,000 rounds of ammunition and AK-47 automatic rifles to terrorists, while it prohibits us from sending seeds, shovels and pencils to the people we are supposedly trying to help. Our foreign policy defies not only morality, but logic.

But is the war in Nicaragua really our war? Considering that two-thirds of the American people are opposed to our war on the Nicaraguan people, we can draw one of two conclusions: either those studies are wrong and our government's policies are reflecting our opinions and morals, or our government has failed to carry out the will of

OPERATING BADLY

DESIGNED EQUIPMENT,

Social interaction in special setting

Following the recent outcry over malefemale relationships as defined by the K-State baseball coaching staff, it's time to take a more mature look at interaction of the sexes. It's time to get away from the major issues of who bakes cookies for whom and get back to the basics, namely, how it all begins. To interact, men and women must meet first, and that can prove to be quite an obstacle.

Meeting that "special someone" is the ultimate goal for all K-Staters pursuing dual degrees (i.e., a "M.R.S." and a B.S. in any field). Just when you think you've mastered the classroom and are finishing up the final requirements of a degree, it hits you like lightning - a sign from above. You panic, realizing that you're about to graduate, enter the real world and make big bucks but have no one special to share it with, even though that "special someone" may not consider it sharing to do your laundry, clean up after you and cook for you.

Everyone's heard about the horror stories from friends in the "real world" after college. Most men who aren't already "taken" are supposedly either divorced or gay. The rest are simply looking for someone to bear their children and iron their shirts. The eligible women graduates are either so paranoid about being stuck with the aforementioned men that they're paralyzed with fear of being approached by men or too smart to mess with the male species in general.

Therefore, most "authorities" (anyone who already has a "mate for life" wrapped around his or her little finger) urge students to seek and find "someone special" before graduation. That's much easier said than done, however, so you might as well start looking in some of the more obscure loca-

Forget about trying to "spark" with someone in a crowded bar, private club or private party - too much competition there. Besides, you look your "most desperate" in the dark after a few beers. Instead, head for the nearest laundromat, grocery store, football game, Principles of Biology lab, Lafene Student Health Center or Durland Hall - a little off of the beaten path but real gold mines when it comes to meeting the opposite sex in a casual atmosphere.

TRACY CARLILE Collegian Columnist

The laundromat is a place to meet someone "just the way they are." For men, that entails meeting the woman of their dreams without makeup, in sweatpants and an oversized sweatshirt, and resembling something run over by a truck. A woman can meet the the man of her dreams usually looking just about as good, and decide whether she really wants to spend the rest of her life with someone who appears, by the looks of his 47 pairs of dirty socks, to do his laundry two times a semester.

The grocery store is an old favorite, with some claiming the produce aisle is the place to "shop." A man or woman's special 'touch" can be determined by the way he or she "thumps" or "squeezes" the fresh produce to determine its ripeness

Every woman should attend at least one football game, or any sporting event, when looking for a date. For one thing, the male species is concentrated at such events, and the male-female ratio is extremely high. More important, however, is seeing just how sports-crazed that "potential mate" can be. If he's relying on company solely to fetch a beer and peanuts at any time and carry him home afterward, it's time to look elsewhere and face the fact that you may be stuck with a couch potato several months of the year if he's the armchair quarterback type. The Principles of Biology laboratory is filled with people who have no idea what's going on and don't care. The self-motivated learning concept isn't really successful and motivation is fleeting to non-existent most of the time. What better place to walk up to the one you'd like to love, slip in a Boston tape in place of the "educational" ones, and enjoy each other's company. Desperate situations (i.e., "Am I really supposed to be learning something here?) bring out the best in all. Talk comes easy and friendships are easily

Lafene Student Health Center offers mateshoppers a place to view "prospectives" at their worst. No one could possibly be more unattractive, both physically and personality wise, than when they're sick. Find out just how well this man handles pain. Are they only looking for a mother-substitute, i.e. someone to heat up the chicken noodle soup and tuck them in at night? On the healthier side, Durland Hall is full of young men and women who have something between their ears besides air and may make something respectable of their lives someday. Besides, with its three levels, women have vantage points to check and eliminate prematurely balding men as they walk below in the atrium. On the second-floor lounge, they can determine who snores. Every woman should know if her potential mate for life snores and vice-versa. It's simply unhealthy and irritating. After shopping awhile in any of the aforementioned places, one should meet at least one person with whom to interract for awhile. Though it may not be for a lifetime, two weeks of good times beat Friday nights

Litter pickin'

Mel Borst, senior in construction science, collects litter Sunday at Pillsbury Crossing. The area was being cleaned as a community service project coordinated by the Sigma Lambda Chi construction

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Restaurant

Open 7 days a week 2 7

ADVERTISING CLUB

presents:

Procter & Gamble

"Sales and Advertising"

Tuesday, Oct. 14 at 7 p.m. in the Journalism Library, Kedzie Hall

Plan may solve prison overpopulation

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Secretary of Corrections Richard Mills has ordered that an "emergency housing plan" be drawn up to cope with prison overcrowding after unexpected increases in the state's prison population during the past three months.

Mills said expansion of the inmate population since July has been roughly double what officials had projected for the period. And since Kansas prisons already are beyond maximum capacity, Mills says he had little choice but to order planning for emergency housing of

"I'd consider it to be an alarming increase," Mills said of the recent population growth. "It's disturbing to say the least.' Officials had projected increases of about 30 inmates per month during all of the fiscal year that began July 1. Mills said. However, the prison population actually grew by 42 inmates in July, 68 in August and 74 in

As of Friday, 5,028 prisoners were crammed into facilities designed for a maximum capacity of 4,739, Mills said. In addition, 150 prisoners were being housed in facilities which are not under the control of the Kansas

By The Collegian Staff

A lecture concerning farm policy, to be presented by a a professor from the University of Oklahoma in Norman, is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. today

Rebecca S. Roberts, who currently is a visiting professor at Clark

University, Worchester, Mass., is to present the lecture, titled "The Family Enterprise, Farm Policy,

Roberts is a contributor to literature in natural resources geography, agricultural policy and land-use planning. Roberts' recent in Dickens 206.

and Time.'

Mills said at the current rate of growth, averaging about 61 inmates per month, the yet-to-be-built Ellsworth Correctional Work Facility would be filled in less than five

The $9.7 million minimum-security prison at Ellsworth, which the Kansas Legislature approved this year to combat overcrowding, is designed to hold 288 prisoners. It isn't scheduled to open until March 1989.

The maximum capacity of the prison system will go up to 5,015 inmates in December, upon completion of cellhouse renovations at two prisons, but no other significant increases in capacity are expected until the Ellsworth facility opens.

By that time, the department's conservative projections reflecting an average increase of about 18 prisoners per month show the total population would be about 5,500 and growing. Extended projections place the prison population at about 5,800 by mid-1991.

No easy answers will be found in the emergency housing plan, which should be completed before the Legislature convenes in January,

Although the plan likely will call for using modular structures or work has concerned groundwater policy, cropland retirement and degree from California State University in Northridge and her master's and doctoral degrees from Oregon

She also has recently received funding from the National Science Foundation and Resources for the investigation of property rights, institutions and the political economy of groundwater management in the the Department of Geography.

The lecture is being sponsored by

State University.

high Plains.

Roberts received her bachelor's community growth management.

mobile home type housing bounded by a security fence just outside an existing prison, Mills said the biggest problem will be to determine where and how so-called "support services" would be provided for the hastily built encampments.

Support services include programs to provide food, clothing, work, medical services, counseling and recreational activities. Providing those services means hiring more personnel and probably additional construction.

"When you're talking about a contingency plan and housing that you could put up pretty fast, you're just talking about housing and not about that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat!

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt

I Can't Believe It's Frozen Yogurt Stores

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

The main problem in planning emergency housing near existing prisons is that support services at those institutions already are overburdened, Mills said.

'We're hurting for staff every place because of the influx of the inmates," he said. The prison system's woes will only be compounded if the next governor follows through with a tough anticrime program.

--FREE SAMPLES--

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Graduate Studies

CELL BIOLOGY NEUROBIOLOGY

University of Kansas Medical Center

Call or write: Admission Committee Department of Anatomy KU Medical Center Kansas City, Kansas 66103 (913) 588-7000

DIANE HAPPY BIRTHDAY!!

Hope Your Day is Full of SURPRISES

TANNING SESSIONS No Purchase Limit 519 N. 12th Offer Ends Oct. 14

Oklahoma professor to give presentation on farm policy

Wichita Pramily Planning Inc.

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

Pre-Enrollment Advising Begins Monday, October 13 EECE Students should make an appointment NOW with Professor Hunt

Students who obtain pre-enrollment advising are given first priority at the time of pre-enrollment.

AND COMPUTER ENGINEERING STUDENTS

in Durland 263

Retail Floriculture Club Presents

Gib Cunningham "Creating Floral Designs"

Monday, Oct. 13, 7 p.m. Waters 244

Door Prizes to be Given.

12:01 a.m.

Lon Kruger and the KSU Wildcats present basketball Wednesday morning at one minute after midnight.

Be There!

Rescuers find 3 more quake survivors

By The Associated Press

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador -Rescuers digging through collapsed buildings pulled out three more survivors Sunday, but officials said it was impossible to say how many people remain buried following an earthquake that killed hundreds.

Jose Morales Chavez, a Salvadoran Red Cross coordinator, said three more people were rescued from the wreckage of the Ruben Dario building.

Rescuers pulled at least 24 survivors from that building and another on Saturday and had worked through the night under the glare of lights in hopes of finding others. Aftershocks from Friday's quake meanwhile continued to rock the ci-

"It is impossible to say how many more are trapped," said Dr. Antonio Silva Carranza, a member of a volunteer Guatemala rescue squad, as workers dug through rubble seeking more survivors.

The International Red Cross said in Geneva on Sunday that 350 people were killed and 6,800 injured, with 600 requiring hospitalization. It said about 30 people were still trapped under debris.

President Jose Napoleon Duarte said Saturday that at least 300 people were killed, 6,500 injured and many more believed trapped in the rubble.

The Red Cross said the homes of about 40,000 families were damaged, and that 20,000 people were left

The organization said immediate medical needs have been met and no epidemics are feared. It said electricity has been restored to about 60 percent of San Salvador, the capital. Telephone service is being restored and distribution of water has begun.

Many countries, including the United States and El Salvador's neighbors, Mexico and Nicaragua, pledged to send aid, including emergency supplies and rescue

The downtown area and shantytowns on the outskirts of the capital were hardest hit. The presidential palace, the U.S. Embassy, six major hospitals and several schools were severely damaged. At least seven major buildings collapsed.

Four American volunteers with trained dogs helped in the search for bodies, crawling with their animals through dark tunnels and passageways.

"It takes experience and some guts," said Caroline Hebard, 42, of Bernardsville, N.J., who also helped in the rescue efforts in the Sept. 19, 1985, earthquake in Mexico City that killed at least 9,500 people.

"You look at the building and assess the risk," said Mrs. Hebard. "I've seen some buildings so shaky that I wouldn't go in."

"The problems inside are very serious," added Marcos Efren Zavinana Guadarrama of Mexico. "There are areas where people could be trapped and still be alive, but we cannot know until we reach them."

On Saturday, 21 people were pulled alive from the rubble of the fivestory Ruben Dario downtown office building, and three women were rescued from the wreckage of an annex of the presidential palace on the city's southern outskirts.

mitory. We would sit in the parlor.

We couldn't go to the girls' rooms.

That was much stricter in those

By The Associated Press

SALINA - Joe B. Heckert was the only representative of Kansas Wesleyan University's class of 1916 at a weekend reunion, but the 93-year-old former Ohio State University professor says he didn't

Two other members of Heckert's class of 30 students survive, but the spry Heckert, who walks two miles a day, was the only one well enough to attend the reunion, held in conjunction with the university's centennial celebration.

'There were some other old timers after me, but only two or three," he said Saturday. "It was just interesting to see the old town and the old college."

His sister, Lenora Howery of Bethany, Mo., graduated from Kansas Wesleyan in 1926 and attended her 60th reunion.

Heckert, who grew up in Tescott, Kan., lives in Upper Arlington, a suburb of Columbus, Ohio. The professor emeritus of economics at Ohio State particularly remembers one of

"We had an old English teacher

fessor," he said. "Anyone who ever would go see our girls in the dorwent there would remember her. She was unmarried. She was quite a character. Very tough.' For fun, Heckert and his friends went to literary society meetings and athletic events. Dancing was not allowed at the Methodist college.

days."

HAVE YOU JOINED OUR AROUND THE WORLD BEER CLUB?

Campaign promotes services on campus

By The Collegian Staff

This week has been designated Social Services Awareness Week, and a table set up in the Union will offer information about services available to students.

Representatives from U-LearN. the Women's Resource Center, FONE Crisis Center, Legal Services and the Consumer Relations Board will be at the table at onehour intervals from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day to answer questions students may have about these and other services available on campus.

The Student Affairs and Social Services committees organized the week-long event under the theme, "How's Your Social

"People just don't know about them (services), not necessarily because of a decline in usage but because of a lack of awareness." said committee chairman Brett Bromich, senior in marketing.

A representative of one of the five services promoted this week will be at the table for an hour each day, Bromich said. Posters containing a list of facts about the services as well as what they do will be available for students to

"Hopefully, we'll be able to answer questions, but we won't be able to take any form of action," Bromich said. Appointments can be made for students who need more information or assistance.

The Social Services Committee has never sponsored a program like this before, he said. If the response received this week is good, the committee plans to repeat the program promoting some of the other services available.

These services are paid for by the students as part of the special fees. It is important for students to be aware of the services in order to utilize them, Bromich

Spry 93-year-old revisits alma mater who was the classic college pro- he said. "We had picnics, and we feel left out.

there that I knew, who graduated just $1 a plate Plus Shrimp just $1 a doz.

COTITION CILUIB

Downtown 418 Poyntz

Friday Free T.G.I.F. BBQ

his teachers at Kansas Wesleyan.

Party Tonite Wednesday Ladies Nite

MONDAYS & TUESDAYS! DRAFT BEERS 8250 PITCHERS

EXPOSE IF

TODAY: Off Campus, Marlatt Oct. 14: Off Campus, Marlatt, Moore

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment call 539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Any Size Pizza

539-4888

OOD MONDAYS ONLY

Monday, October 13, 1986

Jack Nicholson Double Feature

Roman Polanski's CHINATOWN, set in Southern California in the 1930's reverberates with the subtle eroticism of the love affair between Jack Nicholson as the small-time shamus and Faye Dunaway as his big-time client.

All shows in Union Forum Hall, 7 p.m.

Rappelling Trip

and Rock Climbing

in Columbia, Mo.

Information meeting:

Tomorrow 7:00 p.m., K-State Union room 208.

ter, 3rd floor Union.

Sign up begins Wednesday Oct. 15,

8:30 a.m.-4:00 p.m. in Activities Cen-

Oct. 15 sign-up for K-State students

Oct. 16-Oct. 28 sign-up open to students, faculty and the general

Easy Rider

EASY RIDER is the film that began the New Hollywood revolution. It is an American odyssey the story of two men who set out to discover their country and their place in it. Stars Jack Nicholson, Peter Fonda and Dennis Hopper.

Today and Tomorrow

KSU ID required, R rated.

Both shows for only $1.75!

November 1-2

Only $26 Includes 4 meals.

equipment

rental, and demonstrati-

Uk-state union Chinatown shows first tonight; Easy Rider shows first tomorrow night.

Bicycle Thief

Vittorio DeSica's masterpiece of Italian neorealism is the story of an impoverished Italian laborer and his son, and the bicycle that is essential to their survival in post-war Italy.

Wednesday, Oct. 15, 7:30 p.m. 3:30 p.m. Little Theatre and 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall. $1.75, KSU-ID required, Unrated.

BUY 1

GET 1

FREE

707 N. 12th

In Aggieville

Now Serving Coca Cola Products i

Forum Hall & Thursday, Oct. 16,

Fighting the rain and kicking up

K-State center midfielder Clinton McKinzie waits for the call of the referee after being knocked to the ground by a University of Missouri-Kansas City player. K-State beat UMKC 2-1 in Saturday's game.

The K-State Soccer Club men's team, after winning two of three games Saturday, got knocked out of the eighth annual Ed Chartrand Memorial College Soccer Tournament Sunday after winning its bracket and advancing to the finals.

Controversy, however, hit the tournament that was held at the Kenneth Road Soccer Complex in Kansas City, Mo. After playing the first day outdoors in the rain and mud, tournament officials decided to bring the final round indoors, much to the ire of K-State Coach Manfred "Clay" Ross.

'As screwy as it was, the team we beat 2-1 (UMKC) won the whole tournament.'

Coach Clay Ross

After dropping the first game 1-0 to Nebraska on Saturday, the Wildcats rebounded to down Northern Iowa 2-0 and the University of Missouri-Kansas City 2-1 to win their bracket and advance to the finals.

In K-State's first game Sunday on the indoor turf, Oklahoma State disposed of the defending champions 5-1 to knock them out of the tournament.

"Five to one is not a reflection of our team," Ross said. "We don't train for indoors. It is kind of a screwy situation. It is like taking a baseball team indoors and playing hockey, after they get rained out, to see who wins.

"As screwy as it was, the team we beat 2-1 (UMKC) won the whole tournament.'

mainly Kansas City area players who play a 25 in Memorial Stadium.

lot of indoor soccer in the strong indoor leagues around the metropolitan area. Getting to the championship round was a feat in itself for the K-State team as it played the remaining games in a "must win" situation after the opening-round loss to Nebraska. Ross said the players responded when their backs were against the wall.

"UMKC was a must win for us," he said. "We win or we go home.

"When you lose your first game in a bracket situation, you might as well plan on going home. They showed a lot of poise."

The Kangaroos led 1-0 after the first 45-minute half and seemed ready to send the Wildcats back to Manhattan. But midfielders Dave Weitz and Clinton McKenzie added second-half goals to spark the come-frombehind victory.

K-State was forced to play the tournament with a backup goal keeper, John Nelson, because their first string keeper couldn't make the trip.

"We got really, really excellent goalie play from Nelson," Ross said. "He had an excellent tournament and he is only a freshman. I think he will be an outstanding keeper for us in the next three years."

Ross also praised the defensive play of John Szyhowski, who he said played a great tournament.

The tournament was started in 1979 following the death of Ed Chartrand on May 19, 1979. Chartrand, a 1978 K-State graduate, played for the K-State Soccer Club. The Chartrand family has been the prime organizers of the tourney.

The men's team, now 7-2, is in action next weekend against arch-rival Kansas in Lawrence. The club's next home game is Ross said the UMKC team is comprised of against Central Missouri State at 1 p.m. Oct.

Right wing Mark Reuter tries to warm his hands as he watches from the sidelines during the Ed Chartrand Memiorial Soccer Tournament in Kansas City, Mo. Steady rain and cold temperatures plagued the teams Saturday, forcing Sunday's games indoors.

ABOVE: Chuck Robertson, stopper for the Wildcats, kicks the ball away from a University of Northern Iowa player, LEFT: Keegan Jackson smiles from under his umbrella as Dave Weitz gets a hug from Coach Clay Ross after the team beat UMKC, sending K-State to the semifinals. Despite UMKC's loss Saturday, it came back to win the tournament.

Story by Tony Carbajo

Photographs by Brad Fanshier

Sox rally to ensure 6th game

By The Associated Press

ANAHEIM, Calif - Don Baylor of the Boston Red Sox said Sunday's fifth game of the American League playoffs was a game of roller coaster emotions.

"It was very emotional from the time we got up this morning," said Baylor, whose two-run homer triggered a fantastic comeback Sunday as the Red Sox kept their World Series hopes alive with a 7-6, 11-inning victory over the California Angels.

"It was like we were on a roller coaster all day, first up, then down, back up, down again and finally back up," Baylor said.

Baylor, who holds the American League record for getting hit by 227 pitches in his 15-year career, scored the game-winning run after being hit for the first time in postseason play to start the 11th.

The victory went to Steve Crawford, who pitched out of a bases-loaded jam with one out in the ninth and also worked the 10th.

Calvin Schiraldi, tagged with Boston's heart-breaking loss in Game 4, worked a perfect 11th for the

The Angels battled back against three Boston relievers to tie it 6-6 in the bottom of the ninth.

Trailing 6-5, Bob Boone led off with a single against Bob Stanley. Boone was replaced by pinch-runner Ruppert Jones, who took second on a sacrifice by Gary Pettis.

Joe Sambito relieved Stanley, and Rob Wilfong grounded his first pitch just beyond the reach of second baseman Marty Barrett. Jones was running all the way and slid home safely, just ahead of right fielder Evans' strong throw to Gedman.

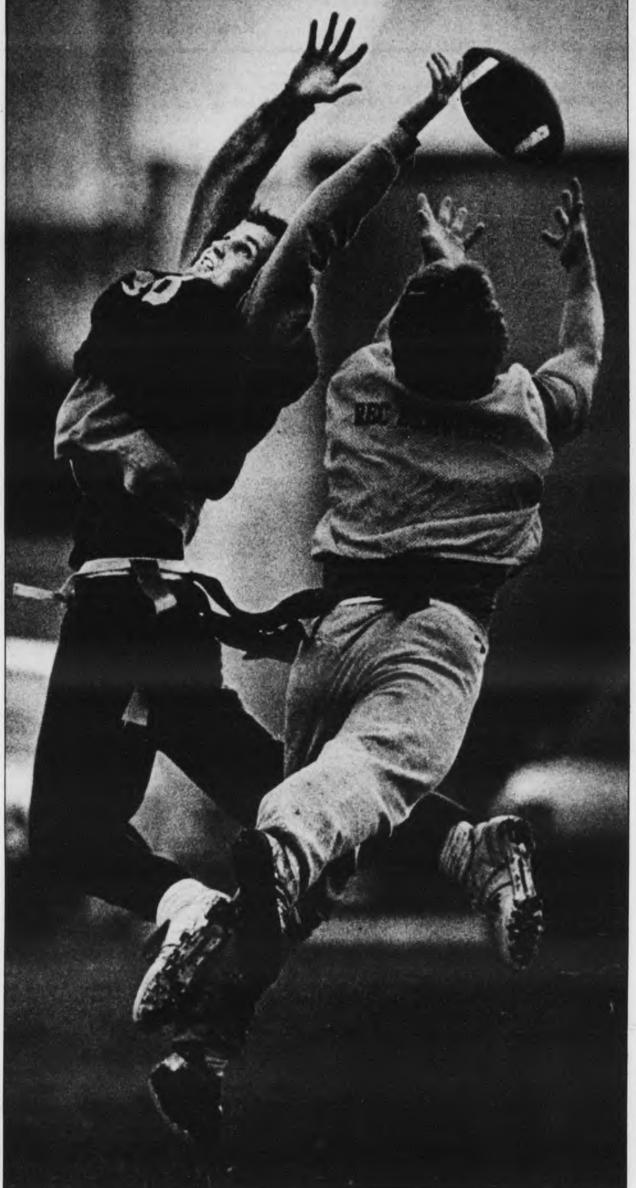

Dick Schofield then greeted Crawford with a single that sent Wilfong to third, and Brian Downing was intentionally walked to load the

But with the winning run 90 feet from home plate and the outfield drawn in, Crawford managed to get out of it by retiring Doug DeCinces on a shallow fly to right, and after going 2-0 on Grich, got him on a soft liner back to the mound.

The Red Sox took a 2-1 lead into the sixth behind Bruce Hurst. With two outs in the sixth, DeCinces doubled before Hurst worked a 1-2 count on Grich, who had struck out in his previous two at-bats. This time, Grich hit a long drive that Henderson seemed to have within range.

Henderson leaped just short of the fence and got his glove on the ball. but his momentum carried his glove above the wall and the impact knocked the ball loose and over the fence for a two-run homer.

Mike Witt, who won Game 1, had cruised into the ninth with a 5-2 lead. But with the crowd of 64,223 screaming for the Angels to wrap up their first AL pennant, Bill Buckner opened the inning with a single.

Staff/Brett Hacker

Within reach

Craig Lutz, senior in accounting, playing for The Sizzlers, strains for the football as an Amatuers player goes for the ball. The Amatuers won the intramural flag football game 18-7 Sunday on the intramural fields.

Wildcats split Big 8 matches over weekend

By JENNY CHAULK Collegian Reporter

Going into a pair of weekend Big Eight matches at home, K-State volleyball coach Scott Nelson said victories in both matches were critical if the Wildcats were to "control our own destiny as far as finishing high in the conference

The K-State volleyball team needed a pair of victories in conference action to get itself on track but came away with a 1-1 mark in two home matches. The Wildcats lost to Missouri 12-15, 15-10, 15-10, 10-15 and 15-7 Friday night in Ahearn Field House, but bounced back Saturday to defeat Iowa State 15-8, 15-12, 3-15, 13-15 and 15-11.

'Now, since we won one and lost one," Nelson said, "it becomes more important how other teams in the conference are doing. We will need teams to beat other teams. We've lost a little of the control we needed to finish high strictly on our own

The Tigers had a 1-10 record going into Friday night's match but came away with a five-game victory.

"Missouri just played really good volleyball," Nelson said. "Their serving hurt us more than ours hurt them." Missouri had 12 service aces to K-State's seven.

'Missouri is good," Nelson said. "With their record, they've reached the point where there's no real pressure. In the fifth game of the match, we lost a little of our composure and they beat us.'

Saturday night against Iowa State was a different story. The Wildcats took the first two games, then lost the next two before claiming the deciding fifth game, 15-11.

"I'm real proud of the way we played against Iowa State," Nelson said. "It's a big step when we can improve and keep our composure when the night before we lost that composure."

In the first game of the match, the Wildcats utilized team play to lead the entire game. In game two, however, they had to fight back from a 9-2 deficit. Two blocks by the duo of Helen Bundy and Val Kastens late in the game helped K-State capture the

In game three, the Wildcats had trouble getting on track, falling behind 7-3. Iowa State then rang up eight straight points to win the game. K-State fought hard in game four, as the lead went back and forth. The Cyclones held a 14-13 lead for about 10 minutes as neither team could score while serving.

"We lost a little of our focus in the third and fourth games," Nelson said. "Also, our serving was a little weak in those games.

In game five, Iowa State jumped out to a 5-1 lead. K-State tied the game at nine, with the lead changing hands several times before the 'Cats emerged victorious.

"During the last part of the game, each team was rising up to challenge the other," Nelson said. "That was some excellent volleyball. It was a typical Big Eight match.'

K-State took a 12-11 lead and put the game and match away, moving its overall record to 8-10 and conference mark to 1-3.

The Wildcats have a week off before facing Kansas on Oct. 20 at Ahearn. KU has defeated K-State three times this season.

"Winning that match could move us up as much as two notches in (the) conference standings," Nelson said, adding that with the exception of Nebraska, ranked fifth nationally, all conference teams are equal.

"I've said all year long that a team with a 5-5 record can finish third in the conference," Nelson said. "From here on out, everything counts twice as much as it did before.

Scott hurls three-hitter as Astros beat NY, 3-1

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Mike Scott pitched a three-hitter in a record-setting performance, beating the New York Mets 3-1 Sunday night as the Houston Astros evened the National League playoffs at two victories apiece.

Alan Ashby, given a second chance when his foul popup wasn't caught, hit a two-run homer and Dickie Thon added a solo shot, accounting for all the runs off Mets left-hander Sid Fernandez.

Scott won Game 1 with a fivehitter, equalling a playoff record with 14 strikeouts. While he was less overpowering this time out, returning on three-days rest after throwing 125 pitches in Game 1, he was no less effective. He did not give up a hit until Ray Knight's two-out single in the fifth inning, while walking none and striking out five.

That gave Scott 19 strikeouts, most ever in a league playoff. Dave Stieb had 18 strikeouts for Toronto in last year's American League playoffs against Kansas City.

Rookie left-hander Jim Deshaies, 12-5 during the season, will face the Mets' Dwight Gooden, who lost Game 1 despite giving up just one run in seven innings, as the two sides try to break the second tie of the playoffs in Game 5 Monday.

Briefly In Sports

Tennis team sweeps 2 matches

Friday afternoon, K-State's women's tennis team soundly defeated Kearney State and Bethel College by 9-0 scores.

K-State's No. 1 player, Lena Svensson, defeated Kearney State's Kendall Nelson 6-1, 6-1. Anikka Emtell, the Wildcats' No. 2 player, defeated Lisa Tonkin 6-1, 6-0. In doubles action, Svensson and Emtell defeated Nelson and Tonkin

6-1, 6-2. Valerie Rive and Kristy Line defeated Liz Tower and Sue Rademacher 6-2, 6-0. In singles against Bethel, Svensson defeated Susan Leopp 6-0, 6-1, and Emtell defeated Sharon Brelsford 6-0, 6-0. In doubles action, Svensson and Emtell defeated Leopp and Brelsford 6-2, 6-3. "Our doubles play was especially good today in comparison to last week," Coach Steve Bietau said. Also this weekend, the tennis team held its second annual Wildcat

Open at the Cottonwood Racquet Club. The tournament is held to raise money for the tennis team. In the mixed doubles semifinals, Karl Kramer and Annika Emtell defeated Lloyd Thomas and Valerie Rive 4-6, 6-3, 6-1. Steve Bietau and Sue David defeated Bob Polford and Kristy Line 6-7, 7-6, 6-1.

Kramer and Emtell defeated Bietau and David 6-3, 6-1 in the finals.

'Cats place 2nd in golf tourney

The tourney raised approximately $750 for the team.

The K-State men's golf team placed second in the Emporia State golf tournament held this weekend in Emporia. Central State, ranked No. 5 in the NAIA, won the tournament with a score of 446 K-State totalled 456, with tourney host Emporia State finished third

"We played really well despite the terrible weather," K-State golf coach Rod Sedorcek. "The wind was blowing at 25 mph and it was cold. It felt like hail hitting you when the rain and wind combined." Daran Neuschafer led the Wildcats, finishing the 27-hole tournament with a 112. Bruised Chiefs fall to Cleveland

CLEVELAND - The Cleveland Browns, who defeated the injuryriddled Kansas City Chiefs 20-7 Sunday, may want to send a "thank you" to the Los Angeles Raiders.

The Raiders bruised the Chiefs so badly a week ago that five Kansas City starters were sidelined Sunday. Cleveland quarterback Bernie Kosar exploited the weakened Chiefs' defense for 287 yards passing and two touchdowns.

The performance was one of the best in Kosar's career. He threw for a career-high 293 yards in a loss to the Cincinnati Bengals last Kosar completed 22 of 35 passes including touchdowns of 16 yards to Earnest Byner in the second quarter and 6 yards to Ozzie Newsome in the third.

Srimmage to open practice

K-State to burn midnight oil

Coleman will request

court order Tuesday

By RON RENO Sports Writer

First-year K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger, to put it simply, can't wait to get started with practice this season.

Kruger has instructed his squad to be on the floor of Ahearn Field House and ready to play at 12:01 Wednesday morning, one minute after the National Collegiate Athletic Association allows its member schools to begin basketball practice.

The "Midnight Madness" practice will be open to the public and will give a chance for K-State basketball fans to see the Wildcats play an intrasquad scrimmage.

"It's a little something different (in) trying to generate a little enthusiasm and interest and make it a fun type of evening," Kruger said. "Hopefully, we can get the housing groups to get together intact and sit together and have a good time with it, (and) just make it a fun-type atmosphere.'

Kruger, in his initial season at the helm after a successful four-year stint at Pan American University in Edinburg, Texas, will get his first look at a squad that finished 16-14 last year. More importantly, this practice will mark the beginning of a new era of K-State basketball basketball without Jack Hartman, the 'Cats' coach the past 16 seasons before retiring.

Kruger will be looking at a solid group of returning veterans during practices but will also get a glimpse at several highly regarded newcomers. With endless hours of drills awaiting the Wildcats in the next few weeks, Kruger said the first practice will allow the players to showcase their talents.

"It will be basically a scrimmage," he said. "We've not really met with our players at all in talking about basketball, so that will be really the first time we're together in terms of basketball.

"So they have no idea of what we're looking for. We might shoot a

By TIM FITZGERALD

Sports Editor

ris Coleman has said all along he could not imagine himself missing an entire year of basketball at

The 24-year-old Army veteran came to K-State last year to begin a collegiate basketball career that was detoured by a National Collegiate Athletic Association ruling that stated his 6-year-old high school grades did not qualify him for an athletic scholarship at

The NCAA decision stated Coleman could stay at K-State but couldn't play or practice with the Wildcat team until Feb. 27, 1987.

The 6-foot-8 Coleman, who averaged 21.9 points and 7.9 rebounds per game last season before being ruled ineligible, also was given the choice of transferring to another NCAA member institution (except a Big Eight Conference school) and playing im-

Instead, Coleman will request a temporary restraining order

Tuesday in the U.S. District Court at Topeka. Coleman's request will his age.

K-State basketball player Nor-few layups and (then) get right into a scrimmage situation.

Kruger has extended an open invitation to the entire student body to attend. Admission is free to the practice, which will run approximately be aimed at the NCAA, the Big

If the request is granted, Coleman will be eligible for K-State's first practice at 12:01 a.m.

Wednesday in Ahearn Field

House. A decision on Coleman's request is expected Tuesday by Coleman - a man who believes

he has a professional career ahead of him, but who realizes at his age every year is valuable - seemingly was given little choice

But in early June, Coleman chose to stay at K-State. The decision surprised many, including

Maryland basketball coach Lefty

Driesell who thought he had landed the services of the high-scoring

Coleman never changed his mind about the importance of not skipping a season of basketball.

He elected it was best for him to challenge the decision in court and stay at K-State rather than transfer. And by Tuesday night,

Coleman should know whether he'll be in a Wildcat uniform when

K-State opens the 1986-87 season

Nov. 29 against South Dakota in Judge Richard Rogers.

by the NCAA.

Eight Conference and K-State.

"We're wanting to introduce (the fans) to the individuals we've got on our squad and give them an idea of associating a name with a face, just kind of an introduction," he said.

The practice is only one of a number of moves instituted by Kruger to create support and enthusiasm among the fans for his team. After a noticeable decline in attendance the past few seasons. Kruger would like once again to see consistent sellouts at Ahearn Field House.

"(We're) really hoping to get a good turnout of students and a show of interest out of the students," he said. "Kansas State basketball crowds have always been characterized by great student body support and interest, and we're hoping to kick that interest off with a midnight practice."

Kruger added that the players also are eager to begin.

"They're anxious for practice to get started. I think any time you're in a preseason conditioning program, you're especially anxious for practice to get here. I know they're looking forward to it," he said.

The Wildcats open the season at home Nov. 29 against South Dakota.

Team Roster

Charles Bledsoe	6-7	210	Jr
Howard Bonser	6-11	220	Fr
Norris Coleman	6-8	210	So
Fabio deAlmedia	6-6	185	So
Mark Dobbins	6-5	185	So
Percy Eddie	6-8	185	Sr
Steve Henson	6-1	175	Fr
Michael McCraeven	6-2	190	Jr
Ron Meyer	6-9	225	Jr
Mark Nelson	6-0	170	Jr
Mitch Richmond	6-5	210	Jr
William Scott	6-3	170	Jr
Lance Simmons	6-5	195	So
Lynn Smith	5-11	180	Sr

By JULIE ANDSAGER Collegian Reporter

About 30 people attended the Nichols Hall mural dedication Friday afternoon in the hall atrium. The $10,000 mural was installed last week.

The mural was commissioned in 1984 to Eric Bransby, professor emeritus at the University of Missouri-Kansas City, after winning a Nichols Hall art competition.

Music, athletics, academics and dance are represented in the mural. Bransby said he wanted to illustrate Nichols' past and its present func-

"I was very stimulated by the story of how Nichols rose from the academics ashes and became again an entity at Kansas State University," he said. Ruth Ann Wefald, wife of President Jon Wefald, welcomed the group. She said the 30-foot by 10-foot mural, a product of student funds, was representative of students' "vision, values and spirit."

A metal plaque detailing Nichols Hall history was dedicated along with the mural. Jerry Katlin, student body president when the mural was commissioned, read the plaque aloud. After describing Nichols' destruction by fire, the fight to save it and its renovation, the plaque says the mural "captures the character of Nichols by representing athletics, artistic achievement."

Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, introduced Bransby, who described the process he used in creating the mural.

First he chose a color scheme, coordinating it with samples of colors in the hall atrium. Bransby then developed the body forms, emphasizing Nichols' former function as a gymnasium.

The mural is divided into 30 panels. Bransby said diagonal pieces in the mural were designed to complement diagonal lines in the architecture of the atrium. He drew lines from the angle of the skylights to create a sense of continuation. Nichols Hall was originally a gymnasium. It was built in 1911 and named after Ernest R. Nichols, K-State president from 1899 to 1909.

The building was gutted by fire on Dec. 13, 1968, amid student protests of the Vietnam War. Until 1981, the future of Nichols was uncertain, but students fought to preserve it. Their efforts caused the Kansas Legislature to allocate $5.53 million to restore the building.

Nichols' reconstruction began in the fall of 1983. It was completed in the fall of 1985 and dedicated on Nov. 16, 1985. The building contains the computer science and speech depart-

"It became more and more clear Summit that the Soviet Union's objective was effectively to kill off the SDI program, and to do so by seeking a change in the ABM treaty that would Continued from Page 1 so constrain ... that research would

Asked whether there would be not be able to proceed forcefully," he another summit meeting between Reagan and Gorbachev, Arbatov "The president ... simply would not said, "If the Americans do not turn away from the basic interest of change their position on this basic the United States' allies in the free issue, I am afraid not."

world by abandoning this.' Shultz said the leaders had nearly He said Reagan had been prepared agreed on ways "to deal effectively to agree to a 10-year period of nonwith intermediate range missiles," withdrawal from the Anti-Ballistic and had made progress toward an Missile treaty, during which "the agreement on limiting underground United States was prepared to do nuclear tests, but that the potential testing ... permitted by the ABM agreements failed to materialize because all the parts were inter-Shultz said the Soviets insisted on "a change in the ABM (anti-ballistic missile) treaty ... that would confine research and testing and development to the laboratory.

He added: "There's nothing in the ABM treaty about that, so this would definitely be a change. They described it as a strengthening," but American officials found it unaccep-

Asked whether the failure of the summit would produce feelings of animosity between Reagan and Gorbachev, Shultz replied, "No, they were both disappointed, but the discussion throughout was straightforward and civil, and people didn't lose their tempers and so on.

Shultz said U.S. and Soviet negotiators would continue their talks in Geneva.

Max Kampelman, the chief U.S. negotiator at the Geneva arms talks, said the summit was "in every way except the end a fantastic thing ... It was the most appealing package ever negotiated by the two countries.'

"Don't get the feeling this was simply offered; it was not," Kampelman said. Rather, he added, it was the result of "intensive negotations" by both sides in the hours of talks between the two leaders and their foreign ministers and in allnight bargaining by the two sides' arms control specialists.

Proceeds from auction to aid Catholic schools

By The Collegian Staff

An estimated $28,643 was raised for Manhattan Catholic schools in an auction Saturday, said Richard Bachamp, chairman of the event.

The estimate does not include cash contributions or money raised from ticket sales, Bachamp said. About 300 tickets to the event were sold at

A silent auction began at 6 p.m., and the oral auction started at 7:30 p.m. in the former Luckey High School gymnasium. More than 500 items were sold throughout the evening, Bachamp said. Auction items were donated by individuals and merchants from Manhattan, Wamego and Clay Center, he said.

"We tried to get items that best represented the different businesses," Bachamp said.

A violin, handmade in 1923 by one of this century's leading violin makers - Ernst Heinrich Roth, sold for $1,750, he said.

Other auction items included microwave ovens, a complete set of handcrafted baby furniture, three scholarships to Catholic colleges, a trip to Hawaii and an 8-month-old registered cocker spaniel, Bachamp said.

The money raised will go into a general fund for Manhattan Catholic schools to be used throughout the year to purchase items needed by the schools, he said. The schools are the Seven Dolars Child Care Center, 728 Colorado St., and Seven Dolors Grade School, 306 S. Juliette Ave.

Eating disorder cycle traps many women, clinical worker says

By CARLENE KAISER Collegian Reporter

The current cultural obsession with weight is not new. But the fact that many college-age women become trapped in the destructive cycle of an eating disorder was the topic of discussion in Friday's Focus on Women.

The primary eating disorders associated with college-age women are anorexia and bulimia, said Margaret Grayden, clinical social worker at Lafene Student Health Center.

The definition of an eating disorder by Susan Squire, author of "The Slender Balance," is a distorted pattern of thinking about and behaving around food.

Anorexia is a term used to describe the person who abstains from eating, and bulimia refers to the individual who purges after binge eating.

"Most women start the behavior as early as the sophomore year in high school and in some cases, it can last until the age of 40," Grayden said.

"We have more success with bulimia than anorexia in counseling, because those suffering from anorexia are 20 (percent) to 25 percent underweight," she said. 'They have starved the body and brain and just can't deal with "The best thing we can do is to break through their denial (of being anorexic) and get them to a hospital...they are on a verge of total collapse.

In counseling bulimics, eating disorder, whether it's emp- compulsive overeating.

ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-

NEW OIL controlling skin conditioner especially for oily skin. Mary Kay Cosmetics, Janet Milliken,

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m

Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear (27-49)

02

03

04

06

SINGLE PARENTS Group will meet Tuesday evenings. Childcare provided. Call Women's Resource

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth

ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment.

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Put-

QUIET, WELL-maintained, one bedroom furnished apartment in modern complex, two blocks west of campus. Laundry, patio, parking facilities. $216/ month, November 1 lease, deposit. No pets, waterbeds. Prefer non-smoking graduate student, research assistant or mature employed adult 537-9686 for application and information. (34-39)

ONE BEDROOM basement apartment, unfurnished, two blocks east Aggieville. Available December 1 nam Hall, 1308 N. Manhattan, $195. Call 539-7521

1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-

Center for information, 532-6444. (35-36)

tiness, self-hatred or anger at someone else, must first be identified.

The woman is then taught to control the impulse to purge. Finally, the woman learns to use alternatives when the urge to binge eat arises. For most women, physical exercise, such as aerobics or swimming, is emphasized.

Graydon said that times of stress make a person suffering from bulimia vulnerable, and in counseling, alternative ways of handling the stress are emphasiz-

The growing need for counseling has led to an awareness campaign among incoming freshmen. For freshmen that come to K-State with anorexia or bulimia, immediate treatment is the most effective, Grayden said. In a videotape presentation based on research done at California State University, it was revealed only 6 percent of women are completely satisfied with the way they

The film said a bulimic person binges on 5,000 to 20,000 calories over a period of a few hours and then gets rid of them by the use of laxatives, diuretics or vomiting.

The underlying thread common to both types of eating disorder seems to be a perfectionist attitude - self-critical and selfdriven, they are unable to forgive themselves for any mistakes they make, the film said.

The drive to be thin can manifest itself in other secondary eating disorders, causing poor Grayden said the root cause of the nutrition, non-stop nibbling and $20 each, he said. Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

DOWN

--! 1

2 It might shove

3 Italian

wine

center

4 Perform

5 Chicago

6 Asiatic

7 U.S.

lemur

8 Kimono

sash

president

district

come to loved you

you! If you're a High School Junior, Senior, or Grad. between the ages of 17 and 35, you can become part of the IRRESISTIBLE FORCE

*$5,040 New G.I. Bill

*And Earn Over $1,200 per year

For Information Call: SFC Don Hash

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword

39 Coax

43 "Swinging

44 Arm bone

46 Metal tag

50 Neglected hand man

area

56 Chinese

wax

57 Dip bait

58 Dozes

59 Arabian

Cole

seaport

lightly

53 Anger

55 Right-

- Star

ACROSS 1 Psych. org 41 San Diego 4 "— of Me" team

(old song) 7 Composer Nino 11 Opulent 13 Cote sound 14 Last writes? 15 "The Thin Man"

pooch 16 "High (play)

17 French playground? 18 Keep your - on

20 Bread 22 Disencumber 24 Source of lox 28 Junior's coloring sticks 32 Worship 33 Tattered

remnants 34 Swiss river

36 Horse of a different color? 37 Mountain crest

Yesterday's answer 10-11 54 Upon:

pagoda 23 Genetic 25 "In the -

(Miller hit) 26 Spoken 27 Hawaiian dice 29 - avis cheeses 31 Adage

9 Twitch 60 Yale man fish 10 Devoured 40 Alfonso's 12 U.S. queen president 42 Slyly

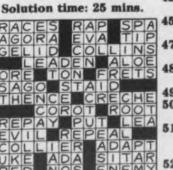

19 Pedro's uncle

21 Chinese substance

28 Losing throw, at

30 Like some 35 Greek P 38 Voracious

61 — King

malicious 45 Soviet sea 47 "The - in Winter" 48 Icelandic tale 49 Try out 50 Belgian resort 51 Played the first 52 Rubber

51 CRYPTOQUIP

10-13

OHP-OHVBOHTT WESSYLDA OHEPBDWBE: "DS PS PBE

GLAGOHTTV, YTBHVB. Yesterday's Cryptoquip: ROUGH COOK IS UPSET, AND POTS AND PAN-DEMONIUM REIGNED IN KITCHEN.

Foday's Cryptoquip clue: O equals B

assifieds

capped accessible. (1-52)

ATTENTION

FOR RENT-MISC

FOR RENT-APTS

1329. (18tf)

or 776-7045. (30-36)

12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli ent has an established account with Student Publi adline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper. Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.) ANNOUNCEMENTS

01 JOIN THE

Irresistible Force: The Kansas Army National Guard needs

*$2,000 Cash Bonus

*$10,000 Student Loan Repayment

Program *$20,000 Health Profession Loan

Repayment Program Part-Time

(913)537-4108 day (913)537-2478 night

1966 CHEVY Van—1973 motor, many new parts, $1,700 or best offer. 539-0104 or 539-2637. (32-36) 1978 DATSUN-Excellent, new tires, brakes, engine

FOR SALE-AUTO

Call 539-1498. (35tf)

tuned-up, AM/FM. Call 537-8799 after 5:30 p.m. (32-1972 PLYMOUTH Duster, six-cylinder, air conditioning, power steering. Excellent school car, $795. Call 1-468-3535. (33-35) 1978 T-BIRD-Blue, power steering, power brakes, stereo, very clean. Call 539-9044, ask for Kendall

1982 THUNDERBIRD, one owner, $3,900. Call 537-4272 or 539-9512. (33-35)

1971 VW Station Wagon-automatic, dependable

$875. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (331f)

1981 CHEVETTE-Four-speed, air conditioning, AM FM radio, excellent condition, 50,000 miles, $2,300. Call 539-0567 or 537-1107. (34-38) CAN YOU buy Jeeps, cars, 4 x 4's seized in drug raids

1973 MAVERICK-89,800 miles, automatic, air, nice looking. Best offer over $800. Call 537-8155. (35) 1975 AUDI-Fox-Four cylinders, automatic, 71,000

1976 CAMARO Rally Sport, 350 V-8-Automatic, power brakes, power steering, air conditioning AM-FM cassette. 537-3942. (35-36)

07 FOR SALE-MISC ATARI 800XL, 1050 drive, software, $300. Casio MT-68 electronic keyboard, $75. Radio Shack PC-2 1K pocket computer, $75. Call 532-5136. (31-35)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 1/4 lb. Hamburger, 1/2 order curly fries and medium drink for $2 (with coupon) Exp. Date 10/19

ALPINE 7374, 5900, 3317, 8101, Harman Kardon CA260, CA240. Hatchback box speaker. Best equipment available. Reasonable offers. Robert, 537-4347. (32-38)

Hayes House of Music

Guitar Strings and Drumsticks -BUY ONE SET & GET SECOND SET 1/2 PRICE

327 Poyntz 776-7983 PRAIRIE HAY, $1.50 per bale, will deliver. Call Doug, 532-6767 or Warnego, 1-456-7491. (33-37) KRAMER GUITAR with Red Strat body and Floyd

Rose trem, $350 negotiable. Peavey MX 130 watt guitar amp. $250. Boss headphone guitar amp, like new, one year old, $100. Call 537-8198. (33-35) FOR SALE: Baby ferrets, seven weeks old. Call 776-

COMPUTER-APPLE II/C-Fully equipped and in excellent condition. Reasonably priced. Call Melissa at 532-6799 from 8-11 a.m. (only). (33-35)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 69¢

1/4 Hamburger

(with coupon) Exp. Date 10/19 537-3335

ESCORT RADAR Warning Receiver with visor mounts, hook and loop, and suction cups. Coil and regular power cords, carrying case and all the extras plus stop warning, $175. Call 776-6748. (35-37)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

1982 KAWASAKI GPz550-New chain/sprocket, $1,200/best offer. 776-7109 after 5 p.m., David/Rick HELP WANTED

3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/

year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 (26-64) OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year around. Europe. South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA,

92625. (27-46) LAB ASSISTANTS for Pathology Laboratory. Part time, 1-6 p.m. and full-time 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Send qualifications to Peterson Clinical Laboratory, P.O.

Box 128, Manhattan, Ks. 66502. EOE. (31-37) HAVE BASIC carpentry skills? Want to trade rent for work? Call Larry, 537-4648. (33-35)

WORK STUDY student secretary. Accurate typing. clerical skills. Learn word processing, database programs. $3.50 plus depending on experience. See/call Pam, Center for Aging, Fairchild #1, 532

WANTED MALE or female for part-time position dairy help. Call 1-944-3641. (34-38)

PERSONAL

16 JANE-YOU don't know me, but I'm your homecom ing date-get psyched. Jeff. (35) PHI KAPP Football Team: Keep up the good work!

You guys are awesome! Your #1 Fan. (35) CHI OMEGA Actives, Nebraska was a blast, we finally took a sneak at last. The bars and men were really cool, we didn't want to come back to K-State for school. We wanted to call to say "Hi," but we knew we couldn't hear your reply. Love, the Jun-

TO CAST of Oklahoma—Oh, what a beautiful way to start a week, but it's a scandal that we only have two more weeks til it's time for a Persian Good-bye. You're the greatest. Ali Hakim. (35)

ROOMMATE WANTED

borhood. Call 537-9439. (33-37) ROOM FOR rent in two bedroom at 238 Westwood yard/parking, $145/month plus utilities. Quiet neighborhood. 539-3835. (34-37)

VERY NICE two bedroom apartment, $100 rent. Stop by 1019 Bluemont anytime after 1 p.m. Monday Friday. (35-39)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free. Clinically tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Pro-ckish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (271f)

FREE SET of spark plugs with a tune-up on your import car at J & L Auto Service. Call 1-494-2388, St. George (offer ends October 15, 1986). (29-37) WORKING ON a paper? Word processing, reasonable rates. Laura, 532-2362, room 131. Call for information of the control of the c

MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, dissertations, manuscripts, term papers. (33-35)

KD's: SENIOR Party? At Blue River Pub there was to be a bash, instead to lowa State we did dash. Sneaky huh? Love, your awesome Seniors. P.S. Thanks for the use of the Houseboys! (35)

ROOMMATE WANTED: Responsible, non-smoker for nice two bedroom apartment, completely fur-nished, fireplace and dishwasher. In quiet neigh-

SERVICES 18

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

mation. (33-37)

for under $100? Call for facts today, 1-602-837-3401, ext. S 744. (35) miles, good condition, best offer. F-1 Jardine Ter-

Cards

Continued from Page 1

"That's an obvious intent to circumvent the law," Lamb said. "I can't see any difference from giving out a free card or saying I'm going to buy you one. It flies in the face of legislative intent."

The sororities that confirmed receiving letters are Chi Omega, Alpha Chi Omega, Kappa Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Pi Beta Phi.

The letters were addressed to the social chairwomen who were asked to send Bushwacker's a list of names and birth dates of all seniors over 21.

Teresa Leighty, senior in marketing and Alpha Chi social chairwoman, said Bushwacker's also sent the house a letter last year offering free club cards.

Martha Schaefer, junior in journalism and mass communications and social chairwoman of Alpha Delta Pi, and Stacey Darrell, junior in journalism and mass communications and president of Sigma Sigma Sigma, said seniors over 21 in their houses were invited to Bushwacker's to receive a free card.

'This summer we went down there and they just gave them to us," Schaefer said.

Richard Hodson, staff attorney for the ABC, said he has not dealt with a case involving clubs buying memberships, but he believes it's il-

Clubs offering to buy cards for potential members are using "legal fiction to allow them to give away cards," Hodson said. "As far as I'm concerned, no that is not legal."

Lamb read from the Kansas Administrative Regulation 14-20-4, which contains the state of Kansas rules and regulations relating to the operation of class B private clubs. Everyone who applies for a club license is issued this book and is sent a memorandum if any changes appear, he said.

Class B clubs are defined in the Kansas Statute as places where members can go for the consumption of food or alcohol and for entertain-

Quoting from the book he said, "A club may mail and distribute an application and receive such application in completed form accompanied by the monitary fee required by statute as a condition precedent to membership."

"They send me books all the time," Ramey said. "If all I did was sit and read, I wouldn't get anything

Members of Acacia, Beta Theta Pi and Phi Gamma Delta fraternities said they received free club cards in the mail or in person from Bonkers.

David Ellis, senior in chemistry and past president of Phi Gamma Delta, said about "10 or 15" cards were given to a member of his fraternity to hand out. He said the cards, printed on paper, were "kind of making a mockery of club cards."

A student who is under the legal drinking age said he was given a free club card at Bonkers after asking for one. He said he didn't know if the card was given to him by management or an owner.

Bonkers cards, printed on yellow paper, are not laminated. There is a name blank on the card that the student, who asked not to be identified, said he filled out himself. He said he has been allowed entrance to Bonkers, Bushwaker's, Mannequins, and Aggie Station without showing any identification or a club card.

Hodson, who is also an assistant Kansas attorney general, said anyone, regardless of age, is legally eligible to purchase a club card or enter a club as long as he doesn't drink alcohol.

While one of the owners of Bonkers said the club doesn't issues free club cards, the other said it did.

"We can't give away free club cards, it's illegal," said Rick Salavar, part-owner of Bonkers. Greg Salavar said he has given away club cards for promotional reasons Rich Ortiz, senior in architecture and member of Phi Kappa Theta, said the Alpha Chi Omega Greek Playboys were given free club cards from Bonkers.

'We have (given away cards) at times," Greg Salavar said. Salavar changed his statement the "Right now, I'm going to say we don't," he said.

Kite's Bar & Grille also was mentioned to have given away club

Darrell said she was given a club card to Kite's last summer.

"They were pretty freely handing them (club cards) out this summer," she said.

"You can't give away free club cards; that's against the state law,"

Dr. Mark Hatesohl

3252 Kimball Avenue

(In the Candlewood Center)

FOOTBALL

PIZZA PARTY!

$2 PITCHERS

WEDNESDAY

"What a Riot Party"

-watch Collegian for details-

FirstBank Center

Denison & Claflin

539-9619

At NSA,

We Have The

To Keep Your Options Open.

Intelligence

Chiropractic Family Health Center

Intramural

Sports

Call

Injuries

Injuries

537-8305

said Terry Ray, owner of Kite's.

Ray said some club cards have been purchased and then given away as gifts but added, "All cards that have gone through here have been rung through (the register) and paid for in full, tax and everything.'

Owners and managers of other clubs, restaurants, hotels and motels listed in the Manhattan telephone book were contacted and asked if they had ever given away club cards.

Of those, managers of Kennedy's Claim, Aggie Station and The Doug Out said they had given away club cards to "good" customers. Charlie Busch, owner of Auntie Mae's Parlor, also said he has given cards away but paid the sales tax on them.

I've given club cards to good customers," he said.

The punishment for issuing free club cards usually consists of a fine or temporary shut down of the establishment. The punishment may vary, depending on the circumstances and the number of cards given away, Lamb said.

"There's no set fine or penalty," he said. "I can recall a fine as low as $100 and a fine as high as $600 and several days suspension," he said.

Dianne Urban, students' attorney at K-State, said both the clubs and ABC may believe they are working within in the context of the law.

"You can have the same law and two different legal opinions," she said. "There's more than one way to interpret anything.'

Dorothy Thompson, associate University attorney, said ABC is well-informed about the statute and its applications.

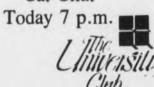

"I think they are charged with that responsibility, and normally, they ought to know what they are doing, Thompson said.

> Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

Ramada Inn

MONDAY Students-Faculty 75¢ DRAWS Join Coach Parrish

for Cat Chat

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

KEEP YOU WELL -

YOU ARE WELL WORTH IT.

> Lafene Health Center

PRODUCTS . ALL MAJOR BRANDS OF NATURAL FOODS

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Monday HIGH ROLLERS

Any Call or Premium Drink only

$1.75

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Beecham

BEECHAM"

TONIGHT Union Big 8 Room

WE PROVIDE SERVICES TO

. WEIDER BODY-BUILDING

. NATURAL DIET AIDS . BOOKS ON NUTRITION

* STOP BY TODAY * 537-4571 3112 Anderson HOURS: Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m.

K.S.U. Marketing Club Presents:

Products

"Advancement in the '80s with

7 p.m.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY and ZENITH DATA SYSTEMS... A Winning Combination!

Zenith Systems, a major manufacturer of personal computers,

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY for two days

to answer questions about microcomputers and discuss how a Zenith computer can help you become more productive.

Zenith Data Systems manufactures five different personal computer models so you're sure to find one that is right for you. All of the models are IBM-compatible meaning you'll never have to worry about finding the right software program. We offer you high quality computers at affordable prices. When total performance is your only option, see why Zenith Data Systems is your only Featured below are two of our most popular models.

The Z-158 provides you with all the features you need. except the high price. Just look at what you get:

- . 25%"360K disk drives . 256K RAM (expandable to 640K)
- . 8 Mhz Turbo Switch . Monochrome and RGB color capability
- . Serial and parallel ports . MS DOS 31 Operating System(FREE)
- . 640K RAM . Full size 80x25 line screen

The Z-171 Laptop gives you all the power of a desktop

rice $1199.00

computer system in a small package . Weighs less than 15 lbs

- . 2 5%" 360K disk drives
- . Serial and parallel ports
- . MS DOS 3.1 Operating System (FREE)

FOR SALE NOW, To Current KSU, Faculty, Staff and Students! KSU ID Required

For more information and a demonstration, plan on visiting the Open House at this location:

K-State Union

Lobby in front of Bookstore Hours: 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

October 16 and 17

 Our Grill Is Now Open! THE PROPERTY OF Try Our: Cheeseburgers Hamburgers MONDAY NIGHT

Courtyard.

French Fries Chicken Sandwiches Mushrooms Pork Tenderloins

BBQ Beef Sandwiches Chicken & Beef Nuggets Hot dogs & Chili dogs (reg. & super)

Onion Rings

Corn Dogs

Fish Sandwiches

Student Services

Awareness Week

October 13-17

For information about consumer problems or services available to you, stop by the table this week in the Union, or visit the CONSUMER

RELATIONS BOARD in the SGS office, Union

P.S. Many of these services are FREE!

Aggieville Dairy Queen Brazier

12th & Moro Queen

Electrical/Electronic/Computer Engineers... Computer Scientists... Mathematicians... Language Specialists

Latitude. That's what keeps a job invigorating -the chance to expand your interests, to take on unheard of challenges, to grow out as well as up. Well, that's precisely what the National Security Agency offers you as one of our people. NSA performs three all-important tasks. We analyze foreign communications. We safeguard America's vital communications. We set security standards for the government's mammoth computer systems. And we want you in on the

NSA offers choices upon choices. In assignments. In projects. In careers. But whatever your role, it's going to make a difference; it's going to produce immediate results.

For an Electrical / Electronic / Computer Engineer options abound. In fact, the entire technological and functional spectrum are yours for exploration. Microprocessor implementation and programming, communications systems, LSI/VLSI, CAD/CAM, systems architecture and optics. Among others.

To the Computer Scientist, we deliver opportunities across the frontier of finite state machine development. The applications realm: systems design and programs, applications and evaluation, and computer security research and Mathematicians research a variety of mathematical concepts including probability theory, statistics, Galois theory and group theory. Language Specialists in Slavic, Near Eastern and Asian languages meet the challenges of translation, transcription and analysis head on. Every day. Whatever your field, you can be certain to find many paths cleared for you. You'll also find a competitive salary, enticing benefits and an appealing suburban location between two vital urban centers-Washington and Baltimore. For additional information, schedule an interview with your College Placement Office. Or write to the National Security Agency.

NSA will be on campus Nov. 10th interviewing graduating seniors.

NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY

NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY ATTN: M322 (AAM) Fort Meade, MD 20755-6000

U.S. citizenship required for applicant and immediate family members. An equal opportunity employer.

When total performance is the only opti

Delivery Time

For many students, delivering pizza is more than just a supplemental income. See Page 7.

Mostly Sunny

Mostly sunny and warmer today with a high near 60. Wind south 5 to 15 mph. Low tonight near 40.

Sports

---- vais

Mansas State Historical Soc

K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger and his assistants, Greg Grensing and Dana Altman, are adding new life to the basketball program. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Tuesday

October 14, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 36

Soviets must make next move, Reagan says

Optimism remains for future talks | Allies express concern

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan said Monday night that his Iceland summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev left the superpowers "closer than ever" to an unprecedented cut in nuclear arsenals, but he said he would not trade away his futuristic anti-missile plan for an accord

The summit almost produced an unprecedented agreement to eliminate all longrange nuclear missiles "from the face of the Earth by 1996," Reagan said in a broadcast address from the Oval Office. He said talks ended when the Soviets insisted on confining Star Wars research to the laboratory.

"Our ideas are out there on the table," Reagan said in putting an optimistic face on the Iceland impasse. "We are ready to pick up where we left off.

The next step is up to the Soviets, he said. "There was no indication from Mr. Gorbachev as to when or whether he plans to travel to the United States" for a follow-up summit, the president said, adding:

"Our invitation stands. We continue to believe additional meetings would be useful. But that's a decision the Soviets must make.

Reagan said, near the conclusion of his 20-minute address, "if there is one impression that I carry away with me from these October talks, it is that, unlike the past, we are dealing now from a position of strength."

Reagan painted a more optimistic picture than Secretary of State George P. Shultz, who announced the collapse of the summit talks in Iceland 28 hours earlier, saying there were no plans for resumption of bargaining.

Reagan had worked on his speech up to the last hour. A U.S. official said that speechwriters reworked drafts that had been prepared in advance, and the president himself made some last-minute changes in the text that the White House customarily has ready well in advance of Reagan's Reagan's national security adviser, Vice Adm. John M. Poindexter, told reporters Monday that U.S. arms negotiators in Geneva will try to salvage elements of the accord that won tentative approval at the

Meanwhile, an official traveling with

Secretary of State George P. Shultz en route with the secretary home from Brussels, Belgium said that Shultz will attend an international human rights conference in Vienna in early November, and may at that time meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

In his speech, Reagan said, "Our ideas are out there on the table.

He was referring to the two superpowers' unfinished agreements to phase out medium and long-range nuclear missiles by 1996.

"They won't go away," he said. "We are ready to pick up where we left off...So there is reason - good reason - for hope.'

Reagan painted a much more optimistic picture than Shultz, who announced the collapse of the summit talks 28 hours earlier, saying there were no plans for resumption of bargaining.

"We made progress in Iceland," Reagan said, "and we will continue to make progress if we pursue a prudent, deliberate and, above all, realistic approach with the Soviets.'

Vice President George Bush said Monday

See REAGAN, Page 10

for stalled arms accord

By The Associated Press

BRUSSELS, Belgium - America's NATO allies expressed disappointment Monday that promising arms reduction initiatives were derailed at Reykjavik by a dispute over "Star Wars," and urged the superpowers to move quickly toward reaching agreement.

The allies, briefed on the weekend superpower summit on Monday by Secretary of State George P. Shultz, expressed particular disappointment that an agreement was blocked to rid Europe of medium-range U.S. and Soviet missiles

That accord was part of a package tentatively agreed to by President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev before the talks in Iceland foundered over Star Wars, or the U.S. Strategic Defense Initiative for a space-based defense against nuclear rockets.

In what appeared to be an allusion to Reagan's insistence on his Star Wars program, NATO Secretary-General Lord Carrington said in a statement the allies "felt that the opportunity to make progress in some areas should not be made hostage to difficulties in other, unrelated ones

Shultz flew to Brussels from Reykjavik early Monday and met with North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers and other allied representatives for about three

The secretary of state acknowledged there was disappointment with the outcome of the summit, telling a news conference, "Of course people would like to have had final closure" of the agreements on mediumrange missiles and a 50 percent cutback on long-range weapons.

Carrington's statement, which also expressed "warm appreciation" to Reagan for his efforts at Reykjavik, said, "We were pleased to note that the U.S. (nuclear arms)

See SUMMIT, Page 10

Voter registration for general election ends today in state

By KELLI CARR Collegian Reporter

Today is the last day to register to vote in the Nov. 4 general election. People wishing to register to vote may do so at any of the following outposts:

-The Riley County clerk's office, 105 Courthouse Plaza;

- The Manhattan City clerk's office, 1101 Poyntz;

Dillon's Supermarkets, 2700 Anderson Ave. and 632 Tuttle Creek Bvld.

the banks in Westloop Shopping Center:

- the Manhattan Public Library, Juliette Steet and Poyntz Avenue; - Dutch Maid Supermarket in the Blue Hills Shopping Center; Kansas State Bank, 11th Street and Bluemont Avenue;

Douglass Community Center, 901 Yuma St.; Social and Rehabilitation Services, 327 Colorado St.; and the Student Government

Services Office in the K-State Union Courtyard.

Anyone who will be 18 years of age on or before election day, may register and vote in this election. Anyone who has moved or changed his or her name needs to re-register to be eligible to vote.

Sally Routson, coordinator of student activities, said it takes about five minutes to register to vote. If the person was previously registered the former registration needs to be

This is the first year registration has been available on campus. Routson said she thought this has helped to increase the potential numbers of students who will register and actually vote.

Election *

Having a registration outpost on campus makes the process more convenient for students, said Rout-

About 40 percent of those registered to vote in the August primary election actually went to the polls, said Ilene Colbert, election coordinator for Riley County. She said she did not know why more registered voters don't make it to the

The SGS Office will be open for registration until 5 p.m. today. The city and county clerk's offices will be open until 9 p.m. today for those wanting to register.

No snow

Sam James, research associate in biology, "skis" along Monday Denison Avenue while training for cross country ski racing this winter. Because of the lack of snow in Kansas, James uses skates to simulate skiing while training, usually traveling north to compete in Michigan.

K-State leads expenditures

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Despite continuing financial problems which forced the Legislature to increase the state sales tax, out-of-state travel by state employees jumped about 4 percent and cost taxpayers nearly $6 million in the 1986 fiscal year, reports show.

An analysis of travel vouchers turned in to the Division of Accounts and Reports showed out-ofstate travel cost taxpayers $5.89 million in the 1986 fiscal year, which ended June 30. That represents a 3.8 percent increase over the prior year, in which $5.6 million in public funds was spent on travel.

Besides the increase in the amount spent, the number of trips taken by elected state officials and bureaucrats also was on the rise, jumping more than 500 trips from 10,231 trips in FY85 to 10,740 in the 1986 fiscal year.

The increase in travel coincided with the erosion of the state's financial position, which resulted in the 1986 Legislature increasing the sales tax from 3 percent to 4 percent to generate $172 million in new revenue By far, the bulk of the money devoted to travel was spent by the six state universities - especially the University of Kansas and Kansas State University. KU's Lawrence campus rang up $1.3 million on 2,123 trips in the last fiscal year, which represents a 3.1 percent decrease from 1985. The KU Medical Center in Kansas City spent $331,000 on 615 trips, or a 5.4 percent drop from the 1985 fiscal

In Manhattan, K-State reported spending $1.5 million on 2,908 trips, which was a 7.2 percent jump from the prior year.

Wichita State University billed state taxpayers for 961 trips at a cost of $529,106, an increase of 1.5 percent over last year.

The universities explain their travel as a combination of recruiting trips for new faculty and students and educational seminars, symposiums, teacher workshops and meetings.

The Department of Revenue was the leader among state agencies in out-of-state travel with a $236,885 tab on 319 trips in the 1986 fiscal year. Travel by revenue employees was up about 4 percent and a spokesman for the agency said 80 percent of the money was spent on field audits.

"In the last three fiscal years, the money spent on field audits has been less than half-a-milliondollars," said Larry Humes, revenue agency official. "These audits have resulted in cash collections by the department of $20-to-25 million each year - actual recoup by the state.'

The members of the Legislature and their staff continued to increase their spending on out-ofstate travel. The total of legislative travel vouchers, including money spent by the Interstate Coopera-

See TRAVEL, Page 10

Reform measure to force students to pay taxes on scholarship money

By CHRISTINE DOLL Collegian Reporter

The new tax laws may affect both students and the University adverse-

Students will be taxed on money they previously were able to deduct. The University may not receive as many private donations.

"Scholarships may now have to be counted toward income, and they weren't before," said Gil Gillispie, accountant for H&R Block

Before the new law, all scholarships could be deducted. Now students can deduct only the amount of tuition and books. Scholarship money more than this must be counted toward their income and could be taxed, Gillispie said. He said this means students who make more than $4,440 in 1987 and file single tax returns will have to pay taxes on scholarship money exceeding the cost of tuition and books.

Other people who file single tax returns and whose total income is under $4,440 will not have to pay any

In 1988, the most a person could make without paying taxes is $4,950, Gillispie said.

Loans will not be counted as income so students will not have to pay taxes on any loans they receive. However, the type of grant will determine if students must count them as income, Gillispie said. He said it is impossible to tell if the average student's tax will increase or decrease because so much depends on how the income tax return is filed. He said it would make a difference if students were married or single, if they have dependents, and if they earn enough to itemize their in-

"I can generalize that most single returns in the lowest income bracket will pay the same amount as before. But, everyone's return must be examined individually," Gillispie said.

The new tax law reduces incentives to make private-charitable donations by reducing the amount taxpayers could deduct on them.

Taxpayers in the highest personal income bracket are now allowed to deduct 28 percent of the donations. Before, these taxpayers could deduct 50 percent, said Bob Kelly, spokesman for the Kansas Independent College Association.

The law also denies taxpayers who do not itemize to deduct any of their private donations as they could before, Kelly said.

Les Longberg, KSU Foundation comptroller, said he thinks the law will have only minimal effect on K-State.

"People do consider the tax benefit when they make a donations, but I think their charitable intent outweighs that benefit," he said.

Longberg said people such as Fred Bramlage, who make big contributions to the University, appreciate what the University has done for them and want to see something benificial come from their donation. Last year 65 percent of the donations to the Foundation went to

See TAX, Page 10

INTERNATIONAL

Shamir opposes peace conference

JERUSALEM - Yitzhak Shamir, who becomes Israel's prime minister today, says he opposes an international conference on Middle East peace because it is "a Soviet creation."

Shamir, in an interview with The Associated Press, also said he was against giving up control of any territory Israel captured in 1967. He said some form of self-rule for Arabs living under Israeli occupation was the "nearest scheme to a Palestinian state" his government

Shamir, Israel's foreign minister for the last 25 months, swaps jobs with Prime Minister Shimon Peres on Tuesday as part of a coalition agreement between Shamir's right-wing Likud bloc and Peres' leftist Labor Party.

Peres, who becomes foreign minister, endorsed an international peace conference a his September summit with President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt and has warned he will topple the coalition government if it fails to advance Middle East peace.

Saudis refuse oil quota extension

GENEVA - Oil-rich Saudi Arabia said Monday it would refuse to extend a temporary OPEC agreement that has helped boost prices significantly since August, injecting uncertainty into the cartel's week-old conference.

The Saudis, ending their public silence on the talks, said the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries must arrive at a permanent replacement for a 2-month-old interim accord on production quotas that slashed more than 3 million barrels a day from the glutted world market.

The Saudis also indicated they wouldn't accept any new agreement unless it included a boost in their share of total OPEC production, already OPEC's largest at 4.35 million barrels daily.

The cartel's total production under the temporary agreement is targeted at 16.8 million barrels and has helped drive prices from $7-$12 a barrel to the $14-$16 range.

Trial connects Syrian to bombing

LONDON - Police testified Monday that a Jordanian accused of trying to blow up an Israeli airliner told them he acted under orders from a Syrian intelligence officer who threatened to kill his family if he backed out.

On trial is journalist Nezar Hindawi, 32, who pleaded innocent to planting the bomb in the luggage of his pregnant Irish girlfriend and sending her to board the El Al flight at London's Heathrow Airport on April 17.

Detective Sgt. William Price quoted Hindawi as saying after his arrest that Lt. Col. Hatim Said, a Syrian military intelligence officer, directed him to use a "girl because it is more secure" to blow up the El Al airliner.

Mitterrand denies re-election plans

CAYLUS, France - President Francois Mitterrand said Monday he is not a candidate for re-election in 1988, but that events could make him change his mind.

Mitterrand, a Socialist, defeated incumbent conservative Valery Giscard d'Estaing for a seven-year term in 1981.

Asked by a reporter Monday about his plans, Mitterrand said: "I am not a candidate. I am president." Mitterrand was in this southern French region to watch exercises at a military base.

"Each time I think about this business, everything encourages me to say: 'No, I will not be a candidate.' I do not push ambition to the point of wanting to install myself permanently in this function," he said.

NATIONAL

Red Cross calls for Salvadoran aid

WASHINGTON - The American Red Cross on Monday issued an appeal for donations to help earthquake victims in El Salvador and said the agency would try to help U.S. residents find missing Salvadoran relatives.

Richard Schubert, the agency's president, said it would take some time to handle requests to trace missing relatives because the Red Cross was still busy providing first aid, transportation, food and housing for thousands of people affected by Friday's quake.

He said anyone worried about Salvadoran relatives should first try to reach them by telephone, and then contact their local Red Cross chapter for assistance. Red Cross does not have a national hotline for tracing victims and prefers to work through the local chapters, he Schubert said money, not goods or equipment, was needed to help earthquake victims.

Crews clean nuclear waste wreck

TWIN FALLS, Idaho - Wreckers on Monday began moving casks of radioactive waste from the Snake River after a tractor-trailer plunged off a bridge.

No radioactive material was released in the Sunday accident, said Leigh Ann Garn, a dispatcher with the Idaho State Police.

Traffic was detoured on Interstate 84, Idaho's major east-west highway, as a radiation team from the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory assisted a wrecking company in recovering the truck and its hazardous cargo.

REGIONAL

Board upholds AIDS-related firing

HUTCHINSON - The firing of a public health nurse for refusing to care for an AIDS patient was upheld Monday by the Reno County

"I feel a little sick...I'm not sure if I'll ever get another job in nursing," Margaret Durr said after the 3-0 vote upheld a decision of the county Public Health Department.

Durr was fired last month after she refused to provide care for a patient with Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

She told the county commission that she should have the right to refuse a case she didn't think she could handle and that she thought

The public health department maintained she had a professional responsibility to the patient, that she was not in any danger and that she was being asked to do routine tasks she was well-trained to carry

Hess charged with securities fraud

KANSAS CITY, Kan. - A former Kansas state senator accused of swindling a Kansas City chiropractor and a 65-year-old widow has been charged with two counts of securities fraud.

Paul Hess was charged late Friday in Wyandotte County court. He allegedly issued certificates for an investment company in which he

Hess is in the Kansas State Penitentiary at Lansing, serving a oneto-five year term for a forgery conviction, state corrections officials

In the new case, Hess is accused of issuing certificates for a holding company called Firt Finance and Investments Inc. He and his wife, Anne Oliver Hess, had transferred their stock in the company to her mother, Maxine Oliver of Paola.

Campus Bulletin

TODAY

ITEMS LOST AND FOUND on campus may be claimed will be from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on today and Wednesday in Union basem

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS BIBLE STUDY

AGRICULTURE MECHANIZATION CLUB

GREAT COMMISSION STUDENTS meet at

PHI UPSILON OMICRON meets at 7:30 p.m. in 7:30 p.m. at 1543 Campus Road.

HORSEMEN'S ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. in Call 204. Executive members meet at 7

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER will show the video tapes, "The Interview" and "Interview Follow-up," at 3:30 p.m. in

APPAREL AND TEXTILE MARKETING IN-TEREST GROUP meets at 6 p.m. in Justin 326. The guest speaker will be Jack Bishop from Borck Brothers Mens Wear.

PHI KAPPA THETA meets at 7 p.m. in Union

ENGINEERING AMBASSADOR EX-

ECUTIVES meet at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 152. Yearbook pictures will be taken at 7:15 p.m.

The guest speaker will be William Sutton, vice president for educational and student services.

GRANT PROPOSAL WRITING WORKSHOP will be at 3:30 p.m. in Denison 14. The topic will be "Sources of Support, Developing Funding Agency Contracts"

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom

WHEAT STATE AGRONOMY CLUB will have initiation at 7 a.m. in Throckmorton 313.

COLLEGIATE FFA meets at 8:30 p.m. in

SPURS meets at 9 p.m. in Union Courtyard. ALPHA CHI SIGMA will have an informational

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS RECRUITMENT COMMITTEE

meets at 8:30 p.m. in Union 20

PHI ALPHA THETA meets at 3:30 p.m. in SOCIETY OF WOMEN ENGINEERS meets to take yearbook pictures at 6:30 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre.

FOOD SCIENCE CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. in AGRICULTURE ECONOMICS CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 213. The topic will be the Chicago trip and sign-up.

Exiled activist gives lecture

By The Collegian Staff

Dennis Brutus, a South African poet and activist, will present the second University Convocation lecture of this academic year at 10:30 a.m. today in McCain Auditorium.

Brutus was educated in South Africa, but the government prevented him from teaching in the country.

His works are considered illegal to possess by the South African government, and it has forbidden for him from publishing any of his work anywhere in the world.

Brutus was responsible for supplying information to the International Athletic Committee that resulted in the barring of the South African team from competing in the 1964 Olympic Games. For supplying the information, he was arrested, imprisoned and ultimately exiled.

He was born in Salisbury, Zimbabwe, formerly Rhodesia, in 1924.

Brutus has taught at several universities in the United States, including Amherst, Dartmouth, the University of Texas, Northwestern University and the University of Pittsburgh.

Notice

Today is the last day to register to vote in the Nov. 4 general election. Students can register from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Student Government Services Office in the Union.

Balloon Boutique Bosses' Day Special

"Send your boss a special gift on their special day" - Oct. 16

mug, stick arrangement, candy and a balloon -Delivered!!

Only $10 (plus tax) -order one today, we carry a wide selection of gifts.

610 N. 3rd 539-0106

A WEEK AT

COTOBER 12-19-100 KANSAS SIAIE

All K-State students and faculty with valid I.D.'s are invited to attend the AWAKS Photography Seminar Wednesday, October 15, 1986.

Seminar

MORNING at McCain Auditorium

8:45 to 9:10 Registration in McCain Lobby

9:15 to 9:30 Student Publications Slideshow

9:30 to 10:20 Pete Souza-White House Photographer "Photographing the President"

10:30 to noon Jim Richardson-Special Projects Editor at the Denver Post "Documentary Photography" including "Cuba, Kansas"

LUNCH noon to 1:20

AFTERNOON in Little Theater-K-State Union

1:30 to 2:20 Ted Munger-Commercial Photographer in Dallas, Texas "Color Commercial Photography"

2:30 to 2:45 Dave Kaup-Chief Photographer at the Olathe (Kan.) Daily News "Cameras in the Courtroom"

2:45 to 3:45 Panel Discussion moderated by Dr. Carol Oukrop on Ethics in Photography

Gary Haynes-Assistant Managing Editor at the Philadelphia Inquirer

Tim Janicke-Picture Editor at the Kansas City Times John Bock-Staff Photographer at the Topeka Capital-Journal

Sam Greene-Co-owner of the Delores (Colo.) Star

BREAK 3:45 to 4:00

4:00 to 4:15 Andy Nelson-Student Photographer at K-State "How to get that Internship"

4:15 to 5:00 Darryl Heikes-Photographer at U.S. News & World Report "Color Lighting"

5:00 to 6:30 Portfolio Critique in JMC Library, Kedzie 105

At NSA, We Have The Intelligence To Keep Your Options Open.

Electrical/Electronic/Computer Engineers... Computer Scientists... Mathematicians... Language Specialists

Latitude. That's what keeps a job invigorating -the chance to expand your interests, to take on unheard of challenges, to grow out as well as up. Well, that's precisely what the National Security Agency offers you as one of our people. NSA performs three all-important tasks. We analyze foreign communications. We safeguard America's vital communications. We set security standards for the government's mammoth computer systems. And we want you in on the

NSA offers choices upon choices. In assignments. In projects. In careers. But whatever your role, it's going to make a difference; it's going to produce immediate results.

For an Electrical / Electronic / Computer Engineer options abound. In fact, the entire technological and functional spectrum are yours for exploration. Microprocessor implementation and programming, communications systems, LSI/VLSI, CAD/CAM, systems architecture and optics. Among others. To the Computer Scientist, we deliver opportunities across the frontier of finite state machine development. The applications realm: systems design and programs, applications and evaluation, and computer security research and Mathematicians research a variety of mathematical concepts including probability theory, statistics, Galois theory and group theory.

Language Specialists in Slavic, Near Eastern and Asian languages meet the challenges of translation, transcription and analysis head on. Every day. Whatever your field, you can be certain to find many paths cleared for you. You'll also find a competitive salary, enticing benefits and an appealing suburban location between two vital urban centers-Washington and Baltimore.

terview with your College Placement Office. Or write to the National Security Agency.

NSA will be on campus Nov. 10th interviewing

For additional information, schedule an in-graduating seniors.

NATIONAL SECURITY AGENCY ATTN: M322 (AAM) Fort Meade, MD 20755-6000

U.S. citizenship required for applicant and immediate family members. An equal opportunity employer

By DON SCOTT Collegian Reporter

K-State's Cynthia Quinn has been awarded two national scholarships in horticultural therapy.

Quinn, freshman in horticultural therapy, was awarded the Alice Burlingame Horticultural Therapy Scholarship and on Oct. 18 will receive the National Counsel and Therapy For Rehabilitation through Horticulture Scholarship.

Quinn said she applied for the Alice Burlingame Horticultural Therapy Scholarship through the Department of Horticulture.

"There was an application sent favoring someone from K-State because it has the only certified degree program for horticultural therapy," Quinn said.

The National Counsel and Therapy for Rehabilitation through Horticulture Scholarship was also awarded, Quinn said, through submitting an application.

The horticultural therapy program was founded by Richard Mattson, coordinator of horticultural therapy, and by the Menninger Foundation in

Quinn said the program is structured using plants and a natural environment as a means of therapy in rehabilitation for the physically and mentally handicapped.

An example, Quinn said, would be

By The Collegian Staff

the front window of Scot's Ltd., 1223

Moro St., Sunday night. Mark F.

Yockers, Manhattan, drove his 1978

Dodge pickup into the building at Police officials said he went through the front display window while he was apparently attempting

Scot's manager Liisa Embree received a call around 10:15 p.m. to secure the building. Embree said she had to wait for a repairman to put

10:11 p.m.

to park.

An east-bound truck ran through

Truck crashes through clothing store window motivating an elderly person

through a nature-nurture process. "If you had a sick plant that gets frosted and set back, it would be one way to help the patient by relating with the health problems of themselves," Quinn said. "It is something that gets the client in a close bondage with the plant."

Horticultural therapy is applying behavior sciences, Quinn said, and a knowledge of horticulture to obtain client background and to use that to help the person grow and develop.

"The idea is getting the client and plant to interact," Quinn said. "We want the person to identify with the plant as a living thing. The plant will hopefully motivate the person."

Quinn said the plant also serves as a "great stress release."

They have done studies and have found out that plants help cope with stress and anxiety," Quinn said.

Being out of high school for four years and the mother of two, Quinn said she decided to look into a college education

"I've always been interested in helping people and have had an interest in psychology, sociology, and horticulture," Quinn said. "I've always wanted to do something with

Finding a major that included all of her best interests, Quinn said, was "a stroke of luck."

plywood over the hole until it could will take care of it," Embree said,

Yockers, 29, is a carpenter foreman in Manhattan. He was arrested by Riley County Police for driving under the influence of alcohol

Sgt. Scott Campbell of the Riley

"at least he better pay for it."

in connection with the incident.

"The guy's (Yocker's) insurance be fixed Monday.

Crumpled Corvette

Michael Stolzman comforts him after Stolzman's car struck a lightpole

Riley County Ambulance officials attend to Lt. Steven Sak, while Lt. Monday at Seth Child Road and Amherst Avenue. Sak was transported to Irwin Army Hospital at Fort Riley where both are stationed.

Workers continue search for victims

uake survivors begin cleanup efforts

By The Associated Press

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador -Homeless Salvadorans set up makeshift shelters in fields, the Maternity Hospital delivered babies in the parking lot, and survivors Monday went about burying the nation's 890 known earthquake dead.

President Jose Napoleon Duarte put the number of injured in last Friday's catastrophe at 10,000 and the homeless at 150,000

Rescue workers intensified searches for victims trapped under tons of twisted rubble, as aftershocks continued Monday.

County Police Department said this is one of several buildings that have The devastation was confined mostly to this capital city of 800,000 been struck lately. Another building people, and Duarte told El Salvador which he said has been damaged by a in a broadcast Sunday night, "We car is The Sound Shop, 1204 Moro St.

are practically going to have to reconstruct all of the city.'

He asked for more international aid, requesting medicines and supplies for battered hospitals where teams worked outside to treat pa-

Search teams struggled to retrieve victims from toppled buildings. Specially trained dogs led by Swiss, French and American teams burrowed into crawl spaces looking for signs of life.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Jake Gillespie said two Americans, who also held Salvadoran citizenship and lived in San Salvador, were killed. They were identified as Jose Mauricio Juarez, in his 40s, and Yolanda Suzanne Stets, 12.

Crowds downtown stood behind

"I am aware that five years is an infinity when it comes to farm policy.

decision to retire cropland within two years, Roberts said, adding that such decisions are major and alter the basic nature of the enterprise.

roped off areas Monday guarded by the army and watched rescuers use cranes, torches and bare hands. The stench of dead bodies rose in the stifl-

Some stores and restaurants reopened Monday, but in most cases owners only wanted to assess damages.

Duarte said the city suffered $2 billion in damage and that every government building in this Central American capital was hit, including the presidential palace.

Government operations were moved to the military command headquarters. At Bermeja Cemetery on the southern outskirts of San Salvador, a line of 26 open graves awaited earth-

the children leave home, the farmers

The effects of crop acreage management are more likely to accumulate, reducing the cropland, on-retirement and death.

marriage, labor cycle changes when retirement point, Roberts said.

quake victims early Monday.

Within hours, the newly dug holes began to fill as families came to bury their dead, singly and in groups.

On the other side of the cemetery, near the administration buildings, workers were digging a pit 50 feet long, 30 feet wide, 20 feet deep. "This is for people who don't have any money," said cemetery worker Alexander Cedeno, 20, motioning to the pit. "Over there," he said, pointing across the gently sloping hill where the graves stood open, "is for the people who can afford it.'

Cemetery superintendent Humberto Lopez said 174 people had been buried at Bermeja since Friday.

The quake seemed to strike at random, cracking or destroying some structures, bypassing others. Some homes suffered only plaster cracks.

Roberts will conclude her visit today with a seminar on "Population

Change in the Rural Southern Plains" is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. in Dickens 302.

Looking for an apartment?

Check Collegian Classifieds

Credit Union

Initiates

Youth Loans

Visiting professor discusses effects of cropland retirement

By ROGER McKNIGHT Collegian Reporter

In the case of cropland retirement, time is the key element, said Rebecca Roberts, visiting professor of geography from Clark University.

Cropland retirement is the transfer of acreage from crop production to some other use such as pasture, range, woodland or recrea-

"We need a long-run program to provide long-run incentives for a long-run decision," said Roberts, who has been at the University of Oklahoma since 1981

Roberts was on campus to deliver a lecture titled "The Family Enterprise, Farm Policy and Time" for the Department of Geography.

"But," she said, "there is very little indication of urban expansion in the regions I have studied," she said. "(Cropland retirement) would concentrate production on the best said. "Everybody knows we have enough marginal acreage that we could do something with. She said it would make sense to use cropland retirement in view of its potential value and current crop surpluses.

"This has led me to a greater appreciation of the role of the farm family and the response of the farmers to programs such as cropland retirement," she said.

There has been a massive change in the percentage of regionally concentrated cropland, she said, noting that some regions will show a substantial increase while other regions will decrease.

'At the national level, these changes are completely obscure," Roberts said. "The total percentage as a whole has remained approximately constant since 1930."

The changes in the cropland have acreage while devoting marginal accompanied structural ad- enrollment period to take a sufficient decisions tend to occur at key points ly after many years of operation acreage to alternative uses," she justments. One example of this is the long-run perspective of cropland during a family life cycle, including when the farmer gets closer to the expansion of croplands in some retirement, she said. regions due to the acceptance of new

> "This adaptation has decreased the number of the smaller farmers and has increased the (number of) larger farmers," she said.

> Roberts based her argument on the cropland retirement programs

> "The consequences of these changes for cropland retirement is not good," Roberts said.

A program must have a five-year

EVERY TUESDAY NIGHT ALL

YOU CAN EAT just $3.95

BBQ BEEF RIBS & FRIES

BAKED BEANS

111 S. 4th, Downtown

The designers of the Soil Bank made a mistake of expecting the program to reduce surpluses within a year or two, (and) giving up when it didn't," she said. A farm family does not make a differences, comparisons and changes between the two major through our history. These programs were the Conservation Reserve Program of 1956, which was established by the Soil Bank, and the 1985 Food Security Act.

> PITCHER EVERY TUES.!

Free

Ladies Nite Tomorrow

She said major farm management

• $1.75 Pitchers

Adm.

Take A Look At Us - NOW!

Drs. Bullock and Horsch *Latest style frames ·Eyeglasses warranted against breakage for Practice of Optometry

Prof. Bldg. 404 Humboldt

Manhattan, Ks.

·As always, we provide professional care

·Large contact lens inventory

For Your Complete Eye Care Needs, Call Us 776-9461

local

1-800-432-0036 out of town

and management of the contact lense

See our newly opened

Eveglass Department

VIVA LA RUNZA!

An Italian Runza is a blend of fresh ground beef, mozzarella cheese, mushrooms, green peppers and tangy italian spices all baked inside homemade bread. *Try one today!!

1101 Moro Aggieville

ADVERTISING CLUB

presents:

Procter & Gamble

"Sales and Advertising"

Tuesday, Oct. 14 at 7 p.m. in the

*There will be more information available in Ramada Inn Stateroom after meeting.

Journalism Library, Kedzie Hall

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

Parents who teach their children how to manage money and

The KSU Credit Union will help your children establish a

Dependent children of credit union members may borrow for such needs as buying a newspaper route, a bicycle, lawn

work with a personal budget have taught a valuable lifelong credit history and fiscal responsibility through the new Youth mower, prom gear or a used car. A parent member must

Children, ages 8 to 18 with credit union savings accounts, are eligible to participate in the Youth Loan Program. If the co-signing parent has been a member for at least the 60-day membership requirement, the child will not need to meet this

Let the KSU Credit Union share in the lifelong lesson and help build your child's future. Drop by Anderson Hall to discuss the program with a loan officer.

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants

Loan Program.

co-sign the loan.

Anderson Hall, Room 24A Open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday 532-6274

EDITOR Chris Stewart MANAGING EDITOR Jonie Trued NEWS EDITOR Sue Dawson

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER

Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Free club cards show social discrimination of many people - especially college students. Because of Kansas laws, a person must purchase a club card just to socialize in a

The cards cost a minimum of $10 and the recipient must wait 10 days after application to receive the card. Several clubs in Manhattan have chosen to give some club cards away free.

Not considering the legality of this action, the bottom line is that only greek house members were offered free cards.

One club sent letters to at least eight sororities offering to buy club cards for seniors who were at least 21 years old. Why didn't the club send letters to the percentage of the student body.

Drinking is a favorite pastime seniors living in residence halls, too? And what about seniors who live off-campus? Should they not have a fair chance at getting the "freebies" that are offered to greek students?

In this day and age, discrimination should be getting better, not worse. Including only greek students in this promotion did discriminate against the rest of the students.

Students that live in residence halls or off-campus housing should be included in all future promotional campaigns of any Manhattan merchant. These students also patronize the bars, clubs, stores and restaurants in Manhattan and make up a large

Administration's role in Nicaragua harmful

the people who brought us the three years. It is naive to assume Libya disinformation campaign, the U.S. government did not know are involved in another con- planes loaded with arms and suptroversy and true to form they plies were taking off from are denying involvement. The U.S.-operated air bases in Honissue is whether the U.S. govern- duras and El Salvador. If the U.S. ment authorized the C-123 shot government did not authorize the down 91 miles southeast of rebel supply flights, it knew Managua to carry arms to the about them. U.S-backed contras fighting in Nicaragua.

This week the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is investigating the extent of U.S. government involvement in private citizens' efforts to help the contras. The FBI has also initiated a preliminary investigation of private citizen efforts and their possible violation of American neutrality laws. As Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., said, "Individuals are running around conducting their own foreign policy in violation of the law."

If we are to believe Eugene Hasenfus, the American captive in Nicaragua, the CIA operated the plane to supply the contras from air bases in El Salvador and Honduras. Hasenfus claims to be a U.S. military adviser, although the U.S. Embassy in El Salvador said it has no records of a U.S. military adviser named Hasen-

Rebel supply planes have been of innocent Nicaraguan civilians.

The Reagan administration, based in El Salvador for the last

This comes less than a month after the Reagan administration blocked efforts by Oxfam, a Boston-based humanitarian group, to send agricultural supplies to Nicaragua. Clearly, the Reagan administration condones the efforts of American citizens to proliferate a war that has already seen 12,000 Nicaraguans die, yet it will not allow efforts to reduce the suffering caused by that war.

The issue is not simply a refusal to do business with the enemy; the Reagan administration has made it clear its differences are with the Sandinista leadership and not with the Nicaraguan people. If the Reagan administration is serious about resolving it differences with the Sandinista leadership, it should pursue that goal through the Contadora peace talks and not by supporting a mercenary army of terrorists at the expense

University to enforce special smoking areas

The University's current attempt at enforcing a limited signs might have is positive reinsmoking policy appears to be forcement. Instead of putting up headed in the right direction.

Instead of posting cheap "No Smoking" signs all over campus, a tactic that was tried once and failed, University Facilities personnel will be posting "Smoking" signs in those areas designated for the activity.

It's going to take two years to get the entire campus marked, but that is because faculty, staff and administration are going to have some say in the decisions about where to locate the smoking areas.

Although the smoking policy committee probably was not primarily concerned with aesthetics, a few "Smoking" signs will look much better than millions of "No Smoking" signs.

Another effect the "Smoking" a warning sign against smoking, an action that angers many smokers, the positive "Smoking" signs may encourage smokers to restrict their activities to smoking areas and not make them feel as if they were societal outcasts.

There is one part of the new policy that is disagreeable, however — the $25 potential fine.

On a campus where agencies are continually fluffing their annual budgets with student fines for whatever they decide is a violation, the smoking fine adds one more to the list of things to try to get away with.

The fine gives a threatening tone to what should be considered a basic human courtesy.

Collegiam Editorial

Soviet travel laws confuse tourists

Nicholas Daniloff is finally out of the Soviet Union and is telling the western world about his ordeal with the KGB and Soviet govern-

After traveling to the Soviet Union this summer, I learned visiting that nation can be an interesting experience if not an ordeal. When arriving in the Soviet Union, the impression they give visitors makes one understand why they get away with harassing people like Daniloff.

Our group of 48 students from around the United States entered the Soviet Union by taking the train from Helsinki to Leningrad. As we approached the Finnish/Russian border a man with a heavy Russian accent told us not to take any photographs because, after all, "it is a border."

When we arrived at the border it was not necessary for officials to explain further why no pictures were allowed. As we crossed from Finland to Russia, our train had to pass through a fence running as far as the eye could see that stood about 15 feet high with barbed-wire spaced about 6 inches apart. Where we passed through the railway opening in the fence, a guard was stationed on each side of the tracks holding a machine gun. Welcome to Russia.

At the first train station inside the country we had to go through customs. Needless to say, these people were not associated with the "welcome wagon." The customs officials boarded the train on each end of our car and began going through everyone's luggage and personal belongings leaving behind a trail of trashed compartments. Perhaps this is a modern form of scorched-earth policy.

Their first big score came when they found a Penthouse magazine in the luggage of one of our group members. Because pornography is illegal in the Soviet Union, they took his magazine, informed him he could be thrown in jail, then gave him a form to sign. Because he didn't know what the form said, he refused to sign it and denied owning the magazine. Seeing that he was stubborn, they gave up and left him alone.

PHIL NORDHUS Collegian Columnist

As they made their way toward the center of the car their mess became less severe as it became obvious we weren't hiding anything. However, when they got to my compartment they became very interested in my video camera. Actually, they were more interested in what I had recorded on my video cassettes. Not trying to hide anything, I told them I had some movies recorded, among them such Russian favorites as "Rocky IV," "Red Dawn" and "Firefox." They took all my tapes and proceeded off the train.

Upon having my videotapes confiscated, whatever good thoughts I had about the Soviet Union, and there weren't too many, suddenly vanished, and any anti-Soviet bias I had was instantly confirmed. However, half an hour later they returned my tapes. Other than two of them which had been watched for about 15 minutes, nothing had been done to

My experience was in no way unusual. In fact, photography is one of the biggest hangups the Soviets have with tourists. Among their restrictions, they don't allow pictures to be taken at train stations or airports. When we asked our courier from Intourist, the state travel agency, for an explanation, she answered, "I don't know. It's just a rule."

My conclusion as to why they don't allow pictures to be taken at airports and train stations is that some of these facilities are shared by both military and civilian sectors of the government. Instead of making a rule that bans photographs at specific locations, they make a rule that forbids picture-taking at all airports and train stations.

Why such things as the Daniloff inident occur is best explained by the remark of our courier: "It's just a rule." As far as the Soviets are concerned they do not need to justify their actions, they only need to obey them without asking why. As for the Russian people, the policies don't look all that bad when accompanied by the end of a gun bar-

Foreigners, such as our group of students, find such rules difficult to understand. When our plane left Moscow the following week, our chance to respond to these rules came when the wheels left the runway and the passengers began applauding.

We learned there is a difference between Russians and Soviets. Russians, for the most part, are like you and me; they want the same freedoms and rights as we do, and they are no more pleased with these rules than we were. Soviets, on the other hand, are the ones who make the rules and who make victims of people like Daniloff. I'm sure if the Russians had it their way, they would have sent the Soviets with us on that plane ride out of

HUNCUS JOURNAL HERALD - UNITED FEATURES SUN

Letters

Solving cup problem

Regarding the "cup controversy" at the Union cafeteria, there are two basic problems with either Styrofoam or plastic cups: Both are made from petroleum products, and petroleum is a non-renewable

 Both are basically non-biodegradable; they will remain for many, many years as plastic or Styrofoam, wherever they end up.

What are the alternatives? One is paper. Paper is both made from a renewable resource (trees) and is degradable by microorganisms. Paper is, however, somewhat more expensive than plastic or Styrofoam in the current market, and perhaps cutting down forests so that we can have disposable cups is not the greatest idea.

Why not eliminate all problems associated with disposables and buy larger glasses than are presently used for water? These are fairly inexpensive when purchased from restaurant suppliers. I would imagine t' ? initial cost could be recovered in a fairly short time, and the savings could be used to employ an extra student dishwasher or two.

Let's do our part to conserve the limited resources of the earth and not litter it with permanent tributes to our short-sightedness. Ruth Welti

assistant professor of biology

Giving life for U.S.

Four veterans of U.S. wars are about to sacrifice their lives to protest the U.S. war in Nicaragua. Charles Liteky, Brian Willson and George Mizo each served a tour of duty in Vietnam. Liteky was an Army chaplain and a recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism. Duncan Murphy served in World War II and participated in the liberation of the Belsen concentration camp. Liteky, Willson, Mizo and Murphy have sworn not to eat and to drink only water until either the U.S. government ceases its aid to the contras or until they die of starva-

The duration of their fasts is proof that these patriots are serious. Willson and Murphy have been without food since Sept. 15. Liteky and Mizo began their fasts Sept. 1, and by the time this letter is printed, they may have already died. The American press, both national and local, has failed to report many crucial aspects concerning the war in Nicaragua. Among these is the century of brutal exploitation of Central America by the United States. Another is the amazing gains made by Nicaragua in health care, education and land reform since the revolution. And a third story that the major print and electronic media neglect is the tremendous opposition to the war that is being mounted by American citizens Liteky, Willson, Mizo and Murphy are not merely more empassioned than others. Each of these men has been willing to give his life for America. Each therefore sees a special opportunity to express the outrage of millions of Americans by means of slow suicide. They are literally giving their lives for innocent Nicaraguans and, once again, for their own country.

Justin Palmer senior in English

'Diamond Girls' OK

Re: Douglas J. Schmidt's guest column, "Program promotes campus sexism," in Thursday's Collegian.

Pucker, dote, twink you cheeks, perform domestic duties and sleep with the players before the game! What? Those are some pretty strong and questionable implications. This is an example of the assumed criteria for members of the Diamond Girls that in my opinion came from way out in "left field." The three editorials printed in last Thursday's paper came as quite a surprise to me. All three editorials expressed extreme worry about the Diamond Girls being a "sexist organization" and damaging to its members' images. Organizations like Diamond Girls exist across the nation in several universities and are quite successful. The purpose is simply to support the team. What you read into it is up to you and your im-

A question asked by Schmidt was, "If Mike Clark, baseball coach, and Jeff Stewart, assistant baseball coach, want women to participate in their program why don't they let them try out for the team?" My bet is, if the women who interview for the position wanted to try out for the team they would have done so long ago.

Whether or not the new oganization gets a large turnout for the interviews is up to the women of K-State. The point that we are women and not "girls" was emphasized over and over. If you truly believe we're women, then why do we, as grown women need you "urging" us to consider your opinion and ad-

The three editorials state few facts, simply negative opinions about an organization working for a positive outcome. You can add all the sexist ideas you want, but the fact remains that the organization's ultimate goal is supporting the K-State baseball team. What could be more American than baseball, hot dogs and apple pie? The coaching staff is new this year. It's reaching out to make the baseball program stronger.

Let me compliment the writers of last week's editorials on their attempt to destroy something positive by making it out to be sexist, dirty and demeaning. I, for one, think Diamond Girls is a good opportunity for involvement. God only knows how many excheerleaders we have on campus who, for whatever reason, aren't able to participate as K-State cheerleaders. Diamond Girls is a great opportunity for them to put their school spirit to use.

As for finance, it's a shame that the softball program was canceled. I'm a fan of the sport myself. But money will not be taken out of the athletic department to support the Diamond Girls. All trips, uniforms, etc., will be paid for by money earned from various fund-

Here's a pat on the back, Doug, for having such great relations between the men's and women's soccer teams. Keep up the good work! And as for your sister, Beth, I'm thrilled to know she can throw a softball 80 mph. But what that has to do with Diamond Girls I still don't know.

For all those who are chosen to be Diamond Girls, congratulations, and do a good job. It is my opinion you could help make the baseball program stronger with your sup-Cathy Troutt freshman in secondary education

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters.

Alaskan floods recede; area declared disaster

By The Associated Press

ANCHORAGE - Water began receding Monday after flooding caused by three days of heavy rain cut rail and highway links between Anchorage and Fairbanks and washed out land access to the coastal town of Seward.

"It's getting better. Things are actually starting to look up," said Kevin Koechlein, emergency service coordinator for the Matanuska-Susitna Borough north of Anchorage. "The water is receding in all areas. Basically, it's still windy, but there's not much rain. We're starting to move people back into their homes in the Talkeetna area.

Gov. Bill Sheffield planned to fly over flood-ravaged areas north and south of Anchorage, and state and federal officials started surveying the damage, expected to be in the millions

Sheffield issued a disaster declaration Sunday that allowed state agencies to help areas stricken when a windy storm that hit south-central Alaska on Thursday and dumped up to 15 inches of rain.

Koechlein said state Department of Transportation and Public Facilities engineers estimated Monday that the Montana Creek bridge on the Parks Highway could be back in operation by the end of the week. The bridge was a primary link between Alaska's largest city and Fair-

Alaska Railroad bridges at Montana and Sheep creeks were washed out, the railroad said. Fixing the many damaged bridges and sections of track may take as long as three weeks, meaning freight between Anchorage and Fairbanks will have to be moved by truck via a longer, narrower route.

The railroad carries items such as oil drilling equipment and other material for North Slope oil fields, groceries, produce and new cars.

In Seward, a town of 1,800 about 100 miles south of Anchorage, a second storm Sunday caused some additional damage but did not carry the wallop of the earlier storm, Mayor Harry Gieseler said. Rain was forecast to continue through Tuesday, and flood warnings remained in effect in Seward.

"We are having water rising in the Old Mill subdivision again," he said. 'And we're getting some additional washout on the Seward Highway, the road coming into town. It's now clos-

"Things in town are stable. ... But we're not starting a cleanup yet. Basically, we're diverting the water in the direction we want it to go."

Rail service to Seward also was out, and about 15 boats in the town's harbor were destroyed.

In addition to 15 houses washed away, 100 were flooded. But Gieseler said schools were in session Monday and city workers were at their jobs while National Guardsmen helped with traffic control.

The main power line into Seward was broken by flooding Old Mill Creek. The town was relying on generator power, but outlying districts were without electricity, said Gieseler.

In the Matanuska-Susitna Borough, about 150 people were evacuated as several homes were lost and many more were damaged in the flooding.

Expert panel endorses shuttle redesign

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A panel of independent experts endorses NASA's redesign of the space shuttle booster rockets and concurs in the agency's decision to use horizontal rather than vertical tests, but recommends the tests be greatly expanded.

In a letter to NASA administrator James C. Fletcher, the panel of scientists and engineers organized by the National Research Council said the redesign of the faulty joint blamed for the Jan. 28 Challenger explosion had been limited by the desire to use booster rocket segments ordered before the acci-

But the experts said, "We recognize the importance to the nation of returning the space shuttle to service without unnecessary delays." And it concluded that "the chances for success with the current approach to case field joint redesign are sufficiently good that it should be pursued."

The seven-page letter, from the panel's chairman H. Guyford Stever, was delivered to NASA Friday and released today. The panel was established at the behest of the Rogers Commission, which studied the accident for President Reagan.

The Rogers Commission report recommended that NASA seriously weigh full-scale vertical tests of a redesigned booster rocket to better simulate actual flight, but the space agency rejected that Oct. 2, opting to stick with just the horizontal tests used to develop the original, faulty design. The outside experts supported NASA in this. "The panel notes that the desireability of vertical testing has been evaluated by NASA and concurs that horizontal testing can be appropriate for this situation."

The panel said NASA had argued that a stationary test on a vertical stand "will not reproduce the precise conditions experienced during launch and flight."

But the expert panel conditioned its approval of horizontal testing on a large expansion of those tests to duplicate all the forces encountered in launch and flight.

The panel recommended building a second horizontal test stand "both to be used as an alternative to the current facility and to provide a facility suitable for conducting dynamic tests of the structure, nozzle, seals, etc."

It also recommended building a second joint test stand.

And the panel objected that NASA is planning only one fullscale test of the booster rocket's new nozzle that will run for the full length of a normal flight. "We recommend additional full-scale, full duration testing to assure that the various elements of the design

... operate as expected over the range of conditions. ... In our opinion, a single full-scale, full duration static test of the redesigned nozzle (prior to the first flight) is simply not sufficient.

NASA spokeswoman Sara Keegan said, "The appropriate staff people will study the report in detail and consider all the recommendations they make. We certainly appreciate the thorough and expert analysis they are making of the redesign and recertification."

Republicans propose code of conduct

By The Associated Press

WICHITA - Mike Hayden said Monday he will impose a "code of political conduct" on state employees to draw a clear line between the official duties of bureaucrats and their off-duty political activities, if he's elected governor in November.

Hayden's nine-point plan is similar to a seven-page executive order issued in 1983 by Gov. John Carlin, which was reiterated by the governor in a three-page memo distributed in August to all state agencies under his jurisdiction.

In a Wichita news conference,

Hayden releases financial disclosure

Hayden, the Republican nominee for governor, said he developed the code after he "witnessed continued executive misuse and abuse of state government for politcal purposes," over the past 31/2 years. However, his press secretary could offer no specific examples of abuse cited by the candidate.

Hayden also called on Tom Docking, his Democratic opponent, to make a similar pledge, apparently not aware the Carlin-Docking administration already implemented its regulations governing state employee political activities.

"I pledge to the people of Kansas that state government, state employees and the governor's appointees will not be used for political purposes under a Hayden governorship," Hayden said. "My administration will be guided by a code of political conduct and I challenge my Democrat opponent to make the same commitment."

Gloria O'Dell, spokeswoman for Docking, said her boss already governor issued his two executive orders. She labeled Hayden's actions as "political chicanery" and a desperate attempt for attention in the waning days before the Nov. 4 general election.

adopted an ethics program when the

Also at his news conference, Hayden released a bank statement of his family's net worth.

According to the personal financial statement given the State Bank of Atwood, Hayden and his wife Patti have total assets of $100,739 and debts of $18,354, leaving a net worth of $82,384.

Hayden again called on Docking to release his financial statement.

Photo Services preserves events, faces of University's past

By STEVEN DAVID Collegian Reporter

Heads of state, U.S. government officials, famous personalities and historical events and places, all connected with K-State, have passed before Paul Maginness for the last 18

Maginness, director of the Photo Services at K-State, has seen photographs of all these subjects and more at the Photo Services' office, located on the second floor of the Physical Plant.

Any student or faculty member can use the facility as long as the film work is related to activities such as thesis or research work with the University, Maginness said.

"You can't go and take pictures of your girlfriend and bring them here to process," he said.

We Make It Here-Just For You!

GREAT FOR GIFTS!
THE ICECREAM

SOCIAL

1314B Westloop • 537-7079

Graduate Studies

CELL BIOLOGY NEUROBIOLOGY

University of Kansas

Medical Center

Call or write: Admission Committee

Department of Anatomy

KU Medical Center Kansas City, Kansas 66103

(913) 588-7000

IT'S

TUESDAY

A CAN FOR

ALL REASONS

Filled with

Freshly flavored

or plain

POPCORN

He said most film can be obviously recognized as school-related or work that does not deal with the Universi-

Services of the facility include shooting official department and organizational groups and clubs. Some of these include engineering, architectural and agricultural groups. The photos appear in University publications like the Royal Purple and school pamphlets and brochures, he said.

The majority of sports information photos are also done by the service. These photos are mainly head-andshoulder shots which appear in programs and other media, Maginness said. Photos of sporting events and games are handled by the service as concerning University relations are a large part of the service.

Functions with University President Jon Wefald and other photos

Photo Services has many different files where photographs and slides are stored. These files consist of pictures of buildings, faculty, VIPs and historical events in and around K-State.

The Photo Service has a complete set of negatives dating to the early 1930s, Maginness said.

The VIPs are mainly Landon Lecture participants. The file includes people such as President Ronald Reagan, former Chief Justice Warren Burger, Sen. Edward Kennedy, civil rights activist Martin Luther King Jr., author Alex Haley and television anchorman Dan Rather. Many of these photos are on slides which are sent out for duplication on pamphlets and brochures, he said.

Machines that reduce printed material to be transferred to slides are also available. This is particularly helpful to architects, engineers and others who need to reduce graphs and charts for presentation. The Photo Services can work in black-and-white processing, slides and professional print film. The service does not do color printing, although it can do air brush and touch-up work for color prints.

The Photo Services consist of three photographers, one receptionist and four students working to process film for University students and faculty.

REGISTER NOW!

YOU CAN REGISTER TO VOTE IN THE S.G.S. OFFICE IN THE UNION

FROM 8a.m.-5p.m. MONDAY-FRIDAY.

DEADLINE TODAY

YOUR VOTE IS YOUR VOICE

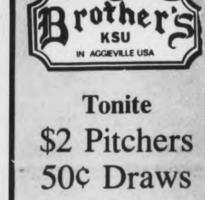

Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

TONITE "Pop-A-Shot" Tournament WEDNESDAY "What A Riot Party" *Free "What A Riot Party" coolees at door with paid admission 50¢ cans Old Milwaukee & Old Milwaukee Light

Wednesday Ladies Nite $1 Coolers $2 Pitchers

CATESSA 100' COTTON FLANNEL

YARN DYLD to perfection and brushed

UD=3COV=3

1224 Moro

Aggieville

Open 10-5:30 Mon.-Fri.

10-8 Thurs .; 10-5 Sat.

Free Gift Wrapping

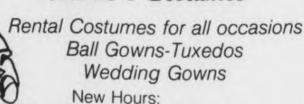

The Station

TACOS 99¢ each 3 for $2.50

11:30 a.m.-2 p.m. 5-9 p.m. 11:30 a.m.-10:30 p.m. in bar PLUS

MARGARITAS Strawberry or Lime $1.25 all day and night

AGGIE STATION RESTAURANT & BAR 1115 Moro • 776-0030 Marie's Costumes

539-5200

Mon.-Sat. 10-6, Thurs. til 9, Sun. 1-5 Parking in Rear 1631 Humboldt

TODAY: Off Campus, Marlatt, Moore Oct. 15: Off Campus, Moore, Putnam, Smith

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment call 539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

12:01 a.m.

Lon Kruger and the KSU Wildcats present basketball tonight at one minute after midnight.

Be There!

Belligerent bovine

rupted by a curious cow while shooting a feature picture Monday by the Vic Winter, assistant picture editor for The Kansas City Star, is inter- agricultural research farms. Winter is one of the alumni photographers who have returned to participate in a project called A Week at K-State.

Hayden votes, rhetoric differ on crime

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Norbert Dreiling, cochairman of Democrat Tom Docking's governor campaign, said Monday the voting record suggests Republican contender Mike Hayden is less tough on crime than he claims.

"The Hayden votes speak more loudly than the macho talk," Dreiling told a news conference at a downtown Topeka office building. "Before it became politically fashionable to be tough on crime, Hayden's votes betrayed a certain softness.'

However, Kelley Hayden, the candidate's brother and campaign press secretary, called the Democrats' search of the legislative voting record superficial.

"Deep research would show that Mike's record reflects a desire to get tougher on crime," said Kelley Hayden. "He has, in fact, voted repeatedly for bills that got tougher on crime.

"We think his record proves he's a strong supporter of capital punishment, and if he's elected governor he will sign a death penalty bill."

Dreiling, a Hays attorney and former Democratic Party state chairman, predicted that by the close of the gubernatorial campaign Hayden, who has spent 14 years in the Kansas House, will have only one issue: his advocacy of the death

He also predicted that issue will not win the governorship for Hayden because, "The voters aren't really a bunch of crazed Rambos stalking the streets, seeing who they next can put the noose on.

Dreiling said the record shows Hayden voted twice, during the 1975 and 1976 legislative sessions, to kill bills which would have reimposed the death penalty in Kansas.

But Kelley Hayden said his brother voted to kill the 1975 bill because he didn't consider it constitutional. He said Hayden also voted against a 1976 bill because it needed amending. Once it was changed, Hayden voted for it, he said.

Dreiling also said Hayden voted in 1980 to reduce the crime of possession of cocaine from a Class C felony on first conviction to a Class D felony, a bill which also reduced the level of felonies for second and third convictions.

Kelley Hayden said the purpose of that bill was to increase the minimum time those convicted of cocaine possession had to serve in prison. While it lowered the felony levels, he said, it raised the minimum sentences so those convicted actually had to serve longer

Dreiling also said his research showed Hayden:

- Voted in 1983 for a bill which required an extra burden of proof to convict husbands of spousal rape, above what is required to convict others. When the Senate changed the bill to make evidentiary requirements the same, Hayden voted no although the House approved it.

.......

The Spread

An Hors D'Oeurves Buffet Monday-Friday 5-7 p.m. at Plus Shrimp iust $1 a doz.

Downtown 418 Poyntz crowding.

- Voted in 1982 for a bill which toughened sentencing laws to require inmates to serve more of their sentences, but in 1984 voted for a bill to reduce the sentences for certain felony crimes to ease prison

Tuesday IMPORT BEER NIGHT Featuring Bottles of Mae's Favorite Beers

$1.25

from across

the Seas

Memberships Available 616 N. 12th 539-9967

Council sells balloons to improve education

By The Collegian Staff

K-State and University of Kansas football fans are invited to "light up the sky" with their team's colors at Saturday's game, and the Kansas Federation Council for Exceptional Children will be selling helium balloons for the big event.

The balloons will go on sale Saturday morning at the KSU Stadium's front gate for $1, and proceeds will go to improving the instruction of special education students throughout the state.

Steve Cunningham, assistant professor of adult and occupational education, and president-elect of the Council for Exceptional Children, has been a key organizer of the event. He said students from several other schools, especially Fort Hays State, will assist special education teachers and students at K-State in the sale. Their goal is to sell 2,000 balloons, he said.

"We use most our money for the state CEC conference," he said. "This is our money-making project so that we can keep our organization going."

The council is a statewide organization with about 800 members. Members from the western portion of the state will participate in this year's sale, Cunningham said. Members from the eastern portion of the state will carry on the tradition next year at KU.

Cunningham said he hopes that fans will buy a balloon and advertise K-State by releasing them at kick-off time. If it is a windy day, he said the helium-filled balloons will fly a long

Wal-Mart originator richest man in U.S.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - There are du Ponts and Rockefellers, and even a Perdue. But the annual Forbes magazine list of the wealthiest people in America is topped by an Arkansas retailer who is proof that the rich often do get richer.

Sam Moore Walton, 68, founder of the Wal-Mart discount stores, has more money than any other American, according to the annual "Forbes 400." His $4.5 billion is impressive. Last year, when he also topped the list, he had a paltry $2.8 billion.

He's not alone. There were 25 other billionaires, up from 14 last

The list, which will appear in the Oct. 27 issue of Forbes, also includes some famous newcomers including a former talk show host, an ageless rock 'n' roll cheerleader, a clothing designer and a chicken king.

Two men tied as the secondrichest individuals in America. Both John Kluge of Charlottesville, Va., and H. Ross Perot of Dallas are worth $2.5 billion, according to the magazine.

It took at least $180 million to make this year's list, up from $150 million last year.

STARTING A SMALL BUSINESS IN KANSAS

A "nuts and bolts" series for anyone needing detailed information on starting a new business or taking over an existing business. To meet four successive Thursday evenings, 7-9:30 p.m., from October 23 through November 13, at Kansas State University, Calvin Hall. Room 202. The sessions will cover:

Oct. 23 - Business Planning & Legal Considerations

Oct. 30 - Financial Management

Nov. 6 - Marketing Management

Nov. 13 - Record Keeping & Taxes Fred Rice, director of KSU Small Business Development Center, will be the instructor. The fee of $40 will include a notebook with checklists and Kansas forms. To register call the KSU Small Business Development Center at (913) 532-5566.

KSU KSU SBDC

STATE Small Business Development Center

CONTURNITY Cosponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration. The KSU SBDC is an equal opportunity educator and employer

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY and ZENITH DATA SYSTEMS... A Winning Combination!

Zenith Systems, a major manufacturer of personal computers,

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY for two days

to answer questions about microcomputers and discuss how a Zenith computer can help you become more productive.

Zenith Data Systems manufactures five different personal computer models so you're sure to find one that is right for you. All of the models are IBM-compatible meaning you'll never have to worry about finding the right software program. We offer you high quality computers at affordable prices. When total performance is your only option, see why Zenith Data Systems is your only Featured below are two of our most popular models:

The Z-158 provides you with all the features you need. except the high price. Just look at what you get

- . 2.514" 360K disk drives
- . 256K RAM (expandable to 640K) . 8 Mhz Turbo Switch
- · Monochrome and RGB color capability . Serial and parallel ports
- . MS DOS 3.1 Operating System(FREE)

The Z-171 Laptop gives you all the power of a desktop computer system in a small package

- . Weighs less than 15 lbs
- . 25'," 360K disk drives
- 640K RAM . Full size 80x25 line screen
- . MS DOS 3.1 Operating System (FREE)
- . Serial and parallel ports · Battery Pack

FOR SALE NOW, To Current KSU, Faculty, Staff and Students! KSU ID Required

For more information and a demonstration, plan on visiting the Open House at this location:

October 16 and 17 K-State Union Lobby in front of Bookstore Hours: 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

QUESTION:

Which of the following will 75¢ a day buy?

- 1. A beer
- 2. An order of fries
- 3. Postage stamps
- 4. A Yamaha CD 300 Compact Disc Player

Answer: #4

P.S. You don't have to have a job and you don't have to have established credit. Come see us for details.

The Sound Shop

"Your sound alternative" 1204 Moro, Aggieville systems When total performance is the only option

Staff/Andy Nelson

Jimmie Kirkland, an employee of Domino's Pizza, rushes a pizza to its destination Sunday evening in an effort to make the 30-minute-fast-or-free deadline.

PIZZA ON THE MOVE

By CAROL LENKNER Collegian Reporter

The experiences of pizza deliverers are as diversified orders they receive. They must deliver to all sorts of places, through all kinds of weather.

"The worst time to deliver pizza is when it's raining," said Mark Thrower, freshman in physical education.

Thrower, who was delivering pizza to West Hall, had just fallen down the slippery, wet stairs outside. Like a number of other K-State students, Thrower delivers pizza to give him some extra income while attending college. Thrower has been delivering pizza for seven weeks and said he really enjoys it.

"West Hall is my favorite place to deliver," Thrower said. "The girls are usually really nice and don't give me a hard time." At that moment, a resident handed Thrower a tip for delivering her pizza. Nick Schmiedeler, sophomore in business, said he likes to deliver to the dorms and greek houses because usually he can deliver three or four pizzas at a time and can make more money

"About 80 percent of my deliveries are to college students," Schmiedeler said. "The other 20 percent are to residents of Manhattan and the military.'

Monday nights are usually busy for pizza deliverers because Monday night football is on television and there are various specials offered on Mondays. Coupons are used frequently.

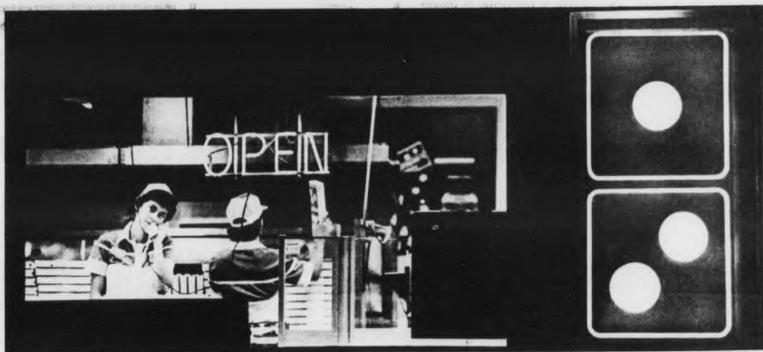

"It pays to advertise," Schmiedeler said. "Competition in Manhattan is pretty tight. The students bring in a lot of business for local pizza places.

Another time when the pizza places receive a lot of business is days of K-State football games. Before the game, pizza delivery is really busy, Schmiedeler said. Once the game starts, delivery slows down, then picks back up once the game is over. "I think it will be a lot busier for the counter help the day of the KU-K-State game, but I don't think the deliverers will be much busier than any other game day," Schmiedeler said.

On a busy night one person can get 30 to 40 deliveries, compared

The beginning of the pizza delivery starts with the phone call to the pizza parlor. Melinda Ohrenberg, manager in training with Domino's Pizza, takes a late-night order Saturday evening.

to 10 to 15 deliveries on a regular night, Schmiedeler said. Some deliverers believe car drivers - for whatever reasons - will slow down when they see a delivery car behind them. "Since I use my own car, I don't have that problem," Schmiedeler said. "I have heard of that happening in front of cars marked with the company's logo, though. I'm not sure if they do it purposely to slow down the pizza car driver or not.

"The worst part about driving my own car is that sometimes the carburetor gets flooded when it rains," Schmiedeler said. "The first thing I have to do is call the customers and let them know their order will be delayed. Then, I have to call another driver and have him deliver my orders. It's only happened a couple of times, but it can be a real hassle."

"Delivering pizza, one encounters all kinds of people and has all sorts of experiences," said Mike Roberts, junior in pre-dentistry.

"One time I left my car running while delivering a pizza to a house. While one guy took the pizza, his roommate snuck out the back door, hopped in my car and took off. Luckily, he just drove around the block," Roberts said.

"Many times people joke around and ask me questions like, 'Is that my pizza?,' when they know I'm delivering it for someone else," Roberts said. "You just have to be good-natured about it and reply with something like, 'Only if your name is so-and-so.' On the whole, most people are pretty nice."

Staff/Steve Wolgast

A remodeled dorm room provides John Schweiger, sophomore in architecture, plentiful space for a couch where he studies Sunday. Schweiger has supplemented his fifth floor Goodnow room with the couch and a ceiling fan.

Dorm, apartment decoration as different as student tastes decorating the room the way Augustine said.

By The Collegian Staff

An eclectic assortment of ceiling fans, rocking chairs, stacks of beer cans and computer terminals is something not normally associated with residence hall or apartment decor, but it is becoming increasingly popular.

Peter Abell, senior in marketing, said he believes each room reflects an individual's style. Abell, who lives in Marlatt Hall, has a room filled with posters, pennants and plants.

Baseball hats decorate the white water pipes just below the ceiling, and pennants of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Kansas City Royals divide the room into a sportsoriented war zone. Abell said it is makes it more like a home.

computer science, said he decided to put up "anything to cover the walls" and accomplished that by plastering posters on them.

Jeanie Holt, junior in biology, decorated her apartment with an array of plants, and crates are designed as a table for a stereo and books.

"The apartment reflects my mood and tastes," Holt said. "What I really enjoy best is decorating a room."

Pin-up posters of women decorate the room of Kevin Augustine, junior in electrical engineering. A bean bag, platform bed and stereos are the "in" things,

While students are often eager to decorate their Rick Darnell, junior in residence hall rooms as quickly as possible, students should be advised that there are regulations governing what may and may not be placed in a room. There is a height limit on how high platform beds can be, said Darnell, who is also a staff assistant in Marlatt.

Darnell said rooms can be painted with the permission of the director of the residence hall. Material draped from the ceiling is not permitted in the rooms because of fire hazards.

Also, lights - especially neon beer signs - may not be placed in the rooms' windows because of fire hazard.

Kruger comes 'home' to K-State basketball

By TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

Editor's Note: This is the seventh in a series featuring K-State athletic coaches. The series will conclude next Tuesday.

Lon Kruger feels like he has come home. The new K-State basketball coach wasn't gone long, at the young age of 34 he has returned to help resurrect the K-State basketball tradition.

During Kruger's playing days under his predecessor Jack Hartman, he became known as a fighter, an overachiever and a man who always gave every bit of himself in an effort to be successful.

He proved those same qualities as a basketball coach at Pan American University in Edinburg, Texas, when he took a program which had never tasted success and made it a

Now the K-State basketball hero from Silver Lake has come back to his home state. He has returned to replace a man of whom he has very lofty thoughts.

"I'm excited by it, honored by it and a little bit scared of it. This is an extreme honor. Coach Hartman is one of the finest coaches ever and has been extremely successful at K-State for the past 16 years.

"I have very fine feelings about coach. Certainly, other than my father, he's the one guy who's had the most impact on my life," Kruger

The Coaches of K-State

The rich basketball tradition at K-State faltered in Hartman's last four years. But, Kruger said he believes it will be the school and the basketball tradition which will once again polish the silver of K-State's tarnished sport.

Vital in his job will be the K-State fans and their ability to generate the noise in Ahearn Field House which Kruger remembers so fondly from when he played from 1970 to 1974.

"All of my memories of Ahearn are extremely positive," Kruger said. "The one that comes to mind as a player, is when you start to walk up those steps, the noise starts swelling and it becomes extremely loud."

Kruger has no master plan in his efforts to turn the Wildcats into a basketball powerhouse once again; he simply wants his program to be a reflection of himself - an achiever. Every year Kruger yearns to see progress and the fire in the softspoken mentor's eyes state there is no end to the successes he seeks.

"Each year we're going to put the best team on the floor that we can. And, also one that will represent Kansas State in a first-class way, both on and off the floor," Kruger

Kruger realizes winning programs are filled with uniquely talented athletes and if there is one thing he is going about differently than Hartman, it is his all-out recruit-to-win attitude.

In his efforts to ship in the talent to help K-State win, he brought with him two of the youngest Division I-A assistants in the nation, Greg Grensing and Dana Altman (see related

With their first year of recruiting behind them, it easy to say the three were successful. Working with only three weeks following their hiring, K-State landed some talented players to wear the purple and white.

It's only the beginning for Kruger. He and his assistants intend on keeping up the pressure. Kruger's memories of K-State are of a time when spirits were high on campus and "Purple Pride" ran rampant throughout the student body.

Those times are gone and K-State finds itself in transition. Dwindling enrollment figures and the woes of K-State's once mighty basketball program are partially accountable for the gray clouds which have filled K-State's once blue skies.

"I think No. 1 in coming back; I was a little surprised by that. My memories are of a time when people were feeling great, were excited about what was happening and were proud," Kruger said.

And the fire in Kruger's eyes is promising - a promising flame of hope for a university which is pleased to see someone from its more galant days come home to help resurrect those times.

By RON RENO Sports Writer

There's a saying that goes, "You gotta have the horses before you can win the race." New K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger knows that saying Kruger's two assistant coaches, Greg Grensing and Dana Altman, were hired to go out and locate those "horses." Each assistant, according to Kruger, doubles as a top-notch recruiter.

'They're both young, enthusiastic and excited about being at Kansas State, and both do an excellent job at knowing the game of basketball. Equally important, they're both excellent recruiters. We're very pleased with the work Greg and Dana have done to this point," Kruger said.

Of the two assistants, Grensing is more familiar with Kruger and his coaching style. Grensing grew up in nearby Alta Vista and served as Kruger's assistant the past two seasons at Pan American University.

"Greg is extremely hardworking; he's extremely loyal. He grew up just south of here, and he's very familiar with the significance of basketball at Kansas State. I think he's excited about being a part of it," Kruger said.

Grensing, a 1979 graduate of Southwest Texas State University, played basketball both his years there and helped guide the Bobcats to a third-place finish in the 1979 NAIA tournament. During Grensing's freshman and sophomore years of college, he aided the Independence Community College squad to a 62-6 record.

Grensing, who said his "primary function" at Pan American was recruiting, said working under Kruger makes his task easier.

"I don't know of anybody I'd rather work for because his integrity and his character are so solid that you know you're never going to have to put yourself in a compromising position in recruiting," he said. "You know if you work your tail off and do it right...the product we have is excellent, so it makes it easy."

Returning to this area and working with Kruger, Grensing said, is a dream come true.

"I grew up coming to K-State basketball games all the time, so it's the best of both worlds. I've got a great job, and I'm closer to home. I'm really excited about it. I think the timing is excellent for the program to get back to where it was four or five years ago,"

Altman comes to K-State after a highly successful threeyear stint as head coach at Moberly (Mo.) Junior College. Altman guided his squads to a composite 94-18 record, and he was named regional coach of the year the last two years while earning runner-up honors in his debut season

"(He is) very familiar with Kansas State," Kruger said. "(He) has excellent recruiting ties throughout the country coming from the junior college ranks, and has also proven to be highly successful as an onthe-floor coach."

Altman said his assistant coaching duties are two-fold.

"I feel that I'll be able to do some coaching on the floor that's beneficial since I am from a different program," he said. "And since I have some new ideas, I think I'll be of some benefit there also.

"But I realize that right now recruiting is so important to any major college basketball program. I know that I'll be spending a lot of time on the road. And I'm sure that if we can get good players, we'll have good teams," he said.

Altman also shares Grensing's enthusiasm for his new

"I'm excited. I've known Coach Kruger for four years, and I've known of him for quite a while, since I grew up in Nebraska and I watched him play when he was playing for K-State. I'm excited about it...I have complete confidence in Coach Kruger, and I know that he'll get the job done."

New K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger (right) returns "home" to lead the Wildcats with assistant coaches Greg Grensing and Dana Altman. Grensing and Kruger each coached at Pan American University and Altman comes to Manhattan after coaching at Moberly (Mo.) Junior College.

Wildcats:

Wildcats to give public first look in early morning session

By TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

Early Wednesday morning, a new day dawns in K-State basketball. Wildcat basketball without Jack Hartman at the helm seems odd. An oddity which has left many curious to see what his successor's 'Cats will look like. New head coach Lon Kruger is offering the earliest opportunity possible for the curious to come and see his version of K-State basketball.

It all kicks off tonight - or actually Wednesday morning at 12:01 a.m. - in Ahearn Field House when Kruger's team opens practice in the first minute which the National Collegiate Athletic Association

Festivities will kick off before then, around 11:30 tonight, with the cheerleaders and pep band warming up the crowd, but the real action starts the next day. The day the Lon Kruger era of K-State basketball begins. Here is a player-by-player look at Kruger's

- Charles Bledsoe, a 6-foot-7 junior forward. Bledsoe brings the Wildcats some valued size for play around the basket. Bledsoe proved at Moberly (Mo.) Junior College he is capable of ripping off the baseline jumper, but his real talents are in his abilities to pull down rebounds.

- Howard Bonser, a 6-foot-11 freshman center. Bonser is a Manhattan native, but this is only his fourth year of playing organized basketball. Kruger said he had made the most progress of any of his players during the off-season conditioning.

Norris Coleman, a 6-foot-8 sophomore forward. Those who know basketball, know how good of a player Coleman is. Coleman is in court this morning having his fate decided. He is requesting a restraining order which will allow him to play despite an NCAA ruling. The NCAA contacted K-State Monday and said Coleman will be allowed to practice with his teammates this season, despite their prior ruling.

Fabio deAlmedia, a 6-foot-6 sophomore guard-forward. DeAlemdia, a Brazilian, follows Kruger from Pan American University where he previously coached. He will be forced to redshirt this season, but Kruger said he believes deAlmedia will become a top-notch player once he adjusts to the American style of basketball.

Mark Dobbins, a 6-foot-5 sophomore guard-forward. Dobbins spent two seasons under Hartman and now promises to bust loose under Kruger. Kruger said he believes his off-season work might just have made him K-State's finest outside shooter.

- Percy Eddie, a 6-foot-8 senior forward. Kruger is hoping Eddie can learn to play within himself. If so, Kruger is confident the explosive forward will be a vital part of this Wildcat team.

Steve Henson, a 6-foot-1 freshman guard. Henson comes to K-State after racking up numerous high school athletic honors in McPherson. Despite being just over 6-foot, this point guard enjoys playing above the rim with the big boys.

Michael McCraeven, a 6-foot-2 junior guard. K-State's second Army veteran, the 24-year-old McCraeven transfers from Kaskaskia (Ill.) Junior College where Kruger became impressed with his mature floor leadership.

- Ron Meyer, a 6-foot-9 junior center. A late season knee injury put Meyer's future in jeopardy, but he bounced back. Now, he will miss three to four weeks of practice due to an ankle operation to remove a bone chip.

Mark Nelson, a 6-foot junior guard. Nelson tranfers from Independence Community College and will give the 'Cats depth at the point guard position.

- Mitch Richmond, a 6-foot-5 junior guardforward. Another Moberly transfer, Richmond brings with him lofty credentials. A first-team all-junior college All-American guard, Richmond promises to be an explosive force for the Wildcats on both ends of the floor.

William Scott, a 6-foot-3 junior guard. State Fair (Mo.) Junior College has now sent K-State two pure shooting guards. His coach at State Fair though, believes Scott is a better shooter than his predecessor Joe Wright.

 Lance Simmons, a 6-foot-5 sophomore forward. No one from last year's team made more progress than Simmons and Kruger believes Simmons is just now discovering his

- Lynn Smith, a 5-foot-11 senior guard. Smith's leadership impresses Kruger. He will start practice at the point of the K-State

NL game delayed; AL series returns to Boston

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - Whenever California Manager Gene Mauch listens, he hears the words. Wherever the Boston Red Sox look, they see them.

Choke. Curse. Collapse. Ugly sounding, but labels that whichever one loses the American League playoffs this week will have to live with for another winter. No Mauch-led team has reached the World Series in his 25 years of major league managing, the longest such streak ever. His 1964 Philadelphia Phillies blew it in the final week. His 1982 Angels fell apart in the playoffs. California was within one strike of making the trip this October when it squandered a three-run lead in the ninth inning Sunday and eventually lost a chance to win the team's first "Monkey, are you on my back again?" Mauch said recently when asked about the spell.

Mauch and the Angels, still leading the best-of-seven series 3-2, get another try to break the jinx Tuesday night in Game Six at Fenway Park. Kirk McCaskill, the Game Two loser, will be opposed by Boston's Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, the loser in the third

In New York, National League President Chub Feeny called off Monday's Game Five of the National League Playoffs between the Mets and Houston because of rain.

The game was rescheduled for 12:05 p.m. (CDT) today, but the National Weather Service has forecasted a 100 percent chance of rain for the New York area. A rainout today will postpone the game until noon Wedensday.

New York and the Astros are tied in the best-of-seven series with two

California rookie first baseman Wally Joyner, who hit .455 in the first three games but missed the next two when hospitalized by a bacterial infection in his lower right leg, made the trip to Boston and is expected to Boston again will be trying to avoid elimination, having staved it off in Sunday's 7-6 victory in 11 innings. The Red Sox, without a World Series championship since 1918, spent the entire regular season fighting off AL East challengers and the ghost of missed opportunities past, before narrowly escaping a wipeout along the California coast. Sunday, Anaheim Stadium was adorned with more than a dozen banners recalling Boston's inability to win big games in previous seasons.

"Actually, there must have been 15 signs like that around the park," Red Sox designated hitter Don Baylor said. "I saw them, but anyone who knows this club knows we are not choking."

Yet anyone who saw the Red Sox lose Saturday night would have said differently. Boston was only three outs from tying the series 2-2 when dominating Roger Clemens let a 3-0 lead slip away in the ninth inning and the Angels won 4-3 in the 11th.

But, in the ebb and flow of playoff baseball, the tide quickly turned back against Mauch on Sunday. California's best pitcher, Mike Witt, took a 5-2 lead into the ninth inning before Baylor hit a two-run homer with one out.

'Cats' women's team beats Kansas indoors

By The Collegian Staff

While the men's team was placing fourth, the K-State women's soccer team saw some action of their own at last weekend's Ed Chartrand Memorial College Soccer Tournament.

Despite the only official competition in the tourney being for men, the K-State women and the women's team from Kansas played an exhibition. K-State rallied from behind to beat the Jayhawks 4-3. Poor weather forced Sunday's match indoors, an occurrence which frightened Coach Doug Schmidt. "I was pretty worried, but we adapted well to the indoor game. Some of our girls had played indoors in Kansas City and St. Louis, but we've never practiced indoors," Schmidt said.

KU jumped to an early 2-0 lead, but the Wildcats struck back scoring four straight goals to grab the lead for good.

All four goals by the Wildcats were scored by different team members, but Linda McPheron scored in her fifth straight game for the 'Cats.

'Village' provides shelter for children

By LAURA HACKLEY Collegian Reporter

It's a typical day. A 9-year-old girl fidgets with her notebook as she waits for the bell at school.

When she gets home she runs outside to play. She gets called in for dinner, and after dessert does her homework, washes up and gets tucked into bed for a safe night's sleep.

Such goes a typical day even for a child at the Villages in Topeka, where the family is a set of foster parents and the other children who have been brought to the Villages.

The Villages, Inc. is a non-profit organization founded in 1964 in Topeka by Dr. Karl Menninger. The purpose of the Villages is to provide permanent homes for homeless, neglected, abused and deserted children between the ages of 6 and 18.

Eagle Ridge Village, the pilot project, is a group of five homes located four miles west of 'ropeka. The Villages was orginally started as a precautionary measure, said Herb Callison, director of the Eagle Ridge Village.

"Karl Menninger noticed there were a lot of children going through and live in an open environment. the courts with a lack of alternatives so the Villages are designed to create families and homes for these kids before they're sitting in courtrooms," Callison said. Costs for the construction of the homes are paid by contributions from private donors and foundations. Although founded by Menninger, the Villages is completely independent of the Menninger Foun-

The daily operating expenses for the care of the children in the Villages homes are assumed primarily by the state and county that refers the child. Currently, the cost per child per day does not exceed $37 at any Villages home. This is approximately half the cost for any state-operated children's institution.

Most of the children are referred by the state, county, and city welfare departments. They are children who have been neglected, dclinquent or in need of supervision. The average age of the children is 15 and several of the children at the Villages also have a sister or brother who lives there. The children attend public schools

Many of the children have left the Villages and become very successful, Callison said. There are former Village children that have graduated from college or completed vocational training.

The family situation that is created at the Villages starts with houseparents. Each houseparent applicant is screened carefully, Callison said.

The newest houseparents are Diane and Mitch Friesz. Diane had been working for the Villages for more than a year before she became a houseparent and Mitch had been doing volunteer work for The Freisz's are houseparents at one of the two coed houses. There are two houses at the Villages that are strictly for boys and one other house that is only girls. A full house consists of eight children, but there can be special approval for 10 in a

"We have a good bunch of kids," Diane said.

Some of the children are brought to the Villages by their parents because the parents were not able to handle them anymore. Others are brought to the Villages after being taken away from their parents.

Most of the children have regular visits with their parents, but if the visits start to upset the children they will be stopped. The parents of the children that were taken away from them can get the children back eventually if the parents can prove that they will provide a stable loving home for the children. If this does not happen, the children are eventually placed up for adop-

The children who come to the Villages as teen-agers usually are not adopted and stay there until they graduate high school or turn 18. Once the kids reach a point where they are ready to leave the Villages, there are a number of assistance programs through the Villages to help them.

There is a house in Topeka where graduates can stay until they find a job. There is also a college fund set up to help when the children want to go to college. Eighty-two percent of the former residents have graduated from high school.

Many of the former residents come back and visit the Villages on a regular basis.

Officials deny sailors U.S. port shore leave

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, N.J. - Merchant seamen from Third World countries are increasingly being denied shore leave in the United States because immigration officials fear they may jump ship and stay on as illegal aliens, advocates of seafarer's rights

Many spend days or weeks confined to their vessels, after months at sea, while fellow crewmen or officers walk ashore, selectively granted permits by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"To tell a man that he can't get off a ship and call home, or take care of relatively mundane kind of personal matters, I think it is an extraordinary hardship, and I think it is uncalled for," said Michael Solar, a Houston attorney specializing in admiralty law who has represented a number of seamen's unions.

The most commonly excluded seamen come from Bangladesh, India, Sri Lanka and Latin American nations, seamen's advocates said. East Indians are more frequently excluded, they say, because they often speak English and can more easily assimilate.

"When you consider the countries involved, I think it's a subtle form of racism," said Solar.

INS spokesman Vern Jervis, based in Washington, said 563 "willful violators" of shore leave permits were arrested in 1985 out of 1.3 million illegal aliens apprehended nationwide.

Nearly a dozen lawyers and port chaplains interviewed nationwide said INS policy on shore leaves is unfair, causes unnecessary hardship and, at worst, is racist. Many, however, said they did not oppose the service's intent and conceded that on occasion mariners do stay ashore. INS inspectors boarding arriving cargo ships have the right to deny any foreign national permission to disembark. Once ashore, a seaman can be sent back aboard if an officer considers him a risk to jump ship, according to U.S. law. INS officials say limiting shore leaves is necessary to fight the influx of illegal aliens and that they have been granted broad powers by Congress to control entry by aliens who would take jobs from Americans. "The discretion invested in the inspector is overwhelming," said Edwin Rubin, a Newark immigration attorney and national treasurer of the American Immigration Lawyer's Association. "There's no hearing, no due process."

He said an inspector's decision can be based on such factors as the ship's record, the reputation of the crew member's nationality, or whether the voyage is the mariner's first. Even seamen with years of experience and excellent records are

"The criteria for detention is likelihood to abscond," said James Puleo, INS deputy director in Newark, one of the nation's busiest

There are "certain nationalities" that officers restrict on the basis of their experience, he said. "That's the criteria we use anywhere.'

At a mid-September meeting of the International Christian Maritime Association in Green Bay, Wis., 150 port chaplains approved a resolution calling for shore-leave reform.

Scientists share Nobel for cell research

TELL MUTUAL OF OMAHA NO

PURRR

UNIFORMS

CAN DO!

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Sweden -An Italian-American biologist and an American biochemist won the 1986 Nobel Prize in medicine Monday for their discovery of key proteins that appear to orchestrate the body's growth from the first moments in the womb until degeneration and death.

The prize was awarded jointly to Rita Levi-Montalcini, director of the cellular biology laboratory at the National Council of Scientific Research in Rome, and Stanley Cohen of Vanderbilt University School of Medicine in Nashville, Tenn.

I DON'T

Garfield

DOES OPUS STILL THINK

MARLIN

PERKINS ?

HE'S THE LATE

Bloom County

Stockholm's Karolinska Institute said their discovery of substances regulating cell growth "opened new fields of widespread importance."

As a result, the Nobel committee said, "we may increase our understanding of many disease states such a developmental malformations, degenerative changes in senile dementia, delayed wound healing and tumor diseases."

The two researchers will share a cash stipend of $290,000.

Levi-Montalcini, 77, and Cohen, 63, worked together in the 1950s at Washington University in St. Louis,

WHY, HELLO, GARFIELR WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN ALL PAY?

WE CAN'T, SIR .. WE DON'T HAVE COSTUMES

challer

the storm

3 Trudge

5 Papal

6 Fetid

7 Print

units

9 Incite writer

10 Charitable

21 "Dragon-

court

Nobel Assembly of Mo. At the time, she was a biology professor and he was her assistant, said university spokesman Fred Volkmann.

"I lucked out," Cohen told a news conference in Nashville. "I made them (the discoveries) while I was studying something else.'

Levi-Montalcini, who holds dual American and Italian citizenships, said she was "so very happy." She said she would continue to work and give the prize money to young scholars of neurobiology.

In 1952, she discovered the nerve growth factor, or NGF, the first substance known to regulate the

GET ME A BUCKET

By Berke Breathed

I'M 103 YEARS OLD.

I HATE

By Jim Davis

UNDER

YOUR CAR

By Charles Schulz

WHATEVER

growth of cells. She showed that when tumors from mice were transplanted to chicken embryos they induced rapid growth of the embryonic nervous system. She concluded that the tumor released a nerve-growth promoting factor that affected certain types of cells.

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Deadline is noon the day before publication;

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not after the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They an be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-capped accessible. (1-52)

JOIN THE

The Kansas Army National Guard needs you! If you're a High School Junior, Senior, or Grad, between the ages of 17 and 35, you can become part of the IRRESISTIBLE

*$2,000 Cash Bonus

*$10,000 Student Loan Repayment

Repayment Program

SFC Don Hash (913)537-4108 day (913)537-2478 night

NEW OIL controlling skin conditioner especially for oily skin. Mary Kay Cosmetics, Janet Milliken. 539-9469. (27-36)

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Irresistible Force:

FORCE

*$5,040 New G.I. Bill

*$20,000 Health Profession Loan

*And Earn Over $1,200 per year Part-Time

For Information Call:

By Eugene Sheffer

eanuts

WE SHOULD ORGANIZE A

FOOTBALL TEAM, MARCIE

ACROSS 41 Sesame 1 Bugle call 42 Madison Ave. pro-Sebastian ductions 8 Gem stone 45 Owl's call 46 "Rosemary's

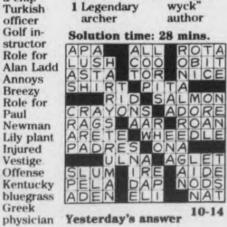

Fitz-Baby' author 48 Part of A.D. 14 Old Greek 49 Adams or

Ameche 50 Rival of author Las Vegas 51 Numerical tiller 18 Guided

53 Expanded DOWN

structor 23 Role for Alan Ladd 26 Annoys 30 Breezy 31 Role for Paul Newman

33 Injured 35 Vestige. 36 Offense 37 Kentucky

2 Away from 22 Vegetable 23 Woeful 4 "The Bridge 24 Hawk parrot

Luis Rey" 25 Fortify 26 Immature flower 27 High note 28 Legendary bird 8 "Pal Joey" 29 Understand

31 Syllable

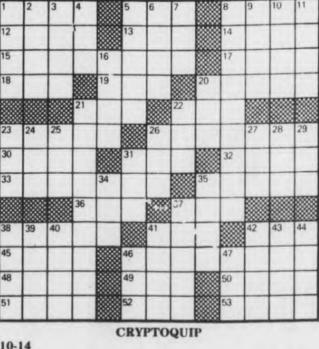

before

suffix gift coop 52 Commotion 11 Tall trees or peck 53 Expanded 16 Inclination 34 Juniper 20 Linkletter beverage 35 Bridge charge 37 Liberace's

instrument

India 39 First 40 Solitary 41 Walked heavily 42 Affirm 43 Wine and -44 Skier's hope

46 Greek peak 47 Work unit

10-14

LR M YLDWXMG, ILPC JLLX XWPCWDDTFG PCMZZTFP

JTC CWIT MRX M ZWZCY." Yesterday's Cryptoquip: DROOPING BASEBALL BATTER TO BARTENDER: "NO HIGHBALLS, PLEASE."

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m., Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

SINGLE PARENTS Group will meet Tuesday evenings. Childcare provided. Call Women's Resource Center for information, 532-6444. (35-36)

02

ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

FOR RENT-MISC RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment, 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537 1329 (1811)

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Putnam Hall, 1308 N. Manhattan, $195. Call 539-7521 or 776-7045. (30-36)

QUIET. WELL-maintained, one bedroom furnished apartment in modern complex, two blocks west of campus. Laundry, patio, parking facilities. $216/ month. November 1 lease, deposit. No pets, waterbads. Prefer non-smoking graduate student, research assistant or mature employed adult.
5.37 -686 for application and information. (34-39)

ONE BEDROOM basement apartment, unfurnished. two blocks east Aggieville. Available December 1. Gall 539-1498. (35tf)

FOR SALE-AUTO 1966 CHEVY Van-1973 motor, many new parts

$1,700 or best offer 539-0104 or 539-2637. (32-36) 1978 DATSUN — Excellent, new tires, brakes, engine tuned-up, AM/FM. Call 537-8799 after 5:30 p.m. (32-

1978 T-BIRD—Blue, power steering, power brakes, stereo, very clean. Call 539-9044, ask for Kendall (33-37) 1971 VW Station Wagon-automatic, dependable

$875. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (33tf) 1981 CHEVETTE—Four-speed, air conditioning, AM-FM radio, excellent condition, 50,000 miles, $2,300. Call 539-0567 or 537-1107. (34-38)

1976 CAMARO Rally Sport, 350 V-8-Automatic, power brakes, power steering, air conditioning, AM-FM cassette. 537-3942. (35-36) 1977 CUTLASS Supreme-AM/FM, air, runs good. best offer. Call 776-9881 after 6 p.m. (36-38)

1979 FORD Mustang-76,000 miles, runs good.

$2,000. Call 537-0401 before 8 p.m. (36-40) FOR SALE-MISC ALPINE 7374, 5900, 3317, 8101, Harman Kardon CA260, CA240. Hatchback box speaker. Best

537-4347. (32-36)

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 1/4 lb. Hamburger, 1/2 order curly fries and medium drink for $2 equipment available. Reasonable offers. Robert,

Exp. Date 10/19 (with coupon) PRAIRIE HAY, $1.50 per bale, will deliver. Call Doug, 532-6767 or Wamego, 1-456-7491. (33-37)

ESCORT RADAR Warning Receiver with visor mounts, hook and loop, and suction cups. Coil and regular power cords, carrying case and all the extras plus stop warning, $175. Call 776-6748. (35-37)

Hayes House of Music Guitar Strings and Drumsticks -

BUY ONE SET & GET SECOND SET 1/2 PRICE 327 Poyntz 776-7983

REVERSIBLE LEATHER/suede ladies jacket, size 14. WALNUT, ROUND glass-top coffee table. 776-9881

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 69¢ 1/4 Hamburger

Exp. Date 10/19 (with coupon) 537-3335

YAMAHA CR-1020 receiver, 70 watts per channel, excellent condition. Why pay more for comparable new one, $250. Call 776-2480. (36-39)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 1982 KAWASAKI GPz550-New chain/sprocket

HELP WANTED 3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59.230

(26-64) OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year around. Europe South America, Australia, Asia. All fields $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information Write IJC, PO. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar. CA 92625. (27-46)

year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701

LAB ASSISTANTS for Pathology Laboratory Part time, 1-6 p.m. and full-time 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Send qualifications to Peterson Clinical Laboratory, P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, Ks. 66502, EOE (31-37) WORK STUDY student secretary. Accurate typing

clerical skills. Learn word processing, database programs. $3.50 plus depending on experience See/call Pam, Center for Aging, Fairchild #1, 532 5945. (33-39)

WANTED MALE or female for part-time position dairy help. Call 1-944-3641. (34-38)

THINKING OF taking some time off from school? We need Mother's Helpers. Household duties and childcare. Live in exciting New York City suburbs Room, board, salary included 203-622-0717 or 914-273-1626 (36-38)

WANTED—MAINTENANCE man—(plumbing), for occasional small repair jobs. 537-0428 (36-38) MODELS NEEDED for drawing classes at KSU Gall 532-6605, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. (36-39)

PERSONAL

DELT GREG: Eight months already and we're still go ing steady. You're so funny and you're all mine honey! Love, Scruppy. (36)

TO DTD Sean: I hope we have a great time and a fun year! Love. your Dot. (36) CHI-O LANA-You've got a big brother who thinks the world of you, but finding my identity is the job you must do. As a treat today I thought I'd give you a clue. I'm a sophomore this year, and a legacy too ALPHA XI Freeman-You're a great little sis and we'll have lots of fun, but finding my identity is jub number one. I'm a sophomore this year, and as a

Sig in this house, I'm the second one (36) KD FOOTBALL Players-We'll be rooting for you at the TKE Powder-Puff football game. AOT, the mem bers. (36) DELTA Tau Delta Rich and Boz-From what we remember, Thursday night was fun. When it comes to Pop/Dot partying, we showed 'em how it's done!

Love - Dawn and Leah (36)

TRISH-HAD a great time last weekend! I really care for you! Love, Mike. (36) AD Pi Sneakers: Melvin and the Mud were so fun Thanks, the Sr. Sneakers-Teresa, JoJo. Debbie and Mianne. (36) TO THE sexy men of Tau Kappa Epsilon - You're fantastic! Looking forward to good times during Homecoming '86! Love, Chi-Omega's, (36) TRI DELTAS Susan N. and Tammy M.—Congrats on being selected as Greek newspaper staff writers) You'll do a great job! Love, the other Deltas. (36) MARK M., Chuck Pand Ged P.-Watch out, Rico is right behind you! (36) PHI KAPS—We can do anything if we just put our minds to it. Swammie. (36)

ROOMMATE WANTED: Responsible, non-smoker for nice two bedroom apartment, completely fur nished, fireplace and dishwasher. In quiet neigh borhood. Call 537-9439. (33-37)

ROOMMATE WANTED

ROOM FOR rent in two bedroom at 238 Westwood, yard/parking, $145/month plus utilities. Quiet neighborhood. 539-3835. (34-37) VERY NICE two bedroom apartment, $100 rent. Stop by 1019 Bluemont anytime after 1 p.m. Monday-

Friday. (35-39) MALE-$95/month plus utilities. Call 539-5196 before 10 a.m. and after 7 p.m. (36-40) SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential, Call 537-9180, 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25, (11f) MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free Clini cally tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Pro-

ckish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf) RESUMES. COVER letters, and newsletters profes sionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf) FREE SET of spark plugs with a tune-up on your import car at J & L Auto Service. Call 1-494-2388, St

George (offer ends October 15, 1986). (29-37)

WORKING ON a paper? Word processing, reason able rates. Laura, 532-2362, room 131. Call for information. (33-37) WORD PROCESSING and Laser Printing. Call 539-6774 after 5:30 p.m. (36-39)

WRITING A paper? Word processing, near letter quality, editing, reasonable rates. Laura, 532-2362 (#131), leave message. (36-40)

t: r rossword 5 Runner

> 12 Singer gerald 13 German coin 15 "Mila 18" 17 Wheel or

19 Free 20 Chips in a chip 21 Turkish 22 Golf in-32 Lily plant

bluegrass

38 Mountain

Today's Cryptoquip clue: D equals L

Travel

Continued from Page 1

tion Commission, reached to $210,375 in FY86.

That is about $60,000 over the amount spent last year, or a nearly 40 percent jump. Legislators defend their travel as necessary to drum up new jobs and business for Kansas and to educate lawmakers and their staff members on issues and problems facing state government.

Gov. John Carlin and his staff spent $50,759 in the 1986 fiscal year, double the amount spent the previous year. Included in the governor's list of travel was a trip to China, billed as a trade mission to open new markets for the sale of Kansas products, and a similar visit to Europe with a delegation of legislative leaders.

Attorney General Robert T. Stephan and others in his office, including the Kansas Bureau of Investigation, made 156 trips outside of Kansas at a cost of $58,104 - a 55 percent increase over the previous year.

Secretary of State Jack Brier reported a drop in the amount spent. $7,946, even though the number of trips jumped from 18 to 28.

Insurance Commissioner Fletcher Bell and his agency made 77 trips at a cost of $40,013 - a 20 percent hike over last year.

State Treasurer Joan Finney and those in her employ made 21 trips in FY86, a decrease from the previous year, and spent $8,557, which also was considerably less than the $12,806 spent in 1985. Both are modest amounts compared to other offices. She has come under fire recently in her re-election campaign for her travel at taxpayers expense.

Reporters to review troop withdrawal

By The Associated Press

Editor's note: A group of foreign journalists arrived in Afghanistan's capital Monday, under the auspices of the Afghan Embassy in Moscow and Soviet Foreign Ministry, to observe the withdrawal of some Soviet troops.

KABUL, Afghanistan - Soldiers with machine guns line the streets and showers of flares are fired to deflect heat-seeking missiles launched by Moslem rebels. Kabul abounds with signs of the war the Soviet Union is helping its ally fight.

Afghan officials say there have been no attacks in the capital for years, but the distant rumble of artillery fire could be heard as lights came on Monday in the low earthen houses spread between two craggy mountain ranges. Flares falling from approaching aircraft made sprays of white light.

About 90 foreign journalists, most from the Soviet Union and its East European allies, were invited on the tour to witness the withdrawal of six Soviet regiments beginning Wednes-

Kremlin officials have not disclosed the number of men involved, but various estimates place it at 5,000-8,000 of the estimated 115,000 troops now in Afghanistan to fight the Moslem rebels. The Soviet Union intervened in the mountainous neighboring country in December

The Aeroflot TU-154 jet carrying the journalists from Moscow approached the Kabul airport at unusually high speed.

Six camouflaged helicopter gun-ships rose to meet it at several thousand feet, trailing flares that were apparently intended to protect the passenger plane from new Stinger anti-aircraft missiles rebel groups are said to have acquired. Ghafar Gerami of the Afghan government news agency Bakhtar, a tour organizer, said Kabul "has no problems with attacks or raids."

Although avoiding any mention of danger in the city, he would not let three Western journalists take a walk because "it is not a good idea to leave the hotel without an interpreter. As a rule, during your stay, you must accept this.'

A Soviet journalist who said he has visited Kabul for 25 years and lived here in the early 1980s said: "Every man in the city has a gun. That's why it's not a good idea. No one knows who they will shoot."

Lookouts were posted atop jagged hills that rise dramatically around Kabul's flat expanse, manning armored turrets and old fortress towers or gathered around camp-

Kabul's streets had a sense of urgency during the day. Women wearing full-length blue, gold or brown veils scurried to and from dusty shops.

Soldiers lined the main streets, fingers always near the triggers of their machine guns. Sentry boxes stand on most corners and outside some larger, more modern houes protected with rolls of barbed wire.

Old men with turbans squatted in doorways and under the city's few trees. Many children peered between soldiers who watched the journalists' caravan, which clearly had been well-publicized.

Of the few cars traveling the streets, more were Western-made than Soviet, and many shop windows had signs in English.

Sarwar Yourish, deputy Afghan foreign minister, told journalists Monday night they would visit three areas to "participate in the partial withdrawal of the limited military contingent of the Soviet Union." He gave no details.

Reagan

Continued from Page 1

he feels the Soviets must be convinced that "...SDI is not a threat to Soviet missiles on the ground. SDI is not a threat to the Russian population. It is simply a defense against weapons that have been launched. It is more important to put weapons at risk, not people.'

In advance of Reagan's primetime speech, members of Congress, former high-ranking government officials and foreign leaders weighed in with varying views of the president's performance in Reykjavik.

Reagan's handling of the arms control issues drew mixed reviews among members of Congress, although the comments generally followed party lines.

Tax

JOHN CLUB

418 Poyntz

Continued from Page 1

departments. This included colleges in the University and various groups. The money was used for scholarships within the colleges, supplementing state funds when there were not enough, purchasing computers and funding non-competitive faculty awards, Longberg said. The second largest percent of the donated money was spent on scholarships. The remaining was divided between the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and the Fred Bramlage Coliseum.

> COTTON LUB

more

Reciprocals

Downtown

Than Showcase

Summit

Continued from Page 1 negotiators will return to Geneva with instructions to build upon the progress made in Reykjavik. Britain's representative at the Shultz meeting, Foreign Office Minister of State Tim Renton, told a news conference "Now we must maintain the momentum. ...It is not the end of the play. We hope to take up the next act quickly." Renton gave Reagan "full marks" for his Reykjavik effort. West Germany's foreign minister, Hans-Dietrich Genscher, said, "We absolutely have to keep on talking. There can be no standstill. We must pursue talks on the basis of Reykjavik. Everybody agrees the meeting was right and useful because many positions came closer, which one day might form the basis for an agreement."

Foreign Minister Giulio Andreotti of Italy denied some European press assessment that Reykjavik was a failure, saying, "More was done in Reykjavik than was thinkable. Why was there no conclusion? Because everyone knew that conclusions would come from the real summit."

Shultz, however, was not optimistic about prospects for a second full-scale superpower summit, which many Europeans had hoped would be

THE ICECREAM

SOCIAL

Makes old-fashioned ice cream treats-

still America's #1

dairy treat. You'll love

our atmosphere.

Try our

soft-serve.

1314 Westloop

arranged in Reykjavik. He said no date was set and "No active planning is being made."

Leo Tindemans, Belgian foreign minister, said, "After Reykjavik there have to be possibilities to achieve results within a reasonable time. ... We are now in a phase that permits results to be achieved.

"Yesterday I was not too optimistic and today I am not too pessimistic," Tindemans added.

TANNING SESSIONS No Purchase Limit 519 N. 12th Offer Ends Oct. 14 (Next to Domino's)

Aggieville business loses money, jewelry in theft

By The Collegian Staff

On Aug. 8, 1986, an unidentified person or persons burglarized a business in the 1100 block of Moro. Police reports said entry was gained by forcing open the rear door. Once inside, the suspects went to the office where they located a small safe.

Once the suspects had forced open the safe, its entire contents were taken.

Stolen was one 18-carat gold men's watchband with turquois stones on either side of a Timex watch; one pair of sunglasses with dark yellow lenses; three Kansas State Bank bags and U.S. currency.

Total loss in the burglary was

HUNAM EXPRESS

SOFT-EXTENDED

SOFT BIFOCAL

WEAR FOR SLEEPING

OR DAMAGED LENSES

FAST REPLACEMENT OF LOST

PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE

(eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

537-0886

On Aug. 19, forceful entry was again made to the business. Loss in the incident consisted of $25 damage to the office door and window.

Open 7 days a week 22 2 19 2 19

. SOFT-TINTED TO ENHANCE

SOFT FOR ASTIGMATISM

• FLEX-OXYGEN PERMEABLE

YOUR EYE COLOR

FREE CONSULTATION

Drs. Price, Young and Odle, P.A.

Optometrists

All Types of Contact Lenses

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

Persons having information on Tom or this or any crime are asked to call Crime Stoppers at 539-7777. Callers, who may call collect, need not identify themselves and may receive a cash reward of up 4-7 p.m.

Ramada Inn

TUESDAY 99¢

Gin or Vodka Tonic John Collins FREE Munchies

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

IVAN SAND A Proven Record

Supported

→ KSU Faculty and Staff Pay Raises

► State Water Plan - Reorganization of the Court System

Accessibility for the Handicapped in Apartments and Motels

Farm relief and Farm Credit Legislation

The Deciding Difference Vote IVAN SAND

Republican Representative 66th District Paid by Re-elect Ivan Sand Committee, Charlotte Shawver, Treas.

TONIGHT All drinks

Any name Any brand

539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

THE SHOE FACTORY

431 Town East Center just cast of Food 4 Less 539-0363

NOW OPEN! Quality Ladies shoes

at reduced prices.

* Many Name Brands

'Entire stock not yet in, but come in and compare our prices!"

Watch for our Grand Opening.

Hours Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

MEXICAN BEER NITE TUES!

 Mexican Beer $1.25 All Imports

$1.25

Baby Back Rib Nite Only $4.95 Tuesdays!

Haircuts Includes Shampoo & Style

537-1118

1119 WEST LOOP PLAZA

NO APPOINTMENT NECESSARY Mon.-Sat. 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Thursday night til 8 p.m.

539-TAME 539-8601

Perms, Colors, Design Cuts, Manicures & Nails

2-For-1 Thursdays

Bring in a friend and split the cost of a Design Cut on Thursdays with this coupon.

Mon.-Fri. 8-8, Sat 8-5

Expires 10/31/86

GARAGE SALE

Thousands of dollars of home—car—video will be put on sale starting Noon, Wednesday, Oct. 15. All items will be sold on a cash basis. No layaway. No returns. All items limited to store stock.

Sample List Sale Reg. Maxell XLII90 2 pack cassette tape $8.00 $3.99 Alpine Top of Line 7374 AM-FM cassette 900.00 540.00 Bring Your Old Needle and get A New Needle 9.95 99¢ 70.00 Alpine Burglar Alarm 42.00 130.00 Bel Radar Detector 79.00 169.00 99.00 Clarion Digital AM-FM cassette Akai VHS video recorder onscreen programming 400.00 289.00 Luxman turntable, linear tracking, save 1/2 210.00 135.00 100.00 79.00 Sony Designer Walkman 1000.00 pr. 238.00 each Bose 601, direct reflect loudspeaker Advent Prodigy 2 way loudspeaker 420.00 pr. 199.00 pr.

STARTS NOON WEDNESDAY, OCT. 15

1126 Moro, Aggieville

776-5507

Kansas State University

Ice Cream Formal

Ice cream, no longer a runof-the-mill dessert, can be quite fashionable. See Page

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, highs upper 50s to mid-60s. Mostly clear tonight, lows mid-30s to around 40.

Sports

Midnight Moves

Mansas State Historical Soc

Basketball coach Lon Kruger starts up the '86 season with a practice at 12:01 a.m. today in Ahearn Field House. See Page 12.

56612

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Wednesday

October 15, 1986

Volume 93, Number 37

Leaders blame summit failure on each other

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev blamed each other Tuesday for their inability to strike an arms reduction deal in Iceland, but agreed that too much is at stake to fold the arms control bargaining

Recalling his description of Iceland as a base camp leading to a summit, Reagan said, "I believe there exists the opportunity to plant a permanent flag of peace at that summit, and I call on the Soviets not to miss this opportunity."

Gorbachev, in a nationally broadcast address to the Soviet people, accused Reagan of trying to push his country into an expensive new arms buildup. But Gorbachev also said that negotiations cannot be abandoned. He did say, however, the next move is up to the United States.

The intercontinental verbal crossfire came two days after the pair, in a bittersweet climax to a weekend of intensive talks, grimly bade one another farewell in the darkness outside a white clapboard house in Reykjavik.

"The American people don't mistake the absence of a final agreement for the absence of progress. We made progress. We must be patient. We made historic advances. We will not turn back," Reagan said in a Gorbachev said the meeting was useful, but foundered on Reagan's refusal to give up "Star Wars," the space-based missile defense system. He said he remained optimistic that the superpowers have not reached the end of the road in their efforts to agree on arms control.

Reagan said the Kremlin overplayed its hand in seeking to get him to scrap "Star Wars," the system known formally as Strategic Defense Initiative, which the president says is vital to America's

The Americans "put good, fair ideas on the table, and they won't go away," Reagan said, but he also said the Soviet Union "has long been engaged in extensive" efforts to devise its own strategic defense

Reagan said the Soviet proposal to confine Star Wars research to the laboratory "would have given them

See SUMMIT, Page 13

Dennis Brutus, an exiled South African activist and poet, speaks Tuesday

ed issues regarding the United States and South Africa Tuesday at the se-

University outpost generates increase in registered voters

By The Collegian Staff

More than half of all who registered to vote in the Student Government Services Office waited until the last day to do so.

Of the 1,090 people registering to vote, 576 barely beat the 5 p.m. Tuesday deadline.

Jennifer Johnston, secretary in the SGS office, said the percentage of K-State students registering to vote "has definitely increased this year."

Johnston said offering a registration outpost on campus probably contributed to the number of students registering.

"There has been a lot of county switching with all the students registering," Johnston said. "I imagine that all those that register to vote, will vote with all the issues in this election."

Johnston said the campus outpost will not close after the registration

"We will register people tomorrow, but they just can't vote in November," she said. "The campus outpost will remain open, and we will be registering voters throughout the

The city and county clerk's offices were open until 9 p.m. Tuesday.

"Registration is heavy all over the county, but I'm not saying that today (Tuesday) will be our heaviest day, said Wanda Coder, Riley County

Coder said in the past more than 900 people registered in one day at the Riley County Courthouse.

during a press conference in the Union Conference room. Brutus address-cond University Convocation in McCain Auditorium.

S. African activist rejects U.S. policy

By JEFFREY J. BIELSER Staff Writer

Ultimately, there will be majority rule in South Africa, and the United States has the deciding power over when that rule will take place, said Dennis Brutus Tuesday at the second University Convoca-

Brutus, an exiled South African activist and poet, said U.S. support of the apartheid system in South Africa is the major obstacle to majority rule in that country, and until that support is withdrawn, apartheid will continue.

'The struggle will continue until the people of South Africa are free," Brutus said. "The question is, who does the United States support, the oppressors or the oppress-

The question of U.S. support is important because the white minority government in South Africa "will lose" and the emerging government "will remember who its friends were," Brutus said.

More important to U.S. strategy planners is that they "need Pretoria as an ally for the global confrontation they are preparing for," Brutus said.

"Some people (in the U.S. government) don't say 'if there is a next war,' they say, 'when there is the next war," he said.

Sanctions against South Africa recently passed by Congress after surviving a presidential veto show the American people are "fed up" with the apartheid rule, he said. The law itself, however, is two-faced, he said. "The same law that makes it illegal to import South African steel, coal, uranium...also allows the CIA to collaborate with the South African secret police," Brutus said.

"On the counter there is a handsoff (approach) of South Africa, but, under the counter, the secret police can go on killing and arresting" with the help of intelligence provided by the CIA, he said.

The arrests and killings are evidence of the turmoil in South Africa even if some people aren't aware of it, Brutus said. Part of the reason for a lack of knowledge about conditions in South Africa is inadequate coverage by the U.S. media, Brutus said. Since June of 1986, when a state of emergency was imposed, it has been illegal to report anything until it is approved by the Bureau of Information, he said.

"Newspapers, radio and television collaborate with the government by not protesting" the restraints imposed by the state of emergency, Brutus said.

Churches in South Africa report that since June more than 20,000 people have been jailed without being charged with a crime or receiving a trial, he said. Church reports also show that 4,000 people "have completely disappeared," Brutus said.

The official government figure for those arrested since the state of emergency began is 8,000, he said. "There is a possibility that they are already dead and buried," he He said U.S. policy toward South Africa and apartheid is influenced by two areas - profit motives and strategic planning. "Corporations in South Africa say they are there to change South Africa," Brutus said. "Who are they kidding? U.S. corporations invest in South Africa, and (they are) using cheap black labor.'

Brutus said the companies are not going to lower profit margins by moving out of South Africa and starting businesses in countries with higher labor costs.

Government policy-makers in the United States also cite strategic

See BRUTUS, Page 13

Photographers to present summit slides, documentary on small town in Kansas president had the summit with (Mikhail)

By TERESA TEMME Staff Writer

Due to the efforts of a former K-State photographer, the Iceland summit will be brought first-hand in full-color to K-State

Pete Souza, White House staff photographer, will present the slides he took of the weekend summit between President Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev during a seminar in conjunction with "A Week At K-State," - a project involving a book depicting life at the University in

About 40 former K-State photographers have returned to record K-State in pictures this week for AWAKS. However, the photographers will take time out from the project for an all-day seminar today featuring presentations given by one present and several former K-State photographers who are still practicing their trades.

Dave Adams, director of Student Publications, the publisher and distributor of the AWAKS book said "One of the neat things about this seminar is Souza is coming straight back from Iceland where the Gorbachev "The overall end result was definitely disappointment," Souza said of his impressions of the summit, which broke off without an agreement. Describing the summit, Souza said, "As far as coverage of the event there is supposed to be an equal number of press passes given to the United States, the Soviet Union and Iceland...the Soviets did not fill their allotted number. There were definitely more members of the U.S. media than the Soviet." Souza said covering the Iceland summit is not that much different than covering the AWAKS project in Manhattan. "Whether I am shooting pictures in Iceland or in Manhattan, there is no difference. Souza said he enjoys covering the president because it gives him access to history, however, he said he dislikes the fact that he has "probably done more handshake photos than all the photographers here (for AWAKS) combin-

Souza said his stay in Manhattan is in theory a vacation, but said, "I will probably put in more work hours here than if I were in Washington, D.C."

Souza, who is one of the project coordinators for the event this week, said AWAKS came about because of "one of the crazy ideas" he had when he could not

"I never thought it (AWAKS) would come to this ... I never thought it would get the support it received. It is a great thing for K-State and the journalism (and mass communications) department.'

Souza said one of the main goals of AWAKS is to "put out one helluva good book with pictures that people will look at and get a feel for what K-State was like in 1986. We hope it will be something that will hold up for 50 years time.

Souza's presentation, "Photographing the President," will be at 9:30 a.m. in Mc-Cain Auditorium, following a Student Publications slideshow starting at 9:15.

At 10:30 a.m., Jim Richardson, special projects editor at the Denver Post, will give the presentation, "Documentary Photography." His presentation also includes his work titled, "Cuba, Kansas."

See SEMINAR, Page 13

NCAA representative says Coleman eligible to practice

From Staff and Wire Reports

K-State basketball star Norris Coleman was in uniform at 12:01 this morning for the "Midnight Madness" practice/scrimmage, but this doesn't mean Coleman will be in the lineup Nov. 29 in the Wildcats' season opener against South Dakota.

Coleman and his lawyer, Jeff Schemmel of Topeka, had planned to go to court at 8:30 Tuesday morning to seek a restraining order in U.S. District Court that would allow the 6-foot-8 All-Big Eight Conference forward to both practice and play for K-State. However, a representative of the National Collegiate Athletic Association contacted the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics Monday morning with the news that Coleman would be allowed to practice. Coleman still would not be allowed to play in games until the Feb. 27, 1987, date the NCAA set, but the part about Coleman not being allowed to practice was merely a misunderstanding.

After he double-checked the content of the ruling, Schemmel concluded that the request for the restraining order could be called off for the time being.

"And given that circumstance, there was no need for the restraining order," said Pat Haley, a law clerk for U.S. District Judge Richard Rogers. "We may have to deal with it later when it comes down to the games." If Coleman is to play in games for K-State prior to the Feb. 28 meeting with Oklahoma at Norman, he will have to seek and gain the restraining order.

One thing the NCAA ruling has succeeded in doing is to confuse just about everyone involved in the situation from K-State.

'They had told us in August he couldn't practice. Then they called and told us today that he could practice. That's all I know, K-State Coach Lon Kruger said Monday."

The controversy over Coleman's eligibility began when he was ruled ineligible by K-State Feb. 27 because he didn't have the necessary 2.0 grade point average upon graduation in 1979 from Paxon High School in Jacksonville, Fla. The NCAA later confirmed Coleman would remain ineligible until Feb. 27, 1987.

Coleman unsuccessfully appealed the ruling to the NCAA. The NCAA also ruled that the high-scoring Coleman, Big Eight Newcomer-of-the-Year last year, could transfer to any other school outside the Big Eight and become immediately eligible.

After visiting five schools, including traditional powerhouses Maryland, Virginia and Kentucky, Coleman elected to remain at

INTERNATIONAL

Group unveils annual rights report

LONDON - Amnesty International said it has received reports alleging human rights abuses in 128 nations last year, ranging from unarmed civilians massacred in Afghanistan and Sri Lanka to conscientious objectors jailed in Western Europe.

In its annual worldwide survey, the London-based rights group assailed what it said was the continued widespread use of arbitrary arrest to suppress political dissent, and of execution, torture and unfair trial.

In a preface, however, the group said it was encouraged by the emergence of more than 1,000 rights groups in recent years and the proliferation of laws aimed at protecting prisoners' rights.

"There is more pressure on governments and more signs that governments are reacting to that pressure," said Amnesty spokesman David Laulicht. "It becomes harder for governments to hide human rights abuses.'

The 386-page report cited purported abuses in 80 percent of the 159 U.N.-member nations during 1985.

REGIONAL

Prison crisis may halt other plans

TOPEKA - Funding for a new Kansas Highway Patrol training center and a host of other proposed construction projects may be placed on hold until the state pays for temporary housing of prison inmates, according to the chairman of a legislative building panel.

Sen. Joseph Harder, R-Moundridge, chairman of the Joint Committee on State Building Construction, said the pressing need for temporary housing to help relieve prison overcrowding may scuttle plans for nearly all other state construction projects next year.

"I don't think the building committee is going to have many decisions to make," Harder said in an interview Monday. Patrol officials have asked the panel to recommend starting construction on a new headquarters and training center in Topeka and the proposed complex also has been sought by officials in Salina, where the training center is currently located.

Eisenhower honored by I-70 sign

KANSAS CITY, Kan. - President Dwight D. Eisenhower's role in getting the U.S. interstate highway system started was recognized Tuesday with the unveiling of the first commemorative sign along the cross-country highway that bears his name.

The new sign along Interstate 70 near the Kansas-Missouri border designates Eisenhower the "Father of the Interstate Highway System.'

The signs will be placed along the Dwight D. Eisenhower Highway from Washington, D.C. to San Francisco. The first of 100 signs was unveiled at the Tourist Information Center in Kansas City, Kan., because of the Eisenhower family's ties to Abilene.

"I think the sign is really most handsome, and I think he would be enormously pleased," said Susan Eisenhower, granddaughter of the late president, who attended ceremonies.

NATIONAL

Conferees draft immigration bill

WASHINGTON - House and Senate conferees, after five hours of private horse trading, agreed Tuesday to a sweeping immigration bill aimed at reducing the rush of illegal aliens into the United

As dozens of lobbyists were relegated to the corridors outside the Senate Judiciary Committee hearing room, the lawmakers found agreement on employer sanctions, civil rights protections for Hispanics, amnesty for illegal aliens with long-term residency, and free legal services for some agricultural workers.

Negotiators announced that the House had accepted Senate language 43 times and the Senate gave up its provisions 48 times. The conference report must now be presented to both houses.

One of the issues dropped by the House was a plan to temporarily stop deportation of illegal immigrants from El Salvador and Nicaragua, until a study could be made of conditions they would face back home.

The Reagan administration threatened to veto the bill if the proposal was retained.

Enrollment trend begins to reverse

WASHINGTON - Enrollment in kindergarten and nursery schools is at record levels as births edge upward, a trend that Census Bureau officials say will shortly reverse the long-term decline in elementary school enrollment.

"In 1985 there were more children attending pre-primary school than ever before," including 2.5 million tots in nursery school and 3.8 million in kindergarten, the Census Bureau reported Tuesday. "Parents are enrolling their children at earlier ages for the educational benefits," explained statistician Rosalind Bruno of the Census Bureau. "Some people keep dismissing it as day care, but it isn't. The increase occurs among children of non-working mothers as much or more than among those of working mothers. And most nursery school is part-day, and that's not day care," added Bruno, author of Enrollment in pre-schools has grown significantly since 1965, even in the face of the so-called Baby Bust, when birth rates declined sharply.

Soviet diplomats complete exodus

WASHINGTON - All 25 Soviet diplomats the Reagan administration is expelling from the United States will have left American soil by Sunday, the State Department said Tuesday.

The deadline for the departure was to have been Tuesday but the Soviets requested - and were granted - an extension until Sunday for the five diplomats who are still in the United States, press officer Pete Martinez said.

The 25 diplomats, all based at the United Nations, have been described by administration officials as spies. The United States has ordered the departure of 105 U.N.-based Soviet diplomats by April 1, 1988, contending that the Soviet U.N. mission is excessively large and engages in spy activities.

The affected diplomats will leave in increments of about 25 at sixmonth intervals.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES BOARD 1986-87 registration forms are due in the SGS Office to-

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN needs afternoon teachers for elementary-age students. For more information, contact the main desk at UFM, 532-5560, by today.

ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL applications

STUDENT ASSOCIATION OF GRADUATES IN ENGLISH is having its annual book sale from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today through Friday in Denison

EDUCATION STUDENTS: The Rural and Small Schools Conference will be on Oct. 27 and 28. For more information, call 532-5566 between 8

TODAY

ITEMS LOST AND FOUND on campus may be claimed from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in Union

UNITED NATIONS COUNCIL meets at 7:30

NATIONAL SOCIETY OF PROFESSIONAL

SHE DUs will have a pomping party at 9:30 p.m. at the Delta Upsilon house. ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom 3. The guest speaker will be William Sutton, vice president for educational and student services.

PI TAU SIGMA will have a smoker for pledges

GRADUATING SENIORS: There will be an EIT review session sponsored by Pi Tau Sigma at 6 p.m. today and Thursday in Durland 173.

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Wednesday

$1.50

House drinks

Blended drinks

Wines

616 N. 12th 539-9967

BAPTIST CAMPUS CENTER meets at 11:30

COALITION FOR HUMAN RIGHTS meets at

THURSDAY

ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at

GAY AND LESBIAN RESOURCE CENTER meets at 8 p.m. in Union 202

NATIONAL SOCIETY OF BLACK ENGINEERS meets at 5:30 p.m. in Durland 152.

PI TAU SIGMA will have a pledge meeting at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 161.

PARACHUTE CLUB will have a business meeting at 7 p.m. in Union 207

NATIONAL SOCIETY OF BLACK ENGINEERS, SOCIETY OF HISPANIC PRO-FESSIONAL ENGINEERS, AND AMERICAN INDIAN SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING SOCIETY meet at 5:30 p.m. in Durland 152. The guest speaker will be Steven Preston from Olin Corporation. A pizza party will follow the

APPAREL DESIGN COLLECTIVE will have elections and yearbook pictures taken at 7 p.m. in ARAB STUDENTS ASSOCIATION meets at 7 dle East and World Peace.

•$1 Coolers

•Free Adm.

FREE TACO BAR AT K'S & KQLA'S T.G.I.F. CHILL-OUT V!

One Year Anniversary Special

Previous Customers 12 tanning sessions for $20 New Customers 10 tanning sessions for $20

(offer expires Oct. 19)

Behind Aggie Ski & Sport

1214 C Moro

776-7874

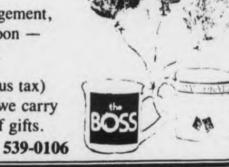

Bosses' Day Special

Send your boss a special gift on their special day" - Oct. 16

* mug, stick arrangement, candy and a balloon -Delivered!!

Only $10 (plus tax) -order one today, we carry a wide selection of gifts.

610 N. 3rd

& Pi Phis

BORDER

$1 SCHNAPPS SHOTS $1.50 FUZZY

Plus...New Chicken Fry Nite!

NAVELS

Chicken Fry Sandwiches

Chicken Fry Platters Reciprocating Club!

GORHAM . Fine China & Fine Crystal Stemware SAVE UP TO 25% Melon Bud King Edward Poyntz & Fifth 1227 Moro 539-1891 776-9067 USE OUR BRIDAL REGISTRY

TRAIN WITH THE NUCLEAR INDUSTRY'S LEADER, AND YOU COULD END UP LEADING THE INDUSTRY.

Over half the nuclear reactors in America are operated by one organization. The Navy.

The technology is the most advanced in the world. The men in charge are the industry's best. put you at the forefront of the nuclear industry. That's why the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidacy Program is the most sophisticated training available.

It has to be.

program can earn $1100 a month while still in school. In addition, you get a $4000 bonus upon entrance into the program, and an additional $2000 when you complete your Naval studies.

And, as an officer in today's Nuclear Navy, you receive a year of paid graduate-level training - gaining the experience and credentials that can

You must be a U.S. citizen, 26 years of age or younger upon commissioning, working toward a bachelor's or master's degree. You must also have completed a minimum of one year each of College juniors and seniors who qualify for the calculus and calculus-based physics with a "B" average or better.

So if you've started thinking about a career in the nuclear field, think about starting at the top. You can apply after your sophomore year.

INTERVIEWING ON CAMPUS OCTOBER 21, 1986 STOP BY OR CALL THE PLACEMENT CENTER FOR APPOINTMENT

Carlin asks president for flood disaster aid

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Gov. John Carlin asked President Reagan Tuesday to declare seven counties in southeast Kansas disaster areas as a result of heavy rain and flooding nearly two weeks ago which caused damage estimated at $132 million.

A presidential disaster declaration would be the first step toward providing loans and grants to flood victims in Allen, Bourbon, Chautauqua, Labette, Montgomery, Neosho and Wilson counties, said Col. Mahlon Weed, director of the state Division of Emergency Preparedness.

Weed said the governor may make a similar request for at least three other counties that sustained heavy flood damage after officials are able to make accurate assessments of destruction to agricultural and public property.

Requests for assistance for agriculture and public damage has been delayed because water has not receded enough to allow officials access to many areas that were first flooded Oct. 2-4, Weed said.

In a letter to Reagan, the governor said floodwaters caused an estimated $10 million damage to private non-agricultural property in 10 counties in southeast Kansas. The estimate included damage in Elk, Crawford and Cherokee counties.

However, agriculture was hit hardest in the flooding and sustained about $110 million damage, according to Carlin's letter. Losses to public property amounted $12 million, the letter said.

Figures of damage to agriculture and public property are only "best guess estimates," Weed said.

"We're out trying to confirm or non-confirm those estimates right now," he said.

Southeast Kansas had experienced above normal rainfall for more than a month before 5 inches to 10 inches of rain fell over a 13-county area between Oct. 2 and

Oct. 4, the letter said. The sudden burst of precipitation pushed the cumulative total to as much as 30 inches in some areas, it said.

"It is evident that extreme road and bridge damage has developed in a minimum of eight counties," Carlin wrote in the letter.

"However, in half of these counties the water has not abated enough to assess public property damage in the detail necessary. The agriculture survey is being delayed for the same reason," Carlin said.

The letter requests grants to 214 families totaling $504,000, more than $8 million in low-interest loans and an unspecified amount to reimburse 20 families for the cost of obtaining temporary housing

Carlin said Kansas currently doesn't have $150,000 available to pay for the state's 25 percent share of starting up the Individual and Family Grant program and asked that the federal government advance the money to the state.

To repay the advance, Carlin said the State Finance Council would be asked to allocate the money from the state $1 million emergency fund by the end of December.

Documents included with the letter showed the state and local governments in the area have spent about $150,600 for disaster relief efforts and do not expect reimbursement for the expense.

Weed said grants of up to $5,000 would be aimed at elderly people or those with low or fixed incomes who cannot afford to rebuild or repair flood damage. He said other people and most businesses would be eligible for low-interest loans from the Small Business Administration.

The designation also would allow the Farmers Home Administration to provide loans and assistance to help cover agriultural damage, Weed said. Carlin's letter did not include a request for a specific amount of FmHA loans.

K-State ranks first in blood donations

By LYNETTE HAMILTON Collegian Reporter

Christmas, the season of giving, is still two months away. But K-Staters and Manhattan residents will soon have the opportunity to give a little without spending a cent.

This year volunteers can donate blood at the annual Red Cross campus drive Oct. 21-24 in the Union.

Although K-State has the smallest campus in the Big Eight, it ranks first in blood donations.

"Our success shows that K-State students and the University community are committed to giving the most precious of gifts — the gift of life — and serving the community through the blood drive," said Troy Millsap, senior in secondary education and co-chairman of the blood mobile.

The blood mobile is brought to campus by Circle K International, a collegiate service organization of

Annual campus drive begins Tuesday which Millsap is president.

This year's goal is 1,400 pints of blood or 350 pints each day. The record is 1,745 pints, donated in the fall of 1983.

As in past years, there is competition among the large, small and greek living groups. Traveling trophies are held by Goodnow Hall, Smith Scholarship House and Phi Gamma Delta respectfully. The winner in each category is based on the percentage of participation of donors and workers.

Donors can sign up Oct. 13-17 on the main floor of the Union from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Those living in residence halls can sign up during the evening meals this week in their food centers

The American Red Cross requires that donors be at least 17 years old, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in good physical health. If a person has had hepatitis or is in one of the AIDS risk groups, he is not allowed to donate. This would include homosexuals and intravenous drug users. Donors are asked a series of general health questions by Red Cross nurses to determine if they are suitable.

Each pint of blood is tested for the AIDS virus. If the test is positive, the blood is disposed of, and the donor is discreetly notified. They are advised to go to a doctor to have a blood test.

First-time donors are treated with special attention. The nurses take more time in talking with them and watch them very closely to make sure they don't have a reaction.

"Very few people have a reaction.

Those who do are usually so 'nervedup' beforehand that when they realize the needle doesn't hurt that bad, they relax so much their body goes limp," Millsap said.

If a donor starts to feel faint, it's important to inform the nurse so the proper steps can be taken to overcome that feeling. This mainly consists of consuming the snacks and beverages provided.

All of the blood donated at K-State goes to the Wichita Region of the American Red Cross. It is distributed to more than 400 hospitals in Kansas, Oklahoma and parts of Texas.

Every donor has the possibility of helping four people. Each unit of blood can be divided four ways: red blood cells, for use during surgery; platelet concentrates, for bleeding disorders; serum albumin, used for accident victims; and gamma globulins, for combatting infectious diseases. Last year only 0.5 percent of the total blood supply in Wichita was not distributed due to spoilage.

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

Task force debates survey, alumni view of athletic fee

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Staff Writer

Several members of the K-State Alumni Athletic Committee appear to support a student athletic fee, an Athletic Fee Task Force member told the group Tuesday night.

Kelly Lamborn, senior in journalism and mass communication, said she had asked several AAC members for their opinions on the proposed student athletic fee.

"Most of them seemed to think that anything that would help the University would be good," she said. "They seemed to think getting students involved is the best thing K-State can do for athletics, and if getting them involved through an athletic fee is one way to do it, then most of them have a favorable opinion."

Steve Ligon, senior in animal sciences and industry, said not all of the alumni felt that way.

"I don't think that's very typical of the opinion of all the alumni, because you're talking to a group of alumni who are very interested in athletics at K-State, where if you get the average alumni from K-State, you're not going to find near that much interest or support," he said.

As a means of measuring whether the students would support the proposed fee, members discussed the idea of conducting a survey.

"I don't see a need for a survey, because I don't think students are that informed about it (the athletic fee) yet," Ligon said.

Bill Majerus, graduate student in agronomy, said it was too soon to begin a survey.

"We're putting the cart before the horse," he said.

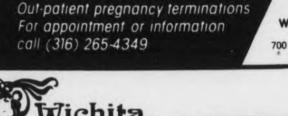

"I just think there are a lot more important things we should be spending our time on," Ligon said. Doug Folk, junior in electrical engineering and task force chairman, said he was afraid students were already beginning to form opinions without having all the facts.

"Maybe we need to start getting more information to them before they start forming opinions," he said.

Ligon disagreed.

"I like it when people start forming their opinions, because then they get interested and start asking questions," he said.

As a means of letting students express their concerns and ask questions about the proposed fee, members decided to place a suggestion box in the Union.

ONFIDENTIAL &

CONCERNED CARE

Wichita ______ Family Planning Inc.

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

TODAY: Off Campus, Moore, Putnam, Smith

Oct. 16: Off Campus, Smurthwaite, West Hall

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment call 539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

Enjoy smooth, creamy
Frozen Yogurt

but with 80% less fat!
--FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT!
Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

free door side parking

80c DRAFT BEERS

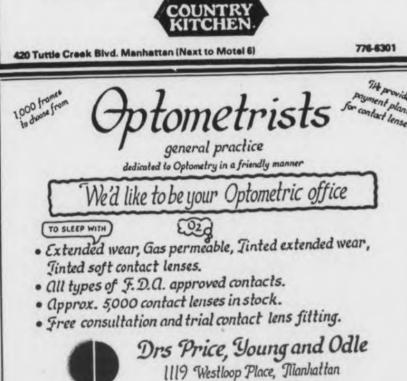

AGGIE STATION

RESTAURANT & BAR
1115 MORO ■ 776-0030

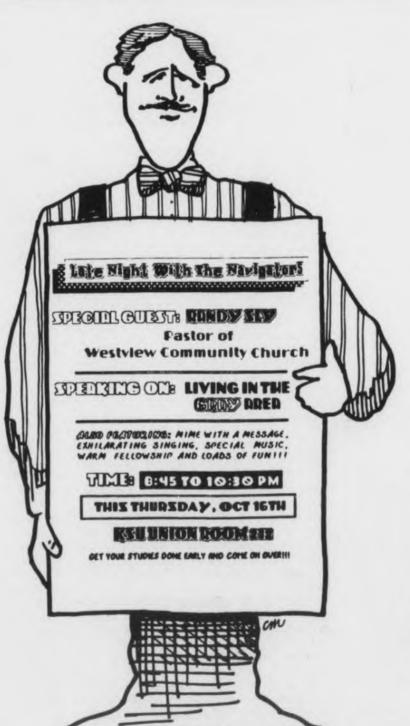

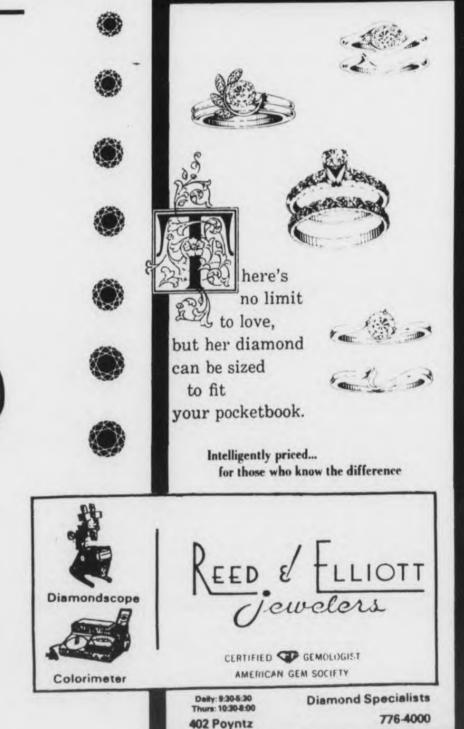

The K-State Union Bookstore

537-1118

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Indoor disadvantage hampers soccer team

The K-State Soccer Club men's ing indoors. team should be commended for its courageous performance in the Ed Chartrand Memorial College Soccer Tournament in Kanfinal round loss should have been avoided.

was played outside in the rain and the mud. K-State's record was 2-1 in the sloppy conditions. One of these victories was sas City expecting to play outagainst soon-to-be tournament doors and stood a good chance of champions University of Missouri, Kansas City. Although K-State seemed to have an edge, the situation took a strange twist on the second day.

gave an advantage to UMKC, whose team has experience play- be pleased with the result.

While some of you may think this a trival point, the decision to play inside doomed K-State to defeat. The rules and field size of sas City last weekend. However, indoor soccer are different. One the difficulties they faced in their big disadvantage is the smaller number of players in indoor soccer as compared to outdoor soc-The first day of the tournament cer. Coach Clay Ross said, "It is like taking a baseball team indoors and playing hockey."

> The soccer team went to Kanrepeating as tournament champs, but not under the circumstances.

The tournament is named in the memory of Ed Chartrand, a Because of the bad weather on former member of the K-State the first day, tournament of- Soccer Club who died in 1979. It is ficials decided to move the final sad when the officials change the round indoors, even though it rules in the middle of the tournawasn't raining that day. This ment, thus handicapping Chartrand's alma mater. He wouldn't else, but his "Star Wars" dreams it would have no real effect. are secure.

Meeting fails because of Reagan's SDI plan

Mikhail Gorbachev, general secretary of the Soviet Union, made the most sweeping arms control proposal in history. However, Reagan refused to give ground on SDI. Gorbachev's proposals would have reduced the number of intermediate range nuclear missiles to 100 warheads in each superpower's arsenal.

What Reagan objected to was Gorbachev's proposal to limit SDI research, deployment and development to the laboratory for 10 years. An Associated Press article stated that most scientists believe SDI will not be feasible for at least a generation. Reagan wouldn't have lost anything by agreeing to laboratory experimentation for 10 years.

Furthermore, a survey of the American Physical Society conducted this summer reported that 54 percent of America's physicists believe SDI is a step in crusade for SDI.

President Reagan left Reyk- the wrong direction with respect javik, Iceland, with his Strategic to national security, 29 percent Defense Initiative plan clearly in- said it would be a step in the right tact. He came away with nothing direction and 6 percent believed

> According to the Washington Post, SDI draws its staunchest advocates from the ranks of private industry, congressmen and military officers. These groups argue that if the president compromised on SDI, Congress would be forced to reduce SDI funding, which would directly affect those groups arguing in favor

> 'John Pike of the American Federation of Scientists said SDI research could reach $90 billion by 1994 and James Schlesinger, former secretary of defense, predicted production and deployment could reach $1 trillion. That's quite a sum of money for a project that most scientists agree won't work.

> But aside from the monetary losses, Reagan has sacrificed a rare oppurtunity for arms reduction in favor of his personal

Blame belongs to all for 'near-riot'

It seems you cannot pick up a newspaper or magazine anymore without seeing quotes offset from the regular copy. Under such names as "Quotable Quotes," or "He said it," the public seems unable to get away from hearing how one person summed up an

In an attempt to relive an event in K-State's past, I looked up the following quotes from two years ago, after K-State's home football victory over the University of Kansas when students poured from the stands to tear down the KSU Stadium goal posts in celebration. I think you will agree how easy it is to recreate the confusion using nothing but quotes from people involved.

Announcer Jay Payton's view from the booth - "I had strict orders from the athletic director, (Dick Towers) to repeat 'Don't get on the field' four times during the second half...then a gang of students seemed to come from out of nowhere.'

Pat Bosco, assistant vice president for student affairs on K-State Police Chief Art Stone's plan to stop the goal posts from coming down - "He felt having highly visible administrators, ones the students know, might be a better way of deterring them than a show of force." Bosco was one of the administrators guarding the goal posts.

Former Collegian columnist Lee White's thoughts on seeing Pat Bosco listening to a police radio shortly before the conclusion of the game - "That's funny, I didn't know he was a cop."

How band member Steve Funk felt about the responsibility of protecting the goal post after the game - "I was worried ... about the damage that could have occurred to our instruments and uniforms, not to mention what might have happened if the goal had landed on some of us.

Mark Jones, former chairman of the Student Senate, on how it felt to be sprayed with mace - "I thought it was water, but a few minutes later it felt like my eye and the whole side of my face was on fire." Jones was trying to help the administrators defend the goal post.

WAYNE LONG Collegian

Stone's response when he heard somebody who was trying to help got sprayed with mace - "If it did happen, it was unintentional."

Former University President Duane Acker's comments on the plan to guard the goal posts - "The University put them to unnecessary risks, and I don't think that is the kind of thing we should expect the administrators, board members and others to Stone's comment on the conduct of the students immediately following the game -'Their comments and the way they reacted was not the way I would expect our students to act. I think it was totally disgusting."

Jones' comment on the conduct of the campus police following the game - "I've tried in the past to defend the police, but I've lost quite a bit of respect for them after what hap-

The goal post incident at KSU Stadium was minor compared to violence that night in Aggieville - violence that drew the attention of national media and was dubbed a "near-riot" by the Associated Press.

Ken Heinz, former student body president, explaining the actions of the student body -"I personally think what happened at the game and what happened in Aggieville are two separate things.

Wednesday, October 15, 1986 - 4

How Sgt. Darrell Yarnall of the Riley County Police Department, described what it was like to be a police officer that night -"Normally, students attack property, last night they attacked anything wearing blue. It was frightening.'

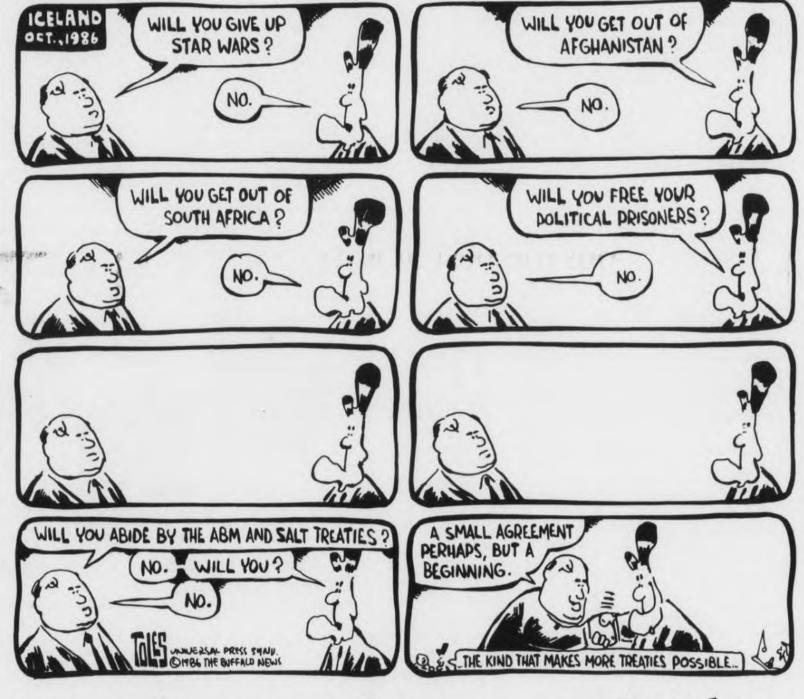

Aggieville resident Chris Hunt's account of what happened as he and a friend tried to walk home to his apartment above Kite's -"I tried to explain to him that I lived in Aggieville and then he hit my friend in the stomach with a nightstick. He hadn't even said a word.'

Eugene Klingler, city commissioner and law board member - "It is no longer acceptable under decent, law-abiding citizens of this community to say, 'kids will be kids'...This type of behavior in a civilized society is no longer acceptable.'

Colt Knutson, county attorney and board member - "If it's going to take calling out the National Guard then that's what it's going to take...It simply cannot be permitted to happen again."

A statement made by Jones at the City Commission meeting following the incident - "I'm here to let you know the vast majority of students are scared this could happen again.' From analyzing the statements of these individuals, the blame for the riot cannot be placed on any particular group or organization. What is important, however, is which one of the anonymous quotes will happen this Saturday - "History is bound to repeat itself" or "Lightning never strikes twice in the same place.'

Amendment violates voters' rights

One of my esteemed collegues at the Collegian wrote a column last Tuesday advocating changes in the length of terms for the president and congressmen.

In addressing the issue of the length of a presidential term, Phil Nordhus argued that it would be more congruent with the founding fathers' political philosophy if the United States raised the limit on the number of presidential terms to three and limited congressional terms to 12 years.

While I understand the logistics of his reasoning, I disagree with two of his fundamental arguments.

First, Nordhus claimed that maintaining a limit on the number of presidential terms "would prevent a president from holding the office indefinitely and becoming, in effect, an elected monarch."

Contrary to Nordhus, I believe that the controlling factor in determining whether a person is a monarch is not the length of time a person holds an office but the powers he has while in office. To understand this viewpoint, it's necessary to examine the traditional powers of a monarch.

In the original and pure form of a monarchy, the ruler had supreme authority and power in legislative duties as well as administrative and judiciary functions. Later, the monarchical powers became more

The monarch retained the traditional positions of supreme lawgiver and commander in chief of the armed forces. Judicial and administrative functions went to specialized agencies that were subordinate to the

In many ways the latter version is analogous to the structure of the United States' bureaucracy. Just as judicial and administrative duties went to other groups, the U.S. government's powers are divided among the executive, legislative and judicial

SUSAN BAIRD

Collegian

Columnist

More similarities exist between monarchical power and presidential power. Like a monarch, the president is commander in chief of the military. Similar to the role of supreme lawgiver, presidents have taken a leading role in government policy making at the congressional level by advocating foreign policies and special programs. Moreover, special agencies such as the National Security Council, the Central Intelligence Agency or the State Department answer directly to the president.

Although the founding fathers didn't refer to the executive as a monarch for political reasons, the president is a monarch in his powers and duties. The true difference between a traditional monarch and the president is the process through which each comes to power.

While the president derives his power from the people, a monarch inherits his power from his family. The former is an elected monarch while the latter a monarch by birth.

Nordhus' second claim was that "the twoterm limit (of a president) is counterproductive to the United States' democratic principles." Since congressmen can serve an unlimited number of terms, "the Constitution's system of checks and balances is lopsided." Nordhus' solution is to limit congres-

While I agree with the basic premise, I disagree with the solution. Any limitation on the terms of officials violates the fundamental principle of this democracy. Although limitations existed in the U.S. Constitution on electing U.S. Senators and the president, the founding fathers designed the overall election process to reflect the wishes of the people. In theory, the people demonstrate their approval or disapproval of an elected official's performance at the ballot box. Limiting the number of times a person can hold office denies the person's constituents their right to choose whom they want to represent them. In effect, the 22nd Amendment is contrary to the people's fundamental right to elect their representatives.

My distaste of the current administration could easily make me a supporter of the twoterm limit, but I believe it's wrong to support something that's contrary to a fundamental principle simply because it is advantageous at that time.

The problem with the 22nd Amendment is not its narrowness but its existence. Consequently, the only solution to the issue of the length of presidential and congressional terms is its elimination.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included.

Letters

Nuclear plants safe

Editor.

Re: The editorial, "Nuclear plants unsafe under existing usage," in the Oct. 7 Col-

We are, to say the least, dismayed by some of the editorials appearing in the Collegian. They contain many misconceptions of established fact - misconceptions wrongly damaging people, departments and fields.

Starting out, the article states similarities exist between General Electric plants and the defunct nuclear plant of Chernobyl. True, there will be similarities between two devices designed to do similar functions, but design similarities don't link operative danger between the two devices. Using the same logic presented in the article, one could say all cars have the same basic design, and then say crashes due to operator error in one car will result in identical crashes in all cars of all types and brands.

The same is true for drawing conclusions between G.E. and Chernobyl nuclear plants. To extend arguments that identical error in operation will result in identical problems neglects all logic. Documentation of the Chernobyl incident indicates operator error in following proper operating procedures was at fault, and not equipment failure. Automatic control devices were manually shut off which likely could have prevented the Chernobyl incident.

The article also states, "Attempts at reprocessing fuel have failed miserably due to insufficient technology." This is grossly in error. France and other European countries are currently operating successful reprocessing plants.

Currently, technology exists to convert high-level waste into a non-reactive glassified form. The waste in this form could be placed into metal containers and left to decompose with no danger to the public. Why don't we? The reasons are again political and not technical. Due largely to irresponsible reporting, the public is terrified of "radiation." Yet, each person is exposed to radiation from many natural sources daily.

Still, the public does not believe the facts. Unfortunately, the damage done by irresponsible articles can never be healed, only helped. The damage, once done, is final and complete. Reporters should be compelled to verify "facts" especially in fields where they lack proficiency

> Robert Stewart, treasurer, K-State chapter of the American Nuclear Society

Courts study legality of state abortion law

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Supreme Court said Tuesday it will study whether states may require some adolescent girls seeking abortions to wait 24 hours after telling their parents or a judge about their

The justices voted to review rulings that struck down a 1983 Illinois law that would impose the 24-hour waiting period.

The vitality of the court's 1973 decision legalizing abortion does not appear at stake. But the Illinois case is the first in which the abortion issue is being considered by the court with William H. Rehnquist as chief justice and Antonin Scalia as a justice.

A decision is expected by July. In other matters Tuesday, the -Agreed to decide whether prosecutors may use as trial evidence material seized without a search from an apartment house garbage bin. California courts have said unwarranted police searches of garbage violates privacy rights.

-Refused to reinstate an Oklahoma law that makes it a crime for consenting adults to engage in heterosexual sodomy.

-Said it will use a Maryland case to decide whether the impact on a murder victim's family may be taken into account when sentencing the killer to either death or life in prison.

-Refused to revive South Dakota Gov. William Janklow's libel lawsuit against Newsweek magazine over a 1983 article

Now, at KSU, there's remember for fast delivery of pizza that's every bit

as good as one you'd go

Godfather's Pizza™

settle for anything less,

Now you don't have to just one number to out for.

any more.

about the prosecution of Indian activist Dennis Banks.

-Agreed to decide in a New Jersey case how far prison officials must go in trying to accommodate the religious beliefs and practices of Muslim inmates.

-Ruled that retired federal workers have no legal right to challenge a portion of the Gramm-Rudman law, which calls for a balanced budget by 1991, even though the law deprived some 3 million civil service pensioners of a cost-of-living in-

In the abortion case, the Illinois law required that unmarried girls under 18 and still dependent on their parents notify the parents 24 hours before they abort their pregnancy

The notification requirement may be waived altogether if the girl proves to a state judge she is mature enough and well-informed enough to make the decision on her own and that notifying her parents would not be in her best

In 1981, the Supreme Court allowed states to impose parentalnotification requirements for "immature" girls under 18 who still are dependent on their parents. But in 1983 the court struck down an abortion law's 24-hour waiting period that was applied to minors and adults

The court last June reaffirmed its landmark decision legalizing abortion as it struck down, by a 5-4 vote, various abortion regulations imposed by Pennsylvania.

539-5303

One number brings

out the best at KSU

⁵2 off

any large or

'1 off any medium pizza

delivered

(Style and toppings of your choice)
Offer also good on dine-in or

carryout orders, but not valid with Sunday dine-in, free-drink offers.

Not valid with Tapper or other promotional offers.

Limited delivery area

Arthritis not just 'old people's disease'

By KIM GREENWOOD Collegian Reporter

The grandmother who can't open the jar of jam because her hands are crippled is a common perception of those whom arthritis strikes.

But there is a special group of individuals who are afflicted with arthritis that American society fails to recognize or acknowledge.

The boy who sits inside during recess because his knees ache so badly that he can't run and the college student who skips class because the weather is so cold it causes his joints to stiffen and ache are all afflicted by arthritis.

"We suffer from the image that it's an old people's disease, and it's just not true — young people are hit with it too," said Lois Fink, board member of Kansas Arthritis Founda-

About 50,000 children suffer from arthritis, according to statistics on 1986 arthritis facts.

Children and young adults tend to hide the fact that they suffer from arthritis. These people do not want to be treated differently from other "normal" people their age.

The disease, comprising more than 100 varieties, is an inflammation of "Arthritis is a much more complicated disease than anyone ever dreamed," said Doris Newman, associate director of the Kansas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

Some types of arthritis are inherited while others are not. For most types, there is no prevention. The disease affects each person differently, said Dr. Palmer S. Meek, medical adviser in the Manhattan area for the Arthritis Foundation.

For some sufferers, the disease may cause them to miss a few days of work because their joints are stiff and sore. For others, the disease may cripple and disfigure the hands

⁵2 off

any large or

1 off any medium pizza

delivered

(Style and toppings of your choice)

Offer also good on dine-in or

carryout orders, but not valid with Sunday dine-in, free-drink offers.

Not valid with Tapper or other promotional offers.

Limited delivery area

Godfather's Pizza

Ailment affects about 50,000 children or other body parts. For a few, the disease can be so severe that the joints disintegrate and have to be replaced, or the sufferers have to be confined to a wheelchair.

Arthritis is America's No. 1 crippling disease, affecting nearly 36 million people of all ages. The disease usually strikes those individuals between the ages of 20 and 50 and lasts for life.

"A lot of young people have ar-thritis, even though it's connotated to be old," Newman said.

Most sufferers don't like their employers to know they are afflicted with arthritis because they fear they will lose their jobs.

The disease does affect work performance. Statistics indicate arthritis costs the economy $14 billion annually in lost wages and medical bills. Collectively, sufferers miss 26 million work days and are reduced to restricted activity for 500 million

Injuries can accelerate the disease and even normal use can lead to arthritis, Meek said. Some sports are harder on the joints than others. Men who played football and suffered injuries tend to show signs of arthritis in these joints in their 40s. Research to date, has been inconclusive as to whether long distance running can accelerate arthritis.

"In general, certain types of exercises are beneficial," Meek said. Exercises and sports which concentrate on stretching and flexibility without straining or overusing the joints can help postpone arthritis.

The Kansas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation offers various classes in the Manhattan area to help those with arthritis. The chapter offers a swim class which helps soothe the pain of the inflammation.

Recently, the chapter has started a self-help class for those with arthritis and those who know someone who

The purpose of the class is to instruct arthritis sufferers on how they can better take care of themselves to alleviate the pain they endure.

Topics include explanation of the disease, types of exercises, pain therapy, stress management, medication, nutrition, joint protection and the doctor/patient relation-

Barbara Janssen, who is assisted by Jean Caul, teaches the class and helps the students develop programs that best suit the individual student's needs according to the type of arthritis the student has and the student's lifestyle.

Each student is required to have his or her doctor's permission to join the class. The students must fill out a medical sheet so the instuctor knows what problems each student faces.

Meek encourages those people interested in the class to go. He thinks the courses are helpful because the classes touch upon topics that are not brought up in the doctor's office.

"As long as it comes through the Arthritis Foundation, I have no reservations about what they are doing," Meek said. The Arthritis Foundation was originally started by doctors who were concerned about the high number of patients they couldn't

Dr. Harry Wisner of Wichita started the Kansas Chapter. The Kansas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation allots 34.9 percent of its funds for research. Generally, major research grants go to the University of Kansas Medical Center. Other smaller grants are given to qualified researchers in

In 1985, President Reagan and Congress established a separate institute for arthritis research and spent $34.7 million on arthritis programs. No cure has yet been discovered.

Cases have proven the dinosaurs were afflicted with arthritis making it one of the world's oldest diseases.

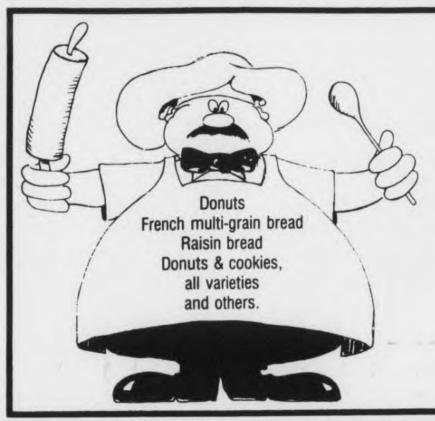

Although the disease is old, it is one of the newest specialties in medical study. Congress passed the National Arthritis Act in 1974. The legislation was developed to promote greater awareness of arthritis research.

"Now, people are being diagnosed faster and more accurately than they once were. We really want them to have all the information," Newman

Your gift can make a difference.

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

Bakery Science Club

BAKE SALE TODAY 3:30-5:30 (or until sold out)

Shellenberger Hall 105 Come Early For Best Selection

A WEEK AT

KANSAS SIAIE

All K-State students and faculty with valid I.D.'s are invited to attend the AWAKS Photography Seminar Wednesday, October 15, 1986.

Seminar

MORNING at McCain Auditorium

8:45 to 9:10 Registration in McCain Lobby

9:15 to 9:30 Student Publications Slideshow

9:30 to 10:20 Pete Souza-White House Photographer "Photographing the President"

10:30 to noon Jim Richardson-Special Projects Editor at the Denver Post "Documentary Photography" including "Cuba, Kansas"

LUNCH noon to 1:20

AFTERNOON in Little Theater-K-State Union

1:30 to 2:20 Ted Munger-Commercial Photographer in Dallas, Texas "Color Commercial Photography"

2:30 to 2:45 Dave Kaup-Chief Photographer at the Olathe (Kan.) Daily News "Cameras in the Courtroom"

2:45 to 3:45 Panel Discussion moderated by Dr. Carol Oukrop on Ethics in Photography

Gary Haynes-Assistant Managing Editor at the Philadelphia Inquirer

Tim Janicke-Picture Editor at the Kansas City Times John Bock-Staff Photographer at the Topeka

Capital-Journal Sam Greene—Co-owner of the Delores (Colo.) Star

BREAK 3:45 to 4:00

4:00 to 4:15 Andy Nelson-Student Photographer at K-State "How to get that Internship"

4:15 to 5:00 Darryl Heikes-Photographer at U.S. News & World Report "Color Lighting"

5:00 to 6:30 Portfolio Critique in JMC Library, Kedzie 105

GARAGE SALE

Expires 11/30/86 What are you waiting for?

Thousands of dollars of home—car—video will be put on sale starting Noon, Wednesday, Oct. 15. All items will be sold on a cash basis. No layaway. No returns. All items limited to store stock.

8	Sample List	Reg.	Sale
8	Maxell XLII90 2 pack cassette tape	$8.00	$3.99
8	Alpine Top of Line 7374 AM-FM cassette	900.00	540.00
8	Bring Your Old Needle and get A New Needle	9.95	99¢
8	Alpine Burglar Alarm	70.00	42.00
	Bel Radar Detector	130.00	79.00
8	Clarion Digital AM-FM cassette	169.00	99.00
	Akai VHS video recorder onscreen programming	400.00	289.00
	Luxman turntable, linear tracking, save 1/2	210.00	135.00
8	Sony Designer Walkman	100.00	79.00
8	Bose 601, direct reflect loudspeaker	1000.00 pr.	238.00 eac
	Advent Prodigy 2 way loudspeaker	420.00 pr.	199.00 pr.
•

STARTS NOON WEDNESDAY, OCT. 15

1126 Moro, Aggieville

776-5507

ROLLING

THUNDER

Forum discusses authority over public education in Kansas

By CHRISTINE DOLL Collegian Reporter

Which governing body should have control over the state's public schools was a topic discussed during a League of Women Voters forum on election issues Tuesday afternoon in Manhattan.

The state Board of Education should be independent of the Kansas Legislature and should not be responsible to it, said Bill Musick, representative of the board from the Manhattan district.

Rep. Joe Knopp, R-Manhattan, said the Legislature should have authority over the board to be consistent with general framework of the Kansas constitution.

"Authority should rest in the Legislature," Knopp said. "It is just consistent with the check and balance system.'

Kansas voters will decide if the constitution will be rewritten to include legislative power over the board when they vote on the fifth question in the November elections.

The article now states: "The Legislature shall provide for a state Board of Education which shall have general supervision of public primary and secondary schools..." If passed, the admendment will change the article to say, "The Legislature shall provide for a state Board of Education and for its supervision of public primary and secondary sibilities of most public schools from the board to the Legislature.

The 10 members who make up the state Board of Education are elected from 10 Kansas districts to serve four-year terms. The board's reponsiblities include accrediting schools, certifying teachers and determining courses that must be taught in primary and secondary schools.

Musick said he was afraid the board would become a "rubber stamp" panel and put its approval on all legislation passed to it by the Legislature.

The board can deal with problems more effectively than the Legislature because it only deals with schools, Musick said. The

The bill would switch the respon- Legislature would take a long time certifying teachers and accrediting schools. The Legislature would have authority to mold policies it could not control before.

"We are a hard-working group. I know the Legislature is, too. Our concern is solely with education. They're concerned with the problems of the state and the world," Musick said.

Knopp said the Legislature does not want to do the board's job.

"It is very unlikely that we will get into the day-to-day business. We want to have the authority to say, 'No, this is not the direction we want our state to go,''' Knopp said. Musick said the Legislature could assume too much control. He said the Louisiana Legislature did this when it decided which textbooks would be used by the schools.

"Louisiana made some horrible decisions, and those people will have to live with it a long time," he said. The Louisiana Legislature decided textbooks should teach the evolu-

Ramada Inn

WEDNESDAY

99¢

Wine Coolers

and Spritzers

FREE Cajun Hors D'oeuvres the theory that God created the earth in seven days.

A member of the audience asked if the change would make the Legislature more responsive to the public since most people do not know who their representative to the board

"I don't think that argument holds water," Musick said. "Fifty percent of the people in the streets of Manhattan probably don't know who Joe (Knopp) is either.'

WE PROVIDE

SERVICES TO

KEEP YOU

WELL-

YOU ARE WELL

New junior varsity cheering squad to replace dancers, debut Saturday

By DON SCOTT Collegian Reporter

Junior varsity cheerleaders and yell leaders will cheer for the first time Saturday during the K-State vs. University of Kansas football game.

The junior varsity cheerleaders will cheer on the alumni side of the stadium during the football games and also for the women's basketball team. They also will be included with the varsity squad in all promotions and public relations events. In the past, K-State has not had a junior varsity squad. The University did, however, have a squad called the Wildcat Dancers, which originated from a squad called the Pridettes, during the fall semester of

The Department of Intercollegiate

333333333333333333333

33333333333333

Personalized Physician Care

Free Pregnancy Tests

Modern Medical Facilities 5107 E. Kellogg Wichita, Kansas

Abortions Through All Legal Stages

dissolve the Wildcat Dancers and replace them with a junior varsity cheerleading squad.

The Pridettes dance with and are sponsored by the band. They have been in existence since 1971 and have also cheered for the K-State women's basketball team.

Throughout 1985-86, the Wildcat Dancers were sponsored by the marching band. However, last year a question arose as to who was responsible for the squad.

"People in general were questioning where they (the dancers) got their backing," said Anne Brull, cheerleading sponsor. "People were associating them with the cheerleaders, and they weren't."

Brull said a problem with the Wildcat Dancers not having an of-

You Can Get

A Coke and Keep the Plastic Mug!!

32 oz. Plastic Coke Mug

*Try our drive-up window

(316)684-5108

CECECECECECECECE

brazier

ATTENTION

1986 Homecoming Spirit March and Bonfire has been rescheduled for Thursday, October 23

starting at 8:30!

filled with

Coke

1015 N. 3rd

Athletics decided last semester to ficial sponsor was that they weren't covered through any department's insurance in case of accidents during practices or games.

"It got to be such an ordeal," said

Since their formation, the junior varsity squad has been preparing for their debut. "I think we need a lot of improvement before we cheer," said Michelle Thaemert, sophomore in secondary education. "Getting stunts to where they stick is hard, but everyone on the squad is great, and practice is fun.'

"I've never cheered before, so I'm inexperienced," said Gina Stephens, junior in apparel and textile marketing. "A lot of the people are inexperienced. We have a lot of work

Resume Service

1221 Moro • Aggieville Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (913) 537-7294

1116 Moro 537-0886

Open 7 days a week W W M Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

1304 Westloop 539-8888

Restaurant

official, please attend both clinics.

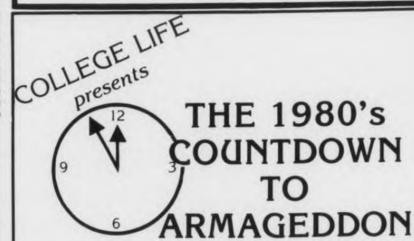

> Sunday, Oct. 19 at 6:30 K-State Union Room 212

Monday, Oct. 20 at 5:30

Rec Complex Multi-Purpose Room Starting pay is $3.60/hour-more for experienced officials. Call Steve or Kevin at 532-6980 for more information.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16, 8 p.m.

Kappa Delta Sorority, 1220 Centennial Drive

Traveling Speaker: Henry Oursler Sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ

"WE CARE" about your health

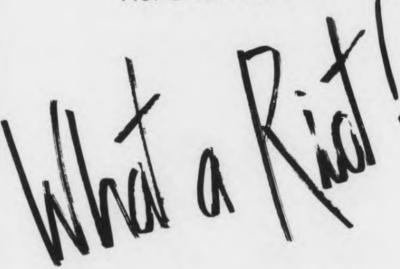

- *Outpatient Clinic
- *Lafemme (GYN) Clinic
- *Allergy Clinic
- *Mental Health Clinic
- *Laboratory
- *Physical Therapy Department
- *Pharmacy
- *X-Ray Department
- *Dietary Counseling
- *In-patient Hospital
- *Sports Medicine Clinic *Wart Clinic
- *Clinic Hours: 8-11:30 a.m. 1-4:30 p.m.
- *24 hour, 7 days a week health care services *Time-saving Appointment System

Call 532-6544 for an appointment

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

WORTH IT. 4-7 p.m. Lafene Health Center 17th & Anderson Across from KSU KSU vs. KU No. 8 vs. No. 7

Support your team in the battle of the Big 8 Basement.

> T-Shirts and sweatshirts on sale today through Friday in the Union or from your social chairman.

Sponsored by Pi Sigma Epsilon

18K GOLD RINGS

OFF ALL 14K GOLD RINGS

OFF ALL 10K GOLD RINGS

October 16-18, Thurs.- Sat.

10am-4pm $20 Deposit Required K-State Union Bookstore

Payment plans available

(k-state union

Compare Our Low Prices... You'll Save More!

When We Opened Our Store In Manhattan, We Knew We Offered You The Lowest Possible Prices On All Your Favorite National Brands. Below Is A Listing Of Products Most Frequently Purchased, Comparing Our Everyday Low Prices With Those Of Our Competitors. See For Yourself . . . You Be The Judge, You'll Know We're The Low Price Leader!

Thank You For Shopping At . . .

FOOD LLESS.

Product/Size	FOOD LESS.	Dillons	Safeway	Dutch Maid ®
Kraft Catalina Salad Dressing 8 oz.	.90	*1.03	.97	*1.02
Heinz Worchestershire Sauce 10 oz.	.88	.99	$1.09	*1.09
Kraft Regular BBQ Sauce 18 oz.	$1.26	*1.49	$1.49	$1.49
Heinz Distilled White Vinegar 32 oz.	.78	.99	.99	.95
Vlasic Kosher Spear Pickles 24 oz.	$1.45	$1.79	$1.79	1.79
Early California Med. Ripe Olives 6.5 oz.	$1.13	$1.45	$1.65 (Town House)	*1.45
French's Mustard 24 oz.	.90	$1.09	$1.09	*1.13
Welch's Grape Jelly 18 oz.	$1.19	*1.41	$1.39	$1.49
Stove Top Stuffing 6 oz.	.99	$1.15	.99	$1.19
M&M Peanut Chocolate Candy 16 oz.	$1.98	$2.59	$2.73	$2.49
Quaker Yellow Corn Meal 24 oz.	.74	.85	.85	.89
Equal Lo-Cal Sweetener 50 count	$1.88	*2.39	$2.39	$2.39
Welch's Grape Juice 40 oz.	$1.66	$2.03	$2.15	$1.93
Quaker Life Cereal 20 oz.	⁵ 1.98	*2.45	$2.49	$2.63
Sunmaid Raisins 15 oz.	$1.14	*1.69	$1.49	$1.45
Van Camp Red Beans 15 oz.	.42	.53	.55	.51
Green Giant Sliced Mushrooms 4.5 oz.	$1.08	*1.35	$1.49	$1.39
Kit Kat Candy Bars 6 pack	$1.48	$2.19	$1.89	$2.29
Old El Paso Refried Beans 31 oz.	$1.18	*1.49	$1.49	$1.38
Wilderness Peach Pie Filling 21 oz.	$1.59	$1.89	$1.83	$1.99
Campbells Steak & Potato Soup 19 oz.	$1.31	*1.45	$1.62	$1.51
Minute Rice 28 oz.	$1.99	$2.29	$2.29	$2.39
Betty Crocker Scalloped Potatoes 11 oz.	$1.77	$2.09	$2.21	$2.09
Spam Luncheon Meat 12 oz.	$1.76	$1.95	$1.99	$2.06
Chicken of the Sea Salmon 15.5 oz.	$2.79	*3.59	$3.49	$3.49
V8 Vegetable Juice 46 oz.	.88	*1.09	$1.12	.99
Safeguard Bar Soap 5 oz.	.60	.68	.76	.75
Betty Crocker Micro Popcorn 10.5 oz.	$1.80	*2.19	$2.19	$1.79 (On Sale
Planters Cheese Curls 5 oz.	$1.00	$1.19	$1.32	$1.19
Kool Aid Powdered Drink Mix 30 oz.	$2.73	*3.25	$2.49	$3.39
Duncan Hines C.C. Cookies 12 oz.	11.11	*1.89	$1.59	$1.35
Northern Napkins 140 count	.81	.89	1.01	.99

TOTALS $4316$5339$5288$5293

Save $1023

$10²³ more!

$972 more!

$977 more!

Comparison Shopping Taken October 3, 1986.

Register Tapes Available Upon Request

The Low Price Leader!

401 EAST POYNTZ

Ice Cream

a simple elegance

ack when the mastodons roamed the earth and chocolate swirl was the outrageous flavor sensation, ice cream was in its golden age.

It was an innocent time. It was when a cherry Coke was something you got at a soda fountain — not from a can — and when McDonald's burger count was still in the millions.

But, as sure as the onset of ice "milk," the golden age of ice cream became relegated to memories of a more simple time.

Today, ice cream is in its elegant

However, elegant doesn't necessarily mean "pretty." The barrage of ice creams with sinfully high amounts of butterfat and whose names we can't confidently pronounce has changed the ice cream scene from serene to tumultuous.

A la the Cola wars, the ice creams of America have become engaged in warfare for the consumer's dollar. Old standbys have been jolted from their complacency and upstart newcomers have changed the complexion of the ice cream

These newcomers primarily share two characteristics: they have a high content of butterfat which makes their ice oh so creamy, and they have prices which reflect their elegance. However, the high prices of the superpremium creams have not been met with consumer resistance.

In fact, the advent of the luxury ice cream has been a boon to the industry. Consider: since 1983, sales of the superpremium creams have jumped 20 percent to $2.21 billion annually.

No one can deny that the elegant creams have changed significantly the face of the industry. Certainly, the economic change has been evident but, also, never-before-heard names like Haagen-Dazs, Frusen Gladje, Ben & Jerry's, Edy's Grand Ice Cream, Bryer's and Steve's Famous Ice Cream have injected a fresh spirit of competition into the once frigid market.

The development of the luxury ice cream seems to have been an answer to consumers' desire for better products, especially desserts. The success of frozen yogurt, sorbets and candy and cookie stores appears to support the notion that Americans want their desserts.

Locally, managers of Manhattan grocery stores have noticed the impact the more expensive ice creams have had on the overall sales of their ice creams.

"I would say the category's growing," said Ben Chilcutt, manager of Safeway, 3011 Anderson Ave

"We're aware of it. We're reorganizing our display area and cutting down on the lower-quality ice creams," Chilcutt said.

Jim Peterson, manager of Dillon's, 2700 Anderson Ave., agreed with Chilcutt.

"They (sales) just continue to go up," he said.
"Bryer's is the one that brought a lot of that on."
In addition to Bryer's, his store sells Steve's
Famous Ice Cream, Haagen-Dazs and Dillon's
Classic, an in-store brand.

Chilcutt said even though his store sells only two of the premium brands of ice cream, their growth in sales has been significant.

"We have Edy's and Bryer's ice cream. When they first started distributing these items two years ago, they were a small percentage of our display case. They've probably increased three See ICE CREAM, Page 10

Story by Deron Johnson

Illustration by Steve Wolgast

Decrease in aid may lower enrollment

By LISA ALLSPACH Collegian Reporter

With costs of post-secondary education increasing, Larry Moeder, associate director of student financial assistance, said the decrease in financial aid may play a significant role in declining enrollment at a university.

Enrollment has been a concern at K-State for several years and University President Jon Wefald is attacking the problem by enlarging the University's recruiting staff. However, informing the public about the University's benefits and the programs and choices of study it offers may not be enough to halt decreasing enrollment, Moeder said. Decreasing student aid through governmental budget cuts and fewer financial aid dollars should be considered a cause.

ALANGE TO THE PROPERTY OF THE

He said it is difficult to determine how many students are turned from college because they do not have the funds and are not awarded financial aid to cover the cost of attending col-

"To a degree, enrollment is tied to financial aid, and financial aid is very much tied to recruiting," Moeder said. Moeder also said he has the recruiters yet to assess whether there is a big problem with student funding in relationship to recruiting.

Approximately $32 million in total financial aid was awarded this year at K-State. This includes everything from Guaranteed Student Loans to work study employment money. The University awarded more than $1.5 million in scholarships.

The eligibility to apply for scholarships, as stated in the student financial assistance scholarship brochure, is a cumulative grade point average of 2.5, but most scholarships were not received enough feedback from awarded to students with an average GPA of 3.986 or above.

> That eliminates at least 90 percent of the students in every college, Moeder said. Serious but unexceptional students must find financial aid in other areas. Moeder said civic groups, potential employers and parents' employers may be approached for scholarships and grants by students who need money for education not being supplied by other

> Moeder suggested students may find information on scholarships and other educational awards at Farrell

Ice Cream

Continued from Page 8

times since then," Chilcutt said. He said the higher prices - up to double the price of the less expensive ice creams - have not scared the consumers away. Nor, he emphasized, will the premium ice creams force the removal of the lower-priced

"We're reducing the shelf space that we give the low-quality ice cream, but we haven't removed them," Chilcutt said.

While Chilcutt said the highquality ice creams have reduced the sales of the lower-quality brands, Peterson noted that in his store the premium brands have created a market all their own.

"The increase in sales has not affected the lower-quality sales," he Chilcutt attributed the success of the more expensive ice creams to consumer information and an aggressive marketing campaign, one that has extensively used couponing.

"They (manufacturers) have really done a good job of promoting the ice creams. And they're good," he

Peterson said that in addition to couponing, the smaller packaging of the ice cream has made their higher prices easier to swallow and thus have increased sales accordingly.

Jean Station

The arrival of the superpremium ice creams has meant a re-thinking of strategy for at least one ice cream franchise. The Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Co., the country's largest hand-dipped ice cream chain, has been faced with declining sales and an image among consumers that its ice cream is for children - not adult

Certainly the presence of such flavors as peanut butter and jelly, pink bubblegum and baseball crunch have helped foster that image. Faced with a shrinking percentage of the ice cream market, Baskin-Robbins embarked on a bold, new $5 million marketing campaign in late June.

Its primary strategy to compete with the superpremium ice creams was the development of its own International Creams line, which includes such tempting flavors as almond amaretto, chocolate raspberry truffle, cappuccino chip, brandied cherries and Grand Marnier - an ice cream with a Mandarin orange flavor. The new line has creamier textures, more butterfat and a price of $1.25 a scoop - 25 percent higher than the company's other flavors.

Regardless of how Baskin-Robbins fares, ice cream has made the successful transition from the golden age to the elegant age in, well, elegant style.

Israeli leaders delay agreement to switch jobs

JERUSALEM - Wrangling over political appointees delayed the longplanned job swap Tuesday between Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

The surprise delay appeared to be an effort by Peres' left-leaning Labor Party to wrest what concessions it could from Shamir's right-wing Likud bloc before ceding leadership

Shamir had been scheduled to pre-minister. He was to hand over the foreign ministry to Peres in keeping with a September 1984 accord which followed an electoral stalemate leaving each party too weak to govern without the other.

Shamir told reporters there had been "no change" in the rival parties' positions as he emerged from the session at the prime minister's office. He declined further comment.

Uzi Bar-Am, secretary general of Peres' left-leaning Labor Party, told reporters at a news conference his party was "committed to rotation." But he accused Likud of "bad faith" in negotiations about the government appointments.

'The rotation is in a state of crisis.

be sworn in as Israel's ninth prime The Likud is certain that on the eve of rotation it can subjugate Labor," Bar-Am said. He added that Peres had been trying "for weeks" to straighten out differences between the two camps.

Officials in both parties said the central dispute was over Labor's demand that a chief aide to Peres be named ambassador to Washington, in exchange for meeting Likud's demand to reinstate an outspoken former Likud minister whom Peres fired from the Cabinet.

The appointment of Cabinet Secretary Yossi Beilin to the key ambassador's post would give Peres considerable leverage in U.S.-backed Middle East peace efforts when he becomes foreign minister. The position in Washington is often reserved for a person close to the prime minister.

The current ambassador, Meir Rosenne, was appointed by Likud's former Prime Minister Menachem Begin in 1983.

The two parties' differences appeared to have been resolved during the weekend and both parties were scheduled to recommend Shamir's appointment to President Chaim Herzog on Tuesday. Herzog would then have asked Shamir to form a government and sent him to parliament for a vote of confidence.

But Bar-Am said Labor decided Tuesday to hold up rotation because it was unhappy with Likud's refusal to make concessions.

WEDNESDAY MEANS

MARGARITAS

WELL DRINKS ALL DAY & NIGHT!

RELAX ON OUR FAMOUS SANTA CLAUS PATIO!

By The Associated Press

The two leaders failed to resolve their differences at a 45-minute meeting, and it was unclear when they would go through with their agreement to rotate positions.

of the government.

sent his Cabinet to Parliament and

Intramural Injuries Sports Injuries Call 537-8305 Dr. Mark Hatesohl Chiropractic Family Health Center 3252 Kimball Avenue

MEREDITH MANOR INTERNATIONAL EQUESTRIAN CENTRE

(In the Candlewood Center)

Individually structured programs: 1 week through Master's degree Programs in dressage, jumping, western, training, breeding, business, teaching, blacksmithing, leatherworking.

Meredith Manor Waverly, WV 26184 Phone: 304/679-3128

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.

Comprehensive Health can help with free, confidential pregnancy testing and safe, affordable abortion services by qualified physicians. We offer birth control, gyn exams and treatment for sexually transmitted diseases.

No age requirement. We accept insurance, as well as VISA and MasterCard. A Kansas licensed facility, Comprehensive Health has been providing quality health care to women since 1974.

Comprehensive Health Associates

4401 West 109th (1-435 & Roe) Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400

WEEKLY SPECIAL

We Stock Cold Kegs
Please call 539-2351 or 539-5346 two days ahead to reserve your choice of beer.

"A deeply romantic...and sexy love story."

-Peter Travers, PEOPLE MAGAZINE

GENERRA

AGGIEVILLE - MANHATTAN

She is the most mysterious, independent, beautiful, angry person he has ever met.

He is the first man who has ever gotten close enough to feel the heat of her anger...and her love.

WILLIAM HURT

MARLEE MATLIN

Screenplay by HESPER ANDERSON and MARK MEDOFF Based on the Stage Play by MARK MEDOFF Produced by BURT SUGARMAN and PATRICK PALMER Directed by RANDA HAINES

A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

COMING SOON TO A THEATRE NEAR YOU.

Invitational art display includes pieces from personal collections

By The Collegian Staff

From 3-D fiber wall hangings to blown glass, pieces from the personal collections of K-State art faculty are on display until Oct. 24. in the Union Gallery.

The first invitational display will include personal art collections of 21 faculty members of the art department at K-State.

Rosella Ogg, co-chairman of the event, said the display should be most interesting.

'Most of us don't know anything that interests the other faculty...so it should be a surprise to us all," she said.

The works include graphic art, lithographs, etching and Intaglio, which is a combination of two or more graphic art techniques.

Planning for the event has taken six months. Most all art forms will be represented, including examples of collages, ceramics, clay art pieces and blown glass. Richmond said the only area not represented photography.

"It has been difficult for some of us to choose what to display," said Jessica Richmond, curator of art collections and primary organizer of the exhibition.

The display "Faculty Collects" will show the diverse interests of each faculty member and could possibly pave the way for a future display of the faculty members' creations, Ogg said.

Success in obtaining grants aids University

By The Collegian Staff

The success rate of K-State's faculty in seeking and receiving grants for the University is highly competitive with the other universities in the Big Eight, said Robert P. Lowman, associate dean of the Graduate

Such programs as the McDonald Project, an atomic physics program unique to the entire country and perhaps the only one of its kind in the world, are made possible by K-State

"Hundreds of faculty seek out grants every year," Lowman said. The department which received the largest single grant this year was the Department of Physics, including funds for the McDonald Lab, Lowman said.

A grant for $19.6 million was given to K-State in instructional programs this year, and more than $4 million was designated for sponsored programs.

"The University encourages and expects faculty to seek grants. A certain amount of their salary is budgeted to this specifically," Lowman said.

Becoming involved in grant programs gives the faculty a sharper edge, helps to give them a better understanding of what they are teaching and what methods are more beneficial in teaching their subjects, Lowman said.

The majority of grants are awarded by the federal government. Lowman said he was nearly certain the government's contribution was more than half the total amount received by the University. As reported in the U.S. General Accounting Office's report on University Funding, the federal government awards an average of 64 percent of total grants to universities nation-

The second major source for the University was the National Institutes of Health and Human Services. Their contribution is usually in the way of research grants, Lowman

Little money, in the form of grants, is awarded to the University at the undergraduate level, Lowman said.

HATS OFF TO A WILDCAT VICTORY!

Get your screw KU painter cap outside the Union 9 a.m.-3 p.m., Wednesday-Friday for only $4 and lead the Wildcats on to victory!

Sponsored by Phi Delta Theta pledge class

SMOTHERED

Smothered with cheese sauce or chili sauce or cheese and chili sauce!

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY ZENITH DATA SYSTEMS... A Winning Combination!

Zenith Systems, a major manufacturer of personal computers,

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY for two days

to answer questions about microcomputers and discuss how a Zenith computer can help you become more productive.

Zenith Data Systems manufactures five different personal computer models so you're sure to find one that is right for you. All of the models are IBM-compatible meaning you'll never have to worry about finding the right software program. We offer you high quality computers at affordable prices. When total performance is your only option, see why Zenith Data Systems is your only choice. Featured below are two of our most popular models:

The Z-158 provides you with all the features you need. except the high price. Just look at what you get.

- . 2 514" 360K disk drives
- . 256K RAM (expandable to 640K)
- . 8 Mhz Turbo Switch . Monochrome and RGB color capability
- . Serial and parallel ports . MS DOS 3.1 Operating System(FREE)

rice $1199.00

The Z-171 Laptop gives you all the power of a desktop computer system in a small package

- . Weighs less than 15 lbs
- . 2 5%" 360K disk drives
- 640K RAM
- . Full size 80x25 line screen . Serial and parallel ports
- MS DOS 3.1 Operating System (FREE)

FOR SALE NOW, To Current KSU, Faculty, Staff and Students! KSU ID Required

For more information and a demonstration, plan on visiting the Open House at this location:

October 16 and 17

TENITH | data systems

K-State Union Lobby in front of Bookstore Hours: 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

539-3166 1219 Bluemont in Aggieville

When we say our burrito is smothered, we mean SMOTHERED! We start out with a light flour tortilla and wrap it around beans, beef, onions, cheese, and our special sauce. Then, we smother it in the topping of your choice-chili sauce, cheese sauce, or cheese and chili sauce.

You've never had any

Mexican dish so delicious!

Wednesday, October 15, 1986

bicycle thief Vittorio DeSica's masterpiece of Italian neorealism is the story of an impoverished Italian laborer and his son, and the bicycle that is essential to their survival in postwar Italy.

Today, 7:30 p.m., Forum Hall & Tomorrow, 3:30 p.m. in Little Theatre and 7:30 p.m., forum Hall, KSU ID Required; Unrated; $1.75

k-state union

NOW AVAILABLE!—Feature Films Discount Pass. Only $8.50 for any 6 feature films-Buy 5, get one FREE! Available at any Feature Film

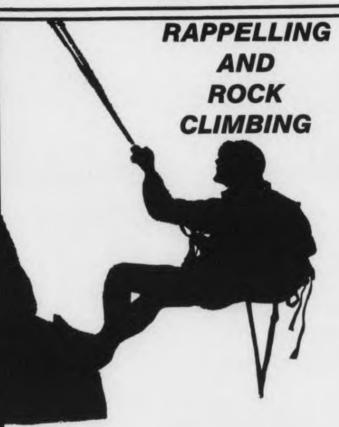

Back by popular demand! Peter James has spoken to KSU audiences twice in the past five years. On both occasions his lectures have packed the Union's Forum Hall. Don't miss this very informative speaker!!

"Peter N. James, a former rocket engineer who says he served secretly as a CIA spy, held his audience almost spellbound Friday night with a tale that might have been lifted straight from the pages of James Bond." Mark Fisher

Winsted Evening Citizen Winsted, Connecticut

Major Speaker Fall 1986 October 21, 8 p.m. Forum Hall

k-state union upc issues & ideas

Experience an exhilarating weekend of rappelling and rock climbing with the Union Program Council's Outdoor Recreation Committee November 1-2!

"Today" sign-up will be for K-State students only. Tomorrow through October 28, sign-up will be open to students, faculty, and the general public. Sign-up in the Union Activities Center, 3rd Floor between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Trip cost of $26 includes 4 meals, equipment rental, camping fee, and demonstration.

Trade on a New 35mm at Wolfe's.

Your Old Camera is Worth at Least $10 in STANDARD $29999 MAXXUM f1.7

The new standard for ease of use in interchangeable lens photography. The standard has autofocus and program exposure so you just point and shoot. Motor film advance.

auto-load, automatic film speed selection. Manual override for serious photographers. All Minolta products include

MINELTA

ANNIVERSARY

Coppola takes fantasy film past cliche

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reivewer

Stories about time travel have nearly become cliche. At times, it seems as if every other episode of "Star Trek" or "Twilight Zone" is about someone going back or forward through time. And just last year there was "Back to the Future." Do we really need another time-travel movie?

Film Review

But now we have "Peggy Sue Got Married," the new film by director Francis Coppola.

One mark of a good filmmaker is the ability to breathe life into wellworked, possibly hackneyed, situations, and that's exactly what Coppola does. Sure, much of "Peggy Sue Got Married" is familar, but Coppola provides a welcome twist by dispensing with all of the sci-fi hardware and gadgetry. In fact, the film isn't angle.

science fiction at all: It's a fantasy about suddenly finding oneself back in one's own past - "Twilight Zone"-style, but without the brooding atmosphere.

This happens to Peggy Sue (played by Kathleen Turner) after she faints during her 25th high school reunion. When she wakes up she's still in the school gymnasium, but now it's 1960, and once again Peggy Sue is a senior in high school.

Instead of loading this situation with suspense (will Peggy Sue ever get back to the present?) Coppola takes a more gentle approach and fashions a nostalgic view of a simpler, more romantic time.

It's a movie about Peggy Sue's chance to replay her senior year and correct what she botched before. And who among us can't identify with a situation like that? Who doesn't still carry with them the memory of a failed love or missed tackle? The plot is so simple it's a wonder no other time-travel film picked up on this mistakes means breaking up with her boyfriend, Charlie (played by Nicolas Cage). She knows their marriage will end in divorce, so instead of insisting that Charlie follow his father's footsteps and become an appliance salesman, she insists he follow his desire to become a rock 'n' roll singer. The movie works best in those moments when Peggy Sue can't quite act like the teen-ager she is supposed to be, but how can she? When her father is beaming with pride after having purchased a new family car - an Edsel - how can she do anything but laugh? And what's she supposed to do when her father catches her at the liquor cabinet and says she's grounded? It all strikes her as hilarious. "Peggy Sue Got Married" is a big change from Coppola's other recent films - "The Cotton Club" and "Rumblefish." This film is much more optimistic and life-affirming. To some people the movie might

For Peggy Sue, correcting her past seem like an intentionally commercial product, but the movie is so perceptive about family life and the problems of teen-agers that it's hard to avoid its charm.

> The movie isn't as stylistically striking as many of Coppola's other films, but it's loaded with characters we can really care about. Barry Miller plays the school genius, an oddball the other kids avoid. Newcomer Kevin O'Connor plays an intellectual who sees himself as another Jack Kerouac. Catherine Hicks plays Peggy Sue's school chum. And Don Murray and Barbara Harris play Peggy Sue's concerned and confused parents.

"Peggy Sue Got Married" isn't a perfect film (the ending is too neat and blindly romantic), and it isn't profound (in fact it comes perilously close to being fluff), but for once Coppola puts the emphasis on his characters instead of style, and the result is an amazingly insightful look at those opportunities we missed or botched as teen-agers.

Subject of landmark case testifies in reopening

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Linda Brown Smith, whose maiden name became the title of the landmark school desegregation case Brown vs. Topeka Board of Education, testified Tuesday she felt inferior to white students when she finally was sent to a desegregated junior high after spending seven years in black elementary schools.

Smith, 43, was 7-year-old Linda Brown in February 1951 when her father filed the original Topeka desegregation case, which resulted in the historic 1954 U.S. Supreme Court decision to abolish segregation in public schools nationwide.

The case was reopened in U.S. District Court here in 1979 by the parents of 17 Topeka schoolchildren who say the school board has not complied with the high court mandate to bring about racial balance in Topeka schools

Smith is the mother of two of the 17 schoolchildren in the current trial, which started last week before U.S. District Judge Richard D. Rogers.

"I didn't have a feeling of inferiority until I attended junior high school and saw what an integrated school was," Smith said during her 30 minutes on the witness stand. "I found it hard to relate to my white classmates because I was used to relating only to one race of classmates."

During the years she attended first through sixth grades, Smith said she and other black children in her northcentral Topeka neighborhood were required to cross a major thoroughfare, railroad tracks and wait on a busy street corner for a bus to get to their black-only elementary school. In the process, she walked past a white elementary school two blocks from her home.

Although the city provided free bus transportation to and from the black school, Smith said she and other black schoolchildren paid a high emotional price at the hands of a white bus driver who terrorized

"No, there was not a price paid in terms of dollars but we paid a price because of the schoolbus driver," she said. "I got so that I really feared this man. He'd say things like 'You Negros, you make me sick. Get on or I'll leave you.' I was really afraid of

The mother of two recent Topeka school students, Smith said she witnessed segregation in the city's schools as a parent, as well as during her own childhood.

She said her son and daughter attended a variety of Topeka elementary and secondary schools and in each school the student body and faculty was always lopsided racially.

"I was involved in the activities my children were in and I noticed most children in the schools on the west side of town were predominantly white - they were not as black as compared to Highland Park High School," she said, after making similar observations about a number of elementary schools her children attended.

A half dozen other blacks testified Tuesday about conditions they endured as students and teachers in the Topeka school district during the past four decades.

Among the witnesses was F.S. "Jack" Alexander, a Topeka native who served 12 years as city water commissioner. Alexander attended segregated elementary schools and integrated junior and senior high schools. However, the schools were far from desegregated, he said.

Alexander told of a structured system of segregation at Topeka High School, which he attended in 1946-49 along with Dean Smith, University of North Carolina basketball coach and a member of the University of Kansas' 1952 national champion basketball squad.

"For example, we weren't allowed to play on the basketball team," Alexander said. "We had an allblack basketball team called the Ramblers. Dean Smith played on the school's team. We only played against each other in gym class.'

The Ramblers' opponents were mainly other schools which had black teams and they were not allowed to play in the school gym. Alexander said social activities, such as the prom and other functions, were divided based on race.

"School parties were held separately, usually ours were in the music room on the second floor," he

Also testifying Tuesday was Thirkelle Howard, who said her son is being denied a well-rounded education because he is the only black in his fourth-grade class at a west-side Topeka elementary school.

makeup of the city, the nation or the

"I am not satisfied with the racial HANIMEX 35ES makeup of the school," she said. "I believe in every learning situation Compact and lightweight there should be children of all colors, 35mm with built-in flash. cultures and backgrounds. I feel at Requires no focusing Sliding times he does feel different from the cover protects camera lens other students. I don't think the racial makeup reflects the racial Hanimex 35FM

TONIGHT "What a Riot" Party coolee at the door. "Prizes-Contests"

DELTA UPSILON celebrates 30 years of excellence at K-State

καία Τποθήκη

0 900 0

STUDENT FINANCING is a reality only at

THE SOUND SHOP

Ben Franklin,

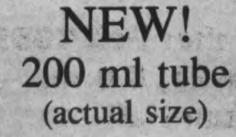

Aggieville

High Quality, durable with excellent lightfastness.

Winsor & Newton Oils All colors $5.25 ea.

STANDARD SIZE

1204 Moro

537-4708

"Better Quality for Less"

Westloop Center Manhattan 776-4910

New Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Sat. 9 a.m.-7 p.m., Sun. 1-6 p.m.

Standard with 35-70mm zoom $39999 in place of 50mm lens 12 Rolls of FREE 35mm film when you use Wolfe's Best Processing and Printing.

Minolta USA limited warranty.

Motorized 35mm

RICOH AF-40 Autofocus 35mm

Motorized autofocus 35mm camera with built-in flash. Auto film loading and film advance so you are always ready to autofocus Slim design 35mm camera.

CANON SNAPPY 50 $8999

flash, auto-load and motor advance. Built-in lens protector. Includes Canon USA Inc. limited warranty.

MINOLTA FREEDOM III

Autofocusing 35mm with total freedom film transport and auto switch-over to flash. Modern LCD information panel and sliding front protector for lens.

YASHICA MOTOR II

Compact autofocus 35mm camera. Perfect for carrying everywhere, easy for even children to use for excellent pictures. Built-in flash for indoor pictures

THE ONLY AUTOFOCUS WITH A ZEISS LENS

Motorized autofocus with auto-load and built-in flash Quality pictures with point and shoot simplicity.

$189⁹⁹ OLYMPUS OM-G f1.8

Precise off-the-film automatic exposure, compact and lightweight camera body. Great for travelers and hikers $25999

OM-G with 28-70 mm f2.8 Pro zoom

$25999

OLYMPUS OM-PC with 50mm f1.8

Focus and shoot with program exposure setting. Special ESP exposure control gets correct exposure under unusual light situations.

OM-PC with 28-70mm f2.8 Pro Zoom

Kruger debuts his 'Cats at midnight practice

By TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

Lon Kruger still remembers the roar of the crowd in Ahearn Field House and at 12:01 this morning he was pleasantly reminded of those fond thoughts.

The former Wildcat basketball great had indeed come home and he was greeted by about 4,000 screaming Wildcat fans as the new K-State basketball coach unveiled his version of Wildcat basketball at "Midnight Madness.

'I thought the crowd was outstanding, I remember these fans as being the best. They were rowdy and fun and appeared to be having a great time. I didn't know (how many we would have), maybe I was hoping for that many, but these crowds will never surprise me," Kruger said.

The early morning session came in the first minutes the National Collegiate Athletic Association will allow its member schools to conduct basketball practice.

Prior to the start of the scrimmage, each of the K-State players was introduced to the fans. The noise the crowd generated must have been impressive to the new players, but the roar for Wildcat star Norris Coleman must have made their hair stand on end.

"It was a real nice feeling. It seems like they were more into it this year than last year. I didn't anticipate that many fans; it really excited the team," Coleman said.

Coleman had found out only Monday morning from the NCAA he would be allowed to practice with his team. Coleman had planned upon requesting a restraining order Tuesday morning against an NCAA ruling concerning his high school grades which was preventing him from participating.

As the ruling currently stands, Coleman must sit out this season, but the 25-year-old Army veteran might still be thinking about court action to reinstate his eligibility.

know that to a later date. I'm just taking it as it comes," Coleman said.

"Our goal going in was to introduce the players to the fans and also to introduce the fans to players," Kruger said. "We told these players when we were recruiting them that we've got the best fans anywhere and they walked out there tonight and saw that - it makes them feel awfully good," Kruger said.

In a scrimmage such as this, it wasn't really important which team won or lost. And, being the first practice, it is difficult to project what Kruger's starting line-up will look like when his Wildcats take the floor Nov. 29 against South Dakota.

Between now and then, Kruger promises his players many hours of drills and hard work.

"They go through a pre-season conditioning program and they think they are in tip-top shape and they get out and play like that and they find out they have a ways to go," Kruger said. "We'll get back out and "I don't know, I probably won't establish some foundations and some attitude - the things all coaches like to see early in practice."

Forward Lance Simmons and guard Mark Dobbins battle a rebound in the purple and white basketball scrimmage at 12:01 a.m. today in Ahearn Field House. The early morning practice was the first of the season.

K-State basketball fans show their spirit as they yell for the Wildcats to come onto the floor in front of a "late

Fans add to Ahearn's 'madness'

By RON RENO Sports Writer

Lon Kruger's enthusiasm must be contagious.

Well over 4,000 fans proved they were every bit as anxious as K-State's new head basketball coach to get a glimpse of the 1986-87 edition of the Wildcat basketball team. The throngs showed up at Ahearn Field House early this morning to cheer on the 'Cats during "Midnight Madness."

"We're coming to see the ball team and support K-State," said sophomore Cami Payne, and then added, "and get a little rowdy."

The crowd was definitely "a little rowdy" at times, but there was also a great deal of curiousity surrounding the team's and Kruger's public debuts.

"I just wanted to come out and see how they're going to do this year," said sophomore John Richenburg. "I don't know how it's going to be with the new coach because they're starting all over again."

Freshman Jeff Masterson came out because, "I want to watch these guys jam. I want to watch Norris Coleman." The status of Coleman overshadowed even Kruger's debut as a topic among the fans. Coleman has been ruled ineligible to compete until Feb. 27, 1987, by the NCAA, but was allowed to begin practicing with the team.

"He's the whole key to their basketball program," said freshman Steve Canfield.

"For the first night they look real good," said sophomore Marc Smith. "If he (Coach Kruger) keeps the same spirit going, I don't know how successful a year we'll have, but we'll have a fun year."

Kruger called the K-State fans the "best crowd in the country" in a brief address prior to the scrim-

When the Wildcats host the Jayhawks, Salina duo may finally collide on field

Sports Writer

It's been a long time coming, but K-State running back Maurice Henry might finally get to show Tony Harvey what he can do on the football field.

The two friends grew up together in Salina, and both starred in athletics for different high schools. Harvey, a receiver for the Kansas Jayhawks, never got to compete against his friend in football during high school for one reason or another.

"We've been pretty good friends for a long time. We've competed against each other in track and in basketball, but I've never really had a chance to play against him in football because he was hurt or I was hurt, and I didn't go out one year. So I'm finally going to get a chance at him," Henry said. Henry, a 6-foot-1, 220-pound freshman who was red-shirted last year, is still recovering from a stress fracture of the foot that has severely limited his action this year. Coach Stan Parrish said Henry's chances of playing in Saturday's contest are only 50-50.

Harvey, on the other hand, has seen increased action as the Jayhawks' season has progressed. He has 14 catches for 176 yards for the 3-2 Kansas squad.

During his years at Salina Central, Henry faced constant comparisons to Harvey, who played both wide receiver and running back at Salina South, in part because Henry is a year younger. "Everyone was trying to compare him and his other running back to us," Harvey said. "And he expressed that he felt he had to work real hard because people would say, 'Well, Tony did this, and you guys are such good friends, you should be able to do this.' He told me he was glad when he got out of high school so he didn't have to hear that any more."

Though the friendship may be a pretty strong one now, the two didn't exactly hit it off right away. "He used to chase me home from grade school when I first moved to Kansas and we were in the same school," Henry said. "I think I was in the fourth grade and he was in the fifth, and everybody was kind of scared of him, he chased everybody home.'

Those days, however, are long since past.

"He and I are real good friends," Harvey said. "We spent a lot of time this summer together. When he was getting recruited up here (at KU), I was his host, because we were pretty good friends in high school." The two also expressed a great deal of mutual respect for one another's ability. Harvey said his friend was "pretty dominant" in high school, while Henry called

Harvey a "really great guy" and a "very good athlete."

Both head coaches echoed the players' assessments of each other.

"(Maurice is) a 220-pound running back that's faster than anybody we have," Parrish said. "He quite simply was the best on our team (before the injury). We haven't had him, and that will be a big plus (when he returns)."

Kansas coach Bob Valesente has been pleased with Harvey's develop-

"He's shown great speed out there," Valesente said. "He's helped us where we've had some injury problems and has been a wonderful addition to the receiving corps.'

But when summer comes, it will be the game itself that dominates Henry's and Harvey's conversation.

"...the bottom line will not be who did the best, but whose team came out on top," Harvey said.

Mets prevail in 12th

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Gary Carter broke out of a 1-for-21 slump with a run-scoring single in the 12th inning that gave the New York Mets a 2-1 victory over the Houston Astros on Tuesday and moved them within a game of their third National League pennant.

The game-winning hit gave the Mets a 3-2 lead in the best-ofseven playoff against Houston and sent the series back to the Astrodome for Games 6 and, if necessary, 7.

Jesse Orosco, in relief of Dwight Gooden, pitched two hitless innings for his second victory in this series. Orosco now has worked five scoreless innings in the playoffs.

Boston forces Game 7

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - The Boston Red Sox, behind Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd's gutty pitching and Spike Owen's four hits, charged past the California Angels 10-4 Tuesday night, tying the American League playoffs and setting up a decisive seventh game.

By winning Game 6, the Red Sox overcame a 3-1 deficit in the best-ofseven series and put themselves in the position they wanted.

Roger Clemens, Boston's ace right-hander and the most dominant pitcher in baseball this season, will start Game 7 Wednesday night, opposed by left-hander John Candelaria.

The deciding game will mark yet another chance for the Angels to win the first pennant in their 26-year history and for Manager Gene Mauch to reach his first World Series in 25 years.

K-State, KU contest: it's what college football is all about Tradition - it's what college football is all about.

The great rivalries between schools in college football is as American as apple pie. Michigan-Michigan State, Oklahoma-Nebraska, UCLA-Southern California those are great rivalries. Great programs which clash once a year to battle for school pride and respective bragging rights. Ah, isn't it American. And, let us not forget we have another one of college football's oldest rivalries in our midst and coming up upon us quickly.

When K-State and Kansas meet on the football field throw out the miserable records; don't worry about a boring game. This is a war - a war intended to prove the better of the state's two largest schools. A victory can be used as as leverage in recruiting new war-

Even when K-State football is at its worst, this game can be a classic.

This year promises to be quite a show. New K-State coach Stan Parrish has been careful to nurture the hatred between the two schools. He walked into a foreign program and immediatly began taunting the colors red and blue.

He has thrown gas on the rivalry's fire with his "I hate KU" comments. He is taking the game's tradition a step further — he wants to someday see it included with the bigger schools' games previously mentioned. As President Jon Wefald has said, the fascinating thing about athletics is one team or person walks away a winner. In few other phases of our society does that happen - it certainly didn't happen in the recent "summit" in Iceland and no one ever truly walks away a winner from a war.

FITZGERALD Sports Editor

Americans are fascinated with being the best - with winning.

No other sport sums those feeling up better than college football. Everything is put on the line once a week and a team almost always walks away a winner. K-State enters this game with a 1-4 record, but this team is much better than the team which lost to the Jayhawks last year in

Lawrence 38-7. This team has been making steps every week since their embarrassing 17-0 loss to Northern Iowa. After a week of rest following their loss (but achievement of sorts) at the hands of Oklahoma, they are enthusiastic

KU is 3-2 on the season. But if you think the Wildcats' pre-conference schedule was easy, KU's was a joke. This team is not nearly as good as the Jayhawk team from last year which beat the 'Cats.

This sets the stage for a classic game - the first in Parrish's reign at the K-State helm. My prediction for the K-State-KU game: a hard fought battle which will be very dramatic with the final score, K-State, 24,

Summit

Continued from Page 1

an immediate one-sided advantage, and a dangerous one.'

Gorbachev talked of possibly having to counter the Star Wars pro-

"Soviet people know this, and all people around the world should know this as well," he said. "But we are opposed to a power play. This is an extremely dangerous undertaking in the nuclear missile age.'

At the Pentagon, a top U.S. arms control strategist said the Soviet Union may well have wished to protect some of its own breakthroughs in Star Wars-type research when it demanded that the United States give up non-laboratory testing of America's space-based missile shield concept.

Richard N. Perle, assistant defense secretary for international security policy and a member of Reagan's negotiating team in Reykjavik, also suggested that the Soviets advanced their unacceptable demands to limit "Star Wars" research in hopes of stopping all U.S. research in space, including work on new communication systems and Earlier, Reagan, briefing members of Congress on the superpower arms discussions, said, 'Don't think this is the end of the book." He won bipartisan support for efforts to put talks back on track.

Reagan, greeted by standing applause from the lawmakers in the Cabinet Room, accused Gorbachev of derailing the talks by insisting that all agreements "will be held hostage to a non-negotiable demand that the United States foreswear once and for all our right to develop a stategic defense" against missiles.

In nearly 11 hours of talks, Reagan and Gorbachev reached agreement on sweeping reductions in long-range nuclear missiles, and medium-range missiles in Europe and Asia. However, the accord unraveled because of Soviet insistence on restricting Reagan's "Star Wars" plan for a space-based missile defense system.

Administration officials stressed Tuesday, as they had ever since shortly after the summit ended, that arms control negotiations are not

"I think after these propaganda blasts of this week, in which the Soviets will try to blame us for the failure of Iceland, when that wave is past. I think quiet negotiations will go on," White House chief of staff Donald Regan said in an interview on NBC's "Today" show.

"I think the process will start again and we'll be back to the bargaining table," he said.

Secretary of State George Shultz, appearing on the "CBS Morning News," said he's certain to meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze when the two attend an international conference in two weeks in Vienna, Austria.

your eye.

Seminar

Continued from Page 1

"'Cuba, Kansas' brings the beauty of the people and the landscape of Kansas to view, instead of what people usually think of as flat and boring," Adams said of the presentation. "It might even bring a tear to

The afternoon events will take

"Cameras in the Courtroom," will be presented at 2:30 p.m. by Dave

Kaup, chief photographer at the place in the Union Little Theatre.

WASHINGTON - House and

The conferees agreed to language stating that continued compliance with the limits on nuclear ar-

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-capped accessible. (1-52)

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

on, national origin, sex or ancestry

ANNOUNCEMENTS

maments set by the unratified SALT on efforts to limit the payment of terests The House had voted to require continued SALT II compliance while the Senate had urged President Reagan to continue observing the treaty language more favorable to House conferees, Senate negotiators won a provision allowing the Pentagon to proceed with production of chemical weapons.

The conferees also compromised

dent photographer, will present "How to Get That Internship," at 4

Daryl Heikes, a photographer for U.S. News & World Report who also attended the summit in Iceland, will give the final presentation, "Color Lighting," at 4:15. will be Tim Janicke, photo editor at A photo critique, which will take the Kansas City Times; Gary place in Kedzie 105, will conclude the Haynes, assistant managing editor

> Adams said the public is welcome to attend. Students, faculty and staff will be admitted free with K-State ID's. Registration paid in advance for the seminar is $10, registration paid at the door is $15.

Defense authorization bill supports adherence to SALT II arms limits

Olathe Daily News.

Mass Communications.

(Colo.) Star.

At 2:45 p.m. a panel discussion on

"Ethics in Photography" will be moderated by Carol Oukrop, head of the Department of Journalism and at the Philadelphia Inquirer; John

Bock, staff photographer at the

Topeka Capital-Journal: and Sam

Greene, co-owner of the Delores

Andy Nelson, junior in journalism and mass communications and stu-

Those participating in the panel

By The Associated Press

Senate conferees completed work Tuesday night on a $291.8 billion defense authorization bill after agreeing to language urging continued compliance with SALT II arms limits.

The final authorization is $28.5 billion less than what President Reagan had requested for defense. The compromise comes close to a halfway point between the House and Senate versions of the defense authorization bill. The House would have authorized $286 billion and the Senate, $295 billion.

II treaty was in the nation's best in-

In return for adopting SALT II

The conferees agreed to allow production of the 155mm chemical artillery shell but included language saying the Army could not "fill, load, assemble or pack" the shell during the current fiscal year.

union wages by defense contractors and on an affirmative action program for minority contractors.

The conferees scuttled House and Senate-passed provisions that would have restricted the application of the Davis-Bacon labor standards act to defense contractors. Both sides agreed to go back to the status quo, under which contractors on projects worth more than $2,500 are required to pay prevailing local wages.

On affirmative action, the conferees agreed to set a goal that 5 percent of all new defense contracts be awarded to minority contractors during a three-year period. The cent minority set-aside while the concerns when it comes to South Africa, he said.

Brutus

Continued from Page 1

However, one point of strategic concern, that of strategic minerals, is invalid, Brutus said.

The U.S. government says South Africa has strategic minerals needed by the United States, and if they cannot be obtained there, the United States "would have to buy them from the commies," he said.

Upon analysis the same strategic minerals "can be found in Australia, Borneo, even in Colorado," he said.

Another concern for U.S. policymakers is the stability of the region, he said.

"There is a notion in Washington, first enunciated by (former Secretary of State) Henry Kissinger that says the future history will always be written by whites in Africa," Brutus said. As a result, the United States believes only the present government can keep the region In the meantime, the South African military is becoming more aggressive in the region, Brutus said. "Not only is the apartheid government dominating 80 percent of its people, but it wants to dominate the region," he said.

Brutus pointed to recent incursions into neighboring countries as evidence of this aggression - including the most recent threats of retaliation by South Africa against Mozambique.

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30

tive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper. Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad. Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49) By Berke Breathed Hayes House of Music

> Guitar Strings and Drumsticks -BUY ONE SET & GET SECOND SET 1/2 PRICE

327 Poyntz 776-7983

BROWN BAG Babblings-Every Wednesday in State Room #1, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. Sharing among

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 1/4 lb. Hamburger, 1/2 order curly fries and medium drink for $2

Exp. Date 10/19 (with coupon)

ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage clothing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

JOIN THE Irresistible Force:

The Kansas Army National Guard needs you! If you're a High School Junior, Senior, or Grad. between the ages of 17 and 35, you can become part of the IRRESISTIBLE FORCE

*$2,000 Cash Bonus

*$5,040 New G.I. Bill

*$10,000 Student Loan Repayment Program

*$20,000 Health Profession Loan Repayment Program

*And Earn Over $1,200 per year Part-Time

> For Information Call: SFC Don Hash (913)537-4108 day (913)537-2478 night

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

By Eugene Sheffer

Bloom County

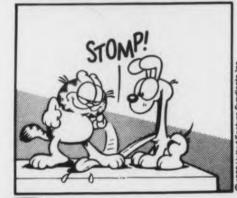

Garfield

By Jim Davis

eanuts

By Charles Schulz

59 Jewish

DOWN

group 2 On —

(equal)

5 Punish amateur noises

players

9 Stud

6 Radio

7 Ten

month

rossword

41 Russian

43 Storage

47 Gets on one's

45 Ebb

despot

compart soapbox

others:

accessory

100 dinars

abbr.

stitch

56 It equals

ACROSS 1 Enervates 5 Half a ballroom dance? 8 Steps to a river landing: India 12 Fencer's

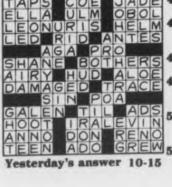

51 And need 13 Old crone 52 Salesman's 14 Part 15 Poker or gin 17 "The Good 54 Knitter's Earth" 55 Rubber heroine 18 Tryouts 19 Latest 21 Dry fruit

22 Soft mineral 23 Recipe measure 26 Hawk's cage 28 "Hard Cash' author 31 Minute particle 33 Court barrier 35 "The Tin (movie)

36 Mexican coins 38 Catch a crook 40 Barely passing grade

11 Camp shelter 16 Down in

1 Religious the mouth 20 Pitcher's handle 23 Beret 3 Around: 24 Indian prefix 4 Family car 25 Vacation missive 27 Skin bump

29 Payable 30 Uncle: dial percenter 8 Made 32 River to the Rhine menacing 34 Artist's stand 37 See 16

Down

guard it 57 Take the 39 Ostrich or 10 Exclapart of 58 Lab animal oriole mation 42 Return 44 Mother-of-Solution time: 26 mins. pearl denizens small articles 48 Monkey's pride 49 He sold his birth right. 50 Stock broker's neighbor

49 CRYPTOQUIP

DMEV EVMWJRCQJCCH ZFMPCQ

RQFWWVH, "M'B ZJV PFAZ CD ZJV RMW ZMBV

BVEHVQA. Yesterday's Cryptoquip: ON A HOLIDAY, MOST GOOD DISTILLERY STAFFERS GET TIME AND A FIFTH.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: W equals G

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment, 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537 1329. (18tf)

QUIET, WELL-maintained, one bedroom furnished apartment in modern complex, two blocks west of campus. Laundry, patio, parking facilities. $216/ nonth, November 1 lease, deposit. No pets, wa terbeds. Prefer non-smoking graduate student, re search assistant or mature employed adult. 537-9686 for application and information. (34-39) NON-SMOKING FEMALE, $150 bills paid. Call 539-

FOR SALE—AUTO

8464 or 539-8401 after 5 p.m. (37-44)

1978 T-BIRD-Blue, power steering, power brakes, stereo, very clean. Call 539-9044, ask for Kendall

06

1971 VW Station Wagon-automatic, dependable $875. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (331f) 1981 CHEVETTE-Four-speed, air conditioning, AM-

$2,300. Call 539-0567 or 537-1107. (34-38) 1977 CUTLASS Supreme-AM/FM, air, runs good, best offer. Call 776-9881 after 6 p.m. (36-38)

$2,000. Call 537-0401 before 8 p.m. (36-40) 1977 HONDA Civic Wagon, 74,000 miles, best offer, 776-1211 or 532-6629. (37-41)

1979 FORD Mustang-76,000 miles, runs good,

1970 VOLKSWAGEN Karmann Ghia. Monza exhaust, Guards red paint, runs great, 537-7866. (37-39) BUYING OR selling a car, truck, motorcycle, RV, boat, trailer? See Wheel 'n' Deal, Blue Hills Shopping Center, Saturdays 8 a.m. Parking spot, window sticker, area advertising, $10. Manhattan Emergency Shelter, 537-3113. (37-38)

FOR SALE-MISC

PRAIRIE HAY, $1.50 per bale, will deliver. Call Doug, 532-6767 or Warnego, 1-456-7491. (33-37) REVERSIBLE LEATHER/suede ladies jacket, size 14 Call 776-9881. (36-38)

WALNUT, ROUND glass-top coffee table. 776-9881

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 69¢

1/4 Hamburger Exp. Date 10/19 (with coupon)

537-3335 YAMAHA CR-1020 receiver, 70 watts per channel, excellent condition. Why pay more for comparable new one, $250. Call 776-2480. (36-39)

LOCK BOX for S-10 or Ranger pick-up. Manual typewriter. 539-5234. (37-39)

KU-K-STATE football tickets for sale. Call 532-2161. ALPINE CAR stereo, equalizer, amps, F/B speakers Sony compact disc player with 11 discs, $1,000. Call 776-5646, Mike Maki. (37-39)

ANY LENGTH available at UNDERCOVER

SLIPS

Open Mon.-Fri. 10-5:30 Thurs. 10-8, Sat. 10-5

1224 Moro

A+ Aggieville Undercover Understands Underwear TWO K.U.-K-State football tickets for sale. Price negotiable. Call 776-7018. (37-38) ONE YEAR old Bianchi 12-speed bicycle. Great condition. Call Todd at 539-5098 after 6 p.m. (37-39)

HELP WANTED

year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (26-64) OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year around. Europe, South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA,

3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230

92625. (27-46) LAB ASSISTANTS for Pathology Laboratory. Part-time, 1-£ p.m. and full-time 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Send qualifications to Peterson Clinical Laboratory, P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, Ks. 66502. EOE. (31-37)

WORK STUDY student secretary. Accurate typing.

clerical skills. Learn word processing, database programs. $3.50 plus depending on experience. See/call Pam, Center for Aging, Fairchild #1, 532-

ALTERATIONS SEAMSTRESS BRASS BUCKLE Apply in person Oct. 21 between 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

118 S. Fourth

WANTED MALE or female for part-time position dairy help. Call 1-944-3641. (34-38) THINKING OF taking some time off from school? We need Mother's Helpers. Household duties and childcare. Live in exciting New York City suburbs. Room, board, salary included. 203-622-0717 or 914-273-1626. (36-38) WANTED-MAINTENANCE man-(plumbing), for occasional small repair jobs. 537-0428. (36-38)

MODELS NEEDED for drawing classes at KSU Call 532-6605, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. (36-39) WORK STUDY student secretary. Typing, word processing—also acts as department reception ist. $3.50 plus, depending on experience. See/call Marjorie, Department of Management, 19 Calvin 532-6296. (37-41)

LOST

$25 REWARD for lost Kodak slide carousel with advertising slides in Union, Thursday, S Call Student Publications Office, 532-6555 (37-39) TWO KEYS on leather piece with silver concho, lost last week. Call 539-7948. (37-39)

16

TEAM SIGMA-This is no longer a game It's quest! Let's win! P.S. "What's the score?" (37)

ALICE O. - Welcome to your new family. Love. 7, (37) G.PHI Heidi Scherer-Can't wait to get you as my dot! Love, ?. (37) SIGMA '83 Pledge Class-G.D.A B.S (37) TO THE classy women of Tri Delta. The preparations have been made, the planning is done. Homecoming '86 will be nothing but fun. We'll practice and party and pomp 'til we drop, and when it's all fin ished we'll come out on top. ATO's—Tri Delts #1 Pomp naked. (37)

PATTY AND Charlie-You work us hard, and get things done, so on Union Day, we'll be #11 Theta and Sigma Nu '86. (37) ASHLAND DUO-Don't forget us when we're gone So what is it, a snack or a meal? J and P (37)

TRI SIGMA Betsy Hobbs-I live with a bunch of slobs! And that makes me sob! And I love corn on the cob! Sigma love, Mom. (37) KAPPA DELTA Seniors had a blast, but on the weekend went too fast: Senior sneak ISU mony, mony Grandaddy's nasty bottom bot tom, top, top... who didn't get a straw B+J which drinking game? Paradise by Dashboard "Get this cat off my head". Ray, need a hat? Kevin, need a shirt? Here's to Jim Beame

Quib contest. Cave in Socks on the teeth
I never! Mash mates? "The Ditch" Porno fixs ... Who's Johnny? You talk too much ... Ripped off then got ripped party favors . . . the day after! (37)

AZD PLEDGE Sneakers: It was a stormy trip to Nor man, but a blast was had once we got there Thanks for the good times. We O.U. Love, the Sen ior Sneakers and one Junior (37) PIKE-DARON and Ron-Ocopps! We forgot the nia and take a --? Ha! Ha! From L and S. (37) BIG BASH Flash #2, to the men of K-State: Stay close to your phones, you may get that call. The 70th re-union is drawing near. Hope to see you there Gamma Alpha. (37)

bill! Guess we'll have to "dance" our way to Califor

SIGMA CHI Scott Turner: Can't wait for Friday night Hot tubbin' will be a blast! Love, Mom. P.S. Know who I am yet? (37) PI PHI's-Get fired up for nuts and bolts on Friday! Sigma Nu. (37)

DE-I think you're terrific! KJ. (37) SIG EP Cannon - We're your favorite G-Phi's, Homecoming's our favorite game. Meet us at the Eagle's Nest. You'll then find out our names! (37) THETA JUNIORS and Seniors are cool and bitchin

Nu Juniors and Seniors. (37)

ROOMMATE WANTED ROOMMATE WANTED: Responsible, non-smoker for nice two bedroom apartment, completely furnished, fireplace and dishwasher. In quiet neighborhood. Call 537-9439. (33-37)

Tonight you'll sup' from our kitchen! Love, Sigma

ROOM FOR rent in two bedroom at 238 Westwood. yard/parking, $145/month plus utilities. Quiet neighborhood, 539-3835, (34-37) VERY NICE two bedroom apartment, $100 rent. Stop by 1019 Bluemont anytime after 1 p.m. Monday-Friday. (35-39) MALE-$95/month plus utilities. Call 539-5196 be fore 10 a.m. and after 7 p.m. (36-40) ROOMMATE FOR second semester, $125/month plus one-half KPL. Great location, fireplace washer-dryer, two bedrooms, 776-6803, (37-41) SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (111) MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free. Clini cally tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf) RESUMES. COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf) FREE SET of spark plugs with a tune-up on your import car at J & L Auto Service. Call 1-494-2388, St. George (offer ends October 15, 1986). (29-37) WORKING ON a paper? Word processing, reason able rates. Laura, 532-2362, room 131. Call for information. (33-37) WORD PROCESSING and Laser Printing. Call 539-6774 after 5:30 p.m. (36-39)

WRITING A paper? Word processing, near lette

quality, editing, reasonable rates. Laura, 532-2362 (#131), leave message. (36-40)

House had voted to require a 10 per-Senate had not included any.

cents per word over 15; Five consecu-CLASSIFIED RATES

DOUBLE

DILLONS DOUBLE YOUR SAVINGS ON ALL MANUFACTURER'S "CENTS OFF" COUPONS UP TO AND INCLUDING 50¢

IN VALUE. BONUS Special!

Food Club Grade "A" Large

Supr Trim Pork Blade Steak

Additional Purchases 69¢ Dozen Limit One

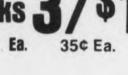

Dozen

All Other Varieties 12" Pizzas 500 OFF.

"Ready To Eat Fully Cooked!" Hot Dogs, Hot Links or Polish Sausages Ea.

Diet Pepsi, Pepsi Free, Diet Pepsi Free or Mt. Dew 6/12 oz. Cans

BONUS Special!

Dillon's Incredible Hunk

Prices Effective Oct. 15-21, 1986 - Limit Rights Reserved.

BONUS Special! 'Pick Of The Crop"

(Available Only In Stores With In-Store Bakeries.)

BONUS Special! Orange Roughy

BONUS Special! Sea Preme

BONUS Special! w Crab Clusters

Homelike 16 oz. Loaves

"Look For Our Recipes At Our Seafood Counter"!

West Coast Fresh BONUS Com

BONUS Special!

"New" Dillon's Classic All Natural

BONUS Special!

15 oz.

Cans

WITHIN OUR DELIVERY AREA

Sunshine

Sunshine Krispy BONUS Special Regular or Unsalted,

16 oz. Box

Flower Shop... For Boss's Day Give Your Boss A Beautiful Mixed Cut Flower Arrangement In A Re-Usable Ceramic Coffee Mug

(Available Only In Stores With Flower Shops.)

Prices Effective Oct. 15-21, 1986 Limit Rights

Reserved.

Half Gal.

ogether

K-State women's basketball coach Matilda Mossman opens practice Wednesday with the task of piecing together a team. See Page

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Thursday October 16, 1986

Volume 93, Number 38

Volunteer

encounters

By CAROL LENKNER Collegian Reporter After spending time in the Appalachian Region last summer,

Vince Guthrie, senior in industrial engineering, came to the conclusion that although the people may be poor, they are no worse off than of life, and it was a great learning experience to be amidst this

He participated in the Glenmary

Home Missioners Summer

Volunteer Program. The program took place near Vanceburg, Ky. In the program, priests and brothers work to bring social justice and spiritual development to the people

It gave Guthrie and 30 to 40 others in his group an opportunity to serve the people of Lewis County and learn about the history, culture and

"They don't realize what they don't have," Guthrie said. "So they seem content with their way of life and are basically happy people.' Living accommodations for the group were very basic. He said the group members slept on the cement floor of a barn - a barn in which one could see daylight creep through the walls when the sun rose

Washing and cleaning was done in a nearby stream, he said. The group members ate government food, just as many people of the

The members visited with several people who had been born in the Vanceburg area or had lived

"I particularly remember visiting two brothers named Noah and Charlie," Guthrie said. "These brothers told great mountain stories which were enjoyed by friends and neighbors throughout had no modern machinery and rarely made it to town for provisions. People would pay Noah and Charlie to go into the woods and "They lived off of the land. They lifestyle," Guthrie said.

of rural America.

poverty of the area.

each morning.

there many years.

find spices for them.

area do.

the area.

"The people had a different way anyone else

rustic life

Holmes group invites college to be member

By KELLY KLOVER Collegian Reporter

Kansas State University

The College of Education is in the process of deciding whether or not to join the Holmes group, a proposed organization that will remodel teacher education.

The group is "mostly a set of ideas," said David R. Byrne, dean of the College of Education. Byrne said the group is simply a proposal by college of education deans from various institutions to remodel teacher education in this country.

Last spring, the organization invited what they considered to be the leading research institutions in the nation to join them. Of the 131 invitations, both K-State and the University of Kansas were asked to join.

The College of Education will meet Oct. 28 to discuss and make a recommendation to the dean on whether the University should accept the invitation. Membership is a presidential decision.

"The College of Education doesn't join," Byrne said, "the University

The faculty has been meeting to determine where they stand on all of the issues related to the proposal. Kenneth B. Hoyt, professor of administration and foundations of education, has taken the responsibility of coordinating and facilitating the faculty response. Hoyt also is the University Distinguished Professor for the College of Education, a position assigned by the president and the Board of Regents.

Hoyt said he is not as concerned whether the faculty members vote "yes" or "no," but rather that they make an educated decision.

There are nine commitments the Holmes group asks each joining in-

See HOLMES, Page 10

Vince Guthrie, senior in industrial engineering, participated in the Glenmary Home Missioners Summer Volunteer Program last summer. Guthrie worked on projects to serve the people of Lewis County, Ky.

fashioned mountain people."

"These brothers were real old-

See GUTHRIE, Page 10

KU-K-State game may attract 40,000

By The Collegian Staff

Although KSU Stadium probably won't be bursting from a record overflow crowd on Saturday, the annual Sunflower Classic pitting the University of Kansas and K-State is expected to be showcased in front of an estimated 35,000 to 40,000 fans, according to Mike Jones, business manager in Department of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Jones said he is crossing his fingers for an overabundant walk-in crowd to increase the turnstile count on Saturday for the 11:38 a.m. kickoff.

"We had almost 5,000 people walk up for the Northern Iowa game," Jones said. "With good weather and a good walk-up crowd, we could easily hit 40,000."

The early weather forecast has predicted temperatures in the midto low-70s for Saturday, and no rain is expected.

The athletic department sent 7,000

tickets for the game to KU and is still waiting on figures from Lawrence before a better indication can be reached of pregame sales.

Carol Adolph, ticket office manager and administrative assistant, said Wednesday evening there is "plenty of tickets still remaining." Those seats are located in the south end zone and scattered areas of the upper student section on the west side of the stadium.

Jones said there won't be portable seating placed on the grass in the north end zone for the game as had been done previously for some KU and Nebraska games in KSU Stadium.

"We're setting around 30,000 right now," Jones said Wednesday night. "We are getting closer to a sell-out but there is a ways to go.

"We're hopeful to have less empty seats than they had in Lawrence for last year's game. I think they had something like 7,000 or 8,000 of

Twelve attorneys seek to occupy Kansas Supreme Court vacancy

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - The names of 12 candidates for the impending vacancy on the Kansas Supreme Court were received Wednesday at the Supreme Court clerk's office by the 5 p.m. deadline for applications.

Among those who either submitted their own names or had them offered by someone else were Charles Michael Lennen, chairman of the Kansas Corporation Commission; six district court judges including former state Sen. Donald Allegrucci of Pittsburg; and five practicing attorneys including Fred W. Phelps Jr. of the Phelps Chartered civil rights law firm in Topeka.

The vacancy will be created when Alfred G. Schroeder, chief justice of the Kansas Supreme Court, retires in January.

After 10 years as chief justice, Schroeder, who turned 70 on June 5, will leave the seven-member court officially on Jan. 12, 1987, when the new crop of lawmakers are sworn in and take office.

The names of the candidates will now be screened by the Supreme Court Nominating Commission at a meeting Oct. 30. The list will be reduced to a half dozen or so who will be interviewed by that panel at another meeting.

The commission will submit the names of three nominees to Gov. John Carlin, who will then have 60 days to select one of the three to fill the vacancy.

Lennen, 41, is an attorney who has been a part of the Carlin administration from the start of the governor's first term nearly eight years ago.

He served in Carlin's executive cabinet from 1979-83 as secretary of revenue before being appointed to the corporation commission in May 1983. On the commission, Lennen has presided over a number of important utility rate cases, including the famous Wolf Creek nuclear power plant case which gained national attention when the commission drastically reduced utility requests for $508.9 million in rate in-

Born and raised in western Kansas, Lennen once was administrative assistant to former U.S. Rep. Martha Keys, who represented Kansas' 2nd District in Con-

Allegrucci, 50, is currently Crawford County District Court judge and served one four-year term in the Kansas Senate in 1976-80. He did not seek re-election in 1980 and instead was the Democratic nominee for Congress in the 5th District. He lost that race to U.S. Rep. Bob Whittaker, an Augusta Republican, and later was appointed district judge by Carlin. Other nominees for the vacancy are:

-William Randolph Carpenter Jr., 54, of Topeka and a Shawnee County District Court judge.

-Janet Anderson Chubb, 39, Topeka, a practicing attorney and one-time nominee for U.S. Attorney for Kansas. -William M. Cook, 51, Kansas City, Kan., and Wyandotte County District Court judge. -Russell Eli Cranmer, 64, Wichita, a practicing attorney. -Richard James Croker, 57, Westwood, a practicing attorney. -Jerry Gill Elliott, 50, Wichita, a practicing attorney and twice a nominee for the federal 10th Circuit Court of Appeals in

-John Richard Hamilton, 46, Topeka, a practicing attorney.

-Cordell David Meeks, Jr., 43, Kansas City, Kan., and Wyandotte County District Court judge.

-Phelps, 33, Topeka, a practicing at-

-Lawrence Herbert Rohleder, 55, Great Bend, and Barton County District Court judge.

Schroeder's retirement is significant because Carlin will be able to add a fourth Democrat to the court and give Democrats a majority on the high court.

Coliseum contractors meet to coordinate construction

By PATTI PAXSON Collegian Reporter

With the groundbreaking of the Fred Bramlage Coliseum planned for Saturday, contractors for the project met with University officials Wednesday for the first of several "work meetings."

Mike Barr, regional vice president of J.E. Dunn, general contractor for the project, and more than a dozen others involved in the planning and building of the coliseum met in Dykstra Hall to discuss the coliseum.

"This is a working group," said Vince Cool, associate director of facilities planning. "We will meet once every two weeks. We will not discuss politics. We will discuss getting the job done.

Besides determining a preliminary timetable for starting excavation, Barr said his company is ready to set up on-site offices next week. The offices are trailers that will serve as a "headquarters" for the contractors, architects and engineers of the coliseum project. The trailers will be placed near the southwest end of the construction site, Cool said.

"We have a very rough, preliminary schedule," Barr said in regard to any further plans concerning construction. He did say, however, that steel erection would start in June 1987. The construction of the steel framework is scheduled to last about four

"We will dig the bowl area after the steel erection (instead of before)," Barr said. Barr did not state who the major subcontractors will be for the coliseum project. However, J.E. Dunn will release a "substantial list of subcontractors for approval by the end of next week," he said.

Issues of direct concern to the University were raised at the meeting. One topic concerned the possible interference with parking at the remainder of this season's football games. Cool requested that the contractors be aware of this in their initial construction efforts.

'We have a very rough, preliminary schedule.'

-Mike Barr

Another issue discussed at the meeting was the storage of construction materials. One of the contractors pointed out that the prices of steel and copper are "skyrocketing," and if the material is not purchased soon, the University may face higher prices than expected for the materials. The group agreed that storage of these construction materials is a problem that needs to be solved.

Additionally, Cool requested that the contractors take care in their excavating near the University's R.V. Christian Track so as not to damage it in any way. He said the Manhattan residents who live south of the construction site would probably appreciate the contractors' consideration of them as

INTERNATIONAL

American identifies CIA employee

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — A top Sandinista official said Wednesday that an American captured in Nicaragua identified a man he claims is a CIA employee in El Salvador as being involved in the 1976 bombing of a Cuban airliner that killed 73 people.

Deputy Interior Minister Luis Carrion Cruz said Ramon Medina, identified last week by the American, Eugene Hasenfus, as one of two Cuban-American CIA employees working at Ilopango Military Base in San Salvador, actually was Luis Posada Carriles. Posada Carriles escaped last year from a Venezuelan jail and has not been Hasenfus, captured after Nicaraguan troops shot down a rebel supply flight Oct. 5, said in a news conference last Thursday that Medina and Max Gomez, both Cuban-Americans, worked for the CIA and coordinated flights from Ilopango, El Salvador's military airport.

President Reagan and other U.S. officials have denied involvement of the American government in the Contra rebel supply flights, which would violate congressional restrictions.

Carrion said at a news conference that Hasenfus, shown a photograph of Posada Carriles, identified him as "a person he understands to be Ramon Medina."

Grenades kill 1, injure 70 in Israel

JERUSALEM — Attackers threw a pair of hand grenades Wednesday near a gate to the walled Old City near Judaism's sacred Wailing Wall, killing at least one person and wounding more than 70 other civilians, soldiers and tourists.

Both explosions occurred as about 300 recruits of an elite Israeli army infantry unit were returning from a swearing-in ceremony at the Sidewalks were bloodstained and remnants of clothing were strewn about. Ambulances rushed to the scene.

Police said they initially believed the blasts were caused by bombs, but later said the blasts appeared to have been caused by hand grenades.

NATIONAL

Negotiators agree on spending bill

WASHINGTON — House and Senate negotiators reached agreement Wednesday on a record $560 billion spending plan for the new fiscal year that covers nearly all domestic and military programs.

The chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., said he intended to bring the bill up for a vote in the full House tonight.

Completion of the giant spending package followed an agreement late Tuesday on military programs and could help sound the final gun for the 99th Congress, which has gone two weeks into overtime with a full slate of decision making unfinished.

President Reagan's budget director, James C. Miller III, said the agreements on defense and foreign aid were acceptable and the conferees had removed many of the provisions most objectionable to the administration. He said a final decision on Reagan's signing or vetoing the measure had not been made.

Meanwhile, the government was being threatened with shutdown at midnight tonight — the fourth such threat this month — because current stopgap spending authority was expiring.

The agreement on defense issues, reached late Tuesday with $291.8 billion for Pentagon and related programs, was incorporated Wednesday into the omnibus bill.

REGIONAL

Chemical ordinance surprises EPA

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — Environmental Protection Agency officials were surprised Wednesday by a temporary restraining order barring the agency from storing a hazardous chemical at its laboratory in the city.

EPA lawyers were meeting to decide what to do about the restraining order and injuction issued by a county judge Tuesday night at the city's request.

"Right now, nothing is being moved," said EPA spokesman Steve Wurtz. "We hope to resolve the issue as soon as possible, but what actions we will take haven't been determined."

The dispute centers on 60,000 gallons of ethylene dibromide, or EDB, a recalled pesticide formerly used as a grain fumigant. It was recalled in 1983 after tests showed it could cause cancer in laboratory animals, Wurtz said.

About 30,000 gallons of the pesticide were brought to the EPA's regional laboratory, and the rest was to have been moved there Tuesday.

"This is an industrial area where chemicals like these are used every day on a routine basis," Wurtz said. "That's why we're a little surprised by the action taken by Kansas City, Kan."

The City Council passed an ordinance in an emergency meeting Monday night banning storing the chemical in the city or transporting it within its boundaries.

Kansas City plant to lay off 350

TOLEDO, Ohio — Owens-Corning Fiberglas Inc. will lay off about 5,000 workers, including about 350 workers at its Kansas City, Kan. plant, the company chairman says.

The layoffs are part of a restructuring plan at the glass fiber maker, which has 7,800 salaried workers and 12,200 hourly employees, said William W. Boeschenstein, company chairman.

employees, said William W. Boeschenstein, company chairman.

The restructuring plan was designed to prevent a hostile takeover bid by the Wickes Companies Inc. of Santa Monica, Calif.

The Kansas City, Kan. plant has 840 workers.

Other staff cuts include laying off 650 workers at the Toledo headquarters, 700 to 900 at its biggest plant in Newark, Ohio; and 250 of 750 workers in Santa Clara, Calif.

Autopsy reveals official's suicide

SALINA — The death of Saline County Commissioner Dan Geis over the weekend was probably a suicide, Police Chief John Woody said Tuesday.

Woody said an autopsy determined that Geis, 44, a school teacher seeking a second four-year term as county commissioner, died of asphyxiation from carbon monoxide fumes. His body was found Monday morning in a garage near his home.

The police chief said it is often hard to determine if a death was accidental or a suicide in such a case.

"Initially he had the intent to take his own life," Woody said. "But we will never be sure if he changed his mind later on."

Woody said the autopsy and investigation showed Geis drove a tractor into the garage Sunday evening, closed the doors and sat on the floor near the tractor which was left running.

It took about 45 minutes for the exhaust fumes to overcome Geis, who died about 7 p.m. Sunday, Woody said.

No note was found in the garage, which Geis rented from a

No note was found in the garage, which Geis rented from a neighbor to store and maintain equipment for his lawn-care business, the police chief said.

Family members said Geis had put up campaign posters and visited his parents earlier in the day Sunday.

Campus Bulletin

TODAY

ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 8 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

GAY AND LESBIAN RESOURCE CENTER

NATIONAL SOCIETY OF BLACK ENGINEERS meets at 5:30 p.m. in Durland 152. PI TAU SIGMA will have a pledge meeting at

PARACHUTE CLUB will have a business meeting at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

6:30 p.m. in Durland 161.

NATIONAL SOCIETY OF BLACK ENGINEERS, SOCIETY OF HISPANIC PROFESSIONAL ENGINEERS, AND AMERICAN INDIAN SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING SOCIETY meet at 5:30 p.m. in Durland 152. The guest speaker will be Steven Preston from Olin Corporation. A pizza party will follow meeting.

APPAREL DESIGN COLLECTIVE will have elections and yearbook pictures taken at 7 p.m. in Justin 252.

AGRICULTURE EDUCATION CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Bluemont 343.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Nassrin Tavakoli at 4:15 p.m. in Nichols 236. The topic will be "A New Approach to Pattern Recognition."

ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGIATE ENTREPRENEURS meets at 6 p.m. in Calvin 102.

AGRICULTURAL COMMUNICATORS OF TOMORROW meet at 6 p.m. in Kedzie 210. Yearbook pictures will be taken at 7:45 p.m. in Fairchild 202 ALPHA CHI SIGMA will have pledge eremonies at 7 p.m. in Willard 218.

SAILING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

ARAB STUDENTS ASSOCIATION meets at 7 p.m. in Kedzie 106. The topic will be "The Middle East and World Peace."

TRAFFIC APPEALS BOARD meets at 10 p.m.

GRADUATING ENGINEERS: There will be an EIT review session, sponsored by Pi Tau Sigma, at 6 p.m. in Durland 173.

Sigma, at 6 p.m. in Durland 173.

HUNGER PROJECT will have a World Food

HUNGER PROJECT will have a World Food Day Celebration at 7 p.m. in the International Student Center. AGRICULTURE COUNCIL meets at 6 p.m. in Waters 137. Officers meet at 5:30 p.m. Yearbook pictures will be taken.

Correction

Doug Schmidt, K-State's women's soccer coach, was incorrectly quoted on the sports page in Tuesday's Collegian. Schmidt's quote should have read, "Some of our women had played indoors in Kansas City and St. Louis, but we've never practiced indoors."

The Middle East and World Peace

Special Guest Speaker TONIGHT

> 7 p.m. 106 Kedzie Hall Sponsored by: ASA & ICC

Hunt, Capture ENJOY!

ALL DRINKS

ANY NAME ANY BRAND 531 N. Manhattan Bar: Office:

539-9727

BAR 539-9727

531 N. Manhattan

OFFICE 539-4321

539-4321

Rocky Mountain BONKERS

Presents

ON STAGE TONIGHT FRIDAY & SATURDAY From 10 p.m. 'til 2 a.m.

Wash It In AGGIEVILLE

SPEEDWASH

75¢ Wash 25¢ Dry "Free Parking" Visit our back room.

Open Sun.-Thurs.

24 Hours Daily

Fri.-Sat.

4:30 a.m.-12 midnight

1118 Moro

"THERE IS LIFE AFTER SENIOR WALK-OUT!"

- Sigma Pledge Class 83'

FREE VIDEO TAPE RENTALS

with the following rental purchases

Rent a Fisher Stereo for $15 & receive 3 FREE VIDEO RENTALS.

Rent portable washers & dryers for $20 & receive 2 FREE TAPE RENTALS.

* Bring this ad in to receive the discounts.

Aggieville 1122 Laramie Handi Corner

$25 COUPON

With this coupon, purchase a pair of prescription eyeglasses (frame and lenses) and receive $25 OFF our regular low price!

- -Invisible Bifocals
- —Ultra-thin Cataract Lenses
- —Designer Frames
- -Plastic Lightweight Lenses

We can fill your doctor's prescription.

*Minimum cost after discount—$24.95

Some Boutique Frames Not Included. We Use the Highest Quality Lenses!
This ad cannot be used in conjunction with any other optical promotion.

SALE ENDS: Oct. 25, 1986

1210 MORO • 537-1574

Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

Farm children require more understanding, survey reveals

By LYNETTE LINDHOLM Collegian Reporter

Due to the poor farm economy, there has been a constant focus on the farmer and the effect on him as an individual or producer. It also has been discovered that economic problems affect farm children.

"We have had regular calls from parents, counselors, teachers, extension people, clergymen and other community individuals," said Mary Lou Albracht, employment retrainAssistance Counseling and Training Service (FACTS)

"Char Henton, my co-worker, and I decided we should do a survey to send to rural schools throughout the state," Albracht said. "We sent a random sampling to rural schools to determine how high-school students perceive the current economic farm crisis and how it is affecting them," Albracht said.

The high school students surveyed indicated they would like their ing specialist for Farmer's teachers to be more understanding about their inability to purchase extra school supplies, and that teachers need to understand "what is going on," she said.

The students also said that they feel their teachers should explain to them why and what is causing the current economic situation.

The students, Albracht said, have been "left in the dark" and need to have a better understanding of what has lead to the current farm situa-

During these hard times, the children's withdrawal is the most obvious symptom, she said.

"They are withdrawing, not being able to keep their minds on classes and/or participating in extracurricular activities," Albracht said. She said she feels it is important for the kids to talk about their problems and "let them out."

"The boys are more apt to keep their problems to themselves. (while) the girls talk more about them, mostly with their freinds,"

FACTS is currently establishing a community support group, which is being developed by Charles Griffin, a rural-family support specialist. "Through our survey, time-aftertime the individuals said 'talk to us'," Albracht said. "Charlie's idea to develop these groups throughout the state is a terrific one.'

The younger children, who also are affected by the farm crisis, indicated withdrawal in their classrooms and their day-to-day activities.

Children can sense the stress and uneasiness in their home atmosphere, and, as a result, they become scared, she said.

"Parents need to share with their children their problems and tell them exactly what is going on. If these children are excluded from knowing these problems, this can lead to greater fears," Albracht said. "The main thing these kids need is a lot of help and support from teachers, counselors, friends and family."

Award honors rural women researcher

By TAMA ERICKSON Collegian Reporter

A professor of sociology received national recognition for her recent contributions to the study of women in rural societies.

Cornelia Flora was given the first award granted by the Rural Sociological Society for Excellence in Research. She was chosen for the honor by her peers in the Professional Association of Rural Sociology. During the Aug. 29 award ceremony in Salt Lake City, a colleague referred to her research as a "road map" that leads to the atten-

By The Collegian Staff

The Brass Quintet, a separate touring group of the U.S. Army Field

Band from Washington, D.C., will perform at 8 p.m. Sunday in the All

Alumnus Bill Beckman, originally from Manhattan, is the french horn player in the quintet. Paul Shull, professor of music, is one of Beckman's

"(Beckman) was a music major at K-State, but I taught him in high school," Shull said. Beckman has been a member of the Army band for Alfred Cochran, instructor of music, was a member of the jazz ensemble, another section of the Ar-

Faiths Chapel.

former teachers.

10 years or more.

Brass quintet features former K-State student

tion of women in social life from a sociological and developmental point of view

"My peers thought I did good stuff," Flora said. Her research on women in rural societies not only increased her understanding of the role of women in agricultural production but also facilitated the studies of others in this field of research, she said.

"I never worked for this award in particular," Flora said. "I was just nominated for it. I suppose I have worked all my life for it.

Flora said she was interested in the hunger problem in India when she discovered the importance of them coming since I know some of

The U.S. Army Field Band consists of a 60- to 70-member concert band, a 20-piece jazz ensemble and a

30-member chorus. Each section can tour separately and break up into smaller groups, such as the quintet, to perform during the tour, Cochran said. The jazz ensemble performed at K-State two weeks ago and the chorus section will perform at 11:30

K-State in the past, Cochran said.

The band, which travels a certain region of the country for each tour, plays in Kansas and surrounding

Both of the upcoming perforstates about every three years.

a.m. Monday in All Faiths Chapel. The Army band has played at the guys," Cochran said.

women in rural societies.

Not only do women provide their families with meals, but in some countries, they actually help with family finances through loans to their husbands, she said. Women in the past, as well as the present, establish their own enterprises. Such endeavors include selling eggs, crafts and other goods and services.

'Women became very important in my research, so I became familiar with the 'women's world," Flora said. "They weren't important until I looked at the data. Women do a lot more than people realize."

Women in today's rural American societies, in many cases, are partners with their husbands. They are involved in major management decisions and sometimes are the owners and managers of rural establishments.

Both men's and women's work are very necessary to society and the family, Flora said.

"Men's and women's roles are complementary. Men can't do what they do without women, and women can't do what they do without men," she said. "There is an assumption that men take care of the family economically and the women do housekeeping and stuff. This assumption is occurring less and

"It's hard to understand what women in rural societies actually do, until you understand the household." The household is a supporting unit within the farming community, she said. It is the source of shelter, nourishment and economic resources for the family. Flora said the division of labor conceals a lot of the work done in the

'You have to take it (the household) apart in order to find it (women's labor). A lot of tasks are hidden by the household structure," Flora said. In many countries, for example, women perform necessary tasks like hauling water and finding

Flora said her research was inspired by working with her husband, Jan, and by being in Kansas. The research she is currently conducting is on western Kansas. She will be considering government policy and international trends and how they affect the women in that area. She is also seeking information in Decator

County, located in northwest Kansas. Flora received her bachelor's degree with honors in sociology at the University of California-Berkeley. The focus of work in her master's degree, obtained in 1966, was on rural sociology at Cornell University. She also obtained her doctorate in 1970 at Cornell University with work on development since 1970.

IMPORT BEER NIGHT 50¢ off

All Day THURSDAYS

All Imports

HOME OF THE AROUND the WORLD BEER CLUB

Open at noon Sundays!

sociology. Flora has been at K-State

AND SPECIAL GUESTS HOMECOMING 8P.M., OCT. 24

Available in the K-State Union Box Office and the Sound Shop in Aggieville

For more ticket info or charge by phone call (913) 532-6589.

(k-state union (97fm)

FRIDAY, Oct. 17

$1 Cover 9-12 p.m. FIRSTBANK CENTER Denison & Claflin

CAMPUS HEART OF AGGIEVILLE

"Life" Brian

12:00 O'CLOCK MIDNIGHT FRI. & SAT. OCT. 17 & 18 ALL SEATS $2.50

"The Aggieville Alternative" Abbey

JOIN US AT THE ABBEY FOR POST-GAME FESTIVITIES

3240 Kimball Ave. East of the stadium in Candlewood Shopping Center Phone: 776-0777

25% off bottles of wine

Fine Wine, Food and Spirits

Pumpkins with style, class, charm, taste, personality,

. and a low price!

Plus fresh apple cider, the prettiest Indian Corn in town, Ed Irvine's new crop homegrown huge-popping popcorn, and seven kinds of ca-runchy juicy apples!

by the Holidome on Fa Riley Blvd. (K-18)

TODAY: Off Campus, Smurthwaite,

West Hall

Oct. 17: Off Campus, West Hall

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card

to Union 209. To make your appointment call

539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow

SKI THE POWDER CAPITOL

January 3-10, 1987 $316/$284 (with your own equipment) (VISA & MASTERCARD accepted) THE CHRISTMAS BREAK PLAYGROUND OF THOUSANDS OF STUDENTS!

TRIP INCLUDES:

*Round Trip Motor "Sleeper" Coach Transportation Five Nights Lodging at Kutuk Condominiums

*Four Day Lift Tickets

Four Day Equipment Rental Pre-Party

On-Site Trip Advisor

"Moving" & Groovin' Nuts & Bolts Steamboat Party/Dance

INFORMATION MEETING: Thursday, October 16, 1986 Union Room 213, 7 PM

SIGN-UP BEGINS: Friday, October 17, 1986

TONIGHT!!!

Union Activities Center, 3rd Floor

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Iceland talks damage credibility of Reagan

The failure of President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev to reach an arms agreement in Reykjavik, Iceland, may be the least damaging thing to have happened to Ronald Reagan this week.

The concensus that the summit was a failure is the latest blow in a series of events that have hampered the administration and signaled a fundamental turning point for Reagan.

As Sen. Pat Schroeder, D-Colo., pointed out: Issues are beginning to stick to the man once known as the "Teflon" president. And Reagan's once dominant personality can no longer cover his administration's failures.

The Iceland summit broke down when Reagan refused to compromise on the controversial Strategic Defense Initiative, his pet project that, at the moment, is a highly questionable proposal. Also highly questionable is Reagan's reasoning for sacrificing so much to keep so little.

However, SDI is not the administration's only festering wound. Another one was Reagan's veto of the South African sanctions that was overridden by Congress. Clearly, as this override illustrates, Reagan no longer has his way with Conwith other members of his administration, as the humiliating which to hope.

disinformation campaign against Libya demonstrated. Because of lies deliberately spread by the administration to deceive Libyan leader Col. Moammar Gadhafy, Bernard Kalb resigned his position as State Department spokesman last week.

Individually, these failures may not be significant. But combined, and considering they have occurred in the past two weeks, these failures are of considerable importance. They signal a fundamental shift in this administra-

For the first time in six years, the effectiveness of Reagan and augurated in 1981, Republican candidates will have to find someone else's coattails to ride in the next election. Also, George Bush, who will undoubtedly run for president in two years, must look at this situation with a careful eye.

Whatever happens to Reagan also happens to him. In case he wants proof, Walter Mondale's

He also no longer has his way Teflon president's isolation from scorn now have something for his administration is in doubt. Even fellow Republicans are abandoning him in important votes, including sanctions on South Africa. What this shift means is, for the first time since Reagan was innumber is in the phone book. Democrats discouraged by the Registration of voters surpasses other years increased this year."

venient location on campus. come predictions. Perhaps the most common ex-

Congratulations students. Of- clerk, said registration turnout ficials in the Student Government also has been higher throughout Services office noted that student the county. If this is an indication voter registration "has definitely of statewide voter turnout, this election could prove to be in-Congratulations also to SGS for teresting. More than ever, voters conducting registration at a con- could swing the election and over-Registering is only the first cuses for failing to register are "I step in the process. From now unpolitical candidates and for the didn't have time," and "I didn't til Nov. 4, students must pay atknow where to go." Registration tention to the issues and make inon campus provided convenience formed choices, both in voting for both in time and location. Wanda Coder, Riley County amendments.

Administration plans unnecessary expenses

If the University could scrape money?

ments on campus could think of a few things on which to spend it: more computers, better radio/television equipment, improvement of campus buildings, the new biochemistry/chemistry building and the Fred Bramlage Coliseum.

On what did the University administration decide to spend the money? Signs. Two of the signs are going to cost $29,000 each not your run-of-the-mill signs.

The two signs, to be made of identify campus, are going to be placed at the corners of 17th Street and Anderson Avenue, and avenues.

Signs to help visitors weave together $342,800 to spend on their way through town from the University improvements, what main highway entrances are improvements warrant the needed, but less extravagance would fulfill the need. Cutting the Numerous colleges and depart- two limestone identification markers alone would leave $58,000 for other campus improvements.

> The planned visitor information centers may be a good idea, but installing a telephone at each one so visitors can talk to someone is excessive. It is another unnecessary expense in the plan.

The administration needs to backtrack on its purple path and redesign the marking of the path for others to follow. Future limestone and bronze and used to students would appreciate the money being used for practical improvements of the University once they are here, they pro-Manhattan and Anderson bably won't look twice at the $29,000 signs.

Collegiam Editorial

Judge enforces traditional homage

More than 200 years ago, Americans thought they had severed the compulsory ties between gods and governments. Unfortunately, they were wrong. Humbling ourselves in the presence of our "divine rulers" has remained a strong tradition - so strong that the custom is enforceable by imprisonment.

In July 1985, Charles Krupps, a resident of Jefferson County, Texas, appeared in court before Judge Donald F. Floyd. Krupps was appealing a $75 fine he got in the Port Neches, Texas, municipal court for driving without proof of liability insurance.

Before his trial was complete, however, Krupps and six others were held in contempt of court without a hearing and sentenced to 30 days in jail. In what sort of disruptive behavior were the seven Texans involved? Did they talk out of turn or shout profanities or attempt to incite a riot? Not quite. Their only crime was remaining seated when Floyd entered the room.

The group of five men and two women was composed of religious fundamentalists. They declined to rise for the judge's entrance because of their literal interpretation of the Bible, which prohibits one from assuming bodily positions to pay homage to human

On June 11, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld Floyd's ruling by a 5-4 vote. Since then the Texas Civil Liberties Union has taken up the case and last week the TCLU filed an appeal with the U.S. Supreme

In a country where churches are not supposed to control the government and the government is not supposed to control churches, one must wonder why the fundamen-

SCOTT MILLER Collegian

talists were jailed. That they broke the law is negated by the questionable nature of the law

The "law" is not a statute; one will not find it anywhere in law books. It is common law, a custom that has remained in practice for so long it is considered "law.

I talked with various legal offices, professors and one judge about the origin of this practice of standing for a judge's entrance. None knew where this practice started. All, however, mentioned something about the Medieval practice of honoring the judge as a representative of the divine ruler.

One history professor said it was common in European history to provide the courtroom with only one chair, the judge's throne a symbol of his autocratic power as a representative of the divine monarch.

Another history professor mentioned that the practice was similar to the black robe a judge wears - the clothing of a cult-like figure. This practice carried over to the early days of George Washington's administration in an attempt to establish strong federal government. The early judges of the newly liberated colonies sought to intimidate citizens by portraying themselves as holy judicial barons, which the English judges of monarchial rule had done for centuries.

Thursday, October 16, 1986 - 4

I assume the seven Texan fundamentalists would have declined to stand on their heads or fall to their knees before the honorable judge Floyd, as well. And rightfully so, as those actions would have been as essential to conducting a court of law as standing when the judge entered. The procedure reeks of monarchy - where actions usually reserved for gods are performed for government officials

That the seven Texans were held in contempt is itself a farce of justice. A contempt of court charge is a power judges use to preserve or restore order to the courtroom. In that context, the seven, who passively remained in their seats, were probably less in contempt of court than the people that stood

Don't get me wrong. We should treat governmental officials with respect, the same respect that we should give to any other human being and the same respect demanded from a professional or business transaction. That entails saying sir, Mr., Your Honor or whatever the appropriate title might be. That doesn't entail bowing, kissing feet or standing when a judge enters. Our government is supposed to be composed of our peers representing us - not our superiors mocking us. Believe it or not, I have a great respect for the law - so much respect that I think we should confine our laws to useful policies, not equivocal customs rooted in monarchy that serve no constructive purpose in a modern society where all men and women are supposedly created equal.

Students should attend 'vein drain'

As temperatures drop and Jams are replaced by sweaters and jean jackets, we realize that autumn is once again upon us. During the fall semester, K-Staters look forward to ripping the Jayhawks to shreds on the gridiron, attending barn parties and tailgaters and, of course, participating in the K-State Bloodmobile. Yes, it's once again time for the semiannual vein drain. Before you put this column aside for Bloom County and the personals, please give me a chance to explain that I'm only out for your blood. Most people who have never given blood imagine the experience to be more traumatic than it really is. (I know I've never seen a nurse poke a needle all the way through a donor's arm, nor has anyone ever fainted into a three-year coma only to awake looking like a cross between a Barbie Doll and a celery stalk.) Statistics show that no more than 5 percent of all donors have adverse reactions. But since we in Manhattan aren't wimps, I firmly believe that our percentage is much less. On the other hand, if this were

Some potential donors have very real fears about giving blood, mostly concerning AIDS. No matter what you might have read in the latest tabloid, it's impossible to contract AIDS through donating blood. Many precautions are taken to prevent the spread of AIDS through blood donations.

Each donor goes through a number of screenings before actually giving blood. If any potential donor has symptoms of AIDS or is in a high risk group, that person is not allowed to give blood. It might be reassuring to note that out of 160,000 units tested for the AIDS related antibody, only seven cases have been isolated in the Wichita Blood Services Region. Also, because each needle is broken and discarded after its initial use, the threat to the donor of contracting AIDS is negated.

Guest Columnist

CHARLENE

NICHOLS

But enough of the negative. Donating blood is a positive experience. It can even be fun. (I know, you're thinking, "Yeah, 'bout as much fun as finding out your blind date is the bearded lady or the man with five arms from the local circus.") Honestly, there are lots of really great reasons for being a donor.

A few weeks ago I asked our office in Home City to compile a list of the top 10 reasons for giving blood. The top five might sound familiar to those fortunate enough to have seen one of our posters that included the list. But now, for everyone's reading enjoyment, I'd like to present the top 10 reasons for giv-

10. To add one of those little red pins to my collection.

9. It gives me an excuse to sleep.

- 8. I can read the Enquirer at he canteen.
- 7. It makes my grandmother proud. 6. It gives me an excuse to act really
- stupid. 5. I like needles. 4. Everyone else does.

Friday next week in the Union. Charlene Nichols is co-chairperson of the Bloodmobile

3. Parents and friends paid me.

the free doughnuts and orange juice.

2. It's the only gold card I'm eligible for.

And, the No. 1 reason for giving blood - for I'll leave it to you to decide which of these or other reasons have prompted campus

VIPs such as Athletic Director Larry Travis, basketball coach Lon Kruger, Student Body

President Steven Johnson, Student Senate

Chairwoman Sally Traeger, place-kicker

Mark Porter and basketball star Norris Coleman to donate their blood. Better yet, ask them in person when you see them at the

Some of you are probably thinking that if you could, you'd definitely donate but you can't because of medical reasons. Well, we've got something for you. To make our operations run smoothly, we need at least 10 student volunteers at all times. These volunteers are responsible for helping donors to the canteen, serving donors doughnuts and orange juice and other duties. A lucky few

If you are one of the many people who care enough to either donate or volunteer, stop by the table in the Union this week between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. to register. The Bloodmobile will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday through even get to carry bags of blood around.

Bloodmobile

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words.

Letter

'Riot' damages image

Two years ago this weekend, we had the misfortune of receiving a great deal of adverse publicity concerning the actions of K-Staters following the game. The fact that many of the people in Aggieville were not K-Staters, and most of the people there were only forced to be part of the crowd but did not become part of the violence, was ignored. The people of Kansas, and many others across the United States, came to understand that K-State students rioted.

Our image, which so many members of the University have been striving to improve, was dealt a staggering blow.

We have since overcome most of the stigma attached to this incident. However, we will be watched closely this year to see if we are crazy enough to do it again. Should some opt to re-enact the situation, it would have a nationwide impact on our reputation. That is the same reputation which plays an important role in determining the value of

Obviously, there are a few students who delight in these episodes. I have been disappointed by attempts to make light of this serious situation. I hope a more complete understanding of the incident and its effects Personally, I doubt that the situation will develop as it did two years ago. I believe that was an isolated occasion which gained only a little momentum, but a great deal of interest and negative publicity.

Nonetheless, we cannot allow the incident to develop again. Keep yourself and those around you calm, and this weekend will prove to be more enjoyable for all involved. I encourage you to have a good time and remind you that acting responsibly is essential.

Steven Johnson junior in agricultural economics and student body president By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

There's a trend developing in which movies are named after classic rock 'n' roll songs. Just recently there was "Stand by Me" (from the Ben E. King song) and "Peggy Sue Got Married" (from Buddy Holly). Now comes "Jumpin' Jack Flash," named after the Rolling Stones' classic from the late '60s.

Film Review

For the movie, Aretha Franklin does a cover version of the song. And there's a video on MTV that's complete with appearances by Bruce Willis, Cybill Shepherd (both from ABC's "Moonlighting") and several members of the Rolling Stones.

What better advertising than that? But even without all the hype, "Jumpin' Jack Flash'' would probably find a good-sized audience because it's a very funny movie.

Whoopie Goldberg stars as a computer operator at an international bank. It seems her computer monitor hasn't been working correctly. On occasion, it picks up a Russian aerobics broadcast and at other times, especially just after the workday is over and all her co-workers are heading home, it picks up transmissions from a British Secret Service Agent trapped in East Germany. He needs help and he needs it soon. The only person who can help him, though, is Whoopie Goldberg.

This sets up a vintage Hitchcockian formula: An innocent bystander finds herself accidentally caught up in mystery and intrigue. Goldberg tries to help "Jack" by go-ing to the British Consulate, but nothing quite goes as planned. In the following week, she gets kidnapped, trapped in a phone booth, pushed off a pier and followed by gun-toting

Director Penny Marshall balances intrigue with comedy to create a surprisingly funny movie. It's a mixture that works well, thanks to the fine performance from Goldberg. Her role isn't nearly as demanding as her role in "The Color Purple," but she's given plenty of room to improvise.

It's only near the movie's end that the comedy begins to wear thin. Some tighter editing would've helped tremendously, particularly in a scene where a spy injects Goldberg with a "truth serum" and she then gets away, staggering down the street as if drunk. The comedy in this episode is forced and all too obvious.

taken from the Reserve for Con-senate to allocate $79 to replace the center's broken answering machine.

Officials at the the center feel the answering machine is vital for its service. Reportedly, the new machine would cost as much as posed bills concerning support on liquor by the drink, pari-mutuel bet-

Senate will meet tonight at 7 in the Union Big Eight Room. All meetings

Buy, Sell or Trade

in Collegian Classifieds

DKEHNO

EVERY THURSDAY

ANY and ALL

MIXED DRINKS

(all brands, all drinks)

80¢ Draws ■ $1.00 Wine ALL DAY & ALL NIGHT!

AGGIE STATION

RESTAURANT & BAR 1115 MORO • 776-0030

Also, senate will vote on the pro-tingencies Account.

repairing the old one.

ting and a state lottery.

are open to the public.

Student Senate faces special fund requests

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate will hear first readings tonight on bills proposing special allocations for three campus organizations.

The Student Governing Association is asking for $820 to be allocated to help make up for the $1,648.15 it overspent last year through unavoidable expenses like advertising and data processing. SGA is proposing the money be taken from the Reserve for Contingencies Account.

Legal Services also is asking for additional allocations. It overspent its account for professional and scientific equipment and supplies by $263.16. Last year, it was allowed $800 for these supplies. Legal Services is requesting $235.48, also to be

For the funofit! the funofit! DPUTT-PUTT torthefunofit across from Wal-Mart Forthefunofit Forthefun

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt

that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat!

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

TONITE ONLY Plain Jane

Oscar Haimo Nite $1.75 pitchers $1 coolers 50¢ draws

Friday Free T.G.I.F. B.B.Q.

Auntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE THURSDAY $2 Pitchers $1 Drinks 50¢ Draws

616 N. 12th 539-9967

But for the most part, the comedy is very effective and features several fine supporting performances. Carol Kane, Stephen Collins and John Lovitz (the habitual liar from "Saturday Night Live") portray Goldberg's co-workers, while Jim Belushi plays a spy intent on kidnapping Goldberg. Jonathan Pryce ("Something Wicked This Way Comes") has a small cameo role as

There's little in the movie that's particularly original, except for Goldberg herself, but there's never been a movie heroine quite like her.

Soviet seeks Western medical aid

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW - A dissident poet newly freed from jail said Wednesday she will seek medical treatment in the West but will not apply to emigrate.

The poet, Irina Ratushinskaya, said by telephone from her Kiev home that she needs a thorough examination and possible treatment for heart problems after spending more than 31/2 years in a jail and a

"I went into camp an absolutely healthy woman," she said.

Ratushinskaya, 32, said doctors at a labor camp told her last spring she may not be able to have children. The poet and her husband, Igor Gerashchenko, have no children. Ratushinskaya said friends told her that people in Britain have invited her to visit, but she has not received the formal invitation she must present to Soviet authorities before applying to leave.

HUNAM EXPRESS

1116 Moro 537-0886

(eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

"It's not to emigrate, but for treatment," she said. "I will be very happy to return.'

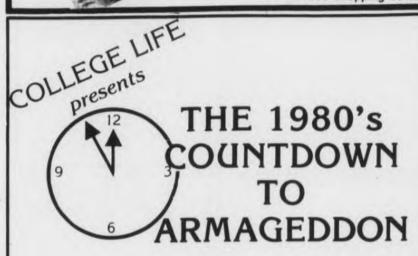

Soviet dissidents often contend they cannot trust Soviet doctors to treat them well and that they must travel abroad for proper medical treatment.

Ratushinskaya was arrested in September 1982 on charges of anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda. She was sentenced in March 1983 to seven years imprisonment and five years in internal exile.

1304 Westloop 539-8888

Open 7 days a week Restaurant

Tonight at 8 p.m. Kappa Delta Sorority, 1220 Centennial Drive

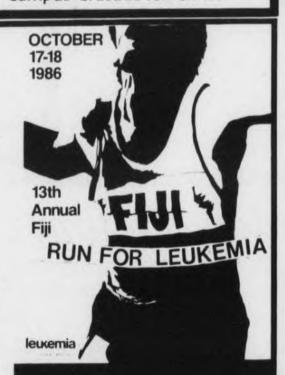

Traveling Speaker: Henry Oursler Sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ

MAIL DONATIONS TO: THE FRATERNITY OF

PHI GAMMA DELTA

1614 FAIRCHILD MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66502

539-9711

LIVING ETHICAL WILLS

Union State Room #3 12:00 Noon TODAY

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8868 or 537-0886

This series gives an excellent opportunity to receive the "bequest" of a campus leader, in terms of what she/he hopes to leave humanity as guiding principles for life.

Linda Richter

 Associate Professor of Political Science

BEAT THE

Pep Rally

Friday, Oct. 17

7:30 p.m.

Triangle Park, Aggieville

Let's Beat KU!

100th Anniversary Sale-A-Bration

Browne's Stores of Norton, Clay Center, Marysville, Hayes & Manhattan Founded in 1886—Downtown Manhattan Opened 1975

ALL COATS

20-30%

REG. PRICE

LONDON FOG, MACKINTOSH, CUSTOM FURS

Special Transfer Merchandise

OFF REG.

REGISTER NOW FOR FABULOUS GRAND PRIZE FUR COAT AND OTHER PRIZES TO BE GIVEN AWAY WEEKLY

Special Groups Women's Fall Sportswear INCLUDES

Folio—Devon—College Town

REG. PRICE

ONE WEEK ONLY

USE OUR BACK DOOR!

DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN

Kansas universities battle 'brain drain'

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — University of Kansas officials Wednesday defended KU's efforts to recruit high achieving students in the wake of a legislative research survey that showed 54.4 percent Kansas' semifinalists for 1986 National Merit Scholarships left the state to attend college.

David Ambler, KU's vice chancellor for student affairs, and two recruiting officers appeared before the Legislative Educational Planning Committee, which is studying the issue of "brain drain" from Kansas

The KU officials told the committee the university's recruiting policies call for each National Merit semifinalist to be contacted 12 times during the period just before and after high school graduation.

The officials denied reports from some of the semifinalists surveyed by the Legislative Research Department that KU had gone to little or no effort to entice them to attend there.

Bob Krause, vice president for institutional advancement at Kansas State University, said he is relatively new to his position but promised K-State will wage an aggressive campaign to attract high achieving students. Krause said the campaign will include dividing the state into several recruiting districts.

Of the 159 National Merit

semifinalists in the state last year, 147 responded to the survey. Eighty said they planned to attend school outside of Kansas, 66 said they would go to a Kansas college or university and one indicated having no plans for further schooling.

A number of the semifinalists said they were satisfied with KU's offers of scholarships and other financial aid. However, others said KU showed little interests.

One student who graduated after the junior year of high school reported writing to several schools, including KU and K-State.

"I received applications from all except the University of Kansas," the student wrote. "They sent me a letter stating I had to get a letter from the principal assuring them that I was graduating.

"I had decided to go to KU when the University of Houston offered me a full ride for National Merit finalist. That changed my mind."

The survey showed the University of Houston attracted more of the Kansas semifinalists than any other out-of-state school. Seven students surveyed said they planned to go

Of the 66 semifinalists who indicated they planned to go to school in Kansas, 32 said they would attend KU and 25 said they would go to Agent leads tourists through Vietnam

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO - When the United States and Vietnam were deadly enemies, most Americans touring the war-scarred Southeast Asian nation wore camouflage, uniforms and traded gunshots with an elusive foe.

marked the end of the conflict, Vietnam has decided it wants American tourists and dollars.

If you have $1,826 to spare, you can spend 12 days in the land this country spent billions trying vainly to defeat.

"Come to Vietnam and you will find a rare country, not a series of sideshows laid on for passing British-born travel agent John Quin-Harkin's Go Travel Agency. The war is never mentioned.

'What I've learned is that the Vietnamese would like to open up the country to tourism," said uin-Harkin. "They probably need the dollars. They would like also not only to open it up to tourism; they'd also like to open it up to people who have left Vietnam and would like to go back and see their families."

Quin-Harkin says his tours of 30 people each will begin Nov. 24, and displayed a stack of envelopes destined for others who had expressed interest in the trip.

Aggieville

12th & Laramie

Short Stem Roses

Boxed

537-9549

KCC seeks to reduce gas service's rate hike

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - The staff of the Kansas Corporation Commission said Wednesday it wants to cut by 35 percent Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co.'s request for a $2.8 million, or 17.5 percent, natural gas rate increase.

The KCC staff, which represents the interests of the public in rate hearings, wants to cut the increase by $988,000, which would result in a 7.2 percent jump in rates for the utility's 21,000 customers in southcentral Kansas.

The utility, known as Arkla, filed its request in March and hearings have been scheduled Oct. 20-21 before the three-member commission. The company has offices in Wichita where 16,000 of its customers are located. Another 500 are located in Hutchinson.

Arkla cited increased operating costs and a drop in sales as the reasons for seeking higher rates. The company also wants to percent boost.

change the way its rates are designed, proposing its pipeline division, which mainly serves large industrial customers, be treated independent of the rest of its residential distribution

The KCC staff rejected the idea in its proposal, which the commission will consider when making its decision.

Arkla's 18,100 residential customers would bear the brunt of the hike under the utility proposal. Rates for residential customers using an average 10,000 cubic feet of gas each month would see their rates jump from $40.48 to $52.96, a 30.5 per-

The KCC staff wants to boost average residential rates to $45.89, a 13.6 percent jump.

Commercial customers would see an averge 11 percent rate hike under Arkla's plan and small industrial customers would get a 1.5

But 11 years after the fall of Saigon tourists," reads a brochure at City comemorates hunger struggle

By The Collegian Staff

Manhattan residents will join the rest of the world today in a celebration of efforts to fight hunger.

World Food Day, established in 1981 by the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations, is annually observed on Oct. 16 in 150 countries.

"World Food Day is a day to celebrate the sufficiency of our planet," said Edith Stunkel, assistant director of the Center for Aging. Celebrations in Manhattan will interbeck, a nutritionist for CARE and the World Food Program and a former technical adviser in the United Nations Border Relief Operation that provided food for prisoners at Kampucheon.

clude a presentation by Karl Schlot-

Schlotterbeck will speak about a feeding program established in Ethiopia at 4 p.m. in Justin 109. A reception will be held prior to his speech at 3:30.

The Manhattan Hunger Project Committee, a group of elementary students, is sponsoring a seminar from 7 to 9 p.m. in the International Student Center. The seminar will include discussion and video presentations. Participants are welcomed to bring personal input and food for a potluck dinner, Stunkel said.

"There's no set agenda. It's just a time for people to get together and share," Stunkel said. "We expect former peace-corps volunteers, people who have been touched by hunger and people who are just curious about it. We hope a lot of people

Flowers

$13.50 a dozen

Cash & Carry Only

Mon.-Sat. 10-5

IVAN SAND A Proven Record

Supported

→ KSU Faculty and Staff Pay Raises ► State Water Plan

- Reorganization of the Court System - Accessibility for the Handicapped in Apartments and Motels Farm relief and Farm Credit Legislation

The Deciding Difference Vote IVAN SAND

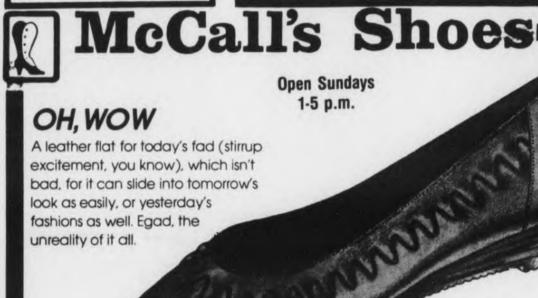

Republican Representative 66th District Paid by Re-elect Ivan Sand Committee, Charlotte Shawver, Treas.

HATS OFF TO A WILDCAT VICTORY!

Get your screw KU painter cap outside the Union 9 a.m.-3 p.m., Wednesday-Friday for only $4 and lead the Wildcats on to victory!

Sponsored by Phi Delta Theta pledge class

McCall's Shoes

313 Poyntz Downtown Manhattan fanfares: has it!

$26

ONLY

This includes 4

meals, equipment,

camping permit and

ROCK CLIMBING

& RAPPELLING

UPC

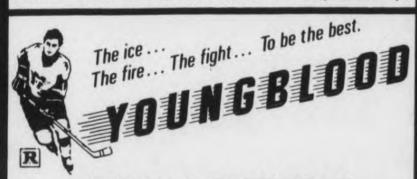

THE BICYCLE THIEF

Vittorio De Sica's masterpiece of Italian neorealism is the story of an impoverished Italian laborer and his son, and the bicycle that is essential to their survival. The father is forced to steal from another as poor as himself to survive.

An Italian Film: TODAY 3:30 p.m., Little Theatre 7:30 p.m., Forum Hall

$1.75, KSU ID required, Unrated kstate union

FRIDAY & SATURDAY 7 & 9:30 p.m., Forum Hall $1.75, KSU ID required, Rated R

Rob Lowe stars as the hockey rookie who must learn how to play the game with the help of a veteran player Patrick Swayzie.

Major Speaker Fall 1986 October 21, 8:00 p.m. Forum Hall

Thursday, October 16, 1986

BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND!

Peter N. James has captivated KSU audiences on two occasions. Don't miss this opportunity to hear one of the best lecturers ever!

- The Underground

"Peter N. James, a former rocket engineer who says he served secretly as a CIA spy, held his audience almost spellbound Friday night with a tale that might have been lifted straight from the pages of James Bond."

- Mark Fisher, Winsted Evening Citizen There's no charge. All you need to bring is your friends!

Straight From The Pages of James Bond PETER N. JAMES demonstrations! Fantastic Bluffs Columbia, Mo.

Sign-up TODAY through Oct. 28 in the Union Activities Center, Third Floor. All students, faculty and general public are encouraged to participate.

November 1-2

k-state union

Lady Cats will scrap on court

By SCOT SANDLIN Collegian Reporter

If the pieces of the puzzle fit together, Coach Matilda Mossman said her K-State's women's basketball team should be much improved from its last two consecutive 16-13 seasons.

Mossman said enthusiasm is abundant in the Lady Cats' camp this year with three returning senior starters and a recruiting class with impressive credentials. But if this year's team is to be successful, several freshmen will have to play key roles

"We're counting on a freshman to start at point guard and a freshman has a good chance to start at small forward," Mossman said.

K-State finished sixth last year in the Big Eight Conference and lost by one point in the postseason tourney to Colorado.

Mossman said she will rely on quickness and aggressiveness to make up for the lack of size. Two of Mossman's tallest recruits, Harriet Bost and Robin Rager, both 6-foot-2, have left the team for personal reasons.

"We will probably fast break a lot, but if we don't have a two-on-one or a three-on-two, we will pass it around in our motion offense and look for a good shot," Mossman said. "We may take less shots than the other team, but hopefully they will be better shots."

Mossman is quick to point out the Big Eight is quickly becoming recognized as one of the top women's basketball conferences in the coun-

"Every year, there seems to be more parity in the league," Mossman said. "This year will be no different. It's just impossible to pick the top four, or the bottom two, for that matter."

Here is a player-by-player look at Mossman's Lady Cats:

—Carlisa Thomas, 5-9 senior forward. Probably the best athlete on the team, Mossman said. Led the team in rebounds last season (8.2) and is fourth on K-State's career rebounding chart with 602. Thomas was the team's No. 2 scorer last year with an 11.5 average and led the squad in assists.

Squad in assists.

—Susan Green, 5-8 senior guard.

Green is expected to move from point guard to wing this season. She averaged 10.6 points per game last year and is a strong free-throw shooter, according to Mossman.

—Sue Leiding, 6-2 senior center. Lieding, who averaged seven points per outing last season, is expected to start at center. Mossman said Lieding must assist Thomas in rebounding if the Lady Cats are to be tough under the basket.

—Theza Fitzpatrick, 5-4 senior guard. Started nine games last year and averaged 6.4 points per game. She should battle for a starting spot in the two-guard slot, Mossman said.

-Tracy Bleczinski, 5-8 sophomore forward. Bleczinski, after appearing in 23 of 29 games last season, is once again expected to see quite a bit of playing time as a power forward.

-Leann Kuebelbeck, 5-7 junior guard. Kuebelbeck saw an average of six minutes playing time per game last season and should battle for a starting spot, Mossman said.

—Stephanie Lane, 6-4 freshman center. Lane was redshirted last season, but Mossman said she expects her to break into the starting lineup because Lane has both size and strength.

—Rita Matteuci, 5-11 freshman forward. Matteuci averaged 22.6 points per game — tops among New Mexico preps — her senior year in high school.

—Amy Davidson, 5-9 freshman guard-forward. Davidson will likely fight for the starting position at small forward, Mossman said. Davidson earned several postseason honors, including being named "Miss Basketball" in Minnesota and getting picked for the Converse All-American and All-American Academic teams.

-Elyse Funk, 5-5 freshman guard. Funk averaged 11.3 points per game and dished out 6.7 assists her senior year at Newton High School. Mossman said Funk should pressure the veterans at point guard.

-Carol Smith, 5-7 freshman guard. Smith also will battle for the starting position at point guard, according to the Lady Cats' coach. Besides averaging more than 23 points and 11 rebounds per game in high school, Smith shot better than 80 percent from the foul line in her high school career.

—Janet Madsen, 5-9 freshman guard. Madsen also was a Converse All-American selection. Mossman said Madsen could see considerable playing time at guard.

Staff/Robert Squi

Stephanie Lane, a 6-foot-4 freshman center, tips the ball off the backboard during a conditioning drill at the Lady Cats' first practice of the 1986-87 season Wednesday afternoon in Ahearn Field House.

If you dislike KU, wear purple, white

How time flies when you're having fun. It's been five weeks since I've had the pleasure of writing a pregame column about life as a mascot, so I decided it was time to get a few things off my not-so-hairy chest.

First, and most importantly, those hated Jayhwaks travel to Manhattan to play our 'Cats Saturday for state bragging rights. Because it has been five weeks since our last home game, remember — we're the ones in purple and white.

And the game will be televised so don't forget your "Mom and Dad: SEND MONEY" signs.

If my memory serves me correctly, a few of us got out of hand after this game two years ago (I still believe "riot" is too harsh a term). K-State Vice President William Sutton recently mailed out a memo that said, "University and city officials have been making plans to avoid such occurances prior to, during or after this year's football game."

Now, I'm all for a good party, but let's not make any of Manhattan's finest try to outrun 2,000 victorycrazed college students.

After the KU game, the Missouri Tigers ("pseudo-cats" as I call them) come to Manhattan for Homecoming. This game also will be televised and should bring in a large crowd of alumni. Be sure to take notice of the work done by the living groups and Blue Key to liven up Homecoming Week.

Special thanks go to the enthusiastic fans who came out for the

WILLIE THE WILDCAT Guest Columnist

"Midnight Madness" basketball practice early Wednesday morning. I'm still working on getting the cobwebs out of my jump shot, but it is hoped this Norris Coleman fiasco will work out in our favor by the time the season starts Nov. 29.

Get excited, basketball will be a great time.

And, by the way, here's my list of the eight most common comments I get at football games.

— 8. Can you get me a date with that blonde cheerleader?

- 7. Let me drive your four-

- 7. Let me drive your fourwheeler.

6. How bout those 'Hawks?
 5. Why aren't you running the offense?

— 4. Will you sign this autograph for my brother-in-law's sister's third cousin's nephew?

— 3. Hey, dude. How 'bout a brew?

2. Who are you anyway?
 And the No. 1 statement I hear the most at 'Cat home contests: Get your hand off my girlfriend, now!

Well, it's time for me to sign off. Have a great time at those next few games. Go 'Cats!

NCAA Council backs recruit, pass proposals

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Recruiting time would be cut in half for football and basketball coaches, and athletes could give their game passes to anybody they want under legislation the NCAA Council has decided to sponsor at the NCAA convention in January.

Jack Davis, NCAA president, also said at a news conference Wednesday that the council will propose a rule banning boosters entirely from helping a school recruit.

"We've had a very productive three days of meetings," said Davis, the Oregon State faculty represen-

All th

All the council's items must be approved by majority vote of the NCAA schools. But proposals endorsed by the council usually are adopted. In other action, Davis said the council will propose:

-Having coaches report to their school presidents all sources of outside income using "university property real or intangible."

perty real or intangible."

—Tighten the satisfactory progress rule which says an athlete must make progress toward a specific degree each year to remain eligible.

-Limit athletes' use of remedial

Big Eight Network to televise 'Cats, Kansas

By TOM MORRIS Assistant Sports Editor

Missouri place-kicker Tom Whelihan broke a Big Eight record, which stood for 12 seasons, with a 62-yard field goal against Colorado last week.

Two people witnessed both Whelihan's effort and Tony DeRienzo's 60-yard kick for Oklahoma that set the previous record in 1973. The two were ex-Sooner quarterback, Steve Davis and Big Eight assistant commissioner Bill Hancock.

Davis, the holder on DeRienzo's field goal, was in Columbia to handle color commentator duties for the Big Eight/Raycom telecast, and Hancock was OU's assistant athletic director in 1973.

The Big Eight/Raycom Network feature game of the week is Kansas (3-2 overall, 0-1 in the Big Eight) at K-State (1-4, 0-1). Kickoff is slated for 11:38 a.m. at KSU Stadium.

Other conference matchups include Iowa State (4-1, 1-0)) at Colorado (1-4, 1-0), Missouri (1-4, 0-1) at Nebraska (5-0, 1-0) and Oklahoma State (2-3, 0-1) at Oklahoma (4-1, 1-0)

1-0). Statistics and comments from around the conference:

Nebraska's junior varsity lost to the Air Force Academy 24-18 on Oct. 10. It was the first loss for the Cornhusker JV team in two

Oklahoma State tight end Brien Keith on the unique spelling of his first name:

"The only problem I've ever had with it is other people misspelling it," Keith said. "I really don't know what the hell my dad was thinking when he named me that."

Nebraska place-kicker Dale Klein tied an NCAA record by kicking seven field goals in last season's Missouri-'Huskers matchup, and became the first kicker to make sevenof-seven in Nebraska's 28-20 win.

Oklahoma State assistant coach Kevin Steele was asked by his wife what he would tell his freshman linebackers about Nebraska.

"I'm going to tell them to look both ways," Steele said, "just like a kid crossing the street, 'cause if you get hit by something, you're liable to be killed."

There will be a special tribute to Ellison
Onizuks during halftime of Saturday's Iowa
State-Colorado game at Boulder. Onizuks, a

Colorado graduate, was one of the seven a smile.

astronauts that died in January's Challenger tragedy.

courses to the freshman year.

"There's a fine line between winning and losing and we've graphically illustrated that point," Colorado coach Bill McCartney said of his team winning its first game of 1986 against Missouri last week.

"When you consider we're coming off of a bowl team and a good nucleus of guys coming back — it's been tough to digest," he said.

Nebraska's game against Missouri Saturday will mark the 174th consecutive sellout at Memorial Stadium.

Mets, Boston qualify for World Series

Can't win tag hangs with Mauch, Angels

By The Associated Press

BOSTON — The Boston Red Sox, with pitching ace Roger Clemens leading the way, thrashed the California Angels 8-1 Wednesday night to win Game 7 of the American League playoffs and a trip to the World Series.

Boston completed its comeback from a last-strike 3-1 deficit in the series in surprisingly easy fashion and put a crushing end to the season for the Angels, while also continuing the big-game jinx that has always plagued Manager Gene Mauch.

Clemens' four-hit pitching into the seventh inning and a towering three-run homer by Jim Rice helped deny California its first pennant in its 26-year history, and also re-routed Mauch's plans for his first World Series in 25 years of managing.

The Red Sox, aided by two crucial errors, knocked out John Candelaria in the fourth in taking a 7-0 lead. Mauch, whose team had been within one strike of the championship on Sunday, had said after losing Game 6 that the decisive Miscues b Schofield and Pettis made unearned an eight errors in the most every playoff series.

game would show which team knew how to win when it had to — and it did.

Clemens, after failing to win in his first two starts in the series, showed the form that made him baseball's most dominant pitcher this season. He settled into a groove early in the 56-degree night and was never in serious trouble, striking out three while walking just one.

Clemens gave up a leadoff single to Ruppert Jones in the seventh and was relieved by Calvin Schiraldi. Clemens walked off the field to a thunderous ovation and chants of "Roger, Roger."

Schiraldi allowed an RBI double to Doug DeCinces with two out, but he struck out the side in the ninth. The Angels, meanwhile, kept up a pattern of misplays that belied their experience-laden team.

Miscues by shortstop Dick Schofield and center fielder Gary Pettis made the first seven runs unearned and gave California eight errors in the series, tying for the most ever by one club in a playoff series.

Extra-inning contests are Astros' tradition

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Ray Knight keyed a three-run 16th inning Wednesday and the New York Mets survived one last Houston Astros' rally to win their third National League pennant, 7-6, in the longest postseason game ever.

The Mets' extra-inning rally was their second of the game as they erased a 3-0 deficit in the ninth inning and took a 4-3 lead in the 14th before the Astros' Billy Hatcher tied it in the bottom of the inning with a home run that hit the screen attached to the left-field foul pole.

Astros left-hander Bob Knepper held the Mets to two hits before they rallied in the ninth, while Mets pitchers shut out the Astros from the second until the 14th.

Darryl Strawberry, hitless in four previous at-bats, started the winning rally with a pop-fly double off losing pitcher Aurelio Lopez. Strawberry hit the ball off his fists into center field, and the ball fell between Hatcher and second baseman Bill Doran. The ball hit the artificial turf and bounced over Hatcher's head as Strawberry ent to second.

Knight, traded from the Astros to New York in 1984, then singled to right field. Houston right fielder Kevin Bass' throw was up the third-base line and too late to get Strawberry.

Knight went to second on the throw, and Jeff Calhoun relieved Lopez. Calhoun threw a wild pitch that sent Knight to third, and Wally Backman walked. A second wild pitch by Calhoun scored Knight and Len Dykstra added a single off the glove of first baseman Glenn Davis to score the final run.

New York reliever Jesse Orosco, who allowed Hatcher's home run, earned his third victory in the series despite allowing Houston to once again draw near.

Orosco, who also won Games 3 and 5, pitched eight innings in the series.

Houston's Mike Scott, who won two games while allowing one run and eight hits in 18 innings, was named the series most valuable

The Mets have won three divisional titles since they were born of expansion in 1962.

Kruger initiates K-State to basketball strategies

By TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

Lon Kruger has held his first "real" practice as K-State basketball coach, and he left the court with

"It's a good group of athletes," Kruger said. "They've worked awfully hard in preseason conditioning, and I really like the group. I know they'll work really hard for me."

This is just the beginning for the 14 players Kruger is carrying. Kruger is just now starting to implement the offensive and defensive schemes, as well as teaching the team his basket-ball philosopies.

Some of the things Kruger is teaching his team, though, might not be that unfamilar to a few of the players. After all, Kruger's predecessor, Jack Hartman, taught him much of what he knows about the coaching profession.

"I guess part of what we do is what Coach Hartman did, so some of the returning kids are familar with it," Kruger said.

At 12:01 Wednesday morning, Kruger had his first "practice" when he unveiled his players for K-State fans at the "Midnight Madness" scrimmage.

Around 4,000 fans filed into Ahearn
Field House to get a glimpse of what Wildcat basketball without Hartman would be like, and a pleased Kruger told the crowd how much their response meant to him and his team.

"Let me say how much we appreciate having you here tonight, and how much having you here tonight means to this group of young men," said Kruger, who continued complimenting the fans after the scrimmage. "In recruiting all of these young men, we always talked about having the best fans and this tonight makes us look awfully smart."

The unexpected turnout was not only pleasing to Kruger. Some of the newest Wildcats were left in awe of the large turnout for the scrimmage.

"The crowd was outstanding," said Michael McCraevan, a junior college transfer from Kaskaskia (Ill.) College. "It's good to have support like that. It gives us something to look forward to."

"The (players) were really impressed with the response last night," Kruger said Wednesday afternoon. "A couple of the junior college kids came in and said, 'That was unreal.' They're used to playing for 100 or 200 people and 400 when the place is sold out. They came in really excited."

It will be awhile before the Wildcats will get a chance to hear the roar of an Ahearn crowd once again. K-State's first game will be Nov. 29 when the 'Cats are hosts to South Dakota.

By ALLISON WEAVER Collegian Reporter

A graduate research assistant in the Department of Human Ecology has been awarded more than $3,200 to help her in researching fiber transfer, the release and relocation of single fibers from textile materials.

Some common examples of fiber transfer are pills formed on materials and clothing, the lint found on the lint trap in a dryer, fibers found when changing a vacuum cleaner bag and the way a carpet flattens with use, said Patricia Annis, who is working on her doctorate in textiles. Her dissertation research in exploring fiber transfer began last

Annis received a $1,000 President's Research Fellowship from Phi 'Upsilon Omicron and a $2,250 Research Fellowship from Omicron Nu to help her with the fiber transfer research. "I'm trying to determine fiber, yarn, fabric and finish parameters that influence fiber transfer," she Annis' research also includes finding causes and influences on fiber transfer taking place and ways to prevent it from happening.

To help with the study, she invented an abrasion machine that simulates actual wear of a fabric, referred to as non-accellerated abra-

"It was my idea, but I had a lot of help," Annis said.

The Physics Instrument Workshop on campus constructed the machine, which she said she hopes will be

The machine uses a donor and a recipient fabric. The donor fabric is analyzed by a computer for the total fiber mass, mean length, length distribution and crimp frequency after a test is done, Annis said. Some of the money she has received from the fellowships has helped pay for the cost of the machine. 'It's kind of exciting," Annis said of her research.

Annis is a 1973 graduate of Northern Iowa University, where she received a B.A. degree in vocational home economics with an emphasis in child development and family

In 1980, Annis received a master's degree in textiles and clothing from the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville. She taught clothing and textile classes there the following two Annis came to K-State in 1982 after being awarded a graduate research assistantship. She has taken classes and worked as a graduate teacher's assistant, but currently is not taking any classes.

"I came to K-State because they have such a good textile science and textile chemistry program," Annis said.

Both Phi Upsilon Omicron and Omicron Nu are honorary societies in home economics. They award their President's Research Fellowships to those who excell in academic excellence, professional leadership and service to the home economics profession. Phi Upsilon Omicron gives one fellowship per year and Omicron Nu gives two per Annis also is a member of the American Home Economics Association, the Association of College Profesors of Textiles and Clothing and the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists.

Upon receiving her degree in either May or August 1987, Annis plans to continue her research and

He said space is available without

"I'm saying we can be tougher and we can do it in more effective ways and we have the maximum security

"We don't have the maximum security space available," he said.

certainly not a maximum security

'And the new facility at Ellsworth is space available," Docking said.

Hayden disagreed.

new construction, citing the new prison at Ellsworth and continuing community corrections programs.

chewers of tobacco By LORI STEVENS

Cancer doesn't scare

Collegian Reporter

For smokeless tobacco users, just a pinch between the cheek and gum may be more harmful than pleasurable.

Increasing amounts of evidence linking smokeless tobacco to oral cancer apparently haven't convinced many chewers to give up the habit. Tobacco chewing is still a popular habit, especially among Statistics provided by the American Cancer Society state that oral cancer strikes approximately 27,000 people in the United States each year and causes 9,150 deaths. It is found most frequently in men over 40, and the incidence is more than twice as high in males as in Shanon Saia, senior in social sciences, said he has been chewing for about five years, but he doesn't worry about oral cancer.

"The only time I chew is when I'm outside," Saia said. "I usually don't chew in the summer because it's too hot. I've thought about lip cancer, but I don't chew that much, so it doesn't worry

Doug VanDam, senior in marketing, has been chewing since eighth grade. He said he usually chews a lot on weekends and about twice a day during the week.

VanDam said he has his dentist check for any signs of tobaccorelated irritations when he goes for regular checkups every six months.

Jim Hise, junior in restaurant management, said his bottom lip is irritated and sometimes burns when he chews. Hise has chewed for five years and sometimes gets chest pains when he chews.

Dr. Brent Benkelman, an oral surgeon in Manhattan, said he only sees five or six cases of oral cancer a year, but he sees quite a few irritations in his patients who chew tobacco. Benkelman said alcoholics have a much higher risk of oral cancer.

Docking may have bias, Hayden says

By The Associated Press

Speaker Mike Hayden suggested Wednesday than an administration led by Lt. Gov. Tom Docking might be prejudiced against Wichita State University.

"I think it's unfortunate Tom has said his lieutenant governor would be in charge of organizing programs at state universities that do research for business," Hayden said at a joint appearance of the two candidates on the WSU campus.

"I would question whether he could do that without prejudice as it relates to Wichita State.

Docking's running mate, Junction City newspaper publisher John Montgomery, is a former member of the Board of Regents. He has opposed the addition of three doctoral programs at WSU. Montgomery also voted to give the university's president, Warren Armstrong, a smaller percentage salary raise this year than was given other school presidents. Montgomery said he didn't like the way Armstrong pressed the school's case for the new

Ramada Inn

THURSDAY

Margarita

Madness

99¢

Margaritas

Taco Bar

17th & Anderson Across from KSI

4-7 p.m.

Docking replied that Montgomery had voted in favor of the establishment of the first doctoral programs offered at WSU and also voted to hire Armstrong.

"We are deeply committed to assuring a bright future for this institution," Docking said.

He said Hayden advocates adding Washburn University to the regents system at a time when resources for existing schools should be increased instead of diluted.

A member of the audience asked what the candidates would do to improve pupil-teacher ratios and strengthen public education.

Docking, the state's lieutentant governor from Wichita, said Hayden has consistently voted for a minimal state role in funding education in his 14 years in the Legislature.

"He has come out with proposals that sound progressive at first blush," Docking said. "After 14 years of voting against very similar proposals, will the public buy it? A tiger does not change his stripes that

THE SHOE FACTORY

431 Town East Center

just east of Food 4 Less

539-0363

NOW OPEN!

Quality Ladies shoes

at reduced prices.

* Many Name Brands *

Watch for our Grand Opening.

sterCord VISA

'Entire stock not yet in, but come in and compare our prices!"

Hayden, the Republican House Speaker from Atwood said Docking enrolled his son in a Wichita private school for two years.

"That doesn't sound like a commitment to public education to me," said Hayden, adding that funding for public education had increased from $200 million a year to $700 million while he was in the Legislature.

Docking outlined his plan for stiffening criminal sentences and a questioner asked where the prisoners would be put and how much it would cost taxpayers.

SOCIAL

1314B Westloop • 537-7079

Hours

Mon.-Sat.

9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

facility.

T•N•T THURSDAYS Ladies Day 99¢ Margaritas 99¢ Fuzzy Navels 99¢ Tacos THURSDAYS 4-7 p.m.

COTTON CLUB 418 Poyntz

MAYER RETAIL LIQUOR

- Cold kegs in stock
- Chilled beer, wine, wine coolers
- Large selection spirits
- * All your game day needs

521 N. 12th — In Aggieville (1 block south of Kite's & next to Southern Sun)

539-5269

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * INTRAMURAL VOLLEYBALL OFFICIALS CLINIC

> official, please attend both clinics. Sunday, Oct. 19 at 6:30

K-State Union Room 212 Monday, Oct. 20 at 5:30

Rec Complex Multi-Purpose Room

Starting pay is $3.60/hour-more for experienced officials. Call Steve or Kevin at 532-6980 for more information.

Everyone's Invited!

Groundbreaking for the Fred Bramlage Coliseum will be Saturday, October 18 at 10 a.m. south of KSU stadium.

The Coliseum Program Committee cordially invites all students, faculty and staff.

Start the day celebration and a burst of Wildcat Pride!

(Rain Plan . . . Brandeberry Building)

Beat

Beat

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY and ZENITH DATA SYSTEMS... A Winning Combination!

Zenith Systems, a major manufacturer of personal computers,

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY for two days

to answer questions about microcomputers and discuss how a Zenith computer can help you become more productive.

Zenith Data Systems manufactures five different personal computer models so you're sure to find one that is right for you. All of the models are IBM-compatible meaning you'll never have to worry about finding the right software program. We offer you high quality computers at affordable prices. When total performance is your only option, see why Zenith Data Systems is your only Featured below are two of our most popular models:

The Z-158 provides you with all the features you need. except the high price. Just look at what you get: . 2 514" 360K disk drives

- . 256K RAM (expandable to 640K)
- . 8 Mhz Turbo Switch
- · Monochrome and RGB color capability . Serial and parallel ports
- . MS DOS 3.1 Operating System(FREE)

The Z-171 Laptop gives you all the power of a desktop computer system in a small package:

- . Weighs less than 15 lbs . 2 514" 360K disk drives
- 640K RAM . Full size 80x25 line screen
- . Serial and parallel ports
- . MS DOS 3.1 Operating System (FREE)

FOR SALE NOW, To Current KSU, Faculty, Staff and Students! KSU ID Required

> For more information and a demonstration, plan on visiting the Open House at this location:

> > October 16 and 17 K-State Union Lobby in front of Bookstore

ENITH data systems Hours: 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Dole's opponent won't accept defeat

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Scholarly Guy Mac-Donald is proving he is not the standard American politician in his campaign this fall to unseat Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole.

MacDonald, 46, surprised Kansas politicos in August when he won the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, defeating four candidates better known than he was.

He's had virtually no visibility since getting a brief spate of publicity immediately after the primary victory.

There are reasons for that, Mac-Donald said in an interview.

For one thing, his two major campaign issues are opposition to campaign advertising and opposition to accepting contributions from political action committees.

"From the point of view of voters, I say that type of advertising is biased, superficial and not substantive. It is a distinct disservice to voters," he said of ads produced and paid for by campaign organizations.

tributions nationally from $12.5 million in 1974 to $105 million in 1984, MacDonald said, "You have to ask yourself why this growth has occurred. The reason is because the money is effective. It works for them. The moment the legislator accepts that money, he becomes a representative of the interest group and not of the constituency that elected him.'

If you are philosophically opposed to candidates' using advertisements to become better known and to establish favorable images, and you don't think they should accept money from special interest groups, you have trouble getting exposure, MacDonald acknowledg-

Besides paying a filing fee, Mac-Donald spent only $65 during the primary campaign. So far he has spent only $2,000 in his campaign against Dole - a campaign most Kansans probably don't know ex-

Dole also has done no advertising to Kansas for about a month. Dole is coming back to the state this weekend.

Lack of TV exposure isn't all MacDonald has shunned. He has yet to send out his first news release, or to seek his first joint appearance with Dole, Kansas' threeterm Republican senator who is a likely contender for the GOP nomination for president in 1988.

Guy said he has waited for groups to invite him to appear before them, and he's waited for reporters to ask him for interviews. He won't hold news conferences, he said. He called them "efforts to manipulate the press."

To understand such reticence in the political arena, one must understand Guy MacDonald's perphilosophy and sonality, background.

He received a degree in French from St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia, his birthplace, and also studied philosophy. He spent two years with the Peace Corps in Nepal, taught English and has worked as a carpet salesman and stockbroker. He now lives off in-MacDonald's intellect and depth of knowledge are impressive. He can quote vast statistics and historical date on everything from Central American politics to international monetary policy.

He explained his positions on five national issues.

He said the federal government must quit managing the farm economy; Congress must overcome its "lack of collective courage" and reduce spending to end budget deficits; the U.S. should enforce a closed border policy on the south to stem the flow of aliens into the country; based on the facts, he doesn't think large U.S. aid to Contra rebels is justified, and he doesn't think economic sanctions will achieve the desired goal in South Africa.

MacDonald readily admits he is a political novice.

"You're talking to somebody very naive," he said. "I'm not astute in generating the type of publicity you probably need. I have relied on the press to contact me."

Gospel music concert to feature area choirs

By SCOTT ROBERTS Collegian Reporter

Gospel music is a form of carrying the gospel of Jesus Christ to the public through psalms, songs and praise. Gospel music acquired its beginnings in America during the turbulent times of slavery.

"Often, the black slaves would sing of going to heaven and leaving their world of bondage and suffering," said Joe Walker, senior in electrical engineering and member of United Black Voices. "Since that time, gospel has inspired every form of music that has had an American origin. It has inspired blues, jazz, country, soul and even rock 'n' roll music. Moreover, gospel music touches the heart, soul and mind of men."

UBV is having its second annual "Gospel Extravaganza" from 4 to 10 p.m. Sunday in Union Forum Hall. Admission is $1.

The Gospel Extravaganza will feature the Fort Riley Voices of spirational Voices Gospel Choir, the Custer Hill gospel choir from Manhattan and the choir from the Junction City Pentecostal Church.

The United Black Voices gospel choir began in 1968, when the members of the Delta Sigma Theta service organization expressed an overt concern to expose the University and surrounding communities of the inspirational sounds of gospel music. Through hard work and of the will of the Lord, Walker said, the choir will continue to bring the ministry of this form of music to the public, Walker said.

"Our organization is committed in singing to uplift the name of the Lord," said Anthony Pauldin, president of UBV and junior in business management.

Following the performance, a reception will be held to acqaint the audience with choir members.

"Hopefully, the extravaganza will enable everyone to come together through our praises and hymns of the Lord," Pauldin said. "UBV wants to show to the K-State and Manhattan Truth, the Kansas University In- communities that our 40-member choir still has close ties with God."

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error

50. WORD WAS OUT ... THE LAST

BASSELOPE HAD BEEN FOUND. AND AMERICA'S ARMED FORCES

MOBILIZED ... LIKE THE ARMY ...

Garfield

CASH REGISTER!

GARFIELP! YOU'RE NOT GOING

TO BELIEVE THIS! I WAS IN A BAKERY TOPAY BUYING A

CAKE WHEN THREE MIDGETS IN

GORILLA COSTUMES RACED IN. SET THE PLACE ON FIRE AND RAN OUT WITH THE

eanuts

THERE HE 15!

Bloom County

FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

01

.. AND THE PRESS.

SHOOT!

SHOOT!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

AND THE SPORTSMEN ...

THERE HE 15!

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52)

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

Hayes House of Music

Guitar Strings and Drumsticks -BUY ONE SET & GET SECOND SET 1/2 PRICE

327 Poyntz 776-7983

ATTENTION - ANYONE interested in walking-on to the 1986-87 Wildcat Basketball Team-tryouts will be held Sunday, October 19th at 6 p.m. in Ahearn Gymnasium. (38-39)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 1/4 lb. Hamburger, 1/2 order curly fries and medium drink for $2 Exp. Date 10/19 (with coupon)

By Berke Breathed

175 THE

By Jim Davis

JPM DAV95 10-16

By Charles Schulz

CHOCOLATE OR

VANILLA FROSTING?

REACTION WAS SWIFT ...

LAST CALL! Class begins Saturday, October 18 at

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth-

ng and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

COMPLETE YOUR classroom requirements in one day at the Little Apple Driving School. Call 539-

4881 or 539-2715 for information. (38-39)

the Little Apple Driving School. For Incall 539-4881 or 539-2715. (38-39)

ATTENTION

1st Anniversary Tanning Special

12 Sessions $20 (previous customers)

10 Sessions $20

(new customers)

776-7874 1214 C Moro

Exp. 10-19-86

ENGLISH GRADUATES thinking of graduate school? Small is beautiful. Graduate Assistantships. Department, Emporia State University, Emporia, Kansas 66801. Write or call 1-316-343-1200, ext. 5216. (38-39)

KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Key stone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more, from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more in-formation toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

JOIN THE Irresistible Force:

The Kansas Army National Guard needs you! If you're a High School Junior, Senior, or Grad. between the ages of 17 and 35, you can become part of the IRRESISTIBLE FORCE

*$2,000 Cash Bonus

*$5,040 New G.I. Bill

*$10,000 Student Loan Repayment

*$20,000 Health Profession Loan

Repayment Program *And Earn Over $1,200 per year

Part-Time

For Information Call: SFC Don Hash (913)537-4108 day (913)537-2478 night

THIS IS the Life-A television program, cable channel 6; Fridays, 5 p.m. An elderly woman fights being placed in a residential care facility. (38-39) FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword

I'LL HOLD THE BALL

SIR, AND YOU KICK IT ...

2 Lot size

3 Cult

4 Casual top 5 Musical sound

6 Custard ingredient

Ferdinand,

7 Pub quaff

8 Breakfast fruit

9 Francis

MARCIE, I'M NOT GONNA

COME ON, JON. DON'T SPARE THE DETAILS!

'LL BET THE

ACROSS 47 One of 1 Shoe form Mickey's

exes

48 Moriarty,

Holmes

"brother"

51 Arthur's

52 Vatican

time

56 "Auld

5 Yoked set 9 Stereo part 12 Frosts 13 Gawk 14 Caviar 15 Michael,

17 Actor's aid 53 At any 18 Quit 19 Different

54 City trains 21 Concerning 55 Remain 22 Longed 24 Throb 27 Humorist 28 Guitar's cousin

31 Go awry 32 Chopping tool 33 Relatives 34 Diplomacy 36 Lapidary concern 37 Remit 38 Tour stopover 40 Surprised sound 41 Abase

43 Of the clan

Lang DOWN Boys 1 Tale 20 - Aviv teller Solution time: 26 mins. Yesterday's answer 10-16

24 Wager 25 Time period 26 Hall 27 Salary 29 - Pan Alley 30 Finale 35 Boot part 37 Radiates bunkers 40 Refinery input 41 George or Victoria

22 Computer

screen

23 Article

10 Pout 11 Equal 39 Golf 16 "Where the 42 Track 43 Those guys 44 Small group 45 "You said 46 Harp's cousin 49 Balderdash 50 Tax-time

10-16

TEFT YDJJOY YOUPYPLX TDDL:

EMEYSOZ UDD OETPMF." Yesterday's Cryptoquip: FINE NEIGHBORHOOD TAILOR BRAGGED, "I'M THE LAST OF THE BIG TIME MENDERS."

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Y equals R

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537

QUIET, WELL-maintained, one bedroom furnished apartment in modern complex, two blocks west of campus. Laundry, patio, parking facilities. $216/ month, November 1 lease, deposit. No pets, waterbeds. Prefer non-smoking graduate student, re-search assistant or mature employed adult. 537-9686 for application and information. (34-39) NON-SMOKING FEMALE, $150 bills paid. Call 539-

8464 or 539-8401 after 5 p.m. (37-44) ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campus, starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051 or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49)

FOR SALE-AUTO

1971 VW Station Wagon—automatic, dependable, $875. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (33tf) 1981 CHEVETTE-Four-speed, air conditioning, AM-

FM radio, excellent condition, 50,000 miles, $2,300. Call 539-0567 or 537-1107. (34-38)

1977 CUTLASS Supreme—AM/FM, air, runs good, best offer. Call 776-9881 after 6 p.m. (36-38) 1979 FORD Mustang—76,000 miles, runs good, $2,000. Call 537-0401 before 8 p.m. (36-40)

1977 HONDA Civic Wagon, 74,000 miles, best offer 776-1211 or 532-6629. (37-41)

1970 VOLKSWAGEN Karmann Ghia. Monza exhaust, Guards red paint, runs great, 537-7866. (37-39) BUYING OR selling a car, truck, motorcycle, RV, boat, trailer? See Wheel 'n' Deal, Blue Hills Shop-ping Center, Saturdays 8 a.m. Parking spot, window sticker, area advertising, $10. Manhattan Emergency Shelter, 537-3113. (37-38) 1980 CAMARO — Sunroof, 40,000 miles, good condi-tion. Call 537-0835. (38-42)

FOR SALE-MISC

REVERSIBLE LEATHER/suede ladies jacket, size 14 Call 776-9881, (36-38)

WALNUT, ROUND glass-top coffee table, 776-9881

YAMAHA CR-1020 receiver, 70 watts per channel, excellent condition. Why pay more for comparable new one, $250. Call 776-2480. (36-39)

LOCK BOX for S-10 or Ranger pick-up. Manual type writer. 539-5234. (37-39) KU-K-STATE football tickets for sale. Call 532-2161.

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 69¢

1/4 Hamburger

Exp. Date 10/19 (with coupon)

537-3335

ALPINE CAR stereo, equalizer, amps. F/B speakers Sony compact disc player with 11 discs, $1,000. Call 776-5646, Mike Maki. (37-39)

TWO K.U.-K-State football tickets for sale. Price negotiable, Call 776-7018, (37-38)

ONE YEAR old Bianchi 12-speed bicycle. Great condition. Call Todd at 539-5098 after 6 p.m. (37-39) SPECTRA 4-channel mixer. Equalizer, powered. Must WATERBED—SOLID oak with high gloss finish, mat-tress and heater included. Call Mark, 537-8567. (38-

SLIPS ANY LENGTH available at

UNDERCOVER Open Mon.-Fri. 10-5:30

Thurs. 10-8, Sat. 10-5 1224 Moro

A+ Aggieville Undercover Understands Underwear KU VS KSU tickets, two for $30. Please call 532-5146.

ATARI 800XL, 1050 drive, $225. Radio Shack PC-2, $75. 13 inch color TV, $130. Call 532-5136. (38-42) FOR SALE: Two K-State vs KU tickets. Call 776-3318.

HELP WANTED 3,000 GOVERNMENT Jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (28-64)

South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA, 92625. (27-46) WORK STUDY student secretary. Accurate typing,

OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year around. Europe

clerical skills. Learn word processing, database programs. $3.50 plus depending on experience. Seelcall Parn, Center for Aging, Fairchild #1, 532-5945. (33-39) WANTED MALE or female for part-time position dairy help. Call 1-944-3641. (34-38)

THINKING OF taking some time off from school? We need Mother's Helpers. Household duties and childcare. Live in exciting New York City suburbs. Room, board, salary included. 203-622-0717 or 914-

WANTED-MAINTENANCE man-(plumbing), for occasional small repair jobs. 537-0428. (36-38) MODELS NEEDED for drawing classes at KSU. Call 532-6605, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. (36-39)

WORK STUDY student secretary. Typing, word processing—also acts as department reception-ist. $3.50 plus, depending on experience. See/call Marjorie, Department of Management, 19 Calvin, 532-6296. (37-41)

5:30 p.m. days USD 383 not in session. Plan, prepare for, and lead indoor and outdoor activities. Su pervise aide. Send resume, three references to Esther Gray, KSU Childcare Coop, L-9 Jardine, Manhattan. EOE. (38-41)

COORDINATOR FOR school age child care, 8 a.m.

TEMPORARY TEACHER needed for blocks of time November 24-28, December 15 thru January 15. En joyable indoor outdoor routine in attractive situa-tion. Work in two teacher classroom with one other adult. Send resume and three references to Esther Gray, KSU Childcare Coop, L-9 Jardine, Manhattan.

AIDES NEEDED for school age childcare when USD 383 not in session. Send resume and three references to Esther Gray, KSU Childcare Coop, L-9 Jardine, Manhattan, EOE. (38-41)

ALTERATIONS SEAMSTRESS BRASS BUCKLE

Apply in person Oct. 21 between 10 a.m.-5 p.m. 118 S. Fourth

OVERSEAS JOBS. Also cruiseships, airlines, hotels. $15,000-$89,000/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. OJ-1000. (38-44)

$25 REWARD for lost Kodak slide carousel with advertising slides in Union, Thursday, September 25.

TWO KEYS on leather piece with silver concho, lost last week. Call 539-7948. (37-39) $40 REWARD for lost mens class ring somewhere between Ford Hall and Ahearn. Was lost night of Midnight Madness. Call 532-3501. (38-40) BLUE AND yellow quilt at tennis courts near Rec

Call Student Publications Office, 532-6555. (37-39)

LOST, BROWN wallet with student ID Meal Card, and Driver's Licence. Lost in front of Kedzie Hall or on campus Tuesday night. (38-39)

PERSONAL

G-PHI Jean, You're just what we need to make our family complete. Welcome aboard! With love, Amy, Joyce, and Lynette. (38) AMY-THIS is a special day for a very special person.

Have a great birthday! Steve. (38) SHAWNA AND Mary Beth-Oh my gosh! I've twin dots instead of one, and I'm so psyched 'cause we'll have twice the fun! So, get ready for the great times in Gamma Phi Beta, 'cause we're going to make an awesome family! Love, Tammy. (38) KAPPA PIGLET-These past few weeks have been one of a kind, I have you, the best dot anyone could find. The 25th brings great fun and laughter too, t wouldn't want to spend my B-day with anyone but you. You're the best. Love, Skip. (38) XO-HUFFAS-I left some stuff in your pedal bike. Call me-Nolan. (38)

TO THE women of AKK! Lisa, Amy, Jamie, Jill, Connie, Jana, Debbie, Tammy. Thanks a bunch! The Sigma Nu's of AKK! (38) AS A team, we're having fun. Thetas and Sigma Nus are number one! (38)

"SNAKE KILLER" Metzger and "Barrier Reef" Pride: From the Congo to the Outback to the Artic, The Adventure Begins! (38) KAPPA DELTA NCA-Welcome, Wendy Gladin, National Collegiate Advisor. The Sigma Gams are glad you're here. AOT. (38) KAPPA CAREY-Life is kinda crazy and there's lots of things to do, but things wouldn't be as special without a true blue sister like you. (38)

THERESA MAGES—Happy Birthday from your sister. Have a beer for me tonight. Party Harty! (38) MR. 15 Minutes-T: That's all you're going to get from us. Happy 24th, you slut puppy! (38)

LIL GAYLORD-Bud Party, the Stuga, the vasa and such-Flamingo-style oozeball, the fun was too much! "Rags to Riches" and "Beaucoup" de Racquetball-(Don't get too "cocky," you're doomed for a fail!) Our special moments and talks mean a ton. Almost six weeks - we've only just be Hope "today" goes super! Love ya-Dizzy.

KD-SROOC, Hope your 20th is great! Love, Theta

THETA CINDY, Happy Birthday and thanks for the talk Tuesday night. Love, Carol. (38)

ANDERSON-ONE year already? Here's to Maximillan, sunny days, porch swings, NSDSCL's, Happy Meals, bike rides, late night calls, Top Gun, C.C. fountains and this weekend (where?) Eau (wherever you go) lease. (38)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17 VERY NICE two bedroom apartment, $100 rent. Stop by 1019 Bluemont anytime after 1 p.m. Monday-

ROOMMATE FOR second semester, $125/month plus one-half KPL. Great location, fireplace. washer-dryer, two bedrooms. 776-6803. (37-41)

SERVICES

MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free. Clinically tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Pro-ckish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes-

Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

WRITING A paper? Word processing, near letter

MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processor. 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, disserta-tions, manuscripts, term papers. (38-40)

BABYSITTING, NORTHVIEW area, $1.25/hour. Any age, willing to fit schedule. Have references. Call 539-4905. (38-40)

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed, half block west of campus, apartment #1, 1829 College Heights. 776-4914. (38-40)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S.

sionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf) WORD PROCESSING and Laser Printing. Call 539-6774 after 5:30 p.m. (36-39)

quality, editing, reasonable rates. Laura, 532-2362 (#131), leave message. (36-40)

Holmes

Continued from Page 1

stitution to make, he said. The first commitment asks that the University phase out the undergraduate major and develop in its place a graduate program in teacher educa-

K-State currently prepares teachers at the undergraduate level, certified by the State Department of Education. However, the commitment suggests that an undergraduate degree be earned in a discipline other than education and a master's be earned in education, Hoyt said. Of the nine commitments, he said this was the only one to which the faculty does not agree.

In considering the proposal, Hoyt said he must first ask if agreement with eight of the nine commitments is enough to qualify an institution for membership. Also, he questions how to interpret the phrase "phase out."

"Does this mean for a period of time the College of Education would retain its current undergraduate degree while engaging in the process of building a master of arts and teaching graduate degree program?" he said. "Or does it mean "both an undergraduate and graduate program could operate simultaneously?"

Hoyt said if answers to these questions are affirmative, faculty members would perhaps change their minds and agree to this commitment. But if "phase out" means to immediately sieze operating the undergraduate program, he said the faculty would not likely agree to it.

John Steffan, head of the Department of Administration and Foundations of Education, said he sees both strengths and weaknesses in the program, but feels the issue is important and worth the attempt to aprove

Byrne said there may be an opportunity to belong to the group yet remain unique as an institution. He believes other models of developing programs might be acceptable as long as they conform with the general principals of the proposal.

"The public has been led to believe that the group is more advanced than what it is," he said.

A decision to join must be made by mid-November. An annual membership fee of $4,000 is required to join.

Event attracts prospective students

By KRISTI KRUCKENBERG Collegian Reporter

About 110 high school seniors and their parents were told "something big is about to happen at K-State' Wednesday at "Career Counselor Night" at the Manhattan Holidome Convention Center.

High school students were told that now is an exciting time of change and transition for the University.

"In the last two years, we have seen a turnaround in administration and athletics, and something really big is about to happen at Kansas State," said Terry Hallauer, senior in marketing and '85-'86 K-State am-

These changes are creating a feeling of excitement, and the University has begun to reach out to students, emphasizing K-State's many strengths, Hallauer said.

"We have a College of Business that has been ranked continually in the top-15 percent in the nation, a College of Engineering that is the most comprehensive in the state, an outstanding college of agriculture, and it is all of the colleges brought together that makes up our total college environment," Hallauer said. Another aim of the evening was to encourage potential K-State students to visit the campus and experience student life.

"We (high school students) limit ourselves to what we hear in the media and don't actually get out and see the campus," Hallauer said.

High school seniors were told that when they visit campus, they will not only experience campus life but also get a dose of student spirit.

"President (Jon) Wefald is trying to bring back that good old purple pride," Hallauer said, "and K-State students have lots to be proud of." This was the first of many Career Counselor Nights scheduled this school year in various locations throughout the state. The event is sponsored by the K-State Alumni Association and Student Alumni

"The purpose of Career Counselor Night is for KSU students to explain to high school students what K-State all about," said Lori Shellenberger, junior in pre-law and

'85-'86 K-State ambassador. The event is unique because it gives potential K-State students an opportunity to visit with students and alumni about curriculums and professions, as well as providing them with information concerning adjusting to college, financial assistance, admissions procedures, housing and extracurricular activities, Shellenberger said.

Soviet soldiers leave Afghanistan

By The Associated Press

SHINDAND, Afghanistan - Communist Party chief Najibullah threw flower petals at about 1,500 members of a Soviet tank regiment who clanked away in a dusty column Wednesday on their long and well-publicized trip home.

The departure from a parched basin in this region near the Iranian frontier began the withdrawal of about 8,000 of the estimated 115,000 Soviet soldiers who help the communist government fight Moslem

Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev promised the pullout in July, during a speech in Vladivostok. Moscow has contended that Afghan government forces are much stronger now than when it sent the first troops to Kabul in December

Western diplomats in Afghanistan say the withdrawal is insignificant, a gesture timed to ward off criticism during annual U.N. debate on the Afghan war later this year. Soviet officials call it a symbol of Kremlin willingness to achieve a political settlement in Afghanistan. They say a complete pullout is not possible until the United States. Pakistan and other countries stop supplying political support and weapons to the Moslem guerrillas.

Publicity about the withdrawal began immediately after Gorbachev's announcement and culminated this week in a carefully supervised visit to Afghanistan for about 100 foreign journalists, most of them from the Soviet Union and its East European allies.

Guthrie

Continued from Page 1

The volunteers participated in activities including the governmentfunded construction of a twobedroom home for a widow in the

This was the first time the program had received government assistance for a building project, he said. Group members in the past had to dig house foundations with shovels. For this house, the foundation was being dug with machinery.

"When we were digging the foundation, the widow came out to visit," he said. "She brought along a divining rod and walked around the grounds in search of water. She told us that a peach tree branch worked the best, but that she could only find an apple tree branch to use."

The typical home of families in the area was a recycled mobile home, Guthrie said. Their idea of "moving up" was to take boards and build on to their mobile home.

The opportunity for the group to be integrated with the local people helped them to understand the lifestyle of the Appalachians.

"We visited with both young and old around the area," Guthrie said.

GO WILDCATS!!!

"Chickenhawk Special"

- Chickenhawk Sandwich
- Salad
- Small Drink

Only $2

Now through Mon., Oct. 20 (with coupon)

* Void with any other offer 1125-A Laramie Plaza

C & M AUTO SUPPLY

PARTS • SUPPLIES • EQUIPMENT OVER 30,000 TOP BRAND ITEMS IN STOCK

10% DISCOUNT ON CASH ORDERS

(Present Coupon Prior to Order) Open Mon.-Sat. 8 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Closed Sunday

305 S. 4th

Expires 10/31/86

776-4747

Business 715 N. 12th Machines 539-7931

Purchase of a ribbon cartridge for any of the following new-model typewriters: Silver Reed EX-30, 42, Penman Brother CE 25-70, EM 80-300 SCM Ultrasonic or "H" Series

Royal Satellite II or Alpha 2001

expires 10/22/86

limit one per purchase

RAISE YOUR EYE—CUE

See and be seen beautifully in frames that bring out your best.

> 10% off Rx and frames exp. 10-31-86

410 Poyntz 707 W. 6th Downtown Manhattan Junction City

776-6255

238-4551

Devoted Exclusively to Selling Professional Beauty Products

Crimper's Hair Design Studio

613 N. Manhattan 539-7621

Jim offers a 20% Discount with this coupon

on any Perm, Haircolor or Highlight Offer Expires Dec. 12, 1986

Perms, Colors, Design Cuts, Manicures & Nails

We are pleased to announce the arrival of Sebastian Cellophanes transparent, temporary hair color $15 with this coupon, a regular $25 value.

Mon.-Fri. 8-8, Sat. 8-5

Expires 11-28-86

FREE 16" Supreme Pizza with the purchase of one

A $15.26 Value Limit one coupon per order

No Expiration Date

AL-BASHA

GREEK & MEDITERRANEAN FOOD

537-7533

1209 Laramie St.

Daily Lunch Special 11 to 2

$3.99

Free Delivery for orders of $10 or more after 4 p.m.

BUY GYRO SANDWICH Get Second 1/2 Price

$1.00 off purchase of $5.00 or more

(excluding specials & delivery orders) Open Sunday through Thursday 11 a.m.-9 p.m. Friday and Saturday 11 a.m.-11 p.m.

KU-K-STATE GAME SPECIAL

10% OFF

Any Purple Or Lavender Item In Stock

(offer expires Oct. 22, 1986)

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK

with the purchase of any sub 12th & Moro-Aggieville

expires 10-22-86 with this coupon only void with other offers

THURSDAY IS T.G.I.T. $1 Pitchers!! FREE HOUR OF POOL

(good for one person & one coupon/visit) Expires 10/23/86

1125 Laramie Plaza Upstairs

776-6338

Save with Style Reg. Price Special Feels so Lively . . $30 . . Apple Pectin . . . $38

Warm & Gentle . . $45 Guys Perms

Gals Perms

Body .

All perms include cut and style FREE can of mousse with perm 539-TAME or 539-8601 404 Humboldt

THE MOST DELICIOUS TREAT IN TOWN.

Great copies. Great people.

81/2 x 11, 20 lb. White

Limit 1 coupon per visit Exp. Date 10/23/86 Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 7:30-Midnight

1110 Laramie 537-7340

Fri. 7:30-7, Sat. 9-5

Sun. 10-Midnight

Hours: M-Th 6:30 a.m.-1 a.m. F-Sat. 6:30 a.m.-2 a.m.

Sun. 7:30 a.m.-Midnight

Buy A Chicken Sandwich GET A

WHOPPER JR. FREE

Expires 10/23/86

Topeka KS

Kansas State University

Photo Week

Alumni photographers gather from around the nation to photograph a Week at Kansas State. See Page

Mostly Sunny

Mostly sunny today, high in low 70s. Winds southeasterly 5 to 15 mph. Clear to partly cloudy tonight and Saturday.

Kansas Rivals

The KU-K-State matchup Saturday will once again put the Kansas rivalry to the test. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Friday October 17, 1986

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 39

Senate studies

student charge

to finance arts

By STEVEN ZADINA

Collegian Reporter

sidering a special student fee for Mc-

Cain Auditorium.

Student Senate is currently con-

The money received from the special fee would be used to lower student ticket prices with the intention of increasing student attendance

Committee members for the Mc-

Cain Auditorium Student Ticket Subsidy Feasibility Task Force will be approved during the Senate meeting next Thursday. The committee will comprise five student senators, three at-large student members, one student representative from the McCain Development Board. Stephen Riggs, director of McCain, will sit on the committee as a non-voting member.

the special fee was sponsored last spring by Lawrence Tsen, former

Arts and Sciences senator, who believed student support for McCain was poor and lower ticket prices

McCain is currently funded through the Fine Arts Council, which is a line item on student fees. The money generated from this is used only to subsidize the operating budget, not to subsidize performer's

During the 1984-85 season, students comprised about 41 percent of the total audience, but the lower ticket prices would make the McCain performances more affordable and in-

"I don't see that McCain is in any financial straits," said Sally

Traeger, Student Senate chairwoman and senior in marketing.

crease attendance, Riggs said.

might increase attendance.

The bill for the task force to study at McCain performances.

Man in the hole

Denison hall Thursday afternoon. Baker was taking advantage of the sun-

Steve Baker, freshman in theater, studies in the hole of the sculpture near ny weather to read outside, saying it is one of the most comfortable places he had found to study.

But Stephen Riggs, director of Mc-Poll shows Docking overtakes Hayden in governor's race

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - The Kansas City Times-CBS Kansas Affiliates Poll showed Thursday night that Democrat Tom Docking has overcome an earlier deficit and taken the lead from Republican Mike Hayden in its latest survey of potential voters in the Kansas governor's race.

It was the first poll independent of the candidates' campaigns that has given Docking a lead since before the Aug. 5 primary election.

The Times-CBS poll said 43.2 percent of 500 potential Kansas voters surveyed last week said they would vote for Docking if the election was they would vote for Hayden and 19.3 percent was undecided.

Election *

When the pollster asked those who said they were undecided whether they were leaning toward either man, 25.5 percent said they leaned toward Hayden and 18.4 percent said they leaned toward Docking.

The 500 voters contacted statewide were interviewed by telephone between Oct. 6 and 12 by Capital held then. Another 37.5 percent said Research Services Inc. of Topeka, which said the poll has a margin of error of plus or minus 4 percent.

That means Docking could be ahead by about 10 points or by only about two points in this survey.

A Times-CBS Poll which sampled 400 potential voters Sept. 10-14 gave Hayden a lead of 43.6 percent to 39.7

In other races sampled for the Times and Television Stations KCTV of Kansas City, WIBW of Topeka and KWCH in Wichita:

- Incumbent Republican Attorney General Robert T. Stephan retained a lead over Democratic challenger Dennis Moore, but saw it dwindle

Stephan 42.8 percent of the vote to Moore's 33.1 percent with 24.1 percent still undecided.

Democrat Judy Runnels of Topeka has a slight lead over Republican Bill Graves of Topeka in the secretary of state's race, 35.5 percent to 28.8 percent with a whopping 35.7 percent still undecided.

Sen. Bob Dole continues to run away from his Democratic challenger, Guy MacDonald of Wichita, 67.1 percent to 17.0 percent with 15.9 percent undecided.

The Times-CBS Poll showed Docking with large leads in the state's three metropolitan areas, while considerably. The latest poll gave Hayden has the lead in the rest of the state. In the Kansas City metropolitan area, Docking led 48.8 percent to 28.6; in the Topeka area he was in front in the poll 50.0-36.5 and in the Wichita area it was 53.9 to 30.8 for Docking. In the rest of the state, Hayden held a lead of 42.6 percent to 36.3 percent.

Gauging the party cross-over, the poll found 16.6 percent of Republicans favored Docking while 9.9 percent of the Democrats liked Hayden. Among independents, 43.6 percent went for Docking and 34.6 percent for Hayden. Hayden claimed 43.9 percent of the the red in the past, and "last year was the first year we made a profit in a long period." 'We're taking a loss for KSU

Cain, said McCain has operated in students," Riggs said.

"For some students, this is the first time they are exposed to this type of event and students should experience this as part their education," Riggs said.

Rick Diehl, former director of Mc-Cain, tried to obtain $50,000 from Senate last year when the University refinanced the student debt, but that money was not granted. Riggs said this is probably about the amount that would be requested through the

'We are about the only university in the area that doesn't have a fee to subsidize the fine arts," Riggs said.

The University of Kansas fine arts program received $74,000 last year, which resulted in a 50 percent reduction in ticket prices for students. Iowa State University received $70,000-$80,000 and the University of Nebraska, Lincoln received $26,000.

There are 12 performances in Mc-Cain this year and the performer's fees range from $2,500 to $30,000. Riggs said the fee could also enable the University to get top-notch performers like Robin Williams. But right now these performers are out of

McCain has had a lot of sellout performances, but "A lot of times when we do sell out we still lose money because of operating costs," Riggs votes of the men questioned in the survey to Docking's 41.4 percent, while 44.7 percent of the women supported Docking to 31.4 percent for

The McCain Auditorium Student Ticket Subsidy Feasibility Task Force will discuss what will be covered by the fee.

Among age groups, Docking led in all but the 55-64 group, where Hayden was ahead 48 percent to 37. Docking led with the youngest, those in the 18-24 group, by 47 percent to 41 and among the oldest, 65 and over, 49 percent to 36.

The Stephan-Moore race has tightened considerably in the Times-CBS Poll. A month ago, the incumbent Republican claimed 54.3 percent of the vote to Moore's 29.5 per-

Lecturer criticizes lobby's methods as harmful to Mideast discussion

By PATTI PAXSON Collegian Reporter

The heavy-handed tactics of the American Jewish lobby are responsible for the erosion of free expression and free debate where peace in the Middle East is concerned, said the Rev. Shirley Oyer during a lecture Thursday night in Kedzie Hall.

"The Middle East and World Peace" was the topic of Oyer's lecture sponsored by the Arab Students Association and the International Coordinating Council.

Oyer is founder and president of the International Council for World Peace as well as an active member of the Kansas Ministerial Alliance and Steering Committee of CAUSE, an international organization that fights the expansion of Communism. She is the former first national secretary of the Ad Hoc Steering Committee on religious freedom in Washington, D.C. Oyer spoke on several specific issues that stemmed from broader issues such as violations of the First Amendment, religion and politics, and the past and present condition of the Middle East.

Based on the idea that Christians 'planted the seeds of Zionism' more than 300 years ago, Oyer's lecture illustrated how the current alliance between the United States and Israel and the present condition of the American electorate have both evolved where Arabs and Arab-Americans are concerned.

"Zionism was originally a Christian idea," she said. "It took them (the Christians) 300 years to get them (the Jews) to Palestine.' Zionism, according to Webster's Dictionary, is "a movement formerly for re-establishing, now for advancing the Jewish national state in Palestine.' American Christians tend to feel responsible for the protection of Jews, she said, adding that many Christians feel guilty for any past wrong-doings imposed on Jews by other countries. Illustrating the point, she referred to a wellrespected speaker from Egypt who, speaking to an audience of American Christian women, said, "If you feel so guilty, give them (the Jews) some of your land. Why must they have Oyer said the U.S. government has lost much of its credibility due to the freedom it gives the American Israeli lobby in contributing toward the formation of U.S. policy in the Middle East.

However, she said, "We can regain our credibility, pride and dignity through what we do in the Middle

Oyer made reference to former Illinois Congressman Paul Findley's book, "They Dare to Speak Out," when discussing violations of the First Amendment

In his book, Findley tells of several incidents where Americans have been forced in their professional lives and personal lives to not speak

See MIDEAST, Page 12

Local officials take precautions to avoid Aggieville disturbance

By MORGAN CHILSON Staff Writer

While the K-State and University of Kansas football teams prepare to face each other on the field Saturday, preparations are being made to avoid another Aggieville disturbance.

A task force set up by Dave Fiser, 1984 mayor of Manhattan, determined that several factors contributed to the near-riot situation after the KU-K-State game two years ago.

Unusually large crowds in Aggieville, use of Mace by campus police when fans rushed the goalposts and lack of communication between police, students, Aggieville merchants and the city of Manhattan were just a few of the variables listed.

The task force set down recommendations in hopes of avoiding similar future occurrences, minutes from the meeting stated.

Merchants have agreed to remove trash from the Aggieville area to decrease risk of fires. The new drinking age is expected to reduce the size of the crowds, and police will be enforcing the open container law. Bars with beer gardens will be using plastic containers instead of the bottled beer.

"I think the students are aware of the damage that was done to both the University and Aggieville," said Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association. "They're not going to do something that will embarrass the University if they are people who take pride in their school.

The Riley County Police Department is bringing in extra officers, but plans to treat this game like any other. Al Johnson, chief of police, said he feels the situation will not get out of control this year. After individuals began harassing officers at the disturbance two years ago, police called the fire department and asked them to bring a fire truck to the Aggieville area to assist in controlling the crowds. The fire department refused because of possible damage to their equipment and because they didn't think they had all the facts.

"We ought not to get into that situation. The most serious thing is the number of people in the Aggieville area. We'd take a different approach to a fire," Fire Chief Bill Smith said

"It is important to set the tone for the years to come," said Mayor Rick Mann. "I've got a quiet confidence that everything's going to

See PREPARED, Page 12

INTERNATIONAL

Israeli jets attack Palestinian bases

SIDON, Lebanon - A dozen Israeli jets attacked Palestinian guerrilla bases near this ancient port Thursday and a missile destroyed one of them. The raids followed a bloody grenade attack in Jerusalem by one day.

Journalists saw the plane explode and crash into a valley four miles southeast of Sidon.

Israeli military sources said helicopters ferried in elite troops who rescued one of the F4-E Phantom's two pilots. Reports in Lebanon said the other pilot was killed, but the Israeli sources said he was listed as missing "and all efforts" were being made to find him.

News of the U.S.-built Phantom's loss was held up by the Israeli military censor for eight hours while Israeli troops searched for the crew of the first Israeli plane shot down over Lebanon in three years.

State-run Beirut radio said bombs and rockets from the Israeli attack killed four people and wounded 10 at the Mieh Mieh Palestinian refugee camp on the city's southeastern outskirts.

REGIONAL

Expert testifies in segregation trial

TOPEKA - Statistics show that the performance of students in schools with a balanced racial mix is higher than those forced to attend segregated schools, an expert testified Thursday in the eighth day of trial in the reopened Brown vs. Topeka Board of Education desegregation case.

Robert Crain, a desegregation expert from Columbia University, testified on behalf of the plaintiffs that it's a statistical fact students benefit from desegregated schools which is shown in their achieve-

Following cross examination by defense attorneys, who tried to discredit Crain's work in the area of desegregation, the plaintiffs rested their case, pending a ruling on admissibility of a number of documents submitted as evidence.

The trial before U.S. District Judge Richard D. Rogers will resume next week with the first defense witnesses.

Crain said segregated schools stunt the social development of their students and products of those schools are more apt to be socially disenfranchised than those who attend racially balanced schools. Crain said the residue from a segregated environment can affect students' entire lifestyles.

Corn prices drop to 15-year low

DES MOINES, Iowa - Corn prices have dipped below $1 a bushel for the first time in 15 years, and farm experts warned Thursday that prices should drop even more as farmers reap this year's bountiful harvest

"One-dollar corn is horrible," said Steve Daugherty of the Iowa Corn Growers Association. "I don't think there's any doubt that you cannot survive on $1 corn. You just can't. It's nothing short of a disaster.'

The money corn producers receive has been dropping steadily this fall, and on Wednesday, elevators in northeast Iowa reported prices of 98 cents a bushel. Officials at the Iowa Department of Agriculture Statistics said the last time the price was less than $1 was in 1971, when it reached 94 cents.

During that 15-year period, corn sold on a cash basis hit a high of $3.44 a bushel in October of 1974.

Rocky Mountain

BONKERS

Presents

Agriculture Department officials have predicted a large corn harvest this year, adding to huge supplies of grain already in

NATIONAL

Heart disease linked to new genes

NEW YORK - Cancer-like changes have been found in deposits in the clogged arteries of heart disease victims, suggesting the existence of a new class of genes that can cause heart disease, a researcher said Thursday.

The finding supports the theory that the deposits, or plaques, are caused by the same kind of genetic mutations that cause cancer tumors, said Arthur Penn of the New York University Medical Center's environmental medicine department in Tuxedo, N.Y.

This does not mean that people with heart disease are likely to get cancer, or that cancer is likely to lead to heart disease, Penn emphasized in a telephone interview.

Plaques form inside the coronary arteries, which supply blood to the heart. They cause atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, and they can narrow blood vessels to the point where the blood supply to the heart is impaired or cut off, resulting in a heart attack.

Plaques are a mix of fat, cholesterol, blood cells, fibrous tissue and so-called smooth muscle cells, which make up one of the inner layers

Penn and his colleagues found that genetic material extracted from plaques could produce cancer-like changes in cultured mouse cells.

Veterans to end fast at midnight

WASHINGTON - Four military veterans who have been fasting on the steps of the Capitol to protest U.S. aid to Nicaraguan rebels said Thursday they would end their fast at midnight Friday.

The four men, including a Medal of Honor winner from the Vietnam war, said they would continue other efforts to demonstrate opposition to the government's support for Contra rebels that oppose Nicaragua's leftist government.

One of the four, Charles Liteky, who turned in his Medal of Honor to protest U.S. policies in Central America, said he would go on a "maintenance fast," while ending the water-only diet that he began

"The fast is not over. It is changed," Liteky said. Liteky, 55, of San Francisco, and George Mizo, 40, of Boston began their fast Sept. 1, and were joined Sept. 15 by Brian Willson, 45, of Chelsea, Vt., and Duncan Murphy of Fayetteville, Ark. Murphy, 66, is a World War II veteran; the others served in Vietnam.

They reported losing between 23 and 46 pounds each. At a news conference, the men said they were ending the fast because of support for their cause shown by thousands of people through letters, calls and other statements.

Ailing rural economy to be studied

WASHINGTON - The Reagan administration, responding to pressure from farm-state lawmakers, is forming a task force of agency heads to develop a federal strategy for reviving the ailing rural economy

President Reagan is expected to unveil the interagency task force on Friday, congressmen from Missouri and Kansas said Thursday.

"This marks the first time we have been able to get the administration to admit there is an economic condition in rural America that needs special attention," said Rep. Pat Roberts,

Rep. Tom Coleman, R-Mo., said the task force will be made up of top officials of all executive branch departments as well as a number of independent agencies.

According to information supplied to the lawmakers by the Agriculture Department, the task force will be directed to "develop policies, plans and strategies to improve the economic condition of rural Americans and their communities."

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

EDUCATION STUDENTS: The Rural and Small Schools Conference will be Oct. 27 and 28. For more information, call 532-5566 between 8

BLUE KEY HOMECOMING SPIRIT MARCH AND BONFIRE has been resche p.m. Oct. 23 in Memorial Stadium

PUBLIC RELATIONS STUDENT SOCIETY OF AMERICA: Check the PRSSA board for field trip sign-up. Members need to stop by the JMC office and pick up Humane Society questionnaires.

GOLDEN KEY HONOR SOCIETY: Pick up membership certificates from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Bluemont 13.

STUDENT ASSOCIATION OF GRADUATES IN ENGLISH is having its annual book sale from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Denison Lobby.

LATTER DAY SAINT STUDENT ASSOCIA-TION meets at 7:30 p.m. in the Union Catskellar.

ACACIA LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9 p.m. at

SATURDAY

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS BOARD OF DIRECTORS meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 202.

ALTERNATIVE MUSIC BRIGADE meets at

PARACHUTE CLUB: Meet to skydive at 8:30 a.m. today and Sunday at Wamego Airport.

SUNDAY

STUDENT GERONTOLOGY CLUB meets at 6 p.m. at the Riley County Senior Service Center, 412 Leavenworth Street.

MENNONITE STUDENT GROUP meets at 6:30 p.m. at 421 N. 16th Street, Apt. 4.

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE GOLDEN ROSE

ACACIA LITTLE SISTERS meet at 10 p.m. at

NEWMAN meets at 7 p.m. at St. Isidore's, 711

K-LAIRES meet at 7 p.m. at the southeast door of Ahearn Field House. ALPHA GAMMA RHO LITTLE SISTERS meet at 7 p.m. to work on scrapbooks at the AGR house. Bring scissors and magazines.

GRADUATING ENGINEERS: Pi Tau Sigma will sponsor an EIT review session at 6 p.m. in COLLEGE REPUBLICANS meet at 8 p.m. in Durland 152. There will be a presentation by Larry Montgomery, candidate for state

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets for yearbook pictures, dressed in business attire, at 7:30 p.m. in Fairchild 202. A meeting will be at 8 p.m. in Union

FRENCH TABLE meets at 12:30 p.m. in Union

Forthefunofit! thefunofit! 3 forthefunofit

across from Wal-Mart Forthefunofit!Forthefun

> RIDE OUR STADIUM BUSES!

Round Trip Only $1

 Starting 10 a.m. From Kite's & K's

Kite's Opens 8 a.m. K's Opens 9 a.m. Tomorrow!

Litchfield Theatres

...a sexy love story.' - Peter Travers, PEOPLE MAGAZINE

WILLIAM HURT

DAILY 7:00, 9:25 SAT./SUN. MAT. 2:10, 4:35

-SATURDAY-The Sunset Grille

-FRIDAY-TGIF at 5 p.m. Free Hors d'oeuvres & Old Time Rock 'n' Roll

WIN OR LOSE DRINK OUR BOOZE

Have a Bloody Good Time at The Pre-game Sandwich Bar & Bloody Mary Party Join Us After the Game at for a 10 oz. sirloin for $565 (includes salad bar, potato, & bread)

K-State Players OKLAHOMA!

Oct. 23, 24, 25

McCain Auditorium - 8 p.m. CALL 532-6398

Before, During, and After The Game...

Catch A Falsetto's Pizza!

FREE DELIVERY

Gourmet Pizza at a Budget Price

HEY WILDCATS!!!

ON STAGE

TONIGHT & SATURDAY

From 10 p.m. 'til 2 a.m.

Get Your Game Bags At The

KORNPOPPER To Munch On At The Stadium Or Stop By After The Game To Satisfy The Munchies

- · 4 Popcorn Flavors
- Gourmet Popcorn
- Ice Cream Soft Drinks

616 N. Manhattan (next to Hardee's) 11-11 Mon.-Sat. Noon-11 Sun.

Increased McCain sales indicate 'resurgent interest in arts'

By ROBIN HARNDEN Collegian Reporter

Stephen Riggs, director of McCain Auditorium, wants to think interest in the arts is coming back. The Houston Ballet's production of "The Sleeping Beauty" Sept. 29 at McCain sold out, and people had to be turned away, Riggs said.

'We did not have a single ticket left," he said. "I turned away a lot of disappointed people."

Ticket sales are unusually high for McCain this season, he said. He expects sellout crowds for the David Copperfield, "Can-Can" and New York City Opera shows.

"I'd like to think there is a resurgent interest in the arts," Riggs said, "but I don't know if that's the case or not."

Carla Luginbill, senior in family life and human development and Mc-Cain box office worker, said the increase in ticket sales is due to area residents - not students - purchasing more tickets.

"If students hear about an event, they usually go," Luginbill said.
"But people in the area are buying more tickets than usual.

"There are more shows that you can take the whole family to (this season). That's why the tickets are McCain's maximum capacity for each event is 1,815. The figure varies from event to event because of technical requirements, Riggs said.

As of Oct. 16, more than 9,780 tickets were sold for the various events. However, that figure didn't include group sales, which would add an additional 500, he said.

Riggs attributes the successful sale of tickets partly to the line-up of events this season.

"I think we have a good season; that's part of it," he said. Some different marketing tactics have been tried, Riggs said. McCain is targeting the groups that have been shown to purchase the most Rick Diehl, former McCain director who scheduled this season's events, said he thinks the success is due to the auditorium's change in programming.

"One thing I always look at is quality, versatility and recognition value," Diehl said.

He said McCain deals with many different individuals, and the programs scheduled should appeal to a variety of people.

"I think a lot of headway was gained last year. We began to look at things that have real appeal and that are fun," he said. "When people come to see events, they should thoroughly enjoy themselves."

Diehl said it is difficult to bring some top performers to Kansas.

"It takes a great deal of time and negotiation," he said. "The K-State administration has been very sup-

"McCain is still a 'diamond in the rough.' Over the past several years, though, McCain has been noted for bringing in top-quality performers."

Riggs said although more season ticket packages were sold to Manhattan residents than students, it seems students are making up most of Mc-Cain's individual ticket sales.

"We sold 824 season ticket packages," he said. "They are no longer on sale because we ran out of tickets on some of (the events)."

Just because all or most of the tickets are sold to an event, McCain does not necessarily make a profit, Riggs said.

'We expect to lose money on some events. We try to balance the profits against the losses we anticipate," he Riggs said box office workers, ushers and technical crew members, publicity expenses and artist fees are paid with the money McCain brings in from ticket sales.

"We get no student subsidy, as compared to most universities," he said. "I know there have been attempts to secure subsidies in the past, but they've all failed. I'm not sure why.'

The audiences include mostly Manhattan residents and University students. However, the performances also draw attendance from Junction City, Clay Center, Wakefield and Wamego, Riggs said.

"McCain is a very valuable part of the University," Diehl said. "Once you're on a roll, you're on a roll."

Hayden official accuses Docking of using state workers' donations

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Bud Burke, Senate

While he has no evidence state workers were coerced into giving to Docking, Burke said the fact almost 1,000 of them have donated to Docking's campaign suggests

By BOB OLSON

Staff Writer

will be the keynote speaker Saturday when the Kansas Network on Central America and the Interreligious

Foundation for Community

Organization host an all-day seminar

at First United Methodist Church,

Slattery's speech, "Congress and Central America: 1987 and Beyond," will be based on his first-hand involvement in El Salvador, said Jan

"Congressman Slattery has been involved in the peace movement in Central America. He recently interceded personally on behalf of a woman who was picked up by the Salvadoran Army within one hour of a visit by Lutheran church missionaries," Flora said.

Flora, professor of sociology.

612 Poyntz Ave.

Second District Rep. Jim Slattery, pressure may have been applied by supervisors in the Democratic administration of Gov. John Carlin

However, Tom Laing, Docking's

The story of how the woman,

Maria Tula, was arrested, beaten, tortured and raped repeatedly, was aired recently on the CBS news show

"60 Minutes." When the missionaries visited her, she recounted her experiences to them. When they left,

she was picked up again, Flora said.

Slattery was contacted by the Manhattan chapter of the Kansas

Network on Central America. He wrote a letter to President Jose

Napoleon Duarte of El Salvador

about her arrest. President Duarte personally contacted Slattery about

Rev. Don Fallon, staff adviser for Lutheran Campus Ministry, was in San Salvador recently on a study tour of El Salvador and Nicaragua.

He traveled with a group from Augsburg, Minn., to visit the "Com-women in El Salvador whose Tula's release

plaints. Nobody has personally called me and said they are being pressured," Burke told a Statehouse news conference.

His "proof," Burke said, are the statements of anonyomous state

"No state employee is going to come in here and say he was threatened with his job," Burke said. "The evidence we have is that 25 percent of those who contributed to Tom Docking are state employees."

Soviet offer opposes summit

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW - The Kremlin is willing to discuss medium-range missiles separately at the Geneva arms talks, but will not sign an accord that doesn't settle the space weapons dispute, a Soviet spokesman said Thursday. The Foreign Ministry spokesman, Gennady Gerasimov, discussed the Soviet Union's arms control policy after a Soviet emissary in London appeared to contradict Mikhail S. Gorbachev's assessment of the Revkjavik summit and the future of U.S.-Soviet arms talks.

There have been some conflicting signals from the Soviets about whether they are willing to make separate agreements on mediumrange missiles or whether they would insist on a link between any arms agreements and "Star Wars," the American plan for a space-based defense shield.

In Bonn, Max Kampelman, senior U.S. arms negotiator, said the Soviets were sending mixed signals and need to "get their act together" on arms control

The Politburo's No. 2 secretary, meanwhile, heated up the postsummit campaign against President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative at a gathering Thursday of top Soviet scientists.

"It has been most clearly established that the Washington administration does not wish a real agreement, but is out to ensure military superiority over the U.S.S.R.," Yegor K. Ligachev said.

"That is why it is important today as never before that scientists should take an active part in the fight for peace, for strengthening the country's defense capacity," he said. The dispute over space weapons is at the center of the U.S.-Soviet stalemate at the summit in Iceland, which broke up Sunday when the two leaders could not agree on the future of the U.S. space-based program.

Before that, Gorbachev and Reagan reported they reached virtual agreement on eliminating medium-range missiles from Europe, limiting those weapons in Asia, and slashing strategic arsenals by 50 percent in each of the three categories - land-based ICBMs, submarine-launched missiles and bomber-carried weapons.

After the summit, Gorbachev told a news conference that the Soviet proposals on those issues and Star Wars were a package deal.

But the issue became confused on Tuesday when Viktor Karpov, the chief Soviet negotiator at the Geneva arms talks, told a news conference in London that a separate "solution" on medium-range nuclear missiles was possible.

Then on Wednesday, Gorbachev was quoted as suggesting to President Raul Alfonsin of Argentina that the arms control proposals outlined in Reykjavik were an inseparable majority leader and chairman of Republican Mike Hayden's gubernatorial campaign, said Thursday an analysis shows nearly onefourth of Democrat Tom Docking's campaign contributions have come from state employees.

to get them to contribute.

campaign chairman, said state employees support Docking because Hayden has cheated them on salary increases while repeatedly voting legislative pay raises for himself, including voting to nearly double his special speaker's salary in the 1985 ses-

"I do not have any specific com-

Slattery to speak at Central America seminar children and husbands have disappeared. "What we are trying to establish in El Salvador and Nicaragua is a sense of compassion for human rights and a sense of freedom," Fallon said.

Special speaker for the day will be Joel Edelstein, professer of political science at the University of Colorado. His speech, "Adjusting Our Strategies to Changing U.S. Involvement in Central America," is to be during a working lunch from noon

John Exdell, associate professor of philosophy, will lecture on "Educating People on Central America Under Conditions of Low Intensity Warfare, There and Here."

"This is a day for getting together with people from around the Kansas area to build opposition against U.S. policy in Central America," Exdell

Registration will be from 9:30 to 10:00 a.m., at the church. Lunch will be served by the Manhattan Alliance on Central America.

Under state law, the consumption of cereal malt beverages or alcoholic liquor is not permitted in the KSU football stadium or its parking lot.

Beverage containers will not be permitted in the stadium.

GO STATE! BEAT KU!

Drug education

Funded by SRS Alcohol and Drug Abuse Services

TODAY: Off Campus Anyone who has not gotten their picture taken may still do so.

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Do your part for the Royal Purple yearbook and get your photo taken. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209. To make your appointment call 539-5229. If you live in organized housing, follow the Collegian for photo schedules.

THE FEUD GOES ON

K-State vs. Kansas Saturday, October 18, 1986 See Willie the Wildcat Kick the Tail Feathers Out of the Jayhawk as The Feud Goes On

> Get Your Full Color Feud Goes On Sweatshirts & T-Shirts at Wildcat Spirit.

Don't take a fashion risk and be seen without one!

OPEN Monday through Saturday 9:30 to 5:30

716 N. Manhattan Ave.

Aggieville

Kitchens Plus

We're The Largest Gourmet & Gift Shop In Town

Stop in and see why we've been referred to as "one of Manhattan's Top Tourist Attractions'

WHILE SHOPPING JOIN US IN

The Croissant Cafe COZY INDOOR AND OUTDOOR SEATING

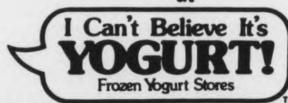

A GREAT PLACE TO BRING A FRIEND FOR A DRINK AND GOOD CONVERSATION SPECIALIZING in a quick delicious lunch... 15 varieties of fresh baked croissants. homemade soup & salads

1110 WESTLOOP SHOPPING CENTER 537-4046

"OPEN SUNDAYS TOO!!"

The Croissant Cafe

"Purple and White" Swirl CONES and CUPS

50% DISCOUN (on purple & white swirl cones and cups excluding waffle cones) This Saturday, Oct. 18 to Everyone Wearing Something Purple! Enjoy the taste of Ice Cream but with one-fifth the fat and half the calories GO CATS!

We'll be cheering you on to victory against the KU Jayhawks

FREE SAMPLES EVERY TIME YOU COME IN

Open 11 a.m.-11 p.m. daily Noon-11 p.m. Sunday 705 N. 11th Nautilus Towers, Aggieville

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Competition reflects poor image on cities

The battle between the Manhat- Eight." tan and Lawrence chambers of commerce begins.

For those unfamiliar with the challenge, which starts today, both chambers are competing to see which community can sell the most new chamber memberships to businesses. The kickoff for the competition will coincide with the University of Kansas-K-State football game in Manhattan Saturday, and it will continue for the next three weeks.

The drive is supposed to challenge volunteers who sell the memberships and is based on the "natural" rivalry between Lawrence and Manhattan. Its purpose, according to organizers, is to promote a healthy local economy. But its purpose is lost tion. in a series of problems.

Both chambers have purchased billboards in their rival cities to promote themselves. The Manhattan chamber's billboard in downtown Lawrence reads, "Beat Lawrence, a challenge from the chamber up the river." Manhattan has chosen the theme "Beat Lawrence" to be used throughout the competition.

Here in Manhattan, just east of the intersection of Fort Riley is the Lawrence chamber's sign. merce...from the best of the Big put-down of Manhattan.

Manhattan's billboard in Lawrence straightforwardly relates the fact that there is a battle between the two chambers. Yet the one in Manhattan appears as a slam on our city to the everyday passerby who is unaware of the "friendly" competition.

The result is a poor attempt for the Lawrence chamber to play on the humor of Manhattan's slogan, "The Little Apple."

The Lawrence chamber used poor judgment in the wording of its billboard in Manhattan. Perhaps it should have taken into consideration that many people who use Fort Riley Boulevard may not be aware of the competi-

And then there are the visitors to Manhattan, who see the billboard and pause to wonder if Manhattan businesses are not what they appear to be. When passing by at 45 mph, it is hard to read all that appears on the sign. Many first-time observers see only that Manhattan is a fruitless community.

Humor has its place in a competition such as this one, but taste is a universal factor. The Boulevard and Stagg Hill Road, Lawrence chamber should have taken this into account, and On it is an eaten apple core with perhaps their billboard slogan the slogan, "It's Fruitless, the would have been the lightreal action is down the river. Join hearted pun it was intended to be, the Lawrence Chamber of Com- instead of a feeble and offensive voters' views.

Governor's campaign fails to address issues

This year's gubernatorial race son is like. is not following this philosophy. There are no real issues in this campaign — both Democrat Tom Docking and Republican Mike Hayden like and hate the same things. They both take a stand against "bad things" like crime and drugs and take a stand for "good things" like education.

Maybe they stand for the right tions that could constitute a campaign platform.

fluff, they are not campaigning on personality and image. Per- office.

During an election year most sonality is the way one presents voters are concerned, however oneself to others, and not slightly, about which of the can-necessarily the way the person is. didates would best represent the Character is a good old-fashioned word that describes what a per-

> With the modern 30-second television or radio spot, personality is what the candidates are really presenting. They are also doing all they can to ruin the image of their opponent.

Although going backward in campaign techniques is not the answer, the candidates should brthings, but they do not offer solu- ing some real issues into the campaign and stop worrying about the image they are presenting. Through all of their campaign They need to be concerned with doing the best job they can for on issues, they are campaigning their supporters once they are in

Capitilizing on 'riot' may lead to violence suffered a blow. Following the KU-K-State football game some individuals started what has come to be known as the "Aggieville riot."

Some individuals have continued to fuel the negative publicity by bringing the event to light as if it were fun. Earlier this week Charlie's Neighborhood Bar conducted a "What a Riot" party with "What a Riot" coolees available at the door. Pi Sigma Epsilon sponsored a "What a

Two years ago K-State's image including T-shirts and sweat-

These attempts to relive the "riot" as a nostalgic event are clearly in poor taste, as all seem to condone violence. Even the K-State chapter of the American Nuclear Society, an organization that attempts to convince the public that a nuclear society is a safe society has peddled "Nuke KU" buttons in the Union.

While the rivalry between K-State and its sister school is a long-standing tradition, we should realize violence is not an Riot" sale in front of the Union, acceptable part of that rivalry.

Censorship proponents fear losing

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petiton the government for a redress of grievances.

'That Godless loop of disgusting sexuality, friends and neighbors, happens to be a basic law of this country. How could this have happened? Some communistic, pederastic, wifebeating congressman, while we weren't watching, must have tacked it onto the Rivers and Harbors Bill. It should be expunged with all possible haste, in order that innocent children can be safe again."

Those were the words of author Kurt Vonnegut on censorship. Now it's my turn.

One of the fundamental objections I voiced when speaking with socialists in the Eastern Bloc was the lack of free speech there. Socialism may provide some economic benefits, but the denial of free speech and protest is the most fundamental crime any government can commit against its citizens. I illustrated my point with the following analogy.

In the United States, there are some fundamentalist Christian groups which tell people not to see this movie, or read that book, or listen to some record, not because of some kind of pornography which might be involved, but because they contain ideas which are "dangerous" in that they "subvert" the Christian faith.

Well, I'm a Christian, and I think what these religious folk are trying to do is a lot of crap. I believe my faith is the truth, which also implies to me that it should stand up in an objective comparison with opposing ideas. If I can't read a book on atheism or listen to a "humanist" record and still stand by my faith, maybe I should think about the validity of that faith.

The same is true of Socialism or anything else in the world. By critically placing conflicting ideas against each other, eventually the best viewpoint is going to come out on top. People or governments that endeavor to restrict the flow of ideas really want to restrict the debate so that their ideas will not face the danger of being proven wrong.

DAN OWENS Collegian Columnist

In other words, both those Christians and those Communists or anyone else who seeks to restrict the flow of ideas, do so because they are insecure about their beliefs. If one is not willing to allow absolute freedom of speech to challenge his ideas, that tells me he doesn't have much confidence in the ideas he

Unfortunately, the U.S. government has, under President Reagan, adopted a similar policy of censorship. For example, acid rain films from Canada have been banned from the United States, and an effort was made to prevent the showing of "The Day After," that childish film presentation of how Lawrence, Kansas, would react if the United States got nuked.

Columnist Anthony Lewis, in an editorial which appeared in "Stars and Stripes," the newspaper for U.S. servicemen, discussed how the Reagan administration has been harassing U.S. citizens returning from Nicaragua. Lewis cites several examples of American travelers to Nicaragua being harassed and their First Amendment rights being violated. I quote one example.

"Sima Rabinowitz is a professor of Spanish at Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania. She spent two weeks in Nicaragua in 1984, returning to the Miami airport.

There customs officials took about 30 books and pamphlets from her luggage. They would be sent to the FBI, the agents said, because they were subversive. Rabinowitz protested that many of the books were in American libraries. The agents were unimpressed.'

This is not an isolated incident. A string of reports of similar harassment and information suppression is surfacing, and they paint a picture of a powerfu government attempting to control the free flow of ideas. Note that I'm not talking about restricting ideas that could compromise national security, such as Department of Defense secrets. One could argue that, at times, this is neccesary.

Friday, October 17, 1986 - 4

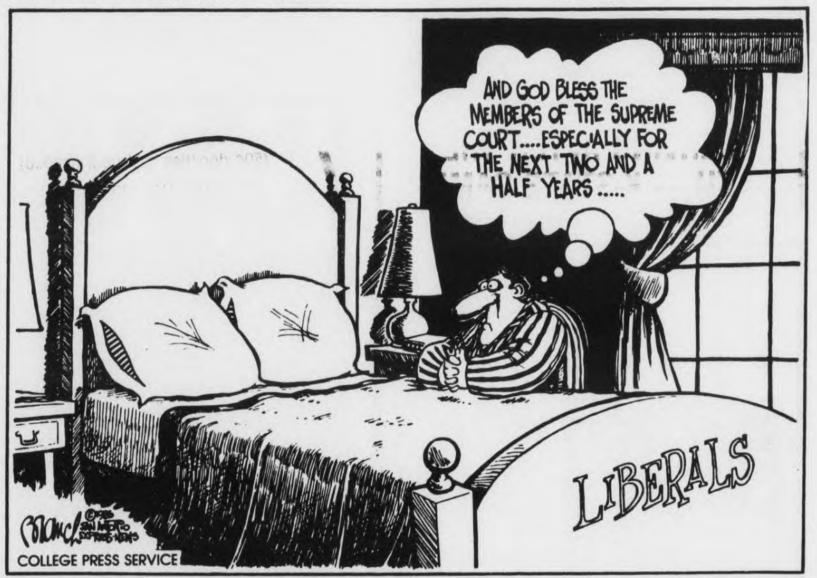

No, I'm talking about resticting ideas which could present reasonable arguments against Reagan administration policy. These ideas aren't being resticted because they pose a threat to the American political system. Indeed, if everybody plays by the rules laid down in the Constitution, we enjoy the most secure political system in the world.

Instead, these ideas are suppressed because of the Reagan administration's insecurity toward its own policies. If what we're doing in Nicaragua, or about acid rain, is right, why are ideas opposing these policies not allowed to be expressed?

But then, "Why should freedom of speech and freedom of the press be allowed? Why should a government which is doing what it believes to be right allow itself to be criticized? It would not allow opposition by lethal weapons. Ideas are much more fatal things than guns." No, CIA Director William Casey didn't say these words; Nikolai Lenin did, and the sad products of Lenin's view of free speech are there for all to see who visit the Soviet Union.

Perhaps I'm a just a naive, patriotic American, but I like to think the United States has a better system of government than the Soviet Union. Being better, however, has its costs such as playing by the rules and not breaking them whenever it seems convenient. Reagan and his advisers would do well to remember what Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes said 60 years ago about free speech. "If there is any principle of the Constitution that more imperatively calls for attachment than any other, it is the principle of free thought - not free thought for those who agree with us, but freedom for the thought that we hate.'

Returning home changes with time

It's been said you can never go home again. And for the most part that's true.

I tried this past weekend. It was homecoming at the local university where I received my bachelor's degree and the city combines Oktoberfest with the university's festivities. As part of the homecoming celebration, the radiotelevision facilities were being named and dedicated to the man who founded the

My sister and I drove in late Thursday. Friday was spent sleeping, going to Oktoberfest, visiting friends and, of course, partying that night. I realized during the afternoon's celebration how much I had been homesick. The people I knew were few and far between, but I'd missed the place. This is a town in which I'd spent all but four years of my life. You can get pretty sick of a place in 26 years, but it's also a place that's familiar and safe.

Saturday was spent at the dedication ceremony, crying a few tears at the memories and visiting the friends who had returned for the same reason. Without the man being honored, heaven only knows what kind of career I'd be in now - it definitely wouldn't be broadcasting.

I saw people I'd gone to school with - people I haven't seen in almost 10 years. I taught at the university, too, so I saw several former students and learned about their accomplishments since graduation.

The rest of the day was spent with an old boyfriend and my family. Another sister had driven in that morning, so there were three of four sisters and a very rambunctious 2-year-old nephew home for the weekend. Sunday morning was reserved for church before heading back to Manhattan and Home is where you're always OK, always services and the usual big family dinner safe and warm. But home isn't always where or whom you expect it to be. Yes, home can be a person, too.

Everytime I go home it becomes evident that it isn't home anymore, in spite of how much I want it to be. No matter what I have planned or whom I see, I get restless after a few days. This time I kept referring to "home" as Manhattan.

It's a strange feeling when you realize your parents' home is just that - your parents' home. It hasn't been yours for quite a while. A place very distant from your childhood is now home.

I also realized it wasn't the place I missed. It wasn't even the people I missed. It was the feeling of the past, the more carefree and irresponsible days of long ago.

The place isn't home, it's not who is there that makes it home; it's how you feel when you're wherever or with whomever.

That was extremely apparent during the time I spent with the ex-boyfriend. We no longer have the camaraderie or the free and easy companionship we used to have. We are separated by miles, time and our individual perceptions of reality. We are two different people who have moved in completely different directions. It's impossible to go back to when the relationship worked. Those people no longer exist and they never will again. The feelings of safety, security and love have

It's the same with a place. The person I was during the years I spent at home (my parent's home) is no longer the person I am. I can still become homesick and miss what was before, because parts of whom I used to be still exist. But I can't go back.

I'll never be whom I used to be, my hometown will never be exactly the way I remember and the people from my past will never be the same.

Everything changes, including home. The definition of home changes as the years shape us into new people. Right now home is a cluttered one-bedroom apartment. It will never be the roomy house my parents live in, the large apartment in Nebraska, the terrible barracks apartment or the trailer from college. And someday "home" will no longer apply to the cluttered one-bedroom apartment in Manhattan.

The saying, "Home is where you hang your hat," may be true. Home is what you make it; it's where you feel comfortable and safe at any particular point of your life. Home is more of a perception than anything. You can be at home in a football stadium, a newsroom or a library. Or you can be lonely and scared in the house of your childhood. Home is how we perceive it and it changes with our current reality.

Correction

The editorial, "Indoor disadvantage hampers soccer team," in Wednesday's Collegian incorrectly stated that tournament officials moved the tournament indoors. The decision was made collectively by teams and coaches participating in the tourna-

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

Right Here in Manhattan

GLASSWARE ENGRAVING

TGIF

GUEST BARTENDER

Bob Pulford

COTTON

5-7 p.m. TONIGHT

12-5:30

HAIRCUT

reg. $10 ($5 OFF Haircut for Freshmen only) one coupon per person

Don't Lose Your Summer Tan! 537-1332 TANNING SPECIAL: $2 Sessions! Lower Level Mall, 411 Poyntz M-F 9-6

WILDCAT SPECIAL

(Jayhawks also welcome!)

This weekend buy a Cheese Runza and Onion Rings for $1.99! Good Saturday and Sunday only.

One coupon per customer per visit

1101 Moro

DRIVE INN RESTAURAN

Our Grill Is Now Open!

Try Our:

Chicken & Beef Nuggets

Cheeseburgers

Fish Sandwiches

BBQ Beef Sandwiches

Onion Rings

Corn Dogs

Aggieville

Hamburgers

French Fries

Mushrooms

Chicken Sandwiches

Pork Tenderloins

Goalposts to be replaced for game

By RON RENO Sports Writer

As K-State's football team nears its annual intrastate showdown with the University of Kansas Jayhawks, it is hard not to recall the now infamous "Aggieville Riot" of 1984.

The pandemonium actually began that afternoon at KSU Stadium as overjoyed Wildcat fans tore down the goalposts after a 24-7 victory from the Jayhawks.

While Mike Jones, business manager for the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, said he hopes the goalposts will stay intact this year, he has made provisions - just in case they don't.

K-State has already removed the usual goalposts and replaced them with a safer and much cheaper design.

"Our main concern is not getting somebody killed out there," Jones

A sea of people flood the streets of Aggieville following KU-K-State football game in 1984. Many steps have been taken

'We're not encouraging anybody to tear it down. We know the kids in the past have torn it down, so we're just trying to make it as safe as possible if that does happen," he add-

The new goalposts use plastic pipe for the uprights instead of the traditional metal pipes which, Jones said, weigh about 200 pounds each. He said the plastic uprights may only weigh 10 percent as much.

Jones is still working on designing a lighter crossbar. He said this is more difficult because some metal must be used to provide adequate support.

'The only problem is that we've got to see how they stand up with the wind and how they stand up with balls hitting them, too," he said.

"If this works out satisfactorily, we'll probably use it at all games, just because it's so much cheaper. And I would sure write to other schools around and give them the plans for it because it would save everybody a lot of money," Jones

The difference in cost is striking. Jones said it costs in the neighborhood of $5,000 to replace one of the old goal posts, while he said the new design could be replaced for approximately $100.

Still, Jones emphasized student safety as paramount.

"The (financial) loss is not what I'm worried about," Jones said. "I'm not worried about saving that $4,900. We don't want anybody killed out to prevent a riot in 1986 and ensure that history does not repeat itself.

SERVING AFTER THE KU — K-STATE GAME

From the buffet: Pan Fried Chicken, Beef Goulash & Fried Fish Filets $5.50 per person From the menu: Seafood Platter, Shrimp, Scallops & Sole $6.50 Broiled Salmon with Crab Meat Stuffing $6.50 Prime Rib $9.50 Steak, Shrimp, & Veal also available

Ramada Inn

2605 Stagg Hill Rd.

776-1234

SATURDAY

KSU-KU

Pre-Game Brunch Breakfast & Luncheon Items

Screwdrivers,

Bloody Marys *100

Post Game

Italian Buffet $995

4-9 p.m.

or Dinner Menu

9 to 11:30

5:30 (50¢ donation or free if needed)

SUNDAY SUPPER

1021 Denison Ave.

(Look for the two red front doors)

Genetic Engineering presented by Jerry Weis

1956-1986

DELTA UPSILON celebrates 30 years of excellence at K-State

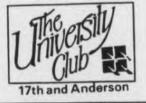

75¢ Draws

FRIDAY

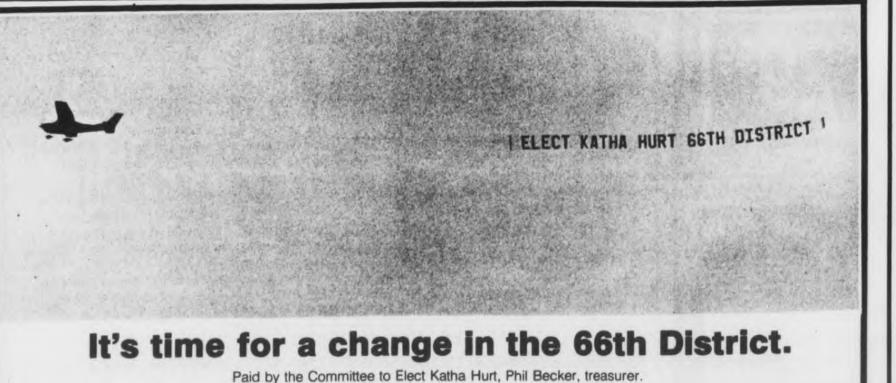

*10.95 Seafood Prime Rib Buffet 5:30-9 p.m.

Dance to Fast Forward 8-midnite

Reservations accepted 539-7531

4-11 p.m. Dance to Jill & Mike 8 p.m.-Midnite

Hot dogs & Chili dogs (reg. & super) Aggieville Dairy Queen Brazier 12th & Moro Queen brazier

OFF ALL 18K GOLD RINGS

OFF ALL 14K GOLD RINGS

OFF ALL 10K GOLD RINGS

October 16-18, Thurs.- Sat. 10am-4pm $20 Deposit Required K-State Union Bookstore

Payment plans available

K-state union

Photo project, reunion continues to develop

It was an idea worth developing.

A photographers' reunion. The gathering of past Collegian and Royal Purple "photogs," as they are commonly referred to in K-State's Student Publications.

The idea surfaced several years ago, but was only a dream until last February. With time, it became more than a reunion. It became a major project with a purpose, a budget and, of course, a deadline. Thus was born "The AWAKS Pro-

"A Week or Karas State" is the reunion of alumni photographers who will capture on film a week of life at K-State. The final result will be a 160-page book (including 64 pages of color photographs) created for the 1987 celebration of the University's 125th anniversary.

"We'd heard about 'day-in-the-life projects,' and the idea just got passed down until someone came to me and said, 'do it,'" said Jeff Taylor, staff photographer for the Columbia (Mo.) Daily Tribune and former Student Publications photographer. "It's been a long process. I can't believe it's actually happening."

A team of alumni and student photographers was formed to brainstorm and organize the project. To them, it meant long hours of planning. Fund-raising, equipment, assignment ideas and research all had to be handled before the professionals arrived.

They arrived throughout the week, coming from all parts of the state and the nation - from Florida, Washington, Texas, even Iceland (where White House photographer and 1979 K-State student Pete Souza and U.S. News & World Report photographer and 1956-60 student Darryl Heikes and been covering the summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gor-

They converged on Kedzie Hall with camera bags and other equipment in tow. The hardwood floors and yellowing ceiling tiles made vivid the memories of their Collegian and Royal Purple days.

Forty thousand frames will be shot. Three hundred will make the

A project staff of nearly 50, comprising alumni and students, will work nearly around the clock to shoot, process and print the film as the project continues. The content remains flexible.

"Until we see what we have, we don't want to be confined," said Tim Janicke, picture editor at the Kansas City Times and a K-State student from 1972-76. "There will be picture stories and single pictures.

Pictures by professionals. What better way to showcase the University and the talent it has produced.

"K-State has had a long reputation of excellent photography in the Collegian and Royal Purple," said Dave Adams, director of Student Publications, Inc. and the book's publisher. "There is a lot of competition among the photographers.

"This project is a glowing example (of students) coming back from 30 years and how they remain lifelong friends.'

The years AWAKS alumni attended K-State vary from 1949 to 1986. They represent, or free-lance for, some of the country's leading publications, including National Geographic, Baltimore Sun, Denver Post, Seattle Times, Philadelphia Inquirer, Town and Country, Fortune, and TIME.

From whatever generation of photographers each represents and whatever part of the country they live and work, they are tied by the bonds that make up the spirit of photography and the memories of once serving on the student photo

"It doesn't matter how long you've been in the business or where you're at in business, everyone has been so open. We've had lots of bull sessions," said Susan Pfannmuller of the Enid (Okla.) Publishing Co. and a 1971-75 and 1978-80 student.

"It's been great working together," Dave Kaup, photographer for the Olathe Daily News, agreed. "Everyone is fired up. It's been hectic, but smooth.'

As the week proceeded, the photographer's experiences varied. For some, it was a change.

"It's a lot different than my daily assignments," said Allen Eyestone of the Palm Beach (Fla.) Post-Times and a student from 1979-84. "I'm looking for something to happen rather than meeting someone that I've been assigned to photograph."

"For someone who sits at a desk telling other photographers what to do, it's a good experience," said Gary Haynes of the Philadelphia Inquirer and a 1957 graduate. "I walked across campus today with my camera bag and it felt like 20 pounds of cement. I'd forgotten how heavy they can get. I also have a renewed understanding about how difficult it can be to (collect the) cutline. It's making me more sensitive to my own staff. But on the flip side, I'm realizing too what they are getting away

"I push a desk instead of a shutter anymore," said Vic Winter of the Kansas City Star and a 1971-74 and 1975-77 student. "The students are so friendly and give their name. In the city they say 'buzz off."'

During the week, Winter stopped to shoot a picture of a cow.

"I didn't know he was that close, I was concentrating on setting my camera," he said. "It licked the front of my 300 (camera)...I may have one frame of a cow tongue.'

Rob Clark, photographer at the Philadelphia Inquirer and a K-State student from 1979-85, has been taking portraits for the project. He has been

See AWAKS, Page 7

Laff/Brad Fanshier

Former Student Publications photographer Vic Winter, assistant picture editor at the Kansas City Star, photographs the parking lot from the top of the K-State Union. Winter is one of 29 alumni returning to photograph A Week At K-State.

Story by Edee Dalke

Unlined

JEAN JACKET

Some Things Never Change. Most styles come and go. But the traditional Levi's Jacket goes on and on. Rugged heavy-weight denim, with double-stitched seams.

copper buttons and all the quality and durability Levi's is famous for.

Compare to $39.95

NDERBILTS

Levi's

ABOVE: Alumni photographer Ted Munger releases the shutter of his camera in Farrell Library. Munger, a commercial photographer, is from Dallas. RIGHT: Assignment Coordinator Andy Nelson, junior in journalism and mass communications, and Project Coordinator Tim Janicke, picture editor of The Kansas City Times, go over the next day's assignments.

MEN'S JEANS

• 501 Shrink-To-Fit

BOOT CUT

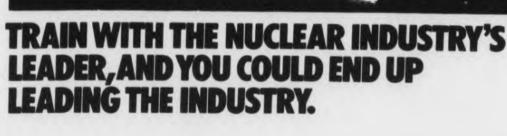

FIRST QUALIT Your Choice: Levi's Original 501 Shrink-To-Fit Jeans of 100% cotton unshrunk denim with button fly, or Levi's famous Boot Cut leans, cut a little wider at the bottom to the easy over boots. Compare to $24.95

Why Pay More? If You Pay More Than $15.99 for Levi's 501 Shrink-To-Fit Jeans... Then You're Being Charged Too Much

LEVI STRAUSS & CO. ORIGINA PRIVETED QUALITY CLOTHING. X.

DOWNTOWN WAMEGO • HWY 99 • 456-9100 OPEN MON. - FRI. 9-8, SUN. 12-5

LEE - WRANGLER - ACME - CAROLINA - WOLVERINE - TONY LAMA - JUSTIN - NOCONA - DAN POST -

Over half the nuclear reactors in America are operated by one organization. The Navy.

The technology is the most advanced in the world. The men in charge are the industry's best. put you at the forefront of the nuclear industry. That's why the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidacy Program is the most sophisticated training available.

It has to be.

program can earn $1100 a month while still in school. In addition, you get a $4000 bonus upon entrance into the program, and an additional $2000 when you complete your Naval studies.

And, as an officer in today's Nuclear Navy, you receive a year of paid graduate-level training - gaining the experience and credentials that can

You must be a U.S. citizen, 26 years of age or younger upon commissioning, working toward a bachelor's or master's degree. You must also have completed a minimum of one year each of College juniors and seniors who qualify for the calculus and calculus-based physics with a "B" average or better.

So if you've started thinking about a career in the nuclear field, think about starting at the top. You can apply after your sophomore year.

INTERVIEWING ON CAMPUS OCTOBER 21, 1986 STOP BY OR CALL THE PLACEMENT CENTER FOR APPOINTMENT

Extention conference defines educational goals

By ROGER McKNIGHT Collegian Reporter

About 480 people have been on campus this week for the 72nd Annual Extension Conference.

The purpose of the conference, which began Monday and concludes today, is re-emphasizing and focusing extension programs, while honing the Extension faculty's skills in delivering informal education programs, said Fred Poston, associate director of the Division of Cooperative Extension.

The annual conference allows the professional Extension faculty to meet during the week for various inservice training programs and activities. These professionals include 282 county agents, 120 faculty members and about 80 staff members from throughout the districts, Poston said.

"This is our largest conference for the year and is very well attended,"

Extension is one of the three basic missions for the University, along with teaching and research, he said. There are also three basic funding sources, or partnerships, including federal, state and county governmental units.

"K-State, being a land-grant university, is the primary extension function for the state. The county offices, through that partnership, are the hands and fingers of the Extension service. K-State is the central focal point for the headquarters," Poston said.

One of the problems Extension services solved during the conference is its variety of names

In trying to maintain some consistency in the title, the Extension faculty established the name Kansas State Cooperative Extension Service, Poston said. "People tend to relate (to) the Extension service through one of many programs. Many people identify with agricultural agents and programs, such as home economics extension and 4-H, not realizing these programs are within the cooperative service," he said.

Conference participants were also introduced to a variety of new programs, allowing them to generate new ideas which can be applied in their own areas, Poston said.

The primary theme for the 1986 conference is marketing, which is different from the marketing perspective associated with business, he said.

"Rather, we are basically going to market the informal education programs to the proper audiences," Poston said.

The keynote speaker for the marketing training was Dub Ashton from the University of Arkansas. Ashton has had a successful career in commercial marketing, including his part in designing the concept of the lonely Maytag repairman.

AWAKS

using an abstract backdrop as the unifying link that will pull together characters who normally wouldn't have any relationship.

"I look at this more as art than journalism, although I am documenting people," Clark said.

For others, there were similarities

Keith Philpott, freelance photographer and 1974-77 student. has had the AWAKS assignment of covering the K-State Crew team. His professional work has included photographing the Omo River Expedition in Ethiopia for National Geographic.

Souza, who normally follows President Reagan, has been following K-State President Jon Wefeld.

Al Messerschmidt of the Miami Herald and a student from 1966-70, covers the National Football League and will be shooting K-State sports. The work of the photographers will be supported by writing. "The photos can reveal K-State when the words can reveal what's behind the photos," said Bill Brown of Harris Enterprises Inc. and one of the book's writers.

The week spent at K-State will be remembered by more than just the photographers.

It will be history: a book capturing the moment and reminding today's generation of the present, causing the alumni to recall the past.

Program helps provide jobs, training to displaced farmers

By ROBIN HARNDEN Collegian Reporter

In an attempt to offset the financial impact of the farm crisis, Kansas is doing something to help its farmers find employment after leaving the Rural Employment Assistance Program was started in June to help displaced Kansas farmers find employment or receive training for new occupations.

The program was initiated by Gov. John Carlin, who set up a task force to "get a grant to serve displaced farmers," said REAP Director Sue

The $1.2 million program, financed by the Kansas Department of Labor, calls for eight field representatives to serve all 105 counties in the state. Field offices are located in Highland, Beloit, Hays, Scott City, Pratt, El Dorado, Lyndon and Chanute.

Emmett Koch, field representative for 12 counties in the northeast corner of the state, has contacted more than 100 farmers since July.

"Going out of a business like farming is a long process," Koch said. 'Some people are still going to harvest this year's crop. The program helps people who are losing their farms.

"Some farmers are not eligible for the program. If not, we give them other ideas for assistance.

Those eligible for aid include farmers facing foreclosure or bankruptcy, or those not able to obtain credit.

The program is currently limited to one year and is intended to serve 600 eligible individuals: farmers and their wives.

The program is designed to aid those who have lost or are losing their farms with such services as job search assistance, entrepreneurial training systems, classroom training, on-the-job training, counseling, relocation assistance and financial

If a displaced farmer enrolls in classroom training, for instance, REAP pays part of the tuition and books plus weekly allowance, Koch said. If he chooses on-the-job training, REAP reimburses the employer up to 50 percent for expenses, with the level of assistance decided on a case-by-case basis. More than 800 farmers have contacted the Farmers Assistance, Counseling and Training Services, which serves as REAP's referral network.

"Our office serves as a clearinghouse for the program," said Mary Lou Albracht, FACTS employment retraining specialist.

Farmers can call the office tollfree at 1-800-321-FARM for assistance. An answering machine records their messages during the evenings and on weekends.

"We find out the farmers' backgrounds, give them additional options in case they aren't eligible and, with their permission, forward their names to the REAP office in their region," Albracht said.

"We have a strict policy of confidentiality," she said. "That precludes the telling of success

"The farmers are a lot like college graduates. Many find something they really like, but for some it may be more difficult. Usually they don't want to relocate.

"For every seven farmers who leave the farm, one business is lost in the community," she said.

Miller said after names are forwarded from the hotline, the field representative contacts the farmers.

"We want to make it as easy as possible for farmers," she said. "It's very difficult for them to make calls, so we let the field representatives break the ice."

Miller said REAP is currently assisting 150 individuals.

"We're sure the numbers will increase rapidly," she said. "We have had good coverage with the media, and people we've helped are telling others about the program.

"We have every intention of asking for continuation of the program or more money to help more people," she said.

HATS OFF

Koch said the most difficult thing to do is actually finding employment for the farmers.

"Jobs are hard to find right now," he said. "We need some new industries in the state, with all the talk of economic development.

'We have done an awful lot of good not mainly monetarily, but to give them ideas for other forms of assistance," he said.

Miller said most response has come from farmers in the eastern part of the state.

MEXICAN RESTAURANTE

Regular Price $3.10

Offer good through 10/26/86 only at: One coupon per visit Piñata Restaurante

1219 Bluemont in Aggieville

TO A WILDCAT VICTORY!

Get your screw KU painter cap outside the Union 9 a.m.-3 p.m., Wednesday-Friday Now only $3!! and lead the Wildcats on to victory!

Sponsored by Phi Delta Theta pledge class

CATCH THE ACTION KU INVADES MANHATTAN AGAIN

JAYHAWKS VS. WILDCATS MONDAY AT 7:30

STUDENTS $1 ADULTS $2

All Home Matches in Ahearn Field House

SPECIAL KSU/KU BUFFET & HOURS! TVALENTINO'S

To celebrate K-State's first day game (and second victory), we're opening up our buffet ALL DAY, on Saturday, October 18. Tackle Valentino's buffet from 11 a.m. through 8 p.m...and then enjoy the game.

Of course, all of our NEW players, like our double crust pizza, pasta salads and seafood casserole will be starting. And, don't forget our returning squad...pizza, baked lasagne and salad bar.

OCT. 18 BUFFET HOURS: 11 a.m.-8 p.m.

And remember Valentino's other option plays: Half-baked pizzas and our regular take-out service. Available all day, for our game plan.

VALENTINO'S GAME DAY BUFFET PENALTIES

ILLEGAL USE OF BUFFET PRIVILEGES

too long to decide what to put

Intentional holding or clutching

Reaching across buffet to grab

3019 Anderson Ave. Village Plaza Shopping Center 537-4350

By The Collegian Staff

Student Governing Association requested an allocation of $820 to cover half of the $1,648.15 it overspent last year during a Student Senate's weekly meeting Thursday night.

The expenditures were due to unavoidable advertising and data processing, said Jenny Jonhston, SGA secretary.

The FONE Crisis Center requested $79 for a new answering machine. Paul Nelson, junior in pre-nursing, said FONE's damaged machine could be replaced for the price of repair.

Legal Services also requested additional money. It overspent the $850 it was allocated by $269.56 and is requesting senate cover $235.48.

U-LearN is requesting a $750 increase in its allocation for cost increases in printing and its outreach program. The Women's Resource Center is requesting a $623.18 allocation increase for advertising, film

Senate voted to postpone bills concerning endorsment of results of a Collegian poll showing student support for pari-mutuel betting, liquor by the drink and a state lottery.

Brian Sherwood, senior in political science, said he thought endorsing the poll would send an improper signal about the election.

"The senate has no right to tell the students how to vote," Sherwood said. "Endorsing these (bills) looks like we're endorsing Hayden and we have no right to do that."

Evolution to be lecture topic

By The Collegian Staff

The director of the Institute of Sociology at the University of Munich, West Germany, will visit campus today to discuss the evolutionary theory of sociologist and philosopher Georg Simmel.

Professor Horst J. Helle will speak at 1:30 p.m. in Waters Hall 135 about Simmel's contribution to the study of evolution in society and its effect on the social status of people within a society, said Harold Orbach, associate professor of sociology.

Simmel wrote about the changes in families as they moved from farms to cities and the changes in society as women moved into professional careers, Orbach said.

"Essentially, the issue is 'how do we interpret the modern world?"

Orbach said of Helle's lecture plans. In addition, Helle will discuss the existing exchange program between K-State and Munich, Orbach said. He said K-State has some students at Munich, but more go to Geissen, and Helle hopes to heighten interest of social science and humanities students in the Munich program.

Helle's current research and writing primarily involves the development of interpretative social theory in Germany and its relation to similar trends in the United States.

Helle has been at the University of Munich since 1973.

Nutritionist relates personal role in aid to African hunger victims

By JIM BLAKE Collegian Reporter

As part of World Food Day activities Thursday, a former CARE nutritionist described his experiences helping fight hunger among Ethiopian refugees in Sudan.

During an hour-long presentation in Justin Hall, Karl Schlotterbeck showed about 50 faculty, staff and students a series of slides he and his wife had taken while they aided in the operation of one of several camps designed to feed the refugees and educate them on nutrition.

The slides depicted the temporary camp made to house and feed the refugees. They also showed the outdoor kitchens used to prepare food for the people.

The refugees were housed in grass huts and tents donated to the group. Programs to educate mothers about nutrition and feeding of their young children were also conducted in the temporary housing, he said.

"They came to Sudan because they were starving and there was no water," Schlotterbeck said. "Their coming to Sudan was also a political decision. They wanted to avoid the camps their government had already set up for them (for famine aid)."

"Many came with some interesting stories of being bombed by their own country, trying to get them to move," Schlotterbeck said. "The controversy is that the (Ethiopian) government was using (famine) relief to reduce population and craw people to the south." Schlotterbeck said after refugees were considered healthy, they were sent back to their farms in Ethiopia. Since he left, Schlotterbeck said, rains have increased in the region and the agricultural situation has improved. However, there is still famine in southern Sudan, caused by the civil war between north and south regions. Schlotterbeck received his undergraduate degree in gerontology from Davidson College in North Carolina, and received his master's in nutrition from Tufts University, Medford, Mass. Schlotterbeck said he began his work in relief programs through his desire

Voters away during election may utilize absentee ballots

By The Collegian Staff

Registered voting students, who will be absent from their home counties on election day, Nov. 4, can still cast their vote by obtaining an absentee ballot in their home coun-

"Anyone absent from their county on voting day with the intent of returning (to that county) can request an absentee ballot," said Wanda Coder, Riley County clerk.

Students are the exception to the rule. Because of their unique position of having two addresses while in college, they are allowed to vote either in their home county or in the county in which the college is located.

Coder said if students want, they can get can get their parents to sign an application in their home county County.

enabling them to receive their absentee ballot faster. "This also keeps paperwork to a minimum," Coder said. Once the necessary forms are filled out, the ballot will be sent by the county election officer to the student's address.

Traveling salesmen and professors frequently use the absentee ballot because they are unable to return to their home county on election day,

Anyone interested in using the ballot has until Oct. 31 to request the ballot from their county office. It must returned to that county before the polls close on election day, Coder said.

Coder said 128 people have requested absentee ballots for Riley

Fantastic Fall Values!

BIG AUTUMNS

Tandy 1000 EX With Bonus Color Monitor!

Monitor platform extra.

384K Tandy 1000 SX With CM-5 Monitor. Reg. Separate Items 1498.95 . . . #25-1051, #25-1023 Only 1199.00

Reg. Separate Items 1098.95

Get Our CM-5 Color Monitor At No Charge When You Buy a Tandy 1000 EX

$30

Low As $37

13" Color TV/Monitor By Radio Shack

Pocket Pager Cut 40%

By Tandy

12-Band Stereo Equalizer

Save $6195 Reg.

Low As $20 Per Month Has comb filter for superb picture. #16-232

Diagonally measured.
Batteries for remote extra Remote

B'nai B'rith Hillel at K-State

Tonight Shabbat Services 8 p.m.

Manhattan Jewish Congregation 1509 Wreath Ave.

Oneg (Food!) to follow

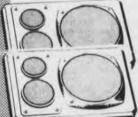

For a ride call: 776-1963 or 539-2838

Car Stereo Speakers

With built-in disk drive and Personal DeskMate" graphics-oriented software. #25-1050, #25-1023

By Realistic®

HALF PRICE

pair! Fit standard 6 x 9" cutouts. #12-1854

Reg. 99.95

PRO-26 by Realistic

Save GQ95

Monitor police, fire, trains and many others! Receives UHF Hi/ Lo and VHF Hi/Lo. #20-107 Batteries, crystals extra Paging service fee extra Beeps to alert you to call in for messages! Now in most major

AM/FMCassette Recorder

Minisette®-16 by Realistic

33% Off

Listen to radio, tapes or record 'live" with built-in mike. #14-1075

2-Way Speaker MC-1800 by Realistic

HALF PRICE Reg.

Walnut veneer! With 8" woofer, 21/2" tweeter. 173/4" high. #40-1992

Dual-Deck Stereo System

Cassette/Clock Radio Chronosette™-247 by Realistic

Built-in stereo cassette recorder! 1/6" head-phone jack. Battery backup #12-1554

4-Channel Pocket Scanner

Clarinette®-120 by Realistic

Save '80

Copy cassettes, record FM stereo, AM or phono. #13-1224

::00

It's Stereo!

Backup battery extra

25% Off

Per Month +

$40

Save

"Customize" your system's sound! IMX* stereo expander for "live" sound quality. #31-2010 *TM Sci-Coustics, Inc.

Deluxe 3-Way Speaker

Optimus®-45 by Realistic HALF PRICE

Walnut Veneer!

10" woofer, 4" midrange, 21/2" tweeter, 231/2" high. #40-4033

TV-Sound Radio Pocket PortaVision® by Realistic

Reg. 29.95

Hear TV Shows! Receives VHF channels 2-13, FM and AM. #12-613 Battery extra

8-Range Multitester

By Micronta

95 Reg. Pocket size!

#22-212 Battery extra

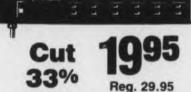

By Micronta®

27% Of

All Realistic Long-Life Tubes In Stock

6-Outlet Power Strip

By Archer®

Guards electronic equipment from damaging AC line surges and cuts line noise. Act now! #61-2780

Quartz Sports Watch

20% Off Reg. 9.95

Water resistant! 24-hour alarm with hourly chime, calendar. With battery. #63-5058

AM/FM Receiver STEREO-MATE® by Realistic

Cut 37%

Reg. Separate Items 29.90 With Nova*-34 lightweight stereo headphones! #12-119, #33-1000

Batteries extra VHS/Beta Video Tapes

Bapth

Cut

13%

Reg. 7.99 Stock up! Deliver bright colors and superb sound. VHS T-120, #44-400. Beta L-750, #44-475

Smoke Alarm By SAFE HOUSE®

Please—don't take chances! Responds to deadly smoke and fire with super-loud alarm. With battery. #49-457

Wired Intercom Set

By Archer Cut 33%

Reg. 14.95

Ideal for home, campers, or boats! A great "baby sitter" Battery powered. #43-221

2909 Anderson

Weekdays 9-6 Seturday 9-5 Closed Sunday

Radio Shaek

In Anderson Square 539-6151

BEAT THE BEAKS Pep Rally

Friday, Oct. 17 7:30 p.m.

Triangle Park, Aggieville

Let's Beat KU!

K-State looking for first Big Eight victory

'Cats, KU ready to fight for bragging rights

By TOM PERRIN Sports Writer

Just a few weeks ago, K-State football coach Stan Parrish was full of "I don't like KU" comments. He said he didn't know how anyone coaching at K-State could have anything but contempt for the University of Kansas.

If Parrish was afraid of giving the Jayhawks any material for the locker-room bulletin board, he certainly didn't show it. Parrish wanted to play up the cross-state rivalry and wasn't hiding this from anyone.

But as the date of the game has grown nearer, Parrish has toned down the anti-KU rhetoric. Perhaps now the first-year coach has come to realize that no more fuel need be added to the fire in the rivalry.

Practices this week in preparation for Saturday's game at KSU Stadium, Parrish said, have been the best so far this season for the 1-4 'Cats.

"We're ready right now for the game," Parrish said Thursday. "I don't think you have to say a lot...We're more intense, more emotional in practice than we've been all year long and that's what you hope for."

As much as a victory would mean to K-State players and fans, Parrish is trying to do his part to put the pressure on KU, which has been established by oddsmakers as a 7-point favorite.

'They're much too quick for us. I don't think we match up with them (KU) anywhere, to be honest," Parrish said. "They're bigger, stronger and faster. That's why they're the favorites in the game. It will say a lot for our team with a victory Satur-

K-State players are well aware of the rivalry as well. The Jayhawks lead the alltime series 57-22-4, but in the last four meetings, the home team has come away a winner. Last year, KU pounded the Wildcats 38-7 at Lawrence. K-State won the 1984 match-up in Manhattan 24-7.

"It's a big game, no doubt about it," said K-State wide receiver Dan Hughes. "We've had a great week of practice, we prepared well and we're ready to play. I don't think we've been this ready to play in a long time. We're really keyed up.

"It's time to lay it on the line. It's going to

The importance of the game for the Wildcats goes beyond just the rivalry. Losers of four consecutive games, including the Big Eight Conference opener at Oklahoma 56-10 two weeks ago, K-State needs a victory to get on track.

'They're much too quick for us. I don't think we match up with them (KU) anywhere, to be honest. They're bigger, stronger and faster. That's why they're the favorites in the game. It will say a lot for our team with a victory Saturday.'

Coach Stan Parrish

"We've had some tough times the last three or four games," said Wildcat running back Todd Moody. "This will be a game where there's a lot of emotion, not only for team, but for the fans.'

KU enters the game with a 3-2 record, with victories over Utah State, Indiana State and Southern Illinois. The Jayhawks lost their Big Eight opener to Iowa State last Saturday at Lawrence.

Bob Valesente takes over for Mike Gottfried, who resigned to take over at the University of Pittsburgh. Valesente, assistant head coach/quarterback coach under Gottfried, played a big part in the establishment of a passing offense at KU.

And while last year's quarterback Mike Norseth has graduated, the Jayhawks' offensive scheme has remained the same with Mike Orth taking over at quarterback.

"He's done a good job," Parrish, who attended the KU-Iowa State game last week. said of Orth. "He's going to be a good player and they've brought him along well. Obviously, like a lot of young quarterbacks he's going to make mistakes.

"Because so much of their offense is predicated around his performance, he gets scrutinized a heck of a lot closer than other

GAME NOTES: Tickets are still available for the 11:40 a.m. game and will likely be available up until gametime. A crowd of around 40,000 is expected at 42,000 seat KSU Stadium...The game will be regionally televised by Raycom Sports and carried locally by KSNT, Channel 27...The last time a K-State-KU game was televised was the 1982 game when the Wildcats blasted the Jayhawks 36-7 before a national audience on WTBS...Local radio broadcasts of the game can be heard on KMKF (101.7 FM) and WIBW (580-AM)...Parrish said he probably won't use any of the "12th man" walk-ons for the kickoff team against KU. "They just aren't ready," Parrish said. The only one who will suit up for the game is Tony Randel. The other six new walk-ons are Reed Bullinger, Tony Gorman, Ken Ufford, Mike Walden, Jeff Wong and Robert Zwiesler. Parrish said more progress on the unit would be made next week...Fullback Maurice Henry is still out for the 'Cats with a foot injury...Other Big Eight action includes Missouri at Nebraska, Oklahoma State at Oklahoma and Iowa State at Colorado...The CU-ISU game matches two 1-0 teams. Both are looking for an early edge in the quest to finish in the upper division of the Big Eight.

Fijis raise funds with annual run agricultural economics.

raised $15,000.

tion, Hanley said.

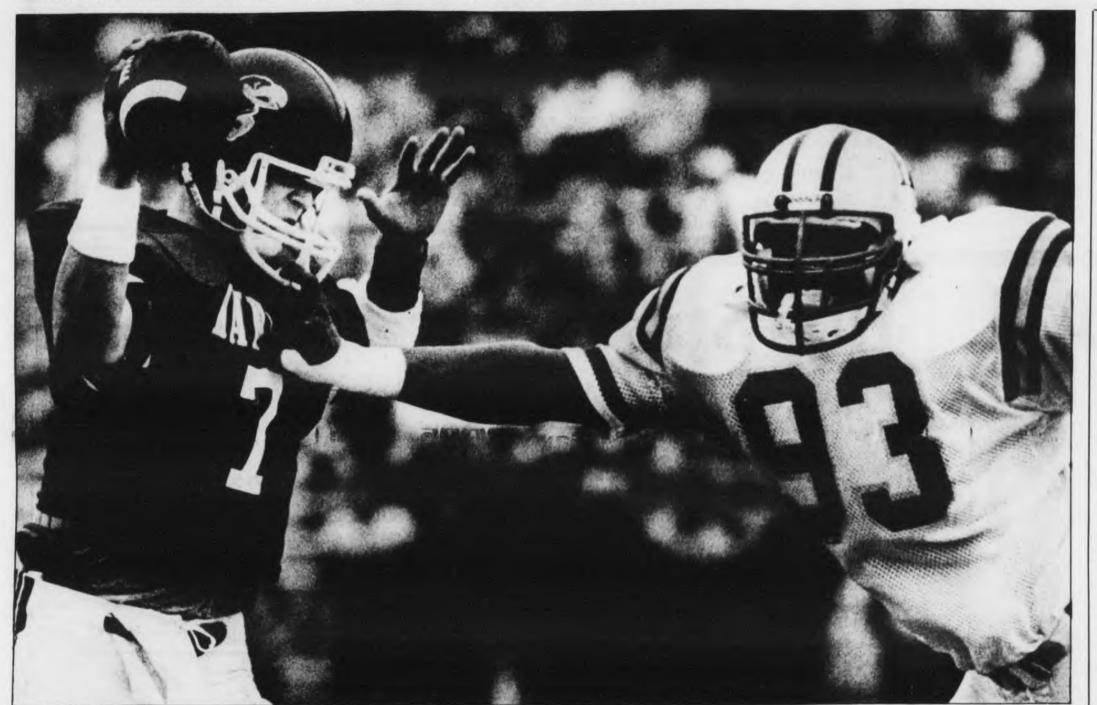

During the past 13 years, the Fijis have raised $75,000 for leukemia research, Hanley said. Last year's run

The run is scheduled to began at 8 a.m. at the Fiji chapter house in Lawrence and end in Manhattan about 4 p.m. The relay consists of running and passing the ball, Hanley said. At halftime of Saturday's game, there will a ceremony on the field. The parents of Rod Morgan, Gov. John Carlin and several Fijis will make a presentation to the Leukemia Founda-

K-State Fijis generally collect more money on a per-person basis, but the larger chapter at KU contributes more in total dollars, Hanley said.

By AMY PETRY Collegian Reporter There are not many reasons why someone would want to run a football for more than 90 miles down a highway. But for members of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternities at K-State and the University of Kansas, the 13th annual Fiji Run for Leukemia today will allow them the chance to run the game ball for Saturday's KU-K-State football game from Lawrence to Manhattan on U.S. 24. And it's all for a good cause. The Fijis sponsor the run in honor of K-State fraternity brother Rod Morgan, who died of leukemia in 1974, said Pete Hanley, K-State's coordinator for the run and junior in

K-State defensive tackle Jeff Hurd grabs the face mask of former KU quarterback Mike Norseth during last year's Sunflower Classic in Lawrence. Coach Stan Parrish considers the

K-State rubgy team

team ready for the game and says no more fuel is needed to fire up the rivalry between the Survivors of playoffs ready for No.

'geared' for tourney By The Collegian Staff

The K-State rugby team will be in action this weekend as they travel to Kansas City, Mo., to compete in the Heart of America Rugby Tournament.

The 12-team tournament will take place at Swope Park and will feature teams from around the Midwest, said team member Jeff Stanley.

K-State's competition will open on Saturday when they face Springfield, Mo., at 10 a.m. Action will continue throughout the weekend at the tournament.

The Wildcats are coming off an impressive 76-0 drubbing of Pittsburg State. The win moved their record to 4-2 on the season.

"We need to go down there and show some people we can play rugby," Stanley said. "We've been playing some tough competition, so hopefully it will get us geared up for this weekend."

By The Associated Press something."

NEW YORK - It was a very short "pardon" for New York Mets Manager Davey Johnson. The Boston Red Sox, meanwhile, are back to playing with their own

The Mets and Red Sox, survivors of the National League and American League playoffs, are back at ground zero again as they prepare to open the World Series Saturday night at Shea Stadium.

The Mets earned their third World Series berth by beating the Houston Astros in a dramatic 16-inning game Wednesday, taking the best-of-seven NL series in six games.

"I feel like I'm on parole,"

Johnson said. "I've been pardoned or

The Red Sox, one pitch away from elimination by the California Angels on Sunday, completed their dramatic comeback from a 3 to 1 deficit in games with two easy victories over the shell-shocked Angels back in Boston's friendly Fenway Park.

"We were down to our last pitch," said Boston second baseman Marty Barrett, who was named the Most Valuable Player in the AL playoffs. 'They had already uncorked the champagne Sunday and when we came back, we felt like we had

"We were playing on the house's money and all the pressure was on nothing to lose.

this "shuttle" series.

"The Red Sox are kind of close to us because (General Manager) Lou Gorman, who used to work for us, is up there, and we see them down here on our television sets," Mets General Manager Frank Cashen said. "It's going to be kind of a little neighborhood battle and that's going to be fun."

Both Johnson and Boston Manager John McNamara were forced to spend their best pitchers in winning the playoffs. That means New York's Dwight Gooden and Boston's Roger Clemens, the aces of their respective staffs, won't be available for the Series opener.

McNamara, managing in the

Now, the pressure begins again in Series for the first time in his 14-year managerial career, is expected to go with left-hander Bruce Hurst, 13-8 during the regular season and 1-0 with a 2.40 earned run average in the playoffs.

> Johnson will counter with righthander Ron Darling, 15-6 during the regular season but with no decision and a 7.20 ERA in five innings of playoff work.

For the first time, the World Series will use the designated hitter when the game is played in the American League park, but not when the games are played in the NL park. That means Darling and the rest of the Mets' staff probably will avoid Boston slugger Don Baylor until the Series moves to Fenway Park

Wisconsin meet will present tough challenge for Wildcats

Women's team aims for higher ranking; men runners hope to bust into top 20

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

The K-State cross country teams enter the "toughest meet in the country" this weekend when they travel to Madison, Wis., for the Wisconsin-Burger King Invitational.

Head track and cross country coach John Capriotti bases his assessment on the meet on the fact that in the women's division eight of the top 15 teams in the country will be present and on the men's side seven of the top 15 teams will line up.

"This is the most important meet of the season other than the Big Eight championships and the NCAA nationals," Capriotti said. "It will sort out a lot of the national rankings because of all the national people that are going to be there."

Those national rankings currently list the women Wildcats at No. 8 (see rankings) while the men are presently unranked. Another important note is that five of the Big Eight women's teams are ranked in the national top Going into Saturday's meet, Capriotti is hoping to accomplish two things when his Wildcats finish the Wisconsin course. First, he is aiming to have his women achieve a higher national ranking, and, second, he is hoping his men can dispose of some of the teams present who are among the prestigious top 20. "We would like to run Wisconsin and Texas tough," Capriotti said of the women's squad. "They are head and shoulders above the other teams in the country. Those teams are No. 1 and No. 2, and everyone else is a distant third. This meet will sort out a lot of the national rankings.

"While the men are not ranked, I believe we have the ability to knock off some of the teams we will face there that are ranked," Capriotti said.

Running for the women will be the strongest line-up they have fielded all season. Capriotti kept a lot of his top runners out of earlier meets in hopes that his teams would peak later in the season during the more important meets.

Chris Vanatta, Alysun Deckert, Anneli Edling, Jacque Struckhoff, Betsy Silzer, Angie Barry and Nancy Hoffman will make the trip. Capriotti, however, wanted to take sophomore Lisa Wakem but is being restricted by a conference rule which stipulates that cross country coaches can only take seven runners per team on a trip.

All-American Jacque Struckhoff is running in her second consecutive meet after sitting out nearly five months with a stress fracture in her leg. Capriotti said he is begining to uncross his fingers about Struckhoff's injury and is now ready to watch her perform to the standards she set last year.

"Jacque's training is going along much, much better," Capriotti said. "All of the girls are running better. We are still four to five weeks away from peaking, but we are running pretty well right now.'

The men will also field their first 'full-strength' squad of the season in Madison. Jim Knudsen, who has been out with a sore lower back, will run Saturday, but Capriotti is going to wait a little longer before he unviels Swedish product Jan Jonsson who has yet to run this season. In addition to Knudsen, Ron Stahl, Pat Hessini, Rob Hayes, David Keller, David Warders and Matt Vavala will compete for the men.

"We gave Colorado (ranked 10th) a good race in our home meet without Knudsen," Capriotti said.

The Wildcats are hoping that come Saturday they can deal with a top national women's team and a men's team that cracks the top 20 polls.

| Women's Rankings |
|------------------------|
| 12. Iowa State |
| 13. Oregon |
| 14. Virginia |
| 15. Penn State |
| 16. Villanova |
| 17. Cal-Irvine |
| 18. Alabama |
| 18. Boston Coll. (tie) |
| 20. Colorado |
| 20. Okla. State (tie) |
| |
| |

Off-screen romance comes alive in film

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

In his first role since picking up the Best Actor Academy Award last spring for "Kiss of the Spider Woman," William Hurt is back on the big screen in the film version of Mark Medoff's hit Broadway drama, "Children of a Lesser God.

Film Review

Hurt plays a teacher of the deaf who gets his best results by throwing out the book and treating his or self-righteousness. students as complete human beings, not as handicapped.

Soon after arriving at a new school, James (Hurt) finds himself attracted to a 25-year-old deaf woman named Sarah (played by Marlee Martin, who has been deaf since the age of 18 months). Sarah was once a student at the school one of the best - but now she works as a custodian. Her refusal to learn to speak has set her apart from the others. James is attracted to her not only because she is good-looking, but also because of her intelligence and anger.

Sarah has utter contempt for the hearing world. Why should she learn to speak? Why should she conform with a world that believes she is inferior because of her deafness? To reach her James will have to break through her anger.

The scenes between James and Sarah put Hurt into the position of being translator. He must use sign language to communicate with Sarah, so he speaks what he is signing to her, as well as speaking a powerful film.

THE ICECREAM SOCIAL

Makes old-fashioned

ice cream treats-

Try our soft-serve.

537-7079 1314 Westloop

Enjoy smooth, creamy

Frozen Yogurt

that tastes like Ice Cream

but with 80% less fat!

-- FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's

YOGURT: Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

what she signs to him. This device might have become tedious, but it is used so naturally that after a while it's almost as if we are actually hearing Sarah speak. This puts much of the weight of whether the movie succeeds or fails right on Hurt's shoulders, as was the case in "Kiss of the Spider Woman." And thanks to his excellent performance, "Children of a Lesser God" is an absorbing, powerful film.

Hurt has just the right amount of charm for the role and he never lets that charm turn into cuteness

And in her first film role, Marlee Martin, as Sarah, delivers a very convincing performance. Her steely gaze and angry swagger never becomes simple posturing. Her performance is always authentic.

The chemistry between Hurt and Martin gives this film added punch. In their private lives they have been seeing one another, and this makes the on-screen romance all the more convincing. Yes, sparks do fly.

But the love that develops between James and Sarah won't be easy, because neither person can feel completely at ease in the other's world. Sarah is at ease only when James communicates with her on her own terms. But she can signal with her hands faster than James can read.

"Children of a Lesser God" is the kind of play that can often become immersed in self-pity, but the thoughtful performances and fine direction (by first-time director Randa Haines) have turned it into

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

College replicates historical formal ball

By DON SCOTT Collegian Reporter

OK architecture students, put away your parallel bars, scales, prisms, circle templates, Tiger tape and diazo prints but keep that No-Doze handy because once again it's time for everyone's favorite bash the fourth annual Beaux/Arts Ball.

The Beaux/Arts Ball originates back to the Beaux/Arts Royal Academy of Architecture founded in Paris in 1671. The school conducted annual balls that were very formal, complete with black ties and floorlength, silk gowns.

The ball, sponsored by the Associate Student Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, will take place Nov. 1. ASC AIA is a student chapter organization of the American Institute of Architects. Memberships are available to all architect students for an annual fee of

"With the money we gain from architecture fees, we sponsor lectures and bring in architects from across the United States to speak," said Don Kiser, junior in architecture and ASC AIA committee member. "Members are admitted free to all events we sponsor."

Though the tradition has been carried throughout the years, the setting, in addition to the attire, has evolved through some not-tooradical changes.

One architecture student said he was in the process of making his outfit. It is going to resemble a huge papier-mache tuxedo.

People come all different ways the majority come well-dressed," said Sue Price, senior in architecture and ASC AIA committee member.

Price said, however, that a person wouldn't want to "dress like you were going to a high school prom." Students are also encouraged to come dressed as their favorite building.

Kiser said the Beaux/Arts Ball was a party for architects to simply "have a good time at" - a definite cure for the deadline blues.

In previous years, the ball was open only to architecture students but this year invitations have been extended to include students in the Department of Art plus students in architecture and art from the University of Kansas and the University of Nebraska. Kiser said he was hoping a reciprocal agreement would be worked out that if either school had a ball, K-State architecture and art students would be invited.

The theme for this year's ball will be "Monumental Formalism." Kiser said the theme relates to monumental formalism in architecture.

"The theme usually relates to architecture since they sponsor it," Kiser said. "This year we'll try to develop decorations along the theme's line."

An example of some of the decorations include cutouts of building facades. Kiser said they will try to do replicas on a grand scale.

"We come up with these themes and hope architecture students will interpret them as they want to and go off from there.' "Damage from Bob," a local band, will be playing at the ball, and a disc jockey from KSDB-FM will play records. Kiser expects this year's ball to be a success and predicted around 350 will attend.

"A lot of instructors go which makes it swell because you get to see them on a personal level," said Russ Volmert, senior in landscape architect. "What I like best is the opportunity to meet a lot of different people that you didn't know previously. It's just a lot of fun because of all the people who go and party."

"They have a theme and everyone is supposed to dress for it but not many people do," said John Eck, junior in architecture. "The themes are too complicated and people can't translate them into costumes.'

"I had a pretty good time last year," said Denise Dipiazzo, junior in architecture. "The setups (beverages) ran out toward the end which was sort of bad. I liked all of the people there.'

Though crowded places are great when it comes to meeting people, Dipiazzo said last year's crowd could have benefited from a larger area.

"We're having trouble locating space that can keep all those people," said Kiser. "There aren't that many places in town to have this size of a party. We've got our fingers crossed right now but we just don't Kiser said ASC AIA also wants to keep the location within a close distance to reduce the possibilities of drinking and driving.

Party time, location, and an admission fee (for non-members of ASC AIA) will be announced in the

MAYER RETAIL LIQUOR

- Cold kegs in stock
- Chilled beer, wine, wine coolers
- * Large selection spirits
- * All your game day needs

521 N. 12th — In Aggieville

(1 block south of Kite's & next to Southern Sun)

539-5269

"Life"

Brian 12:00 O'CLOCK MIDNIGHT FRI. & SAT. OCT. 17 & 18

CAMPUS HEART OF AGGIEVILLE

ALL SEATS $2.50

still America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love For Women & Men our atmosphere.

Fri. & Sat., Oct 17 & 18 ONLY!! ALL BOOTS (ONE PER CUSTOMER)

> ZODIAC, DEXTER, 9-WEST, CONNIE, SPORTO (DUCK BOOTS) GEORGIO BRUTINI

TAYLOR SHOES

1118 Moro-Aggieville

SERVE IN APPALACHIA Single Catholic Men Serving Others

Your practical help to the elderly, handicapped and poor in Appalachia can make a difference. Single Catholic men are invited to volunteer one week to learn more about the culture and people of the area.

December 15-21, 1986

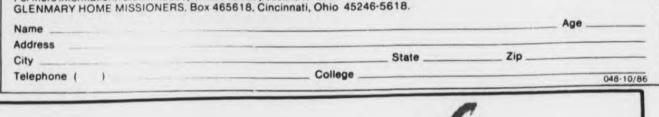

December 27, 1986-January 2, 1987

DISCERNMENT WEEK Single Catholic Men Thinking of Ministry

This very unique experience will provide you with the atmosphere to reflect and pray on your vocational calling. You will have the opportunity to learn more about yourself, rural America and Glenmary's ministry.

January 5-11, 1987

| For more information, return GLENMARY HOME MISSION | this coupon as soon as possible to: Brother Jack Henn,
DNERS, Box 465618, Cincinnati, Ohio 45246-5618. |
|--|---|
| Name | |
| Address | |

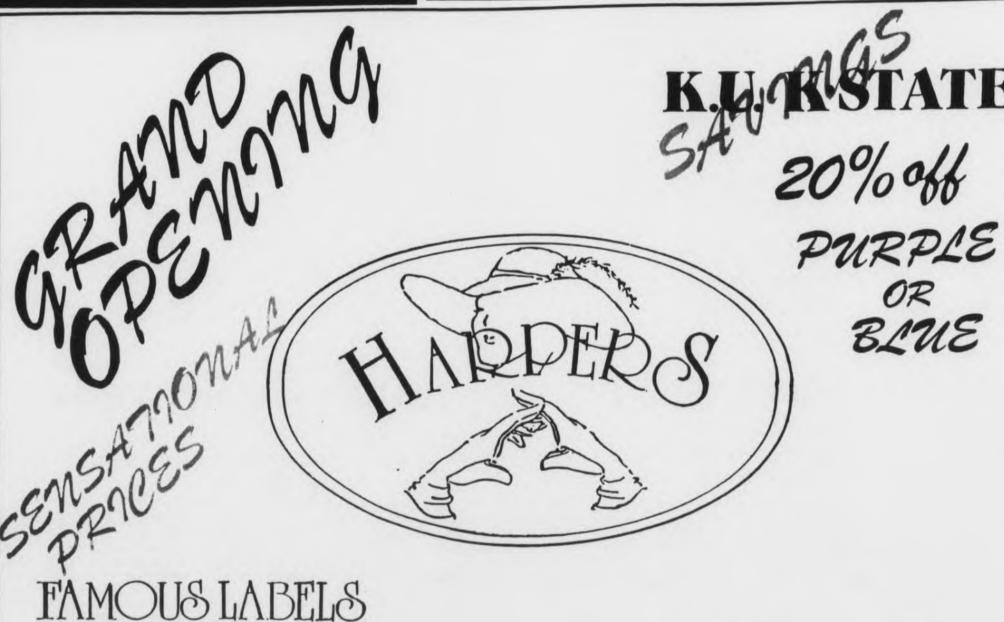

FRIDAY, Oct. 17

FIRSTBANK CENTER

Denison & Claflin

$1 Cover

9-12 p.m.

Register For Grand Prize Drawing

DOWNTOWN 331 POYNTZ MON.-SAT. 9:30-5:30

THURS. 9:30-8:30

Congress revises laws, gets ready to adjourn

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Congress pushed hard Thursday to adjourn for the year, as legislators worked to clear away measures needed to keep money flowing to the government and take care of other major items, including a sweeping revision of the nation's immigration laws.

"People have decided now it's about time to leave," said Senate Majority Leader Dole, R-Kan., reflecting the restlessness and impatience of many re-election-minded lawmakers over the long-delayed end of the 99th Congress. During the day, white buttons with red letters saying, "Free the 99th Congress" began appearing throughout the Capitol.

But before the end of legislative business - now expected Friday, at the earliest - Congress had to finish with an unprecedented, $576 billion catchall spending bill.

The Senate passed the body of the measure by a voice vote and then proceeded to consider several remaining disagreements with the Senators came to work Thursday morning to find the 8-inch thick, 18 and quarter pound bill on their desks. Less than seven hours earlier, the House had completed action on the legislation, which is necessary because Congress has passed none of the 13 regular appropriations bills for the fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

Indeed, the government was technically running on empty when it opened for business Thursday because an emergency funding bill - the third since the beginning of the fiscal year - had expired at midnight Wednesday.

The House and Senate quickly sent a new short-term money bill to the White House Thursday morning to tide the government over another

President Reagan signed the measure later in the day, but White

AND FOOD ..

FAVORITE

House officials still expressed concerns about some of the provisions of the omnibus bill, leaving doubts about exactly when the funding problems would be resolved.

The omnibus spending bill, the largest such measure Congress has ever considered, provides for more than half the $1 trillion federal budget in a single package.

"I don't know anyone who's happy about this process at this moment," said Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.

The Senate moved to the spending bill after a compromise version of legislation overhauling the nation's immigration laws became temporarily bogged down. The House had passed the measure Wednesday 238-173.

Last-minute objections from the administration for the most part evaporated after Sen. Alan K. Simpson, R-Wyo., had a 30-minute White House meeting with Reagan.

Afterwards, Simpson said he was convinced the president would sign the bill, but he added that Reagan also sought a clarification of a provision outlawing employment discrimination against Hispanics, Asians and other foreign nationals who are legally in the United States but not citizens.

However, Senate opponents still indicated they wanted to discuss the legislation at length on the Senate

The bill would offer amnesty to illegal aliens who came to the United States before 1982. In addition, the legislation provides fines and prison terms for employers who knowingly hire undocumented workers.

Also in line for final congressional action was a popular, $1.7 billion election-year measure aimed at combating illegal drug use.

The Senate passed the antidrug bill Wednesday night on a voice vote after supporters of a death-penalty provision agreed to substitute a life sentence in prison without parole in the most serious cases.

Classifieds

stone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more in

THIS IS the Life-A television program, cable char

ing placed in a residential care facility. (38-39) nel 6; Fridays, 5 p.m. An elderly won nation toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

PA & TANNING SALON

1st Anniversary

Tanning Special

12 Sessions $20

(previous customers)

10 Sessions $20

(new customers)

776-7874

1214 C Moro

Exp. 10-19-86

Mexican Buffet

Ramada Restaurant

Every Sunday

JOIN THE

Irresistible Force:

The Kansas Army National Guard needs

you! If you're a High School Junior, Senior,

or Grad. between the ages of 17 and 35, you

can become part of the IRRESISTIBLE

*$10,000 Student Loan Repayment

*$20,000 Health Profession Loan

*And Earn Over $1,200 per year

For Information Call:

SFC Don Hash

(913)537-4108 day

(913)537-2478 night

$3.95

FORCE

Program

Part-Time

*$2,000 Cash Bonus

*$5,040 New G.I. Bill

Repayment Program

5-7:30 p.m.

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

the 1986-87 Wildcat Basketball Team—tryouts will be held Sunday, October 19th at 6 p.m. in Ahearn Gymnasium. (38-39)

LAST CALL! Class begins Saturday, October 18 at the Little Apple Driving School. For information, call 539-4881 or 539-2715. (38-39) moved to Monday, October 20, at 8 p.m., Durland 152. Larry Montgomery, candidate for State Treasurer, will attend. (39)

MANHATTAN HIGH School, class of 1984 three year

STUDENTS AGAINST Multiple Sclerosis will be hav-ing a money donation competition between K.U. and K.S.U. Look for donation sites today between 4-7 p.m. in Aggieville and other areas of Manhat tan. Show your spirit by supporting this cause. (39)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 1/4 lb. Hamburger, 1/2 order curly fries and medium drink for $2

Haves House of Music

Guitar Strings and Drumsticks -

776-7983

James Boyer, this Sunday. (39)

ATTENTION TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of cos-

4881 or 539-2715 for information. (38-39)

Small is beautiful. Graduate Assistantships, Spring 1987, Selection begins October 30, English Department, Emporia State University, Emporia, Kansas 66801. Write or call 1-316-343-1200, ext.

By Berke Breathed

By Jim Davis

= KRICK

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

FOR RENT-APTS

FOR RENT-MISC

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment, 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-

QUIET WELL-maintained, one bedroom furnished apartment in modern complex, two blocks west of campus. Laundry, patio, parking facilities. $216/ month, November 1 lease, deposit. No pets, waterbeds. Prefer non-smoking graduate student, re-search assistant or mature employed adult.

8464 or 539-8401 after 5 p.m. (37-44) ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campus, starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051

537-9686 for application and information. (34-39)

or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49) 1219 Claffin-Next to campus-Furnished one bedroom, new carpet, new paint, $260 plus electric, $200 deposit. No children, no pets. 537-1180. (39-

FOR SALE-AUTO

1971 VW Station Wagon—automatic, dependable, $875. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (33tf) 1979 FORD Mustang—76,000 miles, runs good, $2,000. Call 537-0401 before 8 p.m. (36-40)

1977 HONDA Civic Wagon, 74,000 miles, best offer 776-1211 or 532-6629. (37-41) 1970 VOLKSWAGEN Karmann Ghia. Monza exhaust. Guards red paint, runs great, 537-7866. (37-39) 1980 CAMARO-Sunroof, 40,000 miles, good condi-

1976 MGB—Burgandy, great condition. Call 532-5285 anytime and ask for Troy. (39-40) 1977 VW Rabbit, excellent condition, reliable, must tion. Call 537-0835. (38-42)

sell for best offer. 537-0165 or 532-5123 (Stuart).

FOR SALE-MISC 07 YAMAHA CR-1020 receiver, 70 watts per channel, excellent condition. Why pay more for comparable new one, $250. Call 776-2480. (36-39) LOCK BOX for S-10 or Ranger pick-up. Manual typewriter. 539-5234. (37-39)

ALPINE CAR stereo, equalizer, amps, F/B speakers Sony compact disc player with 11 discs, $1,000. Call 776-5646, Mike Maki. (37-39) ONE YEAR old Bianchi 12-speed bicycle. Great condition. Call Todd at 539-5098 after 6 p.m. (37-39)

SPECTRA 4-channel mixer. Equalizer, powered. Must sell, $240. Call Chris, 539-1089. (38-41)

WATERBED-SOLID oak with high gloss finish, n tress and heater included. Call Mark, 537-8567. (38-

ATARI 800XL, 1050 drive, $225. Radio Shack PC-2, $75. 13 inch color TV, $130. Call 532-5136. (38-42)

By Eugene Sheffer

FOR SALE: Two K-State vs KU tickets. Call 776-3318.

1986 SCHWINN Sierra-All terrain mountain bike with kryptonite lock, $300. Call 776-6799. (39-40)

by

1204 Moro 537-4708

Berlin Big Audio Dynamite Orchestral Maneuvers in the Dark New Order Howard Jones

THE SOUND SHOP In Aggieville

and More!

AT

COMMODORE 64-Disc drive, printer, monitor, and modem with various software and other hardware. Have all boxes and manuals, $750. Call Clay Walsten at 539-7561. (39-44)

FOR SALE: Two KSU-KU tickets. Call 776-2449. (39)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 69¢ 1/4 Hamburger

(with coupon) Exp. Date 10/19

537-3335

COLOR TV, Hitachi, 19", warranty, $150 or best offer Call Stuart at 537-0165 or 532-5123. (39-43)

10

13

SMALL GOLD bracelet found outside east door of Union. Has inscription inside. Can identify and claim in Kedzie Hall 103. (39-41)

HELP WANTED

FOUND

03

3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (26-64)

OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year around. Europe South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA. 92625. (27-46)

WORK STUDY student secretary. Accurate typing, clerical skills. Learn word processing, database programs. $3.50 plus depending on experience. See/call Pam, Center for Aging, Fairchild #1, 532-5945. (33-39)

MODELS NEEDED for drawing classes at KSU. Call 532-6605, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. (36-39)

WORK STUDY student secretary. Typing, word processing—also acts as department reception-ist. $3.50 plus, depending on experience. See/call Marjorie, Department of Management, 19 Calvin, 532-6296 (37-41)

5:30 p.m. days USD 383 not in session. Plan, prepare for, and lead indoor and outdoor activities. Su pervise aide. Closing date October 21. Send resume, three references to Esther Gray, Childcare Coop, L-9 Jardine, Manhattan. EOE. (39

TEMPORARY TEACHER needed for blocks of time November 24-28, December 15 thru January 15. En joyable indoor outdoor routine in attractive situation. Work in two teacher classroom with one other adult. Send resume and three references to Esther Gray, KSU Childcare Coop, L-9 Jardine, Manhattan

AIDES NEEDED for school age childcare when USD 383 not in session. Send resume and three refer ences to Esther Gray, KSU Childcare Coop, L-9 Jardine, Manhattan, EOE. (38-41) OVERSEAS JOBS. Also cruiseships, airlines, hotels.

$15,000-$89,000/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. OJ-1000. (38-44)

TEST SUBJECTS needed for thermal comfort research. Men and women ages 19-30. Must be native born U.S. citizen. Three test sessions approxi mately three hours each, $36. Apply at the Institute for Environmental Research in Seaton Hall. (39-40)

LOST 14

$25 REWARD for lost Kodak slide carousel with advertising slides in Union, Thursday, September 25. Call Student Publications Office, 532-6555. (37-39) TWO KEYS on leather piece with silver concho, lost last week, Call 539-7948, (37-39) $40 REWARD for lost mens class ring somewhere between Ford Hall and Ahearn. Was lost night of Midnight Madness. Call 532-3501. (38-40)

BLUE AND yellow quilt at tennis courts near Rec Center. Also metal bracelet. Call Sally, 776-8135.

LOST, BROWN wallet with student ID Meal Card, and Driver's Licence. Lost in front of Kedzie Hall or on campus Tuesday night. (38-39) LOST-RED framed prescription glasses between armhouse and AGR House. Reward! Call Kim at 537-3323. (39-41)

PERSONAL

PI-PHI's Jill C. and Patty N. Surprise! Don't close your eyes. You've actually got a Personal. Good, this should make you feel; 'cause you're getting the Full Meal Deal! The Whoppers (A.K.A. G&K).

TVD-YOU have helped me grow in ways I've never known, and all those new spaces within me are so full of love for you. Here's to six great months! Love always, RHN. (39)

KD SUSIE-Congratulations on being selected coordinator for the Human Ecology Open House.

YO' BRO', Abe-It's been great sharing these past 21 years with you. You are a one-in-a-million, and I love you. Happy Birthday. Love, Lis. (39)

TILLER ... YOU'RE the coolest pledge dad ever Have a great week-end! Love, Lunk. (39

TO THE Men of Theta Xi and Delta Tau Delta: You're the hottest men on campus . . the one's with all the zest! It's time to pump and party . . . so let's show 'em who's the best! The Women of Kappa Kappa Gamma. (39)

KSU FOOTBALL Team - Rock Chock Chicken Hawk! Beat KU! Women of Alpha Delta Pi. (39) AMY-THIS is a special day for a very special person

Have a great birthday! -Steve. (39) DU DATES Leanne and Lisa-Saturday-6:30, be there! Duckie love, Davey and Foz. (39) TRENT, DOUG, and Jeff-Thanks for accepting our invite, no strings attached, just fun tonight. 6:30 sharp, we won't be late, hope you enjoy our first tri-ple date. JLS, CBD, SKA. (39) TRI-SIGMA-Terri Wilson: I have a special friend.

that lives in a tin; and sometimes we share a special grin! Sigma love-your Pledge Mom. (39) CARRIE AND Annette: You got me up at six o'clock, banging on your pots. (39) G-PHI SHANNON -- You make a great dot, Welcome to the family! We'll make a great mom-dot combi nation. Love, Lori. (39) KAPPA KAPPA Gamma Pledge Sis Sarah-Birthday to one great friend! Eight days 'till the 70th where the fun will not end! Get psyched. KSU BAND-"Somewhere" there's a "Home on the Range" for the Pride to "Twist and Shout." "So-Use-A" bunch of spirit for Saturday's game (and get the company front straight because "I know K-Whooda" is sitting in the endzone). Awesome pregame, incredible halftime—we are "unbelievable." Get psyched! (39)

DEANN, THANKS for one great year. Happy Anniver sary. I love you. Fred. (39)

CLASS OF 1984 Manhattanites. We devastated the entire staff at MHS in 1984. Friday night, the 24th, we will reign again! See Announcements for more

STUDENTS OF KSU-Get involved this fall by beat ing KU in S.A.M.S. and football. See Announce

ACACIA LITTLE Sisters. Come Snap, Crackle, and Pop at the Rice Krispies and beer pre-game break fast. Come early. (39) THETA FOX: Today is the day as you'll soon see, from here on out it's you and me. Your Big Bro. (39) TRI-SIGS: Feeling sick? Having withdrawal symptoms? Admit yourselves to St. Pike's Memorial Hospital this afternoon. See ya there! (39)

SIGMA DARCY, I'm tired of poems so I won't fool around, when you become my dot we'll be the best team in town! Love, Mom. (39) SIGMA CHI Andy-Bottle and beer, hottub and fun. forever we'll be mother and son. Luv, Mom. (39)

SIGMA DOT Laurie: Getting to know you has really been fun, as pledge mom/pledge dot we'll be #1

BETA SIG Fred: Thank for a great year together. I love you. DeAnn. (39)

THETAS AND Sigma Nus: We've been working hard and having fun, get ready, there's more good times to come. When Homecoming '86 is over and done, KSU will know that black and gold is #1. Get psyched for an awesome week. Kathy and Patty.

CHI O-KAREN: Hope your 20th B-day is special! Let's have a good time Saturday night. You're the greatest. Love, DM. (39) TRUSIGMA KRISTINA: Just a mom you'll no longe be, 'cuz you'll soon receive the prestigious title of

TRI SIGMA Tiffany-Just a few more days without a clue, but here's a little one-I love you! Mom. (39)

TRI-SIGMA LOREN: Do you need another clue? Your sister is older too! Love, Mornmy (39) AD PI Lisa, Happy 21st! Have a good one! Love, Crystal, Sharla, and Tracey. (39)

KAPPA SIGMAS: Happy Birthday to Raiph T. Callucio, so loyal and so true, the Thetas are psyched to party with you! We'll celebrate in honor of our three-legged friend, so get out your party hats we'll see you then! (39) DU's-CONGRATULATIONS on your 13th Anniversary. From your new lil sis's, Kami and Sue. (39) TO THE foxy men of ATO—Roses are red, violets are blue; we love to pomp, especially with you. Swan nies in bed, are always fun; ATO and Tri Delts, we're number one. Love, the Tri Delts. (39) SAE KELLY-You're the best dad. I'm so glad you're mine! Love, your dot, Kelly. (39) TRI-SIGMA PLEDGES-Our waters broke, you're all on the way; I hope us moms, make it till delivery day. Sigma love, your Moms. (39) TRI SIGMA Katy: I've been told by some, you know who I am; but you're way off track, so guess again I'm so excited for you to know, 'cause us as mom and dot, will be quite a show. (39)

SAE KENT W .- I'm glad you're my dad! Love ya, Lisa

ARNOLD, THANKS for a great year! We've been through a lot, but it's been worth it. I'm looking forward to the future. Squig. (39)

HEY, BILLIE goat's gruff that's beamed up by Chuck we are looking great and it's more than luck. It's finally here, tomorrow is the day, so watch out K.U. is what we will say Thanks for the great times, and also the pain, I'll stunt with you anytime, even in rain. I know you're ready and I am to, so doodle dodle doo whatdoya wanna do? Love, your beamer, Up Chuck, (39)

ROOMMATE WANTED

VERY NICE two bedroom apartment, $100 rent. Stop lemont anytime after 1 p. Friday. (35-39) ROOMMATE FOR second semester, $125/month plus one-half KPL. Great location, fireplace, washer-dryer, two bedrooms 776-6803. (37-41)

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed, half block west of campus, apartment #1, 1829 College Heights. 776-4914. (38-40)

18

SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25, (1th)

MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% tragrance free. Clinically tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27th)

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes sionally written and printed Call 539-5007 (9tf) WORD PROCESSING and Laser Printing. Call 539-6774 after 5:30 p.m. (36-39)

WRITING A paper? Word processing, near letter quality, editing, reasonable rates. Laura, 532-2362 (#131), leave message. (36-40)

MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processor. 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, dissertations, manuscripts, term papers. (38-40) BABYSITTING, NORTHVIEW area. $1.25/hour. Any age, willing to fit schedule. Have references. Call 539-4905 (38-40)

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence, 913-841-5716, (39tf)

WELCOMES

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza. Church School 9:45 a.m.; Wo ship 8:30 and 11 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerleldt, 539-8685; Sue Amyx, 776-0025. Transportation to church - 776-8790 after 9 a.m. (39) CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m.

Evening Service, 6 p.m.; Prayer Service, Wednes day, 7 p.m. (39) ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod). Sun set and North Delaware welcomes students to ser vices: Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 8 and 10:45 a.m. Bible classes. 9:30 a.m. Sunday. (39)

TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN-Worship Service 10:45 a.m., Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office.

539-3921. (39) WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd. invites you to worship with them Sunday at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. Adult Sunday School Class meets 9:45 a.m. at the church office 2607 Allison. College Care Cell meets Saturday, 6:30 p.m., also Bible Study Tuesday evenings - contact 539-5369.

For any additional information, call 537-7173. (39) WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison

(the white building with the two red doors). (39) First United Methodist Church 612 Poyntz

8:45 a.m. Communion first Sunday of the month 9:45 a.n. Church School 8:45 a.m. & 11 a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services John D. Stoneking Pastor

WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church, 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Worship Service. 8:30 and 11 a.m. and Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Bob Burton teacher. Evening Service, 6 p.m. Horace Breisford. Pastor; Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565. For transportation daytime call 776-0424. (39) MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison.

Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.; Saturday evening at 5 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. (39) COLLEGE HEIGHTS Bantist Church SBC 2221 Col. lege Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. Sunday Worship, 8:15 and 11 a.m. Church Training,

6 p.m. Sunday. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service, 7 p.m. Phone: 537-7744. (39) FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz (537-8532). Welcome students to worship service at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (39)

ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church—6th and Poyntz. Communion is celebrated on Sunday at 8 a.m. (Rite I) and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call 776-9427. (39)

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-

ATTENTION-ANYONE interested in walking-on to COLLEGE REPUBLICANS-Meeting has been reunion. For more information, call Joanne W. 776-7352 or Judd A., 539-7561. (39)

Exp. Date 10/19 (with coupon) COME CELEBRATE Co-op Month with us. People's Grocery Co-op carries organic grains, Basmat rice, imported and domestic cheeses, organic cof fee, over 80 bulk herbs and spices, 40 different teas and much more from our latest shipment. Open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m., 811 Colorado. 539-

BUY ONE SET & GET SECOND SET 1/2 PRICE

327 Poyntz FAITH JOURNEY'S Series-Every Sunday. Baptist Campus Center, 1801 Anderson, 7 p.m. Hear Dr.

turnes. Also, new and used records, vintage clothing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49) COMPLETE YOUR classroom requirements in one day at the Little Apple Driving School. Call 539-

ENGLISH GRADUATES thinking of graduate school?

GOOD MORNING. I'M MILO.

MOMENT AND I THOUGHT

MANAGER. FIRST OFF ...

LET'S GET A SHORT

YOU MIGHT NEED A

"BIO" WRITTEN ...

YOU'RE VERY FAMOUS AT THE

Garfield TODAY I WILL DEMONSTRAT DEEP-KNEE-KRICKS

WHAT DO YOU THINK CHUCK? HUH? WHAT REACHED IS NO LONGER DO YOU THINK ?

eanuts

JPM DAV95 10-17

ACROSS

4 Rudiments

37 role piece valley

native

50 Dreadful

40 Past

41 Trial

48 Niger

1 Party

snack

8 Singer

Irene

item

14 "Family

Ties"

bird

17 Give in 18 Catty?

home

weather

character 15 Showy

12 Keats

13 Spoils

rossword 35 Work unit 53 "Monopoly" 11 Woodsman's 36 Allen's card 54 Bambi, e.g. 16 Running comedy 55 Envision partner "Sophie's DOWN Choice" 1 Cast aside 2 Unemployed 23 In prox-39 Put on 3 Ring out 4 Actress MacMahon. 45 Molecule et al. 5 Skeletal remains 6 Gear part

7 Straight

10-17

men

19 Ump's cry 51 Fencing 8 Desert Misersights weapon ables" 52 See 33 9 Porter 22 Foreigner, Across 10 Ablush in Latin Solution time: 24 mins America 26 Ranch attendees' 29 Actor Kingsley 30 - de Cologne 31 Wallet filling 32 Premium unleaded 33 Beastly 34 Be under

Yesterday's answer

20 Coffee dispenser 24 Make headway 25 Possessive pronoun 26 "____ - I say... 27 Single component 28 Sandwich shop 32 Tended the horses 33 "Mardi" 35 Omelet item 36 Edge 38 Christened 39 Gift recipient 42 Football players 43 Writer James 44 Solitary 45 Affix 46 Bind 47 Mine output

42 43 51 CRYPTOQUIP 10-17 EHXMZWI, MOTGWB GVW

SVHIEWB: RWEHT, KU ZHT XHSVKUW TZPG "G V H G SPKUKRWIPOT!"

Today's Cryptoquip clue: G equals T

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE TIMID ROBBER SAYS

HE'S RETIRING SOON: "I GOT ALARMED TOO EASILY."

Senate refuses Contra assistance report

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Senate refused Thursday to require President Reagan to provide a complete accounting of any U.S. support and encouragement of U.S. citizens providing private assistance to Nicaragua's Contra rebels.

This decision came after Republicans said the move was a partisan bid to embarass the White

"It's just another attempt to get at the president of the United States," said Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., shortly before the Senate defeated legislation requiring the report, 52-47.

The resolution was sponsored by Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, who said a report from the administration was essential to help Congress determine whether alleged government support for private aid efforts violated U.S.

"We've got to hold non-elected officials accountable as to whether they violated the law," Harkin said. Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., told the Senate that in light of recent events, including the downing of a C-123 cargo plane over Nicaragua on Oct. 5, "one may certainly draw inferences that the U.S. government is pursuing an illegal, hidden war not authorized by Congress."

Reagan administration officials have denied the government knew about or cooperated with the private effort to ship arms to the Contra counterrevolutionaries or that the supply effort represented by the downed aircraft was in any way a U.S. operation.

Harkin said the fact Congress now has approved $100 million to supply the Contras with weapons and logistical support "does not absolve the administration from having their feet held to the fire over the question of whether or not the laws were violated."

The Senate and House Intelligence and foreign affairs committee already have opened investigations into private aid efforts and the circumstances surrounding the flight of the downed plane and its crew. Mideast out against support of Israel. Oyer said, as Findley does in his book, that Findley's career as a congressman was reportedly crippled by the strength of the American Israeli lob-

Continued from Page 1

In closing her lecture, she advised the Arab students to encourage debate on the Middle East.

Correctly informing the American public in this area, she said, is a step toward the creation of peace-oriented U.S. policies.

Prepared

Courtesy patrols will be available throughout the Aggieville area to help in giving directions and other services to visitors. Aggieville merchants plan to be available and there will be student ambassadors, Mann

Continued from Page 1

"That event was not indicative of our student body," he said. "Students will be well-represented. I hope the pride of Kansas State University students will just flat not let the thing get out-of-hand."

'Living Bible' creator finds publishing success

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — What began as an effort to help his children understand the Bible has swept Kenneth N. Taylor to the top of a publishing domain that weaves new charm around the old book.

In fact, one widely winning model of it is simply called "The Book," endowing it with a note of singular ultimacy that in two years has led 2.5 million people to buy it.

But that come-on is only among a profusion of catchy innovations spun out by Tyndale House Publishers of Wheaton, Ill., to draw people into the world of Scriptures.

The enterprise started — scanty at first but now immense — with Taylor's lone but enormously captivating rendition, "The Living Bi-

Called a "thought-for-thought" paraphrasing to illuminate the often turgid "word-for-word" translations, Taylor's crisp, vivid rendering has sold a monumental 34 million copies since it was issued in 1971.

Its massive appeal, still fetching about 1.5 million buyers a year, laid the foundations of Tyndale House, a $20-million-a-year institution, publishing 75 new titles annually, about 500 so far.

"Finding ways to attract people to the Bible and get them interested in it is our mission in life," Taylor said in an interview.

Taylor, 69, a tall, slender Presbyterian with an elfin smile, said he feels God gives everyone particular abilities, and that he "gave me a special gift to do this Bible for the common people.'

Along with other Christian books, his company turns out a succession of fresh presentations of the Bible for young and old, in parts and whole, in games, cartoons, video, stereo and print, with inviting titles and format.

A recent number, "The One Year Bible," arranged in 365 daily, datelabeled readings, each combining passages from Old and New Testament, has sold 150,000 since release

By its system, you cover all the Bible in a year, at 10 minutes daily.

This month, a condensed Bible, shortened by about a third, was issued, called "The Story, From Adam to Armageddon," its sections given such provocative headings as "Hounded," "Cowardice," "Rivals," "The Lovers,"

"Rebellion" and "The Dreamer."

"The Story," like "The Book" uses the lucid, plainly conversational text of "The Living Bible," but instead of its standard chapter-and-verse format, lays out the content as in a novel.

His children — the Taylors have 10 — generated the entire operation in the first place as participants in daily family prayer and Bible reading. Their difficulty in understanding Scripture worried Taylor.

One night, pondering the problem, he said, "the Lord gave me an insight" to make the meaning plain, unbound to literal wording. He tried it on a few verses of 2nd Timothy.

"Lo and behold, they understood it and were able to answer questions about it," he related.

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS!! ALL ITEMS 50% OFF AND MORE! FOUNTAIN YOUTH OPEN MON.-Sat. FirstBank Center 11-7 Upstairs

Auntie lae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE
FRIDAY
VODKA
DRINKS
$1.50

75¢ Free

Hors D'oeuvres

DRAWS

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE SATURDAY

* Open at 9 a.m. for the game

TONIC DRINKS $1.50 SCHNAPPS $1.00

616 N.12th 539-9967

BIKE SALE

Year end close out of

1986 Raleigh Bikes Save $20 to $50

on a New Raleigh Bike Sale through Oct. 31

GREEN

Open Monday thru Saturday 8 to 5:30 Sunday Noon to 5

105 Waters 7HUMB

** ** ** **

One of the year's best films.

Haunting and erotic." —Gene Siskel. CHICAGO TRIBUNE

"Brilliant!" -Marilyn Beck, CHICAGO TRIBUNE SYNDICATE

"William Hurt's sexual chemistry produces the beat ... Marlee Matlin's debut is a victory." —Bruce Williamson, PLAYBOY MAGAZINE

"One of the Best Films of 1986...
The most extraordinary love story in many years...

rich and profoundly moving. ?? - Michael Medved. SNEAK PREVIEWS

"Marlee Matlin in a knock-out screen debut. A deeply romantic...

and sexy love story. ?? —Peter Travers, PEOPLE MAGAZINE

WILLIAM HURT · MARLEE MATLIN

PARAMOUNT PICTURES PRESENTS A BURT SUGARMAN PRODUCTION
A RANDA HAINES FILM CHILDREN OF A LESSER GOD PIPER LAURIE · PHILIP BOSCO
Screenplay by HESPER ANDERSON and MARK MEDOFF Based on the Stage Play by MARK MEDOFF Produced by BURT SUGARMAN and PATRICK PALMER Directed by RANDA HAINES

RESTRICTED SP
UNDER 17 REQUIRES ACCOMPANYING PARENT OR ADULT GUARDIAN

PYRIGHT © 1986 BY PARAMOUNT PICTURES CORPORATION, ALL RIGHTS RESERVED. INDA HAINES

NOW PLAYING AT A THEATRE NEAR YOU.

Everyone's Invited!

Groundbreaking for the Fred Bramlage Coliseum will be Saturday, October 18 at 10 a.m. south of KSU stadium.

The Coliseum Program Committee cordially invites all students, faculty and staff.

Start the day
with celebration
and a burst of Wildcat Pride!

(Rain Plan . . . Brandeberry Building)

Beat K.U. Beat K.U.

Inside

Gospel Singing

The United Black Voices presents the second annual 'Gospel Extravaganza' on Sunday in Union Forum Hall. See Page 6.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Increasing cloudiness today. High around 70. Southeast wind 10 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Smiling Stan

Stan Parrish is a happy man as K-State pulls off a victory against the University of Kansas football team. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Monday

October 20, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 40

acker

hat

ting

ties o of-old,

ear-ding

hats

it so

and who ball

n to near 3lue-

Ag-

ot."

dealt rtain

is, he

v bid

: the

1 had ed by arson

r the im-

ionds

ation

erest

t and

s ap-

nary

or a ear.

ıdget

ment

ract

inson

ecept

This

ge 12

the

Aggie crowds cause severe damage

Owners pick up pieces from horde's rampage

By LILLIAN ZIER Editorial Page Editor

One K-State student and four University of Kansas students were among the 10 arrests Saturday night in Aggieville following K-State's football victory over the Kansas Jayhawks.

The arrests were made on charges of felony burglary, felony damage to property and several misdemeanors.

A crowd estimated at 4,000-6,000 by the Riley County Police Department threw bottles, br dows, and chant other profanities ple also rele substance resem 1. 2 streets in Aggiev A Fort Riley canister and w was apprehende turned over t military police. Fort Riley Poli the man had s happened to ha him. The man was released.

'Part of w trying to was accom

A juvenile as felony criminal to the building . the Varsity The

A car parked was overturned a.m. Sunday. T' Manhattan r. Robarn, said sl her 1968 Volksv crowd from re crowd then bega Burn it!" Robai the vacinity wa rolled her car a Alvan Johns RCPD, said 15 made in connec Aggieville. Th crowd began to a.m. Sunday.

An Associate that law enforce photographs an

Sov Rea

By The MOSCOW expelled fit Sunday, five 25 Soviet U. of the Un home.

A Kremlii pulsions to the Soviet Washington George Shul protest and tion." Sunday's diplomats it Leningrad v official new in a brief r Ministry d engaged in tivities," a pionage. The five a U.S. consul four diplom bassy in N ville, a fir Ehrenfried, attaches David Harr to tape the activity.

Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association, said no damage estimate was available. Nearly every business on Moro Street, the main thoroughfare through Aggieville, sustained broken or cracked windows and broken

Aggieville merchants and city officials spent the entire night in Aggieville cleaning up glass and replacing windows. The last window that needed immediate replacement was

The United Black Voices presents the second annual "Gospel Extravaganza" on Sunday in Union Forum Hall. See Page 6.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Increasing cloudiness today. High around 70. Southeast wind 10 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Smiling Stan

Stan Parrish is a happy man as K-State pulls off a victory against the University of Kansas football team. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Monday October 20, 1986

Volume 93. Number 40

hat

ting

eties

o of-old,

ear-

hats

it so

and who

ball

n to near 3lue-

Ag-

ot."

dealt rtain

is, he

v bid

: the

1 had

ed by arson

r the im-

onds

ation

erest

t and

s ap-

nary

or a ear.

idget

ment

ract

inson

ecept

This

ge 12

539-1533

the

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Aggie crowds cause severe damage

Owners pick up pieces from horde's rampage

By LILLIAN ZIER Editorial Page Editor

One K-State student and four University of Kansas students were among the 10 arrests Saturday night in Aggieville following K-State's football victory over the Kansas Jayhawks.

The arrests were made on charges of felony burglary, felony damage to property and several misdemeanors. A crowd estimated at 4 non-s non ho

the Riley County Polia threw bottles, br dows, and chante other profanities ple also rele substance resem! streets in Aggiev

A Fort Riley canister and we was apprehende turned over to military police. Fort Riley Police the man had st happened to hav him. The man was released.

'Part of w trying to was accom

A juvenile ar felony criminal to the building fo the Varsity Thea

A car parked i was overturned a a.m. Sunday. Tl Manhattan re Robarn, said sh her 1968 Volksw crowd from ro crowd then bega Burn it!" Robar the vacinity wa rolled her car as Alvan Johnso RCPD, said 15 made in connect Aggieville. The crowd began to a.m. Sunday.

An Associated that law enforc photographs and

Sov. Rea;

By The MOSCOW expelled fiv Sunday, five 25 Soviet U. of the Uni home.

A Kremlin pulsions to t the Soviet Washington, George Shult protest and tion." Sunday's diplomats ir Leningrad w official news in a brief r€ Ministry d engaged in tivities." a pionage. The five a U.S. consula four diploma bassy in M ville, a firs Ehrenfried. attaches G David Harri

to tape the activity.

Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association, said no damage estimate was available. Nearly every business on Moro Street, the main thoroughfare through Aggieville, sustained broken or cracked windows and broken

Aggieville merchants and city officials spent the entire night in Aggieville cleaning up glass and replacing windows. The last window that

Friday, October 17, 1986

Tolovicion Indov

| Television inc | lex |
|----------------|----------|
| Manhatt | an Cable |
| KSNT (NBC) | 7 |
| WIBW (CBS) | 3 |
| KLDH (ABC) | 2 |
| KSHB (IND) | 8 |
| KTWU (PBS) | 11 |
| WGN (IND) | 10 |
| WTBS (IND) | 12 |
| Premium cable: | |
| HBO, Showtime, | |

CINEMAX, ESPN Additional cable channels not listed in guide: Manhattan cable channels 4 (NBC), 5 (CBS) and 9 (ABC) correspond to channels 7, 3 and 2, respectively.

Fntertainment

EDITOR Chris Stewart ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR Laurie Fairburn PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER

Patti Hannan GRAPHIC ARTIST Carlos Corredor

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1986

SATURDAY OCTOBER 18 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | НВО | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|----------------------------|----------------------------|-----------------------------|------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------------|---------------------------|---------------------------|------------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Dune" | Les
Miserables | Movie:
"Time Bomb" | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 | 11 | : | 34 | GoBots Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | " | Duffy Moon | " | SpeedWeek
Golf |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"The Clock" | Movie: | Movie:
"Tennessee | Movie:
"Dallas" | Hall of Fame |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | " | "The Corn Is
Green" | Champ"
Movie: |  | Play Golf
SportsLook |
| 11:00 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Society
Society | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Places In The | "Garbo Talks" | Movie Show | Aerobics
Running |
| 12:30 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"The Stranger | Heart" | Movie: | Movie:
"Platinum | America's
Cup |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To
Live | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Mystery! | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Within"
WomanWatch | Movie:
"The Great | "Victory" | Blonde"
MaxTrax | PGA Golf
Disney World |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Kitchen
Painting | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Muppet
Caper" | Ounce Of Cure | Movie:
"Ghost- | Classic |
| 3:00 | Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | To Climb
Movie: | Les
Miserables | busters" | Baseball's
Greatest Hits |
| A:00 | Diff. Strokes | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Rocky Road
Safe At Home | "The Razor's
Edge" | The Late Great | Real Buddy
Holly Story | Baseball's
Greatest Hits |
| 5:00 | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Hillbillies | 11 | Me | "Remo
Williams: The | SportsLook
Outdoors |
| | News
Wheel Fortune | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Inside The
NFL | Movie:
"Garbo Talks" | Adventure
Begins" | SportsCenter
Wrestling |
| 7:00 | Issues | Scarecrow
And Mrs. King | Webster
Mr. Belvedere | Barnaby Jones | Wash. Week
Wall St. Wk. | Movie:
"Come Back, | Movie:
"World War | Robin Williams
At The Met | 11 | Movie:
"Skyhigh" | Harness |
| 8:00 | Miami Vice | Dallas | SI. Hammer
Sidekicks | Movie:
"Islands In | Louis
Rukeyser | Charleston
Blue" | III" " | Movie:
"Lifeforce" | Boxing
Thomas | | Top Rank
Boxing |
| 9:00 | L.A. Law | Falcon Crest | Starman | The Stream" | Innovation
Market | News | Bonanza | " | Hearns vs.
Doug DeWitt | Movie Show | Henry
Tillman vs. |
| 10:00 | News
Tonight | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | Night Tracks -
Power Play | Movie:
"Dune" | Movie: | Movie:
"Jagged | Tyrone Booze
SportsCenter |
| 4 4:00 | Rock 'N Roll | Lifestyles | Movie:
"Defection Of | News
Movie: | Ctry. Express | Movie: | Night Tracks | | "Compromising | Edge" | NFL Game
Joe DiMaggio |
| 10:00 | Evening News
Gene Scott | Be Thinner
CHiPs | Simas
Kudirka'' | "To Have And
Have Not" | | "Dracula A.D.
1972" | Night Tracks | Weird Tales | Positions"
Movie | "French
Woman" | Fishing
Running |

On Our Cover

Scott Kelly, senior in theater works on changing lighting filters on one of the many banks of light that will be used for the production of "OKLAHOMA!." Kelly is one of many technicians working behind the scenes in the musical, which opens at 8 p.m. Thursday in Mc-Cain Auditorium. Story on Page 4

Photo by Gary Lytle

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|---------------------------|--------------------------------|---------------------------------|-----------------------------|------------------------------|-----------------------------|-------------------------------|----------------------------|-----------------------------|--------------------------|----------------------------|
| 7:00 | Kissyfur
Gummi Bears | B'stain Bears
Wildfire | Wuzzles
Care Bears | Tom And Jerry
Kideo TV | Algebra | Farm Report
World Tom. | Wrestling | Movie:
"Door To | "Devil And
Daniel | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Play Golf
Harness |
| 8:00 | Smurfs | Muppets | Flintstone
Kids | " " | Photo Vision
Photo Vision | Charlando
Business | National
Geographic | Door" | Webster"
Movie: | "Better Off
Dead" | Fishing Fishing |
| 9:00 | P. Brewster | Galaxy High
Teen Wolf | Ghostbusters
Pd. Puppies | Bugs Bunny
And Porky Pig | S. Previews
Old House | People
Wild Kingdom | Explorer | Inside The
NFL | "Two Loves" | M. Headroom | Running
Powerboat |
| 10:00 | Chipmunks
Universe | Playhouse
Circus | Bugs Bunny
New Ewoks | Puttin' On | Motorweek
Dr. Marc | Photon
Transformers | Cimarron Strip | Lionel Richie
"Remo | Movie: | Movie:
"Morons From | Racing
Superstars |
| 1 1:00 | Locker Room
College | Hulk Hogan | Weekend
Littles | Lifestyles | Painting
Vict. Garden | Jem
College | College | Williams: The
Adventure | "Rustlers"
Rhapsody" | Outer Space"
Movie: | SpoCtr.
Women's |
| 12:00 | Football
Kansas at | News
Be Thinner | Bandstand
Rifleman | Lost In Space | Sesame Street | Football
Air Force at | Football
Vanderbilt at | Begins"
Movie: | Movie:
"The | "A Raisin In
The Sun" | Bowling
Pro Tour |
| 1:00 | Kansas State | Pvt. Benjamin
College | Kung Fu | Incredible
Hulk | Write Course
Write Course | Notre Dame | Georgia | "Oh God! You
Devil" | Candidate" | n | PGA Golf
Disney World |
| 2:00 | Spts. Legend | Football
lowa at | Pregame
College | Bionic Woman | Society
Society | Twilight Zone | | Movie: | Boxing
Thomas | Movie:
"The Bedford | Classic |
| 3:30 | Muppets
Ninth Crusade | Michigan | Football
Alabama at | Battlestar
Galactica | Psychology
Psychology | Soul Train | Bonanza | "Maxie" | Hearns vs.
Doug DeWitt | Incident" | Horse Racin
Maryland |
| A:00 | Generation
Men Of Oct. | " | Tennessee | Buck Rogers | Congress
Congress | Puttin' On
Good Times | O. Wilson
Motorweek | Lionel Richie | Movie: | Movie:
"Trancers" | Millions |
| E:00 | Wheel Fortune
NBC News | Own Backyard
CBS News | 16 | Black Sheep
Squadron | Hell On Border
Animals | It's A Living
Big Family | Wrestling | Movie:
"City Heat" | "The Grey
Fox" | Movie: | Magic Years
Scholastic |
| 6:00 | Hee Haw | Mama's Family
Country Music | Buddies
9 To 5 | Throb
Big Family | Creatures
Great & Small | Country
At The Movies | College
Football |  | Huey Lewis •
Movie: | "Cat's Eye" | F'ball Scores
College |
| 7:00 | World Series
R. Sox or | Downtown | Life With Lucy
Ellen Burstyn | Lifestyles | WndrWks. | Movie:
"Sirocco" | Ohio State at
Purdue | "Remo
Williams: The | "Rustlers'
Rhapsody" | Movie:
"Better Off | Football
Teams to be |
| 8:00 | Angels at
Astros or | New Mike
Hammer | Heart Of The
City | Movie:
"Western | Austin City
Limits | · · | 11 | Adventure
Begins" | Movie:
"Silver Bullet" | Dead" | announced |
| | Mets | Twilight Zone | Spenser: For Hire | Union" | Special Oper. | News | Sanford | All-Star Rock
Concert | Movie: | Movie:
"Beer" | 11 |
| 10:00 | News
Siskel & Ebert | News
Solid Gold | Taxi
Movie: | M.T. Moore
Movie: | I, Claudius | Write Songs
Lifestyles | Night Tracks:
Chartbusters | Movie:
"Bachelor | "An American
Werewolf In | Movie: | F'ball Rpt.
SportsCente |
| 4 4:00 | Saturday
Night Live | It's A Living | "Night Of The Juggler" | "The Visitor" | Ferlinghetti's | Police Story | Night Tracks | Party" | London"
Movie | "Trancers" | Wrestling |
| 10:00 | MTV Top 20 | At The Movies
News | Rifleman | Solid Gold | | Twilight Zone | Night Tracks | "Thunder
Alley" | Huey Lewis | "Perfect
Timing" | College
Football |

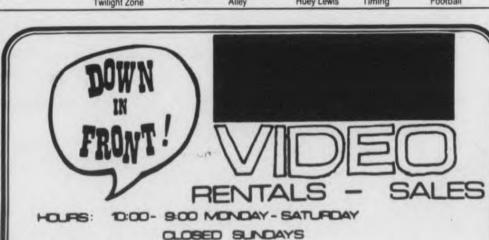

"Pluck K.U. Special" 9 PIECES

ONLY $7.29 *Great for tailgate parties or post-game celebrations! 3002 Anderson Expires 10-30-86

2030 TUTTLEOFEEK BLVD

The United Black Voices presents the second annual "Gospel Extravaganza" on Sunday in Union Forum Hall. See Page 6.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Increasing cloudiness today. High around 70. Southeast wind 10 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Smiling Stan

Stan Parrish is a happy man as K-State pulls off a victory against the University of Kansas football team. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Collegian Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Monday

October 20, 1986

Volume 93, Number 40

Kansas State University

Aggie crowds cause severe damage

Owners pick up pieces from horde's rampage

By LILLIAN ZIER Editorial Page Editor

One K-State student and four University of Kansas students were among the 10 arrests Saturday night in Aggieville following K-State's football victory over the Kansas Jayhawks.

The arrests were made on charges of felony burglary, felony damage to property and several misdemeanors.

A crowd estimated at 4,000-6,000 by the Riley County Police Department threw bottles, br dows, and chante other profanities ple also rele substance resemi

A Fort Riley canister and we was apprehende turned over to military police. Fort Riley Polic the man had so happened to have him. The man was released.

Part of w trying to was accom

A juvenile ar felony criminal to the building for the Varsity Thea A car parked i was overturned a a.m. Sunday. The Manhattan re Robarn, said she her 1968 Volksw crowd from ro crowd then bega Burn it!" Robar the vacinity wa rolled her car as Alvan Johnst RCPD, said 15 made in connect Aggieville. The crowd began to a.m. Sunday.

An Associated that law enforce photographs and

Sov^{*} Rea;

By The MOSCOW
expelled fiv
Sunday, five 25 Soviet U.)
of the Uni
home.

A Kremlin pulsions to t the Soviet Washington, George Shull protest and tion."

Sunday's diplomats ir Leningrad w official news in a brief re Ministry deengaged in tivities," a pionage.

The five as U.S. consula four diploma bassy in M ville, a fire Ehrenfried, attaches G
David Harri

to tape the activity.

Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association, said no damage estimate was available. Nearly every business on Moro Street, the main thoroughfare through Aggieville, sustained broken or cracked windows and broken signs.

Aggieville merchants and city officials spent the entire night in Aggieville cleaning up glass and replacing windows. The last window that needed immediate replacement was

A P R DO ROSSING

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|-------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|---------------------------------|------------------------------|---------------------------------|-------------------------------|------------------------------|---------------------------|----------------------------|-----------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 7:00 | J. Kennedy | Jerry Falwell | Jimmy
Swaggart | Superfriends
Superfriends | Algebra | R. Schuller
Of Faith | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Movie:
"Teen Wolf" | "Whistle Down
The Wind" | "Cannery
Row" Cont'd | College
Football |
| 8:00 | L. Lundstrom
Robert | Discovery
Truth | Kenneth
Copeland | Wrestling | Sesame Street | Sunday Mass
Superman | Cont'd
Andy Griffith | Fraggle Rock | Tall Tales &
Legends | Movie Show | Fishin' Hole |
| 9:00 | Schuller
Jimmy | Oral Roberts
Larry Jones | It Is Written
David Brinkley | Wild, Wild
West | Mister Rogers
Special | Cisco Kid
Lone Ranger | Good News
Movie: | Movie:
"Heidi" | Movie:
"My Science | Movie:
"To Sir With | Scholastic
SportsCenter |
| 10:00 | Swaggart
World Tom. | Sunday
Morning | Be Thinner | Maverick | Sesame Street | Rawhide | "Big Jake" | | Project" | Love" | Sunday
SportsCenter |
| 11:00 | | NFL Today | Wrestling | Star Trek | Reading
Secret City | Wild, Wild
West | Auto Racing | Movie:
"Rhinestone" | Paper Chase | Movie:
"Victory" | Sunday
NFL Game |
| 12:00 | NFL Football
Regional | NFL Football
Chicago | Movie:
"The Ice | Movie:
"Tarzan And | Wash. Week
Wall St. Wk. | "Charlie Chan
At Treasure | American
500 | : | Movie:
"Texas | " | Auto Racing
Spa 1000 |
| 1:00 | coverage | Bears at
Minnesota | Pirates" | The
She-Devil'' | Money World
Vintage Years | Island"
Movie: | " | Movie:
"The Heavenly | Carnival"
Movie: | Movie:
"The | PGA Golf
Disney World |
| 2:30 | " | Vikings | Kung Fu | Movie:
"Ma And Pa | Shakespeare
Hour | "Smoky" | ,, | Kid"
Not News | "Streets Of
Fire" | Philadelphia
Experiment" | Classic |
| 3:00 | P-80 Products
Movie: | N#L Football
New York | Movie:
"Mr. Music" | Kettle At The Fair" | Firing Line | Movie: | "Living Proof: | Movie:
"Advice To | Movie:
"Victory" | Movie:
"The Opposite | Auto Racing
Amer. Series |
| 4:00 | "The Absent-
Minded | Giants at
Seattle | " | Movie:
"Sitting | Dropouts
Espanol | "The War Of
The Worlds" | The Hank
Williams Jr. | The Lovelorn" | " | Sex" | Auto Racing
CART |
| 5:00 | Professor"
NBC News | Seahawks | Fame | Pretty." | The Africans | Fame | Story"
New Beaver | Fraggle Rock
Movie: | Movie:
"My Science | Movie:
"Starman" | Phoenix 200 |
| 6:00 | Our House | 60 Minutes | Movie:
"The Richest | Solid Gold | Wild America
Nature Profiles | Second | Wrestling | "Teen Wolf" | Project" | | SportsCenter
Moments |
| | World Series
R. Sox or | Murder, She
Wrote | Cat In The
World" | New Gidget
It's A Living | Nature | Annual Gospel
Music Awards | National
Geographic | Movie:
"Jagged | Movie:
"Year Of The | Movie:
"Wild Geese | Wrestling |
| | Angels at
Astros or | Movie:
"Of Pure | Movie:
"The | Ted Knight
Check It Out! | Masterpiece
Theatre | Odd Couple | Explorer | Edge" | Dragon" | II" | " |
| 9:00 | Mets | Blood" | Canterville
Ghost" | Tales
Write Songs | The Paratores | News | Sports Page
Jerry Falwell | Verdict: The Wrong Man | Brothers | Movie:
"Victory" | Billiards
World Open |
| 10:00 | News
Throb | News
Big Family | Taxi
Football | Mama's Family
Movie: | Movie:
"Copacabana" | Tales
Lou Grant | J. Ankerberg | Not News
Movie: | G. Shandling
Movie: | " | SportsCenter |
| | Stan Parrish
Community | Business Day
Review | Mannix | "Smoky" | " | Fame | Jimmy
Swaggart | "The Heavenly Kid" | "Streets Of Fire" | Movie:
"Pale Rider" | NFL's Greates
Moments |
| 12:00 | Gene Scott | | Fame | " | | Cannon | World Tom.
Larry Jones | Movie:
"Losin' It" | Movie:
"Creator" | " | Tennis |

MONDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|----------------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------|------------------------|------------------------------|----------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Reno And | Elton John
Cont'd | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 | " " | | " | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | The Doc"
Movie: | Paul's Case | "Avalanche" | PGA Golf
Disney World |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Be Thinner
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"Reunion" | "The Aviator" | Movie:
"Cimarron" | Movie:
"Kind Hearts | Classic |
| 10:30 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | " | Movie Makers |  | And Coronets" | Play Golf
SportsLook |
| 11:00 | | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Congress
Algebra | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Lies My | Movie:
"Love With A | Movie:
"Cry Rape!" | Aerobics
1985 Steelers |
| 12:30 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"Five Million | Father Told
Me" | Perfect
Stranger" | Movie: | College
Football |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To
Live | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Nature | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Years To
Earth" | Movie:
"Royal | Movie:
"Red Dawn" | "Old Enough" | Teams to be announced |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Wildlife
McLaughlin | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Wedding"
Savage And | " | "Hollywood
Ghost Stories" | : |
| 3:00 | Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurts | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Beautiful | Meet The
Wombles | Movie:
"2010" | Wrestling |
| 4:00 | Diff. Strokes
Facts Of Life | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Beaver | Seventeen
Movie: | Red Hawk | " | Cup
Sports |
| 5:00 | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | New Beaver
Down To Earth | "Sphinx" | Elton John
Breaking | Movie: | SportsLook
Outdoors |
| 6:00 | News
Wheel Fortune | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Fraggle Rock | Hearts Tour | "The Spiral
Staircase" | SportsCenter
NFL Films |
| 7:00 | ALF
Amaz. Stories | Kate & Allie
My Sister Sam | MacGyver | Barnaby Jones | Universe
Changed | Movie:
"Man And | Movie:
"Marriage On | All The Rivers
Run | Elayne Boosler | Movie:
"A View To A | Magic Years
NFL Matchup |
| 8:00 | Movie:
"An Officer | Newhart
D. Women | NFL Football
Denver | Tales From
The Darkside | West Of The Imagination | Boy" | The Rocks" | " | Movie:
"Love With A | Kill" | Truck And
Tractor Pull |
| 9:00 | And A
Gentleman" | Cagney &
Lacey | Broncos at
New York | Special | Story Of
English | News | Movie: | Movie:
"Agnes Of | Perfect
Stranger" | M. Headroom | NAKC Karate
America's |
| 10:00 | News | News
Dating Game | Jets | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | "Viva Las
Vegas" | God" | Movie:
"Invasion | Movie:
"Beer" | Cup
SportsCenter |
| 4 4:00 | Best Of
Carson | Night Heat | Football
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | J. McLaughlin | Movie: |
National | Movie Makers
Movie: | U.S.A." | Movie: | Soccer
FIFA World |
| 12:00 | David
Letterman | "Take Your
Best Shot" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "Reflections In
A Golden Eye" | Geographic
Explorer | "Stripes" | "Altered
States" | "Skyhigh" | All-Star
Game |

Friday, October 17, 1986

Film Review

A horror film without fear or a purpose

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

In the past, director Wes Craven has fashioned some genuinely scary movies — most notably "The Hills Have Eyes" and "Nightmare on Elm Street" — but his newest film, "Deadly Friend," is possibly the lamest movie he has ever made.

Craven's best films have preyed upon real fears that we all have — the fear of nightmares or the fear of being stranded in a hostile environment — but the horror in "Deadly Friend" lacks any real basis.

It's the story of a boy genius — a computer whiz — who befriends the girl next door, only to find out her father is so protective he hardly ever lets her out of the house. So far the story sounds promising: Is the father really just being protective or does he know something about his daughter that we don't know? But any suspense built here is soon destroyed once her father beats her to death.

So what does our boy genius do? He steals her body from the hospital autopsy room (yes, you're reading me right) and implants a computer brain into her own, bringing her inert body back to life.

The problem with this whole episode is simple: The movie never makes it clear that the boy genius is so without friends that he needs to bring a friend back from the dead.

To make matters worse yet, the computer brain came from the boy's robot, a robot that was slightly demented and incredibly obnoxious.

But once the computer brain melds with the girl's own, watch out, because this girl/robot carries a mean grudge.

It's very difficult to feel any sympathy for this creation, though, especially once it starts taking revenge. There isn't enough of the girl's personality left for her to still seem human. She's just a body motivated by a computer.

And as Boris Karloff showed in "Frankenstein," sympathy for the monster is all important.

Lee's Western Wear

Rigid & Pre-washed (sherpa, lined & unlined)

10% off

(with coupon) located 21/2 miles east on Hwy. 24

776-6715

Good through 10-25-86

2 A.M.

expires 10-22-86

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK

with the purchase of any sub 12th & Moro—Aggieville

void with other offers dealt rtain is, he v bid the icker

hat

ting

ties

o of-old,

ear-

ding

hats

it so

and who

ball

n to near 3lue-

Ag-

ot."

e 11

the had ed by arson

imonds ation erest t and > apnary or a the ear. idget ment ract

ract inson ccept This

ge 12

The United Black Voices presents the second annual "Gospel Extravaganza" on Sunday in Union Forum Hall. See Page 6.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Increasing cloudiness today. High around 70. Southeast wind 10 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Smiling Stan

Stan Parrish is a happy man as K-State pulls off a victory against the University of Kansas football team. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Monday October 20, 1986

Volume 93, Number 40

Kansas State University

Aggie crowds cause severe damage

Owners pick up pieces from horde's rampage

By LILLIAN ZIER Editorial Page Editor

One K-State student and four University of Kansas students were among the 10 arrests Saturday night in Aggieville following K-State's football victory over the Kansas Jayhawks.

The arrests were made on charges of felony burglary, felony damage to property and several misdemeanors. A crowd estimated at 4,000-6,000 by the Riley County Police Department threw bottles, brok

dows, and chanted other profanities. ple also releas substance resembli streets in Aggieville

A Fort Riley canister and wear was apprehended I turned over to military police. A Fort Riley Police the man had sme happened to have him. The man was was released.

'Part of wha trying to was accompl

A juvenile arres felony criminal dar to the building form the Varsity Theatre

A car parked in fr was overturned and a.m. Sunday. The o Manhattan resid Robarn, said she ca her 1968 Volkswage crowd from rolling crowd then began ch Burn it!" Robarn sa the vacinity watchi rolled her car and s

Alvan Johnson, RCPD, said 15 to made in connection Aggieville. The m crowd began to disp a.m. Sunday.

An Associated Pr that law enforceme photographs and use

Sovie Reage

By The Asso

MOSCOW - 7 expelled five U. Sunday, five days 25 Soviet U.N. en of the United home.

A Kremlin offic pulsions to the U the Soviet U.N. Washington, Sec George Shultz res protest and we w tion."

Sunday's expt diplomats in Mor Leningrad were a official news ager in a brief report Ministry determ engaged in "im tivities," a catch pionage. The five are Jac U.S. consulate in four diplomats fro bassy in Moscow ville, a first sec Ehrenfried, a third attaches Gary David Harris.

to tape the activity.

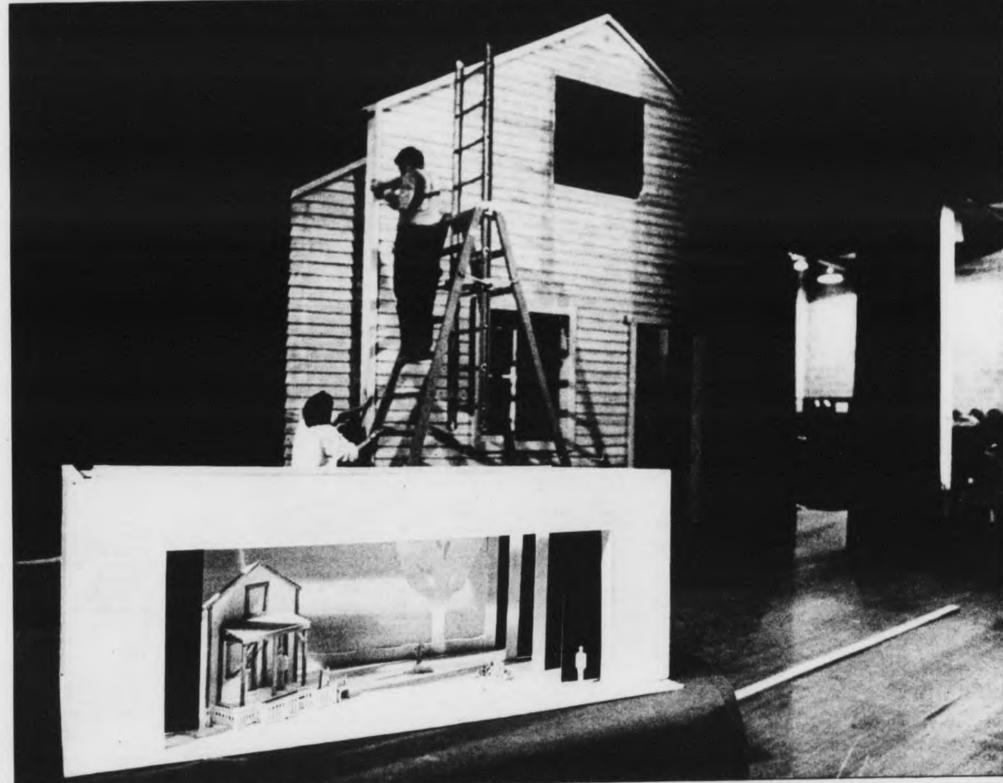

Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association, said no damage estimate was available. Nearly every business on Moro Street, the main thoroughfare through Aggieville, sustained broken or cracked windows and broken

Aggieville merchants and city officials spent the entire night in Aggieville cleaning up glass and replacing windows. The last window that needed immediate replacement was

Friday, October 17, 1986

Behind the scenes of OKLAHOMA!

put the trim on one of the set pieces. The model of the set, foreground, is used by the set pieces are in place.

Scene shop manager David Burris, on ladder, and Scott Kelly, senior in theater, work to director and actors to get a three-dimensional view of how the stage will look once all the hether the completed work is a painting, novel or sculpture, many people often look at artwork and wonder what processes the artist went through to achieve that final art form.

Contrarily, an audience may watch a play or musical production and not appreciate the backstage artistry that, combined with the music and actors, makes the production itself an artwork - a finished product in which mental and physical processes began long before actors were chosen and rehearsals began.

In less than a week, audiences will take their seats to watch the K-State Players production of the musical "OKLAHOMA!" Artistic thoughts and processes for the musical actually began months ago, John Uthoff, associate professor of speech and technical director for the production,

"The actual design work for the production began last spring, when Al Sheffield (assistant professor of speech) came up with some preliminary sketches for the set. Later he completed draftings for the sets and that's where my job comes in," Uthoff said. "As technical director, it's my responsibility to see that the actual construction of the set is completed on time and that the scenery, lights and props all After the draftings for the set are complete, Uthoff must price the materials required to see if they will work under the allowed budget and adjust accordingly. Most materials for productions come from local vendors, but occasionally special supplies are required and must be ordered from out of state companies.

"We usually get our lumber, pipes and steel from here, but we get things like muslin from New York, because its cheaper, and we have to get a special kind of builder's glue from Omaha because that's the only place you can get it," Uthoff said. Other unusual things, like the plastic vines in this production, often have to be sought out from specialty companies in other states, he said. Uthoff said the actual building of the "OKLAHOMA!" set began the second week of school, after the shop was cleaned and volunteers and students in technical production classes were assembled to begin Sheffield, set designer for 'OKLAHOMA!,' described how his work for the production began.

cept țe 12

ting

ties

oof-

old,

ear-

hats

t so

and who ball

1 to near

e 11

rtain

s, he

v bid

the ı had d by rson

r the onds

ation

erest

and

ap-

nary

or a ear.

dget

ment

ract

nson

the

The United Black Voices presents the second annual "Gospel Extravaganza" on Sunday in Union Forum Hall. See Page 6.

Partly Cloudy

Increasing cloudiness today. High around 70. Southeast wind 10 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Topeka KS

Smiling Stan

66612

Stan Parrish is a happy man as K-State pulls off a victory against the University of Kansas football team. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Monday

October 20, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 40

Aggie crowds cause severe damage

Owners pick up pieces from horde's rampage

By LILLIAN ZIER Editorial Page Editor

One K-State student and four University of Kansas students were among the 10 arrests Saturday night in Aggieville following K-State's football victory over the Kansas Jayhawks.

The arrests were made on charges of felony burglary, felony damage to property and several misdemeanors.

A crowd estimated at 4,000-6,000 by the Riley County Police Department threw bottles, brok dows, and chanted other profanities. ple also releas substance resembli streets in Aggievill A Fort Riley canister and wear was apprehended I turned over to military police. A Fort Riley Police the man had sme happened to have him. The man was was released.

'Part of wha trying to was accompl

A juvenile arres felony criminal dar. to the building form the Varsity Theatre

A car parked in fr was overturned and a.m. Sunday. The o Manhattan resid Robarn, said she c her 1968 Volkswage crowd from rollin; crowd then began ch Burn it!" Robarn sa the vacinity watchi rolled her car and s

Alvan Johnson, RCPD, said 15 to made in connection Aggieville. The m crowd began to dist a.m. Sunday.

An Associated Pr that law enforceme photographs and use

Sovie Reagu

By The Asso MOSCOW - 7 expelled five U. Sunday, five days 25 Soviet U.N. en of the United home.

A Kremlin offic pulsions to the U the Soviet U.N. Washington, Sec George Shultz res protest and we w tion."

Sunday's expt diplomats in Mor Leningrad were a official news ager in a brief report Ministry determ engaged in "im tivities," a catch pionage.

The five are Jac U.S. consulate in four diplomats fre bassy in Moscow ville, a first sec Ehrenfried, a thir attaches Gary David Harris.

to tape the activity.

Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association, said no damage estimate was available. Nearly every business on Moro Street, the main thoroughfare through Aggieville, sustained broken or cracked windows and broken

Aggieville merchants and city officials spent the entire night in Aggieville cleaning up glass and replacing windows. The last window that needed immediate replacement was

Friday, October 17, 1986

Greg Jennings, senior theater, lets the sparks fly as he grinds down part of a set piece before putting on the wood trim.

"It all starts with reading the play, over and over again, to get ideas of what I think should be in the scene. There's nothing written in the play hat says there should be a door here ind something else over there. It's ip to the designer to figure out those hings," Sheffield said. "There are tain elements that are usually re-aired to be in the scene. I try to use hose and implement them in a way that works. Basically, it starts out with a lot of sketching, and when I come up with something that works, we go from there."

Sheffield said that during the design and building process, the lesigner, technical director and ostumer are meeting with the direcor of the production all the time communication is essential. He sually constructs a model that plays major part in helping the actors, tirector and designer with their espective roles in the production.

"The model is a one-half inch scale copy of the stage and all the different scene pieces for the production. The nodel is mainly a tool for the direcfor and the actors because it gives them a three-dimensional idea of what the completed set will be like," sheffield said.

"It also helps me in sort of a eciprocal process, because it helps ne with the draftings for the set and he draftings help me with the contruction of the model.

Sheffield said OKLAHOMA!" has six set changes five different scenes, one, aurey's house, which is used twice. "One of the most challenging spects of this set was designing it so hat it could break apart and be movd from the scene shop to the stage nd offstage when other performances, such as the Houston Ballet, take place before 'OKLAHOMA!' begins," he said.

"I feel like I'm pretty familiar with this production since this is the second time I've designed it. I did the set design for 'OKLAHOMA!' this summer in Michigan with the entire production done in pinks and purples, which was really interesting. But every show is different because you are working with different directors, different actors, choreographers, a different stage. I try to do no two shows alike."

In addition to designing the sets for productions, Sheffield is responsible for painting the sets, which is more complicated than people realize, he

"You have to experiment with different colors to achieve something that will look right on stage. We are painting totally for appearance, so the paint is thinned so it will stretch tain goes up on opening night, his job "It (set designing) is tremendous surge of creative effort and then it's over, and I can move on to the next aspect of his job is that once the cur-project." At about the time Sheffield was completing his draftings for "OKLAHOMA!," Lydia Aseneta, associate professor of speech, was working on the costumes for the pro-

"I start out by reading the play and looking at pictures," Aseneta said. "For 'OKLAHOMA!,' I rented the video and watched it on television to get ideas for the costumes. Then I meet with the set designer and the director to figure out what kind of things they wanted.'

Aseneta said that the budget determines what kind of costumes are used in the play.

"With the budget crunch, we couldn't afford to make or buy all new costumes, so we have used costumes from other productions and added to them with rental pieces, such as hats and chaps for the cowboys," Asenta said.

"We pulled out costumes from our old stock that were used for 'The Robber Bridegroom' because they matched the silhouette and color for 'OKLAHOMA!' Then we added trims, such as ribbon and ruffles, to make the dresses look more

Aseneta said that the costuming process is time-consuming in that each individual actor must be fitted, and she must make sure that all the actors have the accessories they

"We are dealing with bodies of all different shapes and sizes, and I don't have help that can work in here all the time - a lot of them are students who have class, so it takes a lot of time to get things done."

Making sure that the colors and patterns of the costumes look right on stage is another important aspect of her job.

"You can look at something right in front of you in regular lighting, and it may look dull and ugly. But on stage it could be beautiful or work perfectly. You have to be able to sense what will look right once it is on stage with stage lighting," she said.

See MUSICAL, Page 6

ABOVE: Set designer Al Sheffield concentrates on painting one the large tree backdrops used in the production. BELOW: Matthew Mazur, freshman in musical theater, adjusts one of the many stage lights that will be used for the production of "OKLAHOMA!"

Story by Becky Howard Photos by Gary Lytle

ting ties ofold. earling nats

t so and who ball near lue Ag.

dealt

rtain s, he v bid the 1 had d by rson

r the imonds ation erest

and

nary the ear. dget nent

ract nson cept

This

The United Black Voices presents the second annual "Gospel Extravaganza" on Sunday in Union Forum Hall. See Page 6.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Increasing cloudiness today. High around 70. Southeast wind 10 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Smiling Stan

Stan Parrish is a happy man as K-State pulls off a victory against the University of Kansas football team. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Monday October 20, 1986

Volume 93, Number 40

Kansas State University

Aggie crowds cause severe damage

Owners pick up pieces from horde's rampage

By LILLIAN ZIER Editorial Page Editor

One K-State student and four University of Kansas students were among the 10 arrests Saturday night in Aggieville following K-State's football victory over the Kansas

The arrests were made on charges of felony burglary, felony damage to property and several misdomagne

A crowd estimated a the Riley County Poli threw bottles, brok dows, and chanted other profanities. ple also releas substance resembli streets in Aggieville

A Fort Riley canister and wear was apprehended 1 turned over to military police. A Fort Riley Police the man had sme happened to have him. The man was was released.

'Part of wha trying to was accompl

A juvenile arres felony criminal dar. to the building formthe Varsity Theatre

A car parked in fr was overturned and a.m. Sunday. The or Manhattan resid Robarn, said she ci her 1968 Volkswage crowd from rolling crowd then began ch Burn it!" Robarn sa the vacinity watchi rolled her car and s

Alvan Johnson, RCPD, said 15 to made in connection Aggieville. The mi crowd began to dist a.m. Sunday.

An Associated Pr that law enforceme photographs and use

Sovie Reagi

By The Asso

MOSCOW - 7 expelled five U. Sunday, five days 25 Soviet U.N. en of the United home.

A Kremlin offic pulsions to the U the Soviet U.N. Washington, Sec George Shultz res protest and we w tion."

Sunday's expt diplomats in Mor Leningrad were a official news ager in a brief report Ministry determ engaged in "im tivities," a catch pionage. The five are Jac U.S. consulate in four diplomats fre bassy in Moscow ville, a first sec Ehrenfried, a third attaches Gary David Harris.

to tape the activity.

Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association, said no damage estimate was available. Nearly every business on Moro Street, the main thoroughfare through Aggieville, sustained broken or cracked windows and broken

Aggieville merchants and city officials spent the entire night in Aggieville cleaning up glass and replac-

Friday, Ociober 17, 1900

Friday, October 17, 1986

Continued from Page 5 Students sign up for one credit hour to help with costume changes, make sure the costumes are clean and checked in during and after the rehearsals and actual perfor-

Aseneta is also responsible for the makeup in the production, which is done by the theatrical makeup class Aseneta teaches.

"For makeup, I discuss with the director what physical characteristics the character is supposed to have. Then I figure out what the makeup should be like to emphasize those characteristics on stage," she said.

Lighting plays a major role in the appearance of the set, costumes and makeup. Uthoff explained the lighting process.

"We have Jeff Childs, a graduate student in theater, doing the lighting for this particular production. What the light designer does is watch the run-through of the play, then discuss with the director the visual images desired to be projected. Where the set designer has five or six different changes in this production, the light designer may have up to 80," he said.

Lew Shelton, associate professor of speech and director of "OKLAHOMA!," said his role in the technical aspects is as a guide, who blends all of the elements in the production.

"I have to have an overall vision of the production which I try to translate to the other participants," Shelton said.

"They also have ideas about the production which they tell me about. I usually try to give the people a lot of freedom with their

Because the musical is so widely known, it has established many of its own elements, but allows a freedom as to how realistic you want to make it, Shelton said.

"We've tried to strike a balance between being somewhat realistic and somewhat fanciful. We start out by discussing the practical things, such as fitting what we want to do within our allowed budget, how much space we're going to need and what we want the production to look like," he said.

"The challenge is working within a limited budget. I think the designers have done an amazing job with what we have available. When people go to a musical, they expect a spectacle, and you want to

See MUSICAL, Page 7

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | НВО | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|-------------------------|---------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|---------------------------|------------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Eleni" | Knights
The Late Great | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 | | 11 | * | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | " | Me | "Gloria" | PGA Golf
Disney World |
| 9:00 | | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"Comrade X" | Movie:
"Maxie" | Movie:
"Gold Is | Rock And Roll | Classic |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | " | " | Where You
Find It" | Movie: | Hang Gliding
SportsLook |
| | Password | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Write Course
Psychology | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Supergirl" | Movie:
"Cloak And | "Fletch" | Aerobics
Fall Fashion |
| 12:00 | | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"Torrid Zone" | | Dagger" | Gary Cooper | Auto Racing
Spa 1000 |
| 1:00 | Lives | Turns
Capitol | One Life To
Live | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Masterpiece
Theatre | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | " | "Remo
Williams: The | Movie:
"Second-Hand | Movie:
"Cover Girl" | Auto Racing |
| 0:00 | | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Living | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Adventure
Begins" | Hearts" | | Racing |
| 3:00 | | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Henry's Cat
Movie: | Duffy Moon | Crazy About
The Movies | Women's
Bowling |
| 4.00 | | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Beaver | "The Great
Muppet | Ounce Of Cure
Arthur & The | Movie:
"Back To | Pro Tour
Scholastic |
| 5:00 | | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Hillbillies | Caper'
Movie: | Square
Knights | Bataan" | SportsLook
1985 Giants |
| 6:00 | | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | "The Corn Is
Green" | Paper Chase | Movie Show | SportsCenter
Baseball |
| | | Wizard | Who's Boss?
Growing Pains | Barnaby Jones | Nova | Movie:
"Norma Rae" | Movie:
"Splendor In | All The Rivers
Run | Movie:
"Cloak And | Movie:
"Fletch" | Superbouts |
| | at R. Sox or | Movie:
"Johnnie Mae | Moonlighting | Movie:
"Three Days | The Africans | " | The Grass" | | Dagger" | | Roller Derby |
| 9:00 | " | Gibson: FBI" | Jack And Mike | Of The Condor" | Tenko | News | Movie: | The Hitchhiker
Weird Tales | Movie:
"Silver Bullet" | Movie:
"Better Off | Kick Boxing |
| 10:00 | News
Tonight | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Magnum, P.I. | "Forever" | Movie:
"Maxie" | | Dead"
Movie: | Outdoor Life
SportsCenter |
| 4 4:00 | 11 | Simon &
Simon | Nightline
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | Newsleaders | Movie: | Movie: | | Movie:
"Second-Hand | "Vision Quest" | NFL Stars
Top Rank |
| | Letterman
Gene Scott | "Million Dollar | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke | | "Promises In
The Dark" | "Abandon
Ship!" | Movie | Hearts"
Movie | Movie | Boxing |

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|-------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|-------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|-------------------------|---------------------------|----------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"The Razor's | Movie
Cont'd | "Man With One
Red Shoe" | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 |  | " " | | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | Edge" | Misunderstood
Monsters | Movie:
"Night Of The | PGA Golf
Disney World |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"That Certain | Movie: | Movie:
"The Strip" | Comet" | Classic |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Feeling" | "The Heavenly
Kid" | Movie: | Movie:
"Time Bomb" | Baseball
SportsLook |
| 11:00 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Congress
Algebra | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Teen Wolf" | "Garbo Talks" | : | Aerobics
Golf |
| 12:00 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"Hot Rods To | All-Star Rock |  | Movie:
"Victory" | Citicorp
Classic |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Nova | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Hell", | Concert
Movie: | Movie |  | Powerboat
Racing |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Story Of
English | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | "Oxford
Blues" | " | Movie:
"Coup De | Karate
Wrestling |
| 0:00 | Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Afterschool
Special | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Worst Witch | The Red
Balloon | Tete"
Movie: | " |
| A:00 | Dill Challes | CBS
Schoolbreak | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Beaver |  | Misunderstood
Monsters | "Platinum
Blonde" | Horse Wk. |
| 5:00 | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Hillbillies | Movie:
"Red Dawn" | Movie:
"Two Loves" | Movie:
"The Bedford | SportsLook
Outdoors |
| 6:00 | News
Wheel Fortune | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | " | | Incident" | SportsCenter
Greatest Hits |
| 7:00 | World Series
Astros or Mets | CBS News
Special | P. Strangers
Head Of Class | Barnaby Jones | Mark Russell
Wings Over | Movie:
"The | Movie:
"Ten | All The Rivers
Run | Brothers
Bizarre | Movie:
"Time Bomb" | Women's
Bodybuilding |
| 0:00 | at R. Sox or
Angels | Magnum, P.I. | Dynasty | Movie:
"Betrayal" | Water | Avalanche
Express" | Thousand
Bedrooms" | | Movie:
"Garbo Talks" | " | National
Champ. |
| 9:00 | **
 | Equalizer | Hotel | " | Hungary | News | Goodwill | Movie:
"The Heavenly | | "Life Of The
Party: The | Triathlon |
| 10:30 | News
Tonight | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | Games
Opening | Kid"
All-Star Rock | Movie:
"The Stud" | Story Of
Beatrice" | Greatest Hits
SportsCenter |
| 11:00 | | Hot Shots | Nightline
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | Old House | Movie: | Ceremonies
Movie: | Concert
Movie: | " | Movie:
"The French | Auto Racing
Spa 1000 |
| | Letterman
Gene Scott | "Ho's Fired,
She's Hired" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "Little
Murders" | "Seven Days
In May" | "Teen Wolf" | Movie:
"Teachers" | Woman"
Movie | Fishing
1985 Colts |

Bring ad for A NEW CUT! A NEW STYLIST! NEW BEGINNINGS! HAIR STYLING & TANNING 1107 N. 3rd, 537-1003

Buy any 6" sub, get one of equal value FREE!

Now through Oct. 23 (with coupon)

*Void with any other offer

ett Hacker ce that ce

le

chatting arieties as to ofand old, or bearicluding oy hats went so ple and otion to ise near id Blueard Ag-ne who paseball

il riot.' Page 11

ng dealt certain tions, he low bid for the hich had fered by Shearson

y for the ally imhe bonds

istration interest cent and ents aperinary

t for a om the al year. s budget rollment ontract Johnson

n accept ar. This

Page 12

The United Black Voices presents the second annual "Gospel Extravaganza" on Sunday in Union Forum Hall. See Page 6.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Increasing cloudiness today. High around 70. Southeast wind 10 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Topeka KS

Smiling Stan

66612

Stan Parrish is a happy man as K-State pulls off a victory against the University of Kansas football team. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Monday October 20, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 40

Brett Hacker

ance that ce

chatting varieties

has to of-

g and old,

e or bear-including boy hats

s went so urple and ome who

1 baseball

votion to ouse near

and Blue-

ward Ag-

. Page 11

ing dealt

1 certain utions, he

e low bid

s for the which had ffered by

Shearson

ay for the eally im-

the bonds

nistration

e interest

gents ap-

terinary

st for a rom the al year.

's budget

wollment

ontract

Johnson

in accept ear. This

Page 12

- reent and

an. ial riot.

Aggie crowds cause severe damage

Owners pick up pieces from horde's rampage

By LILLIAN ZIER Editorial Page Editor

One K-State student and four University of Kansas students were among the 10 arrests Saturday night in Aggieville following K-State's football victory over the Kansas Jayhawks.

The arrests were made on charges of felony burglary, felony damage to property and several misdemeanors.

A crowd estimated at 4,000-6,000 by the Riley County Police Department threw bottles, brok dows, and chanted other profanities. ple also releas substance resembli streets in Aggieville

A Fort Riley canister and wear was apprehended I turned over to military police. A Fort Riley Police the man had sme happened to have him. The man was was released.

'Part of wha trying to was accompl

A juvenile arres felony criminal dan to the building formthe Varsity Theatre

A car parked in fr was overturned and a.m. Sunday. The or Manhattan resid Robarn, said she co her 1968 Volkswage crowd from rolling crowd then began ch Burn it!" Robarn sa the vacinity watchi rolled her car and s

Alvan Johnson, RCPD, said 15 to made in connection Aggieville. The m crowd began to dist a.m. Sunday.

An Associated Pr that law enforceme photographs and use

Sovie Reagi

By The Asso MOSCOW - 7 expelled five U. Sunday, five days 25 Soviet U.N. en of the United home. A Kremlin offic pulsions to the U the Soviet U.N. Washington, Sec George Shultz res protest and we w tion." Sunday's expi diplomats in Mor Leningrad were a official news ager in a brief report Ministry determ engaged in "im tivities," a catch pionage.

The five are Jac U.S. consulate in four diplomats fro bassy in Moscow ville, a first sec Ehrenfried, a thir attaches Gary David Harris.

to tape the activity.

Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association, said no damage estimate was available. Nearly every business on Moro Street, the main thoroughfare through Aggieville, sustained broken or cracked windows and broken

Aggieville merchants and city officials spent the entire night in Aggieville cleaning up glass and replacing windows. The last window that needed immediate replacement was

THIRDONAY COTORED OF 1006

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|--------------------------------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------------|-------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"City Heat" | Les
Miserables | "Diamond
Horseshoe" | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 |  | #1
31 | " | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | 14 | Red Hawk | Cont'd
Movie: | Horse Wk.
Tennis |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"Til We Meet | Movie:
"Places in The | Movie:
"The Iron | "Hollywood
Ghost Stories" | |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Again," | Heart" | Mistress" | Movie:
"A Raisin In | 1985 Bengals
SportsLook |
| 1 1 30 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Write Course
Psychology | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Android" | Movie:
"Cannonball | The Sun" | Aerobics
Auto Racing |
| 12:00 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"Angels Wash | The Talk Show | Run II" | Movie: | CART
Phoenix 200 |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Shakespeare
Hour | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Their Faces" | Movie:
"Rhinestone" | Movie:
"The | "My Science
Project" | Top Rank
Boxing |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Photo Vision
Photo Vision | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | | Candidate" | Movie: | Auto Racing |
| 3:00 | | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurts | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Red Balloon
Movie: | Red Hawk
Les | "The Shocking
Miss Pilgrim" | 1000 Lakes
Billiards |
| A:00 | | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Beaver | "Heidi" | Miserables | Movie:
"Better Off | World Open
1985 Chiefs |
| 5:00 | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Hillbillies | Movie: | "Devil And
Daniel | Dead" | SportsLook
Fishing |
| 6:00 | | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | "Reno And
The Doc" | Webster"
Washingtoon | Movie:
"Ghost- | SportsCenter
SpeedWeek |
| | Cosby Show
World Series | Simon &
Simon | Our World | Movie:
"All About | Normandy To
Berlin | Movie:
"Harry And | Movie:
"A Summer | All The Rivers
Run | Movie:
"Once Upon A | busters" | Auto Racing
CART Laguna |
| | Astros or Mets
at R. Sox or | Knots Landing | The Colbys | Eve" | Mystery! | Walter Go To
New York" | Place" |  | Time In America" | Movie:
"Creator" | Seca 300 |
| 9:00 | Angels | Kay O'Brien | 20 / 20 | Twilight Zone | A.C. Clarke
S. Previews | News | n. | Robin Williams
At The Met | " | " | Auto Racing
Grand Prix of |
| 10:00 | News | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | Movie:
"A Question | Inside The
NFL | " | Movie: "Re-Animator" | Mexico
SportsCenter |
| 11:00 | Tonight | Adderly | Nightline
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | Computer | Movie: | Of Love" | Movie:
"Lifeforce" | Movie:
"Year Of The | Movie Show | NFL Films
Karate |
| | David
Letterman | "Getting
Physical" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "Ball Of Fire" | "All The
King's Men" | | Dragon" | Movie | Pro Champ.
Horse Wk. |

Friday, October 17, 1986

Musical

Continued from Page 6

give them that. It really takes imagination and creativity.

Shelton said the total budget for "OKLAHOMA!" was $8,400. Broken down, the budget figures as $2,500 for royalties, rental and orchestration; $1,700 for costumes; and approximately $2,500 for sets, props and lighting.

"One of the biggest challenges was in the costuming - I wanted to cast 30 people, so we had to be very inventive in using what was already available to create the effect we wanted," Shelton said.

"Finding a surrey also proved to be a challenge, but Julie Anderson, the student we have in charge of props, found one that we could borrow from a veterinarian.'

"The set designing was also really ingenious in that we have six different settings that would be extremely expensive if done separately and elaborately. The set designer has used a minimal amount of set pieces to give a variety of looks that support the spectacle we want to achieve."

All shows starting before 6p.m.-all seats $2.50 Movie info. 539-1291 Tuesday is bargain night! CAMPUS

Crocodile Look who's sneaking

"CROCODILE DUNDEE"

DAILY AT 7 & 9 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 3 & 5

LATE SHOW FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NIGHT

"CLOCKWORK ORANGE" RATED R FRI. & SAT. AT MIDNIGHT

COMING SOON "CAMPUS THEATRE" THE COLOR OF MONEY" STARRING PAUL NEWMAN AND TOM CRUISE

WESTLOOP DAILY AT 4:30-7-9:30

MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2

LADIES' CLUB

into town!

PG-13

AT 4:45-

7:20-9:25

SAT. &

SUN. AT

2:20

MATINEE OFF

"JUMPIN' JACK FLASH"

RATED R

DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:20 MATINEE SAT.& SUN. AT 2:10

"THAT'S LIFE"

RATED PG-13

DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:20

MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2:10

the same of the sa

"DEADLY FRIEND"

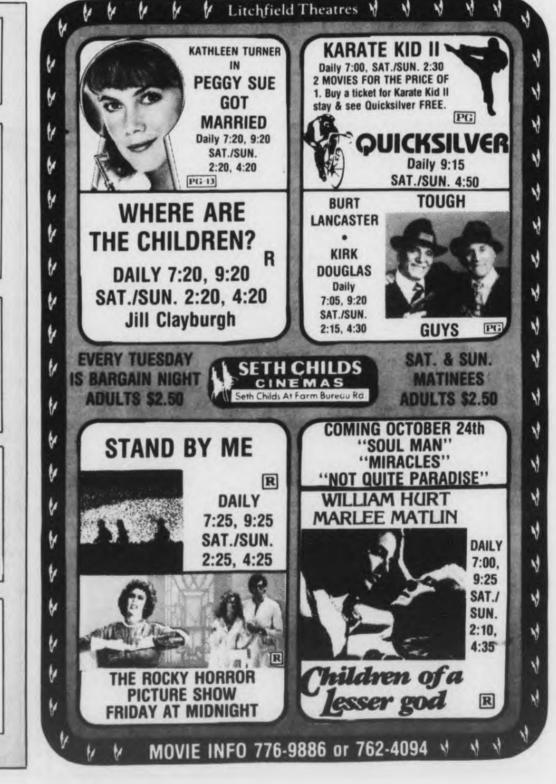

PG-13

FERRIS

RATED R

DAILY AT 4:45-7:20-9:25

MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2:20

The United Black Voices presents the second annual "Gospel Extravaganza" on Sunday in Union Forum Hall. See Page 6.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Increasing cloudiness today. High around 70. Southeast wind 10 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Smiling Stan

Stan Parrish is a happy man as K-State pulls off a victory against the University of Kansas football team. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Monday

October 20, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 40

Aggie crowds cause severe damage

Owners pick up pieces from horde's rampage

By LILLIAN ZIER Editorial Page Editor

One K-State student and four University of Kansas students were among the 10 arrests Saturday night in Aggieville following K-State's football victory ov

Jayhawks. The arrests wer€ of felony burglary, property and sever

A crowd estimate the Riley County F threw bottles, bro dows, and chanted other profanities. ple also releas substance resembl streets in Aggievil

A Fort Riley canister and wea was apprehended turned over to military police. Fort Riley Police the man had sm happened to have him. The man wa was released.

Part of wh trying to was accomp

A juvenile arro felony criminal d to the building for the Varsity Theat

A car parked in was overturned a a.m. Sunday. The Manhattan res Robarn, said she her 1968 Volkswa crowd from roll crowd then began Burn it!" Robarn the vacinity water rolled her car and Alvan Johnson u RCPD, said 15 t made in connection Aggieville. The crowd began to c a.m. Sunday.

An Associated that law enforce: photographs and

Sovi Reas

By The A MOSCOW expelled five Sunday, five 25 Soviet U.N of the Unit home. A Kremlin . pulsions to th the Soviet Washington, George Shultz protest and w tion."

Sunday's diplomats in Leningrad w€ official news in a brief reg Ministry de engaged in tivities," a c pionage. The five are U.S. consulat four diplomat bassy in Mo ville, a first Ehrenfried, a attaches Ga David Harris

to tape the activity.

Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association, said no damage estimate was available. Nearly every business on Moro Street, the main thoroughfare through Aggieville, sustained broken or cracked windows and broken

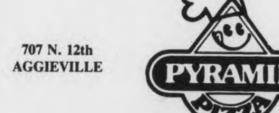

Friday, October 17, 1986

FRI. SAT SUN MON. TUE. WED. THU. 6:00 JAZZ 8:00 THE IN SUNDAY MORNING ZCLASSICS 12:00 3:00 DR. METAL S DEMENTO HEAD 5:00 6:00 CROSS POINT R 0 C JAM 8:00 THE 9:00 THE ROCK BOX 'TOUR' 0F MIDNITE DREAD -AGES 1:00

OFFER EXPIRES 12 19/80

539-4888

BY-THE-SLICE AND FAST, FREE DELIVERY

n from the fiscal year. dege's budget in enrollment g contract ates, Johnson ge can accept

f/Brett Hacker

bance that ace

ille

g, chatting

ny varieties

lle has to of-

ing and old,

rple or bear-

, including

owboy hats

ans went so purple and some who ind baseball devotion to a house near

n and Blue-toward Agnnual riot."

WD, Page 11

25

nts

eeting dealt een certain stitutions, he d the low bid

onds for the m, which had

ite offered by

of Shearson ill pay for the s "really im-

I on the bonds

dministration

at the interest

9 percent and

Regents ap-

Veterinary

guest for a

Neb.

onds.

ry year. This ıly 98.

NTS, Page 12

0164 8705 1

Kansas State Historical Soc

Gospel Singing

The United Black Voices presents the second annual "Gospel Extravaganza" on Sunday in Union Forum Hall. See Page 6.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Increasing cloudiness today. High around 70. Southeast wind 10 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Smiling Stan

Stan Parrish is a happy man as K-State pulls off a victory against the University of Kansas football team. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Monday October 20, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 40

Aggie crowds cause severe damage

Owners pick up pieces from horde's rampage

By LILLIAN ZIER Editorial Page Editor

One K-State student and four University of Kansas students were among the 10 arrests Saturday night in Aggieville following K-State's football victory over the Kansas Jayhawks.

The arrests were made on charges of felony burglary, felony damage to property and several misdemeanors.

A crowd estimated at 4,000-6,000 by the Riley County Police Department threw bottles, broke signs and windows, and chanted "KU sucks" and other profanities. Unidentified people also released a gaseous substance resembling tear gas on the streets in Aggieville.

A Fort Riley man carrying a canister and wearing a gas mask was apprehended by the RCPD and turned over to the Fort Riley military police. An official at the Fort Riley Police Department said the man had smelled the gas and happened to have a gas mask with him. The man wasn't charged and was released.

'Part of what we were trying to accomplish was accomplished.'

-Bill Jacoby

A juvenile arrest was made for felony criminal damage to property to the building formerly occupied by the Varsity Theatre.

A car parked in front of the theater was overturned and burned about 1 a.m. Sunday. The owner of the car, Manhattan resident Kathreen Robarn, said she climbed on top of her 1968 Volkswagen to prevent the crowd from rolling her car. The crowd then began chanting "Burn it! Burn it!" Robarn said police were in the vacinity watching as the crowd rolled her car and set it afire.

Alvan Johnson, director of the RCPD, said 15 to 20 arrests were made in connection with incidents in Aggieville. The majority of the crowd began to disperse about 2:30 a.m. Sunday. An Associated Press story stated that law enforcement officials took photographs and used video cameras

to tape the activity.

Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association, said no damage estimate was available. Nearly every business on Moro Street, the main thoroughfare through Aggieville, sustained broken or cracked windows and broken

Aggieville merchants and city officials spent the entire night in Aggieville cleaning up glass and replacing windows. The last window that needed immediate replacement was repaired just before Jacoby left Aggieville about 1 p.m. Sunday. Jacoby had been in Aggieville since 7 a.m. Saturday.

Despite the property damage, Jacoby said there was a positive aspect to Saturday night's events: No police officers were injured and no other major injuries were reported.

'Part of what we were trying to accomplish was accomplished," he

However, several injuries were reported to the RCPD.

David C. Fiedler, 19, of Emporia, was struck in the head with a small, blunt weapon shortly before midnight Saturday in the parking lot at North Manhattan Avenue Laramie Street. Fiedler was taken from a local hospital to Stormont-Vail Regional Medical Center in Topeka. He was in satisfactory condition Sunday.

Outside of Aggieville, a person was injured when he fell from the roof the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity house, 1614 Fairchild Street, about 1 a.m. Sunday. Mike Martin, a K-State graduate from Amarillo, Texas, was taken to The St. Mary Hospital. He was in stable condition Sunday.

Robert Tout, director of Lafene Student Health Center, said that between 11 p.m. Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday, five people came into Lafene with lacerations - four with injuries not requiring sutures and one with eye irritations.

Nancy Miller, supervisor at The St. Mary Hospital, said a large number of people came into the emergency room Saturday, but she would not comment on how many of the injuries were sustained in Aggieville.

Kathy Schwartz, house supervisor at Memorial Hospital, also said more people came into the emergency

See DAMAGE, Page 12

Staff/Brett Hacker

Part of a crowd in Aggieville turns over a Volkswagen during a disturbance early Sunday morning following the K-State-University of Kansas football

A worker cleans glass from a display case in Woody's Ladies Shop Sunday morning after a rock was thrown through a pane Saturday night.

Although the Wildcat football team scored a 29-12 victory over the University of Kansas Jayhawks Saturday afternoon at KSU Stadium, the real excitement occurred later down in Aggieville.

Drivers cruised Aggieville with their windows rolled down and radios turned up, honking at anyone who would wave back. A line of trucks, motorcycles, convertibles and even an orange dune buggy turned into a parade down Moro Street.

Willie the Wildcat was also there, circling Aggieville on a moped. Some 4,000-6,000 people spent the late afternoon shopping, chatting and partaking of the many varieties of food and drink Aggieville has to offer. Men and women, young and old, were clad in anything purple or bearing the K-State name, including sweatshirts, blazers, cowboy hats and Williejams. Some fans went so far as to dye their hair purple and white. And there were some who wore Jayhawk T-shirts and baseball caps, displaying their devotion to

And a sign in front of a house near the corner of Manhattan and Bluemont Avenues pointed toward Aggieville and the "semi-annual riot."

See CROWD, Page 11

Soviets deport 5 U.S. diplomats; Reagan administration to protest

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW - The Soviet Union expelled five U.S. diplomats on Sunday, five days after the last of 25 Soviet U.N. envoys ordered out of the United States returned

A Kremlin official linked the expulsions to the U.S. order against the Soviet U.N. diplomats. In Washington, Secretary of State George Shultz responded, "We will protest and we will take some ac-

Sunday's expulsions of four diplomats in Moscow and one in Leningrad were announced by the official news agency Tass. It said in a brief report that the Foreign Ministry determined they had engaged in "impermissible activities," a catch phrase for espionage.

The five are Jack Roberts of the U.S. consulate in Leningrad and four diplomats from the U.S. Embassy in Moscow: William Norville, a first secretary, Charles Ehrenfried, a third secretary, and attaches Gary Lonnquist and David Harris.

The Tass announcement did not mention the U.S. expulsions of the Soviet diplomats from the United Nations, but Georgy Arbatov, a chief Kremlin spokesman, indicated that the Soviets were retaliating. Arbatov spoke in a satellite interview from Moscow on the CBS-TV program "Face the Nation.' "The Americans will (see that) Mr. Gorbachev is a very forthcoming man if he has good partners. But if you behave in such a way he becomes very tough," Arbatov said, referring to Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

"It can cool down to zero in both countries if you go on this way of retaliation after retaliation," Arbatov added.

Shultz, appearing on the NBC-TV program "Meet the Press," said it s up to President Reagan to decide what action to take.

Donald Regan, the White House chief of staff, said on "Face the Nation": "I'm disappointed to see that (the expulsions). I thought that after Reykjavik, relationships would have improved somewhat. We are now going to have to consider taking appropriate action ...to consider what our alternatives are." Neither Shultz nor Regan would elaborate on the possible U.S. response. The expulsions came after U.S. and Soviet officials gave indications that the dispute over the U.N.

envoys was quieting down. In March, the United ordered the Soviet Union to reduce its U.N. Mission staff by 105 people over a two-year period, contending many of the diplomats were engaged in espionage. It was stated that it was up to the Soviets to determine whom to recall. In September, two days before Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze arrived in the United States for talks with Reagan and Shultz, Washington issued a specific list of 25 Soviets it accused of using their U.N. status as a cover for spying. It ordered them to leave, but the deadlines were extended several times, the last to Sunday - the same day the

Soviets expelled the five See SOVIETS, Page 11

Universities give summaries of scope, purpose to Regents

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

The role and scope study of each university in the Board of Regents system was presented and discussed at the monthly Regents meeting last week in Salina.

These studies are a summary of the distinctive characteristics of each university in the Regents system and its role in Kansas, said Mike Johnson, assistant to K-State President Jon Wefald.

In the reports, each university explained what its role is and defined the scope of what it is trying to accomplish with its programs.

Some of the characteristics of K-State, for example, are that it is a land-grant university that includes the colleges of veterinary medicine, engineering and architecture, Johnson said.

"The University's role might change quite a bit in the future," he

The reports also state the strong academic programs of the universities and what can be done to strengthen them, Johnson said.

"The Board (of Regents) wants to develop the strengths of each university," he said.

Wefald was asked by the Regents what possible academic programs should be cut at K-State, but he did not specify, said Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics.

'They (Regents) felt that we (K-State) should have been more specific," Johnson said. "They felt our statement was too ambiguous." Mike Johnson said it's "very difficult to say" which possible programs should be cut. The depressed economy in Kansas and decreasing enrollment are two reasons the Regents are seeking ways to economize programs at the seven regents institutions, he said. Although K-State student enrollment was higher than anticipated this semester, shortfalls do exist.

Yet, Johnson said the enrollment problem could be worse. 'We thought enrollment might be down as much as 900 students this semester," he said.

Johnson cited an enrollment increase in the continuing education program and a "sizable" increase in graduate programs as reasons for the overall increased enrollment.

K-State made no proposals to create any new graduate programs because of the economic hardships,

Discussion at the meeting dealt game. Police arrested 10 people in Aggieville during the disturbance that caused extensive property damage to area businesses.

with cooperation between certain programs at Regents institutions, he The Regents approved the low bid for the financing of bonds for the Fred Bramlage Coliseum, which had a 4.9-percent interest rate offered by Chiles, Heider division of Shearson and Lehman in Omaha, Neb.

Future student fees will pay for the $2 million in coliseum bonds

Johnson said he was "really impressed" by the low bid on the bonds because University administration had believed earlier that the interest rate might be between 9 percent and 10 percent.

In other action, the Regents approved the K-State Veterinary Medicine Center's request for a $111,893 appropriation from the Legislature for the 1987 fiscal year.

A shortfall in the college's budget occurred because of an enrollment decrease, including contract students from other states, Johnson

The veterinary college can accept 95 to 105 students every year. This year's enrollment is only 98.

See REGENTS, Page 12

Briefly

By The Associated Press

INTERNATIONAL

Philippine defense chief may resign

CEBU CITY, Philippines - Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile said Sunday the Cabinet will break up if President Corazon Aquino asks him to resign over his opposition to her peace policy toward communist rebels.

The 62-year-old minister, who held the same post under ousted President Ferdinand E. Marcos, gave the warning during a radio talk show. He said other Cabinet members have asked him to step down or stop publicly criticizing the peace policy.

Asked if he would resign, Enrile said he would "think about it when the time comes."

"The government is a coalition government," Enrile said. "And I think if they ask for the resignation of any member of the coalition. well, that means the Cabinet will have to be dissolved."

Enrile's statements marked the latest stage in a growing rift between him and Aquino over strategy for ending the 17-year-old insurgency by the communist New People's Army.

Afghan leader promises peace soon

KABUL, Afghanistan - Afghan leader Najibullah, now in his sixth month as head of a Moscow-backed government, says reconciliation with Moslem guerrillas is his main goal and that he envisions political parties in the future.

Najibullah, 40, also indicated that he is not trying to impose a Soviet system on Afghanistan, but seeks an independent path. He spoke during a 2 1/2-hour meeting late Saturday with Western reporters who were invited to Afghanistan to witness the withdrawal of six Soviet regiments, or between 5,000 to 8,000 soldiers. According to Western estimates, about 118,000 Soviet troops have been stationed in Afghanistan since 1979 to help the government fight the nationwide Moslem uprising.

Najibullah said his People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan is willing to accept rival political parties and a style of government markedly different from that of Moscow to end the fighting.

Syria possibly imprisoning Israeli

JERUSALEM - The chief of Israel's air force said Sunday an Israeli aviator whose warplane crashed in southern Lebanon last week was captured by guerrillas and may have been handed over to

Maj. Gen. Amos Lapidot also said the plane, an F4-E Phantom fighter-bomber, was not downed by a rocket, but crashed because a malfunction set off one of its bombs.

He said the U.S. Air Force has experienced similar malfunctions with about 10 planes of that model.

Lebanese police and Lebanon's Shiite Moslem Amal militia have said the plane was shot down by a surface-to-air missile.

The plane crashed Thursday near the Lebanese port city of Sidon after taking part in raids against what Israel said were Palestinian guerrilla bases. A second aviator aboard the plane was rescued by Israeli helicopters soon after the crash.

REGIONAL

'Rambo' creater quits as professor

IOWA CITY, Iowa - David Morrell, the author who created Rambo, says he quit his job as an English professor at the University of Iowa to give himself more time for writing.

"My writing had become so demanding that in fairness to the niversity of Iowa, I had to make a choice, 15 years with the university before quitting last April.

The author of the 1972 novel "First Blood" said the salaries paid university faculty members should concern state officials. "I've seen some really first-class people leave here for money reasons," Morrell said. "I've got nothing to complain about, but I know people on the faculty who really need the money. They're try-

NATIONAL

Illegal drug selling on black market

NEW YORK - The first drug proved effective for a common psychiatric ailment called obsessive-compulsive disorder is being obtained illegally in Canada by hundreds of Americans because it is not available here, a government researcher says.

"There's a tremendous black market in this drug," Dr. Thomas Insel of the National Institute of Mental Health said Saturday at the annual meeting of the Phobia Society of America.

"This is one of the most common psychiatric disorders in the United States," Insel said. "There's been no medical treatment for it The drug, clomipramine, also called chlorimipramine, is in a category of drugs called tricyclic anti-depressants. It is available as an anti-depressant with the trade name Anafranil in Canada and Mexico and is the second most commonly used anti-depressant in Europe, Insel said.

But it has not been approved by the Food and Drug Administration because its manufacturer has not yet supplied adequate evidence for its safety and effectiveness, Insel said.

Its manufacturer, Ciba Pharmaceutical Co. of Summit, N.J., a division of the Ciba-Geigy Corp., has begun trials of the drug at 20 research centers across the country with the hope of seeking approval by July 1988, Insel said.

Obsessive-compulsive disorder is characterized by recurrent thoughts or impulses that are senseless and unpleasant - obsessions - and by repetitive behavior performed according to certain rules compulsions.

Mining union disputes fire probe

SALT LAKE CITY — A federal agency's conclusion that a faulty air compressor ignited the 1984 Wilberg Mine fire does not explain why 27 miners died, say union officials pressing for further investiga-

"The problem is this: The agency has focused its attention on a narrowly constructed aspect of what caused the fire," said Joe Main, director of health and safety for the United Mine Workers union. "They are not going to address the issue of what caused the death of 27 miners," he said.

Herschel Potter, chief investigator for the federal Mine Safety and Health Administration, led the 22-month probe. He announced preliminary findings three weeks ago, saying the fire began at a compressor that had been rigged to operate with its on-off switch and heat sensor shutoff disconnected.

Potter said from the outset that his mandate was to identify the cause of the fire, not factors that led to the miners' deaths.

But the UMW has criticized that focus, contending investigators also should have analyzed the Wilberg's fire detection and suppression systems, its communications and the mine design that left the victims no escape.

Congress finishes session Saturday

WASHINGTON - The 99th Congress, by odd turns bitterly partisan and pragmatically cooperative, has left an uncertain legacy of watershed legislation that will touch all Americans.

From modest measures to begin Daylight Savings Time three weeks earlier and designate the rose as the national flower, to the most sweeping tax code revision in a generation and the biggest spending bill in history, the Congress that ended Saturday night compiled a record of staggering scope.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., summarized the session in a single word: "Productive."

The exact impact of the tax changes and a rewrite of the nation's immigration laws will take years to determine For a time, this Congress, divided between a Democraticcontrolled House of Representatives and a Senate in Republicans hands, appeared on the verge of unbreakable stalemate. It was only after weeks of bickering, and a partial governmental shutdown last Friday, that Congress completed work on a $576 billion catchall spending bill needed to finance federal operations and programs for the fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

Campus Bulletin

The Collegian provides this service to the University community free of charge. Notices will be put into the bulletin on the day of the moeting. Bulletins may appear one day earlier if space permits. Deadline for announcements is 11 a.m. the day before publication. We reserve the right to not publish questionable announcements.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

EDUCATION STUDENTS: The Rural and Small Schools Conference will be on Oct. 27 and 28. For more information call $32.5566 between 8

BLUE KEY HOMECOMING SPIRIT MARCH AND BONFIRE has been rescheduled for 8:30 p.m. Thursday in West Stadium.

TODAY

GRADUATING ENGINEERS: There will be an EIT review session, sponsored by Pi Tau Sigma, at 6 p.m. in Ackert 221.

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS meet at 8 p.m. in Duriand 152. There will be a presentation by Larry Montgomery, candidate for state

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets for yearbook pic-tures, dressed in business attire, at 7:30 p.m. in Fairchild 202. A meeting will be at 8 p.m. in Union

FRENCH TABLE meets at 12:30 p.m. in Union

SENATE COMMUNICATIONS COMMITTEE

FARMHOUSE LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9

SPORTS CLUB COUNCIL meets at 7 p.m. in

ALPHA PHI OMEGA meets at 8 p.m. in Union

ENGINEERING STUDENT COUNCIL will have yearbook pictures taken at 6:30 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room. Collegian Classifieds

SOCIAL WORK ORGANIZATION will have earbook pictures taken at 8 p.m. in Fairchild

TUESDAY

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS BIBLE STUDY meets at 7 a.m. in Union Stateroom 3. PUBLIC RELATIONS STUDENT SOCIETY

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Ali Elamaari at 10 a.m. in Bluemont 107. The topic will be "Two Sample Nonparametric Pro-cedures For Censored and Uncensored Data."

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Jerome Anthony Hill at 2:30 p.m. in Union 207. The topic will be "Translation of One High-level

Language to Another: Cobot to Ada, an

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in

ASSOCIATION FOR COMPUTING MACHINERY meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 207. The guest speaker will be Dr. Carl Ottenstein, professor at Michigan Technological University.

AMBDA CHI ALPHA CRESCENTS meet at

HOSPITAL MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION

GRANT PROPOSAL WRITING WORKSHOP

STUDENTS FOR SLATTERY meet at 7:45

8:45 p.m. for yearbook pictures.

meets at 7 p.m. in Justin Lobby.

will be at 3:30 p.m. in Denison 224.

OF AMERICA meets at 8 p.m. in Kedzie

Cheap, but Effective

Ramada Inn

MONDAY 99¢

Bourbon and Scotch Wells FREE BBO 4-7 p.m.

Join Coach Parrish for Cat Chat Today

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

BONKERS

MONDAY NIGHT Football $1.50 Pitchers

FRIDAY one night only FALCON EDDY on stage

filled with

Coke

1015 N. 3rd

*Try our drive-up window

ing to raise a family."

HOMECOMING KICKOFF 1986

Be a part of the K-State Tradition at Homecoming 1986! Blue Key has planned an exciting week of activities and fun for all K-Staters in preparation for the Homecoming game against Missouri this Saturday, October 25. Kicking off the celebration is Union Day this Wednesday with activities scheduled all day in the K-State Union Courtyard. Included are the Body Building and Yell Like Hell contests, musical entertainment and balloon give-aways. Manhattan Merchant Discounts will be available all week with the purchase of a Homecoming button. Homecoming bumperstickers will also be on sale. Thursday night at 9 p.m., the annual Homecoming bonfire will be held in the old stadium. Special features include Pant the Chant competitions, cheerleaders, Larry Travis and the burning of the Missouri mascot. "Everyday is K-State Day" and this year's special K-State Day will be in the Union on Thursday. Come relax, watch the final living group competitions and enjoy the musical entertainment. Saturday's the big day starting with the parade through Downtown and Aggieville at 9 a.m. K-State Ambassadors and Homecoming winners will be announced at halftime during the grand-finale - the Wildcats against the Tigers of Mizzou! So join the students, alumni and friends who will be showing their purple pride this week during the best K-State Homecoming celebration ever!!

Students Select K-State Ambassadors

An important part of K-State's Homecoming activities is the selection of the K-State Ambassadors. The Ambassador program, now in its tenth year, combines student representation to the K-State community with the traditional Homecoming royalty. The K-State Ambassadors represent KSU through the state at various alumni and University functions. This year's ambassadors were Lori Shellenberger and Terry Hallauer. The path to becoming an ambassador involves interviews with students, faculty, staff and alumni. Finalists are selected on the basis of their enthusiam, knowlege of the university, communication abilities, personal presentation, and campus and scholastic achievements. Finally, two students are selected K-State Ambassadors in an all-student election to be held this Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the Union. Blue Key rewards the Ambassadors for their service to K-State by scholorships presented at the annual Spring banquet. We urge you to be part of the K-State Ambassador program by voting Wednesday, Thursday or Friday in the Union. Remember your fee card!!

Blue Key Members '86-'87

Carey Avery John Bradley Stephanie Case Steve Cashman Cindy Cote

Debbie Fields Bert Frost Laura Garrett Darren Killen Paul Rust

Scott Scrogin Jeff Suttle Sally Traeger Crystal Whitebread Kelly Welch

Credit Union Initiates Youth Loans

Parents who teach their children how to manage money and work with a personal budget have taught a valuable lifelong

The KSU Credit Union will help your children establish a credit history and fiscal responsibility through the new Youth Loan Program.

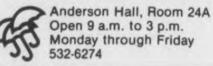

Dependent children of credit union members may borrow for such needs as buying a newspaper route, a bicycle, lawn mower, prom gear or a used car. A parent member must co-sign the loan.

Children, ages 8 to 18 with credit union savings accounts, are eligible to participate in the Youth Loan Program. If the co-signing parent has been a member for at least the 60-day membership requirement, the child will not need to meet this loan stipulation.

Let the KSU Credit Union share in the lifelong lesson and help build your child's future. Drop by Anderson Hall to discuss the program with a loan officer.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

Coliseum ceremony breaks new ground

By RONDA CORLE Collegian Reporter

The band played and balloons fluttered in the air as approximately 300 students, administrators and alumni took part in the groundbreaking ceremony for the Fred Bramlage Coliseum before the University of Kansas-K-State football game Saturday.

The ceremony was dedicated to Fred Bramlage, a Junction City businessman and largest single financial contributor to the pro-

"Fred Bramlage has been the spiritual guiding force behind the committee. This day is a tribute to his dedication and force," said Art Loub, executive vice president of the KSU Foundation. "It is a time to review what has taken place and what is to come."

The 13,500-seat multipurpose coliseum has had a history of controversy, but when the doors open in late 1988, it will benefit the Manhattan community and the state of Kansas as well, Loub

"The coliseum is not only for basketball games but for lectures, concerts, graduation exercises, exhibitions, trade shows and other special events," he said.

As a member of the coliseum committee, Athletic Director Larry Travis thanked students and alumni for their support of the project.

"We are just an entity in the project," Travis said. "This project will go down in history as a joint commitment.'

Bramlage, a 1935 K-State graduate, spoke to the group about his dedication to the University and to the coliseum.

"This is a historic day for Kansas State University. I've been a part of Kansas State University for over 50 years. I've watched class after class graduate and take their talents around the

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

> More Reciprocals Than Showcase

> > Downtown

world," he said. "What we begin today will continue into years to "This coliseum will honor both body and mind. It will inspire people to come together. The coliseum adds another dimension to K-State."

He also spoke about the dedication of the supporters for the project and the camaraderie among the committee members.

"In all my years of bumming around the state, I've never seen an organization who got alo...g so well," he said. "We ended up friends. Bramlage turned the first shovelful of dirt with a specially painted purple and white shovel with a gold band around the handle. The other participants in the ceremony, including Gov. John Carlin, followed his example, turning shovelfuls of dirt where excavation for the coliseum will begin this week.

Steven Johnson, junior in agricultural journalism and student body president, said although student support has wavered at times, the questioning has pointed out new directions to go. Johnson introduced four former students attending the ceremonies who conceived the idea of a coliseum back in 1976. Brian Rassette, Bill Manning, Sam Brownback and Mitch Holthus brought with them their original banner promoting the coliseum.

"We were a little ahead of ourselves," Manning said. "We had a little more vision than others. But we had fun. It's a happy ending." Funding for the $15.4 million coliseum was provided from Bramlage and three other sources: the KSU Foundation. $8.5 million; student fees, $7 million; and the KSU Athletic Department, $2 million on loan from the Foundation.

Group meets to remember Eisenhower

By ROBIN HARNDEN Collegian Reporter

An group of about 30 met in the Manhattan Public Library Sunday to hear memories of Milton S. Eisenhower, K-State president from 1943-50, from faculty who worked

The Friends of the Libraries sponsored the event in recognition of the book, "The Milton S. Eisenhower Years at Kansas State University."

Five of the nine contributing authors attended the event to share memories about the former University president and autograph copies of the book.

'Milton Eisenhower was known at the highest levels of government and education in this country, but you could see the touch this man had with common people," said Max Milbourn, associate professor emeritus of journalism and mass communications.

Eisenhower, the youngest of six sons, was born in 1899 in Abilene. He graduated from K-State in 1924 and replaced Dr. F.D. Farrell as president of the University in 1943.

During his years as president, Eisenhower struggled to liberalize the curriculum.

"Across the country Milton had this huge reputation of trying to modernize Kansas State," said Earle Davis, professor emeritus of English.

"I think we would still be 'Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science' instead of 'Kansas State University,' if it weren't for Eisenhower," he said.

Eisenhower introduced general education and comprehensive courses at K-State, recruited foreign students for the first time, created the Kansas State College Endowment Association and acted to desegregate the college.

He was appointed to the Presidential Commission on Higher Education by former President Harry S. Truman in 1946.

The book was planned and edited by Virginia Quiring, member of the Friends of the Libraries, as a gift for other members. Quiring asked faculty who worked under Eisenhower or knew him well - to write what they remembered about him.

Contributing writers are Davis, Milbourn, James McCain, Homer Socolofsky, Chester Peters, Russell Thackrey, Robert Walker, Ralph Lashbrook and Harry Marsh.

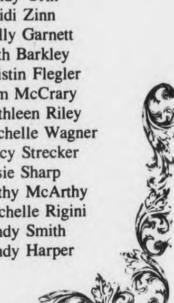

Quiring said she asked Eisenhower himself to contribute to the book, but although he said it was a "fine idea," his health did not permit him to write. Eisenhower died on May 2,

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

THE MEN OF ACACIA WOULD LIKE TO CONGRATULATE THEIR NEWLY TAPPED LITTLE SISTERS Alice Govert

Jenny Golway Alayne Ward Vicki Meinert Susan Lierz Jamie Reiserer Shivaun Chism Michele Hunt Diana Dunbar Carolyn McMaghten Tina Girton Melinda Mahoney Carol Timyer Michelle Herschler Karen Niedens Angie Martin Michelle Scheele Jenny Reschke

Heather Stewart Paula Burkbeck Yvonne Aldrich Tamara Hagmar Cindy Orth Heidi Zinn Kelly Garnett Beth Barkley Kristin Flegler Kim McCrary Kathleen Riley Rachelle Wagner Stacy Strecker Susie Sharp Kathy McArthy Michelle Rigini Cindy Smith Cindy Harper

Policy enables seniors to earn graduate credit

By The Collegian Staff

Seniors planning to attend graduate school at K-State may want to consider their future schedule with extra care.

Up to nine hours of graduate credit can be obtained while a senior is working toward a bachelor's degree, said John Noonan, associate dean of graduate school.

'This can give them a leg-up on the graduate progam," he said, "and it doesn't take any extra time."

The only requirement to get a head start with graduate school is to be a full-time senior with a minimum 3.0 grade point average, Noonan said.

Any course of a 500 level or higher may be considered for graduate credit, Noonan said. He recommends that seniors check with instructors to see if there will be any extra work required for graduate credit. Sometimes there are prerequisites for graduate courses.

Noonan said any graduate credit earned early cannot fulfill undergraduate requirements.

"Once in awhile, we catch someone who accidentally enrolled for graduate credit that is ineligible," he said. "We then telephone that individual and explain why he is not

Corrections can be made by filling out a drop-add form in the basement of Farrell Library.

Seniors sometimes may receive more than nine hours of graduate credit, Noonan said. A student may be provisionally admitted to graduate school after the department he is enrolled in has reviewed his credentials

Noonan said seniors interested in 'saving an extra buck or two" and getting a head start with graduate school should consult their advisers before planning any future schedules. Pre-enrollment for spring semester begins Nov. 17.

SERVICES TO KEEP YOU WELL -YOU ARE WELL

WE PROVIDE

418 Poyntz

WORTH IT.

Lafene Health Center

0..... The Spread An Hors D'oeuvres

Buffet Monday-Friday 5-7 p.m. at

COTTON CILUIB Just $1 a plate

Shrimp $1 a doz. Tonight Only

Cafe Latino

Monday's Special Lg. Burrito, sm. taco and ice tea $2.95

606 N. 12th across from Bonkers Aggieville open daily 11 a.m.-late

"Your choice: Quarter Pound Cheeseburger or reg. Roast Beef, only

We make our sandwiches with that good, old-fashioned taste, and now you can get them for a good. old-fashioned price."

Offer expires November 13, 1986.

Offer good at participating Hardee's* Restaurants.

Pizza and FREE drinks with coupon Dine-in, carryout or delivery

Save on Godfather's delicious giant combo pizza with FREE DRINKS, during our EARLY WEEK SPECIAL - Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only. Our Combo Pizza is a mouth-watering mozzarella monster laden with beef, sausage, pepperoni, olives, onions, mushrooms, and tomato sauce, then topped with a mountain of delicious dairy cheese. Our pizza outweighs 'em all.

There's nobody's pizza like Godfather's Pizza.® Come in today, bring the mob, and cut a Combo down to size.

539-5303

Call For Delivery

1118 Laramie

COMBO PIZZA or up to 4 toppings Thin or original crust Plus FREE drinks in 32 oz. reusable cups! 3 drinks with giant,

Early Week Special Early Week Special

COMBO PIZZA or up to 4 toppings Thin or original crust Plus FREE drinks in 32 oz. reusable cups!

The crowd that gathered Saturday night in Aggieville to celebrate K-State's victory over the University of Kansas was out of control. K-State fans, while chanting both mild and harsh profanities, proceeded to wreck their own town. How smart is that?

"Proud to be a Wildcat," is a nice theme, but it was untrue for a lot of students and fans Saturday night.

People were smashing bottles on the streets as if it were a wonderful treat. Any 2-year-old could break glass by dropping it on cement. A bottle would sail through the air and break a window or a sign and the crowd would cheer. What is there to cheer about? The property that was damaged belongs to independent businessmen who support the University and students.

The crowd was not thinking at all. If a car caught on fire, any sane person would run the other way before it blew up, but not the crowd in Aggieville. The entire crowd moved toward the burning car "to see what it looked like." They were lucky the fire was put out before the gas tank exploded.

The crowd was dispersed a few different times by an unidentified gas. But once their eyes, noses furious with the police, yet the of any law enforcement agency small percentage who were.

How do you define embarrass- used them to create more havoc in the crowd.

Being an observer on the very edge of the crowd was scary. The crowd acted as one. Those causing damage were not thinking for themselves, they were being controlled by something unexplainable. It makes the Hitler following much easier to believe. Most of the people involved wouldn't have acted that way on their own.

The police officers were being hassled and asked, "Why aren't you doing anything about this?" What exactly were they supposed to do, arrest every person breaking glass, drinking on the streets or picking fights? Maybe the police could have handled it better, but disruption because of a football game is something they shouldn't have had to worry about.

People have begun to expect violence in Aggieville every two years. The crowd was going to make darn sure nobody was disappointed. Once again, K-State fans have made the University look stupid by acting

Maybe next time, the football teams should travel someplace far, far away to play. It really is too bad that the thrill of victory has to be tempered with the agony of embarrassment.

Many students joined the and throats had cleared of the crowd to see friends, "party" and stinging, they came back for to avoid waiting in long lines to more. Those hit by the gas were enter bars. The publicity in Aggieville will reflect the entire police did not throw the gas University so that all K-State canisters. Someone independent students will look as stupid as the Disappointing crowd attends convocation

cond University Convocation of the academic year Tuesday morning in McCain Auditorium.

Few people knew that Brutus was speaking. The fact that he is a South African poet and has risked his life for what he believes was known to even fewer.

Brutus' lecture "South Africa in Turmoil" was attended by a small percentage of the student body, and only a small number of the lower-level seats were used. University Convocations should be well attended, yet when few students and faculty even know that a convocation is taking place, it is difficult to attend even when people want to.

tions; most of them are wellrepresented by the students as was the last one this year on

Kansas

EDITOR

Chris Stewart MANAGING EDITOR

CAMPUS EDITORS

Margaret May EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR

Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR

AGRICULTURE EDITOR

SPORTS EDITOR

COPY EDITORS

June DeWeese

Valerie Johnson STAFF WRITERS

Jeff Bielser Judy Goldberg Becky Howard Pat Hund

COLUMNISTS

Susan Baird

Kirk Caraway

Tracy Carlile

Wayne Long

Tony Carbajo Tom Perrin

SPORTS WRITERS

ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

Tim Fitzgerald ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

Jim Dietz BUSINESS/GOVERNMENT EDITOR

FEATURES/SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR

Todd Nighswonger

Jonie Trued NEWS EDITOR

Erin Eiche

Dennis Brutus delivered the se-nuclear winter by George Carrier of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. When the students and faculty are not informed of the upcoming lectures and convocations, they are not well at-

It is up to the media to let the public know when these events are taking place. It's not surprising that few people attend when no convocation posters can be found in most places on campus and a story preceding the event is hidden on page two of the Collegian the day of the convocation.

It is almost an insult to our campus when there is a sparse audience for a lecture on a newsworthy topic from a noted The University has not had speaker that has survived years poor attendance at past convoca- in prison and neared death frequently. Other campuses in this state would pack a lecture hall for the same speaker.

Chris Stewart

Gary Johnson Andy Martin GRAPHIC ARTISTS

Chrisie Ninci

Brad Camp Brad Fanshier

Brett Hacker

John LaBarge

Renee Beaudo Kirk Caraway

Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL BOARD

ADVERTISING MANAGER

Ronda Corle CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE

Vicki Fernkopf SALES REPRESENTATIVES

ADV. GRAPHIC ARTISTS

Dave Adams
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR

Shelly Shaffer TEARSHEET MANAGER

Patti Hannan ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS DIRECTOR

Gloria Freeland NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

Connie Fulkerson ADV. PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

PHOTOGRAPHERS

CARTOONIST

Editorial

Writing home about Wildcat win

Another K-State vs. Kansas weekend to remember - what a sweet victory to savor. What a headache that won't go away soon enough. Everyone back home wants to know (or do they?) how you spent the weekend. If you weren't featured in television coverage, you must have been somewhere, right? Mom and Dad, your beau back home and your best buddies not lucky enough to be K-Staters are dying to hear from you. Sit down and write them a note. Who knows, maybe they will return the favor, preferably with a crisp $5 or $10 bill in the envelope for good measure.

Write home to the parents first. They miss you the most and are likely to be the most generous with their pocketbooks. How about..

Dear Mom and Dad,

How are you? I'm just fine, aside from being tired of all the studying, my rotten cooking and this nasty cold I just can't seem to shake. (Isn't self-pity great! You're making them feel just about as rotten as you do.) I suppose you heard all about the big football game and the incidents thereafter. Well, I can't say too much, because I really wasn't there, but here's what I've heard.

The football game was great. Those Wildcats dominated in every aspect of every play. The crowd was really into every move and got behind the team with cheering the likes of which you've never heard.

After the game, the fans moved to Aggieville to do some shopping and meet some friends. It was great to see just how friendly, in a brotherly sort of way, those K-State and KU fans could get along and enjoy each other's company.

Later that evening, the fans once again congregated in the streets of Aggieville to celebrate the Wildcat victory. Everyone was so happy! A few even drove through the streets, honking horns and singing the praises of "Purple Pride." They were a little ignorant, though, because it was so terribly crowded and the traffic was a mess! Most everyone soon tired of celebrating and head-

I heard it was a pretty fun weekend. Maybe

TRACY CARLILE Collegian Columnist

next year I won't be stuck in the library researching a term paper, and I may get to enjoy the "friendly rivalry" myself.

Miss you! Write soon. Love, Yours Truly. Next, it's time to write your buddies not fortunate enough to share in the festivities. Here goes.

Dear Steve, Barb and Sue, You guys should have been here, it was great! What a party to end all parties. I'm so tired! Of course, getting in at four o'clock last night, or was that this morning, may have something to do with that. My stomach feels really weird, too. It must be all those Domino's pizzas. You see, I've quit gives me more time to study! Ha Ha! Have you heard about the football game and the trashing of Aggieville that followed? I don't remember much about it, although everyone keeps looking at me and laughing, cooking and begun living on fast food. It so I must have had fun. Everyone says the football game was pretty boring. After the Wildcats scored a few times, and the Jayhawks made them look good, everyone sobered up and time crawled by. Everyone really showed up just to see the goalposts torn down, anyway. The scene really wasn't nearly as funny as it was two years ago when the band was sent in to protect the goalposts.

After the game, those who could still move under their own power ran to Aggieville to bring their blood alcohol content back to its pregame level. Any time spent not drinking was spent harassing, verbally and otherwise,

After dark, the crowd once again descended on Aggie. Some fools even attempted to drive down Moro Street, much to the chagrin of crazed fans. Wouldn't you just love to drive your car through a mob of beer bottlearmed students and others, and maybe even get treated to a few "Wildcat Victory" dances on your car hood or roof? That is, if you were lucky enough to keep your car's tires on the pavement in spite of all the chants of "Roll it, roll it!" around you.

Monday, October 20, 1986 - 4

We even saw the University president and his wife enjoying the festivities. They brought along their cute, little, fuzzy, white poodle, too. Up here, students and faculty alike know how to celebrate in style.

Everyone finally went home after there were no more windows to break or bottles to throw. There was nothing left to do but go home, get some sleep, and get up in time to see what kind of fools K-Staters were made out to be in the press the following day. Everyone seemed to give them enough to write about.

So much for the craziness. I think I'll just die 'til Monday. I should have spent the weekend working on a term paper, but it's not due 'til Tuesday morning, anyway. I always work best under pressure.

Behave, but don't be too good! Write sooner. Love, Yours Truly.

Last but not least, it's time to write your beau back home. Be sure to make it short but

Dear Sweet Baboo (or insert the pet name of your choice).

I miss you and need you more than life itself. I'm counting the minutes 'til we're together again.

The football game this past weekend was great! Those KU fans were unbelievably hunky and cute - pure heaven on earth. Oh, I really don't remember what the final score was, but someone said we won.

Afterward, the majority descended on Aggieville and proceeded to act just about as immaturely as humanly possible. When will some people grow up?

Well, I must somehow get my mind off you and back to my term paper, even though I'd much rather study you any day. All my love,

WHERE'S MY FOOTBAL WAIT A MINUTE.

Voters support women candidates

WASHINGTON - From Arliss Sturgulewski in Alaska to Julie Belaga in Connecticut, women candidates (like those two gubernatorial nominees) are on the move in 1986, seeking higher offices in greater numbers than ever before. An accident? A coincidence? Hardly. The smart operators have seen it coming and can explain convincingly why it is happening now.

UNIVERSAL PREW SYND.

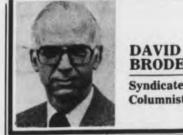

CHOS THE BUFFALD NEW!

Celinda Lake, the candidate services director of the Women's Campaign Fund, says that the breakthrough evidenced by women winning both parties' gubernatorial nominations in Nebraska and both parties' Senate nominations in Maryland has been a long time coming.

Most of us were dazzled when returns from recent primaries in nine states showed 32 women had been nominated for statewide or federal office. It capped a year in which six women have been nominated for the Senate, nine for governor, 10 for lieutenant governor and 53 for the House of Representatives.

Lake did not share the general astonishment. "We're seeing the fruits of the third wave of recruitment," she said. The first wave, which accounted for almost all the victories up to the 1970s, were the women who shifted their energies from volunteer work in civic groups to politics and used their private-sector credentials as an entry pass to public office.

In this third wave, women who have made their marks in lower political offices are setting their sights higher - just as men have done all along. Sturgulewski and Belaga,

BRODER Syndicated Columnist

both Republicans, are experienced legislators who beat male politicians (including a former governor in one case and a former gubernatorial candidate in the other) to win the nominations for chief executives of their states. The opponents in the Maryland Senate race, Democrat Barbara Mikulski and Republican Linda Chavez, are respectively a veteran House member and a former Reagan White House aide.

As Lake pointed out at a seminar sponsored by the Women's Campaign Research Fund during last month's National Conference of State Legislatures, having these credentials is vital to success in jobs with major responsibilities.

"If I had one piece of advice to give to women candidates today," she said, "it would be to establish early on your experience. It is critical that women establish their competence and their managerial ability." Nothing does that quite so well as a record of success in other public offices.

In the Nebraska gubernatorial race which has drawn so much attention, Republican candidate Kay Orr is the state treasurer and Democratic contender Helen Boosalis is the former mayor of Lincoln. Carolyn Warner, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate in Arizona, has been serving as state superintendent of public instruction; Norma Paulus, the Republican candidate for governor of Oregon, is the former secretary of state; Harriet Woods, the Democratic candidate for the Senate in Missouri, is lieutenant governor, etc. These women are doing it the old-fashioned way, paying their dues and serving their apprenticeships, not parachuting in at the top.

HERE IT COMES

Because their credentials are in order and they have records of competence and success, these and many other women candidates are having increasing success in fund raising. Lake says that women challengers in competitive House races have been able to raise about 25 percent more funds on the average this year than in 1984.

More important, the credentials and experience these women candidates have earned help them to exploit what Lake considers their unique advantages as women.

Reviewing the polls in her New Orleans talk, she said, "It is clear that this is an election that will be overwhelmingly determined...by the basic character of candidates. People are looking for elected officials they feel comfortable with, that they trust to do a good job ... that they trust to take their interests to the state house and the U.S.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Lack of rapport causes resignation

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

Ronald Hess, professor of architecture, will resign his position as head of the Department of Architecture at the end of the semester because of his inability to establish rapport with other faculty members, he said.

Hess, who was hired as professor of architecture and department head in September 1985, said he believed other staff members were not used to his type of leadership.

"My approach was perhaps a more informal approach, and they were used to a more formal approach," he said.

Hess said Mark Lapping, dean of the College of Architecture and Design, asked him to consider resigning because he didn't believe Hess was communicating with faculty members.

Hess said he met with faculty last week to evaluate his performance and decided it would be appropriate to step down.

"I discussed it with the faculty and came to the realization that things were not going as well as I had hoped

The Arden Trio is "a splendid ensemble, technically brilliant, with an impressive command of

All Faiths Chapel Wednesday, October 22, 1986 8:00 p.m.

Featuring Suzanne Ornstein, Violinist Clay Ruede, Cellist Thomas Schmidt, Pianist

Haydn . . . Trio in D Major, Hob. XV: 16 Saint-Saens . . . Trio No. 2 in e minor, Tickets and Information (913) 532-6428 MasterCard/VISA accepted

Ravel . . . Trio in a minor (1915)

Gene Ernst, professor of architecture, said he was satisfied with Hess's style of management, but other faculty members may have wanted someone who was more aggressive in making decisions. "I was comfortable with Ron Hess as a department head," he said. Ernst said he believed Hess's management policy may have been inconsistant with Dean Lapping's expectations. Lapping could not be reached for Richard Forsyth, associate dean of the College of Architecture, said he believed Hess resigned for personal reasons. He said he didn't wish to comment on Hess' leadership style or about the speculation that Lapping may have persuaded Hess to Robert Burnham, associate professor of architecture, will replace Hess as department head at the beginning of the 1987 spring semester.

When Burnham becomes department head, one of his top priorities will be to establish more communication between the faculty and himself so that conceptualized plans can be implemented, he said.

Goodnow issues blood challenge

By The Collegian Staff

Goodnow Hall Governing Board has issued an all-hall challenge to raise the turnout for the bloodmobile this week.

The challenge will be based on the percentage turnout for each residence hall, said Todd Stritzke, director of the blood-drive challenge and junior in mechanical engineering. A credit book will be available at the bloodmobile to register all donors and volunteers.

Dr. Mark Hatesohl

3252 Kimball Avenue

(In the Candlewood Center)

kinko's

Monday-Thursday

7:30-Midnight

Friday 7:30-7:00

Saturday 9-5

Sunday 10-Midnight

Auntie

Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Monday

HIGH

ROLLERS

Any Call or

Premium Drink

only

616 N. 12th 539-9967

537-7340

1110 Laramie

Chiropractic Family Health Center

Intramural Injuries

Injuries

537-8305

Sports

Call

One credit will be given for donating a pint of blood or for two hours of volunteer work, said Stritzke, who is a representative of the Association of Residence Halls. A person can earn two credits by donating and working.

"This is the first year we've issued a (formal, written) challenge," he said. "A two-column notice of recognition will be printed in the Collegian for the winners."

The five larger halls - Ford,

Goodnow, Haymaker, Moore and Marlatt - will be competing separately from the smaller halls. Boyd, Edwards, West and Putnam halls, along with Smurthwaite and Smith Scholarship houses, will vie for a different traveling trophy. Currently, Goodnow and Smith Scholarship House hold the

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will be Tuesday through Friday in the Union K, S and U Ballrooms.

CHEAP MONDAYS & TUESDAYS!

8250 PITCHERS

HAVE YOU JOINED OUR AROUND THE WORLD

Crawl out from under the books

COMEDY INVASION TONIGHT at 9 p.m.

531 N. Manhattan

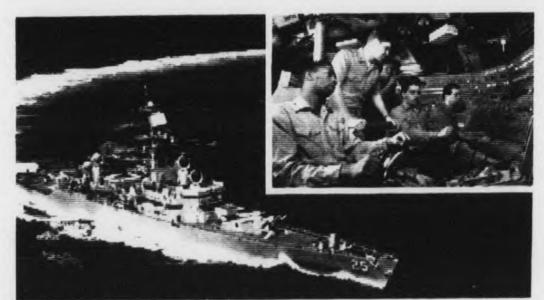

Bar Office 539-9727 539-4321

Buy any pizza and receive one of equal value FREE!

TRAIN WITH THE NUCLEAR INDUSTRY'S LEADER, AND YOU COULD END UP LEADING THE INDUSTRY.

Over half the nuclear reactors in America are operated by one organization. The Navy.

The technology is the most advanced in the world. The men in charge are the industry's best. put you at the forefront of the nuclear industry. That's why the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidacy Program is the most sophisticated training available.

It has to be.

program can earn $1100 a month while still in school. In addition, you get a $4000 bonus upon entrance into the program, and an additional $2000 when you complete your Naval studies.

And, as an officer in today's Nuclear Navy, you receive a year of paid graduate-level training - gaining the experience and credentials that can

You must be a U.S. citizen, 26 years of age or younger upon commissioning, working toward a bachelor's or master's degree. You must also have completed a minimum of one year each of College juniors and seniors who qualify for the calculus and calculus-based physics with a "B" average or better.

So if you've started thinking about a career in the nuclear field, think about starting at the top. You can apply after your sophomore year.

INTERVIEWING ON CAMPUS OCTOBER 21, 1986 STOP BY OR CALL THE PLACEMENT CENTER FOR APPOINTMENT

STUDENT HAIRCARE SAVINGS!

-- COUPON SAVINGS-OFF STUDENT CUT MasterCuts

OFF STUDENT CUT MasterCuts

SE OFF ANY PERM

MasterCuts
family haircutters 539-2535

enter the SOUL MAN SWEEPS TAKES TINENTAL and Win a Trip to Denver on CONTINENTAL plus a Week's Ski Vacation for Two at the Famous COPPER MOUNTAIN & SKI RESORT.

Mark Watson would have sold his soul to get through law school.

Instead, he found it.

NEW WORLD PICTURES IN ASSOCIATION WITH BALCOR FILM INVESTORS PRESENTS A STEVE TISCH PRODUCTION A STEVE MINER FILM SOUL MAN STARRING C. THOMAS HOWELL - RAE DAWN CHONG - ARYE GROSS - JAMES B. SIKKING LESLIE NIELSEN AND JAMES EARL JONES AS PROFESSOR BANKS • WRITTEN BY CAROL BLACK

OPENS EVERYWHERE, OCTOBER 24.

Singing group gives concert featuring inspirational music

By AMY GREENE Collegian Reporter

A melange of spirit-filled voices sang to uplift the Lord and to blend the audience and choirs as one.

The United Black Voices presented their second annual "Gospel Extravaganza" on Sunday in the Union Forum Hall.

With the expression of love and fellowship that abounded throughout the choir, the gospel of Jesus Christ was carried to the audience in psalms, songs and praise.

The Gospel Extravaganza featured the United Black Voices of K-State, the Kansas University Inspirational Voices Gospel Choir from Lawrence, the Iowa State University Choir from Ames, and a member of the Voices of Truth Choir from Fort

One purpose of the program was to raise money through dollar donations for United Black Voices. The choir plans to use the money to purchase uniforms and pay transportation expenses. The United Black Voices is an independant student organization not funded by the university or student fees. Its members come from all parts of the university community. The mission of the 40 members of the United Black Voices is to uplift the name of the Lord through song.

Gospel music is a form of carrying the gospel of Jesus Christ to the public. Gospel Music acquired its beginnings in America during the turbulent times of slavery.

"Often, the black slaves would sing of going to heaven and leaving their world of bondage and suffering," said Joe Walker, senior in electrical engineering and master of ceremonies for the program.

"Since that time," Walker said, "gospel has inspired blues, jazz, country, soul and even rock 'n' roll music. Gospel music touches the heart, soul and mind of men."

K-State's United Black Voices choir began in 1968 when member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. expressed a concern to expose the University and surrounding communities to the rich flavor of black gospel music. Since that time, United Black Voices has grown and traveled to many different places, statewide and nationwide. The choir has appeared on television and cut a Greta Spears, junior in radio television and director of United Black Voices, said the Extravaganza enables everyone to come together to share a common bond.

Overall, Spears said the program went quite well.

"I was really impressed, really impressed," said Monique Scroggins, sophomore in marketing. Scroggins said she wished there were more people in attendance.

A reception followed the program allowing the audience and the choir members to become acquainted.

William Sutton, vice president for educational and student services, and United Black Voices adviser Anne Butler of educational supportive services were in attendence.

Members of United Black Voices, K-State's gospel choir, break from singing to listen to the Kansas University Inspirational Voices Gospel Choir during the second annual "Gospel Extravaganza" Sunday in Union Forum Hall.

OPEC may renew quotas; leaders predict price jump

By The Associated Press

GENEVA - Saudi Arabia's oil minister said Sunday that OPEC may renew its temporary oil production quota system within 24 hours, and reportedly predicted that this would mean a jump in oil

Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani was asked in an impromptu encounter with reporters in a Geneva hotel if he thought OPEC's production control negotiations in Geneva would reach an agreement Sun-

He replied: "No, maybe not today. Tomorrow, I hope.

Later, it was announced that a full OPEC session scheduled for Sunday was postponed until Monday. The oil ministers met informally instead in small groups throughout the day

Javier Espinosa Teran, Ecuador's oil minister, said the postponement was needed to give the ministers more time to work out a compromise on Kuwait's demand for a larger production

The 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has been meeting since Oct. 6 trying to agree on a permanent formula for limiting oil production as a means of reversing the downward spiral of oil prices. A world oil glut has driven down

Saudi Arabia cleared the way for a possible compromise Saturday by saying it no longer opposed a two-month renewal of the temporary system of production controls, which is due to expire Oct.

Kuwait's al-Watan newspaper on Sunday quoted Yamani as saying the accord would probably boost oil prices from their present levels of $14 to $16 a barrel.

"We predict an upward movement in oil prices as a result of the agreement's renewal," he reportedly said. "But barring such accord, prices will undoubtedly collapse.'

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

Use of props helps friar spread gospel

By JULIE ANDSAGER Collegian Reporter

Props, puppets and Japanese theater techniques will help a Franciscan friar deliver the message of the gospel at 7:30 tonight in the Union Catskeller.

Brother Jon Bankert, 42, is an unordained friar in the Society of St. Francis, a religious order within the Episcopalian church. He travels across the country delivering 60-75 performances a year. Bankert has been performing since he was 6

Bankert uses various props such as fans, a cosmic hat and a rod puppet in his pieces. Sometimes he adds a puppet modeled on an ancient Indonesian art form. Before Bankert audience interpretation.

Wichita_

Family Planning Inc.

became a friar, he was a professional puppeteer on the East Coast.

While the purpose of these props is to help get his message across, Bankert said he chose this style of performing for another reason.

"It pleases me. I find it aesthetically pleasing. I find it artistically satisfying," Bankert said. "Because I'm involved in what I'm doing it brings my audience along with me. It brings the audience into as deep a prayer as I'm experienc-

Bankert uses the Japanese dance technique called Noh theater to involve his audiences. This dance form is characterized by its appeal to the audience's perceptions. The performer's message is basically left to "One of the classical aesthetic aspects of Noh theater is that the audience contributes as much to the beauty of the performance as the performer does. The total beauty has to do with what the audience does and what the performer does," Bankert said.

Most of the performances consist of two or three short pieces, and usually last an hour or longer. To give his most effective performances, Bankert said he likes to work for a fairly small audience.

"I need to see the people I'm performing for. I need to see the whites of their eyes," he said. Though Bankert is Episcopalian, he said his message is simply the word of the gospel.

"I suppose my message is the message of the gospel. The universe is good, humanity is created in God's image and as such is good. We should rejoice in life. We are co-creators and as such are creative," Bankert Bankert's performance is sponsored by St. Francis Episcopal, St. Isidore's Catholic Church, Ecumenical Campus Ministries, the American Baptist Campus Center and the Lutheran Student Movement. It is free and open to the public.

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS MEETING

Monday, Oct. 20, 1986 8 p.m. Durland 152

Guest Speaker: Larry Montgomery Candidate for State Treasurer

Paid by Kansans for Montgomery

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours.

3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

BOOKSTORE UNION ARE

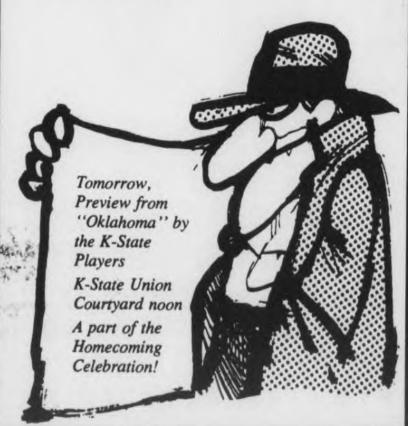

Monday, October 20, 1986

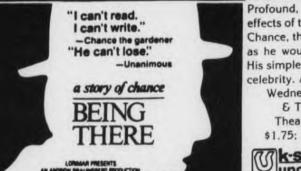

k-state union

Today through October 31, Historical Retrospective of KSU from the KSU Archives. Second Floor Showcase K-State Union.

FREE

PETER SELLERS SHIRLEY MACLAINE "BEING THERE"

JACK WARDEN - MELVYN DOUGLAS RICHARD DYSART - RICHARD BASEHART RAY BY JERTY ROBINGHI - BASED ON THE MOVEL BY JERTY R C BY JOHNNY MARGEL - EXECUTIVE PRODUCES JICK SCHWAS

Straight From The Pages of

James Bond

Nov. 15 & 16

Profound, humorous commentary on the effects of television. Peter Sellers portrays Chance, the gardner, who views the world as he would TV, watching and reacting. His simple solutions make him a national celebrity. Also stars Shirley MacLaine.

Wednesday 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall & Thursday 3:30 p.m. Little Theatre, 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall $1.75; Rated PG; KSU ID required.

k-state union

PETER N. JAMES

New at the Union Movies-CONCES SIONS are now being sold at all UPC films held in Forum Hall. Any refreshments purchased on K-State Union premises, welcome for all movies Little Theatre.

> Peter N. James has captivated KSU audiences on two occasions. Don't miss this opportunity to hear one of the best lectures

> > FREE TOMORROW 8 p.m. Forum Hall

"Peter N. James, a former rocket engineer who says he served secretly as a CIA spy, held his audience almost spellbound Friday night with a tale that might have been lifted straight from the pages of James Bond."

Mark Fisher Winsted Evening Citizen

TOMORROW 7 p.m. Union Rm. 208 SIGN-UP: 8:15 a.m.-4 p.m. Activities Center Students Oct. 22-Nov. 11 General Public Oct. 23-Nov. 11

INFO MTG:

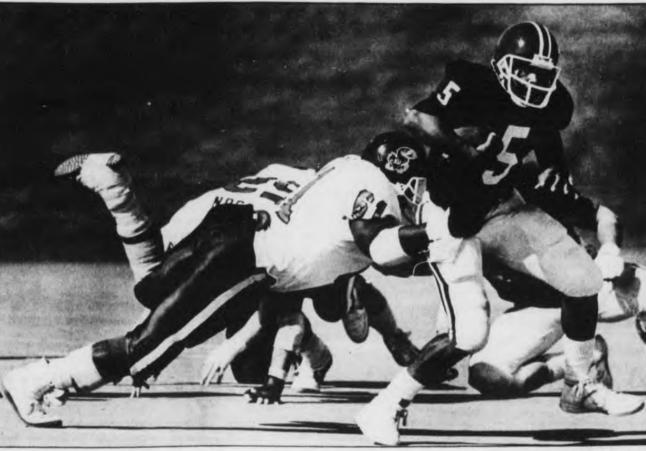

k-state union

k-state union upc outdoor rec.

K-State wins battle of Sunflower State rivals by shelling KU, 29-12

K-State fans celebrate the victory over the University of Kansas Saturday on what is left of the goalpost on the north end of KSU Stadium. The goalpost was torn down near the end of the K-State-KU game.

K-State quarterback Randy Williams attempts to elude the grasp of right tackle Guy Gamble during the fourth quarter. Williams completed 10 of 17 passes for 128 yards and gained 10 yards rushing.

By TOM PERRIN Sports Writer

Even before his first season as K-State head football coach began, Stan Parrish billed Saturday's matchup with Kansas as the most important game on the Wildcats' schedule.

This was the big one, the in-state rivalry. And with four losses in K-State's first five games, the game took on even greater significance. If there was to be a turning point in the Wildcats' fortunes in 1986, this would likely have to be where it happens.

As game time drew nearer, the pressure began to mount on Parrish. 'I went over to breakfast (Saturday morning) and I was nervous as hell. I didn't sleep," Parrish said. "I felt so good all week and I was so relaxed and then I didn't sleep at all Friday night, which really threw me

With preparations for the game completed, all Parrish could hope for was a great response from his football team.

And in the end, things couldn't have turned out any better for Parrish and K-State as the Wildcats romped all over favored KU 29-12 before 38,320 fans in KSU Stadium.

"I felt very good going into the game because I knew the kind of effort that we were going to expend," Parrish said. "We took the chance (that) if we lost the game, maybe we couldn't come up with that kind of effort again. But I felt the gamble was worth it."

One look at the scoreboard was all it took to see the risk had paid off.

In the end, the deciding factor in the game may have been intensity. K-State players seemed to have it. KU didn't.

"You can tell sometimes by the look in their eyes, and they didn't want it as bad as us," K-State defensive tackle Jeff Hurd said.

"KU didn't have a clue about what this game was about," offensive lineman Bob Bessert said. "It went right over their heads."

While Parrish talked up the game all week and brought his team to a peak Saturday, Jayhawk Coach Bob Valesente treated the Sunflower State rivalry as merely the next game on KU's schedule.

Asked by a reporter if he wished he had approached the game any differently from an emotional standpoint, a visibly upset Valsente snapped back, "Yes, I would change the

"There's no way - I guarantee you - he (Valesente) won't say it's just another game next year," Parrish said. "His people won't permit him to say it."

K-State's emotional edge carried the Wildcats through some rough times in the first quarter. Three times (two times after K-State turnovers) KU had the ball inside the Wildcat 20-yard line, but all three times the Jayhawks came up short. A missed field goal, a fumble into the end zone and a penalty thwarted the KU drives.

'That's very trying on a ball club when you come away empty-handed three times," Valesente said. "If we had capitalized, we could have come away with 21 points in the first half."

While the Jayhawks squelched opportunities, K-State made good on its chances and showed signs of an adequate offensive attack.

The Wildcats' first score, a 21-yard field goal by Mark Porter, capped off a 41-yard drive midway through the first quarter. K-State's defense trapped KU deep in its own territory to set up the 'Cats' first touchdown drive that was capped by 12-yard scoring pass from quarterback Randy Williams to wide receiver Dan

Running back Tony Jordan (98 vards in 25 carries for the afternoon) did much of the work on the touchdown drive, which allowed the 'Cats to take a 16-0 lead into the locker room at halftime. Jordan ran the ball five times for 27 yards during the drive and scored on a 2-yard run.

Just about the only time the outcome of the game was in doubt was during the second half after KU's speedy running back, Arnold Snell scored on an 18-yard run early in the fourth quarter to close the gap to

A 20-yard field goal by Porter midway through the fourth quarter and a 39-yard interception return for a touchdown by defensive back Erick Harper put the lid on the Wildcat victory and set up the traditional postgame celebration.

As expected, the goalposts in both end zones came down. But unlike the scene after the K-State victory over KU two years ago, the K-State athletic department and K-State Police were prepared for the in-

The athletic department had in-See RIVALRY, Page 10

K-State running back Tony Jordan celebrates after scoring a touchdown in the contest. Jordan was the game's leading rusher with 98 yards on 25 carries.

'Cats linebackers haunt Orth by utilizing blitz

By RON RENO Sports Writer

Kansas quarterback Mike Orth undoubtedly came into Saturday's game eager to boost his statistics against a K-State defense that had been allowing an average of more than 450 yards a game.

He left KSU Stadium shaking his head in disbelief.

Orth was harassed on almost every play by an aggressive defense - which had blitzing linebackers in KU's backfield throughout the game - that limited Kansas' offense to 165 yards and forced four turnovers in K-State's 29-12 win.

K-State's swarming defense was led by junior linebacker Grady Newton, who was involved in all three of K-State's quarterback sacks and hurried Orth on several other oc-

"Everybody just ran to the ball," Newton said. "You get everybody going to the ball and something is going to happen. Everybody was keyed up and ready to play.'

The 'Cats' defense set the tempo for the afternoon by stopping the Jayhawks cold the first few times they had the ball. "It told us that we could stop them,"

Newton said. "It told us if we stopped them on the first three downs, we wouldn't be as tired. I think that kind of broke their concentration when we stopped them. They didn't seem to be fired up too much."

Kansas was limited to a total of 12 first downs. Much of the credit for shutting down KU was given to a "young" linebacking corps that featured two freshman starters.

"The newspapers said that we were too young, and I think we went out and showed them today," said linebacker Dewayne Baziel, one of those freshmen.

"The defense all played together as a team. That's what caused a lot of turnovers," added Baziel, who had one of the team's three interceptions. "We worked hard for the last two weeks, and we came into the game ready to play. We looked to shut them down, but we were a little surprised that we shut them down the way we did. We didn't think that we could do it so well. But man, does it ever feel good."

Coach Stan Parrish credited the defensive success to the play of the entire unit.

"We played with great effort and intensity," he said. "We gambled a little more today. We blitzed, we got some heat (on the quarterback) from our front people. We played as a team today.'

Linebacker Brent Cotton, who had six tackles and broke up two passes, said the 'Cats' defense left the Jayhawks confused. "I think we mixed things up to keep them off guard. We came with a lot of blitzes, and See DEFENSE, Page 10

Head coach Stan Parrish rides the shoulders of his players after guiding his squad to a 29-12 victory over the University of Kansas. Parrish, in his first year at K-State, picked up his initial win in the

Volleyball team to meet KU, aims to shatter Jayhawk jinx

By JENNY CHAULK Collegian Reporter

One down, one to go.

First it was the invasion of the Kansas Jayhawk football team Saturday, but the Wildcats repelled the charge 29-12 in KSU Stadium. Tonight, KU's volleyball team comes to Ahearn Field House for what should be an intense match between the intrastate rivals.

"For us, it means more to win this match than any other this year," K-State hitter Val Kastens said about tonight's 7:30 match.

KU and K-State have met three times this year, with the Lady Jayhawks winning all of those matches in four games.

K-State Coach Scott Nelson said KU's experience is one factor that contributed to the victories over the

"KU doesn't make a lot of errors," Nelson said. "They play within their system. They are also one of the top defensive teams in the country. This year, we have a fairly average offensive team, so we'll have to work hard

"There's no doubt we can compete with them. When we have an opportunity to win a game, we need to execute and do just that. We didn't do this in our first couple of matches against them.'

K-State players know what to expect from KU, in addition to its good defense.

"They like to hit crosscourt and tip to the middle," K-State setter Mary Mignano said. "To win this match means a lot, especially since we beat them every time we played them last

Kastens said the match could be a long one, a sentiment echoed by

"We're 4-1 in matches that have gone to five games," Nelson said. "A large crowd will be a definite advantage for us. It would be nice to have more than 1,000 people there.'

KU is ranked third in the Big Eight Conference with a 3-1 record. K-State is fifth at 1-3.

"A win against KU will definitely move us up in the standings," Nelson said. "It would make things very tight because KU would drop to 3-2 and we would go to 2-3."

Nelson said he will stick with his primary nucleus of eight players for the match: Leslie Kull, Helen Bundy, Shawnee Call, Tami Tibbetts, Cindy Durham, Kristi Jacquart, Kristin Martin and Kastens.

Mignano also should see playing time due to a shoulder injury to Martin that was aggravated last week, Nelson said.

'Cats' cross country teams prove they belong among NCAA's best

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

K-State's cross country teams went to the Wisconsin-Burger King Invitational Saturday to prove they belonged among the elite of the collegiate cross country world.

Both teams accomplished their goals as the women finished fourth and the men sixth.

The women, ranked No. 8 nationally, were out to prove they are a legitimate contender for top national honors against a field that included the Nos. 1 and 2 teams in the country (Wisconsin and Texas) and seven of the top 15 teams.

As expected, Texas and Wisconsin took the top two honors in the women's race with 30 points and 85 points, respectively. Brigham Young, ranked sixth last week, barely edged the women's squad with a score of 113 to K-State's 117.

"This was a great race for the women as they ran well against the top two teams in the country," said John Capriotti, K-State track and cross country coach. "It was a very close race in the end, and we ran close as a team."

Individually, Chris Vanatta paced the women with a seventh-place finish in 17 minutes, 9 seconds. Vanatta was followed by Alysun Deckert (18th), Angie Barry (27th), Betsy Silzer (32nd), Jacque Struckhoff (48th) and Nancy Hoff-

The men, currently unranked, traveled to Wisconsin with one thing in mind — to attain a top 20 ranking. Capriotti wanted the men to knock off a few of the ranked teams present and gain some national attention in the process.

Arizona took the men's title with 45 points, edging Wisconsin, who came in a close second with 51.

K-State finished with 117 points. "This was a fantastic race for the men," Capriotti said. "Every team in the meet was ranked in the top 20 except for us, so I was surprised we could even beat any of the teams.' All-American hopeful Ron Stahl led the men with a time of 24:37, good for 22nd. Stahl was followed by David Warders (32nd), Jim Knudsen (35th), Pat Hessini (39th), David Keller (45th), Rob Hayes (52nd) and Matt Vavala (60th).

Both teams, off this weekend, will resume action Nov. 1 in the Big Eight Conference Championships at Manhattan's Warner Park.

Alumni baseball players return to test current 'Cat talent

By DAVE WAGNER Collegian Reporter

K-State baseball alumni gathered at Frank Myers Field Friday evening for the Second Annual KSU Alumni Game. The event, which consisted of two seven-inning contests, attracted 26 alumni from around the Midwest. "We had a couple of alumni from Texas and one from the Chicago area," baseball coach Mike Clark said. "We are really thrilled with the turnout...They showed some real enthusiasm about our program and everybody seemed to have a good time.'

The alumni, playing in a more relaxed atmosphere than the current K-State players, called upon talent that carried them through their college baseball days and made a respectable showing in the evening's

Because K-State pitchers Darryl Rowley and Ray Baughn allowed the alumni squad only one hit and no runs in the first game to lead the 'Cats to a 4-0 victory, highlights of the double-header occurred mostly in the second game. In game No. 2, the alumni players showed that there was still some spark left in their game. Led by 1980 graduates Scott Pick and Don Hess, who each had home runs, the alumni scored seven runs to narrow the margin, but the old-timers still lost 10-7.

The K-State baseball team collected a total of 16 hits in the two games. Most all the players were given the opportunity to play and played well, Clark said.

'This is really a fantastic way to bring some the alumni back," said Steve Anson, a 1976 graduate who is the baseball coach at Washburn University in Topeka. "I came because I want to show my support for the program and for the fun of being back at K-State.

"I was even a little surprised at how good we (the alumni team) looked. There were a few who showed that they still had some of their talent.'

The main purpose of the event was to keep the baseball alumni involved in the program. Clark said an alumnus can be a great help in recruiting by bringing a prospect in his area to the attention of the coaching staff.

The double-header was followed by a buffet dinner that gave the former players a chance to get acquainted and tell stories about their days playing college ball. There were many alumni who wanted to return for the event but couldn't.

"I'd say we received about 50 letters from former players who expressed interest in getting involved in our program," Clark said. "That's what we want more than anything alumni involvement. They play a big part in building a strong program."

K-State's baseball team went back to real competition on Sunday, losing a double-header to Creighton University at Myers Field. The Wildcats were outscored 9-8 in the opener and were plagued by errors in a 4-1 loss in

In the opener, Creighton snapped a 5-5 deadlock in the top of the eighth inning. With two outs and the bases loaded, a bad-hop single to right field allowed two runs to score and gave Crieghton momentum for the win. Otto Kaifes paced K-State offensively with two hits and three runs batted in. Rusty Ringgenberg, Jeff Turtle and Jim Donohue each had two hits and one RBI apiece. Mike Hamacher, 0-1, took the loss for the Wildcat pitcher Darryl Rowley received little defensive assistance in the second game as five K-State miscues led to Creighton's four runs all unearned. It was the first loss of the fall season for Rowley, 3-1.

The 'Cats are scheduled to host Iowa Western in a 1 p.m. doubleheader Sunday at Myers Field.

BoSox returning to Fenway with 2-0 lead in Fall Classic

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Dwight Evans and Dave Henderson hit home runs in Boston's 18-hit attack that spoiled the pitchers' duel that never was, and the Red Sox completed a sweep of the first two games of the World Series at New York by beating the Mets 9-3 Sunday night. Boston won the first game of the Series 1-0 Saturday. Sunday's game offered a matchup of two of the game's best pitchers, 24-game winner Roger Clemens of Boston and last year's National League Cy Young winner, Dwight Gooden of New York. But neither pitcher was around after five innings as the offenses took over, with Boston outhitting the Mets 18-8.

Now, the Red Sox, series underdogs, take a 2-0 lead in games in the best-of-seven series back to Fenway Park in Boston, where the next three games are scheduled. Only Kansas City last year has ever lost the first two games at home and come back to win the series.

Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 16-10 during the season, was scheduled to face former Red Sox pitcher Bob Ojeda, 18-5, a left-hander, in Game 3 Tuesday night.

Henderson, the hero of Boston's Game 5 playoff victory with a ninth-inning homer, hit a solo homer in the fourth inning off Gooden, and Evans hit a two-run shot in Gooden's last inning, the fifth, as the Red Sox took a 6-2 lead. The Red Sox scored two more runs in the seventh on five consecutive singles off Rick Aguilera to put the game away. Wade Boggs' RBI double in the ninth ended the scoring.

Boston's 18 hits were two hits shy of the World Series single-game record set by the New York Giants in 1921 and St. Louis Cardinals in Clemens, who failed to go five innings only twice this season, was knocked out of the game in the fifth after giving up three runs on five hits in his third straight outing on three-days rest.

The Mets, who hit just .189 in the playoffs, were held to four hits in losing the first game 1-0, and Manager Dave Johnson benched regulars Ray Knight and Mookie Wilson in favor of Howard Johnson and Danny Heep to try to get more offense. Johnson and Heep were a combined 0-for-6. The Red Sox scored three of their runs in the third off Gooden, aided by a rare throwing error by Mets first baseman Keith Hernandez, winner of eight straight Gold Gloves. The Mets scored twice in the third, failed to score in the fourth when Gooden hit for himself with two out and two on, then chased Clemens with a run in the fifth. Relievers Steve Crawford and Bob Stanley shut out the Mets over the final 4 2-3 innings. Gooden, meanwhile, gave up five earned runs on eight hits before he was relieved by Aguilera to start the sixth. Gooden had not given up as many as five earned runs in a game since Aug. 6 against the Chicago Cubs in a game that he won 7-6. Spike Owen walked to start the Red Sox third. Clemens bunted the first pitch in front of the plate, and it was fielded by Hernandez. Owen had broken back to first on the pitch, but Hernandez rushed his throw to second, apparently to try to get a double play. The throw was in the dirt in front of the bag, and shortstop Rafael Santana was unable to handle it. Both runners were safe, and Boggs lined a double inside the left-field line to score Owen.

Clemens, who went to third on the hit, scored when Marty Barrett singled into right field, and Boggs scored the third run when Bill Buckner grounded a single between first and second - a ball that Hernandez normally handles.

The Mets scored their first runs of the Series in the bottom half of the inning, cutting the Boston lead

Kenney rallies Chiefs to 42-41 win

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Back up quarterback Bill Kenney rallied Kansas City for two second-half touchdowns after defensive players scored four second quarter touchdowns as the Chiefs beat San Diego 42-41 Sunday to extend the Chargers' losing streak to six games.

Rolf Benirschke missed a 35-yard field goal with 28 seconds left. A pass interference on Chiefs' cornerback Greg Hill set up the Chargers at the Kansas City 17.

"My best days are ahead of me," said Kenney, who lost his starting job to Blackledge before the season

'Somehow I knew I would play today," Kenney said. "I'm a better quarterback than I ever have been. I've worked hard and I've prepared. I've proven that I can come off the bench and be ready.'

Kansas City safety Lloyd Burruss intercepted Dan Fouts three times and returned two for touchdowns, going 56 yards and 47 yards in the second quarter.

The Chiefs, 4-3, got a third score in the period when Kevin Ross scooped up a fumbled kick-off and ran 21 yards to the end zone.

San Diego defensive end Leslie O'Neal scored with less than a minute left in the first half after intercepting Blackledge at the Kansas City 5. Blackledge tried to hit Boyce Green in the flat, but didn't get the ball over the 6-foot-4 rookie end who brought San Diego to within 28-24 at Kenney relieved Blackledge at the start of the second half and threw a 16-yard touchdown pass to Stephone Paige. The Chiefs added another touchdown on a 1-yard run by Boyce Green with 10:18 left in the game. Mark Herrmann relieved Fouts at the start of the second half and guided San Diego to 17 points, throwing a 12-yard touchdown pass to Gary Anderson with 3:42 left in the game. Anderson scored on a two-yard run and Rolf Benirschke kicked a 21-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Fouts, who has thrown 19 interceptions this year, suffered a mild concussion and did not start the second half after passing for 200 yards and one touchdown in the first half.

Anderson caught a seven-yard touchdown pass from Fouts in the first quarter that gave the Chargers a 7-7 tie and Benirschke later kicked a 31-yard field goal.

Paige, who set an NFL record with catches for 309 yards against the Chargers last year, caught a 45-yard touchdown pass from Blackledge early in the first quarter.

Albert Lewis ended a San Diego drive late in the fourth quarter by intercepting a Herrmann pass at the Burruss picked off his first Fouts pass early in the second quarter.

Chiefs' 2.

Fouts completed seven of nine pases for 49 yards while moving San Diego 75 vards for its first score. He then led the Chargers 75 yards in the second quarter, completing five of five passes for 57 yards, before Buford McGee scored on a 1-yard

Kansas City's first score was set up when Lewis partially blocked a Ralf Mojsiejenko punt.

In other NFL games played Sunday, the Chicago Bears were beaten 23-7 by the Minnesota Vikings and the Green Bay Packers upset Cleveland 17-14.

Elsewhere, Atlanta and San Francisco played to a 10-10 tie, New England blanked Pittsburgh 34-0; New Orleans routed Tampa Bay 38-7; Washington clipped St. Louis 28-21; the Los Angeles Raiders edged Miami 30-28; Dallas turned back Philadelphia 17-14; Cincinnati trimmed Houston 31-28 and Buffalo turned back Indianapolis 24-13, Los Angeles dumped Detroit 14-10, and Seattle outlasted the New York Giants 17-12.

Tennis team wins two at Nebraska

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's women's tennis team evened its season record at 5-5 with two wins at a quad tournament hosted by the University of Nebraska at Lincoln Saturday.

Nebraska dumped K-State 8-1 in one match, but K-State recorded wins over Northern Colorado (5-4) and Creighton (6-3).

Strong singles play highlighted

K-State's weekend. The four top singles players for the Wildcats -Lena Svensson, Annika Emtell. Valerie Rive and Kristy Line - each claimed two wins out of their three weekend matches.

"Overall, we played well," K-State Coach Steve Bietau said. "I was happy to go 2-1 this weekend. We are not deep enough to have a bad match against Nebraska and still win with everyone not playing well."

In doubles play, the teams of Svensson-Emtell and Rive-Line also claimed two of their three matches. All three of K-State's doubles teams fell to Nebraska.

"For us to beat Nebraska, we need good match from everyone." Bietau said. K-State will have a couple of weekends off before traveling to Wichita on Nov. 1 for a duel with the Wichita State Shockers.

Rivalry Continued from Page 9 stalled $50 plastic goalposts to replace the $5,000 steel ones, and the police left their mace cans at home. "There were a lot of fans with their hands up in the air late in the ballgame, and that's a great feeling for them," Parrish said. "I was really pleased with the crowd." Fans spilled on to the stadium turf with 28 seconds left in the game to tear down the goalposts. They quickly cleared the field after taking their

After Wildcat defensive back Marcus Miller ended KU's final scoring threat with three seconds remaining, fans returned to the field and began exchanging high fives with K-State players. Rather than waste time clearing the field again, the referees called off the game to let the celebration among fans and Wildcat players continue.

Kansas First downs 21 64-190 Rushes-yards Passing yards 27-62 Return yards 10-17-1 6-44 13-34-3 8-41 Punts Penalties-yards 22:10

Individual Statistics RUSHING— Kansas, Snell 17-72, Rogers 6-21, Henderson 1-1, Orth 3-(-32). K-State, Jordan 25-98, Moody 22-64, R. Williams 11-15, Wilson 4-20, Scott

Jordan 2-15, Elder 1-16.

3-3, J. Williams, 2-(-5).

PASSING— Kansas, Orth 13-34-3-103. K-State, R. Williams 10-17-1-128.

RECEIVING— Kansas, Snell 4-25, Caldwell 3-13, Samuel 2-13, Harvey 1-24, Wedel 1-13, Parks 1-10, Rogers 1-5. K-State, Hughes 5-57, Brown 2-40,

Defense

Continued from Page 9

we mixed up a lot of man and zone coverages," he said. "It mixed their timing up, it really took them off stride.'

The Wildcats' defensive zeal cost them a few 15-yard penalties for unsportsmanlike conduct, but Parrish shrugged them off as part of the team's overall aggressiveness.

"We played like a team on a mission," he said. "The team wanted to win very, very, very badly, and that was the intangible I was banking on.

"It was a great effort from our kids. We played the whole 60 minutes with a lot of emotion and a lot of

(eggrall & fried rice 99¢)

537-0886

Free Delivery 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Open 7 days a week Free Delivery

MONDAY SPECIAL!!!

Buy any size pizza and get the 2nd one FREE!

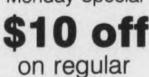

11 a.m.-Midnight Good Monday Only 7 days a week

Free Delivery

1800 Claflin FirstBank Center 776-0004

the second of th

perm with Karie or Dawn on Mondays

Special. Tanning Sessions 10 for $20

with this coupon

expires 11-15-86 717 N. 11th Aggieville

539-8920 Nautilus Towers

BIKE SALE

Year end close out of

1986 Raleigh Bikes Save $20 to $50 on a New Raleigh Bike

Sale through Oct. 31

Open Monday thru Saturday 8 to 5:30 Sunday Noon to 5

Coalition plans awareness on Central American issues

By The Collegian Staff

Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., addressed the Kansas Coalition on Central America's annual meeting Saturday at the First Methodist Church, 612 Poyntz Ave. The Manhattan Alliance on Central America hosted the meeting.

"Slattery has been our one good man," said Justin Palmer, president of Students in Solidarity with Central America (SISCA) and senior in philosophy. "He's voted consistently on the good side. He said some things we don't see eye to eye with, but he's taken a courageous stand in Congress. He has to put up with the Red Scare going through Congress. "Slattery has kind of taken the national leadership in getting aid taken away from the contras.

Slattery is planning a factfinding trip to Nicaragua and El Salvador in January with the Kansas coalition, area educators and

A second speaker at the meeting. Joel Edelstein of the University of Colorado at Denver, focused on changing U.S. involvement in Central America and discussed "low intensity warfare."

"It's something the U.S. Army can do without raising major U.S. public outrage," said Denise Grimm, member of the Manhattan Alliance on Central American and senior in economics. "They use it to accomplish their goals which are to destabilize the Sandinista government. They want to destabilize it to re-establish U.S. control for economic reasons."

Interested groups from Fort Hays State University, Pittsburg State University and Wichita State University were represented at the meeting.

The focus of the meeting was to organize the coalition's plans for next year. Community education on U.S. involvement in Central America will be the group's goal.

Starship ticket sales going slowly

By AMY GREENE Collegian Reporter

Tickets for the rock group Starship, the 1986 Homecoming concert feature band, are not selling as well as expected.

The Union Program Council Special Events Committee and 97 FM are sponsoring the concert, which will begin at 8 p.m. Friday in Ahearn Field House

An estimated 2,000 tickets have been sold since Oct. 6. The number of tickets sold at this time was expected to be 3,500. Alcatrazz will open the show for Starship.

Julie Stephens, special events committee chairperson and senior in social sciences, said she doesn't know why the ticket sales aren't going well. The committee would like to see a total of 4,800 tickets sold, and 4,300 tickets would be enough to break even.

Stephens said she believes low ticket sales can be attributed to Manhattan High School having its homecoming this weekend and other functions going on in Fort Riley.

"We are looking for heavy door sales," Stephens said.

The 1984 Homecoming concert, featuring the rock group Chicago, sold an estimated 7,000 tickets. The Chicago concert was on a slightly larger scale than the Starship concert as far as visibility of the group. Starship should grab all types of audiences, Stephens said.

Tickets for Starship are $12.50 and $11.50. Stephens said there is no student discount for tickets because the price is considered lower than tickets for many rock concerts in the area.

The ticket price pays for UPC's rental of Ahearn, advertising, promotions, the tickets, ushers and catering for Starship.

Starship was picked for its availability to be in the metro area and to work within a university event. The band also was obtainable for a good price, Stephens said.

Georgia Funderburke, freshman in apparel design, wanted to go but said she wouldn't be in town.

"There needs to be more promotion for the concert," said Funderburke. "I didn't hear much about others going, either."

Kristine Collins, freshman in apparel and textile marketing, said she is not going because the tickets are too expensive.

John Jarred, sophomore in mechanical engineering, said he likes Starship and thought the promotion for the concert was good, but he will be out of town this weekend.

John Quinton, sophomore in predesign professions, said he would like to go, but after other Homecoming events will have no money left.

There won't be a cancellation if ticket sales for the concert don't break even. However, low ticket sales will affect the kinds of concerts brought to the University, the number of future concerts and who would perform.

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

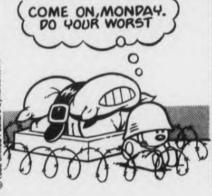

Garfield

By Jim Davis

HERE'S AN ARTICLE ABOUT

By Charles Schulz

rossword

PUT YOUR GLOVE AWAY

Crowd

Continued from Page 1

Thus began what many have termed the "rampage" on Aggieville.

At the Last Chance Restaurant and Saloon, 1213 Moro St., elated patrons spilled over the railings that surround the outdoor patio. The crowd roared as a Chevy pick-up truck drove by, displaying part of one of the goalposts retrieved from the stadium. About 20 people riding in the truck chanted "KU sucks" as the cheers. Ten minutes later, a group of 10 men ran down Moro Street, carrying part of a goalpost and continuing the chant.

crowd joined in with applause and

And a little later on, a red convertible drove down Moro Street, displaying a rubber chicken painted as a Jayhawk hanging by its neck from a wooden pole.

Officer Warren Wright, of the Riley County Police Department, said there were between six and eight officers in the area that afternoon, and reinforcements were expected to arrive as the evening wore

"We're not worried," Wright said. "I'm just glad Kansas State won. I'm not worried about the crowd."

"I think there's enough enforcement from the police," said Tammy Saum, manager of Carousel, 1215 Moro St. "I think everybody learned their lesson the first time.

Saum said she thought there was such a mixture of K-State and KU students that the crowd would "not be so rowdy."

But one Aggieville worker disagreed.

"It's going to get real beligerent," said Michael Prusik, manager of The Sound Shop, 1204 Moro St. "The general mood of the crowd is kind-of drunken. I wouldn't be surprised if something got broken tonight."

Prusik said he was glad he was leaving town after the shop closed so he wouldn't have to deal with the Many alumni returned to Manhattan for the weekend festivities and went to Aggieville after the game. Mike Faust, Goodland, said he has been going to the KU-K-State football games since his college years.

"I think the crowd was about the same (as it was two years ago)," said Faust, a 1966 KU graduate. "But I hate to see the crowd interfere with the game" by tearing down the goalposts 20 seconds before the finish of the football game.

Last week, plastic posts, costing $50 each, were installed at the stadium, replacing the steel posts usually used, which run $5,000 each. But Faust said he thought the people, and especially the city, have learned a lesson. Jeff Stark, 1986 K-State graduate, said he mainly was watching the crowd that afternoon.

"I'm embarrassed by the irresponsibility of some people," Stark said. "But that (mob) situation and the riot (two years ago) were a chain reaction, so you couldn't place

"I'm just wondering if people around here are stupid enough to let that happen again," he said. "I hope

Soviets

Continued from Page 1

Americans.

The last of the Soviets had left Tuesday, before the deadline.

Shevardnadze said after his talks with Shultz in New York that the Soviet Union had prepared "major and very sensitive" retaliatory measures, but was postponing them until after the Oct. 11-12 summit between Reagan and Gorbachev.

Shevardnadze also said he and Shultz "agreed we should not engage in competition in this area," alluding to retaliatory expulsions.

Moscow denied that its U.N. envoys engaged in spying. The United States claimed two of the 25 ordered to leave were station chiefs for the KGB espionage agency and the GRU, the military intelligence agen-

The Soviet Union and U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar have said the U.N. expulsions violated the United States' legal agreement for being host country to the international body's headquarters.

assifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

01

ext. S 744. (40)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52)

tober hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

4811. (39-43)

ATTENTION 02 TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49) KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Keystone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more, from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more inmation toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55) town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for huge color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013, Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (40-44)

FOR RENT-MISC RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf) FOR RENT-APTS TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment,

1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-

NON-SMOKING FEMALE, $150 bills paid. Call 539-8464 or 539-8401 after 5 p.m. (37-44) ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campus cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35

Deadline is noon the day before publication;

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised

is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color,

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200, Oc-

COME CELEBRATE Co-op Month with us. People's Grocery Co-op carries organic grains, Basmati rice, imported and domestic cheeses, organic coffee, over 80 bulk herbs and spices, 40 different teas and much more from our latest shipment. Open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m.-1 Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m., 811 Colorado. 539-

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS 37 Related 57 Reckless 1 Khomeini's DOWN stories 1 Impromptu 22 Firm 39 Wine cask foe 5 "With it" 41 English attempt 24 Club for 8 Sign of sand hill 2 Romanian healing 42 "Rose folk dance 12 Balsam among 3 Winglike

45 Trade

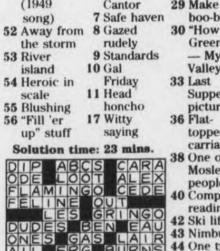

once 49 Hair 14 Musical fastener group 51 " — Ha'i" 15 Riyadh (1949) resident song) 16 Heart-52 Away from throbs for the storm Andy

Capp? 18 Seville singer? 20 Sticky cakes 21 "Trinity" author

13 Tokyo,

23 Palmer peg 24 West Indian island 28 Famous theater name

31 Chimpanzee 32 Purposeful 34 Author Levin 35 Flip a coin

Yesterday's answer 10-18

5 Isles off

6 Mrs.

Scotland

25 G.I.'s 4 Commotion address 26 Renovates 27 Dice table wagers 29 Make a boo-boo 30 "How Green - My Valley" Supper picture topped carriage 38 One of a Moslem people 40 Compass reading 42 Ski lift 43 Nimbus 44 One type of party 46 Bark cloth

47 Yale men

48 Wealthy

50 Aunt, in

Madrid

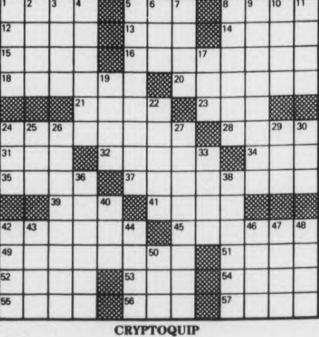

the second transfer passent of the brief of the property of the second o

19 Part of

q.e.d.

Cam-

panella

10-20 KMJST CYT

WRPYWA OTCOTTR LSF

QMP XTALPWCLFP MRX PMKWRJP Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE BUSTED GAMBLER, IN LAS VEGAS, CHARGED: "THAT SLOT MACHINE IS COINIVEROUS!

starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051 or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49) 1219 Claffin-Next to campus-Furnished one bedroom, new carpet, new paint, $260 plus electric, $200 deposit. No children, no pets. 537-1180. (39-ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment. Across Putnam Hall. 1304 North Manhattan, $195. Call 539-7521 or 776-7045. (40-44)

PECULIAR BASEMENT apartment. $90 all, fu nished, utilities paid. Available November 1. Call 539-4366. (40-44)

FOR SALE-AUTO 1971 VW Station Wagon—automatic, dependable, $875. Call 1-494-2388, St. George. (33tf)

1979 FORD Mustang—76,000 miles, runs good, $2,000. Call 537-0401 before 8 p.m. (36-40) 1977 HONDA Civic Wagon, 74,000 miles, best offer 776-1211 or 532-6629. (37-41)

1980 CAMARO-Sunroof, 40,000 miles, good condition. Call 537-0835. (38-42) 1976 MGB—Burgandy, great condition. Call 532-5285 anytime and ask for Troy. (39-40)

1977 VW Rabbit, excellent condition, reliable, must sell for best offer 537-0165 or 532-5123 (Stuart). for under $100? Call for facts today, 602-837-3401

1981 MERCURY Lynx Stationwagon-Good condition, dependable, air conditioning. Call 776-3499 or 532-5865. (40-44) 1979 PONTIAC Sunbird-Yellow, sunroof, stereo, new brakes and clutch, looks good, dependable, $2,300. Call 776-3447. (40-44) 1974 DODGE Dart Sport-Air conditioning, power steering, power brakes, $650. Call 537-0751 after 7 p.m., or 776-4794 daytime. (40-44)

FOR SALE-MISC SPECTRA 4-channel mixer. Equalizer, powered. Must sell, $240. Call Chris, 539-1089. (38-41)

WATERBED-SOLID oak with high gloss finish, mat tress and heater included. Call Mark, 537-8567. (38-42) The Ritz Denison & Claflin 1/4 lb. Hamburger, 1/2 order curly fries and medium drink for $2 Exp. Date 10/19 (with coupon)

ATARI 800XL, 1050 drive, $225. Radio Shack PC-2, $75. 13 inch color TV, $130. Call 532-5136. (38-42) 1986 SCHWINN Sierra-All terrain mountain bike with kryptonite lock, $300. Call 776-6799. (39-40) Duran's Denison & Claflin

Buy one steak & get the 2nd one for ½ price.

Exp. date 10/26 (with coupon) COMMODORE 64-Disc drive, printer, monitor, and modern with various software and other hardware. Have all boxes and manuals, $750. Call Clay Walsten at 539-7561. (39-44) COLOR TV, Hitachi, 19", warranty, $150 or best offer Call Stuart at 537-0165 or 532-5123. (39-43)

Hayes House of Music 327 Poyntz

DOD Guitar Effects

30% Off LIKE NEW! Gibson SG standard hollow body guitar and hard case. Cherry finish. $475. Call 537-9309

MIXER PEAVEY Mark II - 7 channel, stereo with re-verb, $300. Must sell. 539-5768. (40-44) The Ritz Denison & Claflin 69¢

1/4 Hamburger

(with coupon)

537-3335 MEN'S 26" 10-speed, $20; Hoover upright sweeper, $25; wood tennis rackets, $10, $15. Call 537-0751 after 7 p.m., 776-4794 daytime. (40-44)

Exp. Date 10/19

FOUND SMALL GOLD bracelet found outside east door of Union. Has inscription inside. Can identify and claim in Kedzie Hall 103. (39-41)

FOUND-LEATHER key case and keys in Call Hall parking lot. Come to Call Hall, room 215 to identify and claim. (40-42)

HELP WANTED 13 3,000 GOVERNMENT Jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-8000, ext. R-9701.

OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year around. Europe $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625. (27-46) WORK STUDY student secretary. Typing, word processing—also acts as department receptionist. $3.50 plus, depending on experience. Secical Marjorie, Department of Management, 19 Calvin, 532-6296, (37-41) COORDINATOR FOR school age child care, 8 a.m. 5:30 p.m. days USD 383 not in session. Plan. pre pare for, and lead indoor and outdoor activities. Su pervise aide. Closing date October 21. resume, three references to Esther Gray, KSU Childcare Coop, L-9 Jardine, Manhattan, EOE (39-

TEMPORARY TEACHER needed for blocks of time

November 24-28, December 15 thru January 15. En joyable indoor outdoor routine in attractive situation. Work in two teacher classroom with one other adult. Send resume and three references to Esther Gray, KSU Childcare Coop, L-9 Jardine, Manhattan. EOE. (38-40) AIDES NEEDED for school age childcare when USD

383 not in session. Send resume and three references to Esther Gray, KSU Childcare Coop, L-9 Jardine, Manhattan. EOE. (38-41) OVERSEAS JOBS. Also cruiseships, airlines, hotels $15,000-$89,000/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687 6000, ext. OJ-1000. (38-44)

TEST SUBJECTS needed for thermal comfort research. Men and women ages 19-30. Must be native born U.S. citizen. Three test sessions approximately three hours each, $36. Apply at the Institute for Environmental Research in Seaton Hall. (39-40)

AVON -- PART or full time in Manhattan. Start as low as $5. Call 1-494-8424. (40-44)

LOST $40 REWARD for lost mens class ring somewhere between Ford Hall and Ahearn. Was lost night of Midnight Madness. Call 532-3501. (38-40)

LOST_RED framed prescription glasses between

Farmhouse and AGR House. Reward! Call Kim at 537-3323 (39-41) SILVER BRACELET, about one-half inch wide, looks woven. Please call 1-784-5856 after 5 p.m. (40-42) PERSONAL DU's-CONGRATULATIONS on your 30th Anniver of winning. We'll party and pomp till the light of day, it's no doubt, the other's better look out, for we are on a winning way! Love ya, AD Pr's (40) SIGMA SWEETIES-The week has just begun, we are in for a lot of fun. We are number one, so let's show them how it's done. Catch that purple pride.

16

sary. From your new lil sis's, Kami and Sue. (40)

THE PIKES-This is just the beginning to our reign

Love, the Sigma Chi's (40) CHI-O's, Saturday night was crazy beyond belief. when the Chi-O's brought Lincoln some party re-lief. Let's face it, you girls are just too cool. Chi-Omega and Theta Xi, that's who rules UNL TX (40)

THETAS ARE the coolest, and that's no lie! With lots of pep, your spirit's high! Love, the Sigma Nus. (40) MIKE. THANKS for all the good times. You're a special guy. Hope you have a great day. Happy Birth. day. Love, Nancy. (40) tal, Lisa, and Tracey. (40) TRI-SIGMA, Terri Wilson: I want you to know I am very excited to have you as my Pledge Dot. Welcome aboard. Love ya, your Pledge Mom. (40) PIKE SKIP, Hey-you know you're the #1 pop, the fun and good times will never stop! You heading to Vegas just isn't right, but think of the fun ahead this Saturday night! I'm excited! Love, your dot (40) DINGYRH-HAPPY 20th to my roommate who never shuts up! Hope it's a good year for you. GIN. (40) SIGMA NU's: Homecoming week is just beginning gone to picnics, Mannequins and exchange din-ners too. The Thetas are psyched to party with you! Love, the Thetas! (40) GATER HATER DONNA B.—Have a super day. Happy and the Theta's hearts you are winning! We've 22nd. Claudia. (40) TKE's THE name and pompings the game. Our float will make the day and yell like hell we'll hit Broadway. Bodybuilding is full of kicko—watch out '88 Olympics. It's not all work, we'll have some fun, so let's party TKE's, because Chi-O and TKE Homecoming is #1. "Get pomped." (40)

AD Pi Sharla-Happy Birthday roomie! Love, Crys-

17

ROOMMATE FOR second semester, $125/month plus one-half KPL. Great location, fireplace, washer-dryer, two bedrooms. 776-6803. (37-41)

Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f)

ROOMMATE WANTED

4914. (38-40) SERVICES 18 PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed, half block west of campus, apartment #1, 1829 College Heights. 776-

MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free. Clinically tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf) RESUMES. COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

WRITING A paper? Word processing, near letter quality, editing, reasonable rates. Laura, 532-2362 (#131), leave message. (36-40) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processor. 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, disserta-

BABYSITTING, NORTHVIEW area, $1.25/hour. Any age, willing to fit schedule. Have references. Call 539-4905. (38-40)

tions, manuscripts, term papers. (38-40)

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence, 913-841-5716, (39tf)

Today's Cryptoquip clue: O equals B

Damage

Continued from Page 1

room this weekend than usual. The Aggieville Merchants Association executive board met Sunday to discuss how the situation would be handled in the future. The board discussed placing security guards on top of buildings to keep people from climbing on the buildings. It also will study methods other cities use in crowd control, for example, how the University of Oklahoma and the University of Texas handle the crowd at their game in Dallas.

The RCPD dealt with the situation in Aggieville in the manner the Aggieville Merchants Association wanted, Jacoby said. If the police had attempted to stop people from throwing bottles and fighting, they would have been injured. Jacoby, Mayor Rick Mann and some of the Aggieville businessmen personally tried to stop some people from throwing bottles, he said.

"Maybe if K-State would win more games, there'd be fewer problems than during the once-in-awhile games we do win," Jacoby said. Mann, who was in Aggieville from

Regents

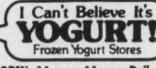

Continued from Page 1

The Regents approved the appointment of David Leith as a Distinguished Regents Professor in the College of Veterinary Medicine for the 1987-88 academic year. Leith, wellknown in the field of respiratory physiology, will be given a $25,000 grant for his research.

Horst Leipold, professor of pathology, also will be given the title of distinguished professor, Johnson

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt

that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

7 p.m. Saturday to 6 a.m. Sunday, would not comment Sunday afternoon. He said he will make recommendations for future control of the violence to the City Commission at Tuesday's commission meeting.

University President Jon Wefald said Sunday the Student Relations Board - which is made up of Student Senate members, law enforcement officials, city officials and University administrators - should meet to discuss prevention of future violence and how to deal with negative publicity generated by the event. Wefald said he would wait for recommendations of that committee before addressing the issue.

City employees of the Manhattan Parks and Recreation Department, the sewer department, the street department, city officials and Aggieville businessmen worked continuously from 3 a.m. Sunday until early afternoon flushing the streets of glass, repairing windows and cleaning up debris.

Terry Ray, Aggieville businessman who was sweeping glass from in front of Kite's Bar & Grille Sunday afternoon, said he views the events Saturday night with a positive attitude.

"If you live in Galveston or Corpus Christi (Texas) and a hurricane tified juvenile.

comes up, you don't close your business down," Ray said. Owners of Aggieville businesses should expect events similar to those of Saturday night, he said.

Ray said students were not the only ones responsible for the violence, but also minors and military person-

"When windows were broken out, the people guarding the businesses were KU students," Ray said. "There wasn't any animosity. People in the bars were happy.'

The students arrested were Troy W. Coats, K-State freshman in predesign professions, charged with burglary; Oral Edward Bass III, KU student, felony burglary; Duane Qualls, KU, misdemeanor; Michael Mainey, KU, criminal damage to property; and Jason D. Smelser, KU, criminal damage to property.

Other persons arrested in Aggieville were Geoffrey T. Garren, Prairie Village, aggravated battery to a law enforcement officer; Jay C. Joynt, Topeka, felony damage to property and misdemeanor damage; Brent W. Nordhus, Baileyville, three counts of criminal damage to property; Eulalio L. Lopez, Sanger, Calif., misdemeanor theft; and an uniden-

Documents tie U.S. airline to Contra rebels' supply line

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Documents found on an American-manned cargo plane shot down over Nicaragua two weeks ago suggest an extensive supply network for the Contra rebels that involved a variety of planes, a pilot who also flew into U.S. military Southern Air but quit in 1985.

bases and possibly even combat support operations.

The documents tie the supply network closely to Southern Air Transport of Miami, a onetime CIAowned company, which has said a pilot killed on the flight, Wallace Blaine Sawyer Jr., had worked for

LADIES: THEY'RE BACK! The Station

PRESENTS

THE DREAM MACHINE

PRO MALE DANCERS FROM THE WEST COAST!

Thursday, Oct. 23 Tickets $6 advance-$7 door

—NO RESERVE SEATING— Males will be admitted after 10:30 p.m.

AGGIE STATION 1115 MORO

776-0030

This is the the last week to

This is the last week Yearbook Associates will be on campus taking portraits for the Royal Purple. Don't miss out!! If you forgot to sign up with your living group, it's not too late.

Make your appointment by calling 539-5229.

Take your stamped fee card to Union 209 and don't miss out on being in the 1987 Royal Purple.

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m.

Homecoming Prep

K-State honoraries prepare Manhattan for the spirit of homecoming by painting downtown windows. See Page 7.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low to mid-70s. Winds southerly 5 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Sports

One More

K-State tops the University of Kansas again — only this time in a volleyball match Monday evening. See Page 6.

Kansas State

Collegian

Tuesday

October 21, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 41

GM to initiate South African disinvestment

By The Associated Press

DETROIT — General Motors Corp. will withdraw from South Africa and sell its operations to a group headed by management there, GM Chairman Roger B. Smith said Monday.

"Decisions about our investment in South Africa have depended on an assessment of the economic, social and political environment in that area," Smith sa Earlier, a GN Africa said t reassessing its country's econc "GMSA (Ge African Ltd.) h for several yea

South African t with the curren not see our around in the said in a prepai

Smith earlier
"struggling de Africa becaus economy and sales and mari
ped substantial

Who afflicauth

By The Co Two University diagnosed positive cough as of Mon-

tor of Lafene Stu-

Two positive reported to Dr. F Tuesday and onl reported to the lo Manhattan area,

There have bee whooping cough 1 Tout said.

The symptoms are a cold with gresses to having cough that doesn' ding to medicine,

Lafene takes nasal passages from the nasal di throat and senda where the tests at

The whooping is one of the shots give children. But of cough vaccine was munization procedisease was so fer vaccine was not

There is no need in and have a vathe disease is not a as it is in children made a lot of chile

To get a shot wow gested because the Sand

By The Asso MANAGUA, Nic. tist Sandinista gov Eugene Hasenfus court Monday and him with violating security.

Hasenfus was is small courtroom a written charges w Justice Minister Recourt's president, I rey, then read ther were translated to terpreter.

If convicted, American faces up prison. He was ca

"Our aim is to enable the new owners to start from a strong position, to continue to provide job opportunities for the employees and to continue to serve our customers," Smith said in Monday's announcement.

GM is suffering from losses not stemmed by deep-discount sales incentives it offered from late August to early October to clear out its inventory backlog in the United States.

The No.1 U.S. automaker is a second or sufficient to the states of the states of the states.

Israel gains Shamir as new leader

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM — Parliament Monday gave Yitzhak Shamir and his proposed 25-member Cabinet an overwhelming vote of confidence and he was sworn in as Israel's ninth prime minister.

The vote was passed by a show of hands, with 82 legislators voting in favor, 17 against and three abstaining.

Shamir, 71, took over from caretaker prime minister Shimon Peres, in keeping with an unprecedented joint-rule accord beting Likud bloc por Party.

es

ro-

oc-

ile

ıat

ch

he nal

ıld

ion

.an nly

lso

ust

the ent

al," ime

the ent,

ir's hed

eign

org-ugh

e on two wer

'ties

that mir, rlia-

tion

inet

dur-

r, a ime

kely

will res

wing

'oval

n an per-stas'

nda'

2usa

e a to

, yees

7 the

Con-

from nent-

at he ights

ım a ador

ld in

and

TILDCAT WELLNESS

Fall 1986

OUR GOAL -- WELLNESS

Good health is more than just a matter of chance; it is often a matter of choice. Decisions you make today can have a profound impact on your health in years to come.

Choosing to be well means altering your life style to include those factors that promote good health. It means making a commitment to improve your physical and mental health.

"WELLNESS WEEK '86 is your chance to get involved by looking at positive life style choices. As a participant, you will have the opportunity to sample programs and activities that promote a healthier life style. And to assist you, this issue of "WILDCAT WELLNESS" will also focus on just that — WELLNESS.

Experience "WELLNESS WEEK '86" for yourself — you are well worth it.

We Provide Services

To Keep

You Well.

You Are Well

WELLNESS

Thomas F. Ryan, M.D.

Wellness is an idea whose time has come. In this age of high stress, fast foods, and tight schedules, wellness practices give all of us a chance to optimize our health and sense of well being. Wellness activities are life style oriented, focusing on habits and routine of daily life and encouraging those that promote health.

The keys to a wellness life style are motivation, self responsibility, and education. Motivation comes from the desire to experience greater well-being and improved health, both now and as we grow older when unhealthy practices may result in premature disability and even death.

Education means learning more about health enhancing and health defeating activities and identifying personal practices that could be altered or improved to promote health.

Self responsibility means that, after recognizing the benefits of improved health and learning how this can be accomplished, it is up to each of us to initiate changes and make them an enjoyable part of our life style rather than an imposition or something which we just "don't have time for."

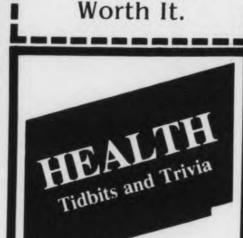

Wellness is often separated into life style areas to facilitate the recognition of activities that are health defeating. The most familiar wellness areas are: physical fitness, nutritional awareness, and stress management. By learning more about each of these areas, we can then identify unhealthy life style patterns in our own lives and benefit by changing them.

In this, and future installments of "Wildcat Wellness," we'll be discussing each of these areas in greater depth thus taking the first step on the road to wellness.

Welk '86
October 27November 1

"The prevention of disease today is one of the most important factors in the line of human endeavor."

> Charles Mayo (1865-1939)

Did you know . . .

* A person who smokes a pack of cigarettes a day inhales about a half a cup of tar each year.

* Up to 20% of those individuals with eating disorders die as a result of their illness and its effects.

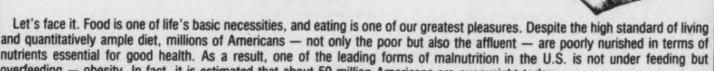

* National figures link alcohol with 60% of all accidents among 17-23 year olds including automobile, drownings, suicides and homicides.

* It is estimated that at least 1 in 5 people suffer from some form of allergy.

* You don't have to be nervous, tense or jumpy to develop High Blood Pressure. In fact, most cases develop silently in persons 30-45 years of age.

YOU ARE WHAT YOU EAT...

By Cindy Burke, R.N. Health Educator

overfeeding — obesity. In fact, it is estimated that about 50 million Americans are overweight today.

The average person will gain 15-25 pounds between the ages of 25 and 55. The rise in obesity is largely attributed to the lack of vigorous physical activity in our mechanized society and the low-fiber, high-fat, high-sugar and often high-alcohol diet of many Americans. Obesity develops when calories are not burned up through physical activities.

Everyone would like to practice good nutrition. The benefits are obvious, better health, better fitness, maybe even longer life. But many of us are confused about just what good nutrition is. This confusion is understandable. Hardly a day goes by without someone trying to tell us what we should and should not eat. Newspapers, magazines, radios and TVs give us lots of advice!

There are two basic methods of losing weight: change your eating habits, or change your activity habits. And it is best to combine the two for the most effective results. Developing the right attitude about food habits is the first, most important step in the right direction towards good health. A healthy diet is preventive medicine.

Whether we make the wisest food choices is our personal decision. While we often must compromise between the kinds and amounts of food we prefer, and what is best for keeping us in good health, in most cases, we can still have fun while eating and still enjoy tasty tempting food. REMEMBER, YOU ARE WHAT YOU EAT.

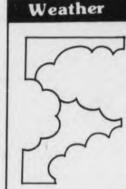

SPECIAL ISSUE SPECIAL ISSUE SPECIAL ISSUE SPEC

Inside

Homecoming Prep

K-State honoraries prepare Manhattan for the spirit of homecoming by painting downtown windows. See Page 7.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today. high in low to mid-70s. Winds southerly 5 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

One More

K-State tops the University of Kansas again - only this time in a volleyball match Monday evening. See Page

Kansas State

Tuesday

October 21, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 41

GM to initiate South African disinvestment

By The Associated Press

DETROIT - General Motors Corp. will withdraw from South Africa and sell its operations to a group headed by management there, GM Chairman Roge Monday.

"Decisions about in South Africa have assessment of the and political e-area," Smith sa Earlier, a GN Africa said t reassessing its j country's econo

"GMSA (Ge African Ltd.) h: for several yea South African t with the curren. not see our around in the said in a prepar

Smith earlier "struggling de Africa becaus economy and sales and mark ped substantial

By The C

Two Universit diagnosed positi cough as of Mor tor of Lafene Stu Two positive reported to Dr. 1 reported to the l Manhattan area There have be

Tuesday and on whooping cough Tout said. The symptom: are a cold with gresses to having cough that doesn ding to medicine

Lafene takes nasal passages from the nasal c throat and senc where the tests &

The whooping one of the shots; children. But o cough vaccine w munization pro disease was so fe vaccine was no made a lot of chi

There is no nee in and have a v. the disease is no as it is in childre

To get a shot wo gested because tl

By The Ass MANAGUA, Ni

tist Sandinista g Eugene Hasenfur court Monday an him with violatir security.

Hasenfus was small courtroom written charges Justice Minister court's president rey, then read th were translated t terpreter.

If convicted, American faces prison. He was a

"Our aim is to enable the new owners to start from a strong position, to continue to provide job opportunities for the employees and to continue to serve our customers," Smith said in Monday's announcement.

Israel gains Shamir as new leader

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM - Parliament Monday gave Yitzhak Shamir and his proposed 25-member Cabinet an overwhelming vote of confidence and he was sworn in as Israel's ninth prime minister.

The vote was passed by a show of hands, with 82 legislators voting in favor, 17 against and three abstain-

FOR WOMEN ONLY

By Cindy Burke, R.N. Health Educator

In addition to staying fit by exercising regularly and eating nutritional foods, a woman today should have an annual gynecological examination to stay healthy.

According to the American Cancer Society, 11,000 women in the United States die each year from cervical cancer. Yet, if detected early, this type of cancer is curable. The pap smear is the first important step in detecting cancer in a woman's cervix. This simple procedure takes but a few minutes and causes only brief discomfort

It is recommended that all females have a yearly GYN exam which includes a pap smear and a pelvic exam beginning at the age of 18 years or at the onset of sexual activity - which ever comes first.

Make your annual GYN examination appointment by visiting our LAFEMME CLINIC today.

ALL-UNIVERSITY DANCE THURSDAY. OCTOBER 30, 1986 9 p.m.-12 midnight

KSU UNION BALLROOM DANCE TO THE VERANDES $2 Admission

FREE 5th ANNUAL HEALTH FAIR WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 29

10 a.m.-3 p.m. KSU UNION BALLROOM

ANNOUNCING THE OPENING OF ERIKSEN SPORTS MEDICINE CLINIC

WE PROVIDE:

- ★Evaluation, Diagnosis, Treatment, Rehabilitation of sports related injuries and problems
- ★Determine Body Fat Percentages
- ★Heat Stress Information
- *Information and advice on Fitness, Injury Prevention, Health Effects of Exercise
- ★Much Much More

WALK-IN CLINIC -- 8 a.m.-9:30 a.m. Monday-Friday 1 p.m.-2:30 p.m. Monday only

APPOINTMENTS AVAILABLE TO SHORTEN WAIT CALL 532-6544

COME SEE WHAT WE ARE ALL ABOUT

By David R. Egerton

Stress seems to be a universal feature of modern life. In the past, when times were more simple, there were not only fewer stressful demands placed upon us but the slower pace of life allowed us more time to recover from stressful events. Today, our competitive, high pressure approach to life often exacerbates and makes living in our fast paced society even more stressful.

We have become a society which thrives on "PSYCHING UP" - psyching up for exams, study, job interviews and even for social events. Unfortunately, the great body of scientific research tells us that this is a most ineffective method of preparation. Scientists tell us that by "PSYCHING DOWN" we actually enhance our learning and memory functions. In addition to improving over all intellectual performance, learning to "PSYCH DOWN" has extra health benefits as well. It is now known that habitual misarousal of our stress system often makes us more vulnerable to disease and illness ater in life. Therefore, for your health, think "PSYCH DOWN."

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

"POPULAR WEIGHT LOSS PROGRAMS" Kathy Grunewald, Ph.D., R.D.

This slide show will compare Weight Watchers, TOPS, Overeaters Anonymous, Nutri/System, and The Diet Center. Come and bring your questions about these and other popular weight loss programs.

1:30-2:20 p.m. "ANOREXIA, BULEMIA, AND OBESITY-THE 80s EPIDEMIC'

Donna Burns, R.N. KSU UNION FLINTHILLS After defining the different eating disorders, we will explore their impact on our society today, as well as look at current methods of treatment. 2:30-3:20 p.m. "SELF-MANAGEMENT"

Cliff Schuette, Ed.D. KSU UNION FLINTHILLS Take the time to learn to make time work to your advantage. Learn easy techniques on how to get control of your life by controlling your time.

3:30-4:20 p.m. "SAFE AND SANE EXERCISING" Guy Smith, M.D. KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

Come and explore various concepts of safe and sane exercises which are a vital part of good health and injury prevention.

9:00-4:00 p.m. "LAFENE HEALTH CENTER DAY" KSU LAFENE HEALTH CENTER AND UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL

We are opening our doors to you-come see what we are all about. Tour the facility and meet our staff as we extend our hospitality to you. 12:00-1:00 p.m.

"STESS MANAGEMENT" David Danskin, Ph.D. KSU UNION FLINTHILLS Many of the frequent small things in life can compound and result in stress disorders. Learn strategies you can use immediately to help control your stress level. 1:30-2:20 p.m. "THE KEY TO WELLNESS" Thomas Ryan, M.D. KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

With an increased awareness of wellness, comes the need for some "how-to's" in applying such knowledge as nutrition, physical fitness, and stress management. 2:30-3:20 p.m. 'ASSERTIVE COMMUNICATION: YOUR

ROUTE TO PERSONAL EFFECTIVENESS" Susan Scott Angle, Ph.D. KSU UNION FLINTHILLS This session will provide you the knowedge and practice by presenting an introduction to assertive communication.

3:30-4:20 p.m.

cardiovascular disease.

'EXERCISE...A PROPHYLACTIC'' Mari Hemmert Hooper KSU UNION FLINTHILLS Explore how exercise can aid in the prevention of common disorders such as osteoporosis, hypertension, obesity, diabetes, insomnia, low back pain, and

5th ANNUAL KSU HEALTH FAIR KSU UNION BALLROOM

The HEALTH FAIR is a tradition at KSU. Over 30 exhibitors will help the participant in identifying positive healthstyle changes by offering a variety of health screening and health education.

Alcohol and Other Drug Information

Birth Control Information Blood Chemistry Testing* Blood Pressure Dental Screening Fitness Testing Flu Vaccinations* Glaucoma Screening Health Risk Appraisal

Height/Weight Nutritional Information Stess Management Vision Screening MUCH MUCH MORE

*OPTIONAL: SMA (23) Blood Test-$7 charge covers lab costs

NOTE: DO NOT eat 12 hours prior to blood test. Continue taking any medication as

OPTIONAL: Flu Vaccination—$6 charge covers cost of medicine

12:00-1:00 p.m.

David Laurie, Ph.D. KSU UNION ROOM 212 If you feel you are out of shape, come and join Dr. Laurie in learning the "how-to's" of beginning a fitness program.

'THE BEGINNING OF AN EXERCISE

FROM VICTIM TO SURVIVOR: BEING AN ADULT CHILD OF AN ALCOHOLIC" Dori Lambert, Ph.D. KSU UNION ROOM 212 This program will focus on concerns of individuals who grew up in a family with an alcoholic 2:30-3:20 p.m "DIET AND EXERCISE-THE WINING COMBINATION" Elizabeth Addingto KSU UNION ROOM 212 Discussion will center on how to combine weight loss program. 3:00-4:00 p.m. PROPER WEIGHT TRAINING TECHNIQUE DEMONSTRATION" KSU CHESTER E. PETERS RECREATION COMPLEX nutrition and exercise for a healthier

Come learn the proper techniques of weight training. 3:30-4:20 p.m. SELF-MOTIVATION AND THE HOW-TO'S"

Fred Newton, Ph.D. KSU UNION ROOM 212 This program will offer specific strategies that you can use to enhance motivation and thereby have greater energies directed toward the achievement of academic 12:00-1:00 p.m. "MIND OVER MATTER"

Bruce Lyons

KSU UNION ROOM 212 This program will explore the relationship between our thoughts, our emotions, and our physical being. Come and see how "Mind Over Matter" really works.

1:30-2:20 p.m. "DENTAL HEALTH CARE IN THE 80s" Michael Wangsgaard, D.D.S. KSU UNION ROOM 212 Preventive dental care is a vital segment of total health care. Come and discuss today's recommended dental health views.

2:30-3:20 p.m. "KSU'S NEW EAP-EMPLOYEE ASSISTANCE PROGRAM—FACTS & FABLES" Joe Younger

KSU UNION ROOM 212 The University is offering its new EAP in the belief that the best approach to their workers' effectiveness is by offering programs which contribute to their wellbeing. This presentation will discuss just how the EAP works for you-the employee

3:30-4:20 p.m. "INSOMNIA AND SLEEP NEEDS" David Danskin, Ph.D. KSU UNION ROOM 212 Learn do-it-yourself strategies that will aid you in overcoming your insomnia.

: Shimon an uncord betikud bloc Party. said in a or parlianister he n "gangs selves in ng bases 'ould pro-er from

ke Middle dded that not reach iless the 1 gave up ernational

n the oc-

can serve negotiavill not be hout free, ion."

: minister he would of the ocaza Strip, 1.4 million seek...an d not only s, but also nich must hem the ettlement Israel, as prime g with the greement, Shamir's nd wished as foreign nent, forgon enough ; to rule on the two

er of power he parties riday that or Shamir, by Parliae coalition

ig Cabinet is that dur-Shamir, a ner prime n, is likely a policy. hamir will th Peres' a growing glement in c approval vn from an 4 to 16 per-

Sandinistas'

'opaganda'

ied accusaistas and made to employees supply the lware. Con-: CIA from overnmentnce that he the flights ed from a El Salvador airfield in

Homecoming Prep

K-State honoraries prepare Manhattan for the spirit of homecoming by painting downtown windows. See Page 7.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low to mid-70s. Winds southerly 5 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

Sports

One More

K-State tops the University of Kansas again — only this time in a volleyball match Monday evening. See Page

Kansas State

Tuesday October 21, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 41

GM to initiate South African disinvestment

By The Associated Press

DETROIT - General Motors Corp. will withdraw from South Africa and sell its operations to a group headed by management there, GM Chairman Roger B. Smith said

"Decisions about our investment in South Africa have depended on an assessment of the economic, social and political e---- area," Smith sa Earlier, a GN Africa said t reassessing its 1 country's econc "GMSA (Ge African Ltd.) h: for several yea South African k with the curren. not see our around in the said in a prepar

Smith earlier "struggling de Africa becaus economy and sales and mark ped substantial

Who auth

By The C

Two Universit diagnosed positi cough as of Mor tor of Lafene Stu

Two positive reported to Dr. Tuesday and on reported to the 1 Manhattan area There have be whooping cough Tout said.

The symptom: are a cold with gresses to having cough that doesn ding to medicine Lafene takes nasal passages from the nasal c throat and sent where the tests & The whooping .

one of the shots children. But c cough vaccine w munization pro disease was so fe vaccine was no made a lot of chi

There is no nee in and have a v the disease is not as it is in childre

To get a shot wo gested because tl

Sanc

By The Ass MANAGUA, Ni tist Sandinista g Eugene Hasenfur court Monday an him with violatir security.

Hasenfus was small courtroom written charges Justice Minister court's president rey, then read th were translated t terpreter.

If convicted, American faces prison. He was a owners to start from a strong position, to continue to provide job opportunities for the employees and to continue to serve our customers," Smith said in Monday's announcement.

"Our aim is to enable the new

GM is suffering from losses not stemmed by deep-discount sales incentives it offered from late August to early October to clear out its inventory backlog in the United States.

Israel gains Shamir as new leader

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM - Parliament Monday gave Yitzhak Shamir and his proposed 25-member Cabinet an overwhelming vote of confidence and he was sworn in as Israel's ninth prime minister.

The vote was passed by a show of hands, with 82 legislators voting in favor, 17 against and three abstain-

Shamir, 71, took over from caretaker prime minister Shimon Peres, in keeping with an unprecedented joint-rule accord bet-

ng Likud bloc or Party. nir said in a set, or parliaminister he inian "gangs emselves in shing bases e would prot in the oc-> make Middle it added that ld not reach unless the lom gave up nternational

m can serve ect negotiae will not be vithout free, assion. me minister iid he would it of the oc-

Gaza Strip,

at 1.4 million ity. ill seek...an sed not only oles, but also which must them the settlement of Israel,"

1 as prime ing with the agreement, er Shamir's and wished ir as foreign ement, forgwon enough ns to rule on n the two sfer of power the parties Friday that for Shamir, by Parliathe coalition ing Cabinet as that dur-Shamir, a rmer prime gin, is likely gn policy. Shamir will ith Peres' a growing glement in lic approval wn from an 84 to 16 per-

Sandinistas ropaganda' > nied accusaiistas and made to employees supply the dware. Cone CIA from nce that he f the flights ed from a El Salvador airfield in government-

PHYSICAL FITNESS

By Thomas F. Ryan, M.D.

In another section of "Wildcat Wellness," physical fitness was listed as one of the basic activities of a healthy life-style. This may seem obvious to many readers however, there are many more who, due either to a perceived lack of time or lack of interest, miss the benefits of regular physical activity. There are many more who, through misconceptions about what promotes physical fitness, fail to gain benefit from Physical fitness is divided into four separate areas: Cardiovascular fitness endurance activities, strength, flexibility and percentage body fat, which is in some degree, a reflection of activity in the first three areas. Isolated emphasis on any one activity without attention to the other areas of fitness naturally results in diminished benefit. A balanced program incorporates some activities from each

Cardiovascular fitness is viewed by many experts as the most important aspect of fitness because of its proven beneficial effects on physical and psychological health, weight control and the aging process. The basic activity for cardiovascular fitness is aerobic exercise, which involves constant exercise of large muscle groups over a period of time (usually 30 minutes or more) on a regular basis. The most common aerobic exercises are jogging, brisk walking, swimming and biking, although many other activities also have aerobic benefits. Remember, that to gain aerobic benefit, the activity should be constant without rest over the duration of the exercise. Flexibility or stretching exercises are a natural compliment to aerobic activity. A good program of stretching before and, even more importantly, after exercise is an excellent way of maintaining flexibility and suppleness which otherwise deteriorates as we grow older.

Strength is the final measure of fitness. This alone declines with advancing age, but a program of stretching exercises can greatly slow this decline. It's important to remember that many aerobic activities alone, such as weight lifting or calisthenics often do not result in aerobic fitness.

To learn more about physical fitness and how to develop a personal exercise program visit the Eriksen Sports Medicine Clinic of Lafene or check with the Department of PEDLS. Remember, it's never too late to start an exercise program.

VOLKSMARCH

Fun For The Entire Family

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1986

> Call 537-9683 for more information

College is an Investment... Protect It! ...Buckle-Up

THE PRESSURES OF EATING -OR NOT

By Thomas Coleman, Ph.D.

In our health and appearance conscious society, everyone seems to worry about their weight. Dieting is a common aspect of that worry. For most, the worry and the dieting are irritants and a small part of the daily routine. However, for some, it goes beyond, to the point of obession and misery. This is when eating and dieting, weight and appearance, obscure all other aspects of a person's life. Bingeing and purging, anorexia, bulimia can be the result of that obsessional focus on food and they pose threats to both psychological and physical health. Medical consultation is available to evaluate the physical effects of the eating problem and counseling for both the dietary and psychological aspects of eating problems is available. If you have an eating problem or know someone who is suffering from anorexia or bulimia, there is help available. Call Lafene's Mental Health Clinic today at 532-6550.

LATE NITE AT THE REC

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1986

11 p.m.-2 a.m.

Variety of Fitness Activities

Free Door Prizes

Announcement of "Healthiest Looking Body Contest"

FREE FUN FOR EVERYONE

BEACH PART

Bring your floats, your towels and all your friends. KSU NATATORIUM

Tuesday, October 28, 1986 8:30-10 p.m. Watch

The Movie From The Water Free Swim For All

HAVE YOU HAD YOUR COKE TODAY?

By Larry Moeller, M.D.

When conversations mention COKE these days, it is usually not to poll ones taste preference of Classic vs. New Cola. Rather, it centers on one's thoughts (or desires) regarding COCAINE. Not the Real Thing, but the Deadly Thing. (Did you know cocaine was an ingredient in Coca-Cola from 1886-1906!) People have used forms of cocaine for centuries but recently its use has escolated, especially among the 20-40-year-old, well educated, upwardly mobile members of our society. Cocaine has become a pathetic status symbol or worse for 25 million-plus Americans.

CRACK is the new purified form of cocaine: easier, safer and less expensive than freebasing. Although cocaine can be "snorted" nasally or pushed intravenously, crack is usually smoked, often in water pipes.

Cocaine ENTICES with its powerful brain-banging effects: euphoria, stimulation, reduced fatigue, sexual stimulation, increased sociability...we are cleverly led to believe these are good states of mind that enhance life, not control it.

Cocaine SLAMS the user with a depression aftermath which often starts a vicious cycle of chronic use of cocaine to counter the depression. Severe depression can lead to suicide, only one way to die from cocaine. Coke can cause seizures, sudden cardiac arrest, cardiac arrhythmias, acute myocardial infraction (heart attack), hypertension, hallucinations, hyperthermia, psychosis, aggression, paranoia, ETC.

Coke kills dreams. Coke kills people. If you are hooked, let us help you seek counseling and treatment. The best way to deal in Coke is to JUST SAY NO! Turn your back on Crack. Be strong — avoid all wreckreational drugs!

THE SUN -

A FRIENDLY BUT DEADLY FELLOW

By Robert D. Ecklund, M.D.

Informed individuals are becoming increasingly aware of the multiple ill effects of ultraviolet light on the human skin - premature aging of the skin and precancerous and cancerous skin lesions.

The incidence of malignant melanoma has increased ten fold in America since 1930, increasing from a life time incidence of 1 in every 1,500 people to 1 in every 150 people today. Malignant melanoma demonstrates the second most rapidly increasing rate of occurrence among cancers - second only to cancer of the lung in the female.

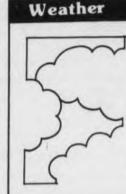

The ultraviolet spectrum (100-400 nm) of sunlight has been divided into three portions: Ultraviolet A (UVA) comprising the longer wave lengths (315-400 nm), UVM (280-315 nm), and UVC, with the shortest wave length (100-280 nm). UVC light is effectively filtered out by the ozone layer of the atmosphere. Explosure to UVB produces both sunburning and suntanning whereas UVA promotes a suntan but does not tend to sunburn. In the sun tanning parlor of today, the UVB lights have been replaced by the newer UVA lights which are less apt to burn while tanning. But, be careful - these lights are promoted as "safer" (and they are for the short term damaging effects of ultraviolet light exposure - sunburn), the UVA light will still result in life long, accumulative damage to the skin. It is true that YOU CANNOT TAN WITHOUT DAMAGING THE SKIN. Remember, a tan protects your skin from a sunburn far more effectively than it protects your skin from the long term, permanent damaging effects of ultraviolet exposure. In sun tanning parlance, a good tan has "SPF" (Sun Protective Factor) of only about "4." (Sun screens are rated "2" to "23.") Health professionals recommend the regular application of sunscreens (from childhood on) with a high "SPF," use of protective wide brimmed hats, tightly woven clothing and, when possible, the scheduling of daytime outdoor activities to avoid the hours when the sun's rays are particularly intense - 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. standard time, 11 a.m to 3 p.m.

There is much you can do to protect yourself from unnecessary ultraviolet light exposure. See your physician for additional advice.

Homecoming Prep

K-State honoraries prepare Manhattan for the spirit of homecoming by painting downtown windows. See Page 7.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low to mid-70s. Winds southerly 5 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

One More

K-State tops the University of Kansas again - only this time in a volleyball match Monday evening. See Page

Kansas State

Tuesday

October 21, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 41

By The Associated Press

he was sworn in as Israel's ninth hands, with 82 legislators voting in favor, 17 against and three abstain-

The vote was passed by a show of

- tack over from

Shimon

an un-cord bet-

ikud bloc

said in a or parlia-nister he n "gangs selves in ng bases

ould pro-

n the oc-

ke Middle dded that not reach nless the

a gave up

ernational

can serve

t negotia-

will not be thout free,

e minister

t he would

of the oc-

Jaza Strip,

: 1.4 million

1 seek...an sed not only les, but also which must of Israel,'

1 as prime ing with the agreement, er Shamir's and wished ir as foreign ement, forg-

won enough

ns to rule on en the two sfer of power

t the parties

Friday that

t for Shamir,

the coalition

ning Cabinet

e as that dur-

at Shamir, a ormer prime egin, is likely

, Shamir will

with Peres'

s a growing

'anglement in ublic approval

down from an 1984 to 16 pereign policy.

al by Parlia-

them the settlement

sion.

Party.

prime minister.

JERUSALEM - Parliament Monday gave Yitzhak Shamir and his proposed 25-member Cabinet an overwhelming vote of confidence and

GM to initiate South African disinvestment

By The Associated Press

DETROIT - General Motors Corp. will withdraw from South Africa and sell its operations to a group headed by ma GM Chairman Rog

Monday. "Decisions about in South Africa hav assessment of the and political envi area," Smith said.

Earlier, a GM sp Africa said the reassessing its pos country's economi

"GMSA (Gener African Ltd.) has for several years South African bus with the current s not see our or around in the ne said in a prepared

Smith earlier 1 "struggling desp Africa because economy and th sales and marke ped substantially

By The C Two University diagnosed positi cough as of Mor tor of Lafene Stu Two positive reported to Dr. Tuesday and or reported to the Manhattan area There have be whooping cough Tout said. The symptom are a cold with gresses to havir cough that does ding to medicin Lafene takes nasal passages from the nasal throat and ser where the tests

The whoopin one of the shot children. But cough vaccine munization p disease was so vaccine was I made a lot of c

There is no n in and have a the disease is I as it is in child To get a shot gested becaus

By The MANAGUA tist Sandinist Eugene Hase court Monday him with viol security.

Hasenfus small courtre written char, Justice Minis court's president rey, then res were transla terpreter. If convic American fa

"Our aim is to enable the new owners to start from a strong position, to continue to provide job opportunities for the employees and to continue to serve our customers," Smith

OH, MY ACHING BACK

By Robert Mortimer, R.P.T.

Without a doubt the most effective neck and back pain treatment is prevention. Most college students are 17-22 years old and tend to think that they are too young to have back problems. More and more the musculoskeletal back disorders are thought to be caused by a lifestyle of poor sitting, posture, stressful living, loss of flexibility and a decline in physical fitness. This certainly is the overwhelming factor in most of the student's back pain treated at Lafene Student Health Center during the mid term and final weeks. The health care professionals at LSHC believe prevention programs are the treatment of choice. The programs stress regular exercise, such as swimming, running, bicycling and other sports to maintain flexibility and strength. However, extensive school work requires long hours of sitting, reading in a bent forward position, and this leads to decreased flexibility and over-stressed upper and lower back muscles. A preventive program of good posture and exercise to counteract the effects of long hours of study is avaliable at Lafene Student Health Center Physical Therapy Department.

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

- Basic Services Available
- *After Hours Clinic *Allergy Clinic
- *10-Bed General Hospital
- *General Medical Clinic
- *Health Education Department *Laboratory
- *Lafemme Clinic (Gynecology)

- *Mental Health Clinic *Nutritional Counseling
- *Pharmacy
- *Physical Therapy
- *Wart Clinic
- *X-Ray Department

WELCOME TO LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

We're opening our doors to you come see what we're all about

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1986 9 a.m.-4 p.m. LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

Tour our facility

Meet our staff

REGISTER FOR FREE DOOR PRIZES OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

CAFFEINISM

By Sam Lacy M.D.

Concerns about the possible health effects of caffeine have prompted many people to cut back their consumption and public demand has forced coffee proto offer caffeine-free products. Still most of the caffeine taken out of coffee is bought by the soft drink industry and added to soda. At least until very recent years, more then 3/5 of the soft drinks consumed in the US contained added caffeine.

Despite widespread caffeine consumption and its confirmed pharamacological effects as a stimulant, there has been little published research on caffeinism, defined roughly as an intake of four or more cups of strong coffee daily or the equivalent in iced tea, (12 cups), soft drinks (10 cans Mr. Pibb, Mountain Dew, Mello Yello, etc.), or caffeine in pills (No Doz, Excedrin, plus many others). Some scientists have estimated that 1/4 of the population might be at high risk for caffeinism and note that a significantly higher percentage of higher caffeine consumers reported frequent use of both minor tranquilizers and sedatives, as well as of alcohol and cigarettes. In one study of hospital patients, use of caffeine-free beverages significantly reduced anxiety/tension and hostility/irritability. Granted, that there are many individual differences in reactions to psychotropic drugs at various dose levels, one must consider that caffeine belongs in the group of speed" drugs, where amphetamines and cocaine offer the most feared hazards

University Health Center Services

YOUR HEALTH CENTER

The Health Center is committed to providing high quality comprehensive care. The Health Center offers professional medical care for the treatment of illness and injury, and health promotion and education programs to help you maintain and improve your health. Because you are an important member of the health care team, your ideas and suggestions are welcome.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR CARE?

All currently registered KSU students who have paid their health fee are eligible for medical care at the Health Center. You must present your student ID and current fee card at Records Window upon entering the Health Center.

HEALTH FEE

The health fee is included in your university tuition each semester. It covers routine health care costs for the semester at the Health Center only. However, there is an additional user charge for special services such as x-rays, laboratory tests, allergy injections, physical therapy and medications dispensed through the pharmacy. This health fee does not and should not take the place of health insurance.

CONFIDENTIALITY OF RECORDS

prison. He was captured Oct. 6 by ble position because he has been speak to reposition.

All Health Center records are confidential. No information will be released either verbally or in writing, without your written permission. The restriction on information released applies to parents, faculty, friends and University staff. Mental Health Records, which are kept separately from the general medical record, are also governed by this strict policy.

Phone Directory

Clinic and Hospital 532-6544 Mental Health 532-6550 LaFemme Clinic 532-6554 Health Education

532-6544

Hours: Clinic Hours: Monday-Friday 8-11:30 a.m. . 1-4:30 p.m. After Hours Service (24 hours, 7 days a week) Hospital Visiting Hours

10:30-11:30 a.m. 2:00-4:00 p.m. 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Lafene Student Health Center

FALL 1986

ISSUE II Authors: Lafene Staff Editor: Cindy Burke Health Educator LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

Kansas State University Manhattan, Kansas 66502

"WILDCAT WELLNESS"

ie Sandinistas' propaganda" denied accusadinistas and fus made to A employees to supply the hardware. Con-I the CIA from a governmentderence that he 10 of the flights ginated from a se in El Salvador cted airfield in Inside

Homecoming Prep

K-State honoraries prepare Manhattan for the spirit of homecoming by painting downtown windows. See Page 7.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low to mid-70s. Winds southerly 5 to 15 mph. Mostly cloudy tonight.

One More

K-State tops the University of Kansas again — only this time in a volleyball match Monday evening. See Page

Kansas State

Tuesday October 21, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 41

GM to initiate South African disinvestment

By The Associated Press

DETROIT - General Motors Corp. will withdraw from South Africa and sell its operations to a group headed by management there, GM Chairman Roger B. Smith said

"Decisions about our investment in South Africa have depended on an assessment of the economic, social and political environment in that area," Smith said.

Earlier, a GM spokesman in South Africa said the automaker was reassessing its position in view of the country's economic recession.

"GMSA (General Motors South African Ltd.) has been losing money for several years in a very difficult South African business climate and, with the current structure, we could not see our operations turning around in the near future," Smith said in a prepared statement.

Smith earlier had said GM was "struggling desperately" in South Africa because of the nation's economy and that the company's sales and market share have dropped substantially in the past year.

"Our aim is to enable the new owners to start from a strong position, to continue to provide job opportunities for the employees and to continue to serve our customers," Smith said in Monday's announcement.

GM is suffering from losses not stemmed by deep-discount sales incentives it offered from late August to early October to clear out its inventory backlog in the United States.

The No.1 U.S. automaker is expected to show a third-quarter operating loss ranging from $100 million to $1 billion when results are released later this week. Ford, the No.2 U.S. automaker, is expected to show a profit, the industry journal Automotive News reported in Monday's editions.

Smith said the proposed sale also was a result of the South African government's slowness in eliminating apartheid.

"The ongoing economic recession in that country, along with this lack of progress has made operating in the South African environment increasingly difficult," Smith said.

See GM, Page 8

Whooping cough afflicts 2 students, authorities confirm

By The Collegian Staff

Two University students have been diagnosed positively with whooping cough as of Monday, said the director of Lafene Student Health Center. Two positive cultures had been reported to Dr. Robert C. Tout as of Tuesday and only a few have been reported to the local hospitals in the Manhattan area, Tout said.

There have been about 220 cases of whooping cough reported in Topeka, Tout said.

The symptoms of whooping cough are a cold with a cough, that progresses to having a high fever with a cough that doesn't seem to be responding to medicine, he said.

Lafene takes cultures form the nasal passages on each side and from the nasal drainage area of the throat and sends them to Topeka where the tests are run.

The whooping cough vaccine was one of the shots given to students as children. But often the whooping cough vaccine was left out of the immunization process because the disease was so few in numbers. The vaccine was not very good and it made a lot of children sick, he said.

There is no need for adults to come in and have a vaccination, because the disease is not as serious in adults as it is in children, Tout said.

To get a shot would also not be suggested because the shot would not be effective in preventing someone from contracting whooping cough, he said.

Lafene tests for whooping cough when a student comes in and has some of the symptoms.

Graham Rose, pediatrician at The Saint Mary Hospital, knew of only three reported cases of whooping cough in the Manhattan residential area last week.

The medical personnel at the hospital are concerned with the large number of cases in Topeka and with the frequent contact between the Manhattan and Topeka communities, Rose said.

The biggest concern for the whooping cough is for children, especially infants 1 year and under, he said.

Whooping cough is basically a childhood disease, not a disease in adults, he said. Thirty percent of whooping cough cases occur in infants that are 6 months in age and

University students need not be concerned with the seriousness of whooping cough, Tout said, the chances of students catching it from other students and in the classroom

Even though whooping cough can get serious if contracted, there is no real alarm for the students; students should be aware that it is in the near vicinity of Manhattan and the University, he said.

Brother Jon Bankert, an unordained Franciscan friar, smiles and wags the tail of a balloon dog during a performance Monday evening in the Union Catskellar. Bankert was telling a story of how God created animals.

Friar acts out messages of peace requiring audience interpretation

By JULIE ANDSAGER Collegian Reporter

A barefoot man clad in a monk's robe captured the attention of about 20 people Monday night in the Union Catskellar.

Brother Jon Bankert, an unordained friar in the Society of St. Francis in Brooklyn, N.Y., performed two pieces with the aid of numerous props. He uses a Japanese theater technique to deliver his message, requiring the audience's interpretation. Bankert's first performance was titled "Instruments of Peace." He began by chanting the peace prayer of St. Francis. Bankert followed the prayer with two stories related to peace. In the first story, Bankert told of a spider king who decides to wage war. As he started to chant the story, Bankert unfolded a long red scarf draped over his right shoulder and arm, revealing a puppet. Bankert's right hand held the spider's face, complete with fangs. His left hand held the spider's hand. After the spider king announced his intention to gain more territory, his three servants introduced themselves. Bankert used long red scrolls to represent the servants. As he became each servant, Bankert pulled the scrolls from within his robe and hung them on a

The first servant introduced was Bloodshed. Bankert put the pole with one red scroll over his shoulder and marched in a small circle while portraying bloodshed. Famine and Despair, the second

See FRIAR, Page 8

Israel gains Shamir as new leader

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM - Parliament Monday gave Yitzhak Shamir and his proposed 25-member Cabinet an overwhelming vote of confidence and he was sworn in as Israel's ninth prime minister.

The vote was passed by a show of hands, with 82 legislators voting in favor, 17 against and three abstain-

Shamir, 71, took over from caretaker prime minister Shimon Peres, in keeping with an unprecedented joint-rule accord between Shamir's right-wing Likud bloc and the left-leaning Labor Party.

Before the vote, Shamir said in a speech before the Knesset, or parliament, that as prime minister he would prevent Palestinian "gangs from entrenching themselves in Lebanon and establishing bases there." He also said he would promote Israeli settlement in the occupied territories. Shamir said he would make Middle East peace a priority but added that Israel and Jordan would not reach the negotiating table unless the neighboring Arab kingdom gave up its demand for an international peace conference.

"No international forum can serve as a substitute for direct negotiations," Shamir said. "We will not be able to achieve peace without free, direct, face-to-face discussion."

Shamir, who was prime minister for a year in 1983-84, said he would make Jewish settlement of the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, with a population of about 1.4 million Palestinians, a top priority.

"The government will seek ... an economy that will be based not only on solid economic principles, but also on the Zionist principles which must be our guide, among them the supreme value of settlement throughout the land of Israel," Shamir said.

Peres, who resigned as prime minister Oct. 10 in keeping with the September 1984 coalition agreement, took the podium after Shamir's speech, shook his hand and wished him luck

Peres succeeds Shamir as foreign minister under the agreement, forged after neither party won enough votes in national elections to rule on Squabbling between the two groups delayed the transfer of power for almost a week, but the parties signed an agreement Friday that pledged Labor's support for Shamir, assuring his approval by Parliament.

Under the terms of the coalition agreement, the incoming Cabinet will largely be the same as that during Peres' tenure. But Shamir, a hardline disciple of former prime minister Menachem Begin, is likely to toughen Israel's foreign policy.

As he enters office, Shamir will have to compete with Peres' popularity and faces a growing Israeli military entanglement in Lebanon.

Peres, 63, gained public approval for bringing inflation down from an annual 445 percent in 1984 to 16 percent this year.

Sandinista court formally charges American in plane crash

By The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua - The leftist Sandinista government brought Eugene Hasenfus before a tribunal court Monday and formally charged him with violating public order and Hasenfus was brought into the small courtroom and moments later written charges were presented by Justice Minister Rodrigo Reyes. The court's president, Reynaldo Monterrey, then read them aloud and they were translated to English by an interpreter.

If convicted, the 45-year-old American faces up to 30 years in prison. He was captured Oct. 6 by government troops after surviving the shooting down of a plane ferrying supplies to Contra rebels.

Hasenfus' wife Sally arrived at the courtroom, which was packed with journalists, just before the court session began. She was accompanied by U.S. Consul Donald Tyson.

Hasenfus' Nicaraguan lawyer, Enrique Sotelo Borgen, also attended the session. Portions of it were broadcast on the government's Voice of Nicaragua radio.

Earlier, Hasenfus' lawyer had criticized the government for denying him access to his client before court proceedings began.

"Hasenfus is in a legally indefensible position because he has been unable to see his attorney or his family before the trial," Sotelo Borgen said Monday.

Hasenfus, of Marinette, Wis., was captured a day after a C-123 cargo plane was shot down by Sandinista troops. Three others aboard, two Americans and a third still not identified, were killed.

The cargo plane was ferrying supplies to U.S.-backed Contra rebels who are fighting to overthrow Nicaragua's government.

Hasenfus' wife and his brother, William, arrived in Managua Sunday night and were met by U.S. Embassy officials at Augusto Cesar Sandino International Airport. They did not speak to reporters.

The People's Tribunal is a judicial body created in 1983 to prosecute people accused of counterrevolutionary activity. Each panel consists of a lawyer and two lay people, all generally active in Sandinista organizations. In Washington, State Department spokesman Charles Redman said the tribunals were set up for the purpose of circumventing due process in order to persecute political op-

Redman also said the only visit to Hasenfus by a U.S. consular officer took place on Oct. 10.

"We don't consider that visit to have been a proper one," Redman said. "We've demanded that the Nicaraguan government accede to Fernandez said, "The Sandinistas" our repeated requests for a consular visit consistent with its treaty obliga-

Former U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell volunteered last week to defend Hasenfus, but Nicaraguan law requires that the chief defense lawyer be a Nicaraguan. Bell said in Atlanta that he would leave for Managua on Thursday.

Sotelo Borgen was asked by Bell to take the case. Hasenfus' attorneys then have three days to prepare a defense. After that, the proceedings normally last eight to 12 days. U.S. Embassy spokesman Alberto real concern is the propaganda" value of the trial.

U.S. officials have denied accusations by the Sandinistas and statements Hasenfus made to reporters that CIA employees organized the flights to supply the rebels with military hardware. Congress has prohibited the CIA from aiding the rebels.

Hasenfus said in a governmentorganized press conference that he had participated in 10 of the flights and that they originated from a U.S.-financed air base in El Salvador and a U.S.-constructed airfield in Honduras.

INTERNATIONAL

Summit prompts NATO meeting

GLENEAGLES, Scotland - NATO defense ministers gathered Monday at this golf resort to confront the Americans about a neardeal at the Reykjavik summit that raised concern about a Europe at the mercy of superior Soviet conventional forces.

President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev almost reached agreement to remove medium-range missiles from Europe, a prospect that caused complaints from some NATO generals and more discreet grumbles from politicians worried about Western European security.

U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger arrived by helicopter at this Scottish golfing resort on the eve of the two-day meeting that will debate the strategic future of NATO following the summit at which both sides offered huge nuclear arms cuts.

The basic fear is that withdrawal of U.S. cruise and Pershing 2 missiles, whose deployment provoked protests by the anti-nuclear movements, would leave Western Europe in an inferior position to the Communist Warsaw Pact's larger conventional forces.

Fall storms sweep across Europe

LONDON - Fall storms packing winds of up to 94 mph churned across Western Europe on Monday, killing at least four people, toppling trees "like dominoes" and bringing the first snowfall of the season to the Swiss Alps.

British police said an elderly man was killed when a 50-foot poplar tree fell on his car in Eltham, south London. Minutes later, sales administrator Jennifer Welsh, 37, was killed when a tree crushed her car at Morden, several miles to the west.

Several other motorists sustained broken limbs and other injuries when trees and branches smashed into their vehicles, police said. The storm, accompanied by torrential rains, toppled more than 20 trees in London and south England. "Trees were coming down like dominoes," said a spokesman for the London Weather Center, who forecast strong winds in southern England again Tuesday. Fallen trees blocked several rail lines, and the rain caused flooding and a spate of accidents throughout the area, authorities said. The wind also gave ferry passengers a rough ride across the English

Police in the Netherlands said the storm hit suddenly during the afternoon rush hour, killing two constructions workers and injuring dozens of other people around the nation. The blustery wind, measured at more than 62 mph, blew a 27-yearold man off a ladder in The Hague, and he died later in a hospital.

NATIONAL

Treasury circulates new gold coins

WASHINGTON - The first general-circulation U.S. gold coin to be minted in more than a half-century went on sale Monday with Treasury Department officials reporting brisk demand for the American Eagle coins.

By the end of the day, officials at the U.S. Mint said they had processed orders for more than 320,000 ounces of gold with 24 of 25 primary dealers making requests for the new coins

"The orders are coming in, the interest is definitely there," said Donna Pope, director of the U.S. Mint. "We hope to sell 2.2 million ounces of gold in the first year of the program, but if interest continues at the height that it is right now, that may be a conservative

The coins will have a face value of $50, $25, $10 and $5 but will sell for far more than that. The price will fluctuate, reflecting the price of gold. The coins will contain gold in amounts ranging from onetenth of an ounce for the $5 coin up to a full ounce in the $50 gold

Gold was selling in London for $425 an ounce on Monday.

Blue

REGIONAL

Judge denies Brown case dismissal

TOPEKA - U.S. District Judge Richard D. Rogers on Monday denied a motion by lawyers for the Topeka school district to dismiss the reopened Brown vs. Board of Education school desegregation case, but took under study a motion to drop the state Board of Education as a co-defendant.

The judge, who is hearing the case without a jury, said he wants to listen to "everything I can about this case" before making a decision on the plaintiffs' request that Topeka Unified School District 501 be forced to do more to integrate minority students among the city's predominately white school population.

The ruling by Rogers came as the trial of the reopened case entered its third week. Rogers previously dismissed Gov. John Carlin as a defendant and he is expected to rule on the state school board motion within a few days.

Testimony by the first defense witness, Owen M. Henson, deputy superintendent of the Topeka school district, followed arguments by attorneys over the motions to dismiss. The plaintiffs rested their case last week, allowing the defense to begin the presentation of its

Henson has worked for the school board employee the past 36 years - since before the first suit was filed in 1951. The original Brown case led to the historic 1954 U.S. Supreme Court decision which ended separation of black and white students in public schools throughout Henson's testimony is designed to familiarize the judge with the district, with the assistance of a slide show, and give the history of the case from the district's perspective.

Former soldier given life sentence

JUNCTION CITY - A former Fort Riley soldier was sentenced Monday to life in prison for the murder of his 3-year-old stepdaughter.

Wayne Hill, 21, was sentenced for first-degree murder in the death of Royesha Acie. She died March 22 at Stormont-Vail Medical Center in Topeka.

Physicians testified at Hill's trial that the girl died of a condition that could have resulted from blows to the head. Hill was convicted Sept. 6.

Hill's attorney has said the verdict will be appealed. Judge Melvin Gradert sentenced Hill and set bond at $500,000, but Hill remained in the Geary County jail Monday afternoon.

Decision prevents pesticide's return

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. - A judge Monday continued a temporary restraining order that bars Vulcan Chemicals from returning to St. Joseph a banned pesticide that was transferred to Kansas City, Kan.

The restraining order was continued after attorneys told Associate Circuit Judge Merrill Steeb that the Environmental Protection Agency planned to fight in court an emergency ordinance passed by Kansas City, Kan., prohibiting further transfer of ethylene bromide to the

The EPA had taken about 30,000 gallons of EDB to a storage site in Kansas City, Kan., and had planned on transporting another 30,000 gallons of the pesticide.

St. Joseph officials are also trying to get Union Carbide to remove toxic chemicals stored in the same warehouse where Vulcan has stored EDB, but have not taken court action against Union Carbide.

Union Carbide workers were doublepacking chemicals that had leaked earlier this month, said Herb Sachs, the plant manager. Sachs said the company was looking for a new site to store the chemicals.

In Liberty, Mo., plans by Douglas Chemical Co. to recycle about 115,000 gallons of EDB were delayed Monday because last-minute adjustments had to be made in equipment, said Bill Conrath, vice president of the company.

About two-thirds of the 300,000 gallons of the banned pesticide EDB are stored in the Kansas City area.

Marie's Costumes

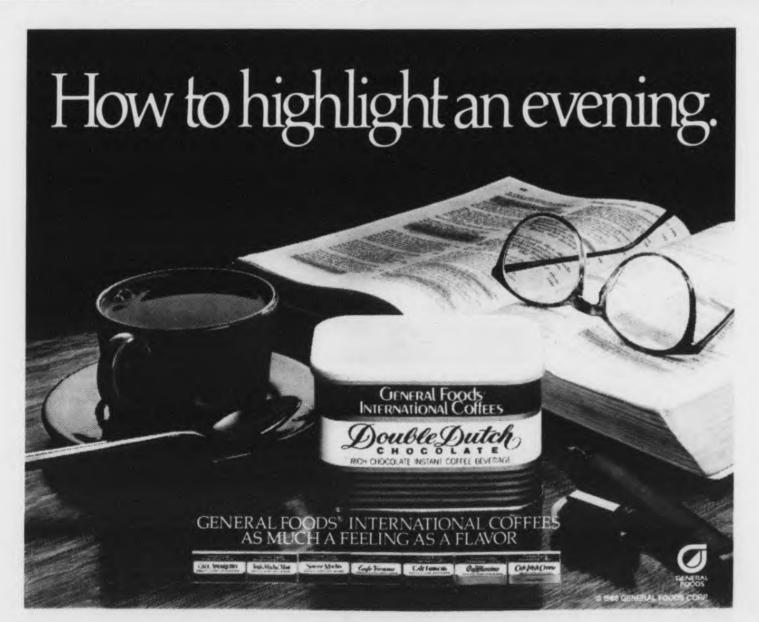

River Pub "The Strip" (Playing Wednesday Only) THURSDAY "Sheer Delight"

Female Strippers, Hot from K.C. * No KSU Student ID required

9-12 p.m. Next to Tuttle Creek Dam 537-9877

Rental Costumes for all occasions Ball Gowns-Tuxedos Wedding Gowns New Hours:

Mon.-Sat. 10-6, Thurs. til 9, Sun. 1-5 Parking in Rear 1631 Humboldt

For chocolate connoisseurs, General Foods® International Coffees has created new Double Dutch Chocolate. The incredibly chocolate coffee.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

EDUCATION STUDENTS: The Rural and Small Schools Conference will be Oct. 27-28. For more information, call 532-5566 between 8 a.m.

BLUE KEY HOMECOMING SPIRIT MARCH AND BONFIRE has been rescheduled for 8:30 p.m. Thursday in West Stadium.

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH, DIVISION OF BIOLOGY, has applications available in Ackert 233 for student cancer research awards of $500. Applications are due

TODAY

PUBLIC RELATIONS STUDENT SOCIETY

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Ali Elamaari at 10 a.m. in Bluemont 107. The topic will be "Two Sample Nonparametric Pro-cedures For Censored and Uncensored Data."

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Jerome Anthony Hill at 2:30 p.m. in Union 207. The topic will be "Translation of One High-level Language to Another: Cobol to Ada, an Example."

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in

ASSOCIATION FOR COMPUTING MACHINERY meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 207. The guest speaker will be Carl Ottenstein, pro-fessor at Michigan Technological University.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA CRESCENTS meet at

HOSPITAL MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION meets at 7 p.m. in Justin Lobby.

GRANT PROPOSAL WRITING WORKSHOP will be at 3:30 p.m. in Denison 224.

STUDENTS FOR SLATTERY meet at 7:45 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS BIBLE STUDY

ALPHA TAU OMEGA LITTLE SISTERS meet for yearbook pictures at 7:30 p.m. in Fairchild

BLOCK AND BRIDLE meets at 7:30 p.m. in Umberger Auditorium. Officers meet at 7 p.m. The guest speaker will be Lon Kruger, men's basketball coach.

> Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

THE TCECREAM SOCIAL Makes old-fashioned ice cream treatsstill America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love our atmosphere. Try our soft-serve. 1314 Westloop ALPHA PI MU meets for yearbook pictures at 7 p.m. in Fairchild 202. There will be a meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Durland Industrial Engineer

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom 3. The guest speaker will be Steve Johnson, stu-dent body president.

STUDENT ALUMNI BOARD meets at 6:30

YOUNG DEMOCRATS meet at 8:30 p.m. in the Union Big Eight Room

SCUBA CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 213.

WEDNESDAY

PEACE CORPS meets at 4 p.m. in Union 208. The topic will be "Peace Corps Volunteer Experiences."

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom 3. The guest speaker will be Steve Johnson, stu-dent body president.

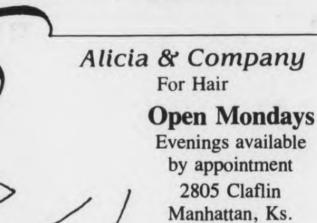

UNITED NATIONS COUNCIL meets at 7:30

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Ali Husein Ageli at 4 p.m. in Dickens 106. The topic will be "Residuals and Residual Diagnostics in Non-linear Regression Models."

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER will have an orientation at 3:30 p.m. in Justin Lobby for the following majors: consumer affairs, early childhood education, family life and human development and health.

537-9825

Earn Up To $200 In Extra Credit!

Now you can earn credit dollars - up to a $200 cash rebate* - with the purchase of an Apple® computer from an authorized Apple dealer between April 1 and October 31, 1986. It's called "Apple's Student Break." And all that's required is written verification of your full-time status as a student in a two- or 4-year college or university. It couldn't be any easier than that

Or any more worthwhile. Because you can use your new Apple computer to research and write, organize and create high-quality presentations. And with access to hundreds of educational software programs, you can increase your knowledge in hundreds of subjects. In fact, you won't find a better learning tool than an Apple computer. Or a better time to buy one. See us today for further details.

539-0801

Westloop Shopping Center Manhattan Hours

Mon.-Fri. 9-6

Saturday 9-1

Your Full Service VILLCOM. Computer Center.

By The Associated Press

KOMATIPOORT, South Africa - President Samora Machel of Mozambique, who led his Marxist nation through 11 crisis-ridden years of independence, was killed when his plane crashed into a rainswept South African hillside.

Marcelino dos Santos, No. 2 man in Mozambique's ruling Frelimo party, said in a nationwide radio address that Machel, 53, and other senior officials died in the crash of the presidential plane Sunday night just across the border in South Africa "in circumstances not yet clarified."

South Africa said all but 10 of the 39 people aboard were killed.

The first official confirmation by Machel's government came more than 12 hours after dos Santos said in his first announcement on the radio that the president's jet had not returned on schedule from Zambia. The radio played solemn music throughout the day.

He said Monday night that a 60-day period of national mourning had been declared.

The Soviet-built plane crashed 200 yards inside South Africa's frontier with Mozambique about 30 miles south of this border town, said the South African foreign minister, R.F. Botha.

South Africa's Bureau for Information said the Soviet pilot and nine other people survived the crash. Among the senior officials killed was Transport Minister Luis Alcantara Santos, it said.

Machel's body was brought to Komatipoort by truck and flown to Maputo, the bureau said at a temporary office it established

Earlier reports put the death toll at 27, but two more bodies were found in the wreckage of the twin-engined Tupolev 134A jet, it

In Lisbon, the Portuguese news agency ANOP quoted official sources and aviation experts it did not identify as saying the crash was caused by human error. It did not elaborate.

Machel's death left Mozambique without a leader at a time of

HUNAM EXPRESS

· SOFT-EXTENDED

SOFT BIFOCAL

WEAR FOR SLEEPING

OR DAMAGED LENSES

• FAST REPLACEMENT OF LOST

PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE

(eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

worsening white-ruled South Africa. Machel's death left Mozambique without a leader at a time of worsening drought, increasing attacks by anti-Marxist rebels and growing conflict with South

Prime Minister Mario Machungo and dos Santos, who is the secretary of Parliament, are expected to share decisions until a successor is chosen after the funeral, expected sometime next

It was in Komatipoort that Machel and President P.W. Botha signed the 1984 Treaty of Nkomati, which is the name of the river here and means, in Swazi, a cow with a calf and lots of milk.

The agreement was hailed as the start of an era of friendly relations. After signing it, Machel also made overtures to the West for investment and met with President Reagan in Washington.

State Department spokesman Charles E. Redman said the news of Machel's death caused "profound regret."

Secretary of State George P. Shultz had met Machel "and had great respect for him," Redman said, adding that "we extend to the government and the people of Mozambique the deepest condolences of the American

There was no indication of foul play in the crash, but the United Democratic Front, South Africa's largest anti-apartheid coalition, said South Africa's recent verbal attacks and diplomatic measures against Mozambique "give us reasonable grounds to suspect South African involvement in this

Alfred Nzo, general secretary of the African National Congress guerrilla group, said in Denmark that the ANC had similar suspi-

Botha would not speculate on the cause of the crash. He said South Africa had proposed a joint investigation with Mozambique and foreign aviation experts should take part.

(10% off with KSU ID)

Open 7 days a week # 17 N A M

• SOFT-TINTED TO ENHANCE

SOFT FOR ASTIGMATISM

• FREE CONSULTATION

• FLEX-OXYGEN PERMEABLE

YOUR EYE COLOR

Drs. Price, Young and Odle, P.A.

Optometrists

All Types of Contact Lenses

Stamps help collectors preserve history by the condition of the stamp. He

By JO BERGER Collegian Reporter

October is National Stamp Collector's Month and some local organizations are sponsoring a stamp design contest to involve children in the

The Flint Hills Stamp Club, the Manhattan Public Library and the U.S. Postal Service conduct the annual contest for children in kindergarten through sixth grade.

The contest "helps children get involved in the community and promotes stamp collecting," said Karen Mayse, vice president of the Flint Hills Stamp Club.

"Apparently, it's pretty successful because we had 289 entries this year," she said. The nine winning exhibits will be on display in the children's section of the public library from Wednesday through Oct. 31.

At an exhibit last month, club members displayed stamps depicting numerous subjects from dead and living presidents to public awareness stamps.

"Stamps have been made of every conceivable subject and in every conceivable shape and color," said Bill Crank, retired mechanical engineering professor.

Design contest commemorates hobby

Stamps have become more decorative in recent years to attract collector's interest. Many of the small countries have issued extremely ornate stamps in an attempt to attract collectors, Crank said.

The collector's market is sizable; $150 million is spent annually on stamps that are never used but become part of collections, he said.

"Most collectors specialize in a specific type of stamp. I specialize in American stamps," said Bob Bon-durant, president of the Flint Hills Stamp Club.

The United States issues 60 to 80 different stamps each year, Bondurant said.

"With all the different types of stamps being issued, the result is that the collector's market is flooded," Bondurant said.

Tim Lindemuth, news editor at University Relations and newsletter editor of the club, said stamps can cost nothing or be worth considerable sums of money.

"Five members of the club went to the Ameripex, the international stamp show, in Chicago last May where we saw the world's rarest stamp worth $1 million dollars," Lindemuth said. "It was issued by British Guiana; there was only one issued.' The owner of the stamp is anonymous for security reasons. Lindemuth said. Valuable stamps are sold at auctions where agents often represent buyers.

"In the late '70s and early '80s due to inflation, stamps became so valuable that children and adults couldn't afford them," Lindemuth said. "But now the market has leveled off and everyone can afford and enjoy them."

not only by how many are issued but history alive," he said.

The value of stamp is determined said it is important for children to learn the proper handling techniques because mishandling of stamps can destroy their value.

"As a childhood collector, I did so many things wrong; I want to teach children the proper way to handle stamps," Lindemuth said.

"Your reasons for collecting change as you get older. I started collecting because my father had a collection," said Tim Ulrich, junior in pre-veterinary medicine.

His first selections were made on the basis of aesthetic appeal; now he collects "for the investment," Ulrich

By "investment," Ulrich not only means monetarialy but historically within the family.

"Collecting is a way of keeping

1314B Westloop • 537-7079

TONIGHT All drinks

Any name Any brand

539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

Resume Service

1221 Moro • Aggieville Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (913) 537-7294

presents

OKLAHOMA!

Oct. 23, 24, 25

McCain Auditorium

8 p.m.

CALL 532-6398

Mon.-Fri. 12-5

If you think you're getting a good deal

on your midas

may last through year By The Associated Press a level that hinders red tide.

Texas coast's red tide

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas - A toxic "red tide" that has killed millions of fish along Texas' Gulf Coast has moved into Mexican waters and could linger until the end of the year if temperatures do not drop, officials said Monday.

Since the explosion of microscopic organisms appeared in late August near Galveston, officials in this city of 250,000 have closed beaches to swimmers, and the oyster harvest, which was scheduled to open Nov. 1, has been suspended from south of Galveston to the Mexican border.

Merchants complain that publicity about the red tide has hurt business and scared off tourists.

For now, authorities and businessmen are hoping for a cold front that will drop water temperatures to 60 degrees or lower,

The water temperature has been in the upper 70s to the 80s, and a dip to 60 may not occur until mid-December or later, said Pat Patterson, a forecaster at the National Weather Service in Corpus Christi.

Hal Osburn, harvest program leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's marine laboratory in Rockport, said Monday the red tide was about 1 to 4 miles wide from Port O'Connor to the Mexican border, a distance of about 170

"It could be up to 3,000 square miles of the Gulf of Mexico that has some red tide in it," Osburn said.

It has killed pinheads, hardheads, catfish, mullets and some large redfish, Judd said.

K-State Players

"Pop-A-Shot" Tournament TONITE!

ROSS CUSTOM SECRETARIAL SERVICE

TERM PAPERS THESES

DISSERTATIONS RESUMES (with cover letters)

FACULTY MANUSCRIPTS

Come see us at 614 N. 12th (across from Kite's) for your work to be done in a professional manner, quickly. We take pride in our work! We look forward to our association with the University community.

> Tel: 539-5147 Lee Ross, Owner

Watch World Series All Week On Big Screen T.V.

> Denison & Claffin FirstBank Center 539-9619

$2 Pitchers

Take A Look At Us — NOW!

537-1118

1119 WEST LOOP PLAZA

Looking for an apartment?

Check Collegian Classifieds

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8868 or 537-0886

Drs. Bullock

See our newly opened

and Horsch Practice of Optometry Prof. Bldg. 404 Humboldt

Manhattan, Ks.

Eyeglass Department ·Latest style frames

·Eyeglasses warranted against breakage for As always, we provide professional care and management of the contact lense

·Large contact lens inventory For Your Complete Eye Care Needs, Call Us 776-9461

local

1-800-432-0036 out of town

Hey you, listen up! At Runza our hamburgers are 100% pure ground beef, fresh - never frozen. And the patties are handmade - never machine formed. You can order them any way you like! For the hungry appetite enjoy our double burgers or taste the juicy blend of sauteed mushrooms with Swiss cheese and special seasonings. Only at RUNZA!

1101 Moro

399999999999999999999

DRIVE INN RESTAURANT

Aggieville

MANHATTAN WHY PAY WORE? Think

Regular Muffler

Brakes

MUFFLER

BRAKES

Call midas and see

if it's really true

539-0551

M-F 7:30-5:30 Sat. 8-12 noon

•Inspect Hydraulic System Semi-Metallic Pads $15 extra most cars & light trucks warranty information available

Lifetime Guaranteed Brake Pads

•Resurface Rotors Or Drums

•Repack Wheel Bearings •Inspect Grease Seals

FREE Estimates

FAST Service

NO Obligation

Lifetime

Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Donating blood gives life to fellow humans things in our bodies that helps keep us alive. It is also one of the few things that one human can donate to another.

The annual campus Red Cross blood drive starts today in the Union Big Eight Room and will continue through Friday. Faculty, students and Manhattan residents must all pool together to help reach this year's goal of 1,400 pints. That breaks down to 350 pints a day.

It is an easy process; you give some information about yourself, you get your blood donor card, and then you fill out a health questionnaire. Attendants take a small sample of blood and you are ready to give.

While giving blood, you lean back and relax and let the to give blood - blood that may volunteers do the rest. When you're done, it's snack time with doughnuts and juice. Then you let's all take the time and donate.

Blood is one of those amazing are finished and may leave with the good feeling that you may have saved someone's life.

> Giving blood is one thing that K-State is the best at doing. Although we are the smallest of the Big Eight schools, we have given the most blood in the past

We need to break the record of 1,745 pints of blood given in the fall of 1983. Every person that donates has the chance of helping four people; those are pretty good odds.

The blood goes to the Wichita region of the American Red Cross, and from there it goes out to more than 400 hospitals in Kansas, Oklahoma and part of Texas.

Taking a small amount of time help save someone's life - is something to feel good about, so

U.S. lifting sanctions welcomed by Poland government has examined the Western nations. possibility of lifting economic sanctions that it imposed in 1981 after the Polish government jailed thousands of trade activists. Many of the sanctions, such as denying landing rights in American waters, were later removed as Polish authorities relaxed some of their heavyhanded measures.

Two sanctions remain, however. One is the abrogation of Poland's normal tariff treatment, known as most-favorednation status, which Poles regard as important to their export of manufactured goods to the United States. This allows a country to have its goods enter the leaders have expressed concern United States at the lowest applicable tariffs.

The other is the ban on granting of new government-backed credits to Poland, which would remove its sanctions against enable Poland to begin paying Poland.

For almost one month the U.S. back its $32 billion debt to

Last month the Polish government released 225 political prisoners in a general amnesty. More than 20,000 common criminals are also expected to be released.

The Reagan administration has demanded that political prisoners be released as a precondition for lifting sanctions against Poland. Last week Lech Walesa, co-founder of Solidarity - the first free trade union in the Soviet bloc — publicly asked the U.S. government to lift both remaining sanctions.

Although some Solidarity that unless laws are changed they could be jailed again, the general amnesty is a welcome measure and the United States should

War victims deserve monumental honors

American Battle Monuments Commission was authorized by Congress last week to build a memorial honoring veterans of the Korean War.

Long overdue, this memorial will cost 18 cents for every person who served in the war, and $180 for each who died. As planning and designing of the memorial begin, the commission must keep in mind that its purpose is to glorify and honor those who served and died without giving tribute to the war itself.

Following the wave of "Ramboism" that swept the nation. many have come to equate militarism with patriotism. But those who fought and died in the Korean War did so not only wanting to free their fellow man, but also to relieve the world from the scourge of war. By honoring these brave patriots we honor their cause, but if we pay tribute to the methods they had to use, we only defeat their purpose.

With many battle monuments, it is easy to forget that people actually die in these wars. For example, while most are familiar with the Iwo Jima Memorial showing four U.S. servicemen raising the U.S. flag in the World War II battle, few realize that three of them later died in the war. It will be very sorrowful if viewers of the Korean War Memorial forget its veterans who

The lost parents, children and spouses who served and died for our country are no different from us; they had names and personalities also. The real losers of wars are the families that live with the grief of losing a loved one. Behind each of those who died in the Korean War is a trail of tears left by their families. The Vietnam Veterans Memorial with its more than 58,000 names engraved on its walls brings out these real costs of war. The Korean War Memorial should do the same.

Collegiam Editorial

Peace Corps aids American image

Twenty-six years ago this month, John F Kennedy in a campaign speech to 10,000 University of Michigan students asked, "How many of you are willing to spend 10 years in Africa or Latin America or Asia working for the U.S. and freedom?" The following September, through passage of the Peace Corps Act the answer came, and in the past 25 years 120,000 people have served in the Peace Corps in 94 countries.

The purposes of the Peace Corps, as established by the Peace Corps Act, are similar to all other foreign aid programs to contribute to economic development and to promote a more favorable view of the United States in other countries. But its goal of promoting better understanding of other cultures among Americans makes it different from all other foreign policies.

When it began, many people viewed the Peace Corps with suspicion. Unlike traditional foreign policy programs of the United States, this one sent volunteer citizens to underdeveloped countries to work directly with the people to develop the economy and to fight such problems as illiteracy, malnutrition and disease. Frustrated by problems of adjusting and working in a different culture, a fourth of the volunteers quit and went home.

Currently, the Peace Corps is better organized and more productive than it was initially, and volunteers are better prepared to work and adjust to a different culture. As a result, it has been more successful in establishing good relations with the people of underdeveloped nations than other foreign policy initiatives of the United States.

Military methods of foreign policy have, for the most part, been detrimental to achieving our goals of economic development and a better image of the United States abroad. Vietnam and current aid to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua has given the United States the image of a militaristic empire and has done little to win support of people in underdeveloped countries. Furthermore, economic aid in the form of money has only reinforced our image as a rich bully trying to manipulate others. In most cases, our money never reaches the people it was intended to help because the governments of these nations confiscate most of it.

PHIL NORDHUS Collegian Columnist

Peace Corps projects, although relatively small, have been effective in providing economic development. Even though the Peace Corps has left many problems facing communities in underdeveloped countries unsolved, it has always left behind a legacy of good will toward Americans among the people they served. Loret Ruppe, director of the Peace Corps, explained the success of the corps when she stated, "Most of the countries think of all of us as millionaires. And when they see an American who will come, who will learn the language, who's willing to go to the most remote area and who empowers the people - leaving a skill or talent behind that allows them to work out a better quality of life - that is the face of America, the image of America that I want to see out there as an American citizen.'

Tuesday, October 21, 1986 - 4

Because of its success in achieving our foreign policy goals, the United States needs to take advantage of the popular appeal of the Peace Corps and expand the number of those serving. This popular appeal brought 1,000 people to apply each week in 1964. In early 1985, when the Peace Corps made a public plea for 10,000 people with agricultural skills to work in famine-stricken areas of Africa, more than 20,000 called within days to volunteer.

The Peace Corps' 1987 budget of $130 million represents an increase after 15 years of decreasing funding and will boost its numbers from 6,000 to 10,000 by 1992. Despite the increase in funding, this amount is still less than is allocated for military marching

The yearly cost of Peace Corps volunteers is also inexpensive. Training and expenses for volunteers total about $20,000 compared with $100,000 for an Agency for International Development employee who does basically the same thing.

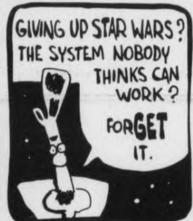

"This is the most significant contribution of this country," Ruppe said about the Peace Corps. "It is noted by people around the world as the proudest thing that America has done." President Kennedy would also be proud when seeing that the organization he founded had met his inauguration day challenge: "Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country. Ask not what America can do for you, but together what we can do for the freedom of man."

Reagan plays dangerous war game

A glimmer of hope shined on Iceland for a short time, to be swept away by a cloud called "Star Wars." President Reagan's "shield in space" works too well. Even sunshine can't penetrate it.

The recent meeting between Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in the North Atlantic will be remembered. It was the first time both superpowers seriously considered getting rid of nuclear weapons. It will also be remembered for the switching of roles between the two superpowers. The Soviets are now seen as the peace-seeking compromisers, while America is seen as the hard-line aggressors. It is no longer a battle between the free-flying eagle and the rabid bear. It is now a contest between smilin' Mickey and Ronnie Raygun.

Reagan was caught off guard when Gorbachev offered to end the nuclear game. The policy of MAD (mutual assured destruction) proved too maddening to live with. But while smilin' Mickey was offering peace, Ronnie Raygun wasn't prepared to give up his toys, namely SDI. The president is acting like a child who doesn't want to come in from the rain until he finds out if his Indian sun dance really works. Smilin' Mickey justs shakes his head. Boys will be boys.

SDI has been criticized by many as being no more than a pipe dream. Many scientists are refusing to do SDI research. While being immensely technical in scope, even a lay person with limited scientific background can point out a few holes in the system.

One way around SDI is the cruise missile. These missiles travel close to the ground, their on-board guidance systems following the terrain as they duck under an enemy's radar. Weapons based in space cannot destroy these because of atmospheric interference. Even if they could, how are you going to track a low-flying missile darting around trees? Even then, how are you going to distinguish this missile from an ordinary airplane? The U.S. government can't even track all those planes flying drugs into the country, much less stop them. Another problem with SDI is protection of the weapons once they are in space. What is to prevent the Soviet Union from blowing these space guns out of the sky? They could put armed satellites in orbit next to these systems - one push of a button and Reagan's trillion-dollar dream turns into cosmic dust.

The political implications of SDI are frightening. Reagan envisions the system as being a protective umbrella, making nuclear weapons obsolete. He believes the shield is totally defensive, never offensive. While he can sell this bill of goods to a scared and ignorant American public, the Soviets won't buy it. They see great offensive capabilities in this system. In World War II, American military intelligence learned that Hitler was trying to make an atomic bomb. They were afraid Hitler's scientists might develop a working bomb before our scientists. So we carried out pre-emptive strikes to make sure he didn't gain the power to win the war.

This story is relevent now. The Soviets are worried the United States may develop a system that would give them military superiority. Their missiles would be useless and the United States could bomb them into

The Soviets, faced with this threat, might decide to carry out some pre-emptive strikes of their own, just as we did against Hitler. Faced with sure defeat, the Soviets might start World War III while their weapons can still do some damage. SDI might work, but there might not be a world left for it to pro-

Blackmailing the Soviets with nuclear weapons is a distinct possibility. We have done it before, during the Cuban missile crisis. Besides, the Republican Party campaign platform states that one of its goals is to gain military superiority over the Soviets. Of course, this should be taken in the context that we have always had military superiority over the Soviets.

Some Americans are capable of pushing the button first. Colin Gray and Keith Payne wrote an article titled, "Victory is Possible," in 1980. In this they state we could win a nuclear war if we strike first and we would only lose about 20 million people in the process. Two years later, Reagan appointed Colin Gray to the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. Gray is but one of many warmongers in our government. Gray belongs to a group of nuclear extremists called the Committee on the Present Danger, founded in 1976. They have gained tremendous power in the last decade, not necessarily in numbers but in access to the government. Secretary of State George Shultz was one of the founding members, along with Eugene Rostow, head of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. Other members include CIA director William Casey, Secretary of the Navy John Lehman, former U.N. ambassador Jeanne Kirkpatrick and other government officials. Even the president is considered to be an unofficial member.

This may give you insight to why the Reykjavik meeting failed to produce an agreement. One side wanted peace on equal terms; the other wanted war on unequal terms. You can only have agreements between equal parties. Tell Ronnie Raygun to come in from the rain. It is time to put away

Advisory evaluates department, recommends educational changes

By The Collegian Staff

A group of professional geologists met with the students and faculty of the Department of Geology last week to draw up a list of recommendations to present to the University.

The group, called the Geology Advisory Council, meets each fall to assist the geology department as alumni and professionals in the field, said Joseph Graf Jr., head of the Department of Geology. The 25 members on the council are all K-State alumni.

The council's purpose is to learn about the state of the K-State geology department so the council can present a resolution to the department and to the University. The resolution includes recommendations for ways in which the department can be improved to

K-State, Graf said.

The primary issue in this year's resolution was the establishment of the distinguished professorship fund. This endowed fund is for the support of a distinguished professor in geology.

This professor should have experience in exploration of the development of energy resources, Graf said. The idea behind the fund is to benefit students transmitting knowledge from the search for energy resources into the classroom, he said.

The council serves as the nucleus for the distinguished professorship fund, as well as several scholarship funds, Graf said. About $400,000 is used for the distinguished professorship and scholarship funds in the geology department.

The geology department offers make geology education better at 10 scholarships, most originating from gifts of members of the council, Graf said.

> The council met with students in the geology department on Friday to discuss the present job market and to answer questions.

"It serves as a way for students to learn from active professionals what it's like out in the field," Graf said. "The students can get a better idea of what kinds of jobs are out there and some of the duties required for different jobs.'

Other recommendations made by the council included financial support for Farrell Library and for the staffing of the geology depart-

The council members came from various parts of the United States, but most were from the southcentral region.

McCain presents acclaimed trio for evening chamber music concert

By LAURA HACKLEY Collegian Reporter

McCain Auditorium presents an evening of chamber music with the Arden Trio at 8 p.m. Wednesday in All Faith's Chapel.

The Arden Trio made its 1981 debut in Carnegie Hall. Trio members, Susan Ornstein, violinist, Clay Ruede, cellist, and Thomas Scmidt, pianist, met as graduate students at Yale School of Music in 1975. Individually they have participated in a variety of musical shows including solo recitals, concerto appearances, jazz recordings and performances with the New York Philharmonic and the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra. They have also been involved in recording projects featuring music by composers such as Stephen Sondheim and Philip Glass.

Widely recognized for their contributions to the art of chamber music, the trio members are commited to bringing chamber music to the broadest possible audience and to making their music enjoyable to people of all age groups.

The Arden Trio has won the support of such leading arts institutions as the JeromeFoundation, the National Endowment for the Arts, Chamber Music America, the Cultural Council Foundation, the Mary Flagler Carey Charitable Trust, and the Concert's Artists

The trio has received support from many of the critics including Pamela

Sommers, critic for the Washington

"Their recital left one marveling at the ensemble's awesome technique, expressive range and almost palable love for the works they play. Rarely has this listener been so involved and moved," Sommers said. A critic from the Detroit News described the trio as "impeccable musicians who have plenty to say."

The Arden Trio's performance is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

For tickets to the Arden Trio call McCain Box office. Tickets are $11 for the general public and $8 for students and senior citizens.

Advertising class designs campaign

By JO BERGER Collegian Reporter

The sky is not the limit for Airfone Inc., an international company nicknamed the "AT&T of the sky."

And although it is rare for advertising students to get the opportunity to work with major corporations on actual campaigns, the Seminar in Advertising Management class was given the opportunity to aid in the development of an advertising campaign for Airfone, said James Tan, corporate marketing analyst for Air-

Airfone, with a goal of increasing public awareness and usage, wanted creative ideas to be used nationally or internationally, Tan said. This gave the class an opportunity to work with Airfone, the first reliable, public air-to-ground telephone service, he Airfone operates under an experimental/developmental license issued by the Federal Communications Commission. It uses a single side-band transmission, which 'I an said is very efficient.

Calls, billed to any major credit card, cost $7.50 for the first three minutes and $1.25 for each additional minute anywhere in the United States. International calls can be made at higher rates.

Tan said 310 planes are equipped with Airfone, with another 2,800 contracted for installation. There is a one in 10 chance of flying on an equipped plane, he said.

Twenty-six carriers have contracted with Airfone and 16 of those have the service available.

Airfone's major constraint is lack of equipment. Consumers are "screaming for units," Tan said. Airfone plans to increase greatly the number of equipped planes by next

In the future, Airfone plans to expand its capabilities by adding new services, such as seat-back telephones that will make using the phones more private and convenient.

Airfone is a joint venture of Goeken Communications and Western Union, Tan said. However, GTE Corp. plans to acquire Airfone after it gains regulatory approval. GTE's financial strength and expertise will enhance Airfone's ability to grow in such a dynamic market, he Airfone has two subsidiaries, Airfone International and Railfone. Railfone is a public telephone service offered on Amtrak's trains running between New York and Washington,

"Airfone has filled the last gap in telecommunications," said Charles Pearce, associate professor of journalism and mass communications.

Pearce teaches the ad management

Airfone's primary target is the frequent flier, the person - primarily in business - who has a necessity for communication during flights, Pearce said.

"As a secondary goal, we want frequent fliers to determine which airline to use according to the presence of Airfone," he said.

Students in the class were asked to formulate an advertising plan that would include a background analysis, market situation analysis, background research, media planning, creative and sales promotion strategy in the form of a plans book and an oral presentation.

"The plans book is the working document from which the client (Airfone) could implement the advertising program," Pearce said. "It is conceivable that these plans could see the light of day through print."

"For most of us, this is our last advertising class, and we enjoy having the opportunity to work on a campaign that is as realistic as possible," said Mark Holly, senior in journalism and mass communications. "This may be our last chance to gain information about our

The students' campaigns will be evaluated by Tan, who plans to meet with the class Oct. 30.

Tonite $2 Pitchers

50¢ Draws Free T.G.I.F. Sandwich

Sat. Homecoming party with Spuds McKenzie Open Sat. 9 a.m.

Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

Cafe Latino Tuesday's Special

3 enchiladas, refried beans and ice tea $2.95

606 N. 12th across from Bonkers Aggieville open daily 11 a.m.-late

TUESDAY

99¢ each 3 for $2.50 11:30 a.m. -2 p.m. 5-9 p m. 11:30 a m -10:30 p m in bar

MARGARITAS Strawberry or Lime

PLUS

$1.25 all day and night AGGIE STATION RESTAURANT & BAR

1115 Moro • 776-0030

Only Four Days left to

This is the last week Yearbook Associates will be on campus taking portraits for the Royal Purple. Don't miss out!! If you forgot to sign up with your living group, it's not too late.

Make your appointment by calling 539-5229.

Take your stamped fee card to Union 209 and don't miss out on being in the 1987 Royal Purple.

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m.

NCAA disciplines Nebraska

By The Associated Press

MISSION, Kan. - The University of Nebraska football and women's softball programs have been placed on probation for a maximum of one year for violations of NCAA extrabenefit rules, the National Collegiate Athletic Association said in a news release Monday.

During the probation, which began Oct. 14, the university will be required to conduct a review of its internal procedures to detect and prevent violations of the NCAA extrabenefit rule in the two sports.

The probation does not affect postseason play or television appearances for the football team. The previously by the university against an assistant academic counselor because of her involvement in violations regarding the football team.

That action included a six-month probation, ineligibility for advancement in her duties during the probation and ineligibility for pay increases before July 1, 1987.

The football violations did not involve any member of the football coaching staff, the NCAA said.

"This case was limited in nature and did not involve a pattern of serious violations," said Frank J. Remington, chairman of the NCAA Committee on Infractions.

"With regard to football, the primary concern of the committee related to the involvement of an assistant academic counselor in events surrounding the lease of an automobile by a student-athlete," Remington said.

The NCAA said the counselor helped a football player lease a 1985 Nissan 300ZX and then did not adequately inform the athletic department of the facts in the case.

"The seriousness of the matter was heightened when the assistant academic counselor failed to adequately inform her superiors of these events and when she and the studentathlete provided false information to the NCAA during the investigation of the matter," Remington said.

The committee also said that because of a clerical error, the university issued improper payments to two student-athletes to help pay for their return from the 1986 Fiesta Bowl in Phoenix, Ariz. The students later repaid the payments.

The women's softball team's standings and participation in the 1985 National Collegiate Division I championship will be deleted and the team will have to return its trophy because of participation by two ineligible student-athletes in championship play in 1985.

A report on any findings and corrective actions is due from the university by June 1, 1987.

Valesente promises to shuffle KU lineup

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - It was K-State that had fire in its eyes while practicing for last week's game with Kansas. And now that the Wildcats have a 29-12 victory to show for their efforts, it's Coach Bob Valesente's Kansas team that will be putting in over-

Valesente said he'll open up all offensive positions in practice this week for anyone who wants to step forward and claim one for the Jayhawks next game at Oklahoma State. A frustrated Valesente had said following the Wildcats victory he wouldn't change a thing if he could prepare his team again for the game.

"We're going to throw positions open on offense," Valesente said. "We're going to get right back to square one, which means every spot is available for anyone to make his move. Hopefully, by Wednesday of this week we'll know exactly what we have where.

Wildcats slip past Jayhawks, break losing streak to rivals

By JENNY CHAULK Collegian Reporter

K-State chalked up another victory over the University of Kansas last night. This time, the win came on the volleyball court, as the Wildcats defeated the Jayhawks in an intense five-game match, 9-15, 15-12, 15-12, 11-15, 15-9.

K-State's victory marks the first time the Wildcats have beaten the Jayhawks in their four matches this "Teams like KU frustrate people," K-State coach Scott Nelson said. "They play great defense and pop a lot of hits up. Our first-ball offense was better tonight, and our attitude was great.'

In game one, the Jayhawks found holes in the K-State defense and effectively used short hits to the middle to put the game away. Games two and three, however, saw K-State pull together and combine tenacious defense with aggressive offense to

In game four, K-State lost its edge. The Wildcats fell behind 5-13 when Nelson called a timeout.

'We came out very flat in game four," Nelson said. "We couldn't muster anything technically or emotionally. I told the girls we needed to start building momentum for the fifth game.'

K-State then made a run at KU, pulling to within 2 points, 11-13, before the Jayhawks took the win.

That run paid off for the Wildcats in the final game, as they took an early lead and never looked back, winning the match with a defensive

Nelson cited the good play of his entire team, but was especially pleased with the play of sophomores Val Kastens and Mary Mignano.

Kastens led K-State in hitting percentage with .394 and Mignano led the team in digs with 22.

"Val played real well matched up against KU's best hitter, Catalina Suarez," Nelson said. "Mary hasn't started for us all year. She came in in one of our most important games and made smart sets and popped up some great hits by KU."

The victory over KU moves K-State's record to 9-10 overall and 2-3 in the Big Eight conference going into Wednesday's 7:30 p.m. match against the University of Nebraska, ranked sixth nationally.

"The match against Nebraska gives people an opportunity to see a great volleyball team," Nelson said. 'They're the top offensive team in the nation. They're awesome.

